TRENDS

LIBRARY

Library Trends (ISSN 0024-2594), a quarterly thematic journal, focuses on current trends in all areas of library practice. Each issue addresses a single theme in depth, exploring topics of interest to practicing librarians and information scientists and to LIS educators and students. The journal is published quarterly—in Summer, Fall, Winter, and Spring—for the University of Illinois Graduate School of Library and Information Science (GSLIS) by The Johns Hopkins University Press, 2715 N. Charles Street, Baltimore, MD 21218-4363.

Procedures for Proposing and Guest Editing an Issue of Library Trends:

Issue topics for Library Trends are developed in many ways. We value recommendations from professional librarians, archivists, and other information personnel, from members of the faculties of schools of library and information science, and from others whose concern is with issues of management of cultural heritage. We seek volunteers from these areas to act as issue editors.

An issue editor proposes the theme and scope of a new issue, draws up a list of prospective authors and article topics, calls for submissions to each issue, arranges for the external review of each article, provides short annotations of each included article's scope, and prepares a statement of philosophy guiding the issue's development. Unsolicited articles are not accepted.

The style and tone of the journal is formal rather than journalistic or popular. Library Trends reviews current theory and practice and identifies and evaluates new directions of both practice and research. Papers must represent original work. Extensive updates of previously published papers are acceptable, but revisions or adaptations of published work are not acceptable. Both issue proposals and the papers they contain are subject to rigorous external review.

Please send your ideas, inquiries, or issue proposal to Library Trends, GSLIS Publications Office, 501 E. Daniel Street, Champaign, IL 61820-6211.
