In Retrospect

January, it seems to us, is a month of beginnings and endings. This is the month we must add finishing touches to an old term while at the same time we plan for a new semester. And, in looking ahead, it's interesting to look back to notice just what has happened here at Ursinus in 1947.

This time last year the new gym was still just talk; Rimby's and Bancroft had yet to become dormitories; women held forth on campus.

1947 saw the death and retirement of many of the older professors; fourteen new members swelled the ranks of the faculty. The student body was larger than ever before. New organizations began, old ones were revived.

Somehow Ursinus was caught up in the spirit of the whole country. Inflation had set in. There were more students, more faculty members, more of everything. We're wondering, however, if, as is the case with our monetary inflation, our growth has not devalued our standards. A dollar won't buy what it once did; is Ursinus of the same calibre it once was?

1947 found this college not quite accustomed to its new size; it was suffering from growing pains. This year we hope that we will become better as well as bigger, preserving the best qualities of the small Ursinus. In looking back this time next year, we would like to see a college that has fully adjusted itself by making the cultural, moral, and spiritual advances which it didn't quite have time for in 1947.

GAFF from the
or What's Bruin

A new look is sweeping our campus, and its not being shown by new lengths in skirts or new types of hair-does like you'd suppose. The new look is in hardware—the sparkly kind that appears on the third finger left hand of lovely lassies who use Ponds'. Botanists, psychologists and sociologists might find reasons for it, but who wants to look for reasons when at least ten coeds come back from the Christmas holidays with acute cases of beingengageditis. Hear tell this spreads around during leap year (which this year is) and is supposed to cause weakness and fluttering of the heart. What a nice way to die.

Hain't it nice that Christmas comes every once in a while so college students can hit their relatives for some new things to wear? Moe Leute's argyle sweater is a result of the combined efforts of Ma Leute and Winnie . . . bet every little sister on campus got a silk scarf from her big sister . . . Reinhart's new socks were from Eadie . . . Sipple got some of his "famous" ties, no doubt . . . Pat Dougherty's hazy look is from Reid's party.

Spring is the time for new amour, but at Ursinus we have winter plus its "mush boxes" . . . Sam McElroy has been throwing snowballs at Anna Ivins since the holidays, and Don Payne has washed Marian Bell's face in the snow at least five times now . . . The snow had Meggie and Archie out sledding, too . . . On cold nights you can find Dot Freking and Norm Harberger, Debbie Norton and Nels Yeakle, Floy and Seth, and Pete and Bud druggin' it. Frank Pirazzini would probably be at home with his cute new wife.

DEBATE CLUB ORGANIZES FOR CONTEST WITH GETTYSBURG

The Ursinus Debating Club is organizing for the intercollegiate debating season which opens on February 17th. In a home contest with Gettysburg College, the national question, "Resolved that a Federal World Government should be established" will be debated.

Any student interested in doing intercollegiate debating this year should see Mr. A. G. Kershner, faculty sponsor; Dorothy-Arden Dean '49, club president; or Dean Evans '48, debate manager. Previous experience is not necessary. Anyone who is interested in public speaking is encouraged to join the club. The main purpose of debating at Ursinus is to improve the public speaking ability of students.

As soon as the complete 1948 debating schedule is available, it will be published in the Weekly. In addition to the above-mentioned opening debate, an away contest with St. Joseph's College on February 18th has also been definitely arranged.

Annex - dotes

by John Martin '51

The "ghosts of Christmas past" are in full evidence at the Annex as well as on campus. We notice droves of Christmas ties, socks, and other loud items of apparel. Other not-so-pleasant souvenirs of the glorious vacation are "skier's limp," "sledder's slump" and "ice skater's ankles." All of which proves that college life is a poor conditioner for the rigors of winter outdoor sports.

Still unable to recover from their strenuous vacation activities are "Skeeter" Givler, George Burgess, Charlie Kuhns, and "Wally, the Hat." Suffering various maladies ranging from trench mouth to indigestion, this pathetic crew is moping about the Annex in varying degrees of misery. May they soon recover!

Each time Floyd Justice is asked about the cuts on his nose and cheek he tells a different story. After pondering the problem, we wonder if it could have been Mary McPherson? They say she has a wicked left hook.

Crusher Jordan had an unfortunate experience on a sledding party. A schoolboy on a sled ran amuck and sent Crusher sprawling into a snow drift. After he had spent ten minutes in the snow drift without moving, people began to suspect that all was not well. Fortunately, a group of kindly citizens extracted him and soon brought him to.

Before the unbelieving eyes of Stokes, Voorhees, Walton and Gerson a snowball crashed through the window of genial Prof. Straub's German class! Where had it come from? Of course, no one knew. (Except Stokes—and he wouldn't tell.) Shaken by this appalling sight, the four suspects quickly disappeared from the scene of the crime. Who done it? Send all answers to Prof. Straub, Annex A-1.

THE FEMININE SPORTS FAN

This week we'd like to take some time out and pass on to our readers a few words concerning that enigma of all male followers of sport—dom—the female sports fan. In recent years it has not been uncommon to see our typically American housewife, up to her ears in spring cleaning, with the radio blaring forth with a play-by-play description of a major league ball game, or to see her on a crisp Fall Saturday afternoon listening to the grid fortunes of a big time collegiate eleven while preparing the evening meal.

Yes, the female sports fan is here to stay! Often times she is as well-informed as her male escort, who squires her to almost as many athletic events as he himself attends. On many occasions, however, the little woman does not know the difference between a basketball and a coconut or a pig-skin and a watermelon and her remarks are often both colorful and amusing.

At a college football tussle last autumn, the officials inflicted a "backfield in motion" penalty on a touchdown-bound offensive eleven. Your writer overheard one sweet young thing ask her male companion which backfield was in motion. This question provided a few chuckles for all nearby.

While viewing a recent ice hockey tilt, which, incidentally, was the first one ever witnessed by the young lady in question, my favorite blonde, upon seeing the initial goal of the contest blasted into the nets by an alert stick handler, came up with the startling query as to who was responsible for blinking the crimson bulb on and off after each tally.

Last summer an eager but slightly inexperienced follower of major league diamond frays was overheard asking her escort whether or not they charged the same admission price for single games as they do for doubleheaders. Questions like these are both refreshing and amusing and although the veteran fan may weary himself trying to explain the finer points of an athletic event to Susie Q. Fan, it definitely proves the point I am endeavoring to put across.

I wish to stress just this—that the feminine interest in sports is

by Jane McWilliams '49

On February 4 the Ursinus girls basketball squad will meet a strong Albright sextet in its initial game of the season. With the opener only two practice sessions away, the Bearettes have been working out diligently and appear to be clicking well. The forwards have been drilling on passing and cutting behind a zone defense, which is used by Albright, while the guards have been concentrating on tip-offs and interceptions.

Trying out for forward berths are upperclassmen Hilda Anderson, Edith Calhoun, and Connie Warren and underclassmen Jeanne Duncan, Anita Frick, and freshman Nancy Vadner. These six are outstanding at both passing and shooting.

There are six contenders for defense positions, led by captain Betty Moyer. Playing with "Mo" and equally as fast, are seniors Evelyn Moyer, Peg Hunter and Bunny Baum, junior Floy Lewis and sophomore Mary Evans.

As with the varsity, the JV material is excellent. Those trying out as forwards are "Manny" Ballantyne, Emily Smith, Polly Mathers, Ruth Pettit, and Sue Leinbach. In the guard slots those likely to see plenty of action are Anne Moister, Doris Stierly, Marjorie Justice and Marion Kurtz.

increasing by leaps and bounds, and I for one, am all for it. It is a healthy, wholesome sign, and your writer would certainly rather see the ball parks jammed full of both calloused male fans and shrieking females alike than see Miss and Mrs. America occupying seats at the nearest taproom. Hats off to the feminine sports fan. See you at the ball park!

On Wednesday evening before a capacity crowd at Thompson-Gay gymnasium, a speedy, aggressive PMC quintet drubbed Ursinus 60-48 for the Bears' second straight loss on the hardwood. The game was marked by extremely rough play and the brand of ball displayed by both clubs often resembled the "fire horse" variety rather than the smooth, slick passing game which most collegiate tussles produce.

Cadets Defense Unorthodox

The game opened with guard Bill Forsyth immediately getting hacked by an over-zealous Cadet forward. Forsyth made good this charity toss to give the Bruins a short-lived 1-0 margin. Following this, the Chester Cadets flashed an unusual, but effective pressing type of defense which considerably bothered the Bears.

After the lead had see-sawed back and forth throughout most of the early stages of the tilt, PMC's Bobby Martz hit a hot streak and the Cadets held on to a slight lead till the end of the half. Coach Jerry Seeders, seeing his first stringers bottled up by PMC's unorthodox defense and obviously bothered by the rough play under the backboards, removed his starting five and injected reserves Wally Widholm, "Reds" Condie, Bob Gehman, and Dick Davidson into the fray along with center Bob Jaffe. This combine proved a bit more effective and succeeded in whittling the Cadets' lead down to 30-27 at the close of the half.

Bruins Start Drive

Starting a quintet consisting of Dave Bahney, Condie, Jaffe, Davidson, and Gehman in the second half, the Bruins flashed their best play of the evening. Widholm returned to the game later in the quarter and his effective work under both baskets was instrumental in sparking Ursinus' chief offensive drive of the contest.

The Bears snatched the lead early in the second half by virtue of some eagle-eyed sniping by a slim will o' the wisp freshman, "Reds" Condie. The youthful carrot-top hit the cords for four timely twin pointers in this quarter, and the Grizzlies rolled up a 42-36 margin midway in the final half. The ball-handling of Davidson and Gehman during this drive was outstanding, but the Military five was not to be denied. Through the marksmanship of Martz, Mar-

PHARMACY QUINTET RALLIES TO SHADE GRIZZLIES, 48-46

Tuesday, December 16, on the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy court, the Bear dribblers suffered their initial defeat of the present campaign as the Druggist quintet tripped the Bruins, 48-46. It was a game which saw the Grizzly basketweavers lead throughout only to get nosed out at the end by a spirited Pharmacy drive. At one time the charges of Jerry Seeders held a fourteen-point bulge, only to have it dissolve into thin air before the Druggists last quarter surge. Bill Forsyth with thirteen points

"Long" Lads Get Short End of Basketball Tussle

by Doris Gill '50

With a display of spectacular action, the "Short" basketball team last Monday night proved that "good things come in small packages" by defeating the "Long" team 8-6 in a novelty game sponsored by the junior class for the benefit of the Big Band fund. The game, which took place in the Thompson-Gay gymnasium, netted the class $70, which will be used to secure a name band for the annual Junior Prom, to be held in April.

Capped in an odd assortment of headgear, the Short Shooters utilized original, flashy plays, including two-man lay-up shots, floor-length passes, signal-calling, and a good bit of gridiron tactics to sink the gay-skirted Long Lads.

Star-Studded Lineups

Lou Wilt '50, Val Sipple '49, Bill Miksch '48, Archie Simons '48, Harry Collier '48, Roy Todd '49, and Robert Rogers '50, played for the Little Dribblers, while Andy Bain '49, John Kajmo '49, George Kennedy '49, Dick Reed '49, John Vance '49, Stan McCausland '48, and Ken Reinhart '49 represented the Sky-scrapers.

Confessing that he knew more about cattle than basketball, "ranchman" Dick Clark '48, referee, judged the contest accordingly. Waterboy Dave Bahney '49 scored a hit serving pure H₂O in jiggers on a bar tray.

Dancing to juke-box favorites followed the game. Glenn Piper and the Perkiomen Valley Boys provided special music of the hilly-billy variety. The mountain music makers are all Annex men and include Glenn Piper '51, Russ Fisher '51, Russ Lord '51, Buck Ross '51, and Don Donahue '51.

cavage, and Ingher, they regained the lead and sported a 53-47 nod with three minutes remaining. At this point, the charges of Seeders became desperate, and, as a result, careless, and the Cadets rolled up the points to clinch the tussle by a 60-48 count as the final gun sounded.

The Jayvees chalked up their second straight win by downing PMC's reserves 62-60 in an overtime thriller. John Hoover's twin-pointer in the extra period provided the margin of victory for the Cubs.

Stock of the Bell System has long been an investment for hundreds of thousands of everyday people in all walks of life . . . for you, perhaps, and your neighbor; for school teachers and widows; for farmers and mechanics; for professors and the clergy; for telephone men and women.

These people, through their savings, share in the ownership of the Bell System; and it is our responsibility to see to it that they receive a fair return on the dollars they have invested in Bell System stock. Those dollars are vital to us. They are the dollars we use to build and expand the telephone system.
