Dear Hubert,

As you know, New Directions has always in the past avoided remaindering books, both because we were able to warehouse them inexpensively and indefinitely and because we have believed any book we published would sooner or later have a sustained public.

However, a shift in our warehousing facilities now means that we must pay several times more what we have in the past for the storage of bound books.

We have about 445 copies of THE LONG REPRIEVE on hand now, some of which are reported soiled. We could let you have 400 at $.18 a copy and still keep the book on our list.

Please let us know if you want to take these books; if we don't hear from you within a week or so, we'll go ahead with our remaindering plans.

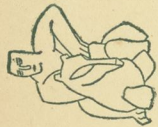

Yours ever,

Robert M. MacGregor

How are you, Hubert?
