

/first/boek/comp-local-politics/road-to-europe/start

COMPARATIVE LOCAL POLITICS

The road to Europe:
Main street or backward alley for local governements in Europe?

Eline Van Bever
Herwig Reynaert
Kristof Steyvers

VANDEN BROELE
Uitgeverij - Editions - Publishers

First edition, 2011

??? pages

D/20??/????/???

ISBN ??????????????????

Design and print: Vanden Broele

© 2009 Vanden Broele Publishers – Brugge

All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced, stored in or introduced into a retrieval system, or transmitted, in any form of by any means (electronic, mechanical, photocopying, recording, or otherwise), without the prior written permission of the publisher.

The editorial staff continuously seeks to provide reliable information, yet for which it assumes no liability.

Vanden Broele Publishers, Stationslaan 23, B-8200 Brugge www.publishers.vandenbroele.be

Inhoud

About the authors	9
The Road to Europe: Main Street or Backward Alley for Local Governments in Europe? Eline Van Bever, Herwig Reynaert and Kristof Steyvers	13
Chapter 1. Twenty Years On: The Europeanization of Local Government Mike Goldsmith	31
Chapter 2. Fluid Local Party Systems: A bottom-up challenge for European multi-level governance? Germany as an exemplary case Everhard Holtmann	49
Chapter 3. Swedish local government in multi-level governance Stig Montin	69
Chapter 4. 'Resisting Europeanization?' Continuities and Changes in Governance in Vienna Alexander Hamedinger	91
Chapter 5. Fusing Regions? Sustainable Regional Action and European Integration. Nordic Regional Action in a Fused Europe? Magnus Lindb and Lee Miles	115
Chapter 6. A Fusion Perspective on European Integration of Local Government in Baden-Württemberg Marius Guderjan	137

Chapter 7. Local Authorities in the Council of Europe: Implications for the European Union	163
Jing Pan
Chapter 8. A Multi-level Governance Analysis of Urban Foreign Policy. The Role of the EU in City-to-City Cooperation	187
Nico van der Heiden
Chapter 9. The Europeanization of the Local Government in the EU Multi-level Governance System: The City Networking Paradigm and the Greek Case	209
Antonios Karvounis
Chapter 10. Together we are strong(er). Cross-border cooperation in a EU multi-level system	231
Eline Van Bever, Herwig Reynaert and Kristof Steyvers
Chapter 11. From the reticular Europe to the contiguous Union	251
Christian Lamour
Chapter 12. The (German) Local Level as an Actor in European Lobbying. Involvement and Impact of the Local Level in the European Policy- Making Process	277
Sonja Witte

About the authors

Eline Van Bever is a PhD student at the Centre for Local Politics, Department of Political Science of Ghent University. Currently she is working on the topic of local-level Europeanization. In particular, she researches the impact of the EU opportunity-structure on local participation in cross-border arrangements. Beside her research topic, she is particularly interested in local elections and local political leadership.

Herwig Reynaert is professor at the Department of Political Science at Ghent University. He is chairman of the Centre for Local Politics and chairman of the Urban Policy Research Centre. He also is dean of the Faculty of Political and Social Sciences at Ghent University. He is specialized in (comparative) local politics. He organizes the congresses Local and Provincial Politics and the International Congress on Local Politics in Europe. He also is member of the Executive Committee of the book series 'Comparative Local Politics' (Vanden Broele and Nomos Verlagsgesellschaft).

Kristof Steyvers is lecturer at the Department of Political Science of Ghent University, where he teaches comparative politics, parties and party systems and comparative local politics. His research is conducted in the Centre for Local Politics and the Urban Policy Research Centre. His main research interests are comparative local politics, local political leadership, parties and elections at the local level, local government reform and urban politics. He has published in journals such as local government studies, acta politica, parliamentary affairs, public management review and lex localis. The journal of local self-government. He is the co-editor of the book series 'Comparative local politics' (Vanden Broele and Nomos Verlagsgesellschaft).

Mike Goldsmith is Emeritus Professor Politics at the University of Salford and Visiting Professorial Fellow at De Montfort University. He has written and researched extensively in the field of comparative urban politics and local government. His latest publication, co-edited with Ed Page, is Changing Government Relations in Europe, published by Routledge in 2010.

Everhard Holtmann is Dr. phil. at Martin-Luther-University Halle-Wittenberg, Institute for Political Science and Japanese Studies. He also is Chair for Systems Analysis and Comparative Politics and Speaker of Collaborative Research Centre 580 (Social Developments after Structural Change). His research fields are: Parties and Party Systems, Voting behaviour, Local Politics and Regional Political Culture.

Stig Montin is professor in Public Administration at the School of Public Administration, Gothenburg University. His general research interests are local and regional politics, governance and democracy and especially institutional change and policy change within the context of urban and regional sustainable development.

Alexander Hamedinger holds the position of an assistant professor at the Centre of Sociology, Vienna University of Technology, Department of Spatial Development, Infrastructure and Environmental Planning. He is an economist and sociologist; in research and teaching Dr. Hamedinger concentrates on the topics urban/regional governance, urban/regional planning, planning and spatial theories, urban sociology. Two of his recent publications are: Hamedinger, A. et al. (Hrsg.) 2008: Strategieorientierte Planung im kooperativen Staat. Wiesbaden; Hamedinger, A. & Wolffhardt, A. (eds.) 2010: The Europeanisation of Cities. Amsterdam: Techne Press.

Magnus Lindh is a lecturer in Political Science in Karlstad University, Sweden. He is currently involved in the research project "Fusing Regions Plus+", that pays special attention on how Nordic Regions interact with the EU and which strategies are the most successful in 'trying to get the best out of the EU'.

Lee Miles is Professor of Political Science, Department of Political and Historical Studies, Karlstad University, Sweden, and Honorary Professor of Scandinavian Studies, University College London (UCL). He is also joint editor of the Europe and the Nation State book series (Routledge), and lead co- editor of Conflict and Cooperation (SAGE). He leads the 'Fusing Regions?' research (based at Karlstad University), funded by the Nordic Council of Ministers, EU, and Nordic development agencies.

Marius Guderjan is a PhD student and associated lecturer at Manchester Metropolitan University. His research interests are European integration theorising with a particular focus on the fusion approach and on local and regional government in Germany, the UK and Sweden. Further fields of interests include the EU's institutional structure, Europeanization processes, multi-level governance and regionalisation in Europe.

Jing Pan is a Doctoral Researcher of the Local Governance Research Unit at the Department of Public Policy, De Montfort University, United Kingdom. Her research interests focus on local government, multi-level governance, international relations and European Legal Studies.

Nico van der Heiden is currently Senior Project Manager at the Centre for Democracy Studies at the University of Zurich. He finished his PhD on the international activities of city-regions in 2009. Previously, he has held positions as Research Assistant at the Universities of Zurich and Lucerne, and as Visiting Scholar at the INRS Urbanisation, Culture et Société in Montréal. He is currently carrying out research on urban and metropolitan governance, and on new forms of participation in established democracies.

Antonios Karvounis is working at the Hellenic Ministry of Interior, Decentralisation and E- Government. His main responsibilities include the European Programmes and International Relationships of Local Authorities. He studied Political Science and International Studies in Athens (Panteion University) and did his PhD thesis at the University of Newcastle Upon Tyne (UK). He has written several books and studies on local government, European affairs, British politics, political theory and comparative politics.

Christian Lamour is an urban geographer and a European expert in city governance. He is a researcher at CEPS/INSTEAD in Luxembourg. His main topics are the creation of transnational public spheres in joint borderlands and the development of multi-level partnerships within transfrontier conurbations.

Sonja Witte studied European Business and Administration at the University of Applied Sciences Bremen. In 2007 she added a Master of European Studies at the University of Tübingen. Since September 2007 she is working for the German Association of Local Utilities (VKU) where she leads the Brussels office since September 2009. Besides her job she is writing her doctoral thesis at the University of Osnabrück on the local public government in European policy making. Aside from this she is a lecturer at the University of Applied Sciences Kehl.