

Tomorrow: Vote in Slavin Only

Profile of Freshmen Candidates

By Peggy Hogan

The freshmen class will become active members in the Providence College Student Congress when the election of their class officers takes place Thursday, October 2, in Slavin Center.

Four students are contending for the top position of freshmen class president, Marty Bolton.

Marty Bolton

Kellie Coleman

and undecided major from Waterbury, CT, said that if elected, he hopes to attain "a sense of unity and friendship among the freshmen class as well as an improved social life for the class."

One of his opponents is Kelli Coleman, a business major from Avon, N.J. She commented on the importance of student involvement, stating, "I don't see why there's any reason everyone can't be heard."

Also running is Steve Shaheen, a business major from North Andover, MA. Shaheen said his major goal would be "to make the freshmen feel comfortable and enable them to succeed in the next four years."

The final candidate is biology major Sean Sullivan from St. Croix, the Virgin Islands. Sullivan noted that "Given the opportunity, I would like to represent the Class of '84 as president, for I feel I can give the type of leadership our class not only needs, but so rightly deserves."

The nominees for vice-president most often stressed the need for greater class unity, as well as greater school unity. The eight students vying for the office are: Sue Avila, a math and accounting major from Canton, MA; Liz Carroll, a police major from Davenport, IO; Pat Conley, a history major from Cranston, RI;

Steven Shaheen

Grotto Mass Sunday

Friar Council Knights of Columbus is sponsoring a Grotto Mass this coming Sunday, October 5, 1980 at 7:00 p.m., in the Dominican tradition, the first Sunday of October is observed as "Rosary Sunday." Consequently, the candlelight Mass will be followed immediately by a candlelight rosary procession, around the Grotto during which time the rosary will be recited.

Principal celebrant of the Mass will be Rev. John A. McMahon, O.P., Chaplain of Friar Council Knights of Columbus; the homilist will be Rev. Matthew P. Morry, O.P. of Providence College. Fr. Morry was recently appointed to the post of Provincial Promotor for Rosary Devotions for the Dominican Province of St. Joseph. Fr. Morry is also chaplain of Bishop Scalabrini Council Knights of Columbus. Friar Council Knights of Columbus encourages all members of the PC community to participate in this candlelight Mass and Rosary procession. In case of inclement weather, the location will be St. Pius Church. The chaplain's office has announced that the 6:00 p.m. Mass in Guzman and the 7:00 p.m. Mass in Aquinas have been cancelled for this Sunday because of the Grotto Rosary Mass.

Sunday, September 28, 1980 the Providence College Student Congress passed a resolution approving the idea of a shuttle service for off-campus residents. The resolution was proposed by Ed Flynn, president of the Off-Campus Resident Board, in response to recent incidents of violence involving students walking alone after dark.

The resolution will be presented to the Committee on Administration on Wednesday, October 1, 1980 by Dennis McEnery, student representative to the COA.

Included in the resolution was the proposed buying of a vehicle to shuttle off-campus students between the library and the neighborhoods around the school. The route suggested by Flynn would stop and pick up in areas where the greatest concentration of off-campus students live. Flynn explained that the suggested route would take about 20 minutes and would circle around the campus.

While the proposal is still in the working stages, it is hoped that positive results can be seen within the next month.

In other Congress news, Laura Foley, chairperson of the academic research committee, announced that there are very few openings in the mini-courses the committee is offering.

Congress Approves Shuttle Proposal

Bob Bava, president of the Athletic Board announced the success of a golf tournament which was held Friday September 26. Men's indoor soccer will be starting soon, while the women's division was cancelled due to lack of players.

L. J. Manning, president of the Board of Governors commented on the two sell-out showings of "The Rose." This week's scheduled appearance by Leonid Brezhnev, Security Advisor to President Jimmy Carter, has been cancelled. October 10 the Henry Paul Band will appear in Alumni Gym for the BOG's first concert of the 1980-81 year. The BOG will also be holding an open forum to discuss alternative activities for the weekends. The forum is tentatively scheduled for October 8.

Dennis McEnery, student representative to the COA, stated that in a meeting last Wednesday the topic of the large number of day students attending night classes was discussed. Most of the students are trying to fulfill business requirements which were full in the day school.

There is now a car pool list available in the Dillon Club office. Jane Silveira, president of the club, stated that there are now only 40 bids left to the Harvest Ball which will be held October 12 at the Biltmore Hotel. Jim McGuire, chairman of the food committee noted that there is a suggestion box once again in Raymond Cafeteria.

Ed Flynn of the Off-Campus Resident Board stated that a so called "bounce policy" is in the works. With this policy freshmen would be assured of housing on-campus and a percentage of each of the other three classes would have to find housing elsewhere. Charles Morrissey, chairperson of the life styles committee, stated that on Monday, October 6 a random sampling of 1000 students would be surveyed regarding the proposed food and variety store.

Freshmen elections will be held Thursday, October 2 in Slavin Center.

Dan Gaccione, president of the class of '81, is presently making plans for this year's Christmasfest. Also, the Commencement Ball will be held at the Park Plaza Hotel in Boston.

Bob Giovino, president of the Class of '82, reminded all juniors that bids for Junior Ring Weekend will be on sale Thursday October 2.

Freshman Commuter Luncheon Big Success

By Karen MacGillivray

The first "Freshmen Commuter Luncheon" was held last Tuesday, September 23, in Alumni Cafeteria. Sandwiches and drinks were served as freshmen listened to and met several important members of the Providence College community.

The event was co-sponsored by the Dillon Club, the Counseling Center, and the Chaplain's Office. Guest speakers included Rev. Thomas R. Peterson, O.P., president of the College; Rev. Thomas Ertle, O.P., chaplain; Rev. Stuart McPhail, O.P., student affairs; Steve Sylvia, editor-in-chief of the Owl; L. J. Manning, president of the Board of Governors; Jane Silveira, president of the Dillon Club; Ken McGunagle, treasurer of the Student Congress, and Jerry Alaimo, director of Intramurals and Recreation. There were also representatives from the Pastoral Council and the Big Brothers and Sisters Organization.

The luncheon was organized so that the new students could meet various members of the college administration and the heads of different clubs. It was also a chance for the commuters to get acquainted with each other.

"Freshman commuters are very alone, and need a social introduction into college," remarked Dillon Club secretary Jean Silveira. "We need to stress a student involvement among them."

One way for a commuting student to get involved is through PC's Dillon Club. Located in Slavin 121, the club's office is directly outside of Alumni Cafeteria. It is here that most commuters come to meet other commuters. "Problems among commuters are unique," explained Jean Silveira. "Commuters may be having troubles at home or work or with traveling to school and back in the same day.

It is sometimes a relief to find someone who can share these problems. The Dillon Club is composing and posting a carpooling list inside the office. The club also opens the door to social participation in school activities for many students. As Dillon Club president, Jane Silveira said,

"The Dillon Club gives kids a reason to come back on campus." Dillon Club officers are Jane Silveira, '82, president; David Angell, '82 vice president; Tom Plaziak, '81 treasurer; Jean Silveira, '82, secretary; Ann Marie Palumbo, '82, social chairman; and Lisa Ferrucci, '82, travel.

The Dillon Club's various committees have been busy since school started. The social committee has been holding a raffle downstairs in Slavin Center to help reduce the price of their Harvest Ball tickets. The drawing will take place October 3 at 3 p.m. First prize is a free bid to the Harvest Ball, and second prize is a case of Heineken. The second annual Harvest Ball is scheduled for Sunday, October 12 at the Billmore's Roman Garden Room. Bids have been reduced to $30 from $32 due to a successful raffle. The Band playing will be "Perfect Time." Cocktails are at 7 p.m. with dinner following at 8 p.m.

The Dillon Club had just completed the non-resident directory. This directory is free. It will be available this week in Slavin Center. Any off-campus students who wish to go to sports events together can sign up for tickets at the Dillon Club. They have purchased a section of tickets for basketball and/or hockey games. Prices are $10 for one season ticket, and $15 for both basketball and hockey.

Other items on the Dillon Club agenda include a Ground Round night with Bill Gannon on November 21, and finalizing plans for the spring trip to Bermuda. This trip is open to everyone, and is planned for the April vacation, which will be College Week in Bermuda.

"Henry Paul Band" Part of BOG's Schedule

The Board of Governors is preparing for upcoming October events. BOG president, L. J. Manning, stated, "motivation is high and most of the members are working well together."

The programming for October includes a lecture by Rhode Island Senator Claiborne Pell, on October 6.

The first major concert of the 1980-81 year is to be held on October 6, in Alumni Gym. Featured will be the Henry Paul Band, formerly of the Outlaws.

The BOG is trying to generate interest in theatre trips by promoting popular Broadway plays to be seen at the Ocean State Theatre.

Other highlights include a trip to Fenial Hall on October 4.

Because of popular demand, week-night movies will be shown next semester. The Alfred Hitchcock thriller Psycho, which was shown recently, was quite a success.

Within two weeks, the BOG will release a survey to the entire student body, in order to get opinions on PC social functions and to receive suggestions for the future.

Manning stated that 75 percent of October's plans are without alcohol. Manning wants to "round out the program" and balance the type of social events on-campus. "We can provide that sort of entertainment and the student body can react to non-alcoholic programs, even educational ones." Manning believes that his largely non-alcoholic program will work, judging from the success of the coffeehouse, lectures, and movies.

The BOG is presently working with Student Congress on a proposal for an ice machine, which could supply the BOG and Student Congress with the considerable quantities of ice used to keep beverages cold at events.

One hurdle facing the BOG is proper security at social functions. Student union security has apparently been poor and Allstate Security has allegedly been unreliable. The security office is in the process of hiring a new security company.

The BOG proposals are subject to the approval of the advisory board, which has jurisdiction over the entire student union. The BOG's three representatives on the board, Manning, Mark O'Rourke and Liz Oleksak, will meet with members of the advisory board to discuss these proposals.

Manning is concentrating on getting the BOG members oriented and working well together. Manning believes that his main function is to program the proposed events. "Politics is secondary," he said.

Core Committee '83

The Class of 1983 has recently chosen the five chairpeople of its Junior Ring Weekend Core Committee. The chairperson of the committee is Mary Ellen Batcheller. The four sub-committees and their chairmen are as follows: Bob Ferreira, bands; Sa Oleksak, rings; Marybeth Alto, formal; and Sharon Grady, bids and favors. Alternate chairpersons are Sharon Roveda and Debbie Lavollette.

All the candidates for a chairmanship were interviewed by the four officers and five representatives of the Class of 1983. The officers are Greg Pigeon, president; Jim McGuire, vice-president, Judy McNamara, secretary, and Paul McVicker, treasurer. The representatives are Mary Ellen Butke, Mary Beth Carver, Jean Ludwig, Chris Fallano and Alicia Lynch.

Thanks are extended by the officers and representatives to all those who showed interest in any of the committee positions. There is, however, still great need for the people to help serve on the committees. All members of the Class of 1983 are welcome and encouraged to help plan their Junior Ring Weekend. Anyone interested should contact Mary Ellen Batcheller and watch for notification of the committee's first meeting.

Food Store Advisory Board Appointed

An advisory board has been set up to oversee the opening of a food and variety store on campus.

The board is chaired by Rev. John A. McMahon, O.P., assistant vice president for student services. Included in its membership are Mr. Joseph Murphy, food services; Mr. Gustave Cote of the business department; Mr. Steven Rose of financial aid; Bill Pearson, president of student congress; Ken McGungale, treasurer of student congress; and Cheryl L. Morrissey, chairperson of the lifestyles committee.

The Committee researching the store, has discovered that they cannot beat the prices of the high supermarkets and would have prices comparable to the small convenience stores such as Sunnybrook Farms.

They will be surveying a representational cross section of the student body on Monday, October 6th, in alumni and Raymond Cafeterias.

The Student Congress asks all students to think carefully about this issue and respond honestly to the survey questions.

PC Counseling Center:

A Job Well Done

Attending college prepares a student for adult life in a variety of ways. It prepares him for a fulfilling career by helping him become proficient in a specific field of interest. It also aids him in maturing both personally and socially. While, most students enjoy this experience of growth, there are times when a student simply needs some guidance. The PC Counseling and Career Planning Center exists to provide this guidance.

According to the 1980-81 placement manual the major goals and objectives of the Counseling Center are as follows: "The Counseling and Career Planning Center (CCPC) was established to assist Providence College students in identifying and solving their personal, social, and educational concerns; to offer vocational/career counseling; and to refer individuals to qualifying agencies for assistance with problems not handled by the CCPC." The Editorial Board of The Cowl would like to congratulate the CCPC at meeting these goals both creatively and aggressively.

Personal Counseling. The CCPC provides a one-on-one counseling service. Any student may take advantage of this service. It focuses upon resolving personal concerns through teaching students to make decisions and choices. A qualified counselor is available, and all counseling services are provided on a confidential basis. The CCPC also offers group counseling for students with similar concerns. Some examples of these groups are the Women's Rap Group and the Relationship Enhancement Group. Many of these group workshops are scheduled for this academic year.

Academic/Educational Counseling. This type of counseling is designed to help students set academic goals and teach them how to achieve them. The 1980-81 workshops dealing with educational concerns include topics such as Test Anxiety; how to reduce it; Procrastination; Time Management; and a Workshop for Undecided majors.

Career Planning. This is perhaps the most well-known service the CCPC provides. Throughout the year, the CCPC offers individual and group sessions in which students "explore their abilities, interests, skills, talents and work values in order to determine the type of career that would be viable and rewarding to them." The CCPC has been extremely successful in this endeavor. It has aided many students with the preparation of resumes, attaining interview skills, and ultimately securing a job.

The Interview Service/Point Bidding System. The CCPC sponsors an on-campus interviewing system for the graduate school bound and career hunting students. This year, a new system has been designed to ensure equality in the process of getting the interview. John McGrath, Coordinator for Placement Services, explains the bidding system in a simple manner. He says, "Each student will be assigned an account of 500 points. Each student will then use any amount of these points to 'bid' for an interview. Every bid will represent a genuine investment."

In the past years, the Counseling Center has placed seniors in jobs with much success; if not from the on-campus interviewing system, through leads and referrals.

Jackie Kiernan and her staff have done a commendable job in offering guidance to PC students. The number of services that are offered by the Center increase every year and truly reflect the ever-growing and ever-changing needs of PC students.

Therefore, the Editorial Board of the Cowl would like to compliment the PC Counseling and Career Planning Center for a job well done.

Voter Apathy: Who Really Cares?

Voter apathy and poor voter turnout have been part and parcel of the PC election process for many years. Hopefully, in years to come, the level of participation in PC political affairs will increase. The Editorial Board of the Cowl observes one positive turn in this direction.

According to Mitch Vogel, chairman of the ways and means committee, there are 43 freshmen running for Class of '84 offices, a large increase in comparison with previous years. The Editorial Board of the Cowl hopes that this great display of interest in PC's student government marks the development of a concerned and active student electorate.

There have been a few changes in the formal election process initiated by the ways and means committee. Voting in Raymond Cafeteria during dinner will no longer occur. The committee feels that in the past residents have had an unfair advantage over commuters because of this voting location. Mitch Vogel said, "We should be concerned with fairness and not numbers."

Therefore, voting will be held only in Slavin Center, from 9:30 to 5:00 this Thursday, October 2. The Editorial Board of the Cowl strongly supports this change, as it restores equity to the election process.

From the editor's desk...

Veritas, in Latin it translates to truth; at PC it translates to a lot of work for a few people. Each summer, graduating seniors complain about their yearbook. However, these same seniors are nowhere to be found when it is being put together. This year, hopefully, the Class of '81 will change all that.

Under the leadership of John Coffey, the Veritas staff has begun production of this year's book. Yet, he needs your help. I urge all my fellow seniors to pitch in whenever they can. We, as a class, can make our yearbook one of PC's best. Remember that our memories of PC will be preserved through its pages.

There are many ways you can help; either with photography, writing, or layout. It will not be fair if we let a few do the work of many. For all those interested there will be a meeting tomorrow at 3 p.m. in Slavin 108.

Let's Reorganize Ticket Sales

Dear Editor:
I am writing in response to the chaotic period on September 11, generally referred to as Jim Plunkett ticket sales.

At some point in time, the Board of Governors came up with the truly good idea of installing a window for such sales. They did not, however, consider the possibility that a mob would enter from both ends of the hall.

After waiting an hour for Jim Plunkett tickets, the window was finally opened. The problem was, however, that those fans lucky enough to have 10:30 classes stormed the window from the opposite end of the hall from which the line started.

Ensuing this storm of students, there was a great deal of shoving and pushing only for students to find that all tickets had been sold. Not to mention the fact that 150 tickets had been sold almost immediately. I am quite disappointed that after waiting for an hour, and having a good position in line, I never received tickets.

Without being derogatory, I would like to suggest as I am sure others would, that the Board of Governors "get their act together" and do something to rectify this situation. One suggestion that might be considered is that there be an area designated where an orderly line can be formed.

I am well aware that this situation is not entirely the fault of the Board of Governors. We are college students and mature enough to be considerate of others. I do, however, think that this situation could be avoided by a little better organization on the part of the Board of Governors.

Try the Rat for a Change

Dear Editor:

I was shocked when I entered the Rat last week to find six customers at Friday's Happy Hour. Only one year ago, Friday afternoons meant long lines in front of the Rat's doors. It seems that the Rat is a new casualty of the RI drinking age.

It is going to take more than putting a few more songs in the jukebox to attract students back to the Rat. The Rat is blessed with the space for entertainment and for years the only worry was for students to entertain themselves.

Now the Rat should make use of its vast spaces to bring the wandering upperclassmen back.

It would not be very hard to make the Ratskeller a viable alternative to Geister's, Louie's or Brads. Jim Plunkett at the Rat? Think about it.

Rat Worker Asks I Need a Date!! For Support

Dear Editor:

One institution which has been largely ignored recently is our own Ratskeller. This is most unfortunate because at one time the Rat was an integral part of PC. There are varied reasons people give for not patronizing the Rat. I would just like to separate fact from fiction. The Rat is the biggest bar in the area and offers the nicest decor. In addition, to a TV, and jukebox, it has pinball, "space invaders", and pooltables. Beer in the Rat is only available on draught but beer bottle lovers the compromise is easy when a 64 oz pitcher of Bud is yours for only $2.75. The bar stock is just as competitive offering soups, cream drinks and a variety of other cocktails. Wine and soda are also available. The type of people who go to the Rat, is limited to its potential patrons: it is what you make. The Ratskeller is our bar but will not continue to be without our support.

I am in desperate need of a date to Junior Ring Weekend. If there is any girl here at the school who is available, please call me at 332-0 or see me in Raymond 423. I'm very good looking and an all around good time!

Counseling Center Notes

Every year many students apply for federal jobs, summer or fulltime. And, every year many students do not get hired. The application procedure for federal jobs can be frustrating, but the following information may be enlightening.

There are major changes being made in the application procedure. First, the Civil Service Commission has been changed to the Office of Personnel Management (OPM). This office acts as an advising agency to other federal agencies in the selection of applicants.

The next change involves the Professional and Administrative Civil Service Exam (PACE). In the past, the PACE was given throughout the year by the OPM. This year it will be given once, during March-April 1981. The following year it will be phased out completely. Traditionally the PACE covered jobs at the GS 5-7 levels, which are the college entry-level positions.

Now the PACE covers only 48 per cent of those jobs covered in the past. In the future, when the national testing has been phased out, an individual agency may give the PACE if the position requires it.

The vacancies are advertised in many different ways. This procedure has been revised as well. The "Nationwide Announcement" publication lists positions at the GS 5-7 levels, which again are the college entry-level jobs. This includes notices of vacancies and needs for all parts of the country.

Then there is the "Job Prospect Bulletin", which only covers a particular region. There are three separate bulletins with the region, one for blue collar jobs, one for medical and clerical, and one for white collar or professional jobs. The professional bulletin covers professional jobs. The professional bulletin covers levels GS 9 and up. These are positions for Master's degrees and/or experience.

The bulletins and announcements will be posted with the state employment offices in all the states. But the best source for information would be the Federal Job Information and Testing Center in the region, room 310, Kennedy Plaza, Providence, R.I. 02903 or Three Center Plaza, Boston, MA, 02108. You will get the best results if you visit them in person.

For those people interested in summer opportunities, some changes are being made. In the past, a written test was required, now the agencies will rank the applications themselves.

PC also participates in a Federal Summer Intern Program. Agencies send notices of internships according to the academic programs at Providence College. Students must meet certain requirements to be eligible for nomination. Further information is available in the Counseling Center.

A person interested in federal employment needs to take some initiative. You need an understanding of the functions of the agencies, opportunities available, and the application procedure.

The purpose of these changes is to make the hiring practices for federal jobs similar to private business.

No Winners in "The Roommate Game"!

By Bill Sullivan

"The Roommate Game" has recently been released by Parker Brothers as its latest attempt to replace the age-old game of Monopoly.

The game was master-minded by Parker Brothers executive and sponsor Art Linkletter who commented that the game would provide a "simulated challenge that would enable the college student to respond to varying degrees of stress incurred in normal day-to-day relations with peers."

The Roommate Game may be played with two, three, four, or more players and is recommended for mature students 18 years of age or older. Unfortunately, the game has been seen in the hands of students who fail to meet the first criterion, and this poses problems in matching up opponents.

The news of the release of this game has been received enthusiastically on college campuses throughout the nation. As the game is rather sophisticated, we will begin now to explain how it works. The scoring depends on:

- 1) How one ended up in the room he/she is in
- 2) The length of time one stayed there
- 3) The amount of suffering involved (having a roommate who has hibernating alligators on his briefs is worth more points)

The important thing to remember as you play the game is that there are no winners. The following concrete examples provide you with a chance to rate yourself and your "opponents" (roommates). The person with the highest score may not find himself playing again, while the one with the lowest score may not be invited to many cocktail parties. Let us deal with some concrete illustrations of these "day-to-day relations."

Telephone rings at 3:30 a.m. Roommate is stuck on I-95 with flat tire and no spare. "Can you come and get me?" (15 points)

—Six pack of beer bought at 3:00 p.m. on Friday disappears as you go to bathroom at 4:00 p.m. (10 points)

—Both roommates lying in bed awake when telephone rings. Both roommates then pretend to be asleep, until the other answers the phone. (15 points)

—A snooze alarm. (10 points)

—Roommate studying on Friday night walks into room while you're with co-ed. (20 points)

—Socks that stand up on end adorning desk adjacent to yours. (15 points)

—M.A.S.H. on T.V. vs The Ramones on stereo at Volume 5. (15 points)

—Sit down in bathroom and then realize that roommate has used toilet paper for streamers at keg party. (20 points)

—Keg Party two hours after roommate has cleaned apartment room. (10 points)

—Backgammon tournament in your night after supper

while you try to study. (10 points)

—Roommate who awakens at 7:00 a.m. and asks you to go to breakfast at 7:30 a.m. (your first class is at 11:30). (10 points)

—Roommate who gets up at 12:30 on parent's weekend. (10 points)

—Roommate borrows nicest shirt to see Jim Plunkett. (15 points)

—Car keys disappear for one hour and then suddenly reappear (See ROOMMATE, pg. 7)

Hm, Hm, Good!

Parent's Weekend... "Hi, Mom!"

By Maryann Assalone

After a month on their own, freshmen were reunited with their parents again during Parents' Weekend. A freshman myself, I have to say there were mixed feelings about this. I didn't look forward to waking up at 10 a.m. after dancing until the morning hours on Friday night. How could I pull off the "book-worm" image with blisters on my feet and sparkles in my eyes? Well, I managed to have a great time and fool Mom and Dad while I was at it! Activities began with a brunch at Raymond Cafeteria, where Mom insisted that I finish all my orange juice—oh brother!

Following this, we were led to Aquinas Hall to attend a series of informative lectures. The humor and eloquence of each speaker thoroughly entertained both my parents and myself. One woman spoke up in praise, saying, "I'm very impressed with the speakers. Do you all take public speaking courses?" The reply to her question came from Mr. Deasy who explained, "The O.P. in father's name stands for Order of Preachers!"

Lectures included representative speakers on Auxiliary Services, education, sports and student activities.

Afternoon activities included a Providence College vs. Stonehill football game, a soccer game against UNH and a concert by the Providence College Bands at St. Pius Church. The crisp fall day provided the perfect atmosphere for an outdoor game. Shouts from Hendricken field and the smell of hot dogs and beer couldn't keep me away from the football game. Best of all, we won 14-13. Before the Mass celebrated at 4 p.m., we enjoyed listening to the Providence College concert. The full sound chimed throughout the hall in a splendid showing of talent.

The Mass following proved to be a unifying experience for the whole freshmen body. The celebrant was Most Reverend Louis E. Gellineau, Bishop of Providence. Rev. Thomas R. Peterson, O.P. spoke with great pride for our Providence College community while impressing us with its many values.

A buffet dinner with cocktails finished off our day with full stomachs and happy hearts as families ate and socialized with one another.

I couldn't help feeling the day was a great success, as I waved good-bye to Mom and Dad, and turned to greet my new home!

"88's" Loop Resort Crowd

The Last Resort was able to pack a full house this weekend to the sounds of a great rock and roll band, the 88's. However, the tickets were not as hard to come by this time as they were for Jim Plunkett. The doors of the Resort opened at 8:30 and by 9:30 both rooms were filled to a comfortable capacity

Book Review

Timetable, by Amos Elon is now available from Doubleday & Co. as a hardcover edition. This well-documented novel explores the drama, disappointment, and bravery of one Jewish leader who attempted to stall Hitler's "final solution" of his people.

In 1944, the Nazis began the implementation of their "final solution" of the Jews of Hungary, who had, up to that point, managed to escape the fate of their fellow victims elsewhere in Europe. As the war drew to a close, the SS leaders, searching for alibis which might serve them later on, decided that these condemned Jews could aid the Nazis alive as well as dead.

In a carefully arranged meeting, Adolf Eichmann approached Joel Brand, a Hungarian-Jewish engineer and courier for the Jewish Rescue Committee. Contacted in Budapest for this bizarre encounter, Brand was met with the following proposal: Jewish lives for hardware such as trucks, food and soap. Put more bluntly, Germany would spare one hundred Jews for every truck (loaded with various commodities) that Brand could deliver. For the delivery of ten thousand trucks, Brand would be assured one million lives and the closing of Auschwitz.

Timetable, by Amos Elon, is a fictionalized account of an all-too-grotesque reality. Encompassing six critical weeks between May 18 and July 8, it is the story of one man's race against time and the obstacles, both bureaucratic and personal, which he was forced to confront during the course of this devastating mission.

Reinforced by Elon's superb use of original documentation, we learn of the ineffectual aid of many of the Jewish leaders whom Brand called upon for help (Chaim Weizmann, David Ben Gurion, Shertok, former Prime Minister of Israel), the apathy of such British leaders as Winston Churchill and Anthony Eden, whose hands were tied due to the demands of the Arabs to permit Jews to flee to Palestine for safety, and the many others who helped bring about the eventual doom of Brand's mission, and with it, the gassing of 450,000 Hungarian Jews.

Timetable—it's facts as well as its aftermath, is a chronicle of faith and guilt that none of its participants would ever forget, nor would the hundreds of thousands of Jews who were methodically murdered at Auschwitz ever know that an unknown individual named Joel Brand risked his life for theirs.

Now that the "party" is over, add up your points to see how popular you really are. (Many of you may find yourself running neck-and-neck with the Ayatollah himself.) But no matter how you fare, suggest this new and exciting game to your friends. It's a great way to impress your gal or beau by saying "I'm still scored twenty points in THE Roommate Game. You've got yourself a real prize here, honey." Yet don't get too confident! After all, there aren't any winners when the game is finally over, and the result may be similar to the "Free Agent" clause when the room lottery comes around next year.

Food for Thought: The Meal Ticket Saga

By Judy McNameara

As I strolled into Raymond Cafeteria the other day, I decided to be observant, and forego the delicacies of meat and squished tomatoes that adorned the counter so that there would be more for the next student who came along. Today I was simply going to have a plain salad, the kind with lettuce and, and...well I always did enjoy lettuce. Sometimes it is challenging to pick around the brown sections to make your own leafy green creation.

Well, as I said, I decided to observe the people around me. It was not a pleasing sight. Moans and groans could be deciphered from the constant chatter. A curious sophomore questioned the reasoning behind the serving of stippy joys. Why serve something that nobody seems to care for but everyone likes to criticize? Who knows the reasoning behind it and who really cares?

Day after day PC students eat the same old food in the same old way. There are only two pancakes at a time per customer. Providence College students are obviously not mature enough to decide just how large their appetites are. Yet they are mature enough to come back for seconds, pushing those ahead of them aside to get that third pancake or second helping of fries. Well, some things never change, like the food in Raymond Cafeteria, the broken ice machine and the horrendous fines of the Residence Office.

A little poorer, a little wiser seems to be the law our Residence Office lives by. Anyone who is entitled to eat in Raymond Cafeteria has paid their room and board and therefore has paid for the food they consume there. God forbid that you leave your ID in your back pocket and a thoughtful roommate decides to wash those dirty levis for you. Or, while stooping over to pick up a book for a friend, your ID innocently slips out of your pocket and is carried away by the wind. No matter how that yellow sticker is removed, however, does not really matter. What matters to you is that little accidents like that can be costly!

This year the Residence Office will charge you $14 for the crummy yellow sticker. Your ID costs $3 at the Student Affairs Office in Slavin Center. This is reasonable considering the materials used to process the ID. Yet, $14 for a meal sticker is a lot of money when you are living away from home and you have a budget to adhere to. I am sure Rev. Walter Heath, O.P., director of residence at PC has his reasons for this policy. And who are we, the students who this policy affects, who are we to complain?

Money talks so, the next time you plan to do something nice for your roommate or stoop over for a damsel in distress make sure that your ID is fastened to your book firmly. Possibly we could all wear them around our necks like dog tags or poke a hole in them and tie them to a belt loop. Yet before taking any drastic action check with the Residence Office and make sure it complies with their regulations. Be careful with your money. Always have the $14 stashed away in the stuffing of your Teddy Bear. You would not want to go hungry due to insufficient funds! Please pray every night for the safety of your meal sticker. Treat it with care and gentleness and maybe it will not wander off, remember a little poorer, a little wiser, but when you are broke, even a sub from the silver truck is a gift from heaven.

The 88's played a variety of tunes from Tom Petty, the Doobie Brothers, Devo, The Police, and three or four of their own songs, along with some Springsteen. For those standing by the bar, it was difficult to actually see the band playing amidst the sea of people all over the dance floor. The 88's finished their last set with "Got the Fever" from Southside Johnny, and by that time it was 1 a.m., but the tired, sweaty crowd still wanted more.

Fortunately for all who attended, Staturday night was not as "out of hand" as it was when Jim Plunkett played, and people seemed to spread out between the two rooms in the Resort. The open bar was a welcome change from the refreshment set-up at mixers, and the wine coolers were just as welcome, as many sipped them in attempts to cool down from a steaming session on the dance floor.

The Last Resort provides a refreshing change from the mixers in a totally different atmosphere. So don't think twice about heading down to Lower Campus on a Saturday night. After all, the Last Resort proves its name wrong—it's never the last resort

Providence's new Burger King

Banker's Quarters

By Mary McEvoy

If you happen to stroll into Westminster Mall's new restaurant on the corner of Dorrance St., you will be immediately confronted with its elegant appeal. The dining area is lavishly decorated with burlap drapes, brass backed chairs, stained glass windows and numerous antique pieces which are all surrounded by potted plants. However, you could wait an eternity to be seated by a maitre de, and even longed to have a waitress bring you a menu, for if you chance just a few steps further inside, you will be greeted by the ever familiar service counter of a Burger King.

The new Burger King restaurant, to establish itself in Providence, has abandoned the traditional conventions of the fast food world by replacing its plastic furniture and manufactured look with an individual and rather appealing image of its own. The restaurant takes on the subtitle of "Banker's Quarters" and uses this as a theme for its interior. Large old fashioned bank vaults adorn the lobby, and even the service counters are styled after early turn-of-the-century bank tellers windows.

Although the lavish decor and the banker's motif distinguishes this Burger King from all other Burger King's, the food and the prices are the same. So next time you're downtown Providence—Have It Your Way...at Banker's Quarters!

A Little Bit of Ireland Comes to Providence: Muldoon's Saloon

By Neil O'Brien

A real Irish bar has opened recently in downtown Providence. It is about as close to being in a pub in Ireland as you can get, without leaving Rhode Island. It offers a welcome change of pace for bargainers. Muldoon's Saloon, at 250 South Water Street, Providence, is a lively entertainment spot, with dancing and singing to Irish music.

The reconstructed brick and stone building lends a warm and welcoming atmosphere to the saloon, only surpassed by the friendliness of the people. There are two good sized bars and plenty of tables where mixed drinks are served from $1.50 to $1.75. Guinness and Harp are on draft for $1.00. Deli sandwiches are also served in the evening. They include a hot corned beef sandwich with potato salad and pickles for $2.75.

Sunday from 3-7 p.m. is College Night. Irish bands will play traditional Irish music as well as some rock. Each night is an Irish Jam Session with bands to sing, dance, or just listen to. Jim Brady and his band, direct from Ireland, will be appearing Saturday October 4, singing Irish and American folk songs. The Dublin City Ramblers, in their only New England appearance are coming soon for a special concert at the Saloon. Tickets are available at Muldoon's for $5. Ordinarily there is no cover charge.

During the day there is an extensive menu. onion soup topped with cheese at $1.25 a bowl and a chef's salad called the King Arthur's Court offer a good beginning to the omelettes and sandwiches, with names such as the Monk's Omelette made of fresh mushrooms, imported blue cheese, and bacon and herbs. The Hawk, a charbroiled sirloin sandwich, served on a hard roll piled high with lettuce, tomato, bacon, and Russian dressing is delicious alternative for lunch, especially at $2.75. All the above are, of course, served with Muldoon's own Pelham potato. Muldoon's Saloon has plenty of parking off of South Water Street, but your best bet is to park on South Main Street near the Cable Car Cinema, and walk one block down to the saloon. What makes Tech Hifi the best place to buy stereo?

Appliance stores and department stores are not the best places to buy quality stereo. You'll do much better at a stereo store.

The problem is which stereo store? You're about to read why over 2 million music lovers have decided to buy from Tech Hifi.

It's OK to pick our brains. (We know our stereo).

The salespeople at Tech Hifi know what they're talking about. They work at Tech because they love stereo, not because they love selling.

Our people keep up with all the latest equipment, and can tell you the differences among the leading brands.

You get to play at Tech Hifi, not just look.

Some stereo stores have signs all over that tell you "Don't Touch The Merchandise".

At Tech Hifi our signs say "Come Play." We encourage you to spin knobs, push buttons, toss switches, and try out any of the components in our soundroom.

If you take enough time to play in a Tech Hifi soundroom, you'll get a good idea of which equipment sounds best in your price range.

30-day price guarantee, 60-day defective exchange, 3-month full-credit swap (for any reason), and a 1-year loudspeaker trial.

Our guarantees are backed by the Tech Hifi Service Centers. If the equipment you buy from us ever needs service, we have trained professionals who will make things right. Fast.

Our back-to-school sale

This is a good time to buy at Tech Hifi, because we're having our annual back-to-school sale.

You'll find complete systems on sale right now for as little as $189, and lots of name-brand turntables, receivers, loudspeakers, and cassette decks are on sale as individual components.

The buying power of the 65 Tech Hifi stores.

The reason why no store has better prices than Tech Hifi is no dealer buys quality components in such a huge volume as the 65 Tech Hifi stores.

You'll find our prices are as good as anybody's, and often better on some brands.

You might expect to pay extra at Tech for all the extra things we offer. But you won't.

At Tech Hifi we back what you buy.

When you make any big investment like quality hifi, make sure you're getting sound guarantees.

Tech Hifi gives you guarantees most stores don't. And we'll give them to you in writing, right on your sales slip.

Our guarantees include a 7-day moneyback guarantee (no questions asked).

Come in this week and listen to what your money can buy at Tech Hifi.

The best place to buy stereo.

This $189 system delivers good sound at a low price. The receiver is a TDC 1500 with T-Lock tuning that eliminates FM drift. The loudspeakers are compact, wide-range Studio Design 16's and the turntable is a multiple-play Collaro 1251 with a Philips cartridge.

Booters Lose in OT to URI, 3-2...

Today's riddle - When is a loss not really a loss? Answer - When your soccer team plays the twelfth ranked team in the country to a virtual standoff before being nipped in overtime.

This was exactly the case last Wednesday at Beck Field on the URI campus as the Friars performed admirably but lost to the Rams on a goal in overtime, 3-2. Len Mercurio, the senior All-American from Mount Pleasant, headed in the game winner at the 7:16 mark of the first overtime period. The 3-2 victory for Rhode Island marked the second time in as many years that the Rams have nipped the Friars at a time when Rhody was nationally ranked.

As expected, the Friars came out smokin' against their undefeated and untied opponents. PC actually controlled the first 15 minutes of the contest. But about halfway through the first period, URI started assuming the form that has made them a national power. With the PC halfbacks watching helplessly in front of the net, URI's Vin McCruden blasted one by goalie Pete Chenette for a 1-0 Ram lead. Mercurio received an assist on McCruden's goal, which came at 21:07.

The Friars capitalized on a mistake by State's goalie, John Williams, to tie the game. Williams ventured a little too far out of his cage in attempting to gather a crossing pass, and PC's 3-5 dynamo, Tony Conte, picked up the loose ball directly in front of the net and booted it in. The tying tally came at the 26:44 mark.

Realizing now that they were in a game, the Rams started the second half like whirlwinds. Forward Rui Caetano missed on several great chances early in the half. But most everyone in the crowd could sense that it was just a matter of time before URI took the lead. After a PC foul in front of the net, Caetano curled a perfect indirect kick past a setup wall of Friars and goalie Chenette to give the Rams a 2-1 lead. Time of the goal was 20:47 of the second half.

Rhode Island seemed content to play the Friars a little more defensively after Caetano's goal, and with defense anchored by another All-American, halfback Kevin Murphy, the defense tactics did not seem like a bad idea. All the Friars needed was a break. Just one little slip up by Rhody, that's all. Sure enough, in typical PC fashion, they got the break that they needed.

With only 12 and a half minutes left to play in regulation, the Friars got the tying goal. Mid-fielder Bill Baker controlled the ball in front of the URI net, drew three defenders toward him, then passed over to the left wing where junior Jay Skelton pushed the ball by Williams, sending the Friars and the handful of PC supporters into hysteria.

For the remainder of regulation, the Providence backs were superb. URI once again pressed deep in the Friar zone, but Chenette and his teammates held on until the overtime.

Rhode Island's talent and depth proved to be too much for the Friars in overtime. Mercurio's game winning goal late in the first overtime saved the Rams from not only state but national embarrassment.

Final shots attempted in the game showed the dominance of URI. URI had 30, PC 7. Chenette played like a goalie possessed and finished the game with 17 saves.

So technically, the Rams emerged victoriously from the Providence game, 3-2. But anyone who made the trip to South County last Tuesday will be glad to testify that scores are not everything.

...but Kick Back at UNH, 4-0

By: Chris Duffy

The Providence College soccer squad continued their fine play last Saturday afternoon at Glay Field as they whipped the Wildcats of the University of New Hampshire, 4-0.

To the Friar's credit, it was never really a game. Sophomore striker Mike Moretti cashed in on the Friars first good opportunity. After a UNH foul in front of the Wildcat net, Moretti nailed a left footed indirect kick from about 25 feet past goalie George Gaillardetz for a 1-0 lead. The blast by Moretti hit the crossbar and deflected off a UNH defender on its way across the goal line. New Hampshire somehow withstood Providence pressure for the remainder of the first half, despite great individual efforts by forward Jay Skelton. Skelton had two glittering chances to score near the end of the first half, one of them being a perfectly placed 35 yard rocket that Gaillardetz managed to tip above the crossbar.

The game was still not in the bag until the Friars salted it away late in the half. At the 22:54 mark, Providence swarmed the UNH cage, and the pressure finally paid off. Sophomore Tim Farrell, who hit the post early in the second half, chipped a perfect centering pass to the ever-present Skelton, who in turn, blasted two point blank shots on the goalkeeper, Gaillardetz. On the third rebound, Tony Conte popped the loose ball into the net.

Less than five minutes later, Providence made it 3-0. Junior midfielder Mike Gilbride showed the crowd exactly why persistence usually pays off. After being robbed on a breakaway by the UNH goalie, Gilbride was not to be denied the second time. After taking a nice pass from freshman Eric LaBranche, Gilbride shot home a perfectly placed crossing to the left of Gaillardetz.

Ferry Keith added a little icing on the proverbial cake. Keith rammed home a kick into the top of the cage after taking a fine crossing pass by Bill Baker. Time of that goal was 42:35.

Peter Chenette had one of the easiest days he will probably ever have. Officially, Chenette finished up with four saves.

Providence College faces a tough week ahead. On Thursday, they play host to the Crusaders of Holy Cross at Glay Field. (3:00) On Saturday, the Friars travel to New Haven to tangle with the powerful Elis of Yale. (11:00 a.m. game time).

Lady Booters Upset RIC

The Lady Friars, led by tri-captains Debbie Blaise, Ann Wendth, and Meg O'Brien, proved that they will keep up the PC winning tradition, as they beat RIC, 4-0, last Wednesday at RIC.

The game was totally dominated by Friar Booters, whose penetration time on the opposing side was astronomical. Goal number one came early in the first half when center Maria Schmidt lofted the ball cover the heads of the defenders to halfback Karen Ford who drove in the goal. After the initial goal, the Friar adrenalin began to flow. The second goal came within minutes of the first, when center Maria Schmidt lofted the ball to winger Amy Dermorderosian who connected to make it 2-0, Lady Friars.

After the half, the Lady Friars definitely had an advantage. They were primed and ready to go. They proved this with a driving play that set up halfback Lynn McDermott for a goal from 30 feet out. She was assisted by Amy Dermorderosian.

The Ladies were not content with just a three-point advantage. They quickly solved that problem with a pretty play where a Friar cornerkick was picked up by halfback Ann Wendth, who passed to the ever-ready Dermorderosian to make it 4-0. This was quite a victory for such a young team up against the well established RIC club.

The next game is scheduled for Saturday, October 4 at 1 p.m. at Glay Field. Come on out, get some fresh air and watch the Lady Booters go against Rhode Island College on our own turf!

THE BIG EAST

Coach Bob Amato and his harriers will be looking for their second straight Big East title this Saturday.

Smith Leads the Way...

Friars Run Past Harvard, UMass

By Kevin Burke

Sweeping home with six of the top eight spots the seemingly invincible Providence College cross-country team outclassed the Crimson of Harvard and the Minutemen of UMass to take the victory in last Tuesday's tri-meet at Franklin Park. The Friar's awesome depth was evident once again as the first five across the line were all within one minute of each other. The victories brought this year's record to 8-0 and extended the winning streak to 77.

Coach Amato's harriers were led to the wire by freshmen Geoff Smith, who toured the 6.2 mile course in 30:26. Irish bred junior's Brendan Quinn and Ray Treacy tied for second place with a time of 30:39, while senior Brian Dillon and sophomore Jimmy Fallon followed with fourth and fifth place finishes, respectively. Also supporting the winning effort were Charlie Breedy (sixth) and Paul Moloney (eighth). Charlie clocked 31:10 and Paul ran an impressive 31:50. With eight rather easy victories under their belt, PC will be put to the first real test of the season when they compete in the second annual Big East Championship race at Franklin Park. Last fall, the Friars won this same race.

However, Amato is well aware of the high caliber of some of this year's runners. "With schools such as Villanova and Georgetown competing, this will be far from a runaway victory. In my opinion, Saturday's race will be the biggest cross-country meet that this area has ever seen," commented Amato. Villanova, new to the Big East this year, should pose the biggest threat to Providence. The Wildcats of Villanova have two of the best college runners in Sydney Maree of South Africa and Amos Korir of Kenya. However, they lack Providence's depth and if all goes well, Amato and company should be able to hold off Villanova. Indeed, this is one race not to be missed. The Friars are right up there with the best in the nation, so support them this Saturday at Boston's Franklin Park.

Sports Note: More information such as race time and directions to Franklin Park will be posted around campus.

X-Country Outdistances Harvard, UMass, Gridders Win Second Straight

Cross-Country
Harvard and UMass were the latest victims of the PC harriers victory juggernaut. British frosh Geoff Smith led a six man barrage as the Friars put six men across the line before the first Harvard runner finished just ahead of Pe's Paul Moloney. This Saturday, it's back up to Franklin Park for the Big East Championships.

Soccer

After a tough 3-2 loss to the University of Rhode Island, the booters got back to their winning ways last Saturday. Parent's Day, by blanking UNH, 4-0. PC

Football

Providence edged Stonehill College on a Parent's Day Saturday afternoon, 14-13. The Friars jumped off to a quick 14-0 lead in the first half, but Stonehill came back fighting in the third quarter.

In the first quarter, Tom Biga broke through defensive line for PC's first points. Later, Steve Lepper connected with Jim Petkewich to make it 14-0. Next

Gridders Slip Past Stonehill, 14-13

By John Brandolino

The Providence gridders picked up their second straight victory Saturday, as they narrowly edged Stonehill College, 14-13. The Friars pushed to an early 14-0 lead until Stonehill came back with two touchdowns—one of which came late in the last quarter. Stonehill had a chance to tie it with an extra-point kick but failed when an offsides penalty placed the snap five yards back.

It was Parent's Weekend and there was a good-sized crowd on hand to watch the gridders at Hendriken field. The visitors have never beaten Providence in the history of the two teams. Senior runningback Tom Biga bulldozed through the defensive line with ease, thanks to the blocking of Steve Fillo, Jim Buchanan, Bob Duffy and all. Once at midfield, quarterback Steve Lepper ran for 30 yards to set up the Friars deep in Stonehill territory. Lepper then connected with Jim Petkewich for a first and ten at the visitors' 10 yard line. Inside the 10 yard line, it was just a matter of time before Biga ran it in for the first Friar touchdown. Tim Hanewich booted the extra-point to make it 17-0. In the next quarter, PC found themselves with good field position after they held Stonehill on a fourth and one situation. Lepper threw one up on third down, and junior receiver Andy Clarke amazingly pulled it down in the midst of numerous defenders. That pass put them on the visitors' 15-yard line. Again, on third down, Lepper faked back and hit Petkewich to give the Friars a 14-0 advantage. Stonehill needed a score before the end of the first half and they got it after recovering a fumbled punt on the PC 3-yard line. This was a lucky break for Stonehill as Dave Burron soon jumped into the endzone. That made it 14-7 at the half.

The second half was a fast paced, back and forth battle.

Stonehill tried desperately to rally, but the PC defense closed in on them time after time. Defensive back Kevin Clare had another amazing game with eight unassisted tackles and two fumble recoveries. Senior line-baker Billy Christianson also excelled with six unassisted tackles and one sack. Finally, late in the third quarter, Stonehill picked up the ball in Friar territory. With the rushing of back Matt Monahan, Stonehill swiftly carried it to in to make it 14-13. The extra-point was good to tie it, but fortunately was called back on an offensive penalty. Again, Stonehill attempted the kick but failed from further out. The clock soon ran out to give Providence the victory.

Lepper completed 7 of 21 for 67 yards and Biga ran 12 times for 42 yards. The Friars look forward to keeping their winning streak going when they play Assumption this Friday night at Johnston High School.

Ruggers Destroy MIT, 20-6

Last Wednesday, the PC Rugby Club put together another dominating victory. The final score was 20-6 with Joe Dolan, Pete Stauffer and Bob Fitzgerald all marching in for scores. These men each scored a "try," a four point play scored when a man runs for the ball across the endline (similar to scoring a touchdown in football). There is a two point conversion attempt after that, two were made in the game.

The Ruggers made a road trip to MIT on Saturday, September 27 where the "A" team lost a tough game. This loss was to a team comprised mainly of graduate students from Great Britain. These men average about six years experience in the sport. Based on this game, one could make a good judgment on the quality of Rugby exhibited by the PC squad.

The "B" team, however, led by an amazing 12 point contribution by Duffy Finan, destroyed MIT, 32-0.

There will be a select Rugby game, made up of local All-Stars on Wednesday, October 1. This game, which matches the All-stars against a team from South Africa, might be played on Raymond Field (the location is still undetermined as of September 27). Joe Haley, Mike Corrigan, and Steve Kirby were selected to play for the All-stars. The next PC game will be held on Saturday, October 4, on Raymond Field.

Friar Netmen Capture E.C.A.C. Title

The PC men's tennis team competed September 19, 20, and 21 at Rider College in New Jersey and came away with an impressive ECAC Division II team title.

Leading the way for the Friars were number one singles winner Bill Donadio and number two doubles champions Chris Dittmar and Steve Chatfield. Donadio, using a strong serve and volley game, breezed through the early rounds without much difficulty, highlighted by a big victory over nationally ranked Bill Notar of St. John's in the semi-final.

Coach Jacques Faulise had nothing but high praise for Donadio's game, citing his ability to "consistently play the aggressive game when it was necessary. I've always known Bill to be a high caliber player and his performance this weekend proved that point."

The doubles combination of Chris Dittmar and Steve Chatfield were also successful in their matches. Said Chatfield, "The first couple of matches were tougher than we had expected, but we played well considering this was our first time together as a team in tournament competition."

"There was no doubt in our minds that we could play well as a team, but it just took time getting used to each other's game. Once we did, we were able to win the crucial points consistently when the pressure was on," added Dittmar.

Coach Faulise also stated his belief that this year's squad displays depth and is able to use that strength against such a strong field of teams. "Any tournament that has squads from Furdham, St. John's and Vassar is going to be tough. When you lose a player of Peter Lyons' ability, your team has got to make up for it and we did with our doubles strength. We have a couple of freshmen who played well at the ECAC's. That gave us a big point in the team standings," referring to Mike Curran and Mike Griffin.

The Friars look forward to a busy schedule this fall. Following a September 26 match at Bentley, the team will travel the weekend of October 4 to Princeton, New Jersey and represent Division II in the ECAC Division I Championship and October 17, 18, and 19 for tournament action to be held at URI. PC will hold the Rhode Island Intercollegiate Championships October 24, 25 and 26.

Between tournament action the team faces dual matches with the likes of Brown, URI, Boston College, Connecticut College, Fairfield and Concordia. The netmen will conclude their season with a trip to Canada to compete in the Rouge Et Or Tournament held in Quebec City.

Coach Faulise believes this year's squad has a very good chance of doing as well if not better than last year's third place finish at the Big East. "It's we play like we did at the ECAC's, we will have to be considered a team to be reckoned with."

Sports Briefs

game is Friday night against Assumption. Game time is 7:30 p.m. at Johnston High School.

Tennis

The men's tennis team, led by the play of Bill Donadio and the doubles combo of Steve Chatfield and Chris Dittmar, recently captured the ECAC title down in New Jersey. Coach Faulise feels that this year's team could fare as well, if not better in the Big East match in October. The Friars will travel back down to Jersey this weekend for the ECAC finals.
