Maisie Ward Will Address Guild Members Tonight

Wife of Frank Sheed Will Speak at 8:30 In Lounge
Of Aquinas Hall

Mr. Frank J. Sheed, writer and publisher scheduled to speak before the Thomistic Institute of Providence College at Aquinas Hall this evening, has been unreported en route from England, the Rev. Robert E. Brennan, O.P., director of the institute, announced last night. Fr. Brennan said that Maisie Ward, wife of Mr. Sheed, will speak in his place and on the subject, "The Future of Religion," announced by Mr. Sheed.

Miss Ward, an internationally known biographer and editor, is the daughter of Wilfred Ward, the biographer and close friend of Cardinal Newman. She is the granddaughter of Lady Victoria Howard, sister of the Duke of Norfolk, and niece of Sir Esmé Howard, former ambassador to Washington from the Court of St. James, London.

Miss Ward has been acquainted with English Catholic literary circles from her childhood. For twenty years a lecturer for the Catholic Evidence Guild in London, she has spoken at various universities in this country and abroad. She is the author of "The Wilfred Wards and the Transition," a two-volume history of fifty years of Catholicism in England, and "This Burning Heat," a description of London under the blitzkrieg. She has recently been selected by his widow as the official biographer of the late G. K. Chesterton.

Veritas Given To Subscribers

Veritas, the Providence College senior yearbook, distributed today, is dedicated by the Senior Class graduating this month, to "College men everywhere who abandon the cloister of the campus to fight for the right to truth and freedom."

The book, somewhat slimmer than last year's issue, but offering a complete coverage of life on the Dominican campus, contains 536 different pictures, among them 135 individual Senior pictures and 71 individual faculty pictures. The dedication page carries the pictures of three members of the class, an aviator, an Army private, and a sailor, all of whom joined the services earlier in the year.

Editor-in-Chief of this year's annual is Howard A. Kenny of Providence. Assistants are Edward Healy, Providence, and Wilfred M. Gallagher, Esmond, as Caption Editors; Charles F. Cottam, N. Providence, Associate Editor, and Peter Koch, Jr., West Warwick, Photographer and Photo Editor.

Kane, Woonsocket, Business Manager, and Bernard J. Short, Cranston, and John J. Donnelly, Edgewood, as Advertising Staff.

CATHOLIC UNIT TO MEET TOMORROW

Fr. Dillon Looks Forward
To Regional Meeting
At Emmanuel

The regional meeting of the New England Unit of the National Catholic Educational Association to be held tomorrow at Emmanuel College, Boston, "should produce concrete results and call forth a unity of procedure in dealing with the crisis facing liberal arts colleges," the Very Rev. John J. Dillon, O.P., president of Providence College and head of the unit, said today.

"The administrative problems facing the Catholic colleges today as a result of necessary war-time readjustments are perhaps more serious than those facing other institutions," Father Dillon continued, "because of a deliberate policy of restricting their membership to provide the best teacher-student relationships. Still, the Catholic college has a mission to perform, in war as well as in peace, and Catholic colleges for both men and women have an obligation to their communities and to the nation to continue in existence and in the fullest possible operation."

The subject of Saturday's meeting will be "The Catholic College and the War Emergency." Two formal papers will be read: "The Catholic College's Service to the War Effort," by Professor Riley Hughes of Providence College, and "The Significance of Liberal Arts in Training Programs," by Rev. James H. Petty, S.S.E., president of St. Michael's College. His Eminence, William Cardinal O'Connell, Archbishop of Boston, will be represented at the meeting by Right Rev. Richard J. Quinlan, S.T.L., L.L.D., Diocesan Supervisor of Schools.

The colleges which will be represented at the meeting are: Albertus Magnus College, New Haven, Conn.; Assumption College, Worcester, Mass.; Boston College, Boston, Mass.; College of the Holy Cross, Worcester, Mass.; College of Our Lady of the Elms, Chicopee, Mass.; Emmanuel College, Boston, Mass.; Mount Saint Mary College, Hooksett, N. H.; Providence Col-

Sweeney Begins Naval Training

Charles E. Sweeney, '41, former Cowl editor, will leave Sunday for Columbia University, New York City, where he will begin preliminary training preparatory to becoming a deck officer in the United States Naval Reserve.

Sweeney has been working since his graduation in June, 1942, as a reporter and rewrite man in the Boston office of the United Press. A story on the Boston Coconut Grove fire appeared in Monday's Providence Journal with a Sweeney by-line.

After spending one month as an apprentice seaman, Sweeney will take three months training as a midshipman, before being commissioned an ensign.

James F. Burke of Jersey City, N. J., was elected president of the Friars Club, campus hospitality group, at a meeting held Wednesday night in Aquinas Hall. John J. Grady of Pittsfield, Mass., was made vice-president. Burke is a member of the Ship and Scales and Carolan Clubs. Grady took part in intra-mural basketball and belongs to the Carolan Club.

Another officer elected was Walter F. Martin of New Bedford, Mass., who was named secretary. He is a member of the New Bedford Club and the Carolan Club. George W. Burns of Malden, Mass., is the new treasurer.

At a meeting yesterday, two freshman and a junior, were elected members of the Friars Club. The freshmen are Thomas L. Auth of Springfield, Mass., and Guy Gallano of Providence. The junior elected was James F. Shiel of Providence, editor-in-chief of the Cowl.

The senior members of the club were voted Friars Club pins and fobs to replace the traditional sweaters and letters which are not obtainable this year because of the war. The newly elected members will be inducted into the organization soon.

Seniors Get Formal Garb

President Tells Students
College to Remain Open
During War

Providence College students were told last week by the Very Rev. John J. Dillon, O.P., president of the college, that "the college would be false to its founders, its alumni, and its friends, if it did not keep its doors open during this emergency."

Fr. Dillon spoke at the combined Cap and Gown Day exercises and Memorial Mass for founders and alumni in the armed forces which were held in the auditorium of Harkins Hall.

"The mission of Providence College in this community," he said, "is just as important now as it was on the day of our formal opening. We will exist just as long as we have a mission and purpose to fulfill. That mission and purpose go on in war as well as in peace."

No More Breezy Classes

WARMING UP THE SUBJECTS

By JOSEPH C. O'SHEA

Don't forget your earmuffs when you go to that next class. If you have kid gloves wear them too, for starting today and in the future, Providence College students will not be admitted to classes unless they are equipped with an overcoat, earmuffs, and gloves. This drastic and unprecedented announcement was made by certain uninformed individuals in the cafeteria yesterday.

"Oh, the cruel winter, the cold and dreary winter," favorite recitation of the Sophs has brought down on the college the wrath of the wintry gods. No wonder for twenty odd years the Sophs of Providence College have every year recited that passage. And now the gods reap revenge. The fifty mile-an-hour gale blowing across the campus and the twenty degree temperature of the buildings, the coldest spot in Rhode Island, have certainly made things very uncomfortable for all.

How long the condition will last is not definitely known, but for the benefit of all the Cowl will take signatures for a petition that those lines of oratory so expressive, yet so explosive upon the sensitive ears of the gods be permanently retired from the course. The incident demands prompt attention. The cause is grave.

However until such a time as the wrath of the gods has been soothed, all students must obey the above rules. If you have a muffler all the better. Professors of the college have already complied with the requirements and yesterday afternoon the Cowl scribes visited many of the late afternoon classes and found the professor wearing the proscribed garb.

The fortunate seniors will be permitted to still wear their caps and gowns as they give added warmth in the cold and wintry classrooms. Overcoats may be worn over the senior garb. Esquire has been consulted and permission obtained. This new style will appear in the next issue. As a matter of fact there has been an increasing demand not only from professors but also from underclassmen that Cap and Gown Day be held in November of every term so that the senior class may receive additional warmth from them.

Earmuffs were inspired by several students who are working in defense industries at night and claim that the constant talking of the professor keeps them awake. "This must stop," cried one Junior, "I must get my sleep or I can not do my best work. It's our patriotic duty to demand that earmuffs be worn by the students while (Continued on Page 4)

BLUEPRINTS OF PEACE

War is commonly appreciated as a fight for ideals or self-existence, but after the war these ideals and the necessity of self-existence as regards the conquered are thrown out the window because the ratification of such principles does not permit the victors to seize the spoils. The intelligensia which concocted the slogans of war cannot allow themselves to believe them, lest they bury the roots of war and initiate a lasting peace.

The conduct of war as far as the average individual is concerned, is merely a military expedition with politics playing a secondary role of gathering about the warrior more allies to assist him in his fight. The average man fights for a variety of things.

Sometimes it is for national honor or maybe for that certain ideal of which he has only the vaguest notion. But, actually what does impress him most is the loss of friends or joy which he unwittingly experiences over the loss of his enemies.

Every war is popularized by new expressions, terms and different representations of the age old propaganda — do your patriotic duty, fight. And fight is what they mean. But, what about the fight? What do they really fight for?

During the duration of the conflict those at home are bombarded from all sides with cries of post-war reconstruction based on justice, in order to assure a lasting peace. Where are they when the victory is won, not they, but their post-war ideals?

It is rarely that one has to look beyond the peace table where these lofty idealists now with reins in hands are proposing some of the most malicious and ridiculous fantastic unchristian unjust association of demands more barbaric than their pagan ancestors. From behind the masks they come barefaced forgetting that a few short months previous they were preaching and crying for a quick cessation of hostilities and a just peace.

Would God be admitted to the Versailles Peace Conference? Any who would give a thought to the idea suddenly found himself on the outside looking in. It seemed as if all the noble sentiments of the post-war period and the just peace were a lot of "campaign oratory" as a politician would put it.

Peace makers, as they were naively called, had their own set of regulations by which they begot wars. Ethical principles, moral codes and Christianity were taboo. Christian Ethics and Morality play no part in the minds of warped peace makers. To them anything Christian must be blotted out when the time comes to divide the spoils. That Christian Ethics has its place in and that it plays an important role in the mental conditioning of the civilian they readily admit. Yet, they refuse to encourage it by their deeds.

What of the post-war world today? We think that there is great hope for the future. Transportation and communications have made tremendous advances during the past twenty years and the war has brought home to all that the world is not such a large place as it once seemed. The far remote corners of India are not much farther than Berlin from the United States. The difficulties experienced by the Indian, the Mohammedan, the Turk or the Russian shall have serious effect upon us. Already we feel the pinch of our foreign relations. We have no rubber from Malaya, no silk from Japan, no tea from China and very little coffee from Brazil.

The political situation of these countries have been such as to establish a barrier between them and us. Military and political events in all the world now effect us intimately—our very existence as a nation, as a free people. Do we want to be free? If we do these states upon which our existence depends must also remain free to have relations with us. Our charters guaranteeing freedom must not be to the exclusion of the other races. These other peoples have a right to freedom and free enterprise as we.

Shortly we will be forced to realize this. Our Godlessness, our unethical and superficial morality will have to be cast aside because it will no longer be employable on a people, a vast world that is deeply and in some cases fanatically religious. The teeming millions of Indians under the guidance of their Buddhist Priests, the millions of Mohammedans religiously faithful to Allah, and the millions of Catholics under the guiding hand of the Holy Father must of necessity by their billions of peoples force ethical standards upon a non-Christian and today a world religiously more aboriginal than the most irreligious pagan.

Religious ethics of some sort or another must take hold of the world. Those who cannot accept this will find themselves out-of-step with the world. God, no matter what one may choose to call Him, must be recognized and His Justice served. Failure to do so has produced evil fruits. Where God is not wanted evil lurks. Therefore, it seems highly feasible that the God haters will get rid of themselves in a world where God is going to be a more potent factor in the life of the future.

Lack of knowledge and appreciation of necessities has lead the world into this undeniably chaotic situation and only a fuller blueprint based on justice will serve as an exit from this and similar promiscuous occurrences in the future. God and His Justice must be the sole principle of reconstruction both for the victor and for the vanquished. Christian Ethics and principles are basically just and no one can suffer from their application except the unjust.

COLLEGE GOSSIP

By JACK BRADY

Pete Louthis continued the victory trail by winning his tenth straight professional fight last week.

Paul Cavanagh, Junior Class president, broke two fingers in his right hand. Paul was hurt while playing in the C.Y.O. hockey league. The cast he is sporting is a good excuse to miss finals.

Ed Roth announced his engagement to John Sormanfi's sister at the Junior Prom.

David Tubridy wants everyone to know that he didn't go stag to the prom. The lucky girl was Joan Doyle.

Joe Uzalinski had to return home over the week-end, his draft board has him worried.

Howard Kenny and his associates should be congratulated on the latest issue of the Veritas. It received the praise of all who have seen it.

Tom Needham is still training hard for Monday's boxing show. It is rumored he will box Lefty George Smith. If last year's matches are any indication, Monday night's show will be a complete success.

Saturday night's basketball game with Springfield will open the P.C. basketball year. The fellows have been waiting to avenge last year's defeat.

Senior Joe O'Shea will sign all year-books in the Cowl office this afternoon.

The feud between Andre Manderville and Jim (Scoop) Shiel still continues.

Sam Franco has been elected chairman of the Junior oratory class for next week. Sam claims it was a frame-up.

Captain Silva, a graduate of P.C., returned from the war zone a few weeks ago. He was guest of honor at a banquet in Pawtucket last night. Many of his friends from the college were present.

Vin Horlbogen who left school to enter the Navy, received the highest rating at the Great Lakes Training Station. Vin got quite a write-up recently in the Pawtucket papers.

The sophomore pre-meds are planning a party for next Wednesday to be held at Lincoln Woods. Johnny Lopes seems to be the ringleader.

Ed Sullivan still visits R.I.C.E. quite often. Ed transferred from Rice this year, thus he has to keep up his contacts.

Marius Guatieri is being drafted Saturday. He wants the fellows to throw a party for him.

The mixed evening courses are becoming popular with many of the fellows. Many of them are teaching the weaker sex the principals of philosophy.

In answer to all questions, those orchids were grown in a certain backyard in Woonsocket. So until next week, keep listening.

Dorm Diary

By Joe Anlauf

Ensign John Lavole and Seaman Dick O'Gorman recently visited this alma mater before heading for parts unknown.

Ed Foley is wearing a black tie in memory of Boston College. Big John Sullivan and his lady friend were active rescuers in the recent Boston fire. John's girl is a nurse and did great work in relieving many sufferers. Many of the fellows are sporting new class rings. Two new additions have been added to the dorm from Woonsocket, namely Gene Toupin and Roy O'Connor. "Doc" O'Neill spent part of his Thanksgiving vacation in New York. Elections for new officers of the various clubs are coming up next week. Rumors have it that Friar Boy will be a proud father some time soon.

Don't forget the boxing tournament coming next week and I hope that the entire student body will be here Saturday night to officially welcome the basketball season and support the team 100 per cent. If we do our part up in the stands with some cheering spirit they'll do their part down on the floor by winning these games.

Friars Face Powerful Springfield Quintet

Gymnasts Return With Same Veteran Team Of Last Season

Coach Ed Crotty's Fighting Friars ring up the curtain on another hoop season tomorrow night in Harkins Hall when they meet a strong Springfield five.

The P.C. forces are out to begin a string of victories that will place them once more at the top of the Eastern section of the basketball world.

The Maroons promise to provide top-flight opposition for they boast a starting team of four veteran performers and one newcomer. Cox, Merrick, Thompson and Captain Burgess all saw action last year when the Gymnasts split even with the Dominicans. At that time the Friars won revenge in the second clash to the tune of 52 to 46.

Coach Crotty will also call upon four veterans and one newcomer to start varsity ball in the battle against the invading courtmen from the birthplace of basketball.

Ted McConnon and Bob Reilly at forward posts and Larry Drew and Chet Zabek at the guard slots are well known veterans of last season's potent hoopmen while Ben Pagliaroli who has gained the nod to start at the pivot post is remembered for his brilliant ball handling on last year's Friar Frosh quintet.

Other members of the P. C. varsity hoop brigade include Wilfred Michaud, veteran guard; John Barchi, Dave Carberry, Henry Ethier, Jim Lee, Fred Sowa and Vin Vasilauskus up from last year's Frosh; and Bill Martin and Al Palmieri, first year men playing under the new freshman rule.

The Friar J. V. five will meet the Springfield J. V. forces in a preliminary contest at 6:45 p.m.

Alumni Die In Boston Fire

Among the four hundred and fifty-odd persons killed in the recent Coconut Grove night club fire in Boston were two alumni of Providence College. They were Harold Feingold, of 97 Miner street, Providence, and Lt. Henry A. Martin, 5 Everette street, Newport, R. I.

Feingold was graduated with a Bachelor of Science degree in 1935. Before entering Providence College, he attended Classical and old Technical high schools in Providence. He was 28 years old.

Lt. Martin, the son of Dr. and Mrs. Henry A. Martin of Newport attended P. C. from 1928 to 1930. He was inducted into the Army on February 21, 1941. After spending 16 months at Ft. Bragg, N. C., he enrolled in the officers training school at Camp Lee, Virginia.

Commissioned a Second Lieutenant last October, he was assigned to the port of embarkation in Boston, from which he recently transferred to the transportation corps.

College Dim-out Problems Solved

Like everyone else these days, Providence College is having its difficulties with the Army's new dim-out regulations. Chief trouble was met at the peaks of the Gothic arches throughout the school but all problems were soon solved with the aid of blackout paper and paint.

Rooms in which classes are held at night must have their shades pulled down, as must all the rooms in the dormitory.

The Rev. Charles V. Fennell, O.P., supervised the recent dim-out in Harkins, Aquinas, Guzman, and St. Thomas halls.

The Providence College Choral Group sang Pietro Yon's "Requiem Mass". The Providence College orchestra played Myerbeer's "The Prophet" as the processional. The recessional was Elgar's "Land of Hope and Glory".

Fr. Dillon invested the seniors in caps and gowns which they will wear to all classes until Commencement. He was assisted by the Rev. Arthur H. Chandler, O.P., Dean of Studies. All the exercises were held indoors. The traditional tree planting ceremony was omitted.

Matthew A. Kelly, president of the senior class, introduced Charles F. Cottam, of North Providence, ranking senior, who delivered the student oration.

The Junior class officers, Paul A. Cavanagh, president, and Milton F. Wolferseder, vice-president, were marshals. James J. Scanlan, treasurer, and William A. Frye, secretary, were standard bearers. Justin E. Brodie and Joseph T. Barrett served as acolytes.

After the ceremonies, Fr. Chandler addressed the seniors at a class meeting.

More than 500 students at Washington State College worked in the nearby apple orchards during the harvest.

Louisiana State University has a Red Head Club—and it's just what the name implies.

Carolan Club Holds Mid-Winter Festival

Under the auspices of the Carolan Club, the 1942 Mid-Winter Festival was held last Monday night in Harkins Hall, highlighted by the crowning of Wilfred A. Michaud of Nashua, N. H., as "queen" of the gala affair.

Michaud, a prominent Friar basketball and a member of the Army Enlisted Reserve, was crowned by Sgt. Louis South and Corp. Francis Forloney, soldier guests of the Carolan Club.

Dancing to popular records and various games of chance attracted many people to the event, regularly held in February, but advanced because of the accelerated program.

Winners of the cash prize awards were as follows: First prize, Bruce M. Rogers, 229 Camp St., Providence; second prize, Fred O. Gilbert, 653 Grant St., Chicopee Malls, Mass.; third prize, Mrs. A. J. Robertaille, 81 Trilby St., Aldenville, Mass.; fourth prize, Mr. James P. O'Donnell, 5 W. 19th St., Weehawken, N. J.; and fifth prize, K. L. Maynard, 899 Broad St., Providence.

Edward J. Roth, a senior, of New Haven, Conn., was chairman of the Carnival committee.

Assisting him were Joseph Vaghi, a senior, of Bethel, Conn.; Wilfred Michaud; and Robert Reilly, a senior, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Others on the committee included Robert Rinehardt, a junior, of Kansas City, Mo.; Elmer Smith, sophomore, Concord, N. H.; Thomas Conlon, junior, of New London, Conn.; John P. Clifford and John Mills, both freshmen, of New Haven, Conn.

A noticeable increase in number of students from outside the continental United States is reported by the Catholic University of America.

Breezy Classes

in classes." Another reason in support of earmuffs was voiced by a Freshman who thought that some professors asked too many questions whose answers they didn't know and were thereby receiving a continuous string of oval shaped goose eggs. "If I wear earmuffs I won't be able to hear the question so, he can't give me any more O's for the questions I can't hear him ask."

Kid gloves were advocated by the boxers who want to get the feel of the gloves before Monday evening. Some students proposed the gloves to add a little formality to the new order. If we are wearing kid gloves then we will be in a much better position to handle the prof. "Things will be more smoother," said one.

But, there's a new day dawning. Be of good cheer, after all Africa can't be this cold. Or better still join the Army and bask beneath the Vitamin B rays of Old Sol on Miami Beach. Some far-sighted Cowl scribes foresaw the coming disaster and they now are pleasurably absorbing sunshine at a temperature of approximately 85.

John H. Davitt of Fall River, Mass., presided. The Rev. Ambrose P. Regan, O.P., was the moderator. There was no decision rendered.

What You Buy With WAR STAMPS

Many boys and girls are as familiar today with the insignia of our Soldiers, Flyers and Marines as they are with the various models of airplanes. These insignia, stitched on to the sleeve, shoulder or collar of the uniform, designate the soldiers' outfit and rank. They are cloth and a ten cent War Savings Stamp will pay for a set for one soldier.

America needs millions of these insignia—millions of dimes invested in War Savings Stamps by American boys and girls. The public, private and parochial schools are helping to do this job in the war effort through participation in the Schools at War Program, which gives each student a part in America's war effort. Investment in War Stamps is one of the most important ways in which the school children can share in the honor to their state of an award of one of the original bricks from historic Independence Hall as a permanent shrine.

"How about a Coke date?"

"We've been 'goin' steady' a long time, you and I. You see, I'm a symbol of the life and sparkle of Coca-Cola. Therefore, I speak for Coke. I like your company. I offer something more than a thirst-quenching drink. It's refreshing. Yes siree...it's got that extra something you can't get this side of Coca-Cola itself. Let's get together. Make it a Coke date."
