Jury Terms High School Fire Hazard

Lives of Children Are Endangered Final Report Says

The Morehead High School was branded as a fire hazard by the Rowan County grand jury in its final report. The jury termed the building an over-crowded, pointed out that there were no fire escapes and only a three-quarter inch water line around the building.

"It is our belief," the jury said, "that the lives of many children are endangered by the Morehead High School."

The grand jury, which returned 79 true bills, included those statements in their three page report to Circuit Judge John J. Winn:

(1) There is evidence that there is considerable moonshining in Rowan County, and local option laws should be more rigidly enforced.

(2) The court house is in apparent good condition and well maintained but the vault in the County Clerk's office should be discontinued to care for important records.

(3) Beds and bedding are needed in the county jail and the facilities there are poor. The jury also recommended better facilities for separating men and women prisoners.

(4) The city jail is not kept clean and additional beds and bedding are needed there.

(5) Waste is being dumped by the County Superintendent's office at the rear of the building and this practice should be discontinued.

(6) Recommended discontinuance of the boulevard from Main Street to the College Boulevard, which is a hazard and eye-sore to the city.

(7) Some vacant lots in Morehead are being used for garbage and refuse.

(8) Recommend that the Board of Health require merchants and vendors of food to post the health and sanitation rating given them so that the public may know when a place is not properly maintained.

Hog Curing Canning To Be Discussed

The Home Demonstration Agent and County Agricultural Agent are cooperating with the county schools have planned a pork curing and canning demonstration at the Morehead High School gymnasium Thursday afternoon, December 12, at 1:30 p. m.

Mrs. Evelyn Sinclair, Home Demonstration Agent, will show how to can pork with a pressure cooker. This method of canning is the only safe way to can meat. The quart pressure canner is available to all Rowan County farmers who wish to use it. The county has loaned five for the period of one week and Mrs. Sinclair will show the farm family how to operate the canner. Mr. Grady Sellards, hog specialist from the University, will demonstrate how to butcher a hog under farm conditions and will show how to cure the meat so that it will not spoil and be at its peak in flavor.

Last year several Morehead residents lost their meat because they purchased packing house hams and attempted to cure them. Meat that has been kept in cold storage for several days will not take salt and it is almost sure to spoil.

The County Agent, Dan Brame, will demonstrate a bacon box and show how to make fancy sugar cured bacon. People who have used the recommended method of curing bacon reported that they have been able to cure bacon of better quality than any they have been able to buy. Men and women who are interested in putting up their own pork are invited to attend the demonstration.

THANKS TO EVERYONE
I wish to express my thanks to my friends and neighbors in this county and adjoining counties for the support they gave me during the contest given by the Rowan County News, which ended November 30th. My Christmas greeting isn't new, but I'll never tire of wishing you all a Joyous Holiday Season.

Court Rejects Fyffe Plea For New Trial

Elliott Countian Plans Appeal From Life Sentence In Mason Case

The motion and grounds for a new trial filed by Matthew Fyffe, given a life sentence for the murder of Ida Mason, was denied today by Circuit Judge John Winn, and his attorneys announced they would appeal to the Kentucky Court of Appeals.

Thus the second conviction of the Elliott Countian is following the same channels as the first life sentence received. Following that he spent nearly six months at Leitchmere before the Court of Appeals reversed the jury verdict.

Under the life sentence conviction Fyffe is not eligible for parole until the expiration of life. He may elect to remain in the Rowan County jail or go to the state reformatory. In the latter case, the time spent will be counted on his "time" should the Court of Appeals uphold the Circuit Court verdict.

Fyffe, former WPA executive, was charged with murdering Miss Mason at the Rouben Crossing, one mile east of Morehead, on July 19, 1936.

Other cases disposed of in Circuit Court during the week included:

James Moore, having liquor in possession in local option territory, hung jury, continued to March term.

Morris Kessler, $50 and costs, on a plea of guilty to assault with a deadly weapon.

Henderson Pultz, assault and battery on the Lane pond, was acquitted.

Hubert Florence, charged with murder of Charles Stephens, a companion on a fishing trip in the Lane pond, was found not guilty, and a charge of carrying concealed a deadly weapon was filed away. Henderson and his wife, the eyewitnesses, testified the gun went off accidentally while the two men were struggling for it.

Orville Cecil, charged with robbing Andy Lambert, was given a 10 year sentence.

Travis Anderson, charged with a plea of guilty to stealing an automobile and was sentenced to one year. He was charged with stealing a car at a meeting, deputy state banking commissioner.

Bill Cochran, Johnny Lane and Kenneth Lacey pled guilty to breaking into the store of Lester Caskey at Rouben and were given one year sentences.

Hope Held That Dams Are Halted

Covington Group Withdraws Support For High Power Structures

Optimism was expressed here today by Attorney John Adair Richards of Covington, and President of the Licking River Valley Protective Association that "State will veto the dams."

Richards, who waged an unrelenting battle against the dam construction, said that he believed the government would withdraw its plans for high power dams which would inundate the Licking basin in favor of a low-power run-of-river type of dam, at Falmouth.

Richards said that the delegation of some 400 persons who went to Covington Monday to protest the construction made a fine impression, and we believe will result in the inadvisability of building these dams which would ruin all the counties along the river."

"The Kenton County and Covington Chamber of Commerce, which were among the leading proponents for the construction of the dams have withdrawn their efforts and have notified the government that they favor a low, flood control dam at Falmouth instead," Richards declared.

When we can convince an organization of this type that the construction of the dam is bad for the state of Kentucky, we're on the first step of victory, he stated.

In an hour long impassioned plea against the dams Richards told the Army Engineers at the open meeting that at least six counties would be completely ruined. Others who protested the construction at the Covington meeting were Representatives of the Highway Department, the Kentucky Utilities, the Daniel Walton League and the Department of Conservation.

Joe B. Bates, who was present at the hearing told the army engineers he would vote in Congress to gain the construction of "dams that will ruin some of the finest farming land in the world."

County Judge Luther Bradley recommended Rowan at the hearings and said that the construction would mean financial ruin for his county. He pointed out that more than 18 per cent of the tillable land in Rowan County would be overflowed, and the dam would inundate 200 acres of Rowan County land.

New Ambulance Purchased By Clark Lane

The 74th Cadillac Ambulance delivered in the United States since war, has been received by the Lane Funeral Home. The ambulance representing the latest construction yesterday on display on the lawn of the Lane Funeral Home all day Saturday.

It is termed "America's Finest Ambulance" and has a Motor Body. Mr. Lane said that he had placed his order for the ambulance two years ago so that his establishment might get one of the first that came from the assembly lines.

The 'Pay-off' In News Campaign

Mrs. Bill Carter is being handed the keys to the new 1946 Hudson Super-Six automobile, which she received as first prize winner in the News big subscription contest. The keys are being presented by S. J. Linger who conducted the campaign.

Although they couldn't all win first prize every contestant in the Rowan County News subscription campaign was amply rewarded. Here they are after the judges announced the final decision. From the left: Mrs. E. E. Elam, Versie Hamm (father of little Miss Shelia Hamm), Kenneth Lewis, Mrs. 'Flo' Amberg, Mrs. S. T. Branham, Mrs. Muri Gregory and Mrs. Bill Carter.

Rowan Girl, Shot Twice, Near Death

Alleged Assailant Is At Large; Shooting Happened Near Sharkey

The condition of Katherine Black, 22, of Tar Fleeck near Sharkey, remained critical today, while physicians at the St. Joseph Hospital at Lexington gave the girl a little chance for recovery.

Ernest Walker, 30, who married Miss Black's sister, remained at large. He is charged with firing two shots from a 38 calibre gun into the girl's back as she fled from him after resisting his advances.

Sheriff Sam Green said the girl told the story of the shooting before she lapsed into unconsciousness. The bullets entered her spine near the back of the neck and about mid-way down the back, either of which could be fatal.

After the shooting Wallace had Joe Milbrain of the same neighborhood take him to Lexington. He told Milbrain that his sister was ill at hazard and asked him to drive him to Morehead. Milbrain is being held in jail. (Continued on Page Five)

1st Factory Built Home Is Erected

Modern, Conventional-Type Dwelling Erected Here In 80 Hours

The first factory-built home ever constructed in Rowan County was erected with less than 80 hours of labor, and is now open to inspection by the public. The home, installed by a Morehead company that is selling throughout Eastern Kentucky, is located on 2nd Street, next to the Consolidated School.

Inspector Ed Walker of Detroit, who came here this week to make the final inspection on the home said it was the finest type of home he had ever seen of this type of home he had no worries over its construction," Mr. Walker said.

The homes are now being sold by the Morehead company headed by William S. Allen, Clifford Blevins and Kenneth Bays. They are expected to solve many of the local housing shortages.

The homes may be purchased through the FHA where 10 per cent may be saved. Mr. Walker said. He pointed out that these houses are not what is generally termed pre-fabricated but are more of the conventional type.

Homemakers Organize Club At Farmers

A Homemakers Club was formed at Farmers November 26, with Mrs. Evelyn Sinclair, Home Demonstration Agent supervising the organization.

Officers elected are: Mrs. Dana May Myhrer, president; Mrs. Gertrude Gullet, vice-president; Mrs. Mayne Lowe, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Forest Bays, historian; Mrs. Hobart Johnson, program supervisor; and Mrs. Ruby Moore, club news reporter.

The next meeting will be held for the Christmas holidays. Under the present sales schedule of three and a half hours daily, more than 25,000,000 could be sold before Christmas.

Prize Automobile In News Campaign Won By Mrs. Bill Carter

Mrs. Muri Gregory Of Clearfield Wins $500 Cash; Others Get Bonus; Advertisers—Public Are Benefitted

THANKS EVERYBODY

May I take this means an opportunity to thank my innumerable friends for their loyal support in helping me win that beautiful new Hudson Super-Six automobile, grand cash prize, awarded last Saturday afternoon by the Rowan County News. I gain, to each of you, please accept my most sincere thanks.

Mrs. Bill Carter

I THANK YOU

I wish to thank each and every one of you who so graciously backed me up with votes and $500.00 cash prize in the Rowan County News' contest, recently concluded.

Mrs. Muri Gregory

Crowing six and a half weeks of intense public interest and strenuous efforts on the part of contestants in The Rowan County News' great "Everybody Wins" prize subscription contest, the race ended in a brilliant race last Saturday afternoon.

By massing the tremendous total of more than twelve million votes, Mrs. Bill Carter of this county secured a brilliant race and came in second with thousands—finished first by a substantial margin and was awarded "then and there on the spot" that beautiful new two-tone blue 1946 Hudson Super-Six automobile, worth $1,720.43, offered as grand prize.

With over nine million votes to her credit, Mrs. Muri Gregory of Clearfield—a well known teacher of Clearfield—finished first and came in second in $500.00 cash, second grand prize.

Mrs. T. J. Amberg, who is well and favorably known throughout this entire area, finished third with more than five million votes to her credit, closely followed by the charming Mrs. "Flo" Amberg of Haldeman, while literally scores of others were their supporters. Charles Roger Lewis and Little Miss Shelia Hamm, all of whom finished in the money and received big cash bonuses.

From every point of view the subscription drive just closed was a huge success. The race started off with a rush and forged ahead steadily each week at an unprecedented pace with the great goal steadily neared among contestants at all times.

It was an understood fact at the very beginning of the race that all everybody DID have an equal opportunity with others to win the coveted Hudson Super-Six automobile or the $500.00 cash prize and every participant DID win something fully commensurate with time and effort expended in the subscription. "Everybody Wins" prize contest.

Moreover, our present and prospective advertisers WON by having a vastly increased audience each week to read their announcements and offering in The Rowan County News—the newspaper that everybody DID have "everybody" in this entire area.

The general public WON by having complete coverage in its field of a strong, more virile newspaper—destined to become even stronger in the very near future.

And this newspaper WON to the same degree, as a result of the subscription drive just concluded by now having complete circulation coverage in its field thus enabling us to render greater service to readers and advertisers alike and in all matters pertaining to the betterment of this entire community.

To our new readers, and old ones as well, who are not yet in our patronage made this subscription drive the huge success it proved to be. We are grateful and indebted.

For the trust implied by advancing your subscription, we shall strive to serve you to the very best of our ability. One-half of contestants who participated in campaign and members of newspaper staff, we extend our most sincere thanks.

Awards were made by appointed judges, under rules announced at beginning of contest, according to signing statement below:

Eagles Play Texas A&M At Armory

Morehead High, Breck Also Will Be In Action During Week

All of Morehead's basketball teams will be in action during the week with the Morehead College Eagles embarking on their "big-time" schedule by meeting Texas A & M at the Armory in Louisville Tuesday.

The Eagles will meet Marshall at Huntington, W. Va. on Friday, December 13, Baldwin-Wallace at Cincinnati, O. on Wednesday, December 14, St. Ambrose at Davenport, Iowa on Tuesday, December 17, Duquesne at Louisville Friday, December 27 and Creighton at Louisville New Year's Day.

Morehead High, sporting the best club they have had in years, will meet Olive Hills 14 game winning streak. The Comets beat the Vikings 34-33 only after a hard-fought ball game. They lost the game in the third quarter when Olive Hill overcame a 17-12 half-time deficit. The Vikings rang up more field goals, but Olive Hill had control of the bankboards most of the time.

Coach Wiggins' squad, which will play tournament contests, will play Russell at the college gym Friday, Mt. Sterling at the college gym Saturday and Highland at the high school gym Tuesday.

Breckinridge Training School, showing improvement every ball game, easily vanquished Flemingsburg in its only game of the week. The Eagles go to Mt. Sterling Friday and Dayton Wednesday at Bellevue Thursday. Their next home game will be Winchester here December 18.

Funeral Services Conducted For John Jennings

Funeral services for John R. Jennings, 70, were held Tuesday morning in the Brown Cemetery.

Mr. Jennings was born January 3, 1876 and died November 30. He was the son of Z. T. Jennings and Susan Fannin Jennings who preceded him in death. Surviving his wife, Sara Belle Holbrook Jennings and three sisters, Mrs. Charles Clay Jacobs, Jr., Mrs. Mannie Seagraves, Portsmouth, O., and Mrs. Merida Adams, Olive Hill.

He was a veteran of the Spanish American War and was widely known in Rowan County having lived his home at one time with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hutchingson.

Over 3,000 Subscriber's

The circulation content of the Rowan County News, which closed Saturday, proved to be a truly "Everybody Wins" campaign.

Only one contestant could win the grand capital prize of a new Hudson automobile, but all were amply rewarded for their very fine efforts.

This newspaper now has more than 3,000 paid-in-advance subscribers, giving it the largest circulation of any publication in this section of the state.

This circulation means that this newspaper—which is your spokesman—will portray Morehead in hundreds of more homes.

The publishers are rightfully proud that the newspaper has been so well received by the public.

Already plans are underway to increase the size of the paper with many new features and wider news coverage. This heavy circulation, which is remarkable when it is considered that Rowan County has only 12,000 population, presents a challenge to this newspaper, which we shall meet by using our every resource to correctly portray the fine community that we serve.

The publishers thank the contestants for their unstinting work, and reiterate that we are sorry that it was impossible to award every one of them a new automobile.

We feel fortunate that we were able to procure the services of Mr. S. J. Limer, President of the Limer Circulation Service of Chicago, who ably conducted our campaign in a manner that left no question as to its complete honesty and integrity.

Morehead's 'Big-Time' Schedule

As expected there has been some home-town criticism over the fact that Morehead College's "big-time" basketball games this year will be played away from home—most of them in the Armory at Louisville.

Coach Ellis Johnson had anticipated this, and in announcing the schedule, which is the toughest ever attempted by Eagles, he explained that it was impossible to bring these big schools to Morehead because the seating capacity of the gymnasium here is not sufficient to permit crowds that would pay the necessary guarantees to such colleges as Texas A & M, Creighton and Arizona.

The playing floor at the Morehead gym is about as good as that to be found anywhere. But, the available seats are limited to something like 1,500, and when it is considered that the student body, who have activity tickets and should rightfully be given priority in the gym, there would not be sufficient space to sell to enable the college to break even.

To those local fans who seem to resent the fact that Morehead will play its big games away we might point out that the schedule of games to be played here is just about the same that has appeared in past years such as Eastern, Murray, Western, Marshall and others.

Morehead fans will have an opportunity to see as good teams as they have before, and the Eagles will, at the same time, have a schedule—even if it is away-from-home—that will give them an opportunity to make a name for themselves. We have felt that our basketball team has been underrated nationally for the plain reason that our schedule has not been tough enough.

This situation should more forcibly bring to mind our need of a new field-house or student union building on the Morehead campus. The college should make every effort at the next session of the legislature to secure this appropriation. And, if we do secure this needed structure, we dare say that crowds of four thousand or more will flock here to see games when Morehead meets "big-time" clubs, with a resultant publicity benefit, the value of which is almost incalculable.

Facts About Farms

About two-thirds of the sales of agricultural property in recent years have been made to owners-operators, according to Mr. E. C. Johnson, Deputy Land Bank Commissioner.

It is still important however, according to Mr. Johnson, to be alert to the dangers that speculation may develop further to "drive values to boom levels" and that "buyers should be cautious and lenders must hold mortgages to sound levels."

The Democrats Want New Leadership

"The people seem to have turned laterally away from the professional politician and are looking toward a new kind of political leader in whom statesmanship is a prime requisite and virtue," the Princeton Leader says in a three-column editorial announcing its support of the candidacy of Harry Lee Waterfield for Governor.

Mr. Waterfield is in the enviable position of having never been too closely aligned with any political faction, but his strength is his party has been so valuable that he was twice elected Speaker of the House without opposition.

There exists a pronounced and generally expressed sentiment that Congressman Earl Clements, who may throw his hat in the ring, is too closely aligned with the old crowd, and in particular with the Tom Ribas remnants.

To our mind Mr. Waterfield is slowly but surely forming a strong organization in every county without a great deal of effort on his part for there is a growing feeling that he is the "man" who can deliver the party to new standards.

As a past President and a popular member of the publishers of the state, Mr. Waterfield is almost certain to have vigorous support.

At a meeting of the Western Press Association he received unanimous endorsement, and the publishers there pledged that they would support him to the fullest extent editorially.

His qualifications as a leader are unchallenged and his business and public record will react favorably to the electorate.

He has been a stalwart in the House, where he has served five terms. He worked for increased pay and betterment of Kentucky's schools and colleges, and will undoubtedly receive powerful endorsements from this group.

Much can and will happen between now and August, but the present trend in Eastern Kentucky is definitely toward Mr. Waterfield. Week by week he is gaining stronger support, while there appears no endorsement from any group or from the people themselves to Mr. Clements or any other candidate.

Directed Snowfalls

The work of the scientist continues to amaze those of us who are not familiar with all the experiments they conduct in accordance with theoretical principles established.

Recently, the newspapers told of a three-mile cloud which was changed into snow at a 14,000-foot level. A small plane flying over the cloud, dispensed six pounds of dry ice pellets over the cloud, and "within two minutes" observers noted that "streams of snow began to pour out of the base of the cloud."

Practical applications of the project include the possibility that snow can be produced in regions where there is a lack of precipitation or where it is desired to have the snow rather than let it pile up in urban areas.

The day may be far off before man will attempt to steer snow clouds from undesirable areas, but the beginning has been made. Inasmuch as the advantages are believed to be worth the effort, it may be possible to make clouds to be snow wherever man wants a snowfall.

A Good Try

(WNU Service)

I have always liked Mrs. Bill Carter. I like her kids and somehow or other I have always been rather fond of Bill because I know he won't take the shirt off his back and give it to me or my other of his many friends.

But, my arder for the Carter family is coming off some and I'll tell you why. Mrs. Carter was in that new Hudson Super-Six automobile and she passed me like the queen of shebs with her nose inclined at a very stuck-up angle. If it ever rains with her eyes at that angle she will struggle.

But the subscription contest was a huge success. Editor Crutcher paid me back salary and then I had to go his note to say the Hudson and pay off the other contestants.

The way it ended up I figure I got $333.33 in back pay and sent his note for $2,222.22 to finance the campaign. We're letting the Citizens Bank do the worrying now.

I am amazed at the new stores that have gone into business here in the last few months. And, they're really offering fine merchandise.

Take the new appliance store, opened next to the Southern Belle which is run by Mammy Jayne. They have most everything in the way of refrigerators and radios.

The way ten cent store on Railroad Street, managed by Dwight Pierce, is equal to any store of its kind in Louisville or Cincinnati. Blair's store in the Masonic Building is something to look into. Harry Goldberg has a new store that is a credit to our community.

Then there is the new army surplus store which is owned, operated and completely controlled by Myrtle T. Flint. It is on Bishop Avenue across from the Bus Station. At one time she had 450 pairs of Army and Navy shoes, a hundred Army blankets, 200 pairs of drawers and an equal amount of undershirts, pants, coveralls, socks and canned salmon.

ROWAN COUNTY NEWS 3
 MOREHEAD, KENTUCKY
 Thursday, December 5, 1946

As the fire season comes to a close we turn our attention to the backlog of timber sales applications and other jobs neglected while fighting fires last year over all else. The demand for crosscut timber always picks up after the crops are laid by and the small farmers want a job to tide over the winter season. A number of "tie-hackers" are now expanding operations to cut and skid out logs for the little portable mills that have sprung up all over the county during the war years.

The Regional Office, Philadelphia, was well represented on the Red River District last week when Mr. Shields, chief of the Division of Operation, Mr. Correll, chief of Personnel, and Mr. Beck who heads up Fire Control, paid a visit to Morehead. Together with Supervisor Borden of Winchester they made an analysis of the work load here preparatory to possible organizational revision.

While the weather stayed dry we were nevertheless fortunate in having no forest fires to interrupt our work during their stay, for which I was duly thankful.

Came the cold snap last weekend and, with fingers crossed, I decided to try hog butchering.

Under the able supervision of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Hall we converted porker to hams, pork chops and other constituent parts on Saturday and luck played a long till Sunday afternoon when a fire broke on the North Fork of Licking River near Craney. While I was returning at midnight from that one Joe Mack and a crew of local lads, predominantly Mayhalls and Watsons, headed for another one in Bath County that kept them busy till breakfast time Monday.

These two, and I hope they are our last two for 1946, bring the year's total of 84 fires, which could have been much worse considering the dry fall and the unusually large number of hunters.

We still have some amount of salvage work to do in the timber stands of the District, removing fire-scarred and defective trees for the benefit of the healthier young growth, but much of this type of silviculture operation has been accomplished here in Rowan County during the past six or eight years. This means the yields of the immediate future from these young stands of timber must come from what is known as intermediate cuttings, the particularly dangerous. Such timber will be relatively small in size but good in quality, and the improvement in quality will continue as the stands develop under good management, protected from fire and destructive cutting.

It is a joy to see these fine young stands coming on—the thrifty pure stands of gray-barked white oak on the limestone benches facing coming generations; the tall slim poplars in the coves and the fragrant-smelling stands of pine on the uplands—timber for the homes of the future. As you walk through the forest and see the leaf litter piling up and the rich black humus getting deeper each year as the overhead canopy of emerald green closes in, and know that thousands of acres are coming back into their own you feel that there is your reward for sleepless nights and much acry. You feel, too, that if everyone could have the opportunity of witnessing this marvelous handiwork of nature, all forest land would begin to get this sort of protection and treatment.

Juvenile Delinquency Is Explained by Dr. H. A. Carey

The formation of gangs, which has greatly increased in the past decade, is one of the principle reasons for the great increase in juvenile delinquency, in the opinion of Dr. Henry A. Carey, Professor of Sociology at Morehead College.

"These gangs are formed to seek new amusements. The old forms of amusement don't attract them and they try to simulate adult gangs," Dr. Carey said today.

However, the number of juvenile delinquents who enter the professional gangs is not great. Many get married or get interested in other things. Often the arrest of a member of an adult gang scares them out, he said.

"The cause of juvenile delinquency," he continued, "are three-fold. They are: new behavior patterns, broken homes, and environment."

The new behavior pattern leaves the children to shift for themselves. The female members of the family leave the home to seek careers and the children are left on their own. A few decades ago this was unthinkable and there was much more supervision of the youngsters.

Homes that are broken by divorce or by desertion force the mother to go outside the home to support the children and thus they are free to run the streets.

"Environment is also a factor in juvenile delinquency," Dr. Carey pointed out. "There is an area in most large cities called the interstitial section. This section lies between the main business district and the better residential section. This is usually a slum section and is especially conducive to delinquency because it is here that the gangs are formed."

Another cause of delinquency, this one being concerned mainly with the post-war era, is the fact that many 15 and 16 year olds were employed in industry during the war. Now that the older people have "taken their jobs back," taken their jobs the juvenile are forced to resort to crime to maintain the standards they enjoyed during the war.

"As for preventive means in this field there are three," the Morehead educator said. "They are: 1. youth study; 2. parent study; 3. community projects."

In the first method the characters of the youths who are in that social stratum are studied both physically and psychologically and they are diverted, if possible, to other interests. The studies are carried on by state, municipal, social and private agencies.

In line with the second method the parents are held responsible for the crimes by means of fines.

The parents are also "hunted" to proper ways of rearing their children.

Community projects include the YMCA, Boy and Girl Scouts and other organizations of this type. Their method is to try to bring the youth into contact with a better class of society.

"When these methods fail, however, the courts must be resorted to. All large cities have juvenile courts and juvenile officers. These courts handle only juvenile cases. The officers in many cases have no special qualifications to meet. Many times a good character is all that is necessary."

Kentucky has some fine institutions for the care of juveniles, he said. Greendale, near Franklin and Ash Grove, near Louisville are examples. Both boys and girls are sent to these institutions but are kept separately while there. The crimes for which they may be committed range from truancy to murder. Ordinarily a prisoner is kept there for about three months and then is given a chance for parole.

"These institutions are equipped with many forms of amusement for the prisoners. Recently a fine outdoor swimming pool was completed at Greendale. They have good books ping pong and also other forms of recreation," he elaborated.

"But there are also cell blocks for the more dangerous ones," Dr. Carey concluded.

BY EWING GALLOWAY

Up to now poverty and politics have been the major ills of most of Kentucky's public schools.

Poverty comes first. All over the state teachers were woefully underpaid and the standard of service was getting lower and lower, until about one-fourth of the teachers had to be given emergency certificates.

Use DANZOLA For Relief Of

Dandruff and Itching Scalp

Sure, Quick Relief or Money Back

And buildings were becoming a disgrace to the state.

Raising the tax level this year is a long step toward relieving county schools of poverty, and some city schools have increased their funds.

But petty politics is still with us.

Persons get on boards because they have friends or relatives to whom they want to give jobs.

Superintendents play politics in board elections to perpetuate themselves in office, and often there is little resistance.

All a superintendent has to do is to work for the election of a majority of the board in order to make himself secure. And usually public apathy makes victory for the school politician's machine a poor one. All this is not so much the fault of the school politician as the indifference of the public.

In some instances superintendents carry politics into the business affairs of the schools they serve. Board members do business with the schools, which is a violation of the law.

"No member of a board of education," says the Kentucky Statutes, "shall be or become, directly or indirectly, interested in any contract, agreement or trade, touching building of school houses, repairing of school property, selection of textbooks or other things, or use his official position to secure the patronage of the teachers or employees of the schools."

"Or other thing" covers all the unspecified business advantages school board members may profit by.

School politics is the cause of the evils that must be fought if Kentucky schools are to achieve the aims public spirited people are hoping to achieve.

And, of course the task is for individual communities. More stringent laws are not necessary.

The Committee for Kentucky can only contribute encouragement.

The people of each community must elect the best men and women available to boards of education.

And, which is most important, able and patriotic persons must sacrifice some of their time to all but thankless job of serving on school boards.

The next election? Of course it is a long way off. But it is not too soon for people to make up their minds to fight to rid the schools of petty politics.

The school men and women don't play petty politics. They don't have to.

But, in spite of poverty and politics in our schools, substantial progress is being made in Education. Yes, Education is on the March in Kentucky.

FARMERS School News

The average attendance for the third month of school was 93.71%. Recent visitors have been Supr. Ted Crestwhait, Art Supervisor, Jean Thompson, Attendance Officer, Mrs. Mabel Alfrey, and Home Demonstration Agent, Mrs. Evelyn Sinclair. Miss Thompson gave some helpful instruction for making movies, triezes, painting pictures and various other art work. Mrs. Sinclair conducted a gymnasium recreation period for all grades and decorated the lunch-room tables for Thanksgiving.

The children were served a pre-Thanksgiving chicken dinner.

Prof. Warren Shaffer and a group of college students recently made an observation trip to the school, observing the various classrooms in session.

Thursday, December 5, a 4-H club will be organized with the help of Mrs. Sinclair. All boys and girls, ages 8-15 are eligible for membership.

All concerned deeply appreciate the efforts of Prof. Haggan and Dr. Wise in making it possible for two of the school's handicapped children to be fitted with glasses.

Each room in the school is planning a Christmas party with a tree and exchanging of gifts.

MILITARY CUTS

The War Department has ordered a reduction of 38,000 men in units in the United States, which leaves only two understrength divisions inside the country. Both the War and Navy Departments have been told by the Budget Bureau to cut back its civilian employees to a total of 892,000 by Jan. 1.

AUCTION

Of

320 ACRE FARM

Farming Equipment, Personal Property

I will offer for sale my 320 acre farm, located on North Fork of Triplett in Rowan County, 1 mile from Cranston. This farm, known as the W. F. Wells place will be offered at auction on Thursday, Dec. 12 10:00 A.M.

This 320 acre farm has 60 acres of rich bottom land, which is all tillable by tractor and 200,000 feet of good timber, mostly poplar, pine and oak.

The farm has a 2.6 acre tobacco base and over 8,000 tobacco sticks. Improvements include a nine-room house, and small tenant house in good condition; two large tobacco barns with metal roofs, poultry house, crib, blacksmith shop and all necessary out-buildings.

An everlasting gas well is on this farm, and the gas is already piped into the house and the supply is more than enough to supply the entire farm. The house has a good cellar underneath.

This is a real farm and must be seen to be appreciated. It is a good producer, and offers a real opportunity for either a home or as an investment. The premises will be open from now until the sale, and you are invited to look it over.

Sale Will Be Held Rain Or Shine

Besides this real farm there will be offered for sale a large amount of equipment, livestock and personal property. This will be sold separately.

Farming equipment to be sold at auction includes a new Fordson tractor and extra equipment to go with it; one new hammer-mill; 2-horse wagon; McCormick-Deering No. 7 Mowing Machine; Hay Rake, Valley Plow, Turning Plow; Corn and Fertilizer Drill; 2 Laying-off Plows and many other tools too numerous to mention.

Livestock to be sold includes 9 cows ready to bring calves; one fresh cow with young calf; 4 baby beefs; 4 stock calves; and a large amount of poultry, mostly chickens and geese.

There will also be sold six stacks of timothy hay, 5 stacks soy beans and 6 stacks of oats.

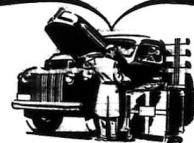

Personal and household property includes bed-room suite, living-room suite, dining-room suite, ward-robe, new battery radio, new washing machine, large gas refrigerator, large built-in sink with pump, gas range, 2 gas heaters and other items too numerous to mention.
