Spring Commencement 2008

Eastern Michigan University Ypsilanti, Michigan

Established by the state of Michigan in 1849 to educate teachers, Eastern Michigan University was founded as Michigan State Normal School and was the first such college west of the Allegheny Mountains. It became Michigan State Normal College in 1899 and then Eastern Michigan College in 1956. With the establishment of several colleges and a graduate school, EMU attained university status in 1959.

The University became a doctoral-granting institution in March 1991, when it was authorized to offer a doctorate in educational leadership. The inaugural class of 10 students was admitted in the fall of that year and produced its first doctoral graduate in April 1994. In addition to educational leadership, the University now offers a Ph.D. in clinical psychology and a Ph.D. in technology.

The University, which has a current enrollment of more than 23,000 students, comprises the colleges of Arts and Sciences, Business, Education, Health and Human Services, Technology, and Honors; Graduate School; University Library; and Extended Programs.

University Mission

Eastern Michigan University is committed to excellence in teaching through traditional and innovative approaches, the extension of knowledge through basic and applied research, and creative and artistic expression. Building on a proud tradition of national leadership in the preparation of teachers, we maximize educational opportunities and personal and professional growth for students from diverse backgrounds through an array of baccalaureate, master's, MFA, specialist and doctoral programs. We strive to provide a student-focused learning environment that enhances the lives of students and positively impacts the community. We extend our commitment beyond the campus boundaries to the wider community through service initiatives, and public and private partnerships of mutual interest addressing local, regional, national and international opportunities and challenges.

Institutional Values

Eastern Michigan University's mission and philosophy are built upon shared values that define and nourish the intellectual, ethical and aesthetic environment. These values are:

- Teaching and Learning
- Excellence
- Human Dignity and Respect
- Diversity
- Scholarship and Intellectual Freedom
- Public Engagement
- Leadership and Participatory Decision-Making
- Integrity

Guiding Principles

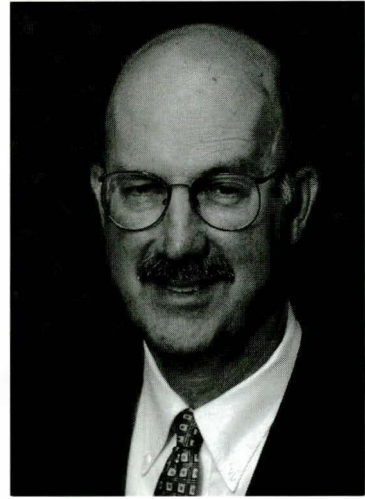

The following guiding principles provide standards the University seeks to achieve:

- Accessibility
- Relevancy
- Responsiveness (to change)
- Flexibility
- Quality
- Collaboration
- Accountability
- Affordability

– A Message from the Provost and Executive Vice President –

On behalf of Eastern Michigan University, I am honored and delighted to participate in these ceremonies today and to congratulate you for achieving this important milestone in your education.

The diploma you receive today represents your hard work, sacrifice, success and the support of family and friends. It also represents the relationships you forged with many faculty, staff, and fellow students who make up this outstanding institution. These relationships have their roots in the classroom, but extend beyond lectures and labs to many other experiences. We are proud of your accomplishments and hope you are, too.

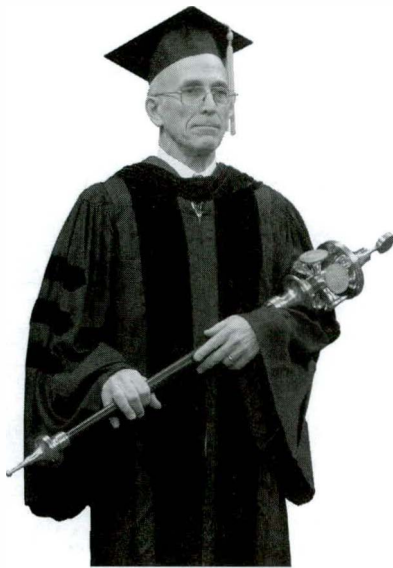

Donald M. Loppnow

You represent EMU's unwavering commitment to student learning and development. As you have successfully completed this portion of your academic career, you are the ultimate measure of EMU's success.

I encourage you to continue to be involved with your University as you go forward in your life and career. Most of all, I wish you success and happiness in your future endeavors.

Congratulations!

Donald M. Loppnow
Provost and Executive Vice President

The University Mace

Historically, the mace was a battle club used by men on horseback to injure footmen. With the passage of time, however, it became a symbol of learning and power.

Constructed of sterling silver, gold-plated brass and paduak, a wood resembling mahogany, the mace carries the symbols of each area of the University: the arts and sciences, business, education, health and human services, and technology.

The University mace (above) was designed and constructed by Mark Hall, who earned his bachelor's degree in art from Eastern Michigan University and completed requirements for his master's degree in fine arts at the Cranbrook Art Academy.

Academic Procession and Symbols

The academic procession preceding the commencement ceremony is the direct descendant of ecclesiastical processions, which included a stately and orderly movement of celebrants to the place of sacred ceremony. As the church was for centuries the main force behind intellectual enrichment, the religious overtones of the academic procession are not surprising.

The procession begins with the University mace, a symbol of authority of the President and the Board of Regents (see description and photo at left). The mace represents the golden flame of learning and is carried by the grand marshal, who is chosen on the basis of service to the University. Distinguished faculty lead their colleagues. The charter represents the original academic design of the University. The keys represent permission to enter and employ the University's resources for the advancement of knowledge. The colors symbolize a heraldic representation of the University. The chief academic officer carries the book representing knowledge, the source of wisdom. The medallion worn by the president represents the distinguished office of the University's leader.

All undergraduates wear gowns of the same color. The colors of the hoods signify the different graduate degrees. The custom of wearing gowns, or robes, stems from the time when all students of higher learning were members of the clergy and wore garments that the church considered appropriate. The wearing of caps dates from early Roman history. The mortar board may be a combination of tight-fitting caps worn indoors by the scholars in the Middle Ages and the soft biretta worn outdoors. The tuft of the early cap has been replaced by a tassel. The green and white tassel worn by the graduates represents the colors of Eastern Michigan University.

Meaning of hood colors of academic dress:

White	Arts and sciences
Drab	Business
Light blue	Education
Citron	Health and human services
Gold	Technology
Purple	Specialist's
Green, white and blue	Doctoral

Fast Facts

Eastern Michigan University is a public, comprehensive, metropolitan University that offers programs in the arts, sciences and professions.

What makes us unique

The University is committed to the needs of our community through teaching, research and service. Our faculty teach courses tailored to the diverse needs of metropolitan students, combine research-based knowledge and practical application and experience, and are committed to educating students to be effective citizens.

Our faculty, students and administrators also work closely with the community while acquiring invaluable lifetime learning experiences.

EMU is only one of two universities in Michigan to offer the American Humanics certification program that prepares students to work in leadership roles with nonprofit organizations.

Eastern Michigan University continues to be the largest producer of educational personnel in the United States including the largest producer of special education personnel, mathematics teachers and science teachers; and is among the top 10 producers of educational administrators. EMU is the second-largest producer of minority educational personnel in Michigan and has been recognized for its commitment to a diverse campus by U.S. News and World Report.

Enrollment profile

The 22,848 students enrolled in fall 2007 include 17,962 undergraduates and 4,886 graduate students. Undergraduate students are 60 percent female and 40 percent male; graduate students are 65 percent female and 35 percent male. EMU students represent 48 U.S. states (including Puerto Rico and Washington, D.C.) and 79 foreign countries. Average age for undergraduates is 24; for graduate students, 34. EMU's population is: 67 percent white; 17 percent African American; 4 percent international; 6 percent undeclared; 2 percent Asian/Pacific Islander; 2 percent Hispanic and 1 percent Native American.

Faculty and staff

EMU employs 761 full-time faculty and 1,307 staff members. Ninety-three percent of EMU professors have doctoral or terminal degrees in their field. The student-to-professor ratio is 19:1.

Facilities

Our 803-acre campus of scenic flora and wooded trails includes 18 miles of walkways and jogging trails, and 122 buildings dispersed throughout our academic and athletic campuses. There are currently 13 residence halls and four apartment complexes with 650 units housing more than 5,000 students.

The Star Spangled Banner

Oh, say, can you see by the dawn's early light,
What so proudly we hailed at the twilight's last gleaming?

Whose broad stripes and bright stars

through the perilous fight,

O'er the ramparts we watched,

were so gallantly streaming?

And the rockets' red glare, the bombs bursting in air, gave proof through the night that our flag was still there.

Oh, say, does that star spangled banner yet wave

O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave?

Our Pledge

Eastern, sacred Alma Mater,
to your name we shall be true,
Ever marching on to victory,
we'll stand by to see you through.

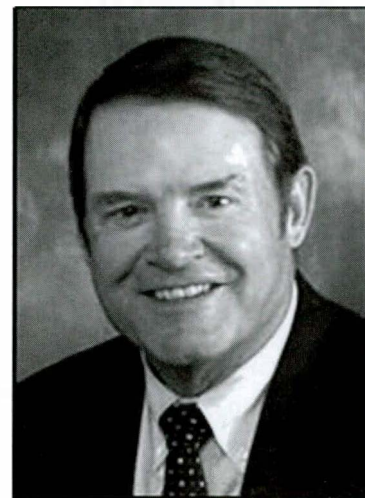

Softly floating on the breeze,
verdant green with white of snow,
This our banner we will carry in our hearts
where'er we go.

Commencement Speaker and Honorary Degree Recipient

Michael G. Morris ('69, '73) is chairman, president and chief executive officer of American Electric Power Co., Inc.

Since joining AEP in January 2004, Morris has led AEP's efforts to build an integrated gasification combined cycle (IGCC) plant -- the first commercial-scale use of the technology for power generation and the largest IGCC plant announced to date.

He was chairman, president and CEO of Northeast Utilities System from 1997 to 2003, where he led the company during its $1.3 billion sale of the Millstone Station nuclear plant in 2001, a $679 million merger with Yankee Energy System Inc., and the acquisition of Connecticut Valley Electric Co.

Michael Morris

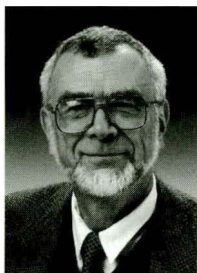

Before joining Northeast Utilities, Morris was president and CEO of Consumers Energy, principal subsidiary of CMS Energy, and president of CMS Marketing, Services and Trading. He was previously president of Colorado Interstate Gas Co. and executive vice president of marketing, transportation and gas supply for ANR Pipeline Co., both subsidiaries of El Paso Energy. Morris was the founder and president of ANR Gathering Co., one of the first gas marketing companies in the United States.

Morris is past chairman of the Edison Electric Institute. He also serves on the U.S. Department of Energy's Electricity Advisory Board, the National Governors Association's Task Force on Electricity Infrastructure, the Institute of Nuclear Power Operations, Business Roundtable (chairing the Business Roundtable's Energy Task Force), and the Columbus Downtown Development Corporation. Morris serves as a director of the boards of Alcoa, Battelle, Nuclear Electric Insurance Limited, and The Hartford Financial Services Group, Inc. He is past chairman of the board of the Connecticut Business & Industry Association. He also serves as current chair of the Ohio Business Roundtable and chair of the 2007 United Way of Central Ohio campaign.

Morris was born in Fremont, Ohio, and graduated from Eastern Michigan University with both bachelor's and master's degrees in science. He was appointed to the Board of Regents at Eastern Michigan University in 1997. In 1995 he received the university's Distinguished Alumnus Award. While an undergraduate, Morris served as president of the Delta Sigma Phi Fraternity. During his graduate years, he was commander of the ROTC Brigade.

Morris received a law degree, cum laude, from the Detroit College of Law and is a member of the Michigan Bar Association. He is a past member of the Board of the Detroit College of Law.

College of Arts and Sciences

Hartmut Hoft
Dean (interim)

The College of Arts and Sciences includes 17 departments, one specialized program and offers most of the courses forming traditional university liberal arts and general education requirements. It provides students with a solid foundation for further work in the college's wide range of major and minor programs, or in specialized curricula in the University's other colleges. Faculty in the college have won national recognition for their teaching excellence and research contributions.

Programs within the college offer superior preparation for rewarding careers. Those in the arts and humanities enable students to understand and interpret the past, to appreciate the finest achievements of art, drama and music, and to develop essential languages and communication skills for a high-technological, ever-shrinking world. Programs in the natural and social sciences promote scientific literacy and provide a solid foundation for the increasing needs of a scientifically knowledgeable population. Emphasis is placed on key terms, concepts, modes of thought and reasoning, and techniques of research and problem-solving.

The college offers students numerous opportunities for enrichment and career exploration. The annual Undergraduate Symposium showcases students' research and creative activity. Direct student involvement in learning is promoted through independent study, research projects and special activities, internships and cooperative education placements, and the University Honors College.

College of Business

David Mielke
Dean

The College of Business develops future business leaders by providing high-quality, professionally accredited programs at the undergraduate and graduate levels and by offering professional development education to the business community. The college values and promotes scholarly research, applications and an international perspective in each of its programs.

Professional preparation is provided for students interested in administrative careers in business, government agencies and public administration. Emphasis is placed on a combination of tools, concepts and theory for practical application to business decisions and business problems.

The college also serves as an educational resource for business firms of regional, national and international scope and maintains alliances that are mutually beneficial to students, faculty and the college. Its faculty is professionally recognized for its contributions to the body of knowledge and its understanding of management and business enterprise.

College of Education

Vernon Polite
Dean

Eastern Michigan University long has been a national leader in the preparation of teachers and other educational personnel. The University was founded in 1849 as Michigan State Normal School, the first teacher-training institution west of the Allegheny Mountains. It was the second normal college in the nation to offer a four-year baccalaureate program for teachers, and the University has grown to become one of the nation's largest producer of educational personnel.

Over the years, the College of Education has repeatedly been recognized for its outstanding academic performance. Since 1985, the college has earned numerous awards, including four Showcase of Excellence Awards from the American Association of State Colleges and Universities for model programs that enhance the professional preparation of educators.

The College of Education comprises four departments and the Office of Academic Services. Its faculty and staff are committed to providing instruction in professional education licensure, as well as placing students in related curricula outside the field of education.

EMU has been continuously accredited by the National Council for the Accreditation of Teacher Education since the founding of that organization. In addition, EMU holds numerous teaching-field-specific formal approvals from national professional organizations.

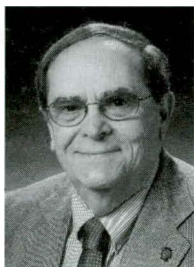

College of Health and Human Services

Jeanne Thomas
Dean

The College of Health and Human Services (CHHS) prepares professionals with the knowledge and skills needed to optimize quality of life in their communities. Our students develop a deep understanding of advances in medical science, the aging of the population and factors that affect development throughout the lifespan. All CHHS program curricula integrate empirically-based knowledge with practice through experiential learning opportunities grounded in the surrounding communities. We are committed to not only being a "good neighbor" to Ypsilanti and surrounding communities, but also to forming and enriching partnerships between our programs and regional health and human service institutions that serve the needs of both our students and the partner institutions. The college is comprised of the schools of health promotions and human performance, health sciences, nursing, and social work.

College of Technology

Morell Boone
Dean

The College of Technology's mission is to provide a variety of educational programs leading to bachelor's and advanced degrees that are responsive to current and emerging domestic and international workforce needs. More specifically, the College of Technology (COT) meets the need for well-prepared individuals for a variety of business education and technology education professions, and commissioned officers for the United States Army.

The College currently is composed of the schools of technology studies and engineering technology. Specific programs have been designed as collaborative efforts with other colleges and departments. Baccalaureate and graduate programs provide a solid foundation in mathematics, science, technology, management and human relations in order to effectively serve the educational aspirations of students. Students learn to apply sound theory to practical problems and have opportunities for laboratory and cooperative work experiences. Graduates are prepared for engineering technology and technology management positions in design, production, research and marketing for business and industry. Through the University's long-standing military science program, leadership qualities necessary for entry into the active Army, Army Reserve or National Guard as a commissioned officer are developed and reinforced.

The COT emphasizes relevant, real-life, hands-on learning activities, a solid interdisciplinary foundation, close relationships with business and industry, teamwork and individual professional competence. All departments in the College of Technology focus on the importance of change. Students are encouraged to be tomorrow's leaders by refining the knowledge and skills necessary to understand, adapt to and influence change.

Graduate School

Deb deLaski-Smith
Dean (interim)

The Graduate School provides leadership, oversight and service for all graduate programs at the University. These programs include certificate and degree programs at the master's, master of fine arts, specialist and doctoral levels. The Graduate School manages the Graduate Assistant and Doctoral Fellow programs, the King-Chavez-Parks Future Faculty Fellows program and the award process for most General Fund and endowed scholarships and fellowships. It interprets and monitors Graduate School graduate-level procedures and policies as recommended by the Graduate Council and established by dean of the graduate school. It develops programs of academic and professional interest to faculty and students, including orientations, workshops, seminars, guest speakers and an annual Graduate Research Fair.

The Honors College

James Knapp
Director

The Honors College at Eastern Michigan University strives to provide the intimacy of a small college education within the context of a large, comprehensive university. To this end, both educational and cultural experiences for EMU's intellectually talented and motivated students are provided through challenging Honors courses and extra-curricular activities that encourage scholarly curiosity, leadership, civic engagement, and diversity. The Honors College offers undergraduate students opportunities for a wide range of experiences that aid in the development of their appreciation for creativity, the arts, sciences, critical issues facing contemporary society, and diversity among people and their cultures.

Continuing Education

Byron D. Bond
Dean

Continuing Education delivers a wide range of degrees, courses and training in convenient, flexible and innovative formats throughout Michigan, the United States, and the world, as well as online. Off-campus locations in Brighton, Detroit, Flint, Jackson, Livonia, Monroe, Traverse City and Washtenaw County are designed for professionals actively engaged in their careers with on-site advising and support, small class sizes, and free parking. Online programs and courses are available in a wide range of subjects and offer the flexibility of "anywhere, anytime" access to EMU's educational resources. Weekend and accelerated courses meet outside of the standard academic calendar and allow students to earn credits more quickly—from one to 12 weeks—as well as in locations such as Traverse City and Gaylord. Non-credit programming includes professional certification, customized training, conferences, partnership programs and test preparation.

Alumni Association Message

Dear EMU Class of 2008,

Congratulations and welcome to the Eastern Michigan University Alumni Association! I am honored to extend an invitation to each of you to stay involved and engaged in the Eastern Michigan family.

I invite you to be an active member of the Alumni Association. Our association provides outstanding opportunities to stay in touch with your friends and network with more than 120,000 Eastern Michigan alumni.

We have chapters of Alumni across the nation and here in metro Detroit that bring alumni with common interests together to advance their careers and the University.

Throughout the years that I have been associated with EMU, I have come to appreciate the many wonderful contributions that so many people have made to create this great University and provide the opportunities we enjoyed as students. As the years have gone by I have also realized how much of my own success I owe to those who paved the paths I have traveled, with their knowledge and generosity.

I have felt privileged and proud to play a small part as a student, as student body president and now as an active member and officer of the alumni association. The most interesting thing about all of this is that by being active and involved in the University I personally have grown and benefited in countless ways.

I hope you will join with me and other members of the Alumni Association by enjoying its benefits, sustaining the University and creating opportunities for others who will follow us.

My very best wishes to all of you and again my congratulations.

Go Green!
