(History Department to hold conference)

Dr. John Cady, head of the Department of History at Ohio University, will be the guest speaker at an all-day conference sponsored by the Marshall College Department of History on Monday, July 22.

Dr. Cady taught at Marshall as an associate professor on three occasions. He has received an A.B. degree from De Pauw University, an A.M. from the University of Cincinnati, and a Ph.D. from the University of Pennsylvania. He taught at several schools before going to Ohio University and also held a position as research historian in the State Department at Washington.

The topic of the conference will be "Burma and Southeast Asia." Dr. Cady spent two years teaching in Burma, the most recent year being spent on a Fulbright Grant. Since his return he has been on leave a semester to head a research project at Cornell University. He has now completed his work on "The History and Government of Burma" which is considered the most authoritative study in the field.

There will be an illustrated lecture in the Science Hall auditorium at 9:10 A.M. on "Burma, the Country and its People" and another at 10:50 A.M. on "The Reemergence of Independent Burma."

"The Role of the United States in Southeast Asia" will be the topic of a dinner meeting to be held in the College Dining Room at 6:30 P.M. Reservations may be made until noon Monday at the office of the History Department.

The lectures are open to the general public.

(Kaplan at Marshall---1)

Dr. Joseph Kaplan, chairman of the United States National Committee for the International Geophysical Year, will speak at Marshall College this evening (Friday) at 7:30 P.M. in the Science Hall Auditorium.

Dr. Kaplan, well-known physicist, will deliver an address entitled "The Significance of the International Geophysical Year."

The committee, which he heads, was established by the National Academy of Science to direct the United States Program of geophysical research, which is being conducted during 1957-1958 in cooperation with 55 other nations.

Early recognition came to Dr. Kaplan in 1927-1928 when he published several papers on the nature of active hydrogen and the excitation of green auroral line in the laboratory. He was at that time National Research Fellow in physics at Princeton University.

He was appointed to the physics staff of the University of California in 1928, rising to professor and chairman of the Department of Physics.

(Lloyd Calvert, senior pre-med student, likes P.A. work---1)

Lloyd Calvert, a senior pre-med student from Diamond, W.Va., my some day be able to answer his own call of "Is there a doctor in the house?"

This is because Lloyd besides striving for a medical degree is nurturing a love for public address work, and will start next winter his third straight year as P. A. man at the Memorial-Field House.

He also got the job of announcing at Fairfield Stadium for all the college's home football games. Lloyd hopes to "call" all high school games there, too; this is standard operating procedure for Fairfield announcers, but he hasn't had an official okay yet from the local schools.

Calvert first got the bug for public address work when he was privileged to sit with the announcer at the Cleveland Indians' Municipal Stadium. This happened when Lloyd was just about ready to start the seventh grade, but it was six years before he finally got his hands on a mike.

His career finally started in the summer of 1955, when he was playing the organ at the Charleston Senators' Watt Powell Park.
Ernie Sanders, P. A. man at the park and sports announcer on station WKNA-TV, was sometimes late for the Senators' games because of his television commitments. Lloyd filled in as spot announcer when Ernie was tardy.

When Lloyd came here in 1954, he wasted no time in pursuing his interest. That winter, he was statistician for the Big Green's home basketball games.

The next winter he started as "The Voice of Marshall," succeeding Bob Friedly at the Field House.

He's been behind the mike since that time for all the college's home varsity and freshman games, the 1957 Catholic, Class A and Class B High School Tournaments, and some local high school games.

Lloyd says his biggest thrill came when Charleston High was down here for the Class A Prep Tourney last year. He attended Charleston two years before graduating from DuPont High, and said, "It was hard to keep from being partial while announcing, just as it is at all Marshall's games."

The fans at the Field House don't bother Lloyd. "I'm surrounded by the faculty and they're usually reserved," he said.

But they did boo him once. It came last year, when he asked them to stop throwing trash on the floor (and at the referees). The Green gentry answered his request with a rousing Bronx Cheer.

Lloyd is quick to admit that the fans saved his neck once though. Being human, he forgot and, over the loudspeaker, booted an official's call during a close game. But the boo-boo was drowned out by the fans--they, too, disliked the call.

Lloyd is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C.F. Calvert, 4 Carbide Court, Diamond, W. Va. He is a graduate of DuPont High School in Charleston.

(Marshall repair work post-poned)

Work on repairing the sagging floor section of Old Main Building at Marshall College has been put off until at least June, 1958, President Stewart E. Smith announced Monday.

The 1957 legislature appropriated $20,000 for the project on basis of the architect's estimate. Lowest bid opened July 10 at State Board of Education meeting was by the Persun Construction Co. for $42,000. The board rejected all bids.

The decision was made last week by a committee consisting of E. W. Powers, architect, S. E. Cobblestick, engineer of the low-bidding firm, Raymond Brewster, member of the State Board of Education, Bernard Smith, assistant attorney general, Fred E. Smith, comptroller of Marshall, and President Smith.

The committee discussed the advisability of asking the Persun firm to proceed on a cost-plus basis. The appropriation, however, was found to be insufficient to complete the work even on a cost-plus basis.

President Smith of Marshall said he will request the 1958 legislature to re-appropriate the $20,000 plus the additional amount which will be needed.

(New Summer Term Schedules Announced)

Revamped 1958 summer term dates for Marshall College will be submitted to the State Board of Education, President Stewart H. Smith announced Monday.

The first 1958 summer term will begin June 9 with registration. It was originally scheduled to begin June 2. Classes will meet five days weekly for six weeks.

The second 1958 summer term has been cut to five weeks with classes meeting six days a week (Monday through Saturday). The second session will begin July 21 and will end Saturday, August 23.

The switch was made, President Smith of Marshall said, to enable more teachers who taught until early June to attend Marshall summer classes. For the past few years Marshall summer sessions have started at the very first of June.

The summer sessions will end at the same time in August as before. The switch to the five-week six-day schedule for the second term permits this.

(Marshall Journalism Curriculum Streamlined)

HUNTINGTON, W.VA.---The Marshall journalism curriculum has been streamlined to conform with professional journalism programs offered by the leading universities and colleges of the country by the college Curriculum Committee. The new look in journalism will appear in the Fall semester schedule, according to Dr. J. Frank Bartlett, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at Marshall College.

Research involving comparative study of courses in journalism offered throughout the United States has been underway at the college by the journalism faculty for more than a year, according to Professor W. Page Pitt, head of the department, who said the journalism faculty made recommendations for the changes early in the spring.

Most of the changes in the program involve the concentration of four hour courses into three hour courses.

Professor Pitt said that Marshall College will be in step with other institutions which are following a trend toward mass communications instead of restricting studies to newspaper work.

Although approximately the same number of hours will be required for a certificate in journalism with the Bachelor's Degree as before, students will be permitted much more latitude in elective professional courses.

Professor Pitt pointed out that the new program still requires the student to take most of his college work in background courses, such as social sciences, languages and the humanities, with special attention given to history, English, political science, sociology, and philosophy. A comparatively small amount of the journalism major's academic work will be done in professional courses in journalism.

HUNTINGTON, W.VA.---Dr. Stewart H. Smith, president of Marshall College, is one of 15 college and university presidents selected to participate in an "Intellectual Life Conference" August 9-18 at the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn., it was announced today.

Dr. Smith is the only one in the group who heads a state institution.

The conference, sponsored by the Association of American Colleges, is one of three such events being held this summer.

The 15 participants were carefully selected from the 750 member institutions of the Association of American Colleges, using as criteria diversity of institution, presidential field of scholarly interest and geographical distribution.

Purpose of the meeting is to provide new intellectual stimulus for the college presidents. They will combine relaxation in pleasant tranquil surroundings with thinking and talking, not about fund-raising, salaries and enrollments, but about the aims of education.

The program was first tried last year when 12 presidents and their wives spent eight days as guests of Cyrus Eaton in Pugwash, Nova Scotia.

The Fund for the Advancement of Education has granted funds to cover travel and expenses of participants and to provide for a comprehensive study and published report of the conference series with the aim of suggesting lines of future development.

Books to be studied by the group will include George Gamon's "Creation of the Universe," Sir Thomas More's "Utopia," Alfred N. Whitehead's "Aims of Education" and Erwin Schrodinger's "What is Life?" Charles P. Snow's "The Masters" is optional.

Seminars will be held each morning from 10 to 12 o'clock. Afternoons will be available for reading and recreation. Evenings will be devoted to informal discussions in the lounge of the dining hall or in the common room of Hunter Hall, the dormitory in which the conference participants will be housed.

(Marshall President Gives Views After Legislators' Visit)

Marshall College President Stewart H. Smith expressed pleasure last night with the visit to the college by the special West Virginia legislative committee Tuesday.

"Such visits by legislators to our campus are encouraging. We appreciate their efforts to get first-hand information," President Smith said.

The committee, set up by the 1957 legislature, is to visit all state colleges and the university to determine each's needs and costs.

Present for the Marshall meeting were C. H. Koontz, legislative auditor; Denzil L. Gainer, assistant legislative auditor; Glenn Taylor, state senator; Earl B. Hager and Herbert Schupbach, members of the House of Delegates.

The committee met with President Smith, talked with other college officials, and toured the Marshall campus. They asked President Smith to prepare a report for them on the college's needs from now to 1970.

President Smith said last night that his report will stress the need for a larger and better-paid faculty.

A dislike for the word "crisis" was expressed but he feels something must be done for higher education in West Virginia or "soon the roof will fall in."

President Smith's Views = 2

By 1970 war babies will be of college age. According to reliable predictions, college enrollment in 1970 will be double present enrollment, he pointed out.

To meet this need college teachers must be trained now. Beginning this year colleges and universities of our country will need between 15,000 and 22,000 new teachers each year for the next 12 years, he said.

This increase in need is taking place while nearly half of those who are preparing themselves for college teaching quit for more profitable fields, President Smith noted.

West Virginia is being, and will be, hard hit by this shortage of college teachers, President Smith emphasized.

"It is a plain fact that inadequate salaries constitute the biggest obstacle in this state.

"Unless West Virginia takes definite and immediate steps to pay its college teachers comparable salaries with other states, we will increasingly have to get along with insufficient instructors as well as with some who will be lacking in training and experience," he said.

FOR RELEASE SUNDAY, AUGUST 25

HUNTINGTON, W.V.A---With morale among players and the coaching staff at a high ebb, Marshall College will launch its fall practice sessions next weekend anxiously looking forward to its first winning season since 1951.

Coach Herb Royer and his four man staff will set the wheels in motion beginning tomorrow with a week long series of staff meetings designed to welcome an expected turnout of 45 grid hopefuls. Of the anticipated lot, 13 are returning lettermen, with 15 sophomores, six previous squad men and 11 transfers composing the group.

Royer, starting his fifth year at the helm of Marshall's grid forces, is just as anxious as his players in waiting for the opening whistle of pre-season practice. The genial Big Green boss is mainly interested in scrutinizing a fine bunch of sophomores and the manpower transfusion supplied by Morris Harvey and Potomac State.

With the addition of the Morris Harvey and Potomac State transfers, Marshall's depth department was bolstered extremely. In fact, so much so that Royer is seriously contemplating the employment of two-platoon football, something he hasn't been able to do in his first four seasons.

Morris Harvey has supplied Marshall with five griders, with three others on questionable status. The five are: center, Dana Kirk, tackle John Beiletti, halfback Dewey Ballangee, and fullbacks Scott Jarrell and Jim Thornton.

Switching over from Potomac State are: guard John Mazzie and tackles Ken Parker and Don Peters.

The Big Green's returning letter winners include: ends Donzil Hall, Bill Ray and Olen Jones; tackle Vernon Howell; guards Paul Burford and co-captain Herb Hess; center co-captain Jim Simpson; quarterback Bob Wagner; halfbacks Ramon Dunlap, Cagle Curtis, Roy Goins, and Dick Jackson; and fullback Sam Sirianni.

Sophomores up for a look-see are: ends Danny Frank, Toddy Fugate, Tom Lamb, and Bill Roberti; tackles Dick Allen, Rudy Colombo, Alpha Mayfield and Jim O'Conner; guards Bill Gillespie and Dan Trimboli; quarterbacks Jim Maddox and Jim Sindledecker; halfbacks Bob Lester and Paul Miller; and fullback Hobb Lykins.

With just 20 days of practice listed before their opener with West Virginia State on September 21, Royer has outlined two sessions daily for his forces. The Big Green will work out beginning Monday at St. Cloud Commons at 9 a.m. and again at 3:30 p.m. Each session will consumate two hours.

Marshall's gridders will report Saturday morning for equipment and physical examinations. After being allotted Sunday morning for attending church, the group will convene at a gymnasium for a blackboard session in the afternoon before taking the field Monday morning.

The schedule: September 21-West Virginia State, home, night; September 28-Morehead, home, night; October 5-Western Michigan, away; October 12-Toledo, away; October 19-Kent State, home, night; October 26-Ohio University, (homecoming), day; November 2-Xavier, away; November 9-Miami, away; November 16-Bowling Green, home, day.

(Shearer Addresses Marshall Summer Graduates)

HUNTINGTON, W. VA.---Dr. Richard E. Shearer, president of Alderson-Broadus College, Philippi, told a capacity audience Friday morning at the summer commencement of Marshall College to beware of three dangers from a college education.

Approximately 300 Marshall students received degrees at the August commencement in the Keith-Albee Theatre. Dr. Stewart H. Smith, Marshall president, presided and conferred the degrees.

Dr. Shearer said that educated persons do not sense their debt to society. He charged that many misuse their education. To correct this educators must develop a sense of loyalty for education in young people, he said.

Educated people mistake study for action. The world needs fewer words and more action, Dr. Shearer said.

In elevating reason, educated people have unconsciously belittled a living faith, he told the Marshall graduates and commencement audience.

"What you are and where you are depends upon the individual," he concluded.

ACADEMIC COSTUME

The custom of wearing academic regalia in the colleges and universities of the United States has been continuous since Colonial times. The colors indicating fields of study and degrees conferred are now of standard significance and at Marshall College show in the hoods worn by the Master's degree candidates. Doctor's and Master's hoods worn by members of the faculty are colorful and elaborate. Hoods for both Master's and Doctor's are made of black, lined with silk chevrons in the official colors of the university conferring the degree, and trimmed with velvet collars in colors distinctive of the degree.

*M*ARSHALL COLLEGE welcomes the families and friends of the graduating class of the summer commencement of its one hundred and twentieth year. The College, established as Marshall Academy in 1837, was named in honor of Chief Justice John Marshall, long-time friend of John Laidley, who is traditionally accepted as the founder of the Academy.

The humble subscription school; the private academy; the College, elevated to collegiate status by the Virginia Assembly in 1858; the "West Virginia State Normal School . . ." to be established at Marshall College in the County of Cabell . . ." in 1867. These are the historic milestones in the development of Marshall College as it is today.

The dual program of teacher education and liberal arts established in the charter of 1837 was expanded in 1921 and 1923 into the four-year baccalaureate degrees offered in the Teachers College and the College of Arts and Sciences. The Graduate Division, established in 1938, became the Graduate School by act of the West Virginia Board of Education in 1948.

Today, the College is continuing its service to young men and women as it prepares them for business, industry and the professions in West Virginia. The College prepares more teachers for the public schools than any other institution in the state. Many doctors, lawyers and engineers in West Virginia have received their pre-professional education and their bachelor's degrees from the College. Business executives look to the College for trained personnel. The Placement Office reports that ninety firms interviewed seven hundred and eighty prospective employees during recent months, and this figure does not include prospective teachers.

At the close of the exercises today, the College will have graduated 13,804 persons. Marshall alumni remember with affection the classrooms of Old Main or the modern efficiency of the laboratories of Science and Northcott Halls, the skillful teaching and keen wit of a loved and respected professor, the sheltering branches of the Beech Tree, and the cheerful "Hello" that did not wait for an introduction.

The little four-room Academy building standing on its one and one-half acres has been expanded to seventeen buildings situated on twenty-six acres of land in the heart of Huntington, the city that grew up around the College. Sixty-two housing units are available to veterans approximately two miles from the campus. Three residence halls for women, one for men and thirteen fraternity and sorority homes, provide housing for approximately 500 students. A dormitory for 184 freshmen women, opened September 1955, helped relieve a critical shortage of housing for non-resident students. West Virginia provides the major financial support for the College, its personnel, equipment and operation. The Marshall Foundation, a nonprofit corporation, was organized in 1947 to acquire and administer funds for scholarships, to secure research grants and to improve facilities beyond the power of the state to provide.

(President Smith of Marshall Speaks)

Dr. Stewart E. Smith, president of Marshall College, will speak this week before two county teacher meetings.

President Smith will address the Nicholas county teachers August 29 at Summersville and the Randolph County teachers August 30 at Elkins.

Title of his address at both occasions will be "Those Who Teach."

MARSHALL COLLEGE'S AMERICANIZATION PROGRAM
COMPLETES ITS TENTH YEAR

The Marshall College Correspondence Americanization Program to prepare aliens in West Virginia for their final citizenship examinations has completed its tenth year with a total enrollment of eight hundred, thirty-three, and increase of eighty-four over that of last year. Of this number, four hundred, sixty have completed their work and have received their citizenship papers or are ready for their final naturalization examinations. Forty-one of them completed the Program the past year. One hundred, eighty-four have withdrawn from the Program, fifteen the past year. Only two have died.

The Program, the only one of its kind in West Virginia, has had students in fifty-three of the fifty-five counties. Those having the largest number are Cabell, 95; Kanawha, 89; Logan, 67; McDowell, 48; Fayette, 44; Greenbrier, 43; Hancock, 39; Raleigh, 34; Marion, 32; Boone and Mercer, 26 each; Harrison, 22; Ohio and Wood, 19 each; Monongalia, 18; Wayne, 16; Mingo and Marshall, 14 each; Nicholas, 13; Mason, 11; Brooke, 10; Mineral and Webster, 9 each; Lewis, Roane and Wyoming, 7 each; Hampshire and Putnam, 6 each; Berkeley, Randolph, and Wetzel, 5 each; Hardy, Jefferson, Lincoln, Monroe, Morgan, Preston, Summers, and Upshur, 4 each; Taylor, 3; Calhoun, Clay, Doddridge, Grant, Pocahontas, Tucker, and Tyler, 2 each; and Barbour, Pendleton, Richie and Wirt, one each. One or more students enrolled in thirty-three of the counties mentioned the past year. Pendleton enrolled its first student.

Sixty-seven of the students, most of them "war-brides" of service men, are living temporarily in Alabama, Arizona, California, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Missouri, Mississippi, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, and Washington, the largest number (7) being in New York, Ohio and Virginia. There is one in Washington, D. C. and three overseas.

The aliens have come from sixty-eight foreign countries and the United States, the largest numbers from Germany with 144; Italy, 86; England, 76; Greece, 43; Poland, 41; Hungary, 34; and Canada, 30. The eighty-four registering the past year came from twenty-three different ~~different~~ countries. The largest number of the recent ones came from Germany (19), Japan (12), England (10), and Italy (7). Thirty-six of these new immigrants are "war-brides," five are "displaced persons," and six are "refugees." The thirty-six war brides include twelve from Japan. There have also been two male "War-brides" enrolled since the Program began.

Only one student registering last year had been in the United States over forty years, and he had been here fifty, while thirty-three had been here less than a year. Their ages range from seventeen to seventy-seven, most of them between twenty and thirty. Sixty-five of the eighty-four registering the past year were married and forty-seven had from one to four children. Most of the "war-brides" have two or three children, and one or two of them have been born abroad. Sixty-two women and twenty-two men registered the past year.

The immigrants have been engaged in ninety-seven different occupations with sixteen new ones added the past year. House-keeping for four hundred fifty and coal mining for fifty-eight predominate. Other occupations include eighteen physicians, four priests, ten farmers, forty-two restaurant workers, a minister, chauffeur, peddler, teacher and twenty-two who listed no occupation. Their education ranges from no formal education for twenty to from one to six years college for one hundred. Three hundred, sixty-nine others have had from one to four years secondary education and the remainder one or more years of elementary training. Nineteen of those registering last year had college or university training, six being in medicine. Eighteen had completed high school. Sixteen of the twenty-eight with elementary training had completed the eighth grade. Ninety-eight could not read English, one hundred, sixty-three could not write it and fifty-eight could not speak it when they enrolled in the Americanization Program. Of those registering last year, five could not write English, seven could not read it, and three could not speak it.

The Program was organized in 1947 by Dr. J. Frank Bartlett, Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences and Dr. Charles P. Harper, professor of political science, in cooperation with the Immigration and Naturalization Service in the Department of Justice. The initial quota set at fifty, was raised to one hundred in 1948 and to one hundred fifty in 1949. The average monthly enrollment has exceeded one hundred fifty since 1951. It was one hundred, eighty-two the past year. The largest monthly enrollment was two hundred, three in April of this year.

West Virginia aliens interested in the Program are referred to Dr. Harper, director of the Program, by the Pittsburgh regional offices of the Immigration and Naturalization Service or they may apply direct. Eight hundred, six referrals were received this year, three hundred, seventy-eight in January.

The training consists of two correspondence or "home-study" courses, one in English and Government for those who cannot read or write English or have difficulty with the language; and an advanced course, "Our Constitution and Government," for aliens having little or no difficulty with the English language. The courses emphasize the American philosophy of government and teach the immigrants good citizenship in addition to helping them prepare for their naturalization examinations.

The text books are prepared and furnished by the Immigration and Naturalization Service and follow the best educational methods and procedures from the known to the related unknown. The student's rate of progress depends upon his knowledge of the English language, his attainment in elementary, high school, and college, and the amount of time spent in preparing the lessons. One student completed the advanced course within a week, while another finished it in ten days. Several others have finished their courses in six weeks while others have taken over two years to complete both courses. The average student should finish the first course in six months or a year and both courses within a year and a half. Each student prepares his lessons under the supervision of a "helper" who may be the husband or wife, a close relative, an employer, a minister, a teacher or a friend.

The work is done at home and the completed work-book lessons and tests are returned to the Director for grading and correction after which they are returned to the student for review. The past year 1633 lessons and tests covering 1338 lessons were received graded, corrected and returned to the students.

Upon completion of the advanced course, a congratulatory letter and a certificate showing the grade made, and booklets giving the procedure in securing the final citizenship papers and the benefits of American citizenship, and the American's Creed are sent to the student. Dr. Stewart H. Smith, President of Marshall College, also sends a congratulatory letter to those who completed the program. The citizenship examination is given by an examiner from one of the field offices of the Immigration and Naturalization Service and the citizenship oath is administered by a judge of the Federal district court or of a State Circuit court.

In recognition of his direction of the Americanization Program, Dr. Harper has been selected by the Governors to represent West Virginia and by President, the College, at the National Citizenship Conferences in New York and Washington in recent years. He has just been appointed a delegate to the Twelfth National Conference on Citizenship to be held in Washington, September 16 to 18. The Conference theme will be--"Imperatives for Peace."

In a recent conference between your Director and Mr. Harry Hould, Representative of the Pittsburgh Field Office of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, plans for the expansion of the Marshall College Americanization Program were discussed. Mr. Hould suggested the processing of all aliens in West Virginia desiring "home-study" or group training for their citizenship examinations through the Marshall College center. To date, those desiring class or group training given by the public schools and civic organizations have been processed direct from Pittsburgh.

Both your Director and Mr. Gould thought the new plan would provide the kind of training best suited to the alien. The new plan will be put into operation as soon as it has the approval of all concerned and procedures agreed upon. Dr. Bartlett, Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, is favorable to such a program. If adopted, the program will be one of the first, if not the first of its kind to train aliens for their citizenship examinations.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR REPORTERS
OF THE MARSHALL COLLEGE
INFORMATION SERVICE

1. Check your assignment folder at the beginning of your work period each day.
2. Check with each news source on your assignment sheet the first of each week. This will be either Monday or Tuesday. Although the routine check should be made Monday or Tuesday, you should not hesitate to check with a news source later in the week if an unexpected story develops.
3. The routine check should be made in person. If direct source is not available determine whether anyone can speak for him. If so, interview that person. Arrange to see the news source at a specific time to get all the facts. If you have a specific deadline on a particular story, tell the news source when it is so he will be more agreeable to the idea of getting together soon.
4. If you know of a specific story that might be available from news source, ask him about that story at the beginning. In this case, before ending the conversation, ask whether he knows of any other event or speech that should be publicized. Always make sure that you get every news possibility for the next week. Certain stories, because of their great importance, should, however, be turned out even a month or more in advance of the event.
5. If the story is something you think you can easily handle, get all the facts and write it up yourself. If the story is unusually technical, academic, or difficult to obtain, ask the Director for assistance.
6. If the person says he will call you back at a specific time and give you the story, it is all right for you to agree to that arrangement. You are still responsible for making the contact, however.
7. If the news source cannot see you or come to the telephone when you call, don't consider that the check has been made and forget about it. Say that you will be or call back or ask the person to contact you when he is not busy. If he doesn't contact you, however, try again within a reasonable time to make contact with the news source. If your efforts to talk with the news source prove futile after repeated efforts, inform the Director.
8. When you have to be out of the office for as much as an hour, call the office and report where you are, what you are working on, and about what time you expect to be back to the office. It's usually better to call the office before or after an interview. The news source feels that you are wasting his time when you interrupt an interview to make a routine call to the office.
9. It is understood that you must have papers on top of your desk while you work. Whenever your work is finished, however, make sure that the top of your desk is cleared of papers, books, etc.
10. In all your work for the Marshall College Information Service, remember that you are representing Marshall College. Your manner should be professional, pleasant and unobtrusive. Diplomatic persistence ---not meekness ---should characterize your approach in getting a story.

- 11. Pictures add greatly to news and feature stories. Take full advantage of the picture possibilities. Where the Huntington newspapers are concerned, let them take their own pictures if at all possible. Call the city desk or the newspaper concerned and suggest picture possibilities, indicating whether a story is coming on the same subject. If the editor decides to get pictures, you should get the picture subjects together at a specific place and time and be there yourself to help with the identification

When the event is interesting enough, call the news editor of either WSAZ-TV or WHTN-TV and suggest that he might want to get "some footage" on the event.. Give the editor any details desired about time and place.

When the news pictures are to be sent to out-of-town newspapers or other mass media, have the Information Service photographer take the pictures. The reporter is responsible for getting the picture subjects together and getting the identification on the pictures.

- 12. Strive to develop a good telephone personality.
- 13. Prepare a rough draft of your story and give it to the Director.
- 14. The draft, when returned to you, should be: (a) taken to source for final checking, if necessary and (b) turned into office secretary for dispatch.

(First Marshall Workout Scheduled)

HUNTINGTON, W.VA.---With positions as wide open as the state of Texas, Coach Herb Royer wipes his hands from the blackboard chalk and prepares to send some 44 Marshall College gridiron hopefuls through their first workout tomorrow morning at 9 A.M. at St. Cloud Commons.

"Each man has to prove he can handle a regular job, " exclaimed Royer, "so we'll just start from scratch."

That was the feeling Royer expressed in his office on the eve of his squad's arrival on the Marshall campus Saturday morning. The reporting candidates were given physicals and received their equipment prior to sitting in for a blackboard session this afternoon.

Royer and his four man staff, line coach Spike Underwood, backfield coach Ed Prelaz, end coach Bill Hillen and freshman coach Bill Chambers, have given serious thought to the installing of a two platoon system this fall.

"We'll be looking for the 22 best men from now until our opener," replied Royer. "If it means switching an end to guard, or a tackle to center to give us two solid teams, then we won't hesitate in the least," the Big Green boss pointed out.

As of now, Royer's most dire needs is an experienced quarter-back and depth at end and center. Junior Bob Wagner, the only letter winner at quarterback, saw limited duty behind Bill Zban last year. Royer will give special attention to sophomores Jim Maddox and Jim Sindledecker with the hopes of bolstering the signal calling post.

Marshall Workout---2

Morris Harvey transfer Dana Kirk is the only experienced center listed on the Marshall roster. Co-captain Jim Simpson, a tackle last season has been shifted to the middle spot along with Dempson Busby, another tackle. Junior Dick Bunch and Fred Lipscomb, a transfer from Morris Harvey, are the remaining two centers.

The only veterans Royer has at ends are seniors Donzil Hall and Bill Ray, and junior Olen Jones. If he doesn't locate an adequate flanker among sophomores Danny Frank, Toddy Fugate, Tom Lamb or Bill Roberti, then Royer may transplant a back or another lineman to give him the depth he needs.

At tackles and guard the squad appears well manned. Although Vernon Howell is the only listed returning letterman, Royer has a host of transfers and a fine group of sophomores to draw from. Heading the transfer list are Ken Parker and Don Peters from Potomac State and Dave Lowe from Morris Harvey. John Beiletti, the rugged 210 Morris Harvey star is on questionable status and is still not known whether he is a permanent fixture. Moving up from the frosh are Jim O'Conner, Rudy Colombo, Dick Allen, and Alpha Mayfield, all weighing over 200 pounds.

Co-Captain Herb Hess and Paul Burford head the guard candidates, with senior Bob Williams, junior Bob Gardner, sophomores Bill Gillespie, and Dan Trimboli along with Morris Harvey transfer John Mazzie crashing into the picture.

The backfield looms as Marshall's most stocked department. Veterans Ramon Dunlap, Cagle Curtis, Dick Jackson and Roy Goines are back at halfback with power runner Sam Sirianni returning at full-back.

However, the incoming transfers and upcoming sophomores have broadened the smile on Royer's face. Fullbacks Jim Thornton and Scott Jarrell and halfback Dewey Ballengee are the switch overs from Morris Harvey, while the sophs include Paul Miller, Bob Lester, Bob Wilson, and junior Granville Zopp at halfback and soph Hobb Lykins at fullback.

Royer has outlined two a day sessions at 9 A.M. and 3:30 P.M. for his charges, with a heavy emphasis on conditioning the early part of the week. On Saturday morning, Royer will send his squad through a scrimmage. If the weather turns exceptionally hot, then Royer will make use of Inco Park or Owens-Illinois for night sessions. The only break the gridgers will have during the week is Thursday afternoon, designated as Press Day, when they take time out from their duties to peer into the camera.

Will Open Bids on 2 College Jobs

Bids on air conditioning of the Marshall College cafeteria and on renovation of the interior of Old Main will be opened July 10, Fred R. Smith, college comptroller and business manager, said today.

The bids on the air conditioning project will be read at 11:45 A. M. EDT (10:45 A. M. Huntington time) by the State Board of Education at the office of the secretary of the Capital building, Charleston.

The bids on renovating Old Main will be opened at the office of the comptroller at Marshall College at 11 A. M. the same day

$20,000 Allocated

The Legislature appropriated $20,000 for the Old Main renovation job. It will include repairing a section of the third floor of the building which is sagging and for other repairs to the first and second floors in that same section of the building. The floor in one part of the building sags so badly that it is necessary to put blocks under the legs of desks to keep them from sliding.

Mr. Smith said it is hoped the renovation work can be completed this summer.

He said the college has been working toward the cafeteria air conditioning project for 10 years by saving funds whenever possible. Bids are being asked for air conditioning of the main floor and basement dining areas and the kitchen. However, if sufficient funds are not available for the entire job, the kitchen and-or basement will be omitted.

Two Other Jobs

Meanwhile, work was going forward on two other projects.

Mr. Smith said the Raymond Concrete Pile Co. of Pittsburgh has started core drilling for the new physical education building to be erected on the campus. The work is expected to continue for about 15 days. The drilling will reveal the nature of the terrain and help determine the type of footers to be used for the building.

The college comptroller said he did not yet know when bids would be asked on the project. Architect is the firm of Frampton and Bowers of Huntington.

Also under way is blacktopping of an area on Eighteenth street near the college dormitories and cafeteria to be used as a parking lot. The work is being done by the Middle States Asphalt Corp. and Nichols and Ronk Inc.

Marshall Golfers Have Bad Day

(Special To The Advertiser) 6/24/57
 COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. — It was a bad day for members of the Marshall College golf team yesterday during opening qualifying rounds of the NCAA tournament here.

Captain Jack Freeman carded a 40-44-84, Buddy Graham a 44-43-87 and Drexel Meade a 45-42-87, to finish far behind the leader, Warren Simmons of Syracuse, who had a 69.

Marshall's No. 1 man, Linden Meade, was among 14 golfers still on the course when darkness arrived. They were to finish their rounds this morning.

The second qualifying round is slated for today. After all scores are reported, the low 64 of the 195-player field will compete tomorrow in match play. The tournament ends Saturday.

Prior to Simmons' new course record of 69, Miami's Bob Brue fired a 35-35-70, which also broke the old record of 71, established in 1956 during the Colorado Springs Invitational by Fred Brown of Los Angeles and Dr. Glenn Foust of Denver.

In team competition yesterday, surprising Arizona State and always tough North Texas State finished with totals of 302 to lead.

Marshall Golfers Tee Off Today in NCAA Tourney

(Special to The Advertiser) 6/24/57
 COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. — The four top golfers of Marshall College's fine team teed off here today in the 60th annual NCAA Championships.

No. 1 man Lindon Meade, captain Jack Freeman, Buddy Graham and Drexel Meade, Lindon's brother, were brought here last week by Coach Neal B. (Whitey) Wilson for competition in this, the nation's oldest tournament.

Marshall's golf team compiled a highly respectable 19-3 record during its past season. It finished second in the Mid-American Conference meet.

Coach Wilson is confident his boys will make a good showing here. But they're among good company. Competition this year appears to be at its highest.

Heading the list of favorites is University of Houston, which qualified five entries in the National Open and Trans-Mississippi meets. Another top contender for the Maxwell team trophy is the North Texas State team, which last year finished just a stroke behind first-place Houston.

Marshall Vs. W. Va. State Draws Lukewarm Reaction

Marshall's booking of West Virginia State to plug the gap left in its football schedule by the abandonment of the sport by Morris Harvey, has drawn lukewarm reaction from the boys downtown.

One chap, a loyal supporter of the old school on Sixteenth street because that's where he learned to sign his name, put it this way:

"I've got nothing personal against West Virginia State. It's a fine school. Maybe someday a real rivalry between Marshall and them can be built up to resemble the one we had with Morris Harvey. But, as of right now it doesn't mean a thing. The game won't draw flies. And, it represents a poor effort to improve Marshall's football schedule."

Naturally, this gentleman shall remain nameless because he didn't know I was going to quote his views.

Another bystander listening in interjected:

Lost Good Opponent

"I dunno. Under the circumstances I think it was the best Marshall could do. They lost a good opponent which drew a big gate because the rivalry was a natural. Marshall had to fill the date or be satisfied with an eight game schedule. At this time of year it's a pretty tough thing to do. I'm not an athletic director and don't know much about the job but I think I can sympathize with the problems Bob Morris faces. Although I don't think much of the opponent he did book, I think it was the best he could do."

A telephone call this morning to Morris himself brought the following response when appraised of the above viewpoints:

"Well, I can sympathize with the way those fellows feel and I'm willing to admit they probably represent a good sampling of the public's reaction to the game. But, (Coach Herb) Royer wanted the game badly and the college athletic board and Dr. (President) Smith were agreeable. So, I booked State. They approached us, understand, when they heard we needed a season's opener. I'm of the opinion that we must give the two games we've signed to play a chance."

Belong To NCAA

Marshall will play State at Laidley Field, Charleston, next year on the fag end of the two year, home-and-home series.

According to Morris West Virginia State's membership in the NCAA was another motivating force behind the decision to book the Yellow Jackets. Marshall and West Virginia University are the only other schools in the state which hold memberships in that far flung group besides State.

Could Marshall have booked a more attractive opponent? Well, here's part of the list of schools Morris had to pick from, sent to him by the NCAA's open date bureau:

Arkansas State, Boston University, Buffalo, Chattanooga, Drake, Elon, Sam Houston State, Idaho State, Humboldt (Mo.) State, Washington University of St. Louis, Waynesburg and East Carolina.

Terriers Too Tough

Boston U., of course, appears to be the gem of the lot but was nixed quickly by the Marshall football staff because the Terriers are too tough.

"The coaches feel that one of the best ways to rebuild football here is to avoid running into tough opposition on the first game," Morris explained. "We've tried that against Ohio and Xavier the last two seasons and the results weren't good from our standpoint. We lost both games and the morale of the players was hurt."

schools on the list Drake and Washington of St. Louis were contacted by Marshall but, as usual, it was too late. Drake had filled its open date and Washington of St. Louis dropped its plan for a ten game schedule and decided to stick with the nine it had in the bag.

Bigger Supply

The others didn't have mutual open dates with Marshall. None, to me, at any rate, looked so hot as an attraction anyway.

My own personal views on the subject are in support of the trial attempt which Marshall has decided to undertake with State. The Yellow Jackets have fielded good, solid clubs in their own class for years. With integration setting in very quickly at Institute, the school has been able to draw from a much bigger supply of potential athletic talent. This means the Jackets are going to be better and are going to get a bigger alumni.

Two years seems time enough to determine how the game will draw both here and in Charleston, especially as season openers. No defeats or letdown of support will have set in. The

Three New Members Are Named To Faculty at Marshall College

By DOROTHY BUZEK

Appointment of three new members of the Marshall College faculty was announced today by President Stewart H. Smith.

Employment of the faculty personnel was approved by the State Board of Education at Charleston earlier this week.

At the same time the board accepted resignations of two members of the Marshall staff, granted leaves of absence to two others, and approved the appointment of a new housemother at Hodges Hall, men's dormitory.

Named to the faculty were Dr. Alex Darbes as associate professor of psychology, Miss Delores Ann Wickline, instructor in business administration, and Lewis A. Walker, instructor in chemistry.

New Housemother

Appointed housemother at Hodges Hall was Mrs. Henrietta D. Spence who will succeed Miss Cora E. Foltz, who is retiring at the end of the summer.

The board accepted the resignations of George G. Urian, assistant professor of engineering, who has taken a position in industry, and Dr. Chester F. Chapin, instructor in English, who has accepted a post at the University of Michigan.

Leaves of absence for one year were granted to Wayne M. Warncke, instructor in English, to work on his doctorate at the University of Michigan, and to Miss Ourania Grambos, teacher of mathematics in the Marshall high school, to work on her doctorate at the University of Chicago. Miss Grambos has received a Ford Foundation Fellowship.

Takes Over Sept. 1

Dr. Darbes, who will begin his duties September 1, will succeed Dr. Madeleine H. Feil who will leave at the end of the summer.

Broadway Stage Director Dies

LOS ANGELES, June 12 (AP) — Bob Alton, 54, veteran Broadway and Hollywood stage director and choreographer, died at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital today of a kidney ailment.

He staged the Aquacade at the New York World Fair in 1939, and directed the stage productions of the Ziegfeld Follies and other Broadway hits.

DR. LESLIE M. DAVIS, professor of geography at Marshall College, conducts an on-the-air television classroom at WHTN-TV. The program, "Adventures in Learning" is seen over Channel 13 each morning at 11 A. M. The subject for the class is "Geography of Soviet Lands."

Marshall Benefits From TV Classes

"Adventures in Learning," a daily hour-long educational television feature produced by WHTN-TV in cooperation with Marshall College, is hailed by Marshall president, Dr. Stewart H. Smith, as a challenging opportunity.

"Adventures in Learning" is telecast over WHTN-TV's channel 13 each morning at 11 A. M. and consists of an on-the-air television classroom in geography. The class is taught by Dr. Leslie M. Davis, professor of geography at Marshall.

His subject for the first six week summer terms is, "Geography of Soviet Lands."

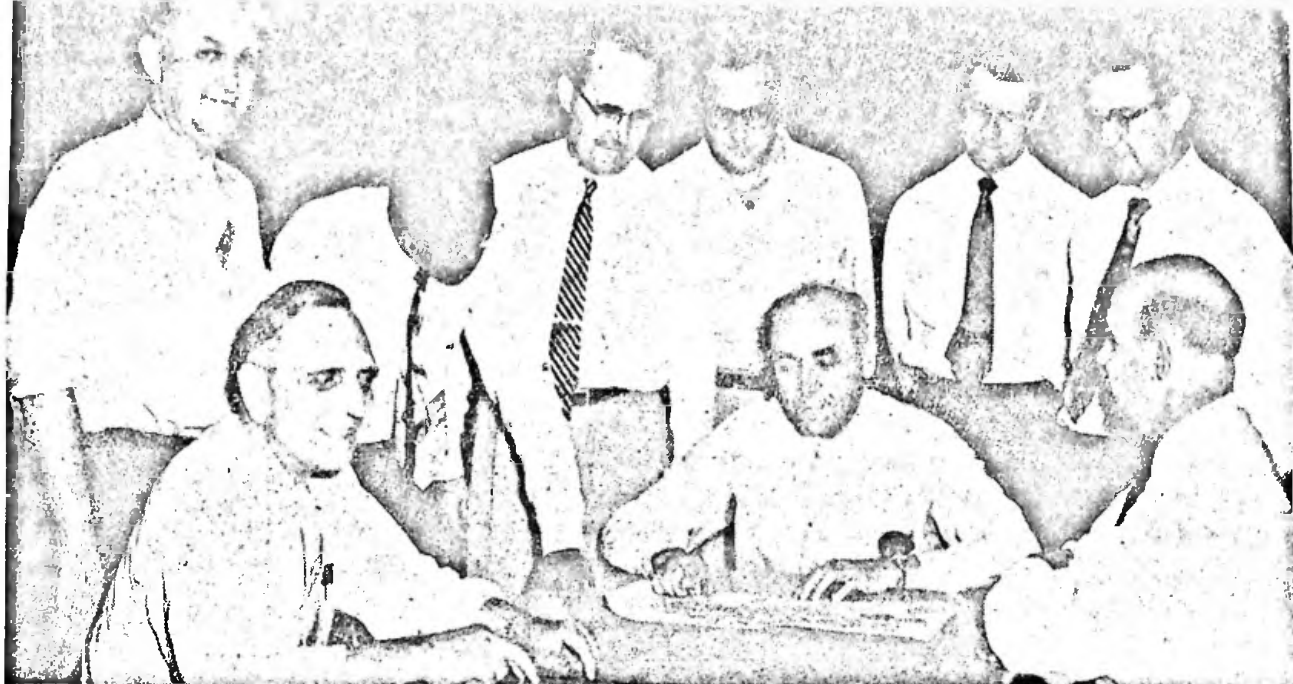

Commenting on the value of education television, Dr. Stewart H. Smith said, "Our limited experience with TV classes has proved to be gratifying to us as well as to many viewers who have expressed their approval."

"One of the functions of a state college is to extend its resources beyond the limits of the campus. Television makes it possible to bring the college teacher and his class into the living room. What a wonderful experience this is, especially for those who have been unable to attend college. The opportunity to bring new ideas and new information to large numbers of people is indeed a challenging one," concluded Dr. Smith.

The purpose of the daily program is to acquaint the viewing public as well as the students at Marshall with the geographical locations and important economical factors of the Soviet lands.

Dr. Leslie M. Davis who conducts the television classroom pointed out two distinct advantages of such a program. Dr. Davis said, "From the standpoint of the college, such programs would serve to acquaint students with the use and value of television and would point out to them just how much can be accomplished educationally."

He further commented that, "The viewing public also benefits from educational television because it serves to acquaint them with the varied and different departments of Marshall College."

Many educators in state supported institutions are outstanding religious leaders, Dr. John W. Hollister, pastor of Beverly Hills Methodist Church, believes. He cites religious activities of the men who have been presidents of West Virginia colleges for the past several years as examples.

In his experiences as a Methodist pastor and district superintendent in West Virginia since 1930, as an active and reserve Army chaplain since the outbreak of World War II, as a teacher in Morris Harvey College when it was an institution of the Methodist Church and in Fairmont State College, Dr. Hollister has had uncommonly wide opportunities to come in contact with members of state college faculties. He has found them persons of varied dispositions, but feels that on the whole the instructors he has known in state supported institutions have been considerably above average in Christian character and witness.

"Dr. Stewart H. Smith, president of Marshall College, is an outstanding Lutheran Church layman," Dr. Hollister pointed out.

At present heading the building committee at St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church, now in process of building a new educational unit, Dr. Smith is a popular lay speaker in meetings of a religious nature of his own and of other faiths. Recently he was awarded an honor by B'nai B'rith, Jewish men's organization. At Marshall College he heads a faculty containing many members who participate actively in Christian programs of the city. Among the instructors are ordained ministers, lay leaders, church musicians, members of church boards and committees, and teachers in Christian education programs.

"Dr. John W. Pence, president of Fairmont State College, is an elder in the First Presbyterian Church at Fairmont and a teacher in the church school," Dr. Hollister continued. "Dr. George Hunt, dean of the Fairmont institution, is active in the same church.

"Dr. Paul Elbin, president of West Liberty State College, is a local Methodist preacher," Dr. Hollister recalled. He explained that the Methodist ministry has three grades or levels, and that frequently men of secular occupations are ordained ministers who supply pulpits, conduct funerals and weddings, and perform many duties of the ministry without holding pastorates. The Rev. Henry Mullens of Wayne, who probably has conducted or assisted in more funerals than any other minister in Wayne County, was cited as an example.

"Dr. Virgil H. Stewart, president of Concord College at Athens, is an active member of the Baptist Church in Athens," Dr. Hollister stated. "Dean David Kirby at Concord is a former Methodist minister.

"Dr. W. B. Axtell, president of West Virginia Institute of Technology at Montgomery, is an active member of the Baptist Church. His predecessor sang in the Methodist choir. President Harry B. Heflin of Glenville State College is a member of the official board of the Methodist church in Glenville.

"Dr. William J. L. Wallace, president of West Virginia State College at Institute, is a member of the African Methodist Episcopal Church and frequently preaches as substitute for the minister of his church. Dean Kelley of the same college is another local Methodist preacher."

The remaining two presidents of West Virginia state supported colleges, Dr. Oliver S. Ikenberry of Shepherd College at Shepherdstown and Dr. S. J. Wright of Bluefield State College, are unknown to Dr. Hollister. Dr. J. Carl Mitchell, pastor of the Sixteenth Street Baptist Church, supplied the information that Dean G. W. Whiting of the Bluefield College, formerly acting president of that institution, is a well known Baptist layman and church school teacher and a former secretary of the West Virginia State Baptist Sunday School Convention.

Dr. Hollister views criticisms of state supported schools as being non-Christian with some alarm, believing that public education is part of the American way of life. For reasons of economy and accessibility, he would like to see churches establish Christian training schools in connection with state colleges, as has been done in some places.

"There were nine Methodist young men in ministerial training in the junior and senior classes at Marshall College last year," the Methodist pastor related. "At the recent session of the Methodist Conference at Buckhannon, 31 men were received as ministers, either as probationers or in full connection. Of these, 12 were from church related colleges (Wesleyan or Emory and Henry); eight were from private institutions, (Morris Harvey or Bob Jones), and 11 were from State colleges. (Glenville, Fairmont, Marshall, Concord, and West Virginia University). All of them had completed the course of study at one of the Methodist theological seminaries.

"Economics had played the big role in the selection of the college for undergraduate work. Cheaper tuition at the State colleges, proximity to home and the availability of employment were the economic factors.

"The Wesley Foundations and Methodist Student Movements on the various non-church related college campuses make available the denominational emphasis that may have been absent in yesteryears. From experience on both the State and Church college campus, I have entrusted the education of my children to West Virginia University and Washington and Lee University without hesitation, because of the economic features."

Smith's Name Advanced For Presidency Of WVU

By HARRY FLESHER HD 7123

The Herald-Dispatch learned yesterday that a highly influential group of West Virginians — among them a substantial number of members of the Legislature — are launching a movement to secure for President Stewart H. Smith of Marshall College an offer of the presidency of West Virginia University.

The selection of a president is expected to be made within a matter of months by the Board of Governors of the university.

President Irvin Stewart of the university has submitted his resignation as president as of the end of the present school term and has asked to be assigned to the WVU faculty.

The movement for the selection of Dr. Smith as Dr. Stewart's successor is reported to have gained impetus at a recent state-wide meeting of county school superintendents at Jackson's Mill, at which Dr. Smith spoke. The state-wide group is reported to have been "greatly impressed" by the Marshall president.

Should President Smith be named to the top education post in West Virginia, he would be the second former Marshall executive to be named to the position. The late Thomas Hodges was principal of Marshall from 1886 to 1896, joined the WVU faculty in the latter year, then became president in 1911.

Dr. Smith came to Marshall in 1945 as dean of the teachers college, became acting president in 1946 and was named president in 1947.

He earned his doctorate at Syracuse University.

Sees 'Challenge' Here

Smith Hints He'll Stay at Marshall

By DOROTHY BUZEK

Dr. Stewart H. Smith, president of Marshall College, today said he is not an applicant for any other position and he believes he can "best serve higher education in this state by remaining at Marshall."

Dr. Smith made the statement after published reports that a "highly influential group of West Virginians — among them a substantial number of members of the Legislature" are launching a movement to secure for the Marshall president an offer of the presidency of West Virginia University.

Dr. Smith's statement in full follows:

"I am not an applicant for any position other than the presidency of Marshall College. I want to serve where I can do the most good, and I believe I can best serve higher education in this state by remaining at Marshall College.

Cites Valley Growth

"The rapid industrial growth of the Ohio Valley demands the accelerated development of Marshall's physical facilities and educational program. This is the challenge I have accepted."

The selection of a president at WVU is expected to be made within a matter of months by the Board of Governors of the university. President Irvin Stewart has submitted his resignation, effective at the end of the present school term, and has asked to be assigned to the WVU faculty.

The movement for the selection of Dr. Smith as Stewart's successor is reported to have gained impetus at a recent state-wide meeting of county school superintendents at Jackson's Mill at which Dr. Smith spoke.

Asked if he would consider the WVU presidency if it should be offered him, Dr. Smith repeated his statement that he is not an "applicant" for any post.

Dr. Smith came to Marshall in 1945 as dean of the teachers college, became acting president in 1946 and was named president in 1947. He earned his doctorate at Syracuse University.

If President Smith should ever be named to the top education post in West Virginia, he would be the second former Marshall executive to hold the position. The late Thomas Hodges was principal of Marshall from 1886 to 1896, joined the WVU faculty the latter year, then became president in 1911.

Dr. Smith Says He's No Applicant, Cites Challenge At Marshall

President Stewart H. Smith of Marshall College, commenting on reports that a movement has been launched to make him president of West Virginia University, said yesterday he is not an applicant for any position and that he has accepted the challenge of helping build a greater Marshall College to serve the needs of the expanding Ohio Valley.

Said Dr. Smith:

"I am not an applicant for any position other than the presidency of Marshall College. I want to serve where I can do the most good, and I believe I can best serve higher education in this state by remaining at Marshall.

"The rapid industrial growth of the Ohio Valley demands the accelerated development of Marshall's physical facilities and educational program. This is the challenge I have accepted."

Raymond E. Salvati of Huntington, president of the Island Creek Coal Co., and a member of the board of governors at the university, declined comment on the movement to make Dr. Smith president of the university.

He pointed out that a faculty committee at the university has been assigned the duty of suggesting candidates for the position. With this in mind, he declared, the board members have adopted a policy of referring all suggestions as to possible candidates for the presidency to the faculty committee.

Dr. Irvin Stewart, incumbent president, has submitted his resignation effective as of the end of the present university term.

Bachelor's Corner

Marshall Graduate Is TV Assistant Producer

By JIM WRIGHT

Every once in awhile we pick up the newspapers and read the polished success story of "home-town boy makes good in the city." Sometimes the story is interesting, sometimes it isn't.

The other day, an old friend, whom I hadn't seen in about nine years, dropped into the office for a surprise visit and told an interesting success story. Although not a Huntingtonian, Bob Tamplin has many friends here from his college days. Back in the days when he attended Marshall, Bob's family lived in Sewell, W. Va.; they're now in Montgomery, W. Va.

Bob has been with the Ed Sullivan show for five years. He started as a production assistant and for the past two years has been assistant producer of the show.

HIS DUTIES are many and varied. The job of putting the Ed Sullivan Show on the air is one that takes six days a week. Bob and his assistants must see to it that proper sets, costumes and props are ordered; attend to the cameras, seeing that the proper cameras are available for each show; attend to special effects and sound effects; set up camera and rehearsal schedules; time the show while it is actually on the air; see that all music used on the show is cleared and approved; and a thousand and one other things.

Bob also does a considerable amount of field work for Sullivan such as visiting different clubs in the role of talent scout to line up acts for future shows.

Sunday is Bob's really big day. He is on the job from 9 A. M. until the show is over at 9 P. M. Dress rehearsal, with an audience, is held in the afternoon. The audience is used in this full rehearsal to help handle the ticket requests for the show. The studio cannot take care of all requests for seats at the actual telecast.

ONE OF BOB'S big jobs is to see that various performers have proper orchestrations for the network orchestra. Many solo performers, he said, who have been appearing in clubs often do not have complete orchestrations for a full orchestra.

Bob first joined the production department of CBS-TV in 1951. He got his bachelor's degree from Marshall in 1948 and his master's degree from the University of Michigan in 1949. He started in summer stock in 1949 and has had experience in that field off and on for five seasons.

Before going to New York, he taught one year at Ouachita College, Arkadelphia, Ark.

His TV experience has been varied. He first started as an actor and performer, having appeared on such shows as "Momma," "Armstrong Circle Theatre," "Fireside Theatre," "Martin and Lewis Show," "Jimmy Durante Show", and many others including a number of New York local telecasts.

One of his first jobs with the network was on the microphone on the "Nightbeat" show, with Mike Wallace.

Bob arrived home around July 8 on a two-week vacation. While there he addressed both the Lions and Rotary Clubs at Montgomery. He left last Sunday for a week at Virginia Beach before returning to the broiling city. In the Fall, when the show moves to the West coast, he will take another week there. (Bob's one of those lucky people who get three weeks each year!)

When Bob was at Marshall he appeared in many College Theatre shows and was a speech department "protege". He appeared in and/or worked on such shows as "Two On An Island", "Double Door", "Doctor In Spite of Himself", "Stage Door", "Rhapsody In Rhythm", "Antigone," and others.

That was all back in the days when speech and drama students at Marshall really took their work and interests seriously — when directors Clayton Page and Phil Caplan didn't have to knock people in the head to get them to take part in the shows. That was back in the days of College Theatre greats such as "Antigone", "All My Sons", "Joan Of Loraine", "Dark Of The Moon", "The Little Foxes", etc.

As we recalled during our brief conversation the other day, those were the days when we had a near star-system in College Theatre with people like Bob, Catherine (Martin) Cummings, Donald Waggoner, Dorothy Napier, Howard Crouch, Hugh Maxwell, Jr., Ike James, Don Perry, Dick Dent, Marcia Godsey, Ann Holland and many others.

Bob and I spent some time reviewing what we know of most of these since their school days. Some of them are still around — others are scattered all over the world in many fields of work. We think it would be fun to get them all collected together once for a rip-roaring College Theatre party like we used to have following each production.

Maybe someday we will!

Repair Job At Marshall Is Delayed

Work on repairing the sagging floor section of Old Main Building at Marshall College has been put off until at least June, 1958. President Stewart H. Smith announced today.

The 1957 Legislature appropriated $20,000 for the project on basis of the architect's estimate. Lowest bid opened July 10 at State Board of Education meeting was by the Persun Construction Co. for $42,000. The board rejected all bids.

The decision was made this week by a committee consisting of E. W. Bowers, architect, S. E. Cobbletick, engineer of the low-bidding firm, Raymond Brewster, member of the State Board of Education, Bernard Smith, assistant attorney general, Fred R. Smith, comptroller of Marshall, and President Smith.

The committee discussed the advisability of asking the Persun firm to proceed on a cost-plus basis. The appropriation, however, was found to be insufficient to complete the work even on a cost-plus basis.

President Smith said he will request the 1958 Legislature to reappropriate the $20,000 plus the additional amount which will be needed.

Kaplan Stresses Vital Role Of High School Teachers

Dr. Joseph Kaplan, chairman of the National Committee for the International Geophysical Year, said last night that he considered the high school teacher one of the most important persons in American society.

"The next Nobel Peace Prize Winner can be either made or broken by his high school teacher," he said. "It is most important that the rest of society realize the great effect this group of people can have on the scientists of tomorrow."

Dr. Kaplan spoke at the Marshall College Science Hall auditorium last night on "The Significance of the International Geophysical Year".

Dr. Kaplan told about the program, its origin, and what it is attempting to do. An emphasis was placed on the international aspect of the program.

He described the International Geophysical Year as "a peaceful scientific effort involving 64 nations, almost as many as are in the United Nations, and including all of the larger nations."

Cady Of Ohio Will Speak At Marshall Parley

Principal speaker at a conference Monday on the subject, "Burma and Southeast Asia," sponsored by the Marshall College history department, will be Dr. John Cady of Athens, head of Ohio University's history department.

The public is invited to the sessions. Two lectures will be given in the morning and a dinner session will be held in the evening. The lectures will be at the Marshall College Science Building. The dinner will be at the college dining hall.

Dr. Cady To Be Speaker At Marshall History Meet

Dr. John Cady, head of the department of history at Ohio University, will be the guest speaker at an all-day conference sponsored by the Marshall College department of history tomorrow.

Dr. Cady taught at Marshall as an associate professor on three occasions. He has received an A. B. degree from De Pauw University, an M. A. from the University of Cincinnati, and a Ph. D. from the University of Pennsylvania. He taught at several schools before going to Ohio University and also held a position as research historian in the State Department at Washington.

The topic of the conference will be "Burma and Southeast Asia." Dr. Cady spent two years teaching in Burma, the most recent year being spent on a Fullbright Grant. Since his return he has been on leave a semester to head a research project at Cornell University. He has now completed his work on "the History and Government of Burma" which is considered the most authoritative study in the field.

DR. JOHN CADY

There will be an illustrated lecture in the Science Hall auditorium at 9:10 A. M. on "Burma, the Country and its People" and another at 10:50 A. M. on "The Reemergence of Independent Burma."

Geophysical Year Topic Of Kaplan

By MIKE MARONEY

Marshall College Student Journalist
Dr. Joseph Kaplan, chairman of the United States National Committee for the International Geophysical Year will deliver an address entitled "The Significance of the International Geophysical Year" at the Science Hall auditorium of Marshall College Friday, July 19 at 7:30 P. M.

The committee, established by the National Academy of Sciences, is responsible for the United States program of geophysical research, which is being conducted during 1957-1958 in cooperation with 55 other nations. Geophysics is the science dealing with the physics of the earth.

Research activities of Dr. Kaplan have been concerned with the spectra of diatomic molecules, especially with afterglows in nitrogen, oxygen, and their mixtures. He earned early recognition in this study while at Princeton during 1927-1928 as National Research Fellow in physics. During this period he published several papers on the nature of active hydrogen and nitrogen and the excitation of the green auroral line in the laboratory.

THE PURSUIT of his physical studies led to the appointment of assistant professor of physics at the University of California, Los Angeles in 1928 and later to professor. He was chairman of the Department of Physics for a time.

On leave from the university

In 1943, Dr. Kaplan became Chief of the Operations Analysis Section of the Second Air Force. Following this period he was decorated by the War Department for Exceptional Civilian Service.

Recent appointments include membership in the National Academy of Sciences National Research Council delegation to the Tenth General Assembly of the International Union of Geodesy and Geophysics; vice-presidency of the International Association of Geomagnetism and Aeronomy; and chairmanship of the Committee on High Atmosphere of the preceding association.

His election to the National Academy of Science was made this year. Recent awards include an Honorary Doctor of Science from the University of Notre Dame and Carleton College, and the Distinguished Service Award of Phi Delta Epsilon, national professional

College-Hospital Tie Urged

(Editor's Note: Prior to being abolished June 30, the State Board of Control was asked to make suggestions for improving various state-controlled institutions which its members had visited. Edward H. Greene of Huntington was a member of the board, and currently is drafting the recommendations for presentation to Governor Underwood this week. The following report, dealing with Huntington State Hospital, is the first of three prepared by Mr. Greene. Others will be published in The Advertiser tomorrow and Wednesday.)

By BROOKS WELLS

Coordination of the food program at Huntington State Hospital with the home economics department of Marshall College will be recommended to Governor Underwood this week.

The recommendation is included in a report to the governor by Edward H. Greene of Huntington, a member of the now-defunct State Board of Control. Before it was abolished the board had been asked by Underwood to submit a list of recommendations for improvements at the various state institutions.

Preparing Report

Greene, a Huntington attorney, today was preparing the report for delivery to the governor. The report includes information gathered by State Board members during visits to the various institutions.

The Huntington State Hospital report follows:

"As in all other institutions in the state, it seems that the mental institutions are overcrowded and, generally speaking, have poor food and very little in the way of recreation.

"The poor quality of food is due to the absence of a trained dietician and lack of coordination between the purchasing of food and the prospective menus.

"We turned up evidence that breakfast consisted of potatoes and gravy one morning, gravy and mush one morning, cereal and gravy the next morning and then repeated.

Diet Affects Skin

"I am informed that much of the skin disease is due to diet.

"Therefore the following is recommended:

"1. A trained dietician be employed at every state institution. Also, that an effort be made to coordinate the Huntington State Hospital and the Barboursville State Hospital with the home economics department of Marshall College.

"If a dietician is employed at the institution, then a program can be worked out whereby senior students majoring in dietetics could obtain practical training at the institution.

"The hospital would gain by having the technical knowledge of the home economics department of Marshall College and, at the same time, the college would have the benefit of giving its students practical experience.

Coordinate Purchases

"2. Coordinate the purchase of food with the needs of the menus prepared by the kitchen department.

It has been the practice of the business manager to purchase food supplies without first obtaining proper information from the kitchen.

"There is an abundance of evidence that large amounts of foods such as cabbage, apples and kraut were purchased because of political pressure. The cooks were required to make up their menus in accordance with the supplies.

"3. We were informed by the superintendent of one of the hospitals that if he had sufficient social workers he would be able to send a large percentage of his patients home. A closer cooperation with the various colleges and the state university to provide summer work for senior students majoring in psychology would be a step in the right direction. The students would gain experience working in the hospitals and a large number of patients would be permitted to go home. The state

Marshall Grad Given Kanawha Schools Post

Ralph J. Brabban, holder of a Master's Degree from Marshall College, yesterday was named assistant superintendent of Kanawha county schools, in charge of personnel.

Brabban, a resident of South Charleston, had been director of teacher education at Morris Harvey College.

In addition to his Master's, he also holds a Bachelor's Degree from Marshall. He is a past president of the West Virginia Association of Higher Education.

Marshall to Get $600,000 Sum, As Expected

A $600,000 conditional appropriation for Marshall College will probably be available according to latest state revenue figures, it was reported yesterday.

The sum was appropriated conditionally by the 1957 legislature for purchases of additional campus property.

Denzil Gainer, former state budget director and now assistant legislative auditor, said the newest figures on total 1956-57 revenues mean that without a doubt the surplus of the state will be sufficiently greater than the figure used in the conditional appropriation to make the $600,000 available for the college.

College Brings Notable Artists

The Marshall College Artists Series merits the praise and appreciation of the city and area for offering one of the finest seasons of entertainment for 1957-58 it has ever presented.

The numbers will include such outstanding attractions as the hit Broadway comedy "No Time for Sergeants" and the Paul Gregory production of "The Rivalry". The cast of the latter will include such noted performers as Raymond Massey, Agnes Moorehead and Brian Donlevy.

The series will have an auspicious opening on September 24 with the appearance of Les Brown and his orchestra. Other numbers in the notable season will include:

The Florence Festival Orchestra, October 21; NBC Opera Company, November 25 in "La Traviata"; Chicago Opera Ballet, January 16; Jorge Bolet, pianist, February 3; Anglo-American Battle of Dixieland, February 27; Mantovani and His New Music, March 13, and Vienna on Parade, April 14.

The Marshall Community Forum for the season will likewise present a series of outstanding numbers. It will open with the appearance of Governor Underwood on September 30.

Among the most important programs will be an interview with United States Senator Paul Douglas of Illinois, an address by Anthony Nutting, former British minister of state for foreign affairs; a lecture by Dr. Ralph E. Lapp, director of the Nuclear Science Service; Norman Cousins, editor of The Saturday Review; and Dr. Lewis L. Robbins, director of the department of adult psychiatry, Menninger Foundation.

In bringing these and other notable speakers here Prof. Curtis Baxter, Artist Series director, Mrs. Will Mount, his assistant, and the members of the board are making an important contribution to the cultural life of the area.

The numbers will provide not only a high degree of entertainment but authoritative information on a wide variety of subjects that will help in the understanding of puzzling world problems.

They illustrate once again the importance of Marshall College to this section of West Virginia.

In attracting wider public support for the Forum and the Artists Series the programs should also stimulate a wider appreciation of the institution that made them possible.

Music Clinic Opens July 15

High school students, grades 10-12, who will have completed the ninth grade during 1957 and including those who graduated this year are eligible to enroll in the Marshall College Music Clinic which opens tomorrow and continues through July 28. High school music teachers may also enroll for undergraduate or graduate credit in connection with the clinic.

Enrollment among students is limited to instrumentation needs of the clinic band and the voice requirements of the chorus. Officials of the college music department said this week there are still a few openings for bass horn and French horn players, especially.

The clinic will feature band, chorus and advanced piano classes. The piano class will be a workshop primarily for high school students who plan to continue piano at the college level after high school graduation. It will be under the direction of Professors Joanne Drescher and William Davidson, of the college music faculty.

THE BAND class will be under the direction of Professor Thomas O'Connell, director of the Marshall bands, and Dr. C. L. Kingsbury, head of the music department. It will be a full symphonic instrumentation and will include only high school students who can demonstrate a high level of musical progress.

The mixed chorus will be under the direction of Professor R. Wayne Hugoboom, director of chorus music at Marshall. It will include studies of an advanced level in vocal technique, reading accuracy, interpretation, ensemble, blend and diction.

A closing concert will be held at 2:30 P. M. Sunday, July 28, on the Marshall campus. There will be a number of smaller concerts, recitals, broadcasts and at least one television appearance during the clinic.

Ex-Marshall Man Dies in Jet Smashup

Charles W. Carman, a former Marshall College student, was one of four Navy fliers killed in a flaming jet bomber crash near Sanford, Fla. Saturday night, it was learned here today.

Names of Carman and the other fliers were withheld by the Navy until last night.

Commander Carman, 36, entered Marshall in 1939 and withdrew in 1941 to enter the Navy. He served in the major Pacific campaigns during World War II.

Wed To Local Girl

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Carman of Mount Hope W. Va. He resided with his wife, the former Mary Elizabeth Preston of Huntington, at the Naval Air Station in Sanford.

A Navy spokesman said the plane, a A3D Duglass bomber, was on a routine training mission and coming in for a landing when it fell about a mile south of the base. The plane burst into flames.

Bodies of the four crewmen were pulled from the wreckage while flames roared through the craft.

Carman will be buried in Arlington National Cemetery near Washington, D. C., upon completion of final funeral arrangements a family spokesman said.

Commander Carman is survived by his parents and two brothers and three sisters.

Air Conditioning Work At Marshall Is Awarded

A contract for one major improvement at Marshall College was awarded yesterday by the State Board of Education, but bids on another project were rejected.

Ferguson Brothers Plumbing & Heating Co. of Huntington received a contract to air condition the dining hall on a low bid of $29,571.94. Work is to start about August 1 and will be completed by September 1. Both of the dining rooms and the kitchen will be air conditioned.

Rejected were bids of $42,000 by the Persun Construction Co. and $43,982 by E. P. Leach & Sons to correct the sagging second and third floors of Old Main, which have settled several inches. The appropriation for the project was $20,000.

President Stewart H. Smith of Marshall said college officials will confer with architects on the possibility of devising a more economical project.

The board approved a new curriculum in teachers college at Marshall for those who intend to become teachers of mentally retarded children. President Smith said the four-year course leading to a Bachelor of Arts degree will start in the fall. The specialized courses will be taken in the junior and senior years.

College Asked To Look 13 Years Into Future

President Stewart H. Smith of New Martinsville and Earl Marshall College yesterday was asked to prepare a statement as to anticipated needs of the college by 1970.

A special committee of the Legislature studying needs of state colleges visited Marshall accompanied by Legislative Auditor C. H. Koontz and Mr. Koontz' assistant, Denzil Gainer. Mr. Gainer is a former state budget director. Mr. Koontz is a former state tax commissioner.

Members of the Legislature here for the visit were Senator Glenn Taylor of Matewan, and Delegates Herbert Schupbach of New Martinsville and Earl Hager of Logan.

Dr. Smith is to furnish the committee a statement as to the number of additional teachers required for each year through 1970, the number of new buildings required, and other increases in capital and operating expenditures needed.

The estimate will be based on estimates of increased enrollment and of demands for courses.

The visitors were in conference with Dr. Smith throughout yesterday morning. They were his guests at a luncheon and during the afternoon toured the campus.

HAD 872457 Marshall Completes 10th Year Training Aliens

The Marshall College correspondence Americanization program has completed its 10th year with a total enrollment of 833 aliens, an increase of 84 over last year, Dr. Charles P. Harper, director, said yesterday.

The program, only one of its kind in West Virginia, was organized in 1947 by Dr. J. Frank Bartlett, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, at the college and Dr. Harper, professor of political science, in cooperation with the Immigration and Naturalization Service in the Department of Justice.

The aim of the program is to prepare aliens in West Virginia for their final citizenship examinations. The training consists of two correspondence or "home study" courses, one in English and government for those who cannot read or write English or who have difficulty with the language, and an advanced course, "Our Constitution and Government," for aliens having little or no difficulty with the English language. The textbooks are prepared and furnished by the Immigration and Naturalization Service and follow the best educational methods and procedures.

OF THE 333 students who have taken the course in the 10-year period, 460 have completed their work and have received their citizenship papers or are ready for their final naturalization examinations.

Forty-one persons completed the program in the past year.

The program has had students in 53 of the 55 counties, the largest numbers being 95 from Cabell, 89 from Kanawha and 67 from Logan.

One student this past year had been in the United States 50 years; 33 had been here less than a year. Ages ranged from 17 to 77, most of the aliens being between 20 and 30. Sixty-five were married; 47 had from one to four children. Sixty-two of the students were women; 22, men.

West Virginia aliens interested in the program are referred to Dr. Harper by the Pittsburgh regional offices of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, or they may apply direct.

IN RECOGNITION of his direction of the program, Dr. Harper has been selected to represent West Virginia at the National Citizenship Conferences in New York and Washington in recent years. He has just been appointed a delegate to the 12th such conference in Washington September 16 to 18.

Plans for expansion of the Marshall program were discussed recently by Dr. Harper and Harry Gould, representative of the Pittsburgh field office of the Immigration and Naturalization Service. Mr. Gould suggested the processing of all aliens in West Virginia desiring home-study or group training for their citizenship examinations through the Marshall College center. To date, those desiring class or group training given by the public schools and civic organizations have been processed direct from Pittsburgh. If adopted, the expanded program here will be one of the first, if not the first, of its kind to train aliens for their citizenship examinations, Dr. Harper said.

Smith Praises Legislative Visit, Points Out Needs

Marshall President Stewart H. Smith expressed pleasure today with the visit to the college by the special West Virginia legislative committee Tuesday.

"Such visits by legislators to our campus are encouraging. We appreciate their efforts to get first-hand information," said President Smith.

The committee, set up by the 1957 legislature, is to visit all state colleges and the university to determine each's needs and costs.

Present for the Marshall meeting were C. H. Koontz, legislative auditor; Denzil L. Gainer, assistant legislative auditor; Glenn Taylor, state senator; Earl B. Hager and Herbert Schupbach, members of the House of Delegates.

The committee met with President Smith, talked with other college officials, and toured the Marshall campus. They asked President Smith to prepare a report for them on the college's needs from now to 1970.

President Smith said last night that his report will stress the need for a larger and better-paid faculty.

A dislike for the word "crisis" was expressed, but he feels something must be done for higher education in West Virginia or "soon the roof will fall in."

By 1970 war babies will be of college age. According to reliable predictions, college enrollment in 1970 will be double present enrollment, he pointed out.

To meet this need college teachers must be trained now. Beginning this year colleges and universities of our country will need between 15,000 and 22,000 new teachers each year for the next 12 years, he said.

This increase in need is taking place while nearly half of those who are preparing themselves for college teaching quit for more profitable fields, President Smith noted.

West Virginia is being, and will be, hard hit by this shortage of college teachers, he emphasized.

"It is a plain fact that inadequate salaries constitute the biggest obstacle in this state.

"Unless West Virginia takes definite and immediate steps to pay its college teachers comparable salaries with other states, we will increasingly have to get along with insufficient instructors as well as with some who will be lacking in training and experience," he said.

The candidates for degrees will gather at Johnson Memorial Methodist Church at 9:15 A. M. to prepare for the academic procession to the theater. Music during the ceremonies will be provided by the Marshall orchestra, directed by Professor Alfred P. Lenegger. The invocation will be delivered by Rabbi Jacob Danziger of B'nai Israel Synagogue.

Vocal numbers will be sung by Miss Eunice Fleming, who is to receive her M. A. in music. Her accompanist will be Miss Delores Shipp of Huntington, who also will receive a master's degree in music.

Marshall To Make Land Bid

Eyes First Step In Expansion

Marshall College next week will take the first steps toward buying approximately $100,000 worth of additional land for the college, it was announced yesterday by Dr. Stewart H. Smith, college president. The land lies east and southeast of Eighteenth street and Fourth avenue.

About 12 city lots are involved, Dr. Smith said. One or two front on Fifth avenue, some are on Fourth avenue and some are on Virginia avenue.

Dr. Smith said he will recommend to the State Board of Education on September 5 at Charleston that options now held on the lots be exercised.

The 1957 Legislature authorized expenditure of $600,000 for additional college land if the surplus in the state treasury exceeded a certain sum on June 30. Marshall has been officially notified that the $600,000 will be available.

The Huntington Board of Realtors is representing the college in negotiations for the land. A committee of the board met yesterday with Dr. Smith. The realtors attending were Grady Risen, chairman, and Leland F. Bunch, Austin L. Perry, John L. Brothers and Cecil Ferguson.

The Board of Realtors is charging the college only 2½ per cent commission on the sales, and will place the money in its treasury. The 2½ per cent commission is half the usual commission.

Raymond Brewster, vice-president of the Board of Education, announced he will make a motion at the September 5 meeting that the board ask the Board of Public Works to release the entire $600,000 the college is to receive.

Registering For College Students Set

Pre-registration for the fall semester at Marshall College will be held August 12 to 17 for all students except incoming freshmen, it was announced today by Luther E. Bledsoe, registrar and director of admissions at the college.

Junior, senior and graduate students may register August 12, 13 and 14.

Sophomores and second semester freshmen may enroll August 15, 16 and 17.

Advance registration hours will be 8:30 to 11:30 A. M. and 1:15 to 3:45 P. M. Monday through Friday and 8:15 to 11:30 A. M. on Saturday.

Report To Registrar

Students participating in advance registration must bring their identification cards with them and report first to the registrar's office in Old Main.

Transfer students admitted to Marshall will register during the advance registration period. This is the first time that transfer students have been included in advance registration.

Freshmen who started at Marshall during one of the 1957 summer terms may also pre-register, but no first semester freshmen may enroll before the regular registration in September.

To Reduce Crowds

Mr. Bledsoe said purpose of the pre-enrollment program is to get as many students as possible registered in advance in order to reduce crowded conditions on September 14 when registration of incoming freshmen will be held.

Students who pre-registered, except transfers, will not report to the college until the first day of classes, September 16. Transfer students will take part in the fall orientation program along with freshmen September 11-13.

Marshall Expects 44 Out

By ERNIE SALVATORE
Advertiser Sports Editor

The Mid-American Conference's seven member schools get their pre-season football preliminaries out of the way tomorrow with the issuing of gear and recording of vital player statistics.

Then, on Monday, it will be a real Labor Day celebration when six of the seven squads begin practice for the 1957 campaign less than three weeks away. Kent State begins drills Tuesday, September 3.

Six of the seven schools have openers Saturday, September 21, with Miami getting underway a week later.

A survey taken by The Advertiser this morning disclosed that more than 400 candidates are expected to report to their Coaches tomorrow. Defending champion Bowling Green boasts the biggest turnout with 68. Miami, dethroned by the Falcons last year, is figuring on 67.

Miami Choice

Though Bowling Green is champion, it's Miami which has gotten the nod as favorite to take the conference championship this time around.

Following are the turnout forecasts at the other schools: Ohio 58, Kent 55, Western Michigan 55, Toledo 55 and Marshall 44.

Here at Marshall Head Coach Herb Royer and his aides will pass out equipment in the campus gymnasium tomorrow between 9:30 and 11 A. M., with physical examinations scheduled for 1 P. M.

Sunday, the Big Green will have a squad meeting at 3:30 P. M., at which Royer will outline his plans to the players. Later, at 7:30 P. M., the team will review movies of the 1956 campaign.

Twice A Day

Practice will begin on a two-a-day basis Monday at St. Cloud Commons and continue until the opener here against West Virginia State. Royer said morning drills will begin at 9:30 and the afternoon workouts at 3:30 P. M.

Royer said that night sessions under lights will be held at either Owens-Illinois Field or Inco Park if the weather becomes too hot.

A breakdown of the Marshall team shows that of the 44, 20 are sophomores with 12 lettermen returning. Sixteen players will be missing from the team who played last year when the Big Green took only three wins in nine starts.

Of the departed, 14 graduated and two have dropped the sport because of injuries. Ordered to drop the sport by doctors were tackle Jim Conard, because of a broken ankle suffered last spring, and Phil Fisher, a guard and end, whose bad knee has failed to respond. Fisher is being retained as an assistant to trainer Ed Prelaz.

First Crop

Graduated are Don Adkins, Dick Athey, Bill Caverly, Joe Clay, Fred Freeman, Len Hellyer, Bob Loudermilk, Campbell Platt, Randy Scott, Chuck Tanner, George Templin, John Wells, Irv Wilson and Bill Zban. They comprised Royer's first crop of freshmen when he returned to Marshall as head coach in 1953.

As varsity players they managed only ten victories in three seasons, losing 17.

Among the other MAC members, Bowling Green has the biggest crop of sophomores coming up with 35 and Kent leads in the number of returning lettermen with 21. But, Kent, third place finisher in the MAC in 1956 and always a threat, also the most lettermen, 19.

Secondary Education Traced To John Laidley

This is the third in a series of articles dealing with early schools in this area.

By DORIS MILLER

History and tradition indicate that the early start in secondary education in Cabell County was due in a great measure to the vision and the efforts of one man—John Laidley, an early lawyer in this area.

Settlement of the land along the Ohio River below the mouth of Guyandotte River was rapid in the early 1800's. The rich bottom land was cleared and substantial homes were built. Among early residents were the Buffingtons, Beuhrings, Framptons, Holderbys and Hollenbecks.

Very early in the century a log church was built—by the Methodists, it is thought—on a point of the high bottom extending out into the low, and named Mount Hebron. Probably the builders intended it should be used as a school house also, for its use as such began soon. One of the first teachers may have been Henry Hampton, for an early deed shows that he sold a tract of land located not far from the church in 1811. Historians say that by 1825 John N. Peck established a private school at Mount-Hebron, which he continued until 1837.

John Laidley, the son of Scotch immigrant Thomas Laidlaw who changed his name to Laidley in this country, was born in Morgantown, Va., (now W. Va.) in 1791.

Though limited in schooling, he had great ability and added to his education by experience. At 19 he was editing The Monangahela Gazette; at 21, he was admitted to the bar in Wood County, served briefly in the War of 1812, then came to Barboursville, county seat of the new County of Cabell organized in 1809, and hung out his shingle. Noted for his strong character and independence of thought, he was an outstanding lawyer in this area until his death in 1863, serving as prosecuting attorney of the county 1817-1860.

In 1916 the rising young lawyer married Nancy Scales Hite, and by 1839 they were the parents of 12 children, a sufficient reason for the father's interest in education. The eldest son, Theodore, graduated from West Point in 1842. Soon after moving his family within the present limits of Huntington in 1828, Mr. Laidley began to talk to his neighbors about the need for a more advanced type of school.

The chief American development in secondary education up to this time was the academy, a school which combined both classical and practical education. Though Latin and Greek (studies deemed necessary for clergymen and young gentlemen) were still the backbone of the curriculum, English composition and literature, mathematics, modern languages, philosophy, and natural sciences also were taught as knowledge useful in business and the professions. These schools were the forerunners of modern high schools.

Due to Mr. Laidley's efforts, the school which opened in Mount Hebron Church in 1837 was called Marshall Academy, and the next spring the General Assembly of Virginia passed an act so establishing it. Mr. Laidley, Dr. Benjamin Brown, Frederick G. L. Beuhring, John Samuels, James Gallagher, George Summers, Richard Brown and Benjamin Smith were named trustees.

The school was named for the first Chief Justice, personally known to Mr. Laidley, who had sat with him in the famous Virginia Conventions of 1829 and 1830. John Marshall had been dead two years when the academy named for him was founded.

Anxious to construct a more suitable building than the old log church as soon as possible, the trustees enlisted the help of Presbyterians in the community. The nearest church of their denomination was in Burlington, O., which meant residents of the present site of Huntington had to drive in wagons to a point below the mouth of Four Pole Creek and cross the Ohio River by boat on Sunday morning to attend church. The trustees agreed for the Presbyterians to hold services in the building in return for assistance with the expense.

On June 30, 1838, an acre and a quarter of land, including the old Mount Hebron Church was purchased from James and Lucy Holderby by the trustees, who paid $40 for the tract. The deed specified that the land was to be used for school purposes.

Perhaps the land already had been contracted, for historians say the new building was nearing completion when Presbyterian services were held for the first time on July 27, 1838. Jacob Stock, a New York Dutch brick mason who found the Ohio Valley a good place to ply his trade, built the new structure, a four-room red brick building with a hall and stair well running through the center.

Isaac N. Peck, listed as first principal of the academy, must have been the same teacher some historians have called John N. Peck, who conducted a private school in Mount Hebron Church before the Academy was founded. He had one assistant, a Mr. Shepherd.

Jacob Harris Patton became principal in 1839, with both the previous teachers remaining on the faculty. Also, the Rev. E. C. Thom, first Presbyterian pastor, taught some of the time between 1838 and 1843, and is sometimes listed as principal 1840 to 1843. During this time the Methodists and Presbyterians held services in the building on alternate Sundays.

The Rev. Josiah B. Poage of Nicholas County, just graduated from Princeton University, became principal of the school and pastor of the Presbyterians in 1843. He inserted an advertisement in the Kanawha Republican for October 5, 1843, stating that the fall term would start on October 23, and that subjects to be taught would include reading, writing, arithmetic, English grammar, geography, Latin, Greek, history, mathematics, philosophy, astronomy, chemistry, etc.

During 1845-46 Mr. Poage and his wife, a former Miss Arbuckle of Greenbrier County, lived in two rooms of the school building, one upstairs and the other down. The principal conducted classes for boys and all advanced pupils in the room downstairs, used as a chapel, while a young woman taught the younger girls in the upstairs classroom.

Mr. Laidley's continued interest in the school is shown in an incident which occurred that year. One day several of the larger boys broke the bannisters during a scuffle, and were sent by the principal to Mr. Laidley, a trustee. The lawyer clamly told them they were old enough to be responsible for their own actions, therefore they should have the stair rail restored by a carpenter at their own expense. When the work was completed, the young men paid 50 cents apiece on the bill.

While Mr. Poage was principal the school grew rapidly. Students came from southern counties of the state and from Kentucky. He left the school in 1849.

Though historians disagree as to the principals from 1849 until 1854, they agree that William R. Bowyer became principal in the latter year. In the meantime the trustees had persuaded the Methodist Episcopal Church to take over the school, and it remained a Methodist institution until the Civil War.

Apparently the school continued to grow under Mr. Bowyer, for the Kanawha Valley Star of November 11, 1856, carried an article headed simply "Marshall" which gave him great credit, and mentioned that nearly 110 students had attended the school the previous session. Success of Marshall graduates was commended and a promising future forecast for the school.

Circumstances did not quite justify this hopeful prediction, for already the school was in financial straits. In 1857, in spite of $50 apiece contributed by Bishop Pierce and 29 other members of the Methodist Conference, a deed of trust was given to George Holderby to secure a debt of $650 owed by the school to Robert Holderby.

The Kanawha Valley Star of April 6, 1858, carried news of the resignation of Mr. Bowyer and Miss M. Menager, teacher of music and oil painting, to take charge of Buffalo Academy in Putnam County. Apparently the move was made because his salary was in arrears, for in 1961 he brought suit against the college. Mrs. Salina C. Mason purchased the property for $1,500, with the apparent purpose of preventing the school from being lost to the community.

Professor B. H. Thackston, who succeeded Mr. Bowyer, was principal from 1858 until 1961. After that time Mrs. Mason's family moved into the building, as her daughter, Miss Mary C. Mason, recalled some 60 years later. Knowing that the property would revert to the Holderby family if it was not kept in use for school purposes, Mrs. Mason and two of her sisters—all experienced teachers—taught the children of the community in their home during the Civil War years.

After the close of the war, the Methodist Conference was unable to redeem the property. In 1867 it was purchased from Mrs. Mason by Cabell County and was turned over to the State of West Virginia to become a State Normal School for the training of teachers.

Mrs. Veta Lee Smith: ^{ado.} _{Aug. 22, 1957} Eighteen Years of Service

By DOROTHY BUZEK

When the last diploma has been handed out at Marshall College's summer commencement exercises tomorrow, Mrs. Veta Lee Smith will have had a part in the graduation of 7,992 students.

That's the total number who have received degrees from Marshall in the 18 years Mrs. Smith has been college secretary, a post she is leaving to become assistant professor of English at Shepherd College, Shepherdstown, W. Va. She plans to move to Shepherdstown this weekend.

Mrs. Smith has served Marshall under three presidents: the late Dr. James E. Allen, Dr. J. D. Williams, now chancellor of the University of Mississippi, and Dr. Stewart H. Smith, Marshall president since 1945.

There have been 39 commencements in the 18 years — a spring and summer graduation every year, and in 1943, 1944 and 1945 a third class graduated in January.

Mrs. Smith has stood beside the president and assisted him in awarding of degrees at all but one of those commencement programs. In 1953 she returned to her own Alma Mater, West Virginia University, to participate in commencement week activities there and to address the university Mortar Board, women's honorary fraternity, of which she is a member.

Coordinating the graduation program is but one of many duties that fall upon the shoulders of the college secretary, but it is one of the most important tasks and the one richest in sentiment and tradition.

"It has always been the philosophy of the college to keep commencement a dignified formal ceremony, yet one that is as personal as possible," Mrs. Smith pointed out. "We know that what might seem like a routine chore in our office is a matter of tremendous importance to each individual student and his family."

Because the college works so diligently to prevent errors, Marshall College commencements go off year after year with scarcely a hitch.

"Once in a great while there might be a mistake in the lettering of a diploma," Mrs. Smith admitted, "or someone will get the wrong one, but such instances are rare."

There have, of course, been some anxious moments.

Probably Mrs. Smith never will forget the year that the late an extra safeguard against any being misplaced or dropped.

When Mrs. Smith first came to Marshall, the summer commencement programs were held in the college auditorium, but as the number of graduates increased, it became necessary to have all such ceremonies at the downtown theater. Mrs. Smith hopes the day is not too far distant when the college will have a new auditorium large enough for commencements.

"While we certainly are most appreciative of the cooperation and excellent facilities of the Keith-Albee and of Johnson Memorial Methodist Church, where our academic procession forms, we would prefer to have the exercises held at the college," she said.

"It would simplify the details of commencement, but more than that, it would provide the academic atmosphere and background that should be present for such a ceremony."

There have been important developments at Marshall in the past 18 years. Among those in which Mrs. Smith took particular interest were the recognition of the institution by the American Association of University Women and the establishment in 1947 of the Marshall Foundation which receives and holds in trust property, real and personal, that is given to the college.

Mrs. Smith has held important offices and committee chairmanships in the Huntington Branch and State Division of AAUW and was among the women who worked hard to gain recognition of Marshall by the association.

She has served as secretary of the Marshall Foundation which she regards as "a significant step forward in the growth and development of Marshall College."

"I feel that the future of the college, which is great, depends largely upon the vision of this community and upon the support of alumni and townspeople," she said.

Mrs. Smith thinks college students of today are a little more serious about their work than they were in earlier years and that they know more about what they want to do when they finish college. She attributes this ability to make more mature judgments to better counseling service available in the college now.

In taking a teaching position, Mrs. Smith is returning to the type of educational work she

(Special to The Advertiser)

ELKINS — A Marshall College student, Katharine Temple Pierce, 19 of Charleston, will serve as a princess in the court of Queen Silvia XXI at the Mountain State Forest Festival in Elkns the first week end in October.

The Charleston princess was selected as the model pledge of 1956-57 by her sorority, Alpha Xi Delta, and was placed on the deans list the first and second semesters.

A graduate of Beaver high school in Bluefield, Miss Pierce is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Karl O. Pierce of Charleston.

Her appointment to the royal court of Elizabeth Carol (Beth) Kemper of Bluefield, the 1957 Queen Silvia, was made by E. W. Channell, chairman of the board of directors of the Forest Festival Association.

The announcement was made today by Festival Director-General George V. Hannah.

commencement. The train was late and the program had to start without him.

While the audience awaited his arrival, Dr. Allen, then president of Marshall, delivered an "off the cuff" speech that many people say was the most brilliant of his career and one of the best speeches they ever heard.

There have been proud moments for Mrs. Smith, too, like the day in 1934 when she saw her own daughter, Vause, now Mrs. Paul John Carlson Jr. of Philadelphia, graduated from Marshall. As Vause came on stage, the president turned to her mother and asked, "Would you like to present this diploma?"

"No, thank you," whispered Mrs. Smith. "I want you to do it so we can be sure it's legal!"

The year Mrs. Carlson graduated was the only time that Mrs. Smith missed the commencement luncheon which the president gives for the guest speaker and other dignitaries attending the exercises. There was a family luncheon that year that she just couldn't miss.

Ordering the diplomas and getting the printed programs in readiness for commencement are just two of the jobs that must be handled by the college secretary's office.

There is also the matter in getting the diplomas to Charleston to have the state seal embossed on them, renting of the Keith-Albee Theatre where the exercises are held, seeing about decorations, ordering, hoods for those who are to receive honorary degrees, arranging the seating of platform guests and being sure that each chair is in its proper place.

At Marshall the deans and President Smith personally sign the diplomas. Afterwards Mrs. Smith sees to it that the diplomas are placed in their cases and then bundled. The bundles are not untied until the actual awarding of degrees begins as she and Welch high schools and Morgantown Business College and was a graduate assistant at West Virginia University.

She holds A. B. and M. A. degrees from WVU and has done graduate work at New York University. She has been active in civic and educational work in Huntington, is a past president of the American College Public Relations Association, the first woman to hold that post, and is listed in the 1957 supplement to Who's Who in America. She helped to organize Fagus, senior women's honorary society at Marshall.

Twins to Graduate With Honors At Marshall; Now in Med School

By DOROTHY BUZEK

Identical twin brothers will be graduated from Marshall College summa cum laude at summer commencement exercises August 23 at the Keith-Albee Theatre.

They are John P. and William S. Sheils, 22-year-old sons of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Sheils, 123 North Queens court.

Both will receive the Bachelor of Science degree from the College of Arts and Sciences.

They have been students at the Medical College of Virginia, Richmond, since last September under provisions of Marshall's combined college and professional degree program. Under this program a student wishing to study medicine, dentistry or law at a professional school may be granted a leave of absence during his senior year at Marshall.

At the end of the first year in the professional school the student then is eligible for the baccalaureate degree from the college here, provided all requirements for graduation have been met.

Degrees In Absentia

Mrs. Sheils said today her sons will be unable to return to Huntington for the commencement ceremonies and will be graduated in absentia.

Both were awarded the A. D. Williams Fellowship this summer and are doing research work in rheumatoid diseases at the Medical College of Virginia Hospital.

In graduating from Marshall with highest honors the twins are adding another chapter to an outstanding record of scholastic achievement.

'B' Lowest Grade

Neither has ever received a grade lower than B. They were graduated from Lincoln junior high school with a straight A-plus average for the last semester. Both were awarded citizenship medals by the Sons of the American Revolution.

It is customary for only one SAR medal to be presented, but the boys' records were so similar an exception was made in their case.

Both twins play the cornet and are widely known in music circles here. At Huntington East high school both were members of the All State Band and Orchestra. Both were selected delegates to the International Key Club convention in Chicago in 1952.

JOHN SHEILS

WILLIAM SHEILS

Often Confused

The similarity of appearance of the two boys has often caused one to be mistaken for the other.

On one occasion when one twin was absent from a class at Marshall the other took his place and the instructor didn't know the difference. At the Medical College some of the professors have difficulty telling them apart.

Both twins were married in June, 1956.

The twins' father, R. T. Sheils, is vice-president of the Carolina Lumber Co. Their mother is employed in the cashier's office at the Anderson-Newcomb Co.

Both Salutatorians

They were graduated from East High in 1953 with an A average for the three years. They were salutatorians of their class.

Bill plans to extern here next summer at Cabell-Huntington Hospital. John will continue with research at Richmond. Both hope to intern at Cabell-Huntington and practice in Huntington when they have completed their training.

Mr. Sheils said her sons have not yet decided whether they will be associated in medical practice.

The two celebrated their 22nd birthdays June 17. Both have red hair and blue eyes, are about six feet two and weigh around 150 pounds. Mrs. Sheils said there has seldom been more than a couple of pounds difference in their weights.

The West Virginia State College
Yellow Jackets will open football drills Aug. 28, with 11 returning lettermen among those expected

Mrs. Sydney Tumpson Wins Advertiser's Contest Trip

Winner of The Advertiser's editorial contest on "Why I Like to Live in Huntington" was Mrs. Sydney Tumpson, 412 Twelfth avenue.

Mrs. Tumpson will be guest of honor on Prof. W. Page Pitt's Marshall College journalism tour to New York leaving here August 24 and returning Aug. 30. The award was made by the Chamber of Commerce.

The winning entry in the contest appears on the editorial page today.

Judges also cited two other entries for special honorable mention. They were written by Hal Murphy, 4218 Auburn road, and Mrs. Mary N. White, 1432 Washington boulevard. These will be published later, as will a few others of special merit.

Another entry that was too short to qualify for the contest was also singled out for attention. By Patty Sue Mayo, Box 81, Route 2, it read:

"Why I Like to Live in Huntington:

"Is there any other place but Huntington?"

Names of contestants on the editorials were covered in The Advertiser office, and judges did not know whose entries they were considering until after they made their decision.

Judges were Rabbi Theodore S. Levy of Ohev Shalom Temple, A. Grant Beckett, president, Huntington Trust & Savings Bank, and Miss Harriet M. Casio, advertising manager, Anderson-Newscomb Co.

Mrs. Tumpson's excellent editorial deals realistically with the material attractions of the city but also imaginatively with the spirit and atmosphere and her reactions to them.

It is a fine tribute to her home town and shows a fine response to the things it offers her and her family. It would make a valuable addition to any brochure advertising the city and should stir the pride of every resident who reads it.

Mrs. Sydney Tumpson, 412 Twelfth avenue (center), winner of The Advertiser's editorial contest on "Why I Like to Live in Huntington," has her attention directed here. C. W. Peoples, president of the Chamber of Commerce, is presenting her with the contest award, a receipt for a free trip to New York with Prof. W. Page Pitt's Marshall College Journalism tour. Mrs. Pitt is showing her a folder telling of the wonders of the trip.

Most Satisfied in Jobs

Typical '50-55 Marshall Grad Earning $4,000-$5,000 Yearly

By DOROTHY BUZEK

The typical man who graduated from Marshall College between 1950 and 1955 today is a teacher earning between $4,000 and $5,000 a year.

He lives in West Virginia, has been married four years, has two children, rents his home, is employed in the field in which he received his college training and does not contemplate changing jobs in the near future.

These are the conclusions of Janice Karen Fletcher of St. Albans, W. Va., who made a socio-economic study of male Marshall graduates for the five-year period in partial fulfillment of requirements for the degree of Master of Arts. Miss Fletcher is employed in the offices of Union Carbide and Carbon Chemicals Corp. in South Charleston. She will receive the degree at the college's summer commencement exercises August 23.

First Such Study

Dr. J. T. Richardson, head of the sociology department at Marshall, says the study is significant in that it is the first time an attempt has been made at Marshall to determine the socio-economic success or status of Marshall graduates.

In compiling her information, Miss Fletcher studied the answers to questionnaires she had sent to 705 male graduates of the college. Four hundred and sixty—65 per cent—returned the questionnaires.

The study revealed that the typical Marshall man who finished his college work in 1950-55 paid his own way through school and majored in business administration. He has done graduate work and holds his M.A. from Marshall. He likes to read popular magazines and fiction books, and the form of entertainment he enjoys most is movies. If he had to do it all over again, he'd go to Marshall and major in the same field.

Miss Fletcher's description of the "average" man was drawn from her tabulation of the answers to the questions posed in her questionnaire.

Only One Idle

She found that 98 of the 460 men who replied said they are employed as teachers. Forty-eight said they were sales representatives; 27, engineers; 17 accountants, 17 in the Army, 14 chemists. In all, 82 different professions or occupations were listed. Only one man reported being unemployed.

One hundred and nineteen men said they had been at their present job one year; 102, two years; 58, three years; 60, four years, and 40, five years.

Ten men said their salaries were between $1,000 and $2,000; 12, $2,000 and $3,000; 45, $3,000 and $4,000; 119, between $4,000 and $5,000; 94, $5,000 to $6,000; 64, $6,000 to $7,000; 48, $7,000 to $8,000; 20, $8,000 to $9,000; eight, $10,000 to $11,000. The highest salary was reported by a man who said he received between $20,000 and $21,000 a year.

Seventy-four per cent of the men said they did not contemplate changing jobs.

The most frequent reason given by the 26 per cent who wanted to change jobs was for an increase in salary.

Seventy per cent of the men reported they are employed in the field in which they received their college training.

Fifty-four per cent of the men queried said they rent their homes; 42 per cent own them and four per cent live with their parents.

All Attend Church

The values of the homes ranged from $3,000 to $4,000 to one in the $30,000 to $31,000 bracket. The largest number (28) owned homes in the $13,000 to $14,000 price range.

Sixty-nine per cent of the men said they attended church regularly; 31 per cent said they did not. Eighty-seven per cent stated they attend the Protestant church; 12 per cent, Catholic; one per cent, Jewish. Not one person answering the questionnaire said he attended no church at all.

Two hundred and two men said they were Democrats; 190, Republicans; 68, Independents.

To Miss Fletcher's question, "What do you consider the greatest mistakes you made while in college?" the greatest number—67—listed procrastination; 59, poor study habits, and 53, insufficient study and use of the library.

Dr. Smith Is Honored

HD 217/57
It was announced yesterday that Dr. Stewart H. Smith, Marshall College president, is one of 15 college and university presidents selected to participate in an "Intellectual Life Conference" August 9-18 at the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn.

Dr. Smith is the only participant who heads a state-operated institution.

The Association of American Colleges sponsors the conference, one of three such events held during the summer.

The meeting is designed primarily to provide new intellectual stimulus for the college presidents, and to give them a chance to combine relaxation with opportunities for thinking and talking about the aims of education.

Shown here is the architects' conception of a new $950,000 men's health and physical education building at Marshall College. The drawing was prepared by Frampton & Bowers, Huntington architects. Actual construction of the building — to front 220 feet on Eighteenth street between Virginia and Fourth avenues — is expected to begin this Spring. Final plans and specifications now are being made.
