Dear Mr. Creekmore,

I am wondering whether your projected A LITTLE TREASURY OF WORLD POETRY has yet seen the light of day? I should be glad of any news and of a copy together with the promised fee if it is already out, though I am sure I should have heard from you if it were. I did write last to you September 18th .1951 and I feel it must be trembling on the brink if not yet published! I shall very much look forward to having the book which I know will be well produced- from my experience of the Scribner publications.

You may have seen my prose translations in the USA. The latest is HEAD AGAINST THE WALL (Hervé Bazin- Prentice-Hall). It is the third I have out ~~there~~ in your country and so feel quite a link-especially also as Eugene Wagner of Buffalo has my poems for his Lockwood Library. In the hopes of news.

Yours sincerely,

W. J. Strachan
