Lion Starting Five

CO-CAPTAIN CONRAD "CONNIE" DETTLING, a senior and former Reading High star scored 350 points last season and should top that mark this year.

CO-CAPTAIN GEORGE "FAT" AMOLE, the other senior member of the squad hailing from Birdsboro totaled 247 points last year. He is a fine floor man and should tally often with his accurate one hand push shot.

KENNETH "KENNY" NASE, a sophomore from Souderton, saw a lot of service as a freshman last year. He is a fast floor man and a clever ball handler.

JAMES "JIM" CROKE, a junior, prepped at St. Augustine in Brooklyn, N. Y. He saw limited service as a sophomore but should be ready to take over the job as a regular and do a fine piece of work off the boards.

MIKE DePAUL, a freshman, former All-Pennsylvania player while at Central Catholic High School, Reading, is making his college basketball debut with Albright. DePaul was picked on the Associated Press Class A first team two consecutive years while leading Central to two PCIAA state championships. He starred in three varsity sports at Eastern Military Academy, Long Island, N. Y., last year.

COPYRIGHT 1952 THE COCA-COLA COMPANY

Welcome, Champions!

It is a distinct honor to have as our guests in this, the first game in our beautiful new gymnasium, Coach Ken Loeffler and his cinderella team of last year.

With practically the entire squad back from the team that last year won the National Invitation Tournament and reached the finals of the Olympic trials, the Explorers have an excellent chance of being the number one team in the nation this year.

There are several reasons for LaSalle's great success on the court during the past few years. One of these is Ken Loeffler, a coach who in three seasons won 68 games and lost 18 against the country's top competition.

Ken is probably the most versatile coach in the business. He is a poet, professor, and lawyer as well as an authority on basketball. His day is a busy one. He teaches business law at Temple University, holding morning and evening classes. He is also doing extensive research in the field of labor relations.

The Explorer's team revolves around Tom Gola, a Philadelphia boy who as a freshman last year was so sensational that he stole the show in the N.I.T. Tournament. "Long Tom" has the poise of a seasoned campaigner. He can do everything well. His reactions are quick. Last year he scored 551 points in 32 games and was among the nation's leaders in rebounds with 529. Against a very good Seton Hall team he scored 30 points. Quick as a cat around the boards, he is amazingly agile for a big man. Already experts are predicting that he will write his name among basketball's immortals by the time he rounds out his collegiate career.

"Skinny" Norm Grekin, tireless, hardworking, consistent, is second only to Gola.

Against Gola, Grekin and their teammates the Lions are flooring a team that will be green and lacking in experience. On paper Coach Eddie Gulian's team is outclassed, but Loeffler and his Explorers have not forgotten the many anxious moments they experienced on their own floor last year when a surprising Albright team led them until the last few minutes when personal fouls depleted their ranks.

The Explorers have two victories under their belt to date, which should further help to confound a Lion squad that is playing its first game on a new floor.

But—if the Lions can avoid first game and big opponent jitters—we know that the fans will not be disappointed with the Red and White.
