CHANCELLOR MUNITZ TO DELIVER COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS

Chancellor Barry Munitz arrives on campus June 13 to serve as the guest speaker at the university's 26th Commencement ceremony.

As chief executive officer of the nation's largest senior system of higher education, Munitz provides leadership to more than 40,000 faculty and staff and over 370,000 students on 20 campuses and nine off-campus centers.

Prior to joining the CSU system last August, Munitz served from 1982 to 1991 as president and chief executive officer of Federated Development Company headquartered in Houston, TX. His background in academia is quite distinguished. From 1977 to 1982, Munitz was chancellor of the University of Houston's central campus, where he had formerly served as vice president and dean of faculties. At the University of Illinois, Munitz was system academic vice president from 1972-1976 and associate provost during the 1971-72 academic year.

Chancellor Munitz holds a Ph.D. in comparative literature from Princeton University, where he earned a master's degree in 1965. He completed his undergraduate studies in classics and comparative literature from Brooklyn College and holds a certificate in political and economic theory from the University of Leiden, Netherlands.

Several dignitaries will join Munitz on June 13 as members of the Commencement platform party. These individuals include: Molly Corbett Broad, CSU senior vice chancellor; Bernard Goldstein, John Kashiwabara and Arneze Washington, members of the CSU Board of Trustees; and State Assemblyman Paul A. Woodruff, 61st Assembly District. Woodruff will be recognized during the Commencement ceremony as Cal State's 1992 Distinguished Alumnus.

Commencement participants and guests are encouraged to car-pool to campus and to arrive early in order to secure a parking space. Guest seating is available on a first-come, first-served basis.

For the second year, the Coachella Valley Center will host a separate Commencement ceremony for its graduates at 2 p.m. Sunday, June 14, at the McCallum Theatre for the Performing Arts in Palm Desert, CA. Nearly 80 of the 130 students eligible for graduation are expected to walk in this ceremony. CSU Trustee, Dr. Bernard Goldstein, will serve as the CVC's Commencement speaker.

Addressing the challenges facing today's graduates in a changing state environment, CSU Chancellor, Dr. Barry Munitz, will deliver this year's keynote address, titled "Next Step," as the university celebrates its 26th Commencement ceremony at 5:30 p.m., Saturday, June 13.

Nearly 3,100 students are eligible to participate in the outdoor ceremony to be held on the lawn area between the east side of the library and the gymnasium. The 1992 group of graduates is the largest class in the campus' history to walk in Commencement exercises.

LIBRARY GROUNDBREAKING CELEBRATES CONSTRUCTION START

Describing the May 21 library expansion groundbreaking ceremony as a "monumental and historical day for the campus," University Librarian, Dr. William Aguilar notes that the new library addition "will allow us the technology and space to provide better services and resources to the students and public communities that we serve." Individuals participating in the ceremony were (from left): Craig Heller, vice president, Cal-Pac Construction Co.; Jim Scanton, director, Computer Center; Michelle Miller, president, ASI; President Anthony Evans; Dr. William Aguilar, university librarian; and Dr. Robert Senour, director, Audio-Visual Department. Included among the many special guests at the ceremony were founding president, Dr. John Pfau; Mrs. John Pfau; and retirees Art Nelson and Leonard Farwell.

ASSEMBLYMAN PAUL WOODRUFF NAMED DISTINGUISHED ALUMNUS

Selected on the basis of career prominence, professional growth and service to the campus and community, State Assemblyman Paul Woodruff (R-Forest Falls, 61st District) is the recipient of the Distinguished Alumni Award, bestowed annually by the university's Alumni Association.

Woodruff, who will accept the award at this year's Commencement ceremony, was voted into the assembly only five years after graduating in 1983 with a B.A. in political science. He is the youngest assembly member currently serving.

Over the years, Woodruff has returned to campus many times to speak to political science classes. In 1987, before his election to the assembly, Woodruff spearheaded the effort to incorporate Yucaipa. The city is part of the 61st District, which includes Redlands, Loma Linda, Big Bear Lake, Highland, Apple Valley, Barstow and part of San Bernardino.

Woodruff has been an elected and appointed member of the Republican Central Committee of San Bernardino County since 1978, and is currently a member of the San Bernardino Chamber of Commerce, the Yucaipa Lions Club and the Native Sons of the Golden West. A fourth generation Californian, the assemblyman's family arrived in San Bernardino County by covered wagon and helped settle the region.

After attending local primary and secondary schools, Woodruff was active in student affairs at Cal State. In his freshman year, he organized a women's conference that featured such notables as Shirley Pettis and Gloria Allred. He also helped run the student Model Congress, organized the Political Science Council and interned for former State Assemblyman Bill Leonard. He has authored several bills, including one that requires high schools to instruct students on the effects of alcohol, drugs and narcotics on prenatal development. Among his other duties, Assemblyman Woodruff recently was selected to serve as chairman of the Republican Assembly Caucus. He presently serves on the Higher Education Committee, the Assembly Ways and Means Committee and the Committee on Televising the Legislature. Woodruff also is the recipient of the California Common Cause Free Speech Award for declining to accept honoraria.

OUTSTANDING GRADUATE STUDENT SELECTED

Julie LaMay Abner will be recognized at Commencement as this year's Outstanding Graduate Student.

Hesperia resident Julie LaMay Abner recently received distinction as the winner of this year's Outstanding Graduate Student Award. Bestowed annually, the award recognizes academic achievements and contributions to the campus community.

LaMay Abner earned her undergraduate degree in English literature from our campus in 1990 and holds an associate degree in accounting from Victor Valley College. She will receive her M.A. degree in English composition this June.

While pursuing her graduate studies, LaMay Abner was active in a number of campus leadership positions. She served as co-chair of the Council of Graduate Students and treasurer of the Graduate English Students Association, held membership positions on the Associated Students Finance Board and Academic Affairs Board, and was actively involved with the campus' Native American Students Association. Additionally, she served as a tutor in the Writing Center.

As part of her graduate work, she went well beyond the one internship course required and completed nine campus student internship positions. "This unique experience has allowed me to participate actively in all aspects of a classroom and has helped me to develop my own teaching pedagogues, making my transition to an actual English instructor a smooth one," she contends. Currently, LaMay Abner serves as an English instructor at both Cal State and Riverside Community College. This fall, she will begin work on her Ph.D. in literature at UCR. With academic areas of expertise in Shakespeare and Native American Indian studies, she plans to continue her career as a professional educator.

During her 18 months in the graduate program, LaMay Abner says her academic experience was enhanced by the efforts of English professor, Dr. Rodney Simard, who served as her faculty mentor. "He taught me how to be a professor and a professional," she says. "He taught me the behind-the-scenes essentials of teaching and the psychology of being an educator. These skills are much more difficult (to obtain) than simply presenting a campus lecture."

While pursuing her graduate degree, LaMay Abner made seven professional presentations at academic conferences and has 10 articles published in professional journals. Currently, she is in the process of compiling an anthology of traditional and contemporary American Indian literatures. During the past two years, she has served as a research and editorial assistant for the "American Indian Studies Series" and recently became a reviewer for the quarterly journal, "Studies in American Indian Literatures."

A descendent of the Cherokee and Blackfeet tribes, this Native American states that, "My heritage is a sacred part of my life. I try to promote an inner peace and hand down Native American traditions to my students and my family; I try to encourage the belief that everyone is important and has a special contribution to bring to society."

As a graduate student and single parent of two children, LaMay Abner still finds time for community service. Some of her off-campus activities include organizing events for Native American high school students throughout San Bernardino and Riverside counties and doing volunteer work with Parents and Friends of Lesbians and Gays (PFLAG), a Redlands-based support group. Additionally, she periodically returns to Baldwin Park High School, where she graduated in only three years, to share her educational experiences. "I try to encourage students to continue their educations," she says. "I tell them they can compete in college, and I try to be a positive role model for them. I feel like I'm giving something back to the school."

Commenting on being named Cal State's Outstanding Graduate Student, LaMay Abner says, "I was completely shocked." Discussing her academic career at Cal State, she adds, "My experience here at CSUSB has gone way beyond what I've learned in the classroom, and since I recently entered the professional arena, I am grateful for the many opportunities this university has afforded me. I consider it an honor to receive this award."

FACILITY NAMED FOR CAMPUS DONOR

A 5,000-seat indoor facility for the future Health and Physical Education complex will be named in honor of the parents of a long-time university supporter, Mr. Nicholas Coussoulis, reports President Anthony Evans. The announcement was delivered on May 27 as part of the Partnership 2000 kick-off event that officially launched a major campus fundraising drive.

According to Dr. Judith Rymer, vice president for university relations, "This is the first time in the university's history that a facility has been named after a campus donor and only the second time that any campus building has been named after an individual." Currently, the campus library bears the name of Cal State's founding president, Dr. John Pfau.

Approval to bestow the Coussoulis name on the new indoor facility was granted by the California State University Board of Trustees on May 20, based upon a recommendation by President Evans, and the campus planning committee. "The university made the proposal (to the Board of Trustees) based on Mr. Coussoulis' long-time support of the Cal State campus, including scholarship contributions and volunteer service," says Rymer, who spearheads the university's fundraising efforts. She adds that Coussoulis has pledged $500,000 toward a number of enhancements for the university's new Health and Physical Education complex.

Coussoulis, a 1975 graduate of Cal State, is founder and president of the Coussoulis Development Company based in San Bernardino. "Nicholas Coussoulis has earned a place as one of the leading business people and philanthropists of our region," contends Rymer. "In addition to being the founder and president of a successful development business, he was a charter member of the Inland Empire Economic Council."

A longtime friend of higher education, Coussoulis has served on the Board of Councillors for Cal State's School of Business and Public Administration since 1963, and in 1991 was appointed to a second four-year term on the University Advisory Board. For a number of years, he has provided annual scholarship funding for underrepresented minority students on campus.

CANDIDATES INTERVIEW FOR VICE PRESIDENT POSITION

As the search continues for a permanent vice president for student services, two candidates will meet with campus leaders during the week of June 8, reports Dr. Judith Rymer, vice president for university relations.

On Tuesday, June 9, Dr. Juan Gonzalez, interim vice president for student services, interviews with the search committee and will be available to meet with members of the campus community during two open forums scheduled as follows:

OPEN FORUM FOR STUDENTS

1-2 p.m.
Panorama Room, Lower Commons

OPEN FORUM FOR GENERAL CAMPUS COMMUNITY

3-4 p.m.
Panorama Room, Lower Commons

Gonzalez joined Cal State in 1987 as the university's first presidential assistant and has served as interim vice president for student services since September, 1990. Before coming to our campus, Gonzalez was a visiting research associate at UCLA's Higher Education Research Institute, studying strategies for keeping low income and minority students in college.

Previously, he served as the director of the Academic Advancement Program at that campus. Gonzalez earned a Ph.D. in educational psychology from the University of Illinois and holds an M.A. in bilingual-bicultural education from the University of Texas in San Antonio. He completed his undergraduate degree in Latin American studies from Texas Tech.

On Thursday, June 11, Dr. Stephen F. Barnes of San Diego State University will interview for the position. Open forums for Barnes' visit are as follows:

OPEN FORUM FOR STUDENTS

1-2 p.m.
Pine Room, Lower Commons

OPEN FORUM FOR GENERAL CAMPUS COMMUNITY

3-4 p.m.

Since 1983, Barnes has served as the assistant vice president for student affairs at San Diego State University, where he was assistant dean of student affairs from 1979-1982. At the University of Oregon, Barnes served as coordinator of student conduct from 1973-1976 and is the former associate director of that university's Live and Learn Residential Program.

Barnes holds a Ph.D. in higher education administration from the University of Oregon and earned an M.S. in clinical psychology from San Diego State University. He completed undergraduate studies at the University of California, Santa Barbara, where he received a B.A. in philosophy.

UNIVERSITY NAMES OUTSTANDING UNDERGRADUATE

Twenty-four-year-old Tae-Wook Chun of San Bernardino is the recipient of this year's Outstanding Undergraduate Award. He will be recognized for his academic excellence and service to the campus community at the Commencement ceremony on June 13.

A native of Seoul, Republic of Korea, Chun came to the U.S. in 1988 to obtain a science education. He will receive a B.S. degree in biology from Cal State this June with an overall G.P.A. of 3.76. Accepted at four of the nation's top graduate schools, Chun will enter the Ph.D. program in biochemistry, cell and molecular biology at Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine this fall on a full scholarship to pursue studies in immunology and virology.

"After finishing my Ph.D., I would like to carry out extensive research on HIV to help the medical community find a cure for AIDS and teach at universities to guide students through the fascinating world of biological sciences," says Chun.

Since his sophomore year at Cal State, Chun has been employed part-time as a research assistant and laboratory assistant with the Chemistry, Physics and Biology departments and often volunteers several hours each week to help set up science labs, run experiments and assist fellow students.

"Through my volunteer work, I have learned some interesting techniques, have learned how to work independently and can examine the theories behind the experiments," notes Chun. A member of Phi Kappa Phi National Honor Society since his junior year, Chun recently represented the campus chapter in the organization's National Graduate Fellowship Program.

Through his academic experience in the United States, Chun says he obtained not only a "wide view of science education" but also "learned a great deal about politics and American society," something he contends he could not have learned through studying in his homeland. Commenting on educational quality at Cal State, Chun says, "For students seeking more in-depth studies beyond the normal course requirements, the faculty are willing to encourage students and to support them. I think we have excellent faculty members here."

In discussing his recent award, Chun notes, "I was very happy. I wanted to get it, but I really didn't expect it."

SOCIAL WORK ACCREDITATION CELEBRATION FEATURES PROMINENT SOCIOLOGIST

An address by nationally recognized sociologist, Dr. Amitai Etzioni, will highlight a celebration observing the recent accreditation of the university's Master of Social Work (M.S.W.) program. The event is scheduled for Monday, June 15, beginning at 5 p.m. at the Maruko Hotel in San Bernardino.

"The Social Work Community Advisory Board and social work faculty want to celebrate our recent accreditation with the community at large," says Dr. Tena Nelson, director of field education in the Social Work Department. "We believe our program exemplifies a good university/community partnership. And, we want to make the community at large aware of our accomplishments and program."

Cal State's M.S.W. program, the only one of its kind available in the Inland Empire, is the tenth graduate social work program in the state, and seventh within the CSU system, to receive national accreditation. Attempting to fill the region's critical need for advanced social work professionals, the program was launched during the fall 1989 quarter. The program received accreditation from the Council on Social Work Education in February, 1992.

Etzioni, who founded and directs the Center for Policy Research at George Washington University, will address "Communitarian Philosophy: Strong Rights and Strong Responsibilities" at the June 15 celebration. According to Nelson, "Etzioni is a nationally recognized sociologist best known for his extensive study of management and social organizations and social policy. He is of the firm belief that communities should not rely on government, but should take responsibility for the well-being of their citizens. Etzioni believes that the community is the source of authority—that a community is responsible for implementing social change."

During a recent interview published in "USA Today," Etzioni outlined some of the key goals of his "communitarian" philosophy. Regarding families, he proposes that communities "stop giving government responsibilities that belong to the family; give families financial support." In discussing government, he says, "Don't let state or federal governments take any mission that can be achieved locally. Shift power out of Washington and toward the private sector and smaller governments." And regarding schools, Etzioni states, "Urge schools to teach moral values we all share, particularly when families fail."

A former professor of sociology at Columbia University for 20 years, Etzioni's achievements in the social sciences have been acknowledged by several fellowships from the Social Science Research Council, The Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences and the Guggenheim Foundation. From 1987-89 he served as the Thomas Henry Carroll Ford Foundation Professor at the Harvard Business School and served as a senior advisor in the White House from 1979-80. Etzioni is the author of 14 books, including "The Moral Dimension: Toward a New Economics."

Members of the campus community are invited to attend the Social Work accreditation celebration. The event begins with a no-host social at 5 p.m. Dinner is scheduled for 5:30 p.m., followed by Etzioni's keynote address at 7 p.m. Tickets are $25 per person. Reservations are requested by June 9. For tickets and information, call the Social Work Department at Ext. 5501.

STUDENT ART EXHIBIT OPENS JUNE 12

Art work in a variety of media created by university students will be displayed during the "22nd Annual Student Art Show," running June 12-July 24 in the University Art Gallery.

"We've had a record number of students enrolling, and we're anticipating a large body of quality work to select from," says gallery director and chair of the Art Department, Professor Richard Johnston. The student works are "juried" by Cal State faculty members.

An opening reception will be held on June 12 in the University Art Gallery at 5 p.m. Gallery hours for the exhibit are 9 a.m.-4 p.m., Monday-Thursday.

RELOCATION CAMPS, AWARD-WINNING PLAY FEATURED IN LIBRARY EXHIBITS

Memorabilia from "A Warring Absence" is currently on display in the library. The drama starred Jody Duncan as Caitlin Thomas and Doug Buckhout as poet Dylan Thomas. It was the only one of the five college shows to receive a standing ovation during a recent performance at the Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C. Duncan was awarded a national playwrighting honor as well.

A sampling of the largest collection of original Japanese internment camp newspapers in the Inland Empire is now on display in commemoration of that infamous event's 50th anniversary. The first floor exhibit in the John Pfau Library features newspapers, posters and photos produced while 110,000 Japanese-Americans—both native born and immigrants—were interned in the western United States.

On the library's third floor, memorabilia from the university's award-winning play, "A Warring Absence," is on exhibit. The play was one of five college productions nationwide selected by the American College Theater Festival to appear at the Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C. in late April.

MEN'S BASKETBALL ANNOUNCES SIX SIGNEES TO 1992-93 ROSTER

Five community college students and one high school senior have signed on with the men's basketball team for the 1992/93 season, announces Reggie Morris, head coach.

Signees include: Reggie Cain (6'6", 215 lbs., Forward) of Ontario, Eric Carpenter (6'3", 170 lbs., Guard) of Los Angeles, Troy Perryman (6'8", 215 lbs., Center) of Fresno, Jason Wright (6'0", Point Guard) of St. Anthony's High School, Randy Brown (6'6", Forward) of L.A. Valley Community College and Osiris Nalls (6'2", Guard) of Glendale Community College.

Cain, who currently attends Sacramento City College, led the scoring and rebounding for his team during the 1991/92 season with an average of 23 points per game, 12 rebounds and three assists. He earned the Camino Norte Conference's Most Valuable Player award this year and All-State 1st Team honors, as well.

Carpenter led the state in three-point goals, shooting 52 percent from the three-point line this year for Los Angeles Harbor College. With an average of 17 points per game and three rebounds, Carpenter earned 1st Team honors in the Southern California Conference.

Perryman, playing for Fresno City College in the Coast Valley Conference, averaged 14 points per game, eight rebounds and two assists during the 1991/92 season. He made 1st Team All-Conference.

Wright, who has 1st Team All-CIF and 1st Team All-Camino Real League honors to his credit, averages 20 points per game, and seven assists, two rebounds and two steals per game. He also was named to the Los Angeles Times' South Coast All-Star Team.

Brown earned 1st Team All-Western State Conference and 1st Team All-State recognition this year with an average of 22 points per game, 12 rebounds and three assists.

Also honored with the 1st Team All-Western State Conference distinction, Nalls averages 12.5 points per game, five rebounds and three assists.

"I'm pleased with the balance that we did get," says Coach Morris, commenting on how the recruits will complement the returning team. Replacing senior forwards Steve Hickey and DeShang Weaver with players of size will help us because we're scarce at that point. Adding another point guard, Jason Wright, who was highly recruited, will definitely help us in the back court at that position. And it's a feather in our cap to have two 1st-state community college players" coming on board, he added, referring to Brown and Cain.

CAMPUS ADOPTS FOUR-DAY SUMMER WORK SCHEDULE

Under the new summer schedule, the university will be officially closed from 5:30 p.m.

SUMMER WORK SCHEDULE... (CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3)

Thursdays to 7 a.m. Mondays. "The regular work schedule for all employees, including auxiliary employees, with few exceptions, will be 7 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. (Monday through Thursday) to coincide with the delivery of air conditioning provided by the central plant," explains DeMauro. No heating or air conditioning service will be available during the three-day campus closures. The new work schedule will continue through Friday, Sept. 11, 1992.

"This work schedule for thirteen weeks will provide substantial energy savings to the campus during this era of budgetary restraint," contends DeMauro, who estimates that the campus will save approximately $60,000 on its summer utility bill. "We are attempting to balance a budget that will be short by a significant amount, and the energy savings will be applied toward the 1992-93 budget deficit," notes DeMauro.

He explains that the new summer schedule was initiated by the university's senior management team in reaction to the current budget situation. A memo announcing the new summer schedule was issued to all campus employees on May 21. DeMauro says that initial employee reaction to the new four-day work week is "very positive overall" and adds that university officials do not anticipate any decrease in productivity or employee morale. "No doubt, this schedule may represent an inconvenience to some of our employees and constituents, but most people are excited (about the new schedule) and many employees are looking forward to it," he notes.

A recorded message will be programmed into the university's campus-wide voice mail system informing off-campus callers about the new operating schedule. During the new summer schedule, the John Pfau Library will be open to members of the campus community and the general public from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m., Monday through Thursday. To insure continued campus safety, Public Safety officers will remain on duty to patrol the campus 24-hours per day, seven days each week.

DeMauro adds, "Some campus events have been scheduled on Fridays or weekends which the university is committed to serve. Others are being rescheduled to the Monday through Thursday operating period."
