McGill, Sheehan, Kelley, Briggs and Beirne Leave For Army Air Corps

Providence College men leaving this week for induction into the Army are Arthur McGill of Pittsfield, Mass., a Senior Business student; John Sheehan of New Bedford, a Senior Arts student; James R. Kelley of Woonsocket, a Senior Science student; Harold J. Briggs, a Freshman Science student of Pawtucket, and Charles F. Beirne, a Junior Business student of Providence.

McGill, Sheehan, Briggs, Kelley and Beirne will enter the Army Air Corps for training.

Sheehan is a member of the New Bedford Club, and in his Sophomore year was treasurer of that organization. While in Woonsocket High School, Kelley was a member of the Glee Club and a member of the Year Book staff.

Briggs was the Junior Class President, and the captain of the 1941 basketball team while in high school. Beirne was a member of the chorus of "Tars and Feathers" in his Freshman year at P.C.

McGill, a member of the Carolan Club, played Freshman basketball, and was a member of the P.C. baseball team. He is also one of the leading bowlers in the current competition.

DATE ASSIGNED FOR V-1 EXAMS

Marine Reserves To Take Examinations on April 20th

Naval Reserve students in class (V-1) who will have completed four or more semesters of their college course on July 1, 1943, will take a test at the college Tuesday, April 20, according to a notice released by Rear Admiral Randall Jacobs, U.S.N., Chief of Naval Personnel.

The test will be given in two sessions, in the morning and the afternoon. Pre-medical and pre-dental students who are in V-1 may be excused from taking the tests upon application to the test supervisor. Such students, however, are encouraged in take these tests which will qualify them for other duty if they are not selected for medical or dental training.

All freshmen and sophomores enlisted in Class 111 (D) U. S. Marine Corps Reserve will also be given a qualifying examination on April 20th here. This test will qualify marine reservists for participation in the college training program to be inaugurated July 1, 1943.

The test will be the same as that given to Class V-1 men of the U. S. Naval Reserve, except that certain parts of the prescribed test will not be required to be taken. However, any Marine Reservists desiring as a matter of interest to take those parts of the test not required may do so with the understanding that the scores made on those parts will not in anyway militate against them, but might be of value as the basis for estimate of aptitude for certain courses of study.

APRIL FOOL!

The Cowl is very sorry to disappoint its readers, but this year there will be no April Fool edition.

We imagined lots of things happening: physical education classes being called off because of the measles epidemic, the Army taking over Aquinas tomorrow with the Rock men invading Guzman, or several of our professors being inducted into the Army as privates.

But, some unknown force (a gremlin, perhaps), kept telling our will "no." The result is that the Cowl will celebrate the first April Fool Day in its existence, when during a regular school week, it will not have attempted to metragabolize or incornfistibulate the student body.

Oh! C'est la guerre.

Five Home Debates Planned For April

Five home debates on the proposition "Resolved: That the United Nations Form a Permanent Federal Union After the War" will be held in Harkins Hall between April the second and the ninth, it was announced by the Providence College Debating Union.

The teams to be debated are Massachusetts State College, Dartmouth, University of Vermont, Clark University and Rutgers University. Providence will uphold the affirmative in all debates except against Dartmouth, which will uphold the affirmative.

Contracts for more home debates with teams of other colleges and universities during the first part of April are now being completed. It is expected that the Debating Union will engage in approximately twenty intercollegiate debates at Harkins Hall before undertaking a proposed road trip in April and May.

College Mourns Passing of Landmark As Dr. O'Neill Liquidates Automobile

"Carthago Delenda Est," Professor Explains

The flagpole still stands in front of Harkins Hall, but the other landmark is gone.

News of Doctor Daniel J. O'Neill's sale of his sky-blue convertible sport sedan was learned with some concern by residents of the college vicinity and by students and faculty members accustomed to locating their position by taking a double-bearing on the pole and the car.

By those who habitually, if unconsciously, swerve from their course, this news was greeted with various expressions of alarm. Merwin Higginbotham, an Eaton Street resident, said to this Cowl reporter, "It must be the war. I don't see how else the Doctor could deprive us of the only way we sometimes had to get home on dark nights." When queried as to how he obtained his bearings from the automobile on dark nights, Mr. Higginbotham replied that the red-plaid upholstery was very loud and served as a direction finder, much in the manner of loud foghorns. JUSTICE CONDON TALKS TO ALUMNI

Fr. Dillon Also Speaks at Annual Communion Breakfast

"The day has gone by when the generalities of the Atlantic Charter and the Four Freedoms will satisfy us," Associate Justice Francis B. Condon of the Rhode Island Supreme Court said in an address on "World Peace in a New World Order" to the Providence College Alumni Association at its Annual Communion Breakfast held in Aquinas Lounge Sunday morning.

"The United Nations," Judge Condon continued, "must lay before the world a brief and succinct statement of the things for which we are fighting." Stating that military aviation has made "protective frontiers as obsolete as the dodo-bird," he called for a treaty which would not be a "haymaker's field day" like that of Versailles, but rather a peace "defended and respected in the house of its friends."

Assuring his listeners that "the principles of liberty will not be forgotten," that military life cannot eradicate in an American the deeper instincts of American citizenship and of American life," the Justice quoted Pope Benedict XV, the reigning Pontiff in the first World War, as having said, "Nations never die."

He pointed out that the words of Pope Pius XII should be heeded not because he is the "head of the Catholic Church," but rather because it is "the one figure in world affairs to whom the world can listen for impartial advice and counsel."

The Very Rev. John J. Dillon, O. P., president of the college, spoke briefly. He recalled that he was ill at the time of the last alumni breakfast and expressed his pleasure at being able to attend this one, and thanked his audience for their contributions to the Loyalty Day fund.

Students Urged To Take Exams For Army-Navy

Validating Examinations for the Navy V-12 and the Army A-12 College Training Programs To Be Given on Next Friday Morning, April 2nd

Members of the Army and Navy Enlisted Reserves as well as regular students in attendance at the college are "eligible" and "urged" to take the joint validating examination for the Navy V-12 and the Army A-12 College Training Programs, which will be held in Harkins Hall on next Friday morning, April 2, from 9:00 to 11:00, according to a recent communication of the Army and Navy college programs.

ARMY CALLS UP RESERVES

Pre-Med and Pre-Dental Students in Unassigned Group Are Affected

According to a letter received from the War Department, Adjutant General's Office, all students who are enlisted in the Army Enlisted Reserve Corps, Unassigned Group, and who are taking the Medical course, including all Pre-Medical, Dental, Pre-Dental, and Veterinary students, will be called to Active Duty on or before June 30, 1943. These students will be allowed to complete the current Academic period, if it terminates before the above date.

As yet, nothing definite has been reported about the call to Active Duty of members of the Army Enlisted Reserve Corps, Unassigned Group, who are not in the Medical, Dental or Veterinary courses.

The grades attained in this test will not necessarily determine the acceptance of an individual for the Specialized Training Programs or for Officer Candidate School. Eligibility is not "fully established until he has successfully completed basic military training." Success, however, will "provide the candidate with a certificate of qualification" which, "upon presentation at the time of voluntary or regular induction," will "assure maximum consideration for the highest position" in the Army or Navy for which he may be adaptable.

To take the test a student must secure an "Admission and Identification Form" from Mr. Hughes at the News Bureau, for either the A-12 or V-12 programs, depending on which service he prefers. If he has no preference, he may complete either card, noting that he has no special service in mind and merely wishes to be placed in the one for which he is found to be best qualified. After the form has been signed by the Rev. Frederick C. Foley, assistant dean, he must keep it until the date of the examination when he must present it to the supervisor. If the candidate is in any branch of either the Army or Navy Reserves he must so indicate on his question paper. All queries relative to the test should be directed to Mr. David G. Ryans, Regional Director, Army and Navy College Training Program, 15 Amsterdam avenue, New York, N. Y.

The new plan provides for the examination of all male students who have attained their 17th and have not reached their 22nd birthdays by July 1, 1943, and who have graduated or are expected to graduate from secondary schools prior to that date. It is designed to provide information useful to the Armed Forces in—who had business at Providence College and to many who had none.

The car did, however, serve its purpose when Doctor O'Neill, accompanied by a few friends, crossed the country for the Doctor's vacation period in California, during the year 1, B.G.R., (Refore Gas Rationing). It is known that the car became almost equally familiar to the clients of Sardi's in Hollywood, and before it returned East, Sidney Graumann, of the famed Graumann's Chinese Theatre, offered to let the tire-marks of the car be imprinted in the theatre's cement sidewalk, next to Garbo's footprints. Doctor O'Neill, it is reported, refused on the grounds that some would be unable to tell the difference and would pay mistaken homage to Garbo.

It figured also in less spectacular events and was often seen before the more exclusive niteries of Providence and vicinity. Spectators of the downtown scene had observed to this re-

Beirne Given Farewell Party

The classmates and friends of Aviation Cadet Charles F. Beirne, Jr., gave him a "happy take-off" party last night at Oates Tavern. Beirne leaves Sunday for the U. S. Army Air Corps.

Beirne was initiated into the "Corney Corkerie Choristers" who invigorated the party with songs, poems, and noises. Fred Killian was master of ceremonies.

A purse was presented to the Army Cadet as he was toasted happy landing. Twenty-seven students were present at the affair.

SACRIFICE

The sacrifices of the civilian in this war have been disproportionate with those of the serviceman. Up to now, we have kicked about every discomfort we have had to endure. The civilian continues to regard pre-war comforts as necessities.

The defense worker has complained about his hours and wages. The housewife resented standing in line for butter, the motorist reluctantly gave up his gasoline, and the student gripes about the grind he is enduring. All are oblivious of what the soldier, sailor, and marine are going through.

The latter's greatest privation is the separation from home, family, and friends. Sometimes, the lack of religious services is the necessity most sorely missed. But these are only a few of the difficulties. We might add the hours they put in, the wages they get, the leisure they have, and the rigorous routine they are accustomed to follow with constant obedience.

Mulling over the facts, we at home are just a bunch of softies. Not only that, but we lack perspective and charity. To give up luxuries is a difficulty. Yet, we can survive without comforts. We cannot survive without a free country.

We should come to regard the world no longer as dressed in the garments of peace, but those of war. Finally, since certain pleasures necessarily have to be foresworn, why not give them up with a good intention. Pouting accomplishes nothing, good-will brings merit.

The soldier, sailor, and marine are batting 1,000, let us get into the ball game.

COLLEGE PRANKS

Harvard has her goldfish swallows but P.C. goes one better. One publicity minded student has mastered the art of worm swallowing. Yes, nice, fat, juicy worms (if worms can be juicy) swallowed without a chaser. The student, I won't mention his name, a freshman pre-med notable, was bragging about his art. His classmates dared him to practice it, saying actions speak louder than words. Knowing that it was put up or —, he said that he would do it for a dollar, (thinking that no P.C. man has that colossal sum). But he was fooled. A collection from all the students produced the required sum. With all the relish of a true connoisseur, he proceeded to make good his boast, much to the merriment of his classmates.

NOW IT CAN BE TOLD

Several sallies into Brown territory during the past few months by some of our P.C. men-about-town, brought forth a wager by one of the Brown frat boys that he could crash an exclusive P.C. affair. Presenting himself to a member of the faculty as a Penn. State student, he was received with customary Friar friendliness and was cordially invited to the recent Carolan Club dance at which he passed nearly the entire evening with his fraud undiscovered until John Dargen, a transfer student from Brown remembered having seen him in some of his classes. The score now stands even.

Special News Bulletin:

Picking up where the rumors about the Army coming in left off, the Smith Hilltoppers didn't want to be outdone by Uncle Sam, so with his permission, have organized a reserve corps of their own, namely, the Fighting Racketeers. After anxious days of waiting, word finally arrived from headquarters conscripting the men into the ranks and granting the following commissions to those who have proved their ability to orate or take the bull by the horns and toss him for a loop. Lester P. Condon, Jr., was named Commander-in-Chief.

Chief Executive Officer, Frank Trotta; Colonel, Bob Rheinhardt, recently promoted from the rank of major; Major, Jack Carragher; Captains, Monteleone, Condon, and Neagle; First Lieutenants, Grady, Vasilauskas, Smyth; Second Lieutenants, Martin, Fitzpatrick; Sergeant, Ray Connolly; Quartermaster Corps, (Sheets and Pillows) Mike Halloran; Captain of Head and Counter Espionage, Baron Burns; Ambassador of Good Will, Ed Foley. Charley Fallawell is in OCS and Bob Buckley is in the boot camp.

The recruiting office reports enlistments and draftees are numerous and the ranks are becoming filled.

Mr. Churchill, in his speech last Sunday to the British nation, twice cited the example of that historical English leader, Benjamin Disraeli. A cursory examination of Churchill's speeches will reveal that this is nothing new on his part. During the past ten years, England's present Prime Minister has often mentioned his famous predecessor in a very particular way. He has stated that his ideas are inspired by, if not actually adopted from, the Earl of Beaconsfield.

Because of this fact, it might prove highly profitable to form an estimate of this man and his ideas. Most Americans imagine Disraeli as he was created on the screen by George Arliss. Every high school student who had to read the dramatic account of his first speech in the Commons will think of him as a high-strung, overdressed, but nevertheless a clever and courageous dandy.

There is no denying that he was a dandy who loved the social life of Victorian London. He is often described as lingering in a London salon wearing outlandishly bright and multicolored clothes. In his earlier novels he wrote long pages fondly describing dukes, counts, and country estates. Despite the retention of some of these characteristics, his later works contain much solid political thinking. Such books as "Coningsby" and "Sybil" are not novels at all but political tracts cast in fictional form.

It is to these that Churchill, like the intelligent Conservative of the eighties, turns to find the political ideas of Disraeli. These ideas are quite advanced as far as social reform in England is concerned. These two books show a real concern for the poor. In fact, almost every page of "Sybil" exposes by vivid description the need of health, housing, trade union and factory acts. In this, Disraeli was far ahead of the Liberals who held such laws were an infringement of liberty.

Disraeli wrote to bring about a fundamental change of attitude on the part of the people of England. He wanted to bring the people and the capitalists closer together in the spirit of Christian feudalism. His aim was advanced social reform based on tradition to protect human liberties.

Winston Churchill has often indicated that he has similar ideas and his latest speech strongly bears this out. It can not be said that he follows the Disraelian ideal without qualification.

But his speech last Sunday does show that, on the one hand, he aims at social reform and, on the other, at the maintenance of hard won democratic liberties.

This plan for wise adjustment must be examined by all Americans who think we must go to extremes of sacrificing liberties for social reforms. We can have our bread and freedom if we proceed with calm intelligence. Our government must make laws assuring food to men, but it must not arbitrarily force men to eat this food at a particular table.

While we find much to admire in Churchill's attitude to social reform, we must view with caution his pursuance of the imperial policy of Disraeli. Churchill, as he has said on several occasions, follows the aims of his historical precursor. This means he desires a strong empire. In pursuit of this aim, Disraeli opposed Home Rule for Ireland, and he helped form the Treaty of Berlin which, ignoring national aspirations, concerned itself entirely with dynastic interests and the old-fashioned balance of power. It is possible that Churchill is more for the modern League of Nations than for the Victorian empire—as he was in his earlier days.

It is by watching its adherence to the ideas set forth by Disraeli that we can foresee England's course under the present government. This may offer difficulties in our foreign policy, and an example for our domestic program.

Tests Begin On Thursday

Coach Crotty To Conduct Exams in Four Different Events

Final tests to determine students' marks in Physical Education will begin Thursday, April 8, and will continue for five class days, ending on April 14.

Coach Ed Crotty, director of physical training, will conduct the tests which include cross-country, pull-ups, push-ups, and the barrier course.

According to latest information the cross-country run will consist of two laps instead of one. Six, seven, and eight pull-ups will constitute the various grades.

As regards the barrier course and push-ups, the standards will be announced later.

Absences from physical education, within the prescribed limit, may be made up on March 31, April 1, 2 and April 7, 8, 9. Two periods may be made up during the afternoon.

PHYSICAL ED. FIELD DAY IS SET FOR THURSDAY

Students Urged To Enter Cross-Country, Tug of War Competition

P.C.'s outstanding distance runners will meet to decide the college cross-country championship when the Physical Ed. field day will be held next Thursday at 11:30.

The championship events, this term, will be limited to the cross-country race and the tug of war.

These meets have always drawn a large number of entries and a record number is expected for Thursday's competition.

Jerry Weintraub, winner of last trimester's race, Bill Lynch, Jake Powell and Dan Di Iuglio, all five hill and dalers, are among those expected to compete Thursday over the three-mile course.

The tug of war teams will be composed of 12 men.

Entries for both events must be made at the Athletic Office before next Tuesday noon.

PHYSICAL ED. NOTICE

Tests will be held April 8, 9, 12, 13 and 14. Absences may be made up on March 31, April 1, 2, 7, 8, 9.

SCANNING THE SCORE SHEETS

By AUSTIN MATTHEWS

As a result of last week's matches, Sally's All-Stars, the New Bedfords, and the Aquino Ramblers joined the 100 Club in qualifying for a first division playoff position. The playoff in this division will be on a point basis; each team will play each other team, and the one having the most points, on the four points a night system, will be the victor. The second division will have to be on an elimination basis however; one defeat serving to eliminate that team. In the event of an even split in a match in the second division, the two teams will have to bowl an extra string to decide the issue.

The playoffs will start next Tuesday, and will be held on both Monday and Tuesday of the following week in order to finish up before exam week.

Medals were ordered for the five men on the winning team in each division; but as they weren't ordered until last week and delivery can not be made before a month, they probably won't arrive until the last week of the semester. The first division medals are sterling silver, on a silk ribbon-pin, with a bowling insignia on the face, and the words "League Champions, 1943," stamped on the back. The second division awards are smaller, green gold, also on a silk ribbon-pin, but with "Division B Champions, 1943," stamped on the back.

For the sake of argument I will go out on a limb and predict that the winning team in each division will have the words "stars" in its name.

The rule was previously made that no team may use a man in the playoffs who has not bowled with the team at least once during the league season. This rule can only be changed by the consent of the team captain in either division.

Ferland - Needham Match Shapes Up As Feature Bout

Boxing holds the P.C. spotlight tonight at 8:00 as the Monogram Club holds its third All-Star Boxing Show in Harkins Hall.

With 12 leather-pushers battling for fistic honors in six evenly-matched bouts, a wrestling bout and a comedy bout for added variety, tonight's show promises to be the best in the Monogram Club's history.

Two defending champions, several lads who have fought in past All-Star Bouts and several newcomers make up the entry list for tonight's fight card.

Gene Leco and Mickey Marra will enter the ring defending crowns which they won in last December's bouts. Leco will meet Rog. Jackson while Marra will be pitted against Ed Russo. In other boxing bouts Frank Di Iuglio meets Jim Finneran, Greg Rocha tangles with Chuck Mendozzi, Fran Murphy battles Joey Malikowski and in the feature bout of the evening Duke Ferland battles Tom Needham.

In the fourth event of the evening Ted Pliakas will be pitched against Mario Mazzarella in a wrestling match.

The sixth event will feature the Masked Marvel in a surprise comedy bout.

- The program:
1. Gene Leco vs. Rog. Jackson.
 2. Ed Russo vs. Mickey Marra.
 3. Frank Di Iuglio vs. Jim Finneran.
 4. Ted Pliakas vs. Mario Mazzarella.
 5. Greg Rocha vs. Chuck Mendozzi.
 6. Introducing the Masked Marvel.
 7. Fran Murphy vs. Joey Malikowski.
 8. Duke Ferland vs. Red Needham.

Referees—Pete Louthis, Lino Tiberi; judges—Bob De Celles, Warren Walden; trainer—Bill Goulding.

training under the Army Specialized Training Program.

(b) Classifying all others in respect to relative trainability.

The purpose of the Army Specialized Training Programs is to train, at the collegiate level, men in technical and professional skills required by the Army. Engineers of all types, doctors, psychologists, linguists, physicists, mathematicians and students of foreign areas are needed in large numbers, and the Army has established this program in those colleges and universities where such training can best be given.

Those students who prefer the Navy program should fill out the Admission and Identification Form for Navy College Training Program Test (V-12). Those who have no preference may use either card, noting that they have no preference. In either case, the card properly filled out should be presented by the candidate to the supervisor at the time of the test, 9 a. m. on April 2, 1943.

For the Army, all male applicants in the following groups are eligible to take the test as Army candidates:

- (a) High school and preparatory school graduates who will have attained their 17th, but have not reached their 22nd birthdays by July 1, 1943, regardless of whether they are now attending college.
- (b) High school and preparatory school seniors who will be graduated by July 1, 1943, provided they will have attained their 17th, but have not reached their 22nd birthdays by that date.

(c) Students who will have attained their 17th, but have not reached their 22nd birthdays by July 1, 1943, who do not hold certificates of graduation from a secondary school but who are now continuing their education in an accredited college or university.

To be eligible for the Army Specialized Training Program, a man must be morally and physically qualified, and must evidence potential officer qualification, including appearance and scholarship records."

From those who successfully complete the tests candidates for the Army Specialized Training Program and the Navy College Training Program will be selected to attend the colleges under contract to the respective services. Students selected for the Army Program must undergo further screening during 13 weeks of the basic military training before they are finally qualified for the college attendance. Students chosen for the Navy Program, after selection by the Officer of Naval Officer Procurement, will be detailed directly to college. Students who attend college under either programs will be under military discipline on active duty in uniform with pay. All expenses, including tuition, food, housing, books and uniforms will be paid by the Army and the Navy.

Students selected for training by the Army and the Navy following the tests on April 2 will enter college some time in 1943. Since no other qualifying tests will be given for many months, students desiring to enter college under either the Army and Navy programs are urged to apply for the April 2 examinations.

COLLEGE MOURNS LANDMARK PASSING

porter that the dimmed-out streets are not the only aspect of the city to have changed, since the popular and well-known car is no longer in evidence. Joe Brumski, doorman at one of the popular hotels in the heart of the business section remarked, "All I can say is . . . I hope the guy that bought the car keeps goin' to the same nice places, or the people who don't know it ain't that professor's car no more are gonna get some funny idears!"

When interviewed, Doctor O'Neill, who recently received an honorary athletic award from the Providence College Athletic Association and is one of the editors of the Dictionary of Medieval Latin, stated that the war was only partly responsible for the sale of the car. "I have recently opened a hothouse which takes up much of my time. And since I've found out that there are ants in my plants, I've discovered that I must spend all my time there when I'm not at the college or elsewhere of interest. I have to train some ant-eaters.

Asked how the war influenced him in selling his car, he looked up from his old road-maps of North Providence, and said, "It was my patriotic duty. I've done my bit for the Navy." He further stated, "It seemed a good thing, in view of the metal shortage, and I did it nobly. I put aside my own habits and activities. 'Carthago delenda est!' The faithful car will be melted down to provide 4000 bedpans for the Navy." "Bedpans?" we asked, surprised. "Yes," answered Doctor O'Neill, "robin's-egg blue!"

JUSTICE CONDON TALKS TO ALUMNI

of '26, asked to say a few words, spoke of his pleasant associations with the principal speaker, Justice Condon.

Dr. James F. Colgan, '29, president of the association, appointed William Hoban, '29, general chairman of Alumni Loyalty Day Drive, which is now being conducted and will close on an as yet undetermined date.

Seated at the speakers' table, which was presided over by Chief Petty Officer Frederick J. Murphy, U. S. N. R., class of '35, were: Governor J. Howard McGrath, '26; the Very Reverend John J. Dillon, O. P., president of the college; the Rev. Jeremiah T. Fitzgerald, O. P., vice president; the Rev. Arthur H. Chandler, O. P., dean; the Rev. Vincent O. Dore, O. P., treasurer; Edward J. Crotty, director of physical education; Dr. James F. Colgan, class of '24, president of the Alumni Association; Louis C. FitzGerald, class of '34, secretary, and Dr. Daniel J. O'Neill, class of '24, treasurer.

The Rev. Frederick C. Foley, O. P., assistant dean, celebrated Mass and gave the sermon in Aquinas Hall chapel. Father Foley also disclosed the necrology of 14 members of the association who have died since last year's Communion Breakfast.

The 14 thus listed by Fr. Foley were:

John E. Cassidy, '25, of Conimicut, first deceased alumni president; Hector J. Allen, '29, of Troy, N.Y.; Joseph J. McCormick, '23, and John J. Aissi, '39, of Central Falls; William Smith, '42, of Pittsfield, Mass., and Edward J. McQuade, '30; Daniel Grady, '42, and Robert Rich, '42, of Providence. Alumni who died during the year on active service in the armed forces include: Rev. Valmore Savignac, '32, reported missing in Naval action; Dr. Thomas A. Martin, '30, James Pappas, '39, Richard E. Welsh, '36, and Thomas McGrath, '36, all of Providence, and William J. Dodd, '38, of Milton, Mass.

Chief Petty Officer Fred J. Murphy, U.S.N.R., '35, was chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements.

The favorite cigarette with men in the Army, Navy, Marines, and Coast Guard is Camel. (Based on actual sales records in Post Exchanges and Canteens.)

The "T-Zone"

—where cigarettes are judged

The "T-ZONE"—Taste and Throat—is the proving ground for cigarettes. Only your taste and throat can decide which cigarette tastes best to you...and how it affects your throat. For your taste and throat are absolutely individual to you. Based on the experience of millions of smokers, we believe Camels will suit your "T-ZONE" to a "T." Prove it for yourself!
