PC news in brief

GARFIELD PRESS

Parkland's student newspaper, Prospectus, has a new publisher this year after two years of service from the Farmer City Journal in Farmer City, Illinois.

Garfield Press, 317 South Garfield in Champaign, will handle the Prospectus printing this year. The local press, run by Larry Gilbert, submitted the low bid edging out the Journal and Rantoul Press in Rantoul.

Garfield Press also handles school papers for Champaign Central and Champaign Centennial high schools as well as printing the Parkland College student handbook.

HISTORY

The Parkland College Continuing Education or Evening Program will introduce two new course offerings to commemorate the bicentennial year. Revolutionary America: A History of America's War for Independence, GSC 823, and Understanding East Central Illinois' Past, GSE 824, are General Studies offerings which commence August 25 and conclude in mid and late October.

Revolutionary America will cover revolutionary ideas and philosophy, military history, society and culture, and the experience of women, blacks and Indians in the Revolution. It will meet on Wednesday from 7-9:45 p.m., August 25-October 31.

Understanding East Central Illinois' Past is a survey of the cultural, economic and political factors, and people who shaped East Central Illinois. It will meet on Tuesday from 7:30-9:20 p.m., August 25-October 17.

General Studies courses offer one-three semester hours of credit which may be applied towards completion of certificates in: Developmental Studies, Preparatory Studies, Basic Skills; Personal Development; Intellectual and Cultural Studies; Health, Safety, and Environment; Community and Civic Development; Homemaking; Family Relations; Development and/or Review of Vocational Skills.

LIFE WITHOUT THE CARD . . .

(CPS)—Going through college without the omnipotent identification card is tricky but it can be done.

Marc Weisberg, a freshman at Chico State, CA, vociferously refused to be photographed for his I.D. card.

That threw the administration into a tizzy and directives started coming down from the top revoking Marc's library and health service privileges.

"I didn't want to have the picture taken, it isn't required by law, and they don't have it at Sonora or San Francisco State," Weisberg argued.

He claimed his identity as an individual was threatened, and that society is too standardized with records, files, numbers, finger prints, and I.D. cards.

Using his fee receipt for many college services, Weisberg has been able to get by, although he still has no access to the library.

$70,000 budget handled by PC student government

BY GARY MILLER AND MAX GEPNER

The Student Government of Parkland College is one of the most powerful student groups among the community colleges in Illinois. The fourteen elected members that serve on the government control a $70,000.00 budget which is used to sponsor various activities, such as intermural sports, varsity athletics, Prospectus, the many clubs and organizations, band concerts, lectures and movies, to mention a few items. The Student Government also is available for students to bring forth their grievances. Since the President of Stu-Go has a seat on the Board of Trustees, the complaints will be heard by the Board of Trustees. If appropriate action is not taken by the Board, the Government will take any necessary action. For example, last year Student Government sponsored a successful boycott of the food service when the student body felt that a price increase was unjustified.

As elected representatives of the student body, officers and senators have an obligation to their constituency. The officers make up the executive branch and the senators make up the legislative branch of the Stu-Go. Motions which affect school policy originate in the senate and are passed or failed by the senate after debate. The President has the power to veto motions and the senate has the power to over-ride a Presidential veto. Some examples of motions made by the senate last year dealt with buying a car for use by the clubs; motions for chartering and paying several clubs, a motion for passing a budget which allowed the clubs, Prospectus, athletics, and several other activities to continue in existence. These are just a few of the many motions and issues the Stu-Go dealt with.

The executive branch of Government is composed of the President, Vice-President, Secretary and Treasurer. These positions are salaried; the officers receive $225.00 per year. The Executive Board meets weekly for a minimum of one hour to discuss government business. They are required to keep three office hours per week.

The President, currently Tom McMullan, has a working knowledge of the Constitution, procedures by By-Laws of the Senate. He/She should know the duties of all other officers and senators, and be able to assist them in the performance of their jobs. He/She is a member of the Board of Trustees. Furthermore, he/she presides at meetings of the executive board and coordinates their activities.

The Vice Presidency, presently being served by Gary Miller, requires a thorough knowledge of Robert's Rules of Order and the Constitution, because this officer impartially presides at all Senate meetings. In the event that the President is unable to continue in office, the Vice President takes over; therefore he/she should be able to perform those duties as well.

Terry McQuinn is serving in the heavy position of Secretary, and as such keeps all Student Government records and takes minutes at each meeting. He/She is also responsible for seeing that the office is run in an orderly and businesslike manner. Being responsible for all government correspondence, the secretary should have sufficient command over the English language.

The man in charge of Stu-Go's funds is Jerry Eads. The treasurer is responsible for seeing that the budget of his/her finance board is adhered to and that no accounts are overdrawn. To do this efficiently, he/she must keep precise records of all transactions. At each meeting he/she is required to report all funds expended during the past week. Finally, he/she is responsible for the finance board's activities.

The Senator of Campus Organizations, presently Jerry Hart, serves as chairperson of the Campus Organizations Committee, which advises Stu-Go to accept or reject club applications; he/she presides at meetings of the Inter-Organization Council, which coordinates the activities of clubs. He/She should be aware of what each club is doing and procure minutes of each various meeting. The Campus Organizations Senator can be found in the Stu-Go office for a minimum of three hours a week.

John Weeks is responsible for the entertainment you will see on campus this year. The Convocations senator is chairperson of the Convocations Committee, and together they plan and book movies, bands and lecturers. If you would like to talk with John, he will be serving at least three office hours a week.

Max Gepner was appointed by the Senate to serve as Student Services Senator for the Summer quarter. This Senator is chairperson of the Student Services Standing Committee. The Committee plans social functions, such as dances, for the student body. Furthermore, they organize trips to various places of interest to the students. Student Services also works in conjunction with the Convocations senator to plan social events. This senator can be reached during his/her three office weekly hours.

The following senate positions (as well as Student Services) will be up for election in September.

The Athletics Senator is chairperson of the Athletics Committee. With the Committee, he/she assists in the operation of the intermural program and intercollegiate games. He/She arranges an annual awards program. With the Athletic Department, he/she develops a budget to be approved by Stu-Go.

Three Day Senators and two Evening Senators will be elected this fall. These senators specifically represent the day and evening students respectively. To keep in touch with their constituency, the senators sponsor an open forum at least once a semester to discuss government activities and gather opinions to relate at government meetings. They also serve on special committees, such as food service.

The Hartline

By Jerry L. Hart

I would like to take this opportunity to welcome all the new students to Parkland College, one of the best of junior colleges in the states, and to welcome back all the second year students.

I am writing this column to inform the student of some of the things going on in different campus organizations, student government and the school administration that do not normally get published. This is an effort to get the student body informed, interested and concerned about things that directly involve them. Typical items of concern are the Canteen, Student Government and policies, Administration policies and financial assistance, Instructors policies about different classes and class subjects offered. As you can see, there are many things we students must concern ourselves about other than just going to classes.

One of the really most important items of immediate concern is the student government elections coming up the first part of September. Any student who would like to learn a little about government operations and help govern the spending of approximately $75,000.00 this next school year, can learn first hand through experience by running for the various offices during the election in September. I encourage any and all interested parties to run for office; not only is it rewarding, but a lot of fun campaigning and meeting new people. Everyone has new ideas to contribute so that we all will benefit by each other's experiences.

We have here at Parkland about 30 campus organizations, and we all are looking for new members. These organizations are all partially funded by your student government. Some of the new projects to be dealt with this year are a yearbook and a means to represent all campus organizations and inform the rest of the student body of the specific organizations' activities. This in addition to IOC. As president of IOC (Inter-Organizational Council), I have a need for students in organizations to participate in IOC as officers (vice-president, secretary, treasurer).

I want all students to know that if they do not understand about a particular policy of Stu-go or the administration, please let me know by dropping a note in my box at Stu-go office, or see me in my office. Remember, understanding comes from asking questions.

IOC to meet September 2

The first meeting of the Inter-Organizational Council will be held Tuesday, September 2, at noon in X-161.

It is imperative that all organizations have a REPRESENTATIVE present at this meeting (preferably the President or Treasurer).

Discussion will be directed toward program planning for the Fall Semester, methods of applying for your organization's allocation from student senate, student elections, use of organizational work area, services of student activities relating to ditto machine, sign machine, mailboxes and other related information.

Plan NOW to have your representative at this important first meeting of Fall 1975.

The Kaleidoscope

By Gary Miller

In my first column of the year I would like to welcome the incoming freshmen. Along with this welcome comes a hope—a hope that students will take in interest in the affairs on campus. Many students and faculty members are not aware and a few are not even concerned about the legislation handed down by the Board of Trustees and Student Government. This is truly a sad predicament because these actions affect the people who learn and work here almost as much as most of the policies of state and local government. The Trustees and Stu-Go make legislation such as tuition costs and general school policy. The budget of the Student Government alone is about $70,000 annually.

The sad fact of student unawareness of school politics can only be alleviated by people who care, and this column is written for those people who want to be knowledgeable and become involved in school issues — the people who care about what goes on here.

I will bring forth many facts that most people are probably not aware of. This year I will deal with items such as a possible breach of contract by the Administration with Stu-Go concerning the loss of student scholarship funds, and I will discuss the legality of a letter I received from the Administration threatening to hold my registration. Other problems I intend to discuss are the excessive profits made by the bookstore and the consumption of $138,000 of student activity money toward the building of the gym.

Everything I write will be my opinion, but the cases I bring forth are very real and could affect Parkland students in monetary value as much as a rise in tuition. If you question the truth of any of my columns, I suggest that you research the matter for yourself. If you are a part of that nearly extinct breed — the non-aphathetic student — I encourage you to involve yourself with the issues and make your ideas and opinions heard by attending Stu-Go meetings. The truly ambitious might even want to run for office in the upcoming election.

Student paper needs help

If you think you can do a better job of putting together a newspaper than the one you are now reading, the Parkland College Prospectus needs your assistance.

With most of last year's staff gone, the Prospectus has openings for several able-bodied journalists ready and willing to begin work immediately.

Applications are available in the Office of Student Activities (X153) or from Prospectus advisor, Mike Babcock (C223). Though experience is not necessary, the Prospectus is especially interested in people who have worked on student publications for the salariated editorial positions including editor-in-chief, managing editor, sports editor, features editor and news editor.

The editor-in-chief is selected from applicants by the Publications Board in consultation with the newspaper advisor and the Assistant Dean of Student Activities, and will not be named until the second or third issue.

Another key position, that of advertising manager, is also open to applicants. The advertising manager works on a 10-percent commission and should be able to spend several hours each week contacting local businesses. No selling experience is necessary and assistance will be provided by the Prospectus staff.

Paid advertising dictates the size of Prospectus since the newspaper works on a limited budget allocated by student government.

Various unsalaried positions are also available. For example, if you would like to contribute a regular special-interest column you should contact the Prospectus advisor.

This year's publication schedule calls for bi-monthly issues beginning with the first, September 9. In addition, the Prospectus plans a series of workshops for staff members in such areas as editing, layout, photography, etc.

Students interested in competing on the Parkland College varsity golf team should contact Don Grothe (B136).

Political? run in stugo election

Student government establishes new goals

BY MAX GEPNER

The Student Government which met regularly over the summer decided to put on paper some goals to strive for over the coming year. Along with the new goals, the Government wants to continue working toward some of last year's goals as well. One such goal identified last year was the setting up of a day care center for the use of student-parents. The hope and hard work from last year will pay off this year when the day care center becomes a reality. This accomplishment is due to the hours of research and polling by Stu-Go and many interested students. Other projects begun last year and which will continue this year include attempting to improve the food service and lowering of bookstore prices.

One of the main goals for this year is to get more student involvement. This has been a problem in the past; hopefully, through publicity like this, the problem will be alleviated. To facilitate student involvement, Stu-Go meeting times will always be posted in the paper and around the school, and the end of each meeting will be open to students to question their senators and make suggestions and comments.

Several committees will be formed this year, such as bookstore, investigation, and, if the need arises, an emergency committee to work on special problems. These committees usually are composed of one or two senators, but they are largely made up of interested individuals in the student body. These people research the problem, make suggestions to the Government, and initiate necessary action. If you would like to become involved in Stu-Go this year, either as a senator or committee person, you are encouraged to drop in at the Stu-Go office, X160. Your services are badly needed and will be greatly appreciated.

Your student government governs you and gives you, as an individual student, a voice in the development of policy, programs, activities, and special events in the life of the student body of Parkland College.

If you are interested in participating in the policy making and program planning of your college, it is important that you become acquainted with your student senate. All members of your student senate are elected by you.

During the first two weeks of this semester, interested students will be securing petitions and applications for student senate. Experience is not necessary — just the desire and willingness to help your student body grow.

The members of the student association, you, will be electing students to govern you for the coming college year. Here is an opportunity for you to lead your students this year. Of course, your first comment is that you do not know enough students to be elected to office. At this moment, this may be the case—but remember—every student in is in the "same boat." What's the next step—securing of an application—talking to students—mounting a publicity campaign—an interest to be elected.

What do you do as an elected body? First, you develop and recommend policy and procedures for implementing of programs and ethics, and election board, student affairs, financial aids, health service, commencement budget and investigation committee. Finally, they will assist other Senators with their projects.

$70,000 budget

The final position up for election this fall is the Senator of Public Relations. He/She is chairperson of the Public Relations Committee, whose purpose it is to develop a budget, and make recommendations to the Publications Board, of which the senator is a member. He/She presents pertinent information about Stu-Go to the paper and Sprinkler for publication, as well as to the Regional Association of College Unions — International and the Illinois Association of Colleges and Junior Colleges. He/She also informs the college public relations Board of Stu-Go happenings.

If you are interested in participating in the policy making and program planning of your college during the first two weeks of the semester you should secure a petition and application for the student senate. To be a candidate for these positions, (Day and Evening senators, athletic senator, Public Relations senator, and Student Services senator) you must currently be enrolled in Parkland college.

structure for the college; second, you strive toward determining the needs of all students—day and evening; and third, you authorize the expenditure of funds assigned to the student senate through the study activity fee and revenue secured through programs and activities of your student senate.

What offices are available to you at Parkland College on the student senate? They are:

Day Senator (elect three) — these senators are liaison and contact people for the student needs and interest. These three senators shall know the "pulse" of the student body and implement their needs and interest Evening Senators (elect two) — Only students enrolled totally in the evening program are eligible for these positions. These senators are charged with the development of programs and activities for the evening student.

Senator - Public Relations — This senator is responsible for the areas of student publications, publicity for functions on campus, and the important task of "getting the facts" to the student body.

Senator - Athletics — This senator is responsible for the promotion, implementation, and intercollegiate athletics for both men and women, the cheerleaders, and the intramural program of the college. It is imperative that this person know the operation of physical education and have an interest in athletics for the total student body.

Senator - Student Services — This senator is responsible for the coordinating of the social functions of the student body. This senator must be aware of the social interests of the majority of the student body and strive to present activities that will be of interest to the students.

To be a candidate for these positions, a student must be currently enrolled at Parkland College. If you are interested in any of these positions, please contact the office of student activities (X-153) or contact the student senate office. Applications and job descriptions are available upon request.

Student elections Sept. 9-10

Elections will be conducted on September 9 and 10 with a September 4, at noon in X161. It is imperative that all candidates secure an application and job description as soon as possible.

The requirements for all candidates is that each candidate be enrolled at Parkland College. Specific requirements are designated in the student association constitution (this constitution is in your Survival Handbook).

For the third straight year the increasingly popular Fast Freddy will be providing regular lists of college football games for Parkland College prognosticators to test their forecasting powers.

Each week during the football season ten games will be supplied by Freddy, with the best predictor winning a $5.00 cash prize and the opportunity to see hers/his picture in the Prospectus.

The first contest is in this issue, though Fast Freddy readily admits the games this time will test even the most avid football fans. Future contests will feature more familiar teams like Illinois, Southern Illinois, Notre Dame, Ohio State, Michigan and Nebraska.

Students interested in competing on the Parkland College varsity cross country team should contact Parkland athletic director Joe Abbey.

(CPS)—A British medical study of nonsmokers released late last month revealed that nicotine is present in the blood and urine of nonsmokers simply because they associate with others who do smoke.

"The fact that some nicotine is present in the urine of almost all nonsmokers suggests that episodes of passive smoking are common in urban life," the medical team preparing the study noted.

IM offers competition

Students interested in participating in intramural sports should contact the Intramural Office located in the Activities Organization's Office (X153).

Parkland College offers a wide range of intramural sports for both men and women. The intramural program involves a less formalized competition than is gained in the intercollegiate program but a more formal competitive structure than found in physical education classes.

Intramural sports for the 1975-76 year include: touch football, basketball, softball, volleyball, tennis, golf, track and field, jogging, one-on-one basketball, and others.

Students are encouraged not only to participate but also to assist in the development and operation of the various programs.

Activities will be conducted at the Champaign Armory in addition to the use of local facilities in the Champaign-Urbana area. Upon completion of the physical education facility on campus, all indoor activities will be conducted in the new physical education plant.

Insurance available

Health and accident insurance is available to all students enrolled in not less than eight hours.

Some of the benefits include major medical protection, hospital room and board, hospital miscellaneous expenses, treatment by a legally qualified physician or surgeon, dental treatment to natural teeth if caused by accident, and other services.

For further information and details, please contact your Health Service Office (X208) which is located on second floor of the college center, just above the college bookstore.
