Preparedness Program Gives Second Chance

by Bruce Murray

The Preparedness Program was begun at Parkland College in September, 1969, by various staff members of the college. The program is designed "to prepare disadvantaged persons for experiencing success within the Junior College District 505," according to Troy Simpson Jr., director of the program.

Under the program, persons who lack the financial or educational background to attend college are given a twenty-two week (two academic quarters) instructional program that enables them to advance toward more education.

Simpson said that since the program's inception, approximately 115 to 125 students have been in the program. For the 1969-70 school year there were 57 students participating, while there were officially 68 during the fall and winter quarters this year.

"The program has provided many students with the knowledge of the possibility to go to college," said Simpson. "We try to saturate the community with information about the program--what it's about, and just that it's here." Simpson also said that some students have been hired to go out into the community to recruit people for the program. Simpson appeared on WAND television a few months ago to describe the program, and in June there will be a 30 minute television broadcast about the Preparedness Program featuring Parkland students and faculty.

Second Chance

Simpson related that the program has had "a great impact on the community." Usually when a disadvantaged person hears the requirements for college, they become discouraged. But when they see that there is a program like Preparedness, they often have a change of attitude. "Students feel like this is a second chance," said Simpson.

After acceptance and enrollment in the program, the students follow a prescribed instructional program that is designed to help them develop learning skills in the course areas of reading, writing (basic communication), mathematics, and personal and human development.

Many of the students that have completed the program have found it extremely valuable. Even after having had poor high school records, students have completed the Preparedness Program and have gone on to take courses in Career and Transfer programs.

According to Simpson, a major aim of the Preparedness Program is "not necessarily to cram the students full of facts, but to expose them to the various alternatives and options that are available in the college and the world around them."

In a press release to the local media, Simpson said, "an important part of the student's development is attaining an awareness of himself--of what kind of person he is and how he fits into society--and then with this awareness, learning to understand other people. Progress in awareness and understanding is especially evident in the area of race relations in a multi-racial environment. The classes are generally racially mixed and more often leads to a knowledge of how the other fellow feels. They discover that they are all one in similar circumstances--no good guys or bad guys--and that they all have a role in bringing about understanding."

Simpson said that one of the major reasons students leave the program is money. Even though the college offers some financial support, "the amount of assistance from the college is insufficient for them to go to school and maintain their livelihood at the same time."

Future

As for the future of the Preparedness Program, Simpson said that they are in the process of a follow-up study. They are pursuing their future by means of administering a before and after questionnaire. The aim of the questionnaire, said Simpson, is to determine the effectiveness of the program. "We want to find which students stay in school, which ones left, why they left, and if there is a possibility of return. We want to hear from the students themselves."

Simpson said that they hope to have 90 students in the program during the 1971-72 year. He said, "we hope to widen the possibility of enrollment in the project."

Preparedness director Troy Simpson, left, and Jim Lyles, main counselor for the program, work on follow-up study.

VIC Helps To Rehabilitate Youth

by Nancy Kennedy

Parkland Students Community Action Committee is a new organization made up of volunteer Parkland students who work with the youth of Champaign County in the areas of scouting, juvenile rehabilitation, and summer craft activities.

The basic purpose of the committee, according to Dave Friedman, director of the committee, is "to instill in the youth we work with a concept of self-worthiness and an ability to function within the system as useful and productive citizens."

The program is divided into three phases. Phase one is the Volunteers in Court segment in which students work with youths on a one-to-one basis (one volunteer to one youth) in three areas. Volunteers in Court helps youths on probation to rehabilitate themselves and in some cases to provide an alternative to the judicial probation system.

Area one of VIC deals with the youth already on probation in the hopes of helping them to find themselves. Area two deals with volunteers working through the juvenile officers of Champaign and Urbana to furnish an alternative to probation. Area three works in the school systems with truants in the hopes of preventing probation or other legal action.

Phase two of the overall program deals with New Concept Scouting. One pilot troop is operational now and three are in the planning stage. The major effort of these troops is to make scouting relevant to daily life in the community. This program is also concerned with sending 127 needy boys to Boy Scout camp this summer.

Phase three is the Summer Arts and Crafts program which begins June 15 and ends September 1. This program will be run in two-week class sessions with each class containing 15 to 20 youths. They will be taught skills in several areas of arts and crafts.

There are 385 youths in the entire program. Membership in the program is limited to youths from low income families or without fathers.

All Parkland students are welcome to join the Community Action Committee. The officers are Dave Friedman, director; Tom Krall, assistant director, and Bob Hilton, treasurer. To donate time or money, contact Dave Friedman at the Student Government Office in the Student Center.

Nurses, Hygienists In "Health Week"

On Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, April 20, 21, and 22, the Parkland College Nursing and Dental Hygiene Associations participated in Health Week.

The program included examinations by the Nurses of height and weight, pulse, and blood pressure. They also had demonstrations of mouth-to-mouth resuscitation using "Rescue Annie" and checked the cardiovascular efficiency of the heart by using the Heartometer.

Dental Hygiene students gave teeth and oral smear exams. At Parkland, the Dental Hygiene program, headed by Dr. Robert Cross, is a two year program. The first year consists of basic schooling, while meeting general studies and basic science requirements. During the summer, students progress from working on dummy models to gradually becoming involved in actual clinical work.

Most of the sophomore year is spent working on patients in the clinic. The first two quarters of the second year are spent on a half-study, half-work basis. The third quarter is spent almost entirely working in the clinic, and going to different community schools to give oral examinations. They also visit Chanute Air Force Base to observe oral surgery.

Included in the three-day program last week, attended by approximately 200 persons, were two guest speakers. On Tuesday, the speaker was from the Public Health Department, talking about "Public Health and Its Role in the Community." On Thursday, Betty Lazarous of the Champaign County Mental Health Clinic spoke on "Mental Health in YOUR Family."

During the week were numerous films such as: Idea with a

One Way or Two?

Once again spring is here and that magical something about the warm and sunny weather that impels everyone to get behind their wheels and drive is back also. And with Parkland's downtown classes there is also twice the normal pedestrian traffic. This arouses my concern at the crossings of Champaign's many one-way streets. It seems that I see more and more daily our drivers cutting down on their scope of safety. They approach a one-way street and become almost hypnotized by the oncoming traffic waiting for a chance to cross and without glancing back to check for pedestrians they race through the intersections.

You have no doubt heard of the principles of "Defensive Driving". I have found that these principles also sometimes work for defensive walking. When crossing in front of a vehicle that is waiting for one-way traffic, I never watch to see what the car is going to do but rather the eyes of the driver. His eyes can tell me either if he is in a hurry or if he is overconcentrating on the traffic. If he doesn't glance back and see me I stay right where I am until he goes.

If you are walking and reading your assignments stop at the intersection and check out the situation before you cross. And if you're anxiously waiting for a chance to get through that one-way traffic, before you go, drop a glance. . . . someone's life may depend on it.

Student Deferment May End

If the Nixon administration's draft bill is passed, college students are going to lose their deferments from the draft, the draft's charter will be extended another two years.

"The two-year extension is not a guarantee that reliance on the draft will have ended by July 1, 1973. It rather means that there is reasonable expectation of attaining this goal by that time."

Though it is the official administration position to institute the volunteer army by 1973 Selective Service director Curtis Tarr has publicly stated that he does not foresee the end of the draft until American combat involvement in Vietnam is over.

If the bill is passed, undergraduate deferments will end retroactive to April 23, 1971, denying deferments to students now freshmen in college. Students holding deferments before that date will be able to retain them until they graduate.

The draft bill also contains major changes in conscientious objectors which were added by the House Armed Services committee and were not recommended by selective service.

The bill would extend the alternative service requirement from two to three years; it defines alternative service as "employment with agencies in government or public institutions which have difficulty finding eligible and qualified individuals to perform essential work"; and stipulates that CO's face induction for unsatisfactory alternative service work.

The Selective Service is also planning to build a centralized computer data bank containing information on all registrants in the country. At a time when the draft is supposed to be winding down, the computer bank, due to be completed by the first of the year, will be used to facilitate the induction process.

The contention of the Nixon administration, that the draft can be ended despite the war, is misleading. The administration is pushing for an extension of the draft and an increase in the 1-A manpower pool. If Congress extends the draft, which appears likely, there is only a foggy promise from the Defense Department that the all-volunteer army can be instituted in two years. Like winding down the war, to wind down the draft the people are being asked to extend it and enlarge it.

In the beginning, fall quarter, there were twenty-two gorilla's dogs on the staff of the Prospectus. This number included only four returnees. The rest hardly knew anything about running a paper beyond their scanty high school experiences. The staff figure had dwindled to fourteen by winter quarter and putting out a weekly paper began to be a pain. The number of people on the staff this spring is a meager ten out of which only six write stories. The paper has been cut down to a by-monthly publication and we are tired.

People just will not join Prospectus because they do not get anything out of it except a by-line. But sparkling by-lines soon lose their brilliance and we are left with just brittle newspaper clippings and a satisfied but tired ego. This is small consolation compared to the hours a reporter puts in.

There is, for example, the Daily Egyptain of Southern Illinois University which gives laboratory credits for working on the paper. There is an advisor there who along with the editors no further than the talk stage. If the paper goes because of lack of staff members P.C. takes yet another step backwards on its way to building a college.

I wanted to do a cartoon on the war, but I couldn't...what's funny about it?

Parkland Belts Wabash Twice

by Mike Van Antwerp
 Parkland slammed out 28 hits in route to a doubleheader conquest of Wabash Junior College at Mount Carmel Saturday. Trailing 5-3 in the 3rd inning of the opener the Cobras jumped the home team 13-8. Barry Morris with relief help from Butch Wolfe picked up the victory. Morris also belted a home run to help his own cause. Kerry Crum had paced the offensive assault with a double and a triple. The second game proved to be no contest as Ken Barenthin halted Wabash Valley on a 4 hitter. The last inning proved to be decisive as the Cobras exploded for 8 runs. Barenthin doubled as the PC pitchers continued to pitch and hit effectively. The double victory evens the Cobras record at 8-8 for the season. Parkland travels to Mattoon Tuesday to participate in the 5 day Section 8 Tournament. On May 3 PC will meet the University of Illinois Junior Varsity squad in a rematch. The young Illini won the first encounter on March 30 by a 5-4 count. PARKLAND--301, 221, R. 13, H. 13, E. 1. P.C. Board Holds Elections—Consider Nepotism Policy

The Parkland Board of Trustees expressed their appreciation Tuesday night to Henry I. Green, director of development, and board member Charles M. Zipprodt, who are both leaving Parkland after helping establish the college and providing leadership for the college. Green, chairman of the original steering committee that helped establish the community college and also secretary-treasurer of the Parkland Foundation which he established, has resigned effective May 1, 1971. Zipprodt, who has served as a charter member of the Board, did not seek re-election for his term which ended Tuesday. Howard A. Miller, partner in the Champaign law firm of Williamson and Miller, and Donald D. Dodds Jr., president of Dodds-Dodds Travel Agency, Inc., Champaign, were sworn into office Tuesday as members of the Parkland Board. Both men were elected April 10 by District 505 voters, and official election results were canvassed by the Board Tuesday. Miller formerly served as a member of the Urbana Board of Education. Dodds was elected for his first three-year term April 10, but has been serving on the board since October when he was appointed to serve out the unexpired term of William Froom who resigned. After officially forming the "new" Board, the trustees re-elected officers John H. Mathews of Tolono, chairman; D. Wayne Niewold of Loda as vice-chairman; and Douglas E. Hager of Gibson City as secretary.

Staerkel Reports on Appropriations Hearing In Springfield

Dr. William M. Staerkel, president of Parkland, reported to the Board that the District may lose up to 12 per cent or more of its tax revenues starting this year when the personal property tax will no longer be effective. Staerkel, who testified earlier Tuesday in Springfield before the House Committee on Higher Education, told Parkland trustees that every attempt was being made to explain to the legislators the problems of the state's junior college districts if the state does not appropriate sufficient funds to make up this projected tax loss.

Board member C. W. Barnes of Monticello, who also attended the hearing as a member of the Illinois Community College Board of Trustees Association, said even greater loss of tax revenues will result for the district if the court decides in favor of abolishing corporate personal property tax.

Enrollment high for Spring Quarter

Dr. Staerkel also reported that enrollment for the spring quarter was higher than winter quarter, which is an exception to the normal pattern for the college. Total enrollment at Parkland for spring classes is 3,296 which includes 2,144 day-time students—only eight more—and 1,152—the substantial increase came from evening students which was 919 for winter.

Reconsider Nepotism Policy

Retiring Board member Zipprodt reported on his committee's consideration of the college nepotism policy which had been brought before the Board several months ago. Zipprodt recommended that the Board "take a look" at the policy for possible changes, and the Board approved a motion to have the college legal counsel prepare a brief on the policy.

Faculty Association Constitution Approved

The Parkland College Association (faculty organization) new constitution and by-laws were approved by the Board, and Earl Creutzberg, who was elected president of the association for a year's term on Tuesday, was introduced to the Board.

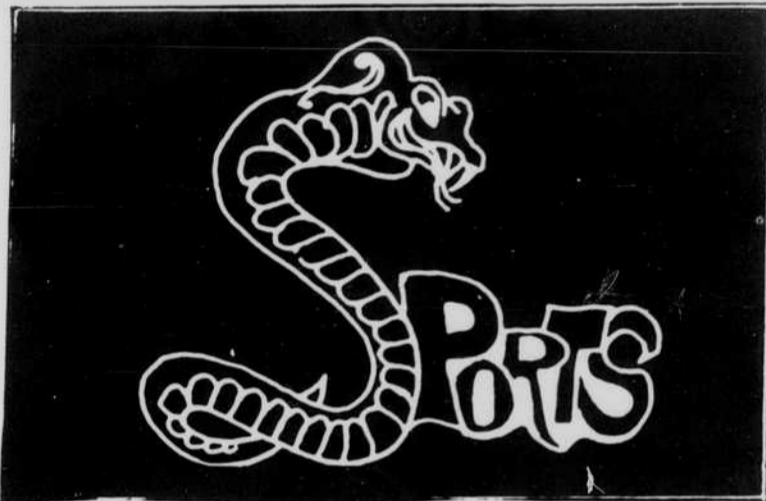

PC Faculty Art Exhibit

Parkland College Faculty Art Exhibit is being shown now through May 6 at the Illini Union Art Gallery. Those included in this show are: Juanita La Verne Gammon, Donald K. Lake, W. Lee Conant Jr. and Maryrose Pilcher.

Most of Juanita Gammon's exhibits are acrylics, water color and very detailed oils. Lake is an impressionistic painter plus he does abstract interiors and landscapes. Lee Conant mixes and makes his own watercolors. Maryrose Pilcher works exclusively with pottery and ceramics.

There are forty works on exhibit express through mediums of oil, acrylic, serigraph, crayon, pencil drawing, charcoal and clay.

Some of these works are entitled Pale Winter in Champaign by Gammon, Foolsland by Conant, Saturday Morning by Lake and Set of 2 Dark Brown Covered Jars in Stoneware by Maryrose Pilcher.

KNOW YOUR CANDIDATE

Student Government Elections Will They Pass or Fail?

During the past week, as candidates have prepared for the upcoming elections for next year's Student Government posts, certain tactics have been used which are very unbecoming to both the candidates and to Parkland College.

This is, perhaps, the most important election ever held at Parkland. What with a soaring enrollment, more responsibility is placed upon the shoulders of the prospective Student Government members. Each position is an important one. Each senator and executive officer has a specific job to do, and if one person fails, so too does the student government.

The tactics I mentioned include namecalling, degrading rumors being circulated about certain candidates, and out-and-out untrue statements about who and what organizations are backing what candidates. A rumor has circulated that the PROSPECTUS, as a group, is supporting Bob Bales for president. This statement, wherever it originated, is

NOT TRUE. Bob Bales is an outstanding, qualified candidate, but so is his opponent, Dave Friedmann. As a group, the PROSPECTUS does not support any one candidate for any position. Because we are a student newspaper operating for the benefit of every student at Parkland College, we are unable to endorse any specific person.

On Tuesday, May 11, a debate is scheduled for any candidate who wishes to present his platform. Due to a prior engagement in Peoria, Dave Friedmann will be unable to participate in the debate. Bob Bales, in a very sportsman-like move, has stated that since his opponent cannot present his platform, he will not present his either.

I strongly urge every student to disregard any of the rumors you may have heard. I also urge every Parkland student to read the qualifications, as presented by the candidates themselves on this page, and attend the debate on May 11, and make your own decision based on each candidate's qualifications.

David A. Friedmann President

As a member of various campus organizations and in particular Student Government, I feel that my experience could be of benefit to the Student Association were I to be elected President of the Student Body.

Below are listed some areas of involvement since my entrance into Parkland in March of last year:

- 1) Originator of S.A.S.L.A.--Student Association Scholarship and Loan Agency.
- 2) Director of P.S.C.A.C.--Parkland Students Community Action Committee.
- 3) Bull Page Editor of the Prospectus.
- 4) Campus Organization Senator.
- 5) President of IOC--Inter Organizational Council.
- 6) President of Parkland Veterans Association.

I offer for your consideration a ten-point program which I intend to pursue if elected:

- 1) Continued participation and close support of ILLIACCS--Illinois Association of Community College Students, which is a representative group with statewide affiliation in the area of education.
- 2) Continued support of the Student Advisory Board to the Governor and Board of Higher Education, of which it is Parkland's privilege to be the only Junior College represented.
- 3) Opposition to House Bill 559, which is aimed at ending veteran scholarships in Illinois and to any and all legislation aimed at curbing or curtailing educational assistance within the state.
- 4) Continued support of Student Association Scholarship and Loan Agency (S.A.S.L.A.) to insure that it reaches its intended potential of offering assistance through either scholarships or short-term loans to 540 students each academic year.

5) To establish, if possible, an informal meeting bi-weekly with Dean Gary James, Dean of Students, which any and all interested students may attend, to discuss school problems or potential problems or ideas of benefit to the school. I hope thereby to establish a direct communication link between the administration and the student body.

6) Bi-weekly reports to the student body at large in conjunction with the Student Government Secretary and the Publications Senator to keep all students informed of their Student Government's activities. I hope by employing this method to encourage student interest pro or con in the actions of their representative body.

7) Close cooperation with the Campus Organizations Senator in promoting the Inter Organizational Council, as a representative body of all the student organizations on campus whose function will be to promote student interest and encourage participation in existing organizations or newly-formed activities.

8) To aid the Senators of Convocations and Fine Arts, Athletics and Student Services to fulfill their functions of providing maximum programs, athletics, and services to the students.

9) To work strenuously to further the Parkland Students Community Action Committee (PSCAC), which works with youth in the county to promote community interest in Parkland.

10) To use my experience and my position to the best of my ability to further the interests of all the students and our college.

Robert D. Bales President

As a candidate for the presidency of the Student Government of Parkland College, I would like to inform the body of my main objectives and positions on the current existing policies of the organization:

First and foremost, all business brought before the Student Government will be processed according to the existing constitution and by-laws of the organization. The members of the Student Government will be encouraged, by me, to make every attempt to assist members of the student body with any projects of interest to them. All personnel will be urged to keep their office hours and I will have published in the Prospectus a schedule of times, as well as, the senator or officer's name, and his or her specific areas of concern. This will be revised at the beginning of each quarter. In doing this, I hope to eliminate the confusion often faced by students as to whom to contact for each special need.

At this time, there are plans being drawn up for the creation of a "Center Board." The chief aim of this board will be to improve upon established but seemingly ineffective lines of communication between the various working fields of the student government. In addition, it will be used as a means of coordinating the efforts of the various student organizations.

As a secondary, but more important function, I firmly believe that the board and its accurate reporting of issues and activities, will create a larger, more active, concerned, and interested following on the part of the students in the plans and policy making of their Student Government, a practice that has seemingly been pushed aside by the current trend towards government by a few, for a few.

The "Center Board" will be made up of senators in charge of Convocations and Fine Arts, Athletics and Intramurals, Student Services, and Student Organizations. In addition, three students from the Student Association will be available to assist students with programs in the fields of drama, debate, and publication. The board will not be limited to only these fields, but will remain open to expansion as new areas of interest are developed and expanded.

All officers of campus organizations will be encouraged to develop new programs or expand existing programs in an effort to interest and activate more students in the fine organizations available.

It is my greatest desire to involve and interest as many students at Parkland in becoming active followers, or critics, of the policies of the Student Government. The finest plans laid down by the Student Government are not all effective if they do not satisfy the needs of the student body. Your right to be represented and considered is balanced equally with your responsibility to voice your desires or needs. Become concerned, make a choice, and please vote on May 12 or 13.

John Stuckey-Vice President

The duties of Vice-President are as follows: preside over meetings; vote in order to break a tie; and serve as first in line in the transition schedule.

The most important of these is presiding over meetings. A good Vice-President must be a master of parliamentary procedure and have complete control of all meetings.

Having served the winter and spring quarters this year as Vice-President, I feel I am best qualified to serve in that capacity again next year.

My credentials are as follows:

owns:

1) One year as state Vice-President of the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America, where my main accomplishment was re-writing the state constitution.

2) One quarter as Senator of Publications at Parkland.

3) Two quarters as Vice-President of Student Government at Parkland College.

4) Presently I've been actively involved in State Politics by leading a campaign to free Junior College Construction Funds.

Without a new campus, our credits aren't even worth the paper they are written on.

5) I have been actively working with the Board of Directors of the Illinois Association of Community College Students to organize all state associations into one union with more than just social interests.

6) I am presently a candidate for Divisional Director of the Political and Community Involvement Division of the Illinois Association of Community College Students.

7) I am a member of the Student Advisory Committee to the Illinois Board of Higher Education. Only 38 students in Illinois have the privilege of serving on this committee.

MY PLATFORM

While other members of Student Government have roles of carrying out student relations and activities, I think we also need to be involved in statewide educational affairs, and to be a part of policy and decision making bodies. This is the role I can and will provide this college just as I have done this year.

I feel I can provide this school with experience and benefits that my opponent cannot.

I am tired of seeing Junior Colleges awarded second class status, and it is time that this college is part of the solution, not the problem. We must take this opportunity as students to break into the political world.

So please cast your vote for me, John Stuckey, as Vice-President of your Student Government. I'm sure you will not regret it.

KNOW YOUR CANDIDATE

Bob Hilton Treasurer

It is a widely known fact that apathy is fairly rampant in our school. Because of this, I feel that a stronger rapport between the students and the student government is needed. The amount of money available for student spending should be a matter of public record, updated at least monthly, and posted in the student center.

I served four years as a financial troubleshooter in the U.S.A.F and three years as a corporate cost accountant. I am an accounting major and these are the reasons I am most qualified to be treasurer of the student government. I earnestly solicit your vote.

Thank You,
Bob Hilton

Terry Cassidy Campus Organizations

I am qualified for the office of Campus Organizations Senator. I will actively strive to meet the needs of the students, to guide and encourage the formation of clubs and organizations. With the positions I have held this year at Parkland and the organizations I have been involved with, I can fully meet the responsibility of Campus Organizations Senator.

Diane Topping Secretary

I am running for secretary for next year. I was elected as secretary this spring to take the former secretary, Yvonne Cooper's place.

I feel that I am qualified for this position because of my previous experiences in Student Government in High School and from my job as secretary this spring.

Vote for me this spring and help me continue as Student Government secretary. Thank you.

Diane Topping
Secretary,
Student Government

Becky Terrell Convocations

My name is Becky Terrell. I am running for the position of Senator of Convocations and fine Arts.

I became interested in this position when I saw the time and experience that was needed to fill this position. This office is important because it reaches the majority of the students at one time or another by watching a movie or looking at an art exhibit.

My experience began before I even became a freshman at Parkland. I became involved in helping plan Student Activity Day which informs the students of the extracurricular activities at Parkland. Finding there was a vacancy on the Student Government I ran for Senator of Public Relations and was elected. While still searching for what I wanted to major in, I became interested in accounting. So my second year at Parkland I ran for treasurer and was elected. During the summer following my election I served on a committee of the executive board and other interested students to plan the movies, and a basic outline of the programs for this year.

During the past two years I have attended conventions for leadership and how to improve junior college campuses.

I will be the first student to serve for three years on the Parkland Student Government. I not only feel I have the ability and interest to fill this position, but I have the most experience.
