MEANS

NOVEMBER 18, 2022

Jacob Burns Moot Court Room and via Zoom
9:00 a.m. – 4:00 p.m.

The symposium will explore the changing landscape of international conflicts and the role that dispute resolution can play in strengthening capacity to respond effectively. The keynote address will be given by Anne Leslie, who leads the Cloud Risk and Controls Europe division at IBM, as well as IBM's Cloud for Financial Services.

The program will consist of three panels featuring academics and practitioners in the fields of dispute resolution and cyber security who will discuss: the history of hybrid warfare and the way it unfolds in the real world; the various ways negotiation theory applies and how it can address threats of hybrid warfare; the future of these novel conflicts; and the ways the public and private sectors can respond to and prevent them.

Admission is free.
