Paul Hanaway Resigns Post; White Editor

Following the resignation of Paul J. Hanaway as editor of The Cowl, the Rev. John P. Gerhard, O.P., has announced the appointment of Peter J. White as new editor-in-chief. Hanaway, who served as Cowl chief since the beginning of 1961, was asked by the moderator to vacate his post.

Assuming the duties of editor after serving on the paper for two and a half years, White brings a wide range of campus experience to his new position. A dean's list student, White has been an active member of the junior class, acting as its vice-president last year and its treasurer this year.

The new editor is a native of Chappaqua, N. Y., and a political science major. He has also been a member of the Spike Shoe Club for the last three years.

White joined the staff of the Cowl in his freshman year. He rose successively to the post of copy editor and then to managing editor.

Hanaway, the outgoing editor, was due to relinquish his post with the January 31 issue of the Cowl.

The announcement of the change was made by the moderator last Thursday.

IRC Conducts Initial Meeting; Roche Named Committee Head

The initial meeting of the International Relations Committee was held last Wednesday at 8:00 p.m. in Aquinas Lounge. John Roche was named to head a six-man steering committee which will co-ordinate the objectives of the committee and will draw up a constitution to be presented to the Student Congress for approval.

Upon approval of the constitution by the Congress, the committee will become the International Relations Club of Providence College. It is expected that the Club will be affiliated with the American Association of International Relations Clubs.

Tentative plans call for the new club to hold seminars on international affairs, and after careful study to present recommended resolutions on world problems to the Student Congress for them to pass. The I.R.C. also intends to bring some well-known speakers and some foreign students to the college to speak on world problems.

Christmas Message

Very Rev. Vincent C. Dore, O.P.
President of Providence College

"And there were in the same country shepherds watching and keeping the night watches over their flock. And behold an Angel of the Lord stood by them; and the Angel said to them: 'Fear not; for behold I bring you good tidings of great joy, that shall be to all the people. For this day is born to you a Saviour, who is Christ the Lord in the City of David.'" (Luke 2/8-11)

With a warm and hearty welcome the shepherds received the Infant Messiah. Simple, God-fearing, humble men were these, fulfilling the duties of their state of life. Out of the hillside their minds were attuned to the great reality of God's existence, their hearts were in communion with the Mighty Ruler of the

Friars To Hold Annual Formal

The annual Friars' Formal sponsored by the Friars' Club of Providence College will be held at the Wannamoisett Country Club, East Providence, on Friday night, February 9, according to John R. Manley, co-chairman of the event. Dancing will be from 9-1.

Tickets, priced at $4, will be available immediately after the Christmas vacation. According to Manley, these tickets may be purchased from any of the Friars' Club members.

A band, known as the "Top Hatters," has been hired to provide the music. "This group has played at URI and Brown social functions and has worked the country club circuit extensively," said Manley. The manager of the band, Walter Lonczak, is a graduate of the College.

"This band will provide good music suitable for any of the various dance steps, and in my mind this formal should be a swinging affair," said Manley. He, along with the other co-chairman, Paul Keohane, expressed the hope that the formal would be a success, stating that it was the only formal open to the entire student body, and that it comes at an opportune moment as far as studies are concerned.

NY Club To Hold Christmas Dance

Gene Fusaro, President of the Providence College Metropolitan Club, announced that tickets for the club's annual Christmas Dance have been moving well since the sale began following the Thanksgiving recess.

The Met Club dance will be held in the Sheraton-Atlantic Hotel, at Broadway and 34th Street in New York, from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m., on Wednesday evening, December 27. Music for the affair will be provided by the Melody Aces.

Tickets are still on sale every evening from 5 to 6 p.m. in Raymond Hall. The price of the bid is $5.00; a $2.00 down payment is required and the remainder can be paid the night of the dance. Students are urged to buy their tickets as soon as possible, because the number is limited.

The dance is open to all PC students, along with any friends they care to invite.

Congress Visits Howard Home

A Christmas party sponsored by the Student Congress will be held at the Howard State Mental Institution December 13. The purpose of the party is to spread Christmas cheer to the inmates of the institution.

Attending the affair for Providence College will be many members of the Student Congress and the basketball team. Gifts will be distributed, purchased.

Junior Ring Reaction

What is your opinion of the Junior Class ring?

Ronald Southworth: "Our ring definitely displays superior craftsmanship, and in my opinion are one of the nicest the college has ever had."

Leonard Theriault: "I believe the 1963 class ring is unexcelled in its design and workmanship. However, it appears to me, in relation to size, to be in the order of a large high school ring."

Eugene Sheridan: "I think the Ring Committee and the Josten Company should be congratulated for the fine job they did on the ring. However, I did not like the idea of giving $4 to the Bookstore for being the middleman."

Tom Kelleher: "The class ring of this year seems to me to be the finest I have seen so far at Providence College. It certainly has all the appearances of a college ring and the durability to stand up to many years of wearing. Its distinctive styling is of the highest calibre and its certainly worth cherishing for a long time to come."

Ken Jodoin: "Our class ring is something that all of us will always be proud to display. It is significant of the attainment of an educational plateau. Everything in its design has a meaning and it does a good job of showing the importance of this plateau through art."

Dave Reilly: "I think that this year's class ring is of excellent quality and has very fine detail. Josten's and the Ring Committee did a wonderful job in designing it and I'm certainly very proud to wear it."

John Alquist: "The rings really show me something" to use a worn out cliché. Considering the fact that there are a few shattered sapphires on campus, I still like them."

John Nicholas: "I am well satisfied with the ring. Its one of the best designed and made that I have seen since I've been

Memo From the Editor:

None but the foggy-minded idealist can listen to a radio news broadcast or pick up a newspaper without realizing the many problems that beset us on all sides in today's world. These problems have international, national, and local significance. Sooner or later, once these conflicts are made known, proper agencies attempt their solution, with varying degree of success.

Colleges too are involved in various problems, which, whether they are large or small, are of interest and must be communicated to both the faculty and students. This is especially true if either group should fail to understand the position of the other in conflicts which arise.

At Providence College, the task of communication is entrusted to the Cowl. It is our duty to understand the problem, report it accurately and objectively, and to take a constructive attitude toward the solution or appeasement of any conflict.

The Cowl must give credit where credit is due in the solution of these problems, but we must also simultaneously maintain the privilege to positively criticize when conflicts are not satisfactorily solved.

Finally, we intend to foster those ideals which are ours to maintain as students of a Catholic college and which Providence College attempts to instill in our minds.

To the Editor of the Cowl:

Your editorial in last week's issue "Second Thoughts" leaves me with some second thoughts about the Cowl. The Cowl has been calling a spade a spade until that sickening, tongue in cheek editorial was published. True, it was motivated by expediency rather than sincerity. However, it should have been entitled "Profiles in Cowardice."

However, "Profiles in Cowardice" was not enough to stem the tide of overpowering administrative wrath. The shakeup in the Cowl's high command was in my opinion, not necessary. There are two issues at stake here.

The first is this. Does a college newspaper have to constructively criticize the administration of the college? I say that it does. After all what good is freedom of the press if the editor is working with a gun pointed to his head? Does anyone remember Peter Zenger? I suppose Mr. Zenger would be considered a heretic by good standards. If difference of opinion is heresy, then I'm proudly a heretic.

Secondly, did Fr. Jurgalis suffer any loss of prestige by an attempted censure on a motion of Congressman Chernow? I don't think that a motion to censure, coming from the source that it did, did harm Father's prestige; in fact it probably enhanced his prestige.

Now let us look into the probable future of the Cowl. I look forward to insipid, non-controversial issues of sentimental verbal drivel praising each mistake made here at the College. The future is bright but truth ultimately prevails.

And Will Rogers:

This is what the beloved Will Rogers thought of the weekly newspaper:

"Take away my ham, take away my eggs, even my chili, but leave me my newspaper.

"Even if it has such purely local news as 'Jim Jones came home last night unexpectedly and bloodshed ensued', or 'Jes Bushyhead, our local M.D., is having one of the best years of his career, practically speaking—but they just won't pay him when they get well,' and 'election ain't far off, and everybody is up for office that can sign an application blank.'

"Now all that don't seem much news to you. But it is news, especially when you know the people and they are your own folks. So, no matter how punk you think your local newspaper is, let them take it away from you for a while and see how you feel. The old newspaper, I think, is about our biggest blessing.

"So let's read and be merry, for tomorrow the paper may not have enough ads to come out."

Student-Faculty Board Opinions Voiced by Congress President Hall

Joe, just what is the Student-Faculty Board, and do you really think it will fulfill any need for us?

"I've been asked this question several times since the beginning of the year, and I would like to give a brief description of this committee in an attempt to explain it.

"Let me answer the second part of the question by saying that of all the programs inaugurated by the Congress in the past year this has been one of the most challenging and promises to be one of the most beneficial.

"Several of last year's meetings were spent discussing the objectives of the committee, and it was generally concluded that the committee had a right to discuss and attempt, through actual measures and recommendations, to improve student-faculty relations.

"The committee should always be willing to consider various problems present to either the entire student body or to various concentrations. Recommendations and requests from both faculty and students are to be welcomed and to be presented for discussion by one of the six members of the board.

"I would like to mention that this group has met with considerable co-operation among the faculty members, and, although it may not have direct powers, it does promulgate all its decisions among the faculty and the students.

"The very fact that this committee recommends the use of student course evaluation sheet, and that consequently many professors voluntarily use them indicates an encouraging future for the committee.

"But such a committee relies heavily on the mutual interest and co-operation of the students as that of the faculty. The committee cannot adequately improve student-faculty relations if there is complete silence on the part of the students and the faculty.

"In particular, I would like to request the students to present to this board anything they consider important. The areas open for consideration by this committee are vast, but nothing specific can be accomplished without your personal interest.

"I realize that this description is still rather vague, but limited time and space requires such. I hope that the student-faculty board is more clearly understood and that all will seek to contribute the suggestions and co-operation essential to its continued success.

"The members of the board are: Fr. Joseph L. Lennon, O.P.; Fr. Thomas Peterson, O.P.; Mr. Sigmund Freidemann; George Freese, '62; Charles Reilly, '62; and Robert Silva, '63. Please feel free to contact them in all matters pertaining to, or tending to improve, student-faculty relations."

forces of nature, their consciences were at rest in the quiet of a night whose throbbing stillness was electric with the elemental truth of God's omnipresence.

Humble, obscure and unknown shepherds were the first recipients of the public tidings of God's coming in the flesh. Yet it was fully in keeping with what we know of Him who so frequently had styled Himself in Scripture the shepherd of His people. "I will set up a shepherd over them, even My servant David, and he shall feed them and shall be their shepherd" and again: "I am the good shepherd." But His choice of the shepherds of Bethlehem for this immense favor is also a luminous comment on His words: "Learn of Me for I am meek and humble of heart."

The pure and humble of heart are the successors of the shepherds. Today we must emulate the shepherds and put aside greed, hatred and the tyranny of evil passions. Men must cooperate with one another in determining a peace based on justice. In all human relations, good faith, integrity and a high degree of responsibility are essential for peace, prosperity, and happiness.

Men must travel the road that began at Bethlehem. On this Christmas of 1961, let us heed the invitation of the shepherds:

"Let us go over to Bethlehem" and kneel before the crib of the Infant Saviour, let us offer Him that gift which He most appreciates, let us offer Him our hearts and bowing down in humble adoration, let us ponder on the inscrutable mystery there revealed. "And the Word was made flesh and dwelt among us."

Blood Drive Termed Success; 70 Pints Collected by Alpha

Alpha Epsilon Delta's blood drive which was held December 5 in the exercise room of Alumni Hall collected a total of 70 pints. Co-Chairmen of the drive were Timothy McCann, president, and Harry Iannotti, treasurer of the Alpha. Iannotti termed the drive "very successful."

Although 94 students had pledged to donate, some 35 were turned away because of asthma conditions, hay fever, high blood pressure, colds, and other minor ailments. The drive also received contributions from many who had not pledged in advance.

Among members of the faculty who donated blood were the Rev. James L. Dolan, O.P., Col. Lawrence V. Troiano, and Dr. Hubert C. Kennedy.

Five technicians from Our Lady of Fatima Hospital collected the blood from the donors. The Rev. Charles V. Reichart, O.P., and Dr. Robert I. Krasner acted as advisers and assisted with arrangements. McCann and Iannotti performed hemoglobin tests while Robert Feeley, Roger Raymond, Thomas Vest, Kenneth Talan, John Benussi, Joseph Moretti, Gerald Marsocci, Andrew Pryharski, Merrill Chernov, Edward Blankstein, and Sheldon Kaplan helped the donors in filling out cards.

A filing system of donors and dates of donation is being set up in the biology office. Donor cards will be distributed in the near future to those students who contributed. All PC faculty members and students themselves are able to receive blood credits. Donors' immediate families are also protected but non-donors' families are ineligible in the program. Those in need of blood credits should contact either a member of the AED or Father Reichart.

Alpha also announced that any one who didn't give and wants to donate blood should contact the biology office which will make the necessary arrangements. Free transportation will be provided for the

African Neutrality Concept Subject of Frodin Lecture

"The concept of neutrality in African countries is an expression of aloneness," stated Reuben Frodin in a lecture on Nigeria sponsored by the Student Speakers Committee and the Political Science Department on Monday.

"The African countries cannot be counted in a grouping. This is the reason why Nigeria refused an invitation to the Belgrade Conference. Nigeria regarded those who went as false neutrals," he continued.

The administrative elite of Nigeria is no longer regarded as an element of British colonialism. Also, its constant residentialism movement does not leave its members open to criticism arising from luxury privileges.

In contrast with leaders of some other underdeveloped countries, Balewa, the Prime Minister of Nigeria, has grown in stature because of his moral principles and acts for the benefit of his people.

Nigeria has passed legislation which assures outside investors that nationalization is not an immediate prospect. If any industry is nationalized at present, the investor is certain to be compensated.

Communications have contributed to national unity and have offset the influence of tribalism. Tribalism is weak, but the tribal chiefs have the prestige of being identified with the central government by holding governmental posts.

Conservative Club Given Approval By Committee on Administration

Student Congress president Joseph Hall announced, Monday evening, that the Conservative Club has been approved by the Committee on Administration.

Father Lennon, in an inter-office memo to Mr. Hall concerning the club, has mentioned that it has been requested by the committee that the club change its title to one using the name of some famous conservative philosopher. The purpose of the requested change, as stated in the memo, is to prevent the College's name from being associated with conservatism and thus being politically tagged.

Science Series' Second Lecture

Monday evening the second lecture in the "Distinguished Lectures in Science Series" took place in Albertus Magnus Hall. Guest speaker for the occasion was Charles D. Herzfeld, Ph.D., Asst. Director of Ballistic Missile Defense Research, of the Advance Research Projects Agency of the Department of Defense. This series of lectures is being sponsored by the National Institutes of Health in conjunction with the Science Honors Program.

"Atoms and Molecular Fragments in Solids" was the title of the lecture delivered by Dr. Herzfeld, in which he discussed the independent history of solids, atoms and molecular fragments. He related these two fields through his own work. Also discussed were various chemical and physical properties of such systems. The lecture was followed by a question period.

Mr. Raymond Lajeunesse, organizer and temporary chairman of the Conservative Club, stated in regard to the memo, "I feel that the title Conservative Club tags only the organization and not the whole College, and it is the intention of our organization to be tagged as to political philosophy." He also mentioned, "It is not within my power as temporary chairman to make a decision on this matter, which will be submitted to a vote of the club membership."

Now that recognition has been obtained the club will hold its first public meeting after the Christmas recess. At this meeting permanent officers will be elected, and two films, "Communist Enticement - 1951" and "Operation Abolition," will be shown.

Pirraglia Elected Frosh President; Lang Chosen VP

Robert Pirraglia, a 1961 graduate of Classical High School in Providence, won his bid for president of the freshman class in the recent elections. Voting took place in the lounge of Alumni Hall last Wednesday.

Pirraglia, sponsored by the "Fraternistic Party," overcame his closest opponent by a slim margin of three votes. Pirraglia received 107 votes; Don Lyon, 104; Richard Weronik, 84; and C. R. McCauley, 72. The total vote was 367, roughly fifty per cent of the freshman class.

Tom Lang, vice-presidential candidate, pulled more votes than any other candidate for any office. Lang received 244 votes. His opponents, Ed Ford and R. B. Nerf, received 86 and 39 votes respectively.

The office of secretary was given to Paul Kinsky who received 216 votes to Albert Beaton's 146.

Voting for treasurer went thus: Frank Sullivan, 159; Joe O'Brien, 114; Bob Monti, 81; and P. Cull, 21.

Drive Safely . . .

Motor vehicle deaths could be rated as the seventh or eighth of the principal causes of fatalities among the people of our country.

It has been estimated that one of every two persons living today will be involved in a serious automobile accident during his lifetime. Death is a frequent visitor to the American highway as it is estimated that one death occurs every fourteen minutes as a result of a motor vehicle mishap.

Accidents have occurred on all types of roadways and wherever automobiles have travelled. Yet, motor vehicle accidents tend to cluster in certain locations known as high accident frequency locations. For example, more deaths occur in the country than in the city. In rural areas, three persons are killed to every one person killed in urban regions.

What can we do in a positive way to curb the number of traffic accidents?

Safety experts have suggested a number of proposals including driver education courses, regulation of pedestrian traffic and tightening up of traffic laws in general. But actually how can any of these be effective without something first being done on the individual level.

May we suggest, especially over the holiday vacation, that each and every one of you exercise an extra amount of caution so that it might be a safe vacation as well as a happy and holy one.

An Odd Twist . . .

We can take a parking ban; we can stand the loss of a good editor, but they can't do THIS to us!

Last Friday night a host of smiling couples entered Raymond Hall preparing to enjoy an evening of relaxed dining and dancing. But alas, the evening was to prove unenjoyable. Why? Because they were denied THIS!

Record shops in the Providence area that are patronized by PC students noted a sharp decline in their sales in the past week because THIS is no more on the PC campus.

The men in the dormitories must now swiftly turn the pages of their previously neglected textbooks to find an outlet for the energy they once worked off by doing THIS.

We can take Kennedy replacing Bowles; we can stand Khrushchev's 50-megaton bomb, even strife in the Congo is tolerable, but we have to have THIS. We have to TWIST.

Drivers Beware . . .

With traffic accidents in the United States reaching the 10,000,000 mark annually, the people whose business it is to help keep you safe point out that only about one-fifth of these accidents involve normally reckless or irresponsible drivers. The remainder involve the usually proficient, normally conscientious, comparatively accident-free group, known as the "good" drivers.

If you fit in this group—and most of us do—then beware, lest you become one of the nation's burgeoning crop of "If-Only" drivers.

Who is an If-Only driver?

You might meet him any day on the road—with results that could be tragic for both of you. He is the one who gets involved in a traffic accident that could have been prevented if only he had acted, or reacted, differently.

The best protection for you and your family against the If-Only driver is to make sure that you do not become one. That is a full-time job, because an instant of inattention, a momentary lapse of reason, a single impulsive action can wreck your complacency, your car, your life.

And the authorities point out that even many of the most intelligent and experienced motorists sometimes court disaster.

So keep in mind the advice of safety authorities that safe driving is more than legal driving. The driver who grasps every advantage that traffic allows, who weaves from lane to lane, speeds along "bumper-to-bumper" or

"jumps the light," this is the If-Only driver. Operating just within the law, he allows no margin of safety or error for either himself or other drivers—and pedestrians had better beware.

The final advice from our safety experts: drive defensively. The best equipped car cannot prevent collisions; that's the driver's job. And for your family, an extra margin of safety is worth a thousand laments —"If only . . ."

ART MATTOS

Once in a while, at ever so infrequent intervals, a great movie comes out of Hollywood that justifies all that is merely mediocre, and 1961 will go down in movie history as the year that produced "West Side Story."

"West Side Story" makes no pretense of telling a new story. On the contrary, it borrowed a 350-year-old plot from Shakespeare, but it tells it in a new way. Romeo and Juliet suddenly become the Latin Maria and the American Tony, and the Capulets' and Montagues' feud is carried on by New Yorkers and Puerto Ricans, the Jets and the Sharks.

Instead of keeping dialogue, song and dance in separate sequences as is the musical theatre's usual custom, it moves fluidly among all three. Sometimes it is pure ballet and sometimes pure musical comedy; at other times it approaches tragedy and opera. This, combined with Leonard Bernstein's brilliant music and Jerome Robbins' choreography give "West Side Story" its great vitality.

But, there was a danger in putting this on the screen, for moviegoers are less sophisticated than theatre audiences, and a director who breaks precedent in a movie cannot be as sure that the audience will still be with him as he can when he attempts the same feat on the stage.

Nevertheless, the directors of "West Side Story" decided to gamble. They call for an act of faith in the first scene and bank everything on the outcome. Fortunately, it is the best scene in the movie and one of the best ever shot in a musical.

It begins slowly with two rival gangs idling in and around a playground on Manhattan's West Side. The tempo builds as the two gangs converge on a block where there is only room for one, taunting each other change is so natural that you will not even give it a second thought. There are no more moments of shock or annoyance. You can sit back and enjoy as the wide screen and color flash with the feral excitement of what will undoubtedly be called the best musical ever made.

One of the first motor vehicle accidents in America is reported to have taken place in 1896 in the state of Ohio. The collision in which one of the drivers was killed happened on the main street of a town at a time when there but two cars in the entire state, the two involved in the accident.

with looks and gestures. Not a word is spoken.

Suddenly in brief spurts, they break into the abnormal actions of ballet—abnormal, because they are stylized and academic. When this first happens the moviegoer feels a sense of shock. He is still aware of the real New York background, and he is almost outraged to see these rowdy gangs doing leaps and twirls of classical ballet. It seems absurd.

Here is where the act of faith must be made, and once the spectator makes it, once he acknowledges that this is a fable being told in fabulous style, he finds the first scene tremendously exciting and exhilarating. Soon the action quickens and the formal motions of ballet merge with the natural actions of running and fighting until the two can no longer be separated, as the boys chase each other across the neighborhood, through alleys and over fences. This scene alone and the effect on the viewer are worth the price of admission, steep though it is at roadshow prices.

This wordless first scene captures, as no dialogue could, the potentially explosive clanish arrogance and restless energy of the two gangs, and thus sets the mood for everything that is to follow.

If you cannot make the act of faith or suspend your disbelief at this scene, you might just as well leave the theatre, for you will not enjoy what is to follow. If you can and do, after this scene has concluded, whenever the movie shifts from dialogue to dance and song, the

"Revolt On Campus" Reviewed

By Raymond Lajeunesse

The past decade has seen a remarkable resurgence of conservatism among the college students of America. In his book Revolt on the Campus (Regnery, $4.50) M. Stanton Evans describes the growth of this new and exciting movement which is carrying on an ideological counter-attack against the liberals entrenched in college faculties and in the Kennedy administration.

Twenty-seven year old Evans, a graduate of Yale, is editor of the Indianapolis News and one of the most influential young conservatives. He illustrates the scope and power of the movement, discusses the intellectual qualities of the students participating in it, and examines the philosophical premises of the movement and its performance in the arena of practical politics.

Three organizations have been in the forefront of the tide of collegiate conservatism: 1) the Intercollegiate Society of Individualists, an educational organization founded in 1953 to fight socialism and liberalism by spreading conservative philosophy among young people; 2) Young Republicans, who have been more conservative than their parent organization and even went so far as to condemn the spending program of the Eisenhower administration; 3) Young Americans for Freedom, a political action group founded in the fall of 1960 which now has over 30,000 members, and chapters in more than 125 colleges and communities.

The most important chapter in the book deals with the intellectual quality of the young conservatives. These students, from whom will come many of our country's leaders of twenty years hence, believe: "that ours is a universe ruled by God. Whose laws of faith and of ethical behavior should govern all aspects of human life"; "that the only provable guarantee of freedom is the diffusion and limitation of power, as set forth in the constitution of the United States"; that "because the principal end of man is to shape his volition to the will of God, no man is empowered to distort or oppress another's will"; "that our lives are ruled by unchanging truths"; "that man's freedom is being leeched away through the instrumentalism of the state, intruding upon economic life"; "that the paramount danger facing the United States is the threat of international communism" and "that we cannot 'coexist' with it, but must defeat it, if we are to survive."

Senator Barry Goldwater has said of Revolt on the Campus, "I recommend this book to all who want to know what is going on in our colleges and universities—it will be a rewarding and exhilarating experience." I wholeheartedly concur with this statement; this book should be read by both conservatives and liberals, by conservatives so that they are informed about their own movement, and by liberals so that they know what they have to face.

here at Providence. Other than a small accident with my stone, its a good ring for a good class."

Frank Anthony Canepa: "I am unable to voice an opinion on the class ring since, for some inexplicable delay, I have not yet received my ring as I should have."

Excellent

Frank Giordano: "The design and workmanship on our rings are excellent. I compared my ring to the '62 ring, and I believe we came off better in the deal. The intelligence and initiative that our Ring Committee showed in their decisions concerning the jeweler and design problems should be highly commended. All in all, I think its a great job."

Frank Mazur: "Judging from what I have seen and heard, I think that Jorden did a good job. Engraving work and definition of Friar against Harkins Hall was prodigiously executed."

Richard P. Jones: "As much as I hate to criticize those who expect a critical comment, I think that the rings are the finest that this school has seen in a long time."

Chris Burger: "The ghoulish looking friar whose image overshadows Harkins Hall, not withstanding, I think our rings are unmatched in quality and are the best looking ones I've seen!"

Gerald Marascio: "The lettering in FRIARS on most rings and also the numerals in the year 1917 were not sufficiently oxidized (a process used to blacken the letters and numerals). Furthermore, the "service charge" imposed by the bookstore could be eliminated by having the rings shipped C.O.D. to the individual."

Darigan Feted At Testimonial

Frank Darigan, recently elected president of the National Catholic Youth Organization, was feted at a testimonial dinner given in his honor by the CYO at the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel Monday evening.

Among the speakers were the Very Rev. Vincent C. Dore, O.P., who offered the testimonial and the Rt. Rev. Russell J. McViney, D.D., Bishop of Providence.

The highlight of the evening's proceedings was the presentation to Darigan of a scholarship, sponsored by the CYO, which will pay for his college expenses through his junior and senior years.

RI Justice Addresses St. Thomas More Club

On Tuesday evening, December 5, 1961, Mr. Justice William E. Powers of the Supreme Court of Rhode Island addressed the St. Thomas More Club. Justice Powers spoke on the subject of the lawyer's place in the community. Mr. Powers, though blind, was the Attorney General of this state for eight years. Several years ago his life was featured on Ralph Edwards' "This is Your Life" program.

The eminent Justice outlined the system of courts in the United States. He went in to a brief history of the legal profession and then discussed the importance of the lawyer in our system, and the vital role which the lawyer plays in the lives of everyone.

Freshman Basketball Profiles

By JOHN COFFEY

Bob Kovalski (6' 8"). Bob came to PC from Smith Academy in Hatfield, Massachusetts. Besides his height, a great advantage is that he can move well and shoot accurately from both left and right corners. Kovalski will be the main scoring force of the Friarlets front line.

James Ahern (6' 0"). Jim is a local boy who graduated from Hope High School in Providence. He brought to PC a good jump shot. Ahern is one of the fastest men on the team and, as a result, he is probably the best driver.

James Cox (6' 3"). Another local boy, Jim came to PC from Classical High School in Providence. He owns an excellent jump shot from both "round the key" and in the corners. His greatest weakness is that he is not too physically strong. If Cox can correct this weakness he will be of great assistance to Bob Kovalski under the boards.

Paul Kinske (5' 11"). Paul graduated from North Haven High School in New Haven, Connecticut. He is the play maker of the team. Kinske sets up plays better than any other member of the freshman squad.

Matt Coyle (6'). Matt is also from North Haven High School. He possesses a well educated jump shot. His scoring abilities will help take the scoring load off Bob Kovalski.

Fran Archambault (6'). Fran hails from Norwich, Connecticut. He has a great variety of shots and blazing speed that will help the team in executing the fast break.

Jack Connelly (5' 7"). A graduate of Archbishop Williams

High School of Braintree, Massachusetts, Jack is the best shooting guard on the team. Although he is of small stature, he should play a great deal.

Dan Button (6' 3"). Dan is from Sloversville, New York. He is strong physically and is a good team man but needs to improve his shooting.

Mike Janson (6' 2"). Mike is from New London, Connecticut. Mike should be a big help to Bob Kovalski under the boards. He has a good left handed jump shot but needs to gain speed.

James Gill (6' 2"). Jim is a clever ball handler from North Attleboro, Massachusetts.

the team with twenty and sixteen points respectively.

At Boston College December 6, the freshmen were never in much trouble. Bob Kovalski, who finished with thirty points, sparked the Friarlets to an early lead which they never relinquished. Paul Kinski was effective in setting-up shots for Jim Ahern and Matt Coyle.

As the half ended, PC was ahead by nine points. The lead was padded early in the second half, enabling Coach Swartz to make frequent substitutions. The final score was 81-65.

The Friarlets continue to look good as a unit, showing fine ball control and good consistent scoring to alleviate the worries which were felt during the days prior to the opening of the season.

FROM SEA TO SHINING SEA

America is a great country. America's cities are full of houses. America's forests are full of trees. America's rivers are full of water. But it is not houses and trees and water that make America great; it is curiosity—the constant quest to find answers—the endless, restless "Why?" "Why?" "Why?"

Therefore, when I was told that Marlboro was a top seller at colleges from USC to Yale, I was not content merely to accept this gratifying fact, I had to find out why.

I hid myself to campuses in every sector of this mighty land. First, I went to the Ivy League—dressed, of course, in an appropriate costume: a skull-and-bones in one hand, a triangle in the other, a mask-and-wig on my head, a hasty pudding in my chops. "Sir," I cried, seeing an Ivy Leaguer by the lapels, which is no mean task considering the narrowness of Ivy League lapels, but, I, fortunately, happen to have little tiny hands; in fact, I spent the last war working in a small arms plant where, I am proud to say, I was awarded a Navy "E" for excellence and won many friends—"Sir," I cried, seeing an Ivy Leaguer by the lapels, "how come Marlboro is your favorite filter cigarette?"

"How come Marlboro is your favorite filter cigarette?"

"I'm glad you asked that question, Shorty," he replied. "Marlboro is my favorite filter cigarette because it is the filter cigarette with the unfiltered taste."

"Oh, thank you, sir!" I cried and ran posthaste to several campuses in the Big Ten, wearing, of course, the appropriate costume: a plaid Mackinaw, birling boots, a Kodiak bear and frost-bitten ears.

Spying an apple-cheeked young coed, I tugged my forelock and said, "Excuse me, miss, but how come Marlboro is your favorite filter cigarette?"

"I'm glad you asked that question, Shorty," she replied. "Marlboro is my favorite filter cigarette because the flavor is flavorful, the flip-top box flips and the soft-pack is soft."

"Oh, thank you, apple-cheeked young coed," I cried and bobbed a curtsy and sped as fast as my little fat legs would carry me to several campuses in the Southwest, wearing, of course, the appropriate costume: chaps, canteen, and several oil leases. Spying a group of undergraduates singing "Strawberry Roan," I removed my hat and said, "Excuse me, friends, but why is Marlboro your favorite filter cigarette?"

"We are glad you asked that question, Shorty," they replied. "Marlboro is our favorite filter cigarette because we, native sons and daughters of the wide open spaces, want a cigarette that is frank and forthright and honest. We want, in short, Marlboro."

"Oh, thank you, all," I cried and, donning a muu muu, I set sail for Hawaii, because in Hawaii, as in every state where Old Glory flies, Marlboro is the leading seller in flip-top box. On campus, off campus, in all fifty states, wherever people smoke for pleasure in this great land of ours, you will find Marlboro.

PC Rifle Team Defeats Huskies

By Paul Martin

The Providence College varsity rifle team emerged victoriously last Saturday, December 9, when it played host to the University of Connecticut and edged the Huskies by a score of 1406-1401. It was the seventh victory of the season against two losses for the Nimrods who are undefeated at home and have won their last four matches in a row.

Two sophomores, John Carr and Roy Kudrzyski performed outstandingly and shared the Friars' scoring honors. Carr scored a brilliant 285, the highest score by a sophomore in match competition this year.

Roy Kudrzyski fired 283 and was trailed by Captain Ed Harvey and Al Theriault who both finished with 280. Dick Yegas fired a 278 to close out the Friars' victorious effort.

This Saturday, December 16, the Friars journey to West Point to take on the Army Cadets.

The ROTC rifle team currently remains undefeated with an unblemished record of 5-0. They defeated the University of Connecticut rifle team by a score of 1406-1401 on Saturday.

optimism which may have been shaken by a recent loss to St. Bonaventure by a score of 79-57. Nonetheless, the Musketeers have a big experienced club with depth. 6'8" center Jack Thobe and guards Bill Kirwin and Jim Enright are top notch performers. Sophomore Bob Felkington is one of the best prospects in the area.

Providence will then make its second appearance in the Annual Holiday Festival in New York's Madison Square Garden. The Friars first foe will be Wisconsin as part of a doubleheader to be played on Tuesday, Dec. 26, at 7:15 p.m. The first game of the doubleheader will feature Dayton against New York University.

The Black and White will face Brown in a return engagement on Wed., Jan. 3. Following the Brown game PC will meet The American University on Saturday, January 6, in Alumni Hall. American U. is a fast experienced club hampered by a definite lack of height. It should, however, be a contender for the Mason-Dixon Conference title.

On Monday, Jan. 8, the Friars will meet the University of Massachusetts at Amherst. Umass, has a tall, talented front line, but Coach Matt Zunic is short of guards. Forward Kirk Leslie at 6'5" and 6'8" center Don Black supply most of the scoring punch for the Redmen.

Tschida High Scorer

Co-captain Marsh Tschida holds a slim one point lead over teammate Lou Lamoriello in the hockey team's individual scoring statistics to date. Tschida has netted nine goals and added seven assists for a total of sixteen points while Lamoriello has four goals and eleven assists for fifteen points.

SPORTSDESK

By Frank Mazzeo, Jr.

The story on the sports page relating to the fact that Providence College's hockey team had been unofficially informed that it would not be allowed to defend its Boston Arena Christmas Tournament Championship raises many intriguing questions.

One immediately wonders why we weren't invited. Why we were told so late? And what does "unofficially" mean? When interviewed by the Cowl, the Rev. Aloysius Begley, O.P., Director of Athletics, related that the format for this year's tourney had been changed. Instead of the usual six or seven teams, the tournament will include only four teams; two from Boston, one from the Midwest and one from Canada. The Friars, being members of none of these geographical areas, were thus excluded.

On the surface, the only objection that can be raised is that PC is the defending champions and should have been invited. But this is not the only aspect of the matter which presents itself in the light of poor judgment. Providence athletic officials have not as yet been officially notified that they are not to participate.

The Athletic Department had to discover from other sources that no invitation was to be received. In the past the school had gotten their invitation a little later than this time of year. So, not being otherwise told, it was assumed that it would soon be forthcoming and the games were placed on the schedule.

PC officials also stated that Colby, who participated in last year's tourney, would not be invited. However, it seems that the Mules were advised of this fact during the summer.

The failure of the pucksters to play in any games, tourna-

The blame for the situation can be laid on many doorsteps. It would certainly be advisable for the Athletic Department to steer clear of such an inept organization as the Boston Arena Tournament Committee, so future occurrences can be avoided. Nevertheless, the entire Providence College family is partly responsible for the present affair. Had the Friar ice men been given sufficient gate support, it seems that the newly formed Christmas Hockey Tournament, to be held in New York on Dec. 21 and 22, would have invited them, as a feeler from that organization was received. As stated previously by this writer if we fail to back hockey at PC, we may one day find that we are a one sport school.

To paraphrase a friend of mine, "a stitch in time saves nine." A little support at the right time and at the right place can save a great deal of sorrow.

Intramural Hoopsters Start Play This Week

The intramural basketball season was initiated Wednesday, December 6, as the Fall River Club ran away from Soph Math by a 42-22 score. Rapoca scored 21 points for the Fall River Club and George scored 14 for Soph Math.

Soph Accounting downed Junior Economics 43-33. High scorers were: Shea, twenty points, for Soph Accounting, and Thomas, eighteen points, for Junior Economics.

Soph Education won a close game over Junior Biology by a 42-39 score. Soph Education was led by Dannigan, who scored thirteen points, and Junior Biology was led by Marrocci.

Fresh Economics rolled over Fresh History 43-32. High-scoring honors went to Stangle of Fresh Economics and George of Fresh Biology.

Soph Economics got by Gurnam Irish by a 45-40 score. Stein scored twelve points for Soph Economics and Mentel scored eleven for the Irish.

In a low scoring game, Soph Accounting II downed the Cranston Club 29-22. High scorer in the encounter was Dawson of Soph Accounting with eleven points.

In the only game played Thursday, Fresh Ed (Soc. Sci.) lost a hard fought game to Senior Biology 33-35.

On Monday Soph English defeated Soph Math 43-27 and the Fall River Club downed Fresh Education (Soc. Sci.) 30-23.

The schedule for the rest of the week was posted yesterday on the Bulletin board in the gym.

Friars Not Invited To Hockey Tourney

Providence College hockey men were surprised last week to discover that the PC skaters were not being invited to the Christmas Hockey Tournament at the Boston Arena, which they won last year.

Tournament officials in Boston unofficially reported that this year only four teams were being invited to participate: two Boston teams, one from Canada, and one Western team. Thus, the defending Tournament champions, Providence College, will not be invited.

Last year the Friars swept to the title with consecutive victories over Army, Dalhousie University of Canada, and Northeastern University.

With graduated Co-Captain Joe Keough scoring the winning marker at 14:51 of the final period, PC defeated Army 3-2 in the opening game. The other Providence tallies were registered by Jim Geegar and Marsh Tschida in the second period.

The next night, December 28, found the Friars slipping, as Canada's Dalhousie University 5-4 as Keough slapped home the winning goal at 1:01 of a sudden death overtime period. PC was leading with only 44 seconds left to play when Dalhousie scored while the Friar skaters were shorthanded due to a penalty.

The other four goals were scored by graduated Co-Captain Jim Wandmacher, who netted two, Joe Albert and Bob O'Connor.

With championship fire in their eyes, the Friars next swamped Northeastern University by an overwhelming 10-3 score, due to the four-point scoring surge of Marsh Tschida. Lou Lamoriello tallied three times in the run-away contest.

On the basis of a tremendous effort and general all around play during the Tournament, McGeough edged out teammate Tschida for the Tournament's Most Valuable Player Award. McGeough's great defensive performance left the Boston observers deeply impressed.

Graduated defenseman Red O'Connell and goalie Dan Hornstein also turned in outstanding performances for the Friar sextet.

Friars Gain Tie In Last Second

By Paul Martin

The Providence College hockey team came up with a goal in the final seconds of the third period in a game with Colby at Waterville, Maine, on Tuesday, December 5, to salvage a 3-3 tie in a game which Colby's coach Jack Kelley described as "one of the most exciting ever played here." The tie gave both teams a current seasonal record of 1-2-1.

The goal was scored by Lou Lamoriello and came after PC coach Tom Eccleston had pulled Friar goalie Dan Hornstein from the nets and had six forwards attacking the Colby cage in a desperate last-ditch effort to even the score. Lamoriello had very little time in the point department. Besides his dramatic goal, Lou assisted on the other two Friar goals which were tallied in the first and second periods by Ray Mooney and Marsh Tschida, respectively.

In the ten minute overtime period both Hornstein and Colby's goalie Frank Stephenson made superb saves in preventing any further scoring. Hornstein kicked out a total of 36 Colby shots while Stephenson, who wasn't quite so pressed, stopped 26.

The scoring:

First Period
Providence—Mooney (Tschida and Lamoriello) 3:35.

Second Period
Colby—Sveden (Ryan and Young) 2:0.

Providence—Tschida (Lamoriello) 17:50.

Third Period
Colby—Daley (French) 5:20; Duchrow (Ryan and McBride) 8:35.

Providence—Lamoriello (McGeough) Kish 19:32.

"LONG" JOHN THOMPSON soars high to score two of his twenty-one points. The Friars went on to win the game 75-51. Number 54 is "Jumbo" Jim Hadnot, who led PC with 28 points. He scored twenty of these points in the second half.

Friar Second - Half Surges Down BC and St. Francis

By Bill Riccietelli

The go-go second-half Friars are off and running!

Providence swept to their second and third straight victories last week in second half surges led by Captain Jim Hadnot as they beat St. Francis 75-51 and Boston College 77-73.

Last Saturday night, after a ragged and sloppily played first half which saw PC battle for a 27-27 tie on home grounds, Captain Hadnot aroused his teammates in scoring 20 points in the last twenty minutes over a small but deliberate quintet from St. Francis of Brooklyn. Big Jim hit 2 hook shots and a one-handed set from in close for 6 quick points as PC built up a 39-28 lead, with fifteen minutes to go in the game.

Then the Friars started to roll and to justify their high national ranking. Coach Joe Mullaney started the second half with Carl Spencer and Dick Leonard teamed with Hadnot, John Thompson and Vin Ernst.

After Hadnot clicked, Thompson would hit; then Ernst would fast break the length of the court with Bob Simoni or Tom Foliardi. But the crowd got its biggest thrill watching the two big men working well together under both boards. With 5 minutes to go Providence was completely in control with a 58-43 lead and won handily 75-51 going away.

Hadnot finished with 28 points while Thompson and Ernst had 21 and 15 respectively. The Terriers were led by Jim Rafferty with 14 and John Jasiel with 12.

But earlier in the week, the Friars had to go all out in a 77-73 effort against a highly touted Boston College team which successively employed a pesky zone press over them.

After Hadnot, Thompson and Ernst had fashioned a nine point lead at half-time, the Eagle's Jim Hooley and Gerry Ward finally caught up to the suddenly slackened Friar offense. At the 6:30 mark in the game, Bill Donovan hit with a jump shot to put the Eagles ahead 59-58.

Then Hadnot pulled off some key rebounds while Ernst hit for 9 points in a spree in which the Friars outscored the Eagles 13-1 and built an eleven point lead with 1:38 to go in the game.

Yet, after Mullaney pulled his starters and sent in the reserves, the BC forces would not be denied and almost won it on free throws alone, as the score came within four points, 77-73, at the end.

Facts and Figures: During the St. Francis game, PC hit 25 of 55 shots from the floor for 45% . . . The Terriers got 21 of 51 for 38% . . . The Friars out-rebounded St. Francis 50 to 22, with Thompson getting 18 and Hadnot 17.

Frosh Victors Over Newport

Providence College's freshman basketball team kept pace with the varsity as they gained their second and third victories of the young season last week. Wednesday night, they downed the Boston College frosh 81-65 and Saturday, the Deslant Destroyers from the Newport Naval Station 75-57. The tilts were played at Boston's Robert's Gym and Alumni Hall, respectively.

After a nip-and-tuck battle in the first half against the Deslant Destroyers, PC surged ahead in the second stanza to put the game out of reach for the sailors.

The Friars jumped to a quick six-point lead but later lost it and led only 27-28 at halftime. Jim Ahern sparked the second half rally as the frosh led by as much as fifteen points at one time. PC finished the game with an eighteen point advantage, outscoring Deslant 75-57. Kovalski and Ahern paced (Continued on Page 10)

Tough Schedule Upcoming

The pesky Bruins from Brown will provide the opposition for Coach Joe Mullaney's Friars tonight at Alumni Hall. Brown has shown improvement in three games to date, losing to tough Boston College while beating URI and Springfield.

Junior Gene Barth, 6'7", has shown remarkable improvement this season as evidenced by his 32 point spree against Springfield. All-Ivy guard Mike Cingiser and center Greg Heath return to the line-up with Dave Brockaway and Ted Gottfried rounding out the starting five.

The Bruins will have to show consistent rebounding and improved ball handling this season if they are to improve on last year's 11-14 record. Coach Stanley Ward feels that these elements are within reach. Last year the Bruins lost to PC 77-52 and 80-64.

Friday night the Black and White will tangle with San Francisco, also on the boards of Alumni Hall. The Dons have lost two starters due to poor grades and illness, and as a result will start two sophomores, Jim Brovelli and Dave Lee. This duo will join Lloyd Moffat, Bob Ralls and all-conference guard Bob Gaillard.

The Friars will then make a two game swing through the Midwest, playing DePaul in Chicago on Monday, Dec. 18, and Xavier in Cincinnati on Wednesday, Dec. 20.

DePaul has lost its outstanding backcourt tandem of All-American Howie Carl and Bill Haig through graduation. However, last year's inexperienced front line has matured into a tough seasoned group. 6'9" center Bill Debes will team with 6'3" forward M. C. Thompson and Dick Cook while sophomores Emmett Bryan and Dave White will run the show in back court.
