PC Speech, Debate Rap Opponents

Forensics Squad Third In 27 Team Field

Parkland College's Speech team traveled to DuPage College this past weekend and captured third place in the team championship.

Competing against twenty-four other teams, comprised of both universities and community colleges, Parkland rolled up 124 team points to finish behind tournament champion, Illinois State University, and runner-up Belleville Area College.

Victories for Parkland came in duet acting with the team of Jackie Farber and her sister, Lisa, placing second. Performing the characters in Tennessee Williams' play, Something Unspoken, the two sisters swept through the preliminary rounds before placing second in the final.

In addition to the second place trophy in duet acting, Parkland's team grabbed the third place award in Readers' Theatre. Readers' Theatre is a team event in which members read from a script and interpret the work without actually acting. The thirty-minute performance was taken from Jean Claude Van Itollie's contemporary work, American Hurrah.

Parkland will travel to Highland College in Freeport, Illinois on February 7-8 for another forensics tournament.

The team will compete in duet acting, prose interpretation, poetry interpretation, after dinner speaking, and persuasion.

Young Republicans To Try Again

There will be a meeting of the Young Republicans Wednesday night at the Ramada Inn, Champaign.

Refreshments will be served and the speakers will include John Hirschfeld and James Sketon.

The event will be free of charge and everyone is invited to attend. The evening events are scheduled to commence at 7:30.

Debate Team Takes 1st In DuPage Tourney

The Parkland College Debate Team traveled to the College of DuPage Forensics and Debate Tournament on January 24-25. Representing Parkland in Lincoln-Douglas Debate were Sylvia Mandel (Fr.-Skokie), Gary Miller (Fr.-Rantoul), Tanny Heaton (So.-Rantoul), John Tennyson (So.-Champaign), David Wiechman (So.-Rantoul), and Bob Dees (So.-Urbana).

There were eight rounds of switch-side L.D. debate over the two day period against teams from Illinois State University; Jackson College, Michigan; Joliet Junior College; Normandale College, Minnesota; Northern Illinois University; North Park College; Rock Valley College; Southeastern; and Washash College, Indiana.

Sylvia Mandel, Parkland, captured the championship with an 8 win-0 loss record. This was only the third tournament ever for the freshman novice who defeated seasoned-varsity opponents. Results for the Parkland College debaters were: Miller (6-2) for 6th place; Tennyson (5-3), Heaton (5-3), Wiechman (5-3 and Dees (3-5). The Parkland Team combined for a 32 win 16 loss record.

The debate tournament results were Parkland 1st place; Jackson, Michigan 2nd; Rock Valley 3rd. For the season, Parkland Debaters have compiled a 51 win-29 loss record. Parkland is the defending Midwest Community College Champion.

Standing—Bob Beam, Watseka; Lisa Farber, Champaign; David Gentry, Tolono, and Jackie Farber, Champaign.

StuGo Ends Boycott Against Canteen

Student Government ended the boycott against Canteen Tuesday. Last week, Canteen cut the price of potato chips back to 15 cents, but made few other concrete concessions to students' demands.

Gary Miller, Day Senator, stated that the Canteen representative cited current cost trends as the reason for high prices. The representative said that Canteen needed the price raise to stay in business at Parkland.

To decrease their expenses, Canteen had asked the Board of Trustees to remove Parkland's 6 per cent profit on the food service. The Board refused, but allowed the commission to be reduced to 3 per cent. The Commission will stay at this level.

President Staerkel stated that Canteen is using the extra money to open a temporary food storage area on campus. The building has not yet opened, and food will probably not be served from it.

Staerkel expressed hope that Canteen - student relations will improve. "Canteen is going to have daily specials," he said. "They are doing this on their own, and it indicates some effort on their part."

"We proved we could do it, that StuGo has guts. We proved it to the Administration," said Senior Senator David Wiechman. But Miller was less pleased, saying, "We can't do any more. If Administration doesn't act, Canteen will stay."

Sylvia Mandel, Senator of Convocations, was also dissatisfied. "The food has improved, but for how long? The situation is the same. We still have no real voice in the food service policy." Mandel and Senator of Student Services Tanny

Heaton are considering using the remainder of the quarter to organize another boycott, to start next quarter. Both Mandel and Wiechman said that students were returning to Canteen, but Mandel felt that the lack of variety in the boycott menu caused this. But Wiechman said, "The groups were getting tired."

Regarding food quality, last week the Canteen said hamburgers will now be cooked to order, and not left to sit around for an hour. Miller reported that Canteen does not intend to change the composition of their hamburger meat. The meat is presently 80 per cent beef and 20 per cent fat. Public Relations Senator Rich Hedren will check the Snack Bar periodically, and report any health violations to Student Government.

Canteen has also appointed a new manager to act as liaison between Student Government and Canteen. Wiechman and Staerkel both stated that Canteen had been given bad publicity by the Parkland boycott.

UFO Expert Speaks Today

Dr. J. Allen Hynek, scientist and chairman of the Department of Astronomy at Northwestern University, will speak on "The UFO Experience" at Parkland College on Tuesday, Feb. 4 at 11 a.m. in C118.

Since its founding, he has been the official astronomical consultant to the U. S. Air Force's Project Blue Book, the official clearing-house for all UFO reports. He also served as the Associate Director of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory in Cambridge and headed its NASA-sponsored Sputnik tracking program.

A native of Chicago, Dr. Hynek has had many illustrious posts in his scientific career. He has been at Northwestern University since 1960, and director of its Lindheimer Astronomical Research Center since 1964.

The greatest problem in the area of UFO sightings is that most of the sightings are either not believed by local police forces and are therefore not reported to UFO authorities, or they are erroneously and falsely reported as a joke. Dr. Hynek neither believes nor disbelieves in flying saucers. However, he does think that there are too many officially sighted and reported UFO's to ignore the fact of them completely.

Dr. Hynek's recently published book, The UFO Experience: A Scientific Inquiry, thoroughly documents and analyses every UFO sighting in the U.S. and abroad.

Quarter To Semester System Switch Coming

BY BECKY HULLINGER

A decision was made last February that will effect everyone here at Parkland. That decision is changing from early quarters to early semesters. The decision was made by the board. The members of that board included division representatives: Rita Gallahue, Business; Cathy Livingston, Communications; John Conley, Instructional Resource Services; Victor Cox, Life Sciences; William O. Smith Jr., Math and Physical Science; Richard Norris, Physical Education; Judy Cowger, Social Sciences; Homer Foster, Student Services. The deans were Donald Swank, Dean of Instruction, and Harris Moeller, Dean of Students. The chairman was Dale Ewing. The two student representatives were Jane Gothard and Frank P. Hansbrough.

It took a lot of thought and research into the pros and cons of changing over to the early semester, but the board felt that the change would be the best thing for Parkland to do. There are many reasons for the change, among them are:

1. No final exams or term papers to worry about over Christmas break.
2. We'll end our semester in early or mid May. This will allow students to get a head start (or equal opportunity) in attempting to find summer employment.
3. You'll only have to purchase textbooks twice a year instead of three.
4. More time for spending on term papers, or outside reading.

Disadvantages are:

1. Early semester institutions have to begin their school in late August. This is a disadvantage to many students who are employed in summer jobs through Labor Day.
2. Some students complain that the early semester, being compressed in total time, causes them anxiety in trying to complete all assignments before Christmas. Some students prefer the Christmas holidays for completing term papers.

Something that students want to be careful of in registering for the next quarter is sequences in sources. If you're not sure about if you are in a sequence make sure you find out from your advisor or counselor. Since all the divisions have to change the curriculum it has allowed them to re-evaluate the courses they are offering to students. As far as students who are planning to transfer to a compact school this changing will have no effect on transferring. Mr. Ewen felt that, "the longer we wait to change the more difficult it will be to change, because we're growing."

Students who have entered Parkland College under a catalog other than the new one which will be coming out next year, have two options. First of all if the requirements for completing your course has changed you can use the old catalog, the one you entered under. Secondly, you can use the new catalog requirements, if you want to change. You cannot however use part of one and part of the other. It has to be one or the other.

Some courses will be shorter in length than the others. This is because some students may not need both parts of a course, and also some people for instance farmers may want to take a short course in something and not have the time to take a complete semester, so by offering courses in a shorter amount of time allows them to take the course.

If you feel that you are hurt by this change see your advisor or counselor for individual help in working out your program. A guide book will be coming out to help students who have taken part of a program and need to know what they have to take to complete the program. Check with your advisor or counselor about how this change is affecting you, it's important to know what you're doing no so the transition from quarters to semesters is as easy and consistent as possible. 1976 will be as follows:

STUGO ENDS BOYCOTT

Canteen originally became Parkland's food service in a bidding competition before this campus opened. Oscar Lanphar, Parkland business manager, drew up a clause in the contract, "in good faith," according to Staerkel, stating that all bidders had to have a home office located within a 20-mile radius of Champaign - Urbana. "Of course, some bidders were excluded by this," Staerkel said. "We had no experience in food service at that time, and we wanted to insure a good back-up operation."

Staerkel also promised that when Canteen's contract comes up next year, the Board of Trustees will allow re-bidding, and will re-examine the 20-mile radius.

Assistant Dean of Student Activities Dick Karch concluded, "The boycott involved a lot of people, and suddenly brought together many organizations that had never worked together."

White's game is pocket billiards and his repertoire consists of trick shots, hustling, and snappy jokes to psyche out the opposition. White began playing at 8, and learned his techniques from his father and grandfather, both professional billiards players. His family also owned a billiards supply business.

White is rarely defeated; he brought down amateur hustler Jackie Gleason seven times.

Jack White has exhibited his talents before presidents and on TV, and at schools and military installations. He feels his game is good, clean, family fun.

editorials

After two weeks of staggering woozily to its feet, dizzy from countless blows of contempt and ridicule, student government acted out the role of the good dinosaur last week and quietly turned itself off.

Nonplussed over the cold fact that their fortnight-old

If indeed the boycott was not hurting Canteen, the failure of student government is clear. All of the "concessions" they received revolve around the right to bitch and scream and yell and is completely out of the economic sphere.

The most important point in the whole hassle with Canteen has always seemed to us the rather paltry commission we receive from them. It is by no means the least being doled out in the area, but it's right down there with the worst of them. Canteen contends that raising the commission would severely limit their ability to make a profit. If Canteen can lose over half of its midday business and still turn a profit, as Chef Pierre maintains, this assertion becomes rather unfounded.

We hope that when "Phase II" of the boycott begins in the spring, and a new round of negotiations is initiated with Canteen, Student Government keeps the raise in commission as their principal objective. If they can get a few more dollars out of those parasites, then we will believe all this nonsense about "victories" and "viable student voices."

boycott had failed to bring the Canteen Corporation to its knees begging for forgiveness, the war-weary senators came to the unavoidable conclusion that their cause was lost.

Good soldiers to the end, the erstwhile boycotters mustered their last bit of self-righteousness together and claimed victory in the titanic struggle with the tremendously better-equipped food service. "Look", they shouted piously, pointing at the hated snack bar with the sneer of a triumphant army, "note the suggestion box next to the counter. It is because of us and our boycott that you may now submit your complaints about the food in writing, assured they will be heeded."

As cocky as Patton must have been after the Battle of the Bulge, they then turned their arrogant gaze to Canteen's mechanical army of food dispensers, standing helpless in the wake of the StuGo blitz. "And just remember the next time you're in the mood for a chip from one of those 20 buttoned bandits, it is because of us down in the trenches that you will pay 15¢ for them (or 2¢ a chip) instead of 20."

Saving their greatest triumph for last, the conquering heroes turned a cold and uncompromising glare to the library staircase, to the very seat of Parkland power, knowing full well that a battered and beaten president now cowered somewhere up there wondering where the juggernaut had come from, leaving him at its mercy. Yes, it was from the President of the college that the boycotters won their most important concession of the two-week battle. They now could voice their objections to any and all policies adopted by the administration StuGo felt in its infinite wisdom was not in the best interest of Parkland students, before the powers-that-are go ahead and do whatever they damn well please anyway.

As they walked away, the blood of Canteen and President Staerkel still swishing between their teeth, one just didn't have the heart to tell them that this last concession was not a concession at all, but a long ago stated policy of the college.

Alas, it is not consistent with the Judeo-Christian ethic to kick a dead horse, even if the damn beast insists on rising periodically like the phoenix, to elect a new carcass. So let us drop the whole matter of old soldiers withering on the vine, and get back to the business at hand.

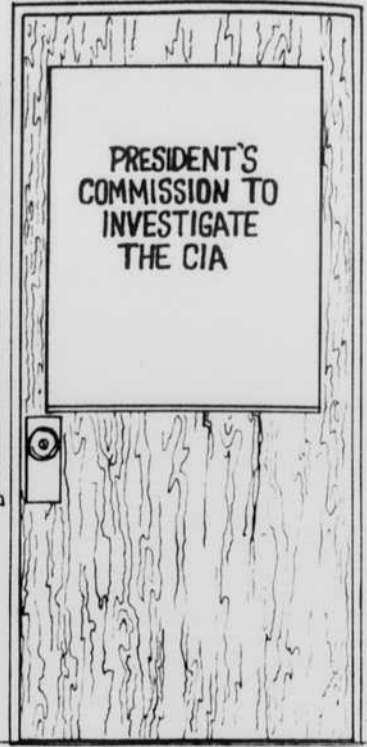

There are a number of people left in student activities who still think the boycott is a good idea. We include ourselves in that number. We cannot believe that Canteen, if presented with the sustained loss of about 75% of their daytime business will remain unyielding in their demand to suck every cent they can out of this school while refusing to give more than pittance back in return.

Their hand was tipped last week when their charming snack-bar chef waddled down to the newspaper office asking what goodies the boycotters were offering that day. When the questioner replied with a grunt, Chef-boy-ar-dee went into the screech about how silly the whole thing was, and offered that the boycott had not cost the snack-bar a penny, an assertion that was dubious at best.

The Kaleidoscope

By Gary Miller

The past month has probably been one of the busiest that this college has ever seen because of the boycott. What we must remember now that the boycott has ended, is that there are still many problems to be solved around Parkland; also, any grievances against Canteen should continue to be pursued. We should by no means consider the boycott's end as a signal to halt working on our problems. To the contrary, the ending of the boycott should signal full speed ahead, because now the administration knows we have the power to group together, coordinate, and get things done. And many things need doing. For one, negotiations with Canteen will still continue. Canteen knows we are not boycotting, but they know we have the power to do so. And the second time is always easier because we know how to do it. I feel we will have more future success in this area. Secondly, the bookstore cannot be forgotten. StuGo was working on the problem before the boycott and we were not getting far. When I talked to the bookstore manager after the boycott she indicated that by the spring quarter the bookstore would have some type of buy-back system operating. Perhaps the boycott had some influential effect in this area. Another project we cannot let die is the day care center. I hear that it is progressing and they are considering various alternatives, and they will solve the problem. The whole point is that this is a first at Parkland College. I believe that the administration, Canteen, and the community seriously doubted that the students could organize and put off a boycott even for two weeks. Let's not let this spirit die; let's keep it living and work out all of our grievances. The boycott started a move that was based on justice and ideals. Let the halting of the boycott be a start, a base to grow on. Before I close, I would like to compliment and thank everyone who participated in the boycott in any way. All the students of this college benefited by this action and it displayed a willingness not to accept things or situations if they are bad, but to change things for the practical benefit of anyone.

The Short Circuit

By David Wiechman

Student government at its Tuesday meeting decided to end the boycott of Canteen until further notice in order to give the Canteen Corp. an opportunity to reform itself. The vote, 5-1, was designed to give the clubs working the alternative food service a chance to study for exams. Sources close to the Senate report that the boycott is over for now, but that Canteen is on an unofficial probation and the boycott could be reinstated next quarter. Other reports confirm that the Senate will consider making preparations immediately for a continuation of the boycott in a few weeks if things get worse. The measure to end the boycott was on a voice vote in response to the heeding of StuGo President Tom McMullen. Vice President Bobbie Reid also supported the move by concluding that "the boycott has been a huge success. We hurt them pretty bad." The co-ordinator of the boycott, Senior Senator David Wiechman told reporters later that although "we didn't get everything we wanted" he felt that "we did get all that we could have gotten." He confided that he had been on the phone to both the district and national offices of the Canteen, trying to get them to lower their prices. Wiechman observed about the boycott, "It proved to everyone that we can do it, and will do it if necessary. In the future if we threaten a boycott they know we can do it. And they know a second time would be more effective than the first." When questioned about some complaints that we didn't get enough from Canteen, Wiechman replied, "It's only a probation, remember. Sure we didn't get everything we wanted, but there were and are limits to what they're willing to concede. Canteen is a big company and could have lasted for years if they were really determined. The people who expected more were usually dreamers, back-seat drivers, arm-chair quarterback sort of people. You know, unrealistic, like." Soon after the Senate's action was announced, President Staerkel's office released a proposal that it claimed will give the students a greater voice in the consideration of any future price raises at Canteen. The letter reads as follows: "Whereas, both the students and the administration wish to promote harmony and ensure the best possible food service for Parkland College, the following procedure is hereby in force to provide the student body a voice and a role in any future decisions to change the pricing of items sold by the college food vendor. "Step 1. Whenever the food vendor feels the need to raise the price of any food item carried by either its vending machines or snack bar in order to remain normally profitable, it must submit this request in writing to the Business Manager at least two weeks prior to the regularly scheduled meeting of the Food Service Committee. Upon receipt of this request, the Business Manager shall immediately send copies to all the members of the said committee. "Step 2. At the regular meeting of the Food Service Committee, the vendor will present the reasons for the requested price increase. The committee may request any additional appropriate information that it feels is necessary to render a proper judgment. If the vendor cannot furnish the information immediately, the meeting will be recessed until such time as the information can be provided. "Step 3. After the Committee is satisfied that all the necessary appropriate information has been submitted, the student representatives will in turn relay the findings back to the entire Student Government. The Senate will consider the request objectively and after due consideration will decide by a simple majority how to instruct the student representatives on the Food Service Committee to vote. "Step 4. The Food Service Committee will reconvene again at least one month after the request was presented to the Committee. After discussion the Committee will vote to accept, modify or reject the vendor's request. The voting members will be two students, two faculty, the Assistant Dean for Student Activities, a member of the nonacademic staff and the college nurse. "Step 5. The administration will then review the Committee's actions, giving maximum consideration to the opinion of the Student Government. If, however, after due consideration, the administration is of the opinion that the best interests of the students and the college are not being served by the recommendation of the Committee, the Committee chairman will then meet with representatives of the Senate and the vendor in an effort to resolve the problems.

Boycott Canteen?

BY SYLVIA MANDEL and TANNY HEATON

Remember that catchy phrase? Student Government started that three weeks ago. We were going to fight inflation. We were going to get better quality food. We were going to get lower prices. What did we get?

We got potato chips lowered to 15 cents. That's right, 15 cents for a 1 oz. bag. The campus clubs were selling 1-1/4 oz. bags of potato chips for the same price.

We also got a voice in future Canteen affairs. This voice comes from a 7-point plan, the 7th being "After all opinions are entered, the administration will do what it thinks is best." Congratulations Student Government, you really did it this time.

At the Student Government meeting Jan. 28, Student Government voted to end the boycott. There was much discussion. Why end the boycott? Dave Wiechman stated our demands had been met, more or less, and that we should quit while we're ahead. Sylvia Mandel made the statement that we hadn't accomplished anything and that we should go to President Staerkel and tell him we want Canteen out and present an alternative food service.

The boycott was successful in that it brought students together—fighting for something they believed in. All students are to be congratulated for sacrificing their stomachs for two weeks and eating hot dogs.

But we just couldn't get it together enough. We needed more planning. In order to have had our demands met we would have had to continue boycotting. But boycotting Canteen doesn't mean providing an alternative food service. It simply means "Don't eat food from Canteen." Eat anything but Canteen. But we just couldn't do that. People didn't care enough to bring food from home. Or just go hungry.

I will admit that today I tasted Canteen's chili. It was edible but I'd have to think twice about whether it was quality food. If the quality has improved, which is questionable, then my question is for how long? And what do we do if and when the quality goes back down again? Boycott for three weeks and hope for another concession?

We have an alternate proposal—continue the boycott unofficially, on your own. Don't buy. If you feel strongly enough you don't need official Stu-Go sanction. Perhaps, if enough of us stop buying, Canteen's profits will go down and they will have no choice but to move out.

To the Editor:

A lot of students sacrificed their time to make Parkland's first boycott a success, but now these efforts could be in vain all because a couple of irresponsible senators out for political gain.

The reason the student government finally ended the boycott was because it had demonstrated the will of the students to resist abuses and their unity. The mature members of the senate: McMullen, Reid, Wiechman, and others realized that the boycott had drove home a lesson to the canteen and the administration that will be of great benefit later on. To go on would risk failure which would destroy our future credibility.

Now Tanny Heaton and her sidekick, Mandel, are trying to wreck everything we've worked for. She has no knowledge of the situation but still she thinks she can take it upon herself to defy the student government. She calls for the boycott to go on when everyone knows it's over for the next couple weeks at least. The only tragic result will be that the canteen will think that the boycott is still going on and will conclude that they have won. Of course it would be false, but the damage will be done.

But what I find disgusting is the way Heaton and Mandel are playing dirty politics with this important issue. At the meeting Sylvia Mandel was all for ending the boycott but then after all that she abstained and claimed that in a letter she was going to write for the paper that she was against ending it. What people don't realize about Heaton is that she is a hypocrite. While in public she is all for a boycott she did not do anything to help the one we had. At the meeting the other senators asked her if she would help, but she refused.

I got a look at the two girls voting records. They both voted against a measure to allow the students to vote in a referendum of Canteen. Surprised? Heaton has a long record of introducing expensive but useless projects. She asked for a guitar and a stereo outfit that was so ridiculous it was thrown out. The girls introduced a measure to allocate funds so they could both go to an entertainment conference in Washington. But the worst thing I found was that Tanny had co-sponsored a bill to give student government members a salary.

In their letter that circulated around the office they claimed nothing had been done during the boycott. The claim we should lower the price of potato chips from the 15¢ it's been ever since we came campus, and the 7-point proposal they allude to is the letter from President Staerkel's office. The 7th point they quote actually reads, "After discussion, the student government will again vote for acceptance or rejection of the proposal, and the student representatives to the committee will be so advised." Nowhere does the line "after all opinions are entered, the administration will do what it thinks best." exist in the President's letter.

As for going to Staerkel and asking him to kick out Canteen, I've heard from many people that it's already been done. As for an alternative food service, I'm told Bobbie Reid already reported to the Administration about the feasibility of bringing in a company called FAWN. Others have spoken about the University food service or McDonalds. And of course trying to throw canteen out is like trying to roll a ball up hill. Unrealistic is the word that can be used to describe all of the people who expect sudden miracles from the boycott.

It's terrible for those girls to suggest that Wiechman betrayed students when it was him that first called for this boycott and was the co-ordinator of it. From what I've seen, he is being realistic in trying to negotiate some concessions from canteen.

But I don't need to make my point further. At the end of Heaton's letter her true motives are exposed. All Heaton's talk about remembering who supported the students at the next election shows that all she is interested in is buying votes. I feel, as many other students I have talked to feel, that these two senators should turn in their resignation.

To the Editor:

I have been asked by the PCS Committee on Child Care to inform you of our progress. The committee membership includes administrators, faculty, students, and representatives of student government, and through this committee we hope to bring needed services to Parkland parents.

The committee is working on three tasks right now: 1-a study of the feasibility of opening a child care facility on campus in light of the recent opening of three new child care facilities in the immediate area, 2- implementing a child care coordinating service to be used by Parkland students and staff, and 3- implementing an emergency baby-sitting service for students and staff who find their usual arrangements temporarily unavailable.

The coordinating service will, hopefully, provide up-to-date information on child care facilities and

Charlie Studnicka

Well, denizens, the great StuGo Boycott is over. This leaves us roving correspondents with nothing to do, and so I am going to tell the world about a new organization.

This organization is known as the Immigrant Sons of America, or the I.S.A. The organization is quite peculiar in several ways. For one thing, it is not an organization of snobs. For another, practically anybody in the country can join, including those poor citizens who don't happen to be WASP's.

As a matter of fact, the organization was founded in militant opposition to these groups, with particular reference to the D.A.R. and S.A.R. These people have been fostering the myth for years that America sprang full-blown from the brows of these indomitable patriots, and that everybody else in the country is here on their sufferance.

The I.S.A. was formed to combat this myth and to give recognition to the greater portion of the American populace upon whose shoulders America became great. I refer to the hordes of immigrants who came to this country after the revolution and who are currently oppressed by the D.A.R., et. al. These poor huddled masses of poor ethnics at present have nobody to feel superior to but each other.

A word might be said now about the organization of the Organization. The main headquarters will be located in darkest Brooklyn, New York, and it is planned to set up branch offices across the country. The requirements for entry into the lodge are as follows: One must be able to prove that one's ancestors entered the country after 1789 and that one's ancestors for four generations or however long they've been in the country have not belonged to any organization dedicated to looking down on less fortunate folk.

Other than these requirements, anybody is welcome. The Organization plans to set up a sister league, the Amalgamated and Put-upon Sisters of Adversity, for all our female colleagues. They plan also to form the Brotherhood of Them What Came Over in Chains for our darker comrades. And, in the belief that nobody should be left out, they are forming the Red Men Against the Lying White Man.

It is the firm belief of the Organization that we can overcome all obstacles and bring a real and necessary improvement to relationships between the assorted groups that make up our glorious Union. Failing that, we can at least confuse the issue so that nobody knows who started what and therefore who's to blame.

licensed baby sitters in the district. The user of this service would be able to find out what facilities were available in his/her area, their size, cost, programs, etc.

The baby-sitting service would provide a place where a parent could leave his/her child when the usual baby-sitter or child care facility was unavailable. The parent would not have to miss class because of this unavoidable emergency. Plans for the location and cost of this service are being investigated by committee member Mary Jo McCabe and the committee-at-large.

Any student or staffmember interested in the development of child care facilities may attend any meeting. The next meeting is Feb. 5, 3 p.m., C153.

To the Editor:

I am writing this letter in regards to the recent basketball game between Parkland and Lakeland. When the game was being played it was one of the more exciting games that I can remember seeing in a long time, but the antics of some of the Parkland "fans" who came along just detracted from the whole thing. It seems to me that from a school that has over 5,000 students and the No. 2-ranked team in the state, more than 20 fans could get on a bus and give some support to a team that could very easily be No. 1 if they could just beat Lakeland. How about it students? Will you be there Friday, Feb. 7, 7:30 at Centennial Gym?

Cobras Continue On Rampage

Using a potent offense, Parkland's Cobra basketball team racked up two more wins and moved within a single victory of equalling the school record for wins in a season.

The Cobras, who demolished conference foe Lincoln Land 113-82 (January 25) and the MacMurray Junior Varsity 90-71 (January 29), stood at 15-3 going into a Friday afternoon contest with Danville, at Danville.

The school record for victories in a season is 16 accomplished by a squad led by Bill Mock.

LINCOLN LAND

"It's great to have one like that once in awhile," Parkland coach Ken Pritchett was quoted as saying after the Cobras annihilated Lincoln Land (Springfield) 113-82 in the Centennial High School Gym.

Parkland raced to an easy 51-34 halftime advantage and breezed to its first Central Illinois Athletic Conference win as four Cobras tallied double figures and Pritchett swept the bench against the Loggers.

U. S. Davidson, who received praise from Pritchett for playing his most "relaxed" game since joining the team at the quarter, led the Parkland offensive barrage as he meshed 17 points in the first half and took game scoring honors with 25.

Russell Oliver contributed 19 points, Rodney Johnson came off the bench to score 14 points and Mark Henrichs added 13 tallies.

Henrichs also grabbed 12 rebounds as the taller Cobras held a commanding 49-28 edge on the boards.

In all 12 Parkland players managed to put at least one point on the board and 11 grabbed rebounds in the rout.

At one point in the lopsided contest the Cobras led by 39 points but when Pritchett began to substitute liberally Lincoln Land edged back to make the score "respectable."

With the win Parkland upped its conference record to 1-1.

MACMURRAY JV

After a troublesome first half which saw a redhot MacMurray JV team come away at intermission with a 41-40 lead, Parkland warmed up the burners and blitzed

Lake Land Loses

ROBINSON-- Lincoln Trail College topped the number one ranked Illinois Junior College basketball team Lake Land (Mattoon) from the ranks of the unbeaten by edging the Lakers 68-67 Saturday, January 25.

The loss was Lake Land's first in 20 games. The Lakers have edged Parkland twice this season and the teams will re-match this Friday at Centennial Gym.

MacMurray 50-30 in the second half to win going away 90-71.

Mike Woods, who could manage a single field goal in the first 20 minutes, erupted for 20 points in the second half to lead the Cobra assault. Woods was one of five Cobras to reach double figures for the game.

Russell Oliver and U.S. Davidson, who both got in foul trouble early, scored 16 and 10 respectively, while Mark Henrichs chipped in with 15 points and grabbed a game-high 16 rebounds. Stu Engstrom used seven throws to finish in double figures with 11.

Becky Beach Leads Women Cagers

It's rare that one player could outscore an entire team but that's what happened as the Parkland College girls' basketball team got on the winning track in a big way, blitzing Lincoln Christian College 63-22 in the consolation round of the Danville Women's Basketball Tournament, Saturday, Jan. 25 in Danville.

Becky Beach tallied 26 points, four more than the entire Lincoln team, and Sue Bandy and Connie Smith combined for 27 more to take the victory after an opening round loss to the Indiana State University "B" team 74-44.

Indiana State's reserves were the eventual winner of the one-day tourney, edging host Danville 60-59 for the title.

"We used a full court press to force numerous turnovers, and the starters sat out about 15 minutes as everyone got quite a bit of playing time," said Miss Trout of the easy 63-22, win, the girls' first in three tries.

"In the opening game, Indiana State had a very good fast break and good shooters," added the Parkland coach as she evaluated the Cobras' 30-point loss.

In that contest Becky Beach and Connie Smith divided 32 points while Sue Bandy added eight in the losing effort. Indiana State put four players in double figures.

'Oswald Acted Alone'?

Fourth In A Series

BY LYNNITA ALDRIDGE

The U. S. government is renowned for its investigative committees and reports.

One of the most famous of these national issue "findings" is the Warren Report, an independent study of the assassination of President John Kennedy.

As a whole, the people of the United States accepted the findings as truth. But always there were the skeptical, who considered the report inconclusive and so much hog-wash.

Prospectus presents some of the Warren Report findings in this issue, not necessarily agreeing with the Committee's opinions.

The report of the President's Commission on the assassination of President Kennedy is a 912 page volume of 296,000 words, along with photographs and diagrams. It consists of a foreward, 8 chapters, 28 appendices, and an index.

The Warren Commission took the testimony of 552 individuals. The FBI conducted about 25,000 interviews, and turned over to the Commission 2,300 reports totaling 25,400 pages. The Secret Service conducted about 1,550 interviews, and submitted 800 reports totaling 4,600 pages.

The heart of the Warren Report, made public Sept. 27, 1964, almost 10 months to the day from the opening of the investigation, was a 10,000 word summary that recounted the facts of the assassination and embodied the Commission's conclusions and recommendations.

The Commission members included John J. McCloy and J. Lee Rankin, who served as counsel; Senator Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.); Representative Gerald R. Ford (R-Mich.); President Lyndon Johnson; Allen Dulles; Senator John Sherman Cooper (D-Tenn.); Representative Hale Boggs (D-La.); and Chief Justice of the Supreme Court Earl Warren, who chaired the Commission.

These members reached the following conclusions after the 10-month investigation: "The shots which killed President Kennedy and wounded Governor Connally were fired by Lee Harvey Oswald."

"The shots . . . were fired from the sixth - floor window at the southeast corner of the Texas School Book Depository."

"The weight of evidence indicates that there were three shots fired."

"There is very persuasive evidence from the experts to indicate that the same bullet which pierced the President's throat, also caused Governor Connally's wounds."

"Oswald killed Dallas police patrolman J. D. Tippit approximately 45 minutes after the assassination."

The Commission found "no evidence that either Lee Harvey Oswald or Jack Ruby were part of any conspiracy, domestic or foreign, to assassinate President Kennedy."

"No direct or indirect relationship between Lee Harvey Oswald and Jack Ruby has been discovered by the Commission."

"The Commission has found no credible evidence either that Ruby and Officer Tippit, who was killed by Oswald, knew each other or that Oswald and Tippit knew each other."

"The Commission found no evidence of conspiracy, subversion, or disloyalty to the U. S. government by any federal, state or local agency."

The Commission "concludes that Oswald acted alone."

Oswald's motives, the Commission concluded, could not be determined with any finality, but referred to his "deep-rooted resentment to all authority," his "attempt to kill Major General Edwin A. Walker," and his "avowed commitment to Marxism and Communism as shown by his defection to Russia and his efforts to go to Cuba."

"Each of these contribute to the capacity to risk all in cruel and irresponsible actions," the Commission said.

The Commission found that "on April 10, 1963, he (Oswald) attempted to kill Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker with a rifle which he had mail-ordered one month previous under an assumed name."

The Commission found need for strengthening security arrangements surrounding the President.

The Warren Commission report was highlighted by its ingenious recommendations concerning how to protect the President in the future.

These included:

"A committee of Cabinet members of the National Security Council should be assigned responsibility of overseeing the Secret Service and other agencies guarding the President;

"Any decision to transfer protection of the President from the Secret Service to another agency should be a joint decision of the Executive and Congress;

"The Secretary of the Treasury should appoint a special assistant to head the Secret Service, to supervise its present efforts to modernize operating procedures;

"The Secret Service should completely overhaul its facilities for advance detection of threats against the President, improve the protective measures followed in planning and conducting presidential motorcades;

"Increase the precautionary attention given buildings along parade routes;

"Continue efforts to improve relations with local police in areas to be visited by the President;

"Develop better definitions of potential threats that should be brought to the attention of the Secret Service by other agencies.

"Make agreements with each federal agency to insure that information the Secret Service needs is given to it;

"Speed up plans to use data processing techniques;

"The Secret Service should be given the men and resources needed to fulfill its mission;

"Other federal agencies, specifically the FBI, should continue the practice of assisting the Secret Service by providing personnel and other aid;

"The President's physician should always accompany him during his travels and occupy a position near the President where he can be immediately available.

"The State Department should in all cases exercise 'great care in the return to this country of all defectors, all who have evidenced disloyalty or hostility to this country, or who have expressed a desire to renounce their American citizenship.'"

"The assassination of the President or the Vice President should be made a federal crime."

The Warren Report reached some spectacular conclusions on some very meager "observations and facts." The committee members hopped and skipped over certain details which could make the Warren Report "trash" instead of "truth." In fact, the discrepancies which exist in the report and the investigations and interviews are so numerous that only a few will be listed in Prospectus. Care to be enlightened?

Convocations To Show Marlon Brando Flicks

In response to numerous requests, Convocations Senator Sylvia Mandel with be presenting a series of Marlon Brando movies over the next few months. The series begins this Tuesday and Wednesday with "The Ugly American", a movie as realistic as it is disturbing. It smacks of America's early involvement in Vietnam, and its conclusion is a prophetic statement on the eventual outcome of that Southeast Asian quagmire. Brando plays the American ambassador to the "fictional" nation, besieged from the inside and out, whose own beliefs come into conflict with the policies of his country's government. Arthur Hill co-stars.

On Feb. 19, the series will continue with "The Chase". In this one, Brando plays a law officer in a town bent on lynching an escaped convict. Jane Fonda and Robert Redford, in one of his first screen roles, co-

It will be double billing Sunday, Feb. 9, at Illinois State University when popular music groups "Deodato" and "Christopoulos" appear together at 8 p.m. in the Union Auditorium.

Sponsored by the ISU Entertainment Committee, tickets for the Feb. 9 performance are now available, at $4.50 for ISU students and $5.50 general admission, at the Auditorium box office. Box office hours are noon to 5 p.m. and 6 to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday and noon to 5 p.m. Saturday.

Deodato and his 10-piece orchestra shot to the top of nearly every chart following his 1973 recording of "Aso Sprach Zarathustra," better known as "Theme from 2001." Both his first two albums, "Prelude" and "Deodato 2," as well as the versatile musician himself won top honors from "Billboard," "Cash Box," "Record World," and "Playboy" among others.

Deodato, whose name means "God-given," was born in Rio de Janeiro of Brazilian, Portuguese and Italian extraction. During his teen years in his home land, Deodato played with rock bands trying to assimilate the styles of such greats as Gil Evans, Miles Davis and John Coltrane, with an added measure from the classics by Bach, Beethoven and Tchaikovsky.

Partially trained for careers in both diplomatic service and engineering, Deodato came to the U. S. in 1967 to devote full time to music. After an arranging-conducting session with "The Girl From Ipanema" (Astrud Gilberto), he arranged three critically acclaimed tracks for Wes Montgomery. LP "Down Here on the Ground." From that point, it was strictly big-time as he did arrangements for Aretha Franklin, Bette Midler, Roberta Flack and Frank Sinatra.

Now Deodato not only arranges

Then, on March 19, "The Wild Ones", the classic feature about a motorcycle gang's invasion of a small California hamlet will appear. Brando plays the leader of the with Lee Marvin in a supporting role as the sadistic, anti-social gang member.

Finally, on April 2, Brando will appear in what might be his best movie performance, "A Streetcar Named Desire". Vivian Lee and Karl Malden co-star in this emotionally charged adaptation of Tennessee William's stage production. If you miss the other three, be sure and catch this one.

for and conducts his orchestra, but also performs as an exciting "live" performer with the group, specializing in Keyboards, guitar and percussion.

The Feb. 9 appearance with Deodato is one of several scheduled this spring for a relatively new Midwestern soft rock group, "Christopoulos." The five-piece group (Ann Andrews, Bill Dunlavey, Lindsay Arnold and George and Joe Christopoulos) has already appeared successfully with the "Guess Who" and with tour later with "Deodato," "Guess Who" and "The Grass Roots."

Using primarily their own tunes with vocal arrangements by George Christopoulos and major contributions from brother Joe, the act has been praised for its unusual sounds with instrumentation including violin, bazuki, acoustic guitar, bass, drums, electric guitar, recorder and congo drums.

mittee at its regular meeting will vote on the new compromise proposal.

"Step 9. If the recommendation of the Committee is against acceptance of the proposal, the chairman of the Committee will again conduct an exhaustive review of the facts, giving heavy weight to the advice of the Committee. If in his judgment, however, the best interests of the students and the college are not being served by the Committee recommendation, the proposed price increase will be taken to the Board of Trustees for consideration and final action."
