THE STUDENT COUNCIL

IT IS OVER A YEAR now since in a general assembly the school accepted plans for their first student council. We have come a long way by now, a way not unbeset by difficulties. We could not let work slide and rest on the laurels of our tradition; we had no tradition. You had backed our formation; you had elected us; but it was up to us to prove our worth. We will review here our work since last fall, so that you may see in total, our accomplishments for this year.

Elections at our first meeting placed us under the leadership of H. Tikotsky, president; J. Bessel, vice-president; M. Curry, secretary; D. Atwater, treasurer; and C. Lunsford, head of committees.

Proposals of yours and ideas of our own were quick to come in. At lunch you have been dancing, between eating your ham and your jelly sandwiches, to the music of the nickelodeon. It didn't "just appear" one day; the student council had it installed. Also in the cafeteria, the Christmas tree didn't walk up on the platform by itself. We put it there, decorated it, and paid for it.

In January the student council sponsored assemblies began, under the direction of Ira Rakatansky. So much is to be said about these assemblies that we have written them up in a separate article. January also saw student identification cards issued and the beginning of many new projects.

However, as we said in beginning, everything was not easy. President Tikotsky resigned when he left school to take a defense job; our secretary, M. Curry and our treasurer, D. Atwater were also forced to resign. Vice-president Bessel now became president and new elections made A. Rogers vice-president, E. Allen secretary, and I. Rakatansky treasurer. It seemed only to fire the rest of us to work harder.

J. Bessel took charge of a U.S.O. dance in Memorial Hall, which was very successful and has just been repeated, successfully again, under the sponsorship of the Trek Club. All the class dances, the Trek Club activities, and the Dramatic Club plays have been backed morally and financially by the student council. Plans for the annual New York trip were worked out but we were forced to discard them because of the war. The yearbook committee itself was formed months ago and with the help of many students throughout the school has compiled this book. In the midst of all this activity we decided to purchase student council keys for all members, believing that we were working hard enough to deserve some recognition.

Now, as this article is being written, a whole series of new plans, mostly related to defense, are being either discussed or actually started. One project is a bi-weekly news sheet which E. Allen and a committee are starting, and will distribute free to each student. Miss Allen and her committee are enthusiastic about the paper and plans seem to be working out well. It is hoped that once the paper is started, many students will take an interest in helping to bring it out. It is also planned to hire the Hodgman Pool one day a week so that the increasingly frequent attacks of spring fever felt by the student body may be cured by cold water. The defense activities are varied. A defense stamp drive, as already started in many schools, has been mapped out. A forum with three guest speakers has been suggested for an assembly to help enlighten our minds on some of the complicated aspects of the war. First aid for school air raid wardens and more courses open to all of us have been recommended. A list of the addresses of R. I. S. D. boys in the service is to be posted, in the hopes that they will be flooded with letters from the students.

Our job is not over for the year, but the yearbook must go to press, and this must stand as a complete report.

It is up to you, whether or not in future years we function well or exist at all. Being your representatives, if we are not backed, desired and advised by you, we have no reason for existence. We thank you greatly for the help you have given us this year.

A. R.

THE RHODE ISLAND SCHOOL OF DESIGN'S PART IN NATIONAL DEFENSE

AS ARE NEARLY ALL groups and organizations, the Rhode Island School of Design is co-operating in the national defense effort. The school is fortunate in having the advantage of a great amount of talent which can be and is being turned into defense channels.

At present the school is conducting an extensive defense training program. This program is under the direction of Rudolph E. Griffin, head of the Department of Mechanical Design.

On June 17, 1940, classes in Machine Tool Operation were opened for both day and evening schedules. On July 1, 1940, this training work was subsidized by the Federal Government and was incorporated into a national training program. This work has been continued and expanded extensively. At present there are two classes supplementary to the Day School being conducted in machine tool operation. Over five hundred trainees have received instruction in this work. The majority of this group have been placed in industry.

In addition several new supplementary courses have been instituted at the school having to do directly or indirectly with defense. There is a course in Camouflage under the direction of Mr. Creer and Mr. Woolman given in the Architectural Department. The course follows closely methods developed by the United States Army for military camouflage by confusion concealment, lighting and painting as applied to models and drawings of various types of buildings.

A course in Shelter, also taught by Mr. Creer and Mr. Woolman, covers both civilian and building protection and the preparation of map data giving locations of all types of shelter.

A class in Map-Making, under the direction of Mr. Hurd, Mr. Mast, and Mr. Swindell, is conducted in the Mechanics Department. It embraces profile, contour, culture, relief, and projection type maps, map and chart reading and construction.

Radio Telegraphy, under Mr. Almfeldt, is a course in fundamental radio principles, station operation, message handling and laws governing amateur operation, with special stress on copying and sending International Morse Code.

A Civilian Pilot Training course is also conducted. At present there are eleven men studying under the supervision of Stanley H. Haste. Navigation, meteorology, the necessary mathematics, and map reading constitute part of the curriculum. All the students enrolled are pledged to enlist in some branch of the armed forces at the conclusion of the course.

In addition to these courses there are many extra-curricular activities supported entirely by volunteer workers. There is a First Aid Course, a Sewing and Knitting Group working in conjunction with the Red Cross, and a Books and Periodicals Committee organized to obtain interesting reading material for Army and Navy Centers. A Ways and Means Committee plans ways of raising money to finance the various defense groups. Raffles, dances, and similar entertainments are being conducted for this purpose.

The Rhode Island School of Design has also contributed materially to the personnel of the armed forces of our country. To the Army have gone Evald Albrektson, Maynard Bennett, Armando Cinami, Peter Ferrante, Dennis Izzi, Charles Jarret, Richard Martin, Elliot Plummer, Stanley Rames, and Karl Rittman. In Army Ordnance are Hugo Jarret and Victor Russillo.

To the Army Air Corps have gone David Atwater, Donald Bamford, Frederick Bedford, Warner Dickey, Grant Essex, James Foster, Kenneth Hindersinn, Lynn Howick, Carl Johnson, Steve Karas, Frederick Leigh, Robert Mancini, Frederick McCloskey, Stephen Moore, Richard Mullin, Clinton Sperry and Felix Wywal.

In the Naval Air Corps are Paul Babel, Roger Byrne, Henry Palmer, and Kurt Schoenthaler. Theodore Halpern is taking part in Civilian Defense at La Guardia Airport, while Edward Worth is in the Naval Militia. Raymond Lacombe is seeing active duty with the Royal Canadian Air Force.

This glance into the defense activities at the School of Design is necessarily only a surface appraisal. Plans have been laid to further the development of all of these defense activities. We know that, if everyone shows the co-operation being shown at the School, our efforts in this emergency will end in a complete victory.

COUNCIL SPONSORED ASSEMBLIES

ABOUT THE MIDDLE of the year, the student council accepted Dean Vaughan's proposal to take over a group of assemblies. These assemblies were put under the direction of a committee headed by Ira Rakatansky.

The first Wednesday was devoted to making clear the policies and activities of the Student Council, and to the advertising of the Trek Club Carnival. H. Tikotsky, who was resigning as president of the Student Council, introduced Jack Bessel, the new president. Bessel then gave full information about Council activities and plans for the future. Virginia Barnbrook gave a short talk on the Trek Club Carnival, which was followed by an excellent movie on skiing.

The R. I. S. D. Dramatic Club took over the next assembly and gave two short, one-act plays. They are written up in the article about the Dramatic Club, so only the enthusiasm of the student body with the quality of dramatic talent shown need be mentioned here.

The third assembly was a brain twisting quiz program, under the direction of C. Lunsford. Mr. Benson, Mr. Hurd, Mr. Wilson, and Mr. Cannon were put on the spot by Janet Beauregard, mistress of ceremonies. The "victims" behaved admirably and impressed us greatly with their intellectual powers.

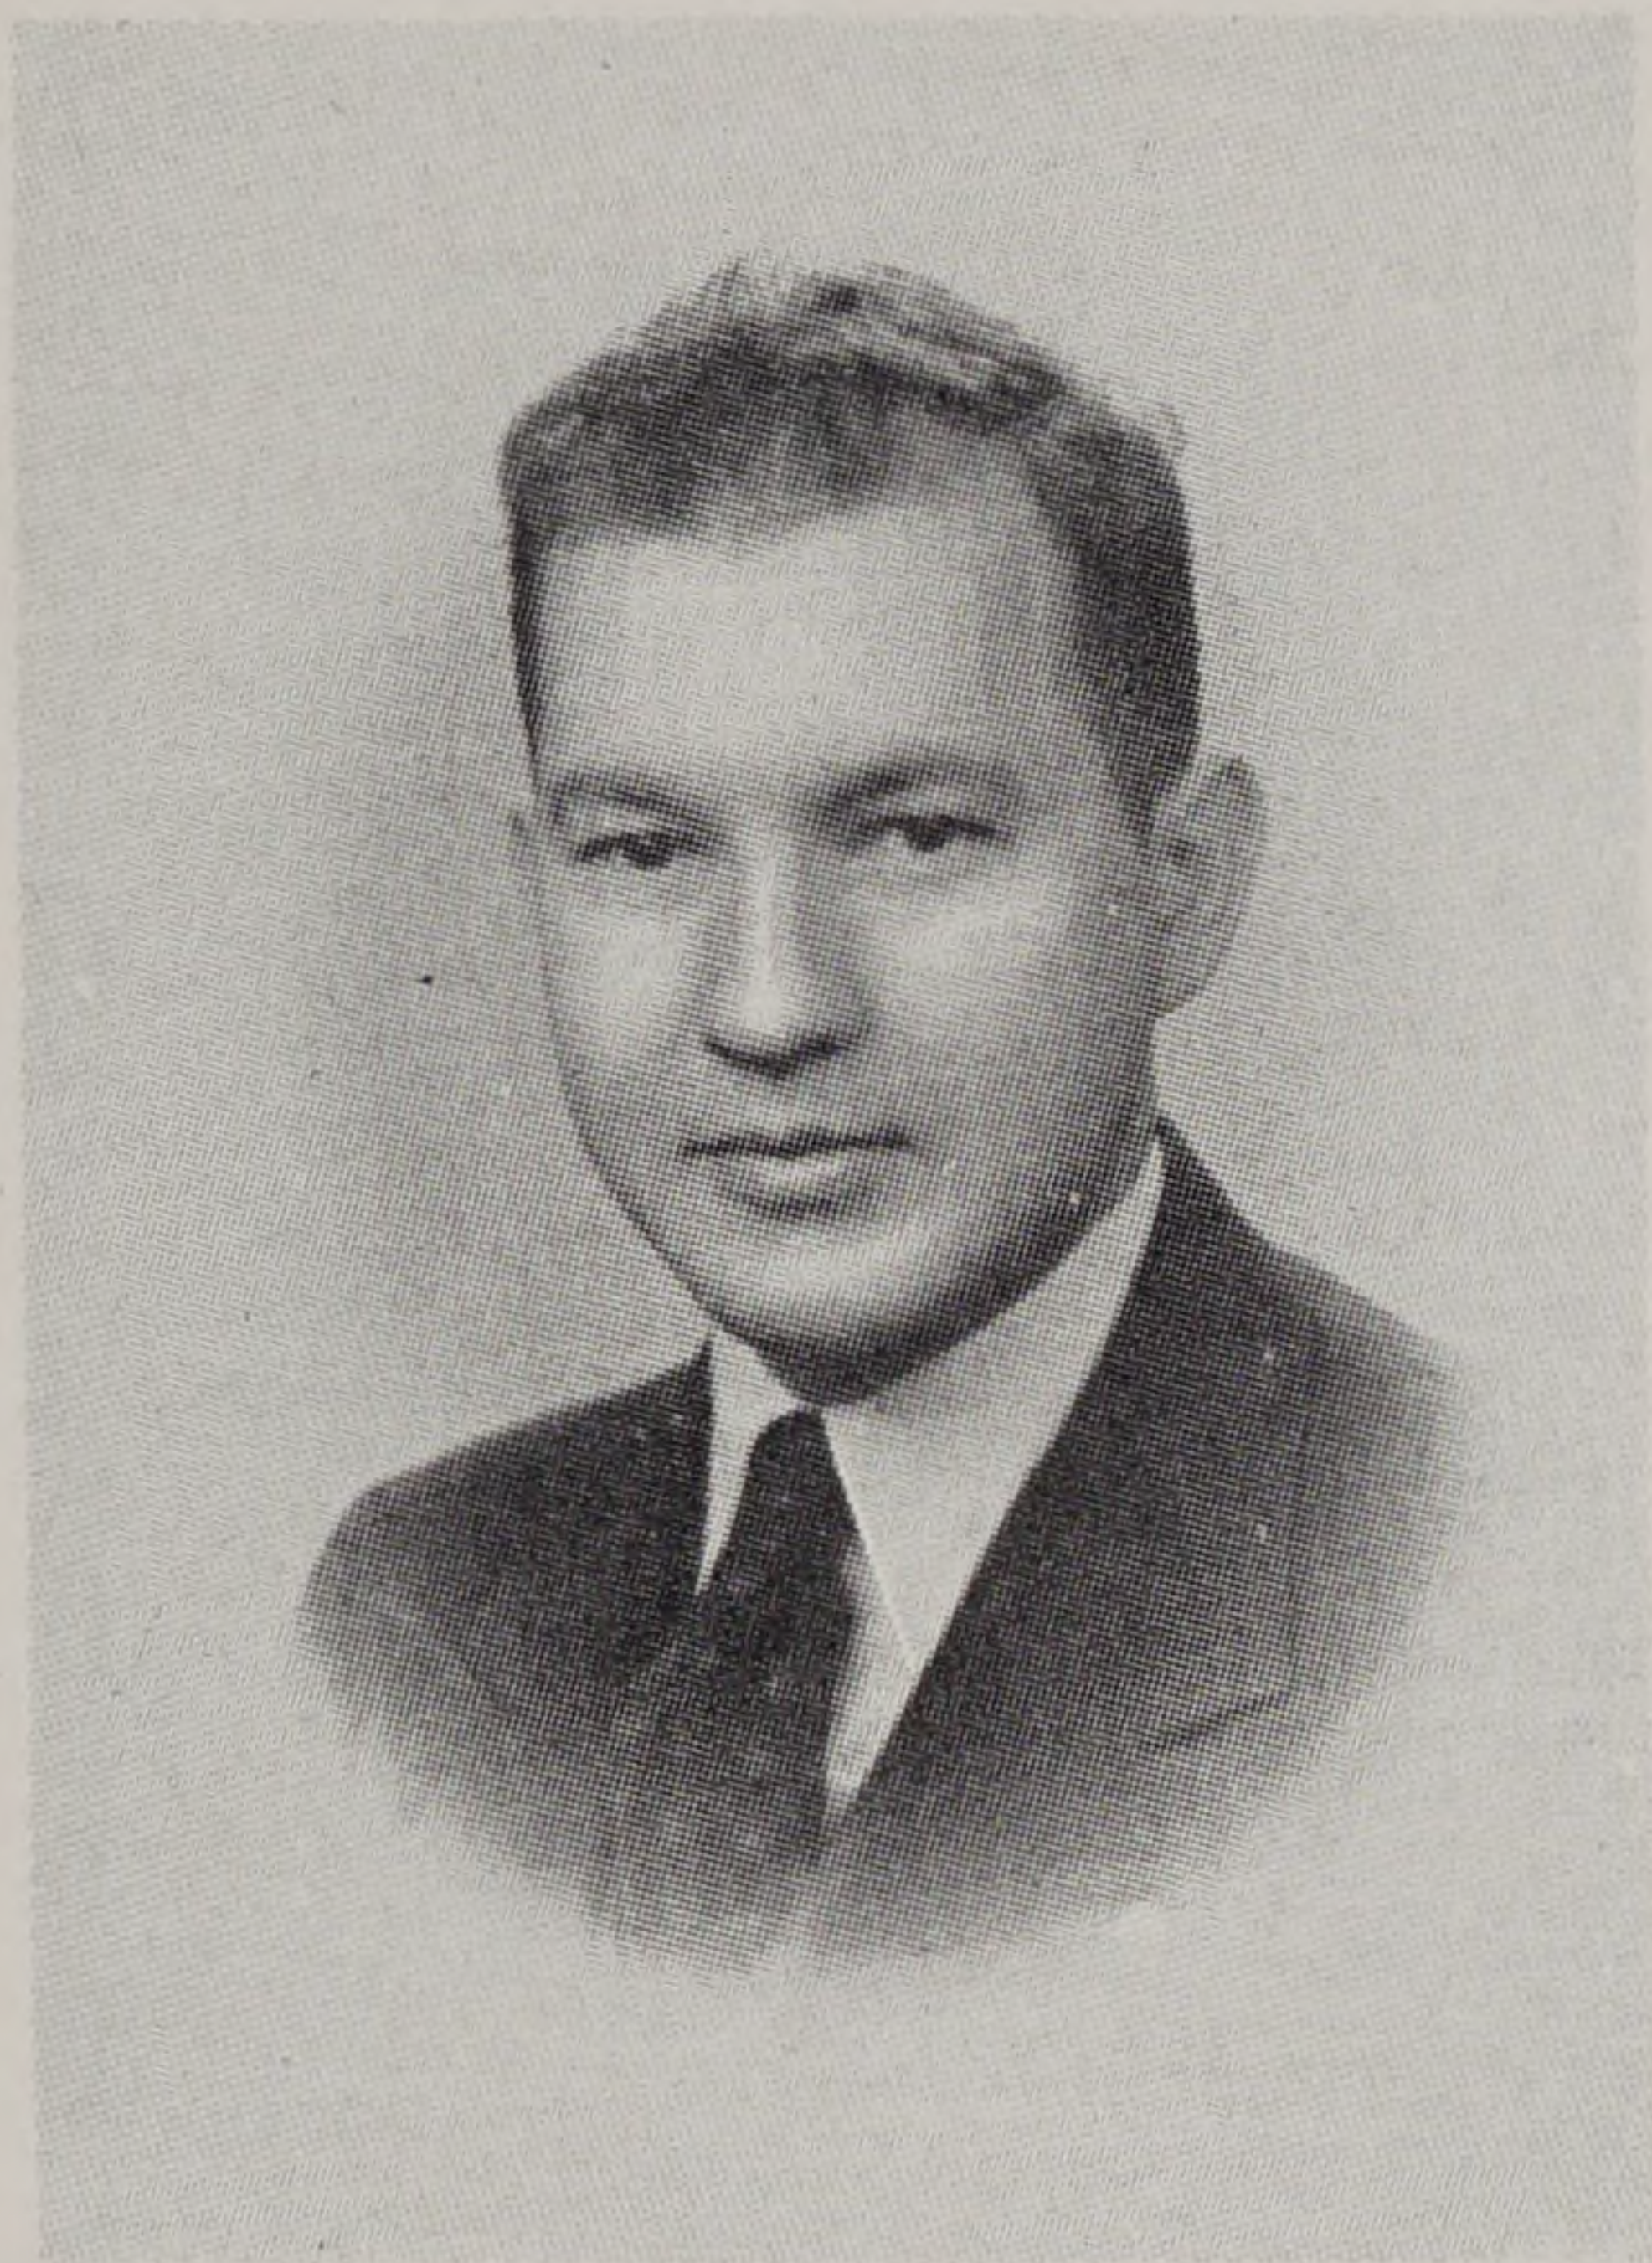

The last Wednesday gave us a hellzapoppin plus. It started with wise cracks through the microphone, with Bill Phinney as master of ceremonies, and proceeded to show us through one of the dizziest, craziest, funniest performances ever seen in R. I. S. D. We got an eyeful of everything from jazz bands, Bob Hathaway and George Barton, bicycles, and Bob Keane, to some beautiful lyrics sung by Irene Baksys. The audience was rolling in the aisles with laughter.

Ira Rakatansky and his committee are to be congratulated on an excellent series of programs.

SPECIALLY DISTINGUISHED

AMONG THE FACULTY and students, this year, a great many have distinguished themselves in the art field outside of school. There are so many that we can do no more than mention them here and probably this list is incomplete. They are, however, certainly deserving of high praise.

In October a show of younger R. I. artists was sponsored by John Fontaine, Richard Gabel and Albert Blythe, the two former being graduates of R. I. S. D. Some older artists in the show by invitation included several faculty members, John R. Frazier, Stephen Macomber, Gerald Mast, Blanchard Brown, Milo Winter and Frederick Sisson.

The beginning of the new year saw a show at the Art Club in which William C. Loring and both Mr. and Mrs. John R. Frazier participated. During January and February the Art Club had an exhibition of sculpture in which John Howard Benson, head of our sculpture department, Waldemar Raemisch, a faculty member, Gilbert Franklin and Robert Winthrop, two advanced students, all took part. On February 17th the Art Club opened another exhibition in which Philip D. Creer, head of our architectural department, was one of the exhibitors.

In March, the Providence Water Color Club showed the work of four faculty members: Edna Lawrence, Gladys Wilkins, Dorothy Holt, and Anna Carmody.

The Art Club did not, however, have a monopoly on the work of our faculty and students. Milo K. Winter had an excellent one man show in the Faunce House Gallery. The Biltmore sponsored a mural contest in which Stella Bradford, a senior at R. I. S. D., carried off the top honors, while Michael Knott and Rhoades Wright received second and third prizes respectively.

As the year comes to an end and we look back at such an impressive record, we feel that, in honors as well as in work, the winter has been a full one.

DORMITORY STUDENT COUNCIL

THE DORMITORY STUDENT COUNCIL is an organization maintained by a student-elected group in the interest of the dormitory residents. Its purpose is to create co-operation and a friendly feeling among the students, to make and enforce laws of the constitution, and to promote the social activities which take place within the dormitories. Representatives are elected in each house by the students of the individual houses and all seniors are automatically members. This group constitutes the dormitory council and they in turn elect from the group an executive committee of five. Within this executive committee the officers are elected. This year's officers are Elinor M. Wightman, President; Esther K. Dudley, Vice-President; Marie T. Pero, Secretary; Jeanette A. Girard, Treasurer.

THE JUNIOR DIVISION OF THE EASTERN ARTS ASSOCIATION

THE JUNIOR EASTERN ARTS chapter at the Rhode Island School of Design is composed mainly of members of the Art Education Department although students of all other departments in the school are invited to join. Bi-monthly meetings are held. One of these is a business meeting followed by a lecture or demonstration on some subject interesting to art students. The second monthly meeting is devoted to social activities. An annual fee of one dollar covers the Association dues and various expenses of the social meetings.

This year's officers are as follows: President, Jean Hoxie; Vice-President, Esther Dudley; Recording Secretary, Rosaline Braga; Corresponding Secretary, Mary Gallopin; Treasurer, Irene Larson; Delegate, Virginia M. Spargo.

Each year, usually in New York, the Eastern Arts Association which includes the Junior Division holds a convention attended by representatives of many Eastern schools of art and colleges. In the past three years the Rhode Island School of Design has been represented.

THE SENIOR CLASS

OUR CLASS blew in with the hurricane of 1938. . . . On September 21, we were taking exams in the top floor of the Waterman Street Building. Towards the end of the afternoon the storm got so bad that Mr. Brown told us—amidst the sound of crashing trees, sirens, and the rattling of the roof—that we should leave and that there wouldn't be any school for a while. That gave us an extra week of vacation but we were glad to get to school and settle down to work when that week was over.

Soon after the beginning of school the Sophomore class held a reception in our honor. As we went in the door of Memorial Hall, we were handed a list of instructions in regard to our week of hazing . . . and we were hazed in style! The girls wore make-up on only one side of their faces, and put large bows in their hair; the boys had to wear paper bag hats and roll one pants leg up. During that week we elected our class officers for the year. They were: President, H. Tikotsky; Vice-president, A. Adams; Secretary, S. Brodeur; and Treasurer, R. Furbush.

Our dance that year was a good one—the Tropical Trot. The decorations were palm trees, monkeys and balloons. To add to the jungle feeling, Phyllis Lord did a dance in a grass skirt during the intermission. The last big event of the year was the Beaux Arts Ball—an affair well to be remembered!

We had elections early in our Sophomore year and Tikotsky, Brodeur and Adams were all re-elected. Doris Richardson was elected Treasurer.

That year it was our turn to haze the Freshmen—we started them off with a good reception at which we had tea and dancing, both of which they seemed to enjoy. Since we remembered how foolish we had been made to feel, but what fun it had been, we gathered up the best ideas suggested by the class and settled down to haze the Freshmen thoroughly. The girls had to wear boys' garters to hold up their ankle socks and had to wear one silk stocking and earrings.

R. I. S. D. 1942

It was in the Spring of that year that the Cranberry Hill Farm was opened and we spent many happy Saturday afternoons there. That year our dance was called An Arabian Night—we had a genii on the stage, an Arabian atmosphere, a good crowd and a lot of fun.

In our Junior year, Tikotsky was re-elected again; Evald Erikson was elected Vice-president; and the other officers remained the same — Brodeur, Secretary, and Richardson, Treasurer. Freshman hazing was discontinued but our class again gave them their reception at the farm.

The Antarctic was the inspiration for our dance last year. Memorial Hall looked very gay and sparkling with snowflakes around the walls and behind the orchestra. The new auditorium was completed and opened. One of the first performances in it was the big pageant in which all the school participated. The student body felt the need for a Student Council so one was formed. The first chairman of the Student Council was our class President, Tikotsky. The Juniors and Seniors decided to combine their proms and the result, in spite of rain, was a fine affair. It was held at the Agawam Hunt in Seekonk and was very successful. We left the Junior year well satisfied with our achievements.

Our Senior year started with the re-election of Tikotsky, President, and Brodeur, Secretary. New officers were R. Keane, Vice-President, and Helen Ballou, Treasurer. Tikotsky was re-elected President of the Student Council, so Keane took over the Presidency of the class.

We ran our dance this year in the interest of defense. Each couple bought two defense stamps as they came in the door. The decorations were patriotic. At the time this is being written, we have already made plans for our Junior-Senior prom which will again be held at the Agawam Hunt.

To those classes who are to follow us, we wish you as profitable and as happy a four years as we have had. S. B.

THE DRAMATIC CLUB

THE DRAMATIC CLUB of the school was formed last September and weekly meetings were held in the Green Room of the Auditorium. The group investigated and read aloud several one-act plays and decided to present "Jacob Comes Home," by William Kazlenko, at a student assembly program. The play was presented on February 11 along with an original radio play written by Eliot Finkels, one of the dramatic club members.

The club was newly organized in the middle of the year and its officers at present are President, Eleanor Allen; Vice-President, Eliot Finkels; Secretary, Louise Muscente; Treasurer, Barbara Eastman.

The Dramatic Club is made up not only of those aspiring to act, but also of those who are interested in stagecraft, lighting, theatrical make-up and various other aspects of the theatre that make it an interesting venture.

The group is now working on a three-act play which they hope to present this spring and the club feels sure that it will be successful because each member regards his part in the production as a serious effort which deserves only the best that he can give.

Any who are interested in Dramatics as an extra-curricular activity are welcome to join the club any Thursday afternoon in the Green Room of the Auditorium.

THE JUNIOR CLASS

WHEN THE MEMBERS of the class of 1943 entered the Rhode Island School of Design as Freshmen, they were invited by the Sophomores to a reception in Memorial Hall on October 17, 1939. The class officers elected that year were Henry Palmer, President; Barbara Hill, Vice-President; Betty Stratton, Secretary; and Robert Mancini, Treasurer. Later in the fall of that year, members of the class were invited to Mr. Sisson's summer home for a picnic. On March 15, the class of '43 held its first annual dance, called the Mariner's Mirage. The decorating committee included Wallace McTammany, Virginia Williams, Marjorie Wicks, James Foster, Frederick Gantnier, Barbara Hill, James MacDonald, Joseph Carpenter, Clinton Sperry, and Robert Haigh.

In the Fall of 1940 the class returned to the school as Sophomores. A class meeting was held and the following students were elected for that year: Henry Palmer, President; Henry Budlong, Vice-President; Barbara Hill, Treasurer; and Millard Levye, Secretary. On January 19, 1941 two hundred couples attended the annual dance conducted by the Sophomore class. The Horror Hop was its title. Gardner Leaver headed the Dance Committee and many people helped with the Decorations. Clinton Sperry, Joseph Carpenter, and John Cashman made up the Advertising Committee. The Dedication of the school's new auditorium was held on April 18 of that year and numerous members of the class took part in the ceremonies. The members of the entire student body held a picnic sponsored by the members of the Student Council at the Rhode Island School of Design's Cranberry Hill Farm on May 12. Both students and faculty were invited.

This year Henry Palmer was again elected President but when he left for the Army, Henry Budlong took his place and Gordon Dalton was elected Vice-President. Other officers are Secretary, Gardner Leaver; Treasurer, Eleanor Allen. The Junior dance called the Spring Fling was held on Friday, March 20. Approximately one hundred couples attended.

THE SOPHOMORE CLASS

BRIGHT SUNSHINE and healthy appetites were the order of the day in September of our freshman year, when we assembled at Cranberry Hill farm for our first get-together. Soon after, classes began and we were to enjoy the benefits of a newly instituted system in the drawing department. Formerly each teacher was confined to one division, but this year the combined efforts of four teachers were devoted to each group.

Once the students had become acquainted, elections were held. Frederick B. Scudder was elected president; Granville Gates, vice-president; Raymond Hasell, secretary; and Barnes Newbury, treasurer. Instead of the usual class dance, we climaxed our social season that year with a Splash Party at Hodgman Pool.

Back at school as Sophomores, we held elections again. This year the officers were: John Armstrong, president; Marjorie Lang, vice-president; William Mahoney, secretary; and David Duncan, treasurer.

Our Sophomore dance held in April brought this school year to a successful end.

THE FRESHMAN CLASS

THE FRESHMAN CLASS got off to a lively start with the Freshman outing held at the farm soon after school opened. It proved a great success. Before long, everyone had become acquainted and was engaged in some activity such as baseball, football, hiking, dancing, or ping-pong. When noon rolled around, picnic lunches were brought out and Coca-Cola and ice cream were served. After a busy afternoon, the weary Freshmen and their upper classmen hosts climbed into buses and returned to school. All agreed that their first encounter with the extra-curricular activities of the school had been most enjoyable.

Early the following week, classes began. It was with a sense of adventure that the students set to work on subjects which were to be the foundation for the careers they someday hoped to follow.

After several weeks came the problem of electing class officers. With due deliberation, the elections were held and the successful candidates took over their new duties.

Deciding to start the school social season rolling, the Freshmen, late in November, made plans for a formal dance. Enthusiastically backed by the other classes, the dance was held in the Crown Hotel with a record crowd of three hundred attending.

Soon after Christmas, mid-year exams were in order. These successfully hurdled, the class returned to normalcy. Now all are looking forward to the end of the school year and passing from foundation courses into those of specialization.

SURVEYING CAMP

SURVEYING

THE SURVEYING CAMP, held this year at the school farm in Foster, extended over a period of three weeks, from the first of September on. The group consisted of senior and junior architectural and mechanical students under the supervision of Donald W. Hurd, with Harold Rosé and Douglas Gardiner as assistant instructors.

R. I. S. D. 1942

Regular classes were held in the morning, afternoon and evening. A cook was employed but all helped to gather firewood and wash dishes. A schedule was followed which divided the work equally among all at camp. Sleeping quarters were upstairs in the large main room and downstairs in one of the smaller rooms off the dining room. Sleeping quarters for the staff were in another building separate from the main farmhouse.

Each morning the camp got under way and was ready for classes at nine o'clock. The basic training took place in the main dining room and later, outside in the yard. This was followed by practice drills in the field before the actual surveys were attempted. When everyone had mastered the fundamentals of surveying, groups set out to survey sections of the farm. However, before the actual sights could be taken much hard work was expended on clearing paths in the woods in order to sight through the instruments.

During these three weeks a survey was made of the woodlot. As a result of this survey, it was discovered that the school owned an additional seventy-five acres, which had not been shown in the original grant. The trail to the lake was also surveyed and topographical maps were made. A proposed ski trail, skating rink and swimming pool were surveyed.

Recall from surveying for the day, came at five-thirty. After dinner was served and the dishes finished, the evening was spent in drawing maps or studying problems in surveying which would be practiced in the field next day. Snacks were served near the open fireplace, at about ten-thirty, after all work was finished. The camp day ended at eleven o'clock.

The final class of the year, ended with a frankfurt roast at the Hall's out door fire-place. The final meal at the camp was a chicken dinner prepared by Stanley Rogers, who did an excellent job of cooking during our camping trip.

Towards the end of the third week, a very low supply of water threatened to discourage us, but failed to do so. On the whole the surveying camp proved to be a big success. Each member felt that his three weeks in the woods was certainly worth while.

TREK CLUB

IN THE FALL of 1940, a group of students and Mr. Ferry met to organize an outing club which would give students a chance to meet one another in the informal surroundings of the newly acquired farm. They called themselves the Trek Club and met every week or two during the school year. As soon as other students heard about the idea, the membership grew by leaps and bounds.

After mid-years they sponsored a Winter Carnival at the farm, which was a great success. This year the tradition was expanded to include the Senior dance. The Carnival Queen, this year Betty Lambrichts, was chosen Friday evening at the dance instead of at the Farm as before. Another addition to the Carnival Weekend was square dancing at the Moosup Valley Grange Hall. Everyone enjoyed the violent exercise so much that there have been requests for a repeat performance.

This year, besides spending several Sundays at the farm, the Club sponsored a Sadie Hawkins Day party with an amusing skit by the Mighty Little Art Players as the feature of the evening, an informal dance for members on the stage of the new Auditorium, and a dance in Memorial Hall for thirty servicemen from the Sixth Corps.

As this is being written, there are plans for a skiing weekend in Intervale, New Hampshire, a swimming party, and another square dance, this time in Memorial Hall.

This year the Club had a fairly large membership list of seventy. Officers elected in the fall were: President, Virginia Barnbrook; Vice-President, David Atwater; Secretary, William Phinney; and Treasurer, Walter Long. At mid-years, the Vice-President and Secretary left to join the Army Air Corps. Peter Kitchell and Jean de Rocha were elected to take their respective places.

The Club, although young, has shown an exceptional interest in its many and varied activities. It shows every indication of being a continued success.
