Dear Hubert:

It is a long, long time since we have had any word from you. We do not know where you are but we know what you have been doing; writing a novel to be published on July 27th that has received excellent pre-publication notices.

Our copies came in from Random House yesterday and we still have the same Creekmore collectors and are wondering whether, as in the past, you would sign their books for them. Are you coming to New York or should we send the copies to you? We are also wondering whether you would sign more copies in which case we will get right to work and send out cards on the book. Let us know immediately.

As you will note we have a new address, although we did send you a removal card. Our old building was sold and all tenants had to vacate. The new place is smaller but very pleasant and we hope soon to have your visit.

Margie joins me in sending you best wishes for much success with your new book.

Sincerely,

Lucas Henry Cole
