New York, September 30, 1904.

Dear Sir:-

On account of many inquiries having been made, you are advised that, upon your request, formal invitations will be extended to such of your friends, not exceeding two, as you may desire to attend the dinner at Delmonico's on next Tuesday evening, provided that the names of such persons are furnished to either of the undersigned on or before noon Monday, October 3, it being understood that the expense of entertaining such guests will be borne by the member inviting them at the rate of six dollars per plate.

Yours very truly,

John R. Loomis,
President, American Association of Public Accountants.

Farquhar J. MacRae,
President, New York State
Society of Certified
Public Accountants.
