Frosh Plan Weekend; Committees Announced

Preliminary plans for the annual Freshman Weekend were announced today by Lombard Gasbarro and Maurice Bosse, co-chairmen of the event. The dates allotted to the weekend by the Student Congress of the College are May 13, 14, 15. The theme will be "Weekend on the Riviera."

On Friday evening a Freshman Ball will be held at Rhodes-on-the-Pawtuxet. The orchestra for the Ball is still to be announced. The committee will make its choice from several New England name bands.

Picnic and Dance Saturday
Saturday afternoon a picnic will be held for the freshmen and their dates. Several local parks and beaches are under consideration for the location of this event. On Saturday evening an informal dance will be held at PC with an orchestra yet to be announced.

Sunday morning, a Mass will be held in Aquinas Hall Chapel to close the weekend. After the Mass, a breakfast will be served to the participants.

Plans are being made to house the girls invited by dorm students from out of the state at the Colonial Motel which is located on Hartford Avenue.

Johnston, just a few miles from the College. The unavailability of hotel space in Providence necessitated this move.

A committee will also be organized to help plan rides for resident students with day-hops. Permission may be given for freshmen resident students to have cars on campus for the weekend.

Committees Announced
The following is a list of committee members for the weekend. It was endeavored to have resident and day-hops equally represented on the committees. Any freshman who has not yet registered for committees is urged to do so with the co-chairmen or any class officer.

ART MASTERPIECE given to Providence College by an anonymous donor is displayed to two admiring students by the Very Reverend Robert J. Slavin. (Story on Page Two)

Mullaneymen Invited Back To Tourney

Reverend Aloysius B. Begley, O.P., Athletic Director, announced earlier this week that Providence College had received and accepted an invitation to the National Tournament to be held in New York March 10-19.

This marks the second successive year that PC, coached by Joe Mullaney, has received such recognition. Providence became the fourth team to be tendered a bid, and shortly after, Memphis State became the fifth. Discounting last night's encounter with St. Bonaventure, both the Friars and Memphis held identical 133 records. Earlier, Villanova, Detroit, and Dayton had been selected. (Continued on Page 2)

Dorsey Band Drops Contract; Replacement Not Yet Chosen

The Tommy Dorsey Orchestra under the direction of Warren Covington has cancelled its contract for the Junior Prom Weekend in favor of a Hollywood movie contract.

The Dorsey band, which is handled by the Willard Alexander Agency of N. Y., has cancelled all of its engagements for April, May and June, to go to Hollywood to produce the music for the "Tommy Dorsey Story."

Warren Covington's own contract calls for him to bow out of any engagement at his discretion. The cancellation, therefore, was not the doing of the band committee. Covington's New England agent, William Kerns, has severed his connection with the band and promised an early replacement for the prom.

Another N.Y. agency has also entered the bidding and assured the band committee the choice of several top flight bands. This agency handles many of the nationally known bands and promises to provide one for a price considerably less than what was to be Covington's fee.

The final selection will be made on Wednesday by the band committee from a field of the five or six bands that have been offered.

Class president Charles McAre noted that the Covington cancellation, which at first had been a large disappointment, "is beginning to take on the aspects of a real benefit from the standpoint of obtaining a good band at popular prices for the Prom."

Co-chairmen John McIduff of the Junior Prom accommodations committee advises all juniors who are planning to attend the Prom to reserve rooms for their dates early due to the limited number of rooms available.

In lieu of the Sheraton-Biltmore, the committee has acquired the Colonial and the Golden Gate Motels on Route 6. Both of these motels have enough room to accommodate the expected large crowd. The Biltmore has been reserved by the Jeweler's Convention and Brown's Spring Weekend.

Co-chairman Dick Panagrossi and John McIduff have requested Juniors to make their reservations at their rooms, Stephen Hall 113 and Aquinas Hall 419.

Fall River Club Gift
Sec. Richard A. Costa has announced that the Fall River Club has donated $50 to the library for the purpose of purchasing books.

The choice of the books will be left to the discretion of the librarian, Rev. Ernest Hogan, O.P. It was also announced that this policy will be continued throughout coming school years.

PURLOIN FLAGS

Many of the students were surprised yesterday when they approached the cafeteria and saw the company flags of the ROTC units at Brown University and the University of Rhode Island hanging over the stairway.

The Pershing Rifle pledges, as part of their training program, had to "borrow" the Brown Navy flag, the Brown Air Force flag, the flag of the Air Force Honor Society and the flag from URI.

Eighteen pledges were selected for the task and they were divided into three six-man teams.

Freshmen Elect Graham And Wall Carolan Club Representatives

After going a semester without freshman representatives, the frosh dorm students chose Joseph Wall and Robert Graham to air the voice of the class in the Carolan Club. Elections took place on January 20 in Raymond Hall.

Joe Wall, a business major from Medford, Mass., had this to say after elections:

"I would like to take this time to thank all the freshman members of the Carolan Club for their support and for their great turnout on election night. I would also like to thank Pete Martin for his help in the last, most timely, snowstorm."

"As I have said before my work is just beginning and I hope to do all I can to be a worthwhile representative of the freshman class."

The second representative, Bob Graham, a history major from Centereach, New York, wished to thank all the members of the class who voted for him and stated that he would do his utmost to give the best to his class.

"If any freshman dorm student has an idea or thinks of something that will benefit the dorm students, I certainly would like to hear about it. After all, that's what representatives are for," said Bob.

Ninety-two per cent of the freshman dorm students voted for the representatives.

THE COWL

Harkins HallMEMO FROM THE EDITOR:

Last semester this writer overheard a hall-walker wondering out loud about the academic staying power of one member of the varsity hoop squad. The athlete in question won't ever make summa cum laude, but his grades have been respectable. I also happen to know that he got them the hard way—the honest way. That wasn't what his detractor claimed.

The issue of favoritism to athletes is obviously one of the growing pains that this college will have to look squarely in the eye. Once the minor leagues are forsaken, these excruciating conflicts of interest between million-dollar sports publicity and academic purity start lurking around the corner of every report card.

Present students here at Smith Hill are among the first to realize the general heightening of PC prestige via the press and airwaves. It's curious how even a college's philosophy department can bask in the reflected glow that issues from the gymnasium. But that's the primrose path to fame, son. Ask them at Notre Dame, Holy Cross, etc. They've been there.

Still, we can be proud that the people here realize that academic integrity can't be put up for sale at even the most irresistible price. A fortune in renown isn't enough to buy a penny's worth of self respect. If a basketball player's F were allowed to equal another man's C, it would be time to admit that both the A.B. and B.S. add up to plain b.s.

I don't think anyone can make an unreasonable favoritism charge stick at Providence College. I wouldn't be able to document a definite instance of outraged Justice. Would you?

SC Committee To Report On NFCCS Issue Tonight

The special committee of the Student Congress to investigate the relationship between the Congress and the National Federation of Catholic College Students will recommend that the Congress lead the way in the intellectual, cultural, and social development of the student on an extracurricular plane, by using the facilities offered by the NFCCS.

The Committee will report to the Congress tonight. Its suggestions are the result of two lengthy meetings at which the role of student government and the role of the NFCCS in campus affairs were examined.

One of the recommendations is that the Congress establish a standing committee consisting of the five NFCCS delegates and the vice-president of the Student Congress. This committee would study various NFCCS programs and make recommendations to the Congress concerning their implementation. The Congress would then channel any accepted programs to the campus organization best fit to implement them.

The first program of the standing committee, according to Don Bucklin, chairman of the special committee, would be to organize a speakers bureau. This bureau would be composed of students willing to speak to any club regarding a topic in which they are well versed.

Another suggestion of the special study committee is that the Congress make the Senior Delegate of NFCCS a voting member of the Congress. There is a bill to this effect on the table now.

The study committee members, besides Bucklin, were Thomas Grady, Thomas O'Heron, James Carroll, and Charles Reilly.

LENNY ALL-EAST AGAIN

The Eastern College Athletic Conference announced yesterday that Len Wilkens has been named to its weekly All-East squad for the fourth time this year. Wilkens has been named to the team more often than any other player in the East this year.

Von Braun May Appear Here

Space Age figure Dr. Wernher Von Braun may be signed for a speaking engagement at Providence College, according to a special three-man Congress committee investigating the matter.

If Von Braun is available to appear on Sunday night, March 9, the student government has secured Administration approval to sign a contract for the appearance. The scientist's Boston booking agent will inform the committee of Von Braun's availability within two weeks.

The noted German-born physicist made headlines during the past few years for his role in the U. S. Army's rocketry program. He is now connected with the National Space Administration.

Campus clubs would be asked to underwrite part of the expense of securing Von Braun's appearance if he proves available. The College Administration has agreed to underwrite the balance of the cost.

Arrangements for the projected appearance are being conducted by a three-man committee composed of Robert O'Connell, John Hurley, and Charles Goetz. The committee is operating as the representative of the Student Congress.

Assuming that the engagement does prove possible, admission to the lecture would be free to PC students and local collegians, according to O'Connell.

Fr. Slavin Feted In Capitol By Washington Area Grads

Father Slavin, President of the College, was feted at a dinner held in his honor in Washington, D. C., Feb. 5. The dinner at the Presidential Arms Hotel was attended by 350 persons.

Father Slavin was presented with a Revere Bowl in appreciation and acknowledgment of his services to the College.

The dinner was sponsored by the Alumni Association of the Washington area. It was attended also by parents of the students from the Washington area who are now attending Providence College.

Senator Thomas Dodd and his wife attended the dinner. The senator, a member of the class of '38, spoke briefly. The Honorable Senator Theodore Francis Green also spoke. Green is the senior senator from Rhode Island. Congressman and Mrs. J. W. McCormick were in attendance; he is the House majority leader. Both Green and McCormick are recipients of honorary degrees from Providence College.

The position of toastmaster was assumed by Jack Fanning, who is associated with the NLRB. The president of the Alumni Association of the Washington area is Robert Golden. Golden, a member of the class of '48 spoke briefly.

The president of the Parent Alumni Association which was represented at the dinner is Dan F. McKinnan, '40. The Secretary is M. J. McLoughlin, class of '42.

The big news of the evening was the fact that PC won the Colby game. Mrs. Paul Connolly, wife of Paul Connolly, Alumni Secretary here at PC, listened to the game on WPRO radio and then relayed the results and scores of individual players to her husband in Washington via telephone.

NIT BID . . .

by the NIT directors, of whom Kenneth Norton serves as chairman. Norton and his selection committee were no doubt influenced by the tremendous showing put on by the Friars in last year's tourney.

PC fans will recall that the Mullanymen scored upset victories over Manhattan (coached by the same Norton, incidentally) and St. Louis before falling prey to St. John and NYU. St. John went on to win the tourney by defeating Bradley in the classic's final.

This year the Providence club will be tabbed as a team to be reckoned with and it is quite possible the Friars will be seeded by the tournament officials should they finish the season in a commendable fashion. Such a possibility could hinge on the outcome of the Holy Cross encounter scheduled for Alumni Hall on Feb. 23.

Returning veterans of last year's NIT quintet will include Captain Lenny Wilkens, John Woods, Space Egan, Dick Whelan, Den Guimares, Tim Moynahan, Bob Gibson, and Dick Holzheimer. Added to these will be newcomers Jim Hadnot, Dick Leonard, Tom Nyire, Tom Foliard and Bob Siembida.

Wilkens amazed the New Yorkers with his defensive skills and accurate shooting and won a place on the mythical all-tourney team. Egan scored fifty-three points in the first two tournament games, including a game-winning twenty-five foot jumper with six seconds remaining in the opener.

Woods rebounded fiercely and almost single-handedly offset severe height handicaps in every game. Guimares, Holzheimer, Gibson and Moynahan all played admirably in fill-in roles while Whelan was incapacitated by a knee injury.

Hadnot will provide much needed height when Providence collides with the top-flight competition to be met in the NIT. The tourney will be held in Madison Square Garden.

HOMECOMING WEEKEND

PC is preparing for the "biggest Homecoming Weekend ever" on February 12, 13, and 14. The largest pre-registration ever recorded and the overwhelming demand for tickets for the basketball and hockey games indicates capacity crowds for all events.

For the first time since the beginning of the annual Alumni Weekend, members of the senior class have been invited to participate in the activities of the weekend.

The program will commence Friday evening with a reception by the College Administration in the Guild Room of Alumni Hall. After this the alumni will be feted with a lobster dinner in the cafeteria.

At 9:30 dancing will begin in Alumni Hall to the music of Vin Capone and his Orchestra. This will be the first Ball ever held in Alumni Hall. The event is formal.

Saturday afternoon the Veridames of the College have scheduled a reception and entertainment for Alumni wives in Harkins Hall. During this entertainment the men will attend the annual business meeting to hear Father Slavin's report on the status of the College.

At 5:30 Saturday, the faculty dinner will be held in Alumni Hall. The group will then proceed to the gymnasium to watch the Friars basketball team tackle

St. Michael's College, of Winooski, Vermont. The varsity game will be preceded by a freshman game with the Newport Naval Base team. After the game a reunion with refreshments and informal dancing will be held in Alumni Hall.

On Sunday, Mass will be celebrated in Aquinas Chapel for Alumni and their wives. It will be followed by a "Dutch Treat" brunch in Alumni Hall.

The majority of the ticket orders were received and the bids mailed out by late Friday afternoon. 170 couples had registered for the formal dance (Alumni Hall) to be held Friday evening. 450 bids had been sent out by the staff for the Faculty-Alumni dinner Saturday evening in Alumni Hall. The basketball game Saturday evening seems to have the most attraction for the men and their wives, since 1300 tickets were requested. 750 alumni announced their intentions of attending the post game reunion.

These figures are far from complete, although they are indeed impressive. Many last minute requests were anticipated; there are probably 10 or 15% who have not yet sent their order but who will do so.

The great demand necessitated that tickets be distributed on a priority basis. Those who wished to buy for the whole weekend were taken care of first.

Valentine Whims, Capers; PC Wallets Lighter

By DAVE DONNELLY, JR.

Although the name for the day comes from a saint, and that saint happens to be the patron of lovers, it is rather unlikely that St. Valentine started off the morning of Feb. 14 by sending candy and kisses to his best girl.

As a matter of fact, most of St. Valentine's friends were either in the catacombs or in prisons; he ministered to the needs of Christians in the time of pagan Rome.

The customs that we celebrate today go back to the time of old Rome, according to some historians. The ancient Romans used to exchange presents on the day after "Ides Februarii" (February 14). They did this in honor of Juno, the mythical Roman queen of the Gods, and Venus, queen or goddess of beauty.

Other historians believe that our customs can be traced back to the time when people first associated February 14 with the coming of Spring. On this day the birds were supposed to choose their mates for the season, and the people followed suit. Even today there are some "henpecked" husbands who call themselves "bird-brains" for having sent a Valentine's Day card.

During Shakespeare's day in Merry Old England the first girl a man saw on the morning was to be his chosen for the year. She also could claim a kiss from him on the spot. There were not a few who sighed with relief when this custom passed into oblivion.

In some Scandinavian countries and in Holland there was a precedent a few hundred years ago for girls to arm themselves with switches early on the morning of the 14th. The first man they "tapped" (more like beat into submission) was to be their valentine for the year.

In England in the fifteenth century the Duke of Orleans wrote the first rhymed letter to be called a valentine. The first valentines were handmade, but the custom did spread rapidly. During the gold rush of the 1850's many miners thought nothing of spending over a hundred dollars to send messages of sentiment to their beloved.

Just little more than a hundred years ago, the advent of color printing and improved mail and postal services made the sending of valentines very popular in the U.S. Some poked fun at the idiosyncrasies of the recipient; but most were filled with tender endearments and sentiment.

A collection in the New York Museum of Art shows that it was not uncommon for valentine's to be two feet square and to cost upwards of $25. They were extremely ornate. Even today one can spend a small fortune on a single card.

A shop in Providence told The Cowl that they carried cards costing upwards of $7. They said they sold many to college men. Our comment, "Hmmm, what college?"

The custom of sending cards and presents in the U.S. has survived over the years. Very often the cards are accompanied by gifts of candy and flowers. Candy is usually sent in heart shaped boxes; while the most popular flower for the day is the traditional harbinger of Spring, the violet.

One local merchant is featuring several ten pound boxes of candy for gifts this year. He quite unwittingly displayed his candy back to back with a counter full of dietary aids. This seems to be negative salesmanship.

Whatever the outcome of Valentine's Day, we just hope that none of the PC men forget that it is Sunday. They might be getting special delivery letters with rings enclosed February 15.

Art Objects Given To PC; Private Showing Tomorrow

The Very Rev. Robert J. Slavin, O.P., announced today that the school will hold a small private showing of several art objects in bronze, oils, prints and charcoal studies that have been donated to the school.

The showing will be held in the art gallery tomorrow afternoon and evening. The Friars Club will usher and members of the Art Club will assist in hospitality.

One of the paintings of prime interest is a large four by seven foot Madonna recently bestowed upon the college anonymously. This Madonna, painted by Mazzola, a Renaissance artist, is very regal but extremely motherly. This motherly characteristic also appears in the three other Madonnas that the school will show.

An oval Madonna of more aspect, donated by a former student, is hanging on the wall opposite the large Madonna.

A third Madonna, donated to the school during World War I by Archbishop Nicholas of Cincinnati, is small but detailed. It appears to have been a final study for a much larger piece. This painting, which was shipped from Rome during World War I, arrived but the documents did not and it is believed that the ship carrying the documents was sunk.

Another Madonna that will be shown has been granted on a long term loan by Mr. and Mrs. John P. Brennan of North Providence.

Three bronzes of particular interest that will be on display are a small crucifix, a cossack, and a Cleopatra.

The crucifix is of Byzantine style and was given to Rev. Daniel M. Galliber, O.P., by the late Rudolph F. Haffenreffer. The Cossack was formerly the property of Rev. Leo S. Cannon's mother while the Cleopatra was donated by Misses Mary and Helen L. Abbe.

Prints and charcoal studies by Carl Merschel, a professional artist in ceramics and prints in Chicago, and by Rev. John Walch of St. Luke's Studio, Oklahoma City, Okla., will be shown.

An oil of the Immaculate Heart and several charcoal studies by Sister Mary of the Compassion, O.P., of the Blue Chapel, Union City, N. J., will also be shown.

The only representative in the line of modern art is a statue of the Virgin in La Ligue glass.

The school is also very proud of the objects on long term loan from the Boston Museum. The museum has loaned Quattrocento furniture and a Spanish St. Dominic of the century of Ferdinand and Isabella.

FROSH WEEKEND ...

Andy Sayko, Mike Berlin, and Dave Lalor. Charles Verde is chairman of the Program Committee.

Ron Southward and Jack Wilkinson are in charge of the invitations for the weekend. The publicity committee is staffed by Dave Russel, D. F. Donnelly, and Ray Burke.

D. F. Donnelly, Paul Georges, John Trainor, Joseph Wall, and Pat Quinn compose the committee which will select the queen of the weekend. Dan Lalor and Ray Burke make up the program committee.

Decorations for the weekend are in the hands of Frank D'Angelo, Walt Campbell, and David F. Donnelly. Paul McNamara is the freshman in charge of refreshments. Edward Trainor will act as scheduled co-ordinator for the weekend.

Selected As Speaker

THE VERY REV. R. J. SLAVIN
Achieves New Distinction

The Very Reverend Robert Slavin, O.P., President of the College, will be the main speaker at the annual United Fund Dinner Feb. 18.

The dinner which will be held at the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel, is for the purpose of presenting "Outstanding Citizenship" awards to employees of plants and members of social groups who have met the requirements necessary.

The largest number of awards presented since the inception of the United Fund Campaign in this state, ninety-nine, will be given this year. Special citations will be presented to a number of Rhode Island based Naval units for their exceptional contributions to the fund.

Carroll Named Managing Ed.

Editorial Positions Filled; Seniors To Remain On Staff

By David Donnelly

Charles J. Goetz, newly appointed editor of The Cowl has announced editorial appointments to the staff for the coming semester. All appointments have been approved by the moderator, and are effective immediately.

Dale P. Faulkner, retired editor, will serve as undergraduate advisor. Faulkner has been active on The Cowl since his freshman year.

The post of managing editor is to be filled by James Carroll, a junior. He has served The Cowl as sports editor earlier this year. Carroll succeeds Goetz. Sophomore Paul Hanaway will continue in his present capacity as business manager.

O'Herron To Contribute

Thomas O'Herron, former columnist and editorial assistant, will be elevated to the position of contributing editor. O'Herron gained campus note with his weekly column, "The Lighthouse."

John H. Casey and David F. Donnelly, Jr., a junior and freshman respectively, will continue in their capacities as associate editors. Their appointments were made in November.

The sports department will be headed by sophomore

Bernard Madden and freshman Frank Mazzeo. Madden will serve as sports editor while Mazzeo will be sports assistant.

Mattos, White Elevated
Arthur Mattos and Peter White have been elevated from rank and file news writers to the positions of copy editors. They are both freshmen at PC.

Nick Peterson will continue in his present capacity as photography editor. William Eryd will assume the post vacated by Richard Plamondon, that of circulation manager.

Robert P. Grathwol and Peter Costigan will serve as editorial associates. Both Costigan and Grathwol have long been associated with The Cowl, both as writers and in an editorial capacity. Costigan wrote the weekly column "Notes From the Sportsdesk."

Recruits Needed

There is still an urgent need for good writers and typists on The Cowl staff. Any student wishing to join can register at The Cowl office any morning during the week break. The office is located on the first floor of Harkins Hall adjacent to the Print Room.

Previous journalism experience, high school or otherwise, is not required to join The Cowl staff.

German Society

There will be a meeting of the German Society on Monday, February 15 at 7:30 p.m. in room C7, Alumni Hall. A 45-minute motion picture entitled "Introducing Germany" will be shown.

It is a NATO film concerned mostly with economic life in present-day Germany and post-war reconstruction, and carries an English commentary.

Copies of the proposed Constitution will be distributed for the members' perusal and opinions. A forum, which will serve as a basis for a Constitutional Convention, will be held.

At the last meeting there were only a few people present who are taking a language other than German. Anyone taking a different modern language also is invited.

Marines Here Feb. 8-11 Offer PLC Program

Captain Francis X. Quinn from the Boston office of the Marine Corps Officer Selection Office will be in the lounge adjacent to the Cafeteria on Feb. 8, 9, 10, 11, and 12, 1960. He will discuss the Platoon Leaders Class, ground or aviation, for freshmen, sophomores, and juniors, and the Officer Candidate Course for seniors and graduate students.

In the PLC program the student will attend two six-week summer training courses at Quantico, Virginia, and upon receipt of his degree will be commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the Marine Corps. Students enrolling in this program have no drills, military classes, or other formations during the regular school year.

Students entering the Officer Candidate Course will, after receiving their degrees attend ten weeks training at Quantico, Virginia, and upon successful completion of this training will be commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the Marine Corps.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

A Reminder . . .

The black-bordered "In Memoriam" box appearing in this issue will be a weekly occurrence in The Cowl until either the Student Congress or a grass-roots movement from within the student body puts a little life into the school Alma Mater.

If PC's sense of pride is weak, perhaps at least its sense of shame can be awakened. Thus far this year, the volume of excuses for inactivity has completely drowned out any attempts to make the song both heard and hallowed on campus.

In Memoriam

This Box Commemorates The
PC Alma Mater

Whose Demise Is The Product
Of The Apathy Of Providence
College Students And Their Elected Representatives

It should be interesting to see how many times that black box will have to be printed. Anyone like to make a guess?

One Per Customer . . .

With each passing week, the editorial board is made the recipient of more and more complaints about the basketball ticket policy. We are more than glad to air the valid complaints of the student body, but it is hardly our desire to feed the flames of a growing anti-athletic department hysteria.

We have and will continue to oppose the fundamental principles of the present ticket distribution plan. Unfortunately, however, it seems that the student opinion and that of the powers-that-be are acres apart on this issue, with all prospects indicating that "neither the twain shall meet."

Within the basic framework of the present system, we are nevertheless forced to concur with the athletic department as far as the administrative procedure of ticket sales is concerned. A little reflection plus a dash of simple arithmetic brings home that fact that the one-ticket rule is necessary if every student is to be allowed the opportunity of attendance.

Tickets for friends and dates, desirable as they might be, would mean the "bumping" of any student who didn't happen to be in the forefront of the ticket rush.

IN HOMETOWN AMERICA

AROUND TOWN

By Donald Proccacini

Movies:

During George Gershwin's lifetime Porgy and Bess was generally written off as a feeble attempt at opera by a misguided songwriter. Needless to say, since Gershwin's death Porgy has come to be considered as his finest and most mature effort.

Du Boise Heywood's simple tale of the love of the crippled Porgy for the floozie Bess provided Gershwin with a fine libretto, infinitely more challenging than the usual inane musical comedies of his day. He lavished all his attention on this work, converting his undeniable melodic gifts to a new, more exacting art, the composition of a folk opera.

He blended his own peculiar Jewish-jazz idiom with an intense study of Negro rhythms and styles into a carefully wrought and highly original whole that miraculously avoided being contrived and artificial.

In the opera he brought forth a message that transcended the mere plot line, a message of the striving and yearning of the human spirit in the face of Fate. And as an interpretation of the hopes and fears of mortal men, the opera could scarcely be more poignant and certainly not more sincere.

The new movie of this masterpiece has admirably recreated this opera. The movie possesses rare depth and beauty, lacking only the typical Hollywood gloss. A great deal of credit is due to a uniformly excellent cast. Sidney Poitier brings pathos and understanding to the tragic role of Porgy. He is matched only by Dorothy Dandridge's finely etched portrayal of Bess.

The two other stars, Pearl Bailey and Sammy Davis, Jr., are very fine. The scenery is superb; the orchestration brilliant.

Also in Providence this week is a skillful and exact production of Douglas's novel The Big Fisherman. Howard Keel was surprisingly well cast as Simon Peter. The movie is in remark.

A year ago today on the campus, Father Slavin was announcing his four year expansion program. Parts of it have already been realized—Raymond Hall.

In '58 this week, PC upset Assumption College; Tony Abbott was scheduled to play at the Military Ball.

Three years ago today, Miss Judy Grey was selected queen of the "Homecoming," according to The Cowl. John Notte, Secretary of State was feted by PC students.

Back in 1941, the Pyramid Players were planning a Dance Chorus. The Winter Festival, now a thing of the past, was planned for the weekend.

PC students with the world were mourning the death of Pope Pius XI on February 10, 1939. Construction was being continued on Aquinas Hall.

THREE WHO PASSED IN THE NIGHT

Last year, as everyone knows, 1,210,614 undergraduates dropped out of college. 256,080 flunked; 309,656 got married; 375,621 ran out of money; and 309,254 found jobs. As you have, of course, observed, this accounts for only 1,210,611 out of 1,210,614. What happened to the other three?

Well sir, to find the answer, I recently completed a tour of American campuses where I interviewed 40 million students and sold several subscriptions to The Open Road for Boys, and it pleases me to report that I can now account for those three elusive undergraduates.

The first was an LSU junior named Fred Gaugin. He was extremely popular, always ready with a smile, fond of folk dancing and pralines, and last semester his Chi Psi brothers unanimously elected him treasurer of the fraternity. This proved an error. Gaugin, alas, promptly absconded with the money and went to Tahiti to paint. The fraternity is bending every effort to extradite Gaugin, but Tahiti, alas, is currently observing the feast of Diphthong, the Sun-God, a five-year ceremony during which all the islanders wear masks, so nobody, alas, can say for certain which one is Gaugin.

The second missing undergraduate is William Cullen Sigafios, Oregon State freshman, who went one day last fall to a disreputable vendor named A. M. Sashweight to buy a pack of Marlboros. Mr. Sashweight did not have any Marlboros because Marlboros are only sold by reputable vendors. However, he told Sigafios that he had another brand which was just as good, and Sigafios, being but an innocent freshman, believed him.

Well sir, you and I know there is no other brand as good as Marlboros. That fine filter, that flavorful flavor, that pleasure, that joy, that fulfillment—are Marlboro's and Marlboro's alone. All of this was quickly apparent to young Sigafios and he flew into a terrible rage. "As good as Marlboros indeed!" he shrieked, kicking his roommate furiously. "I am going right back to that mendacious Mr. Sashweight and give him a thrashing he won't soon forget!" With that he seized his lacrosse bat and rushed out.

Mr. Sashweight heard him coming and started running. Now Mr. Sashweight, before he became a disreputable vendor, had taken numerous prizes as a cross-country runner, and he thought he would soon outdistance young Sigafios. But he reckoned without Sigafios's stick-to-itiveness. At last report the two of them had passed Cleveland. When they reach the Atlantic Seaboard, bad Mr. Sashweight will get his lumps from Sigafios, you may be sure, and I, for one, am glad.

The third missing undergraduate, also named Sigafios, is a Bennington sophomore named Celeste Sigafios and, ironically, she never intended to leave college at all. She was merely going home for Christmas on the Natchez, Mobile, and Boise Railroad, and during the night, alas, her upper berth slammed shut on her. Being a Bennington girl, she naturally did not wish to make an unseemly outcry, so she just kept silent. The next morning, alas, the railroad went bankrupt, and Miss Sigafios today is lying forgotten on a siding near Valparaiso, Indiana. Fortunately she has plenty of Marlboros with her.

And how about the rest of you? Do you have plenty of Marlboros? Or if you like mildness but you don't like filters, plenty of Philip Morris? Hmm? Do you?

Are these gold bars worth two more years of study?*

As a college sophomore, you're nearing the mid-point. Halfway through college—halfway through Army ROTC. Now you face a major decision: Are the gold bars of a Second Lieutenant worth two additional years of study in advanced ROTC?

That question is yours to answer now—before you register for your junior year. As you explore the facts, carefully weigh the traditional responsibilities and rewards of serving as an Army officer...

- 1. Traditional responsibilities. To meet the command responsibilities of an Army officer, you apply the leadership principles absorbed during advanced ROTC training. And your executive potential grows as you gather leadership experience. That's why employers often prefer men who served as commissioned officers. These men already have proven their capacity to shoulder executive responsibility.

- 2. Traditional rewards. In every organization, greater responsibilities mean greater rewards. Thus the traditional responsibilities and prestige of an Army officer are matched by material advantages. For example, if you plan to marry soon after graduation—an officer's salary can be a distinct advantage. A married 2nd Lieutenant earns a minimum of $355.68 per month—plus substantial fringe benefits.

Need more information? Check with the Professor of Military Science and Tactics at your college or university. He'll be glad to discuss your decision with you.

PC Students Offered Bermuda Trip

For the tenth successive year, Providence College students are being offered a chance to spend their spring vacation in Bermuda. Plans this year call for a special college week program during the Easter vacation.

Students will fly round trip from Providence leaving Hillsgrove airport on Thursday, April 14th, using the new Pan-Am jets out of Idlewild International airport in New York. Plans tentatively call for lunch that noon at Elbow Beach, Bermuda. The traveler will be booked at Montgomery Cottages in Warwick, close to the beaches and new hotels. The all-expense trip for one week is being offered at $169.

Coordinator of the trip is Louis C. Fitzgerald, special instructor in advertising whose office is in Antoninus Hall. Student representatives are John Gorman, '60 and James Ryan, '60.

To the Editor:

The athletic department of this college is obviously forgetting that the unflinching support of the student body has been an essential factor in the rise of our basketball team to national prominence. As thanks for our contribution, we are now having our ticket supply cut to one per student. This means that we are deprived of bringing a date, friend, relative, wife, or fiancée to the games in order that more outsiders may have seats.

To prevent hoarding, a limit of two tickets per student might be reasonable. But by imposing the outrageous one-ticket limit, the athletic regime is hacking its own roots. Let's face it: basketball as a college sport should be primarily for the students, not primarily for the public. Did not the students' money help to build Alumni Hall? Did not their money and united cheers help to build the pedestal our team occupies. If their efforts are forgotten already, the future of PC basketball is dark.

As a senior, and a man interested in the future welfare of the college, I respectfully suggest to the Administration that the athletic department be instructed to consider the students first in the distribution of tickets, and to allow them to buy two tickets apiece to any home game. Big-time basketball can be a monster; let's not let it happen here.

Yours sincerely,
James M. Kelleher

Ice, Court Teams Win During Break

Since the last issue of The Cowl, the Providence College varsity athletic forces managed to keep themselves busy both before and after the midyear break, with major encounters with top-flight competition taking place on the court and on the ice.

Coach Joe Mullaney's varsity basketball team played five games during this time. Lenny Wilkens was named all-East for the third time and the Friars were rated among the top 20 teams by both the AP and U.P.I. Last but not least, PC was invited to the National Invitation Tournament for the second consecutive year.

Coach Tom Eccleston's hockey forces, meanwhile, won three of its four games, topping Yale, Army, and the East's top-ranked college sextet, Boston College, and losing only to Princeton, by an 8-7 margin.

The icemen were the first to see action during the last fortnight-plus-one-week. They traveled to New Haven on Jan. 20 and defeated Yale 9-4 for the first time since the start of the PC-Yale series.

January 23 was the next big day for PC athletics. In the afternoon the hockey team played at West Point, New York, where they won their second game in a row, this time defeating the Black Knights of the Hudson 3-2. Sophomore Bob Transiskus was outstanding in the nets for the Friars as they handed the locals their third loss of the season.

That night, just one day short of a year after Johnny Egan thrilled the Philly fans with his 39-point effort as he paced the Mullaneymen to a four-overtime victory over Villanova, the Friars again visited Palestra and again upset the home team, this time St. Joseph's, 64-63.

After a layoff of a week and two days, both teams turned out on February 1 to greet visitors, the hoopsters to entertain Niagara in Alumni Hall and the pucksters to host Princeton at the Auditorium.

The Mullaneymen used their home-court edge to best advantage as the outlasted Niagara's Purple Eagles, 68-43. Capt. Len Wilkens showed why he is considered one of the best defensive players in the country as he held the nation's third-high scorer, Al Butler, to a mere eight points during the approximately 34 minutes they faced each other. Against Lenny's replacement, Denny Guimares, Butler was able to count only three more, for a season-low total of 11.

Johnny Egan played his best game of the year against the Purple Eagles, hitting on long jumpers, setting up a number of fine plays, and playing an outstanding defensive game. But Space's inability to play at a less than all-out proved his downfall, as he took a bad spill on his bum knee during the second half, causing the knee to act up and Johnny to miss the next two games.

The pucksters didn't fare as well that night. Although they scored seven goals, their defense let eight get past them, just enough for Princeton to avenge its 5-2 defeat at the hands of the Friars earlier this year at Princeton.

Bert Ferrie scored his first two goals of the year in this game to lead the Friar offense.

On Wednesday, Feb. 3, the Mullaneymen took on cross-town rivals Brown University in their second meeting of the intrastate championship series. The Bruins, paced by two of the Ivy League's top operatives, sops Greg Heath and Mike Cingiser, led for the first 17 minutes of the game, but the Friars finally broke through and went on to a 65-54 victory.

PC, without the services of Johann Egan, were unable to contain the sharpshooting Heath during the first half, but finally started clicking in the waning minutes of the first half and went ahead. Brown was never again able to close the gap, but their stubborn persistence kept the game a fairly tight one all the way.

Hadnot and Cingiser added a little spice to the game late in the finale as they had a short tussle under the PC boards. Both were subsequently evicted from the game.

Frosh Five Bop Bears

Giving evidence of their consistent improvement as the season progresses, the Providence College freshman basketball team crushed Brown University's freshmen 79-52 at Alumni Hall last Saturday.

The victory was the Friars' eleventh straight and was achieved over a club that they beat earlier in the year 61-59 on a basket by Ray Flynn in the closing seconds.

In this encounter, it was a different story as the balanced forces of Jackie Allen put four men in double figures and led throughout the contest. Vinny Ernst was high scorer with 20 points closely followed by John Jenkins with 18.

Earlier in the week, the PC frosh set a new single game freshman scoring record as they scuttled the Quonset Naval Air Station 126-82. This broke the old team record of 108 set against Leicester Junior College during the 1956-57 season.

Tonight the frosh play Leicester, whom they defeated earlier this year, at Leicester.

The four teams in between are: University of Connecticut, 6-1; Coast Guard Academy, 5-1; University of Rhode Island, 5-4; and Boston College, 4-3.

HIS NAME IS LENNY WILKENS.
 He came here rather unheralded from Boy's High in Brooklyn. Fortunately for Providence College basketball adherents, he won't leave unheralded. Last year he was the backbone of the defense which finished fourth in the nation in total points allowed.

At the end of the regular season, he was the Friar's second highest scorer and had been tabbed as a definite threat to Space Egan's claim on All-East honors. Towards the end of the season, he was the key figure in the handoffing of St. Bonaventure's Tom Stith as PC dumped the high flying Bonnies 53-50 and won an invite to the NIT.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN was the scene of the next series of heroics by the current Providence captain. He was somewhat overshadowed in the first tourney encounter with Manhattan by a thrilling finish. This finish was capped with a clutch hoop by Egan, which climaxed a brilliant performance by the Hartford flash.

Still the Boy's High product finished with eighteen markers and a creditable amount of rebounds and steals. Using that contest as a springboard, he went on to bigger and better things against bigger and supposedly better teams. St. Louis was the next opponent for the Black and White.

LEADING THE talent-laden Billikens was a two time All-American who is now doing quite well for the professional St. Louis Hawks, playing alongside such stalwarts as Cliff Hagan and Bob Pettit. His name was Bob Ferry, although no one remembered it by the time our hero had finished his night's work.

The New York native really put on a show for the home town fans. Thirty-one points, thirteen direct steals, innumerable deflections and an almost complete bewilderment of Ferry were his major contributions to a stunning, double overtime upset of the highly favored Billikens.

His performances in later tourney games against St. John's and NYU won him a place on the All-NIT team and he later garnered All-New England, All-East and honorable mention All-America honors.

THIS YEAR the lithe defensive ace is again the second highest scorer. In addition, he has had several outstanding games which have won him All-East recognized four times already. In New York versus St. John's, he held the celebrated Tony Jackson to one field goal in the final half, in addition to a five minute overtime.

Against Georgetown, he scored twenty-five points. In the Palestra against St. Joseph's, he stole the ball three consecutive times in the final minutes to secure a one point victory over the Philadelphians. It was this victory which catapulted the Smith-Hillers into the national spotlight.

He limited Niagara's famed Al Butler to two field goals and eight points in thirty-four minutes of man-to-man basketball. With every succeeding game, the talented senior demonstrated his natural instinct and uncanny basketball know-how.

THIS YEAR the Friar's will once again be in the NIT. And this year they will be led by the same fellow who time and again has brought them from the brink of defeat to the pinnacle of success. This fellow has proved to be the core of Coach Mullaney's vaunted defense, which has strymed so many great teams.

He has been the captain of a team which rose from the oblivion of a three game losing streak early in the season to a place among the top twenty teams in the country. Chances are that he will also lead that same team in a late season surge which this year will not falter in the semi-finals.

HIS NAME IS LENNY WILKENS.

WPRO-TV TO CARRY HOLY CROSS GAME
 WPRO Television Inc., a Providence station, has announced plans to televise the PC-Holy Cross game February 23 in Alumni Hall Gymnasium. This will be the first game ever televised live from Alumni Hall. Game time is 8:30; broadcast time is 8:15.

Chris Clark, WPRO sports director, has broadcast all PC games on radio both home and away this year. The series has been sponsored by a local bank and automobile dealer.

PC Shaded By One In Three Overtimes

Captain Lenny Wilkens led Providence College in a gallant yet fruitless attempt to end a ninety-two game winning streak as the Friars bowed to St. Bonaventure University 90-89 in a three-overtime marathon battle at Olean.

Wilkens played what was probably the game of his life as he scored thirty-four points and continually kept the Friars in contention with his sensational defensive ability. He was primarily opposed by the Bonnies' brilliant Tom Stith, who registered 46 points.

Rightfully, Stith scored the decisive basket with approximately fifteen seconds left in the contest. Earlier, Rich Holzmeier had hit on his third consecutive shot to regain the lead for Providence at 89-88. He also scored the first two hoops of the final period, one giving PC an 80-78 lead and the second tying it at 82-82 after Tom Stith had twice hit on jumpers.

Sam Stith then gave Bonaventure the lead only to see Wilkens tie it once more. Egan, after being fouled, sank the first and missed the second, but put in a jumper on the rebound, giving Providence an 87-84 lead. Baskets by the Stiths put the Bonnies ahead and then came the final two hoops by Holz and Tom Stith.

Dick Whalen grabbed an early lead for PC with a basket after only fifteen seconds of play. The Bonnies then stormed back with six points before the two minute mark.

Midway in the first half, the Friars shot from a 23-21 deficit to a 29-23 lead and increased the lead to 32-25 before Whitey Martin sparked an Indian surge which resulted in a 36-36 tie at half-time. Space Egan led PC scorers in the first half with ten points despite being hampered by three early personals. Playing on his injured leg with the reckless abandon, Egan ended up with eighteen points for his best game of the year.

Providence moved ahead early in the second half. Sparked by Wilkens' nine points, the Friars moved to a 50-42 lead. The Indians then came back as Providence proved incapable of holding the lead. Just after the ten minute mark, Bonaventure led 54-53. After a scoring lull on both sides, the Stiths and Martin dueled Wilkens, Had-not and Egan to a 62-58 score with less than two minutes remaining, with the Bonnies in charge.

Wilkens then scored after a steal and it was 62-60. The Indians could not hold the ball against the amazing Wilkens and Len again stole it. Fast-breaking with Hadnot, the Providence captain led Jim for the tying hoop with 34 seconds left.

In the first overtime, Wilkens and Hadnot managed to keep up with Tom Stith, who scored all six points, and the period ended 68-68. In the second extra session, Martin and Wilkens swapped baskets before the Bonnies ran off six in a row for a 76-70 lead with a little over two minutes remaining.

Moynahan and Hadnot made it 76-74 but Martin countered with two foul conversions for a 78-74 count. Two clutch foul shots by Egan narrowed the margin to 78-76 and then the indomitable Wilkens took over. Stealing the ball, he drove the length of the court and tied the score with but four seconds remaining. The dramatic third overtime proved the Friars' downfall however.

Try Latest Equipment

Providence College has received word that the National Rifle Association, of which PC is a member, has sanctioned the use of the new palm rest and butt-plate, the latest equipment available to the rifle team.

The palm rest is made of metal and wood, screws onto the rifle at the balance point, and can be adjusted to the height at which the shooter desires to hold the rifle. It helps the shooter by making the standing position more comfortable, and also by making it easier for the shooter to control the swing of the rifle.

The butt-plate, also made of metal, has what is known as a "shutzen-hook." This hook, about three inches long, fits between the shooter's upper arm and his body, thereby greatly increasing the steadiness of the rifle.

When both of these aids are used together, the right hand is left free for pulling the trigger. They are particularly useful for improving a shooter's off-hand (standing) score.

Sgt. Ronald W. Orchard, coach of the varsity and ROTC rifle teams, has announced that PC's ROTC rifle team finished second in New England in the recent William Randolph Hearst Rifle Match. Only Norwich, a military school, finished ahead of PC. First Army standings have not been released yet, but Orchard expects his team to be high in the standings.

Providence College's varsity hockey team surprised Eastern collegiate hockey circles last Thursday night when they trounced Boston College 5-1 at the R. I. Auditorium.

BC, rated the East's leading team going into the game, scored the first goal at 3:13 when Owen Hughes faked out the Friar defense and put the puck past PC's goaltender Paul Gauthier. Hughes was assisted on the play by Red Martin and Ron Walsh.

Jim Wandamacher got the Friar attack rolling at 6:37 when he took a backhand pass from Jim Gegree and put the puck by Eagle goalie Jim Logue.

PC scored three more times before the game was ten minutes old.

and Bob O'Connor, gave the Friars a lead which they never relinquished with a well-placed shot at 7:14. A Keough pass back to Bergen one minute and 33 seconds later resulted in a 15-foot screen shot by the latter.

Joe Albert and Jack McGeough assisted on a goal by Keough at 9:24 while the Eagles were shorthanded.

BC made a vain rush to get back into the game during the Trackmen Win In N.Y.

The Millrose Games held in Madison Square Garden was the scene of the second outing of PC's varsity track team. A victory at Boston during the previous week caused the Costesmen to be placed in a fast heat but the team proved equal to the task.

Gus Scannapieco was the leadoff man for the Friars. He managed to secure a five yard lead over the B.U. and Colgate teams and passed the baton to Pete Wallack, running the second leg of the relay. Pete opened up the gap to seven yards before giving the stick to Ed McNamara. McNamara kept up the pace and Vin Iacono held the lead to give PC the victory.

Colgate finished second and Boston University placed third. The Costesmen were not as fortunate at the BAA Games in Boston last Saturday evening. They finished third to Syracuse and Bates in their event.

★ DIAMONDMEN CALLED ★

Alex Nahigian, new varsity baseball coach, announced Monday that there will be a meeting for all battery candidates for this year's varsity baseball team on Friday, Feb. 12, in room C7 (Alumni Hall) at 3:30 p.m.

Nahigian, who replaces Bob Murray at the helm, comes to the college from nearby Tolman High in Pawtucket, where he directed his team to the state playoffs five times. Tolman won the playoffs in 1957.

Alex expects to direct one of PC's best teams ever this year. His pitching should be outstanding this year as four good hurlers from last year's freshmen, Mike Trodden, Milt Bell, George Frese, and Jim Hodgkins, join Ron Doane, Jim Brennan, and Win Fairbanks to round out the mound corps.

He also expects returning vets Don Mezzanotte and Joe Caffarella and sophs Al Izzi and Joe Evans to be the big guns for the team, which should feature good hitters all the way down the line.

closing minutes of the opening period, but Gauthier, who made 32 saves and limited the visitors to their lowest point production of the year, was equal to every rush.

Bert Ferrie brought the house down in the second period when he scored at 2:33 while the Friars were shorthanded. Ferrie stole the puck at the BC blue line and fired the boot-heel into the nets from about eight feet out as a BC defender tried to ride him out of the play.

Joe Trinque and Ferrie did a magnificent job of killing five of the six PC penalties. During a third period penalty, Trinque gave a dazzling display of stickhandling as he ragged the puck right in front of the Friars' bench.

The victory was the third out of their last four for the ice-man and evened off their record at 6-6.

A FEW FACTS AND FIGURES: Joe Keough is the leading PC scorer with 26 points on 15 goals and 11 assists. . . the Friar bad boy is Jack McGeough, who has spent 26 minutes in the sin bin. . . the Eagles play us again at their arena on Saturday, Feb. 27. . .

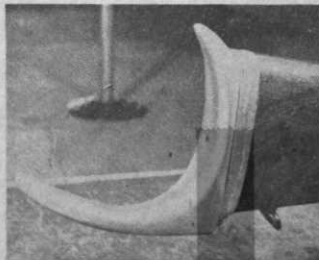

Hockey Preview

The Providence College hockey team will journey to Andover, Mass., to play Merrimack college on Saturday, February 13.

The Warriors, now in their fourth season of intercollegiate hockey, have beaten only Tufts and Bowdoin this year while losing to Norwich, Army, New Hampshire and American International College.

Merrimack's scoring power will be carried primarily by George Pollock and Tom Humphreys, who were the Warrior's two leading scorers last season.

Merrimack seeking to make a name for itself in big time hockey, would like to beat a name team, and the Friars loom as their immediate target.
