Elmar Oliveira

Elmar Oliveira remains the first and only American violinist to win the Gold Medal at Moscow's coveted Tchaikovsky International Competition. Most recently, he founded the Elmar Oliveira International Violin Competition (EOIVC) to support the career development of young violinists ages 16 -32. Additionally, he funds the John Oliveira String Competition, which is held annually and exclusively for string players studying at the Lynn University Conservatory of Music, where he holds the position of Distinguished Artist in Residence. Oliveira has performed with many internationally-acclaimed ensembles, including the Boston and Chicago Symphonies; the Cleveland and Philadelphia Orchestras; the London and New York Philharmonics; as well as the Leipzig Gewandhaus, among many others. Additionally, he has performed extensive recital tours of North and South America, Australia, New Zealand and the Far East. Oliveira received Grammy nominations for his recordings of both the Barber Concerto and the Bloch and Benjamin Lees Violin Concertos. He has premiered works by contemporary composers including Morton Gould, Aaron Jay Kernis, and Joan Tower, who dedicated her Violin Concerto to him. Oliveira is a devoted teacher and promoter of young artists, and also keenly supports the art of contemporary violin and bow making.
