

Proteomic characterization of sperm radial spokes identifies a novel spoke protein with an ubiquitin domain

|                              |                                                                                   |
|------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 著者                           | Satouh Yuhkoh, Inaba Kazuo                                                        |
| journal or publication title | FEBS letters                                                                      |
| volume                       | 583                                                                               |
| number                       | 13                                                                                |
| page range                   | 2201-2207                                                                         |
| year                         | 2009-07                                                                           |
| 権利                           | (C) 2009 Federation of European Biochemical Societies                             |
| URL                          | http://hdl.handle.net/2241/103255 |

doi: 10.1016/j.febslet.2009.06.016

Fig. 1 Satouh and Inaba

Fig. 2 Satouh and Inaba

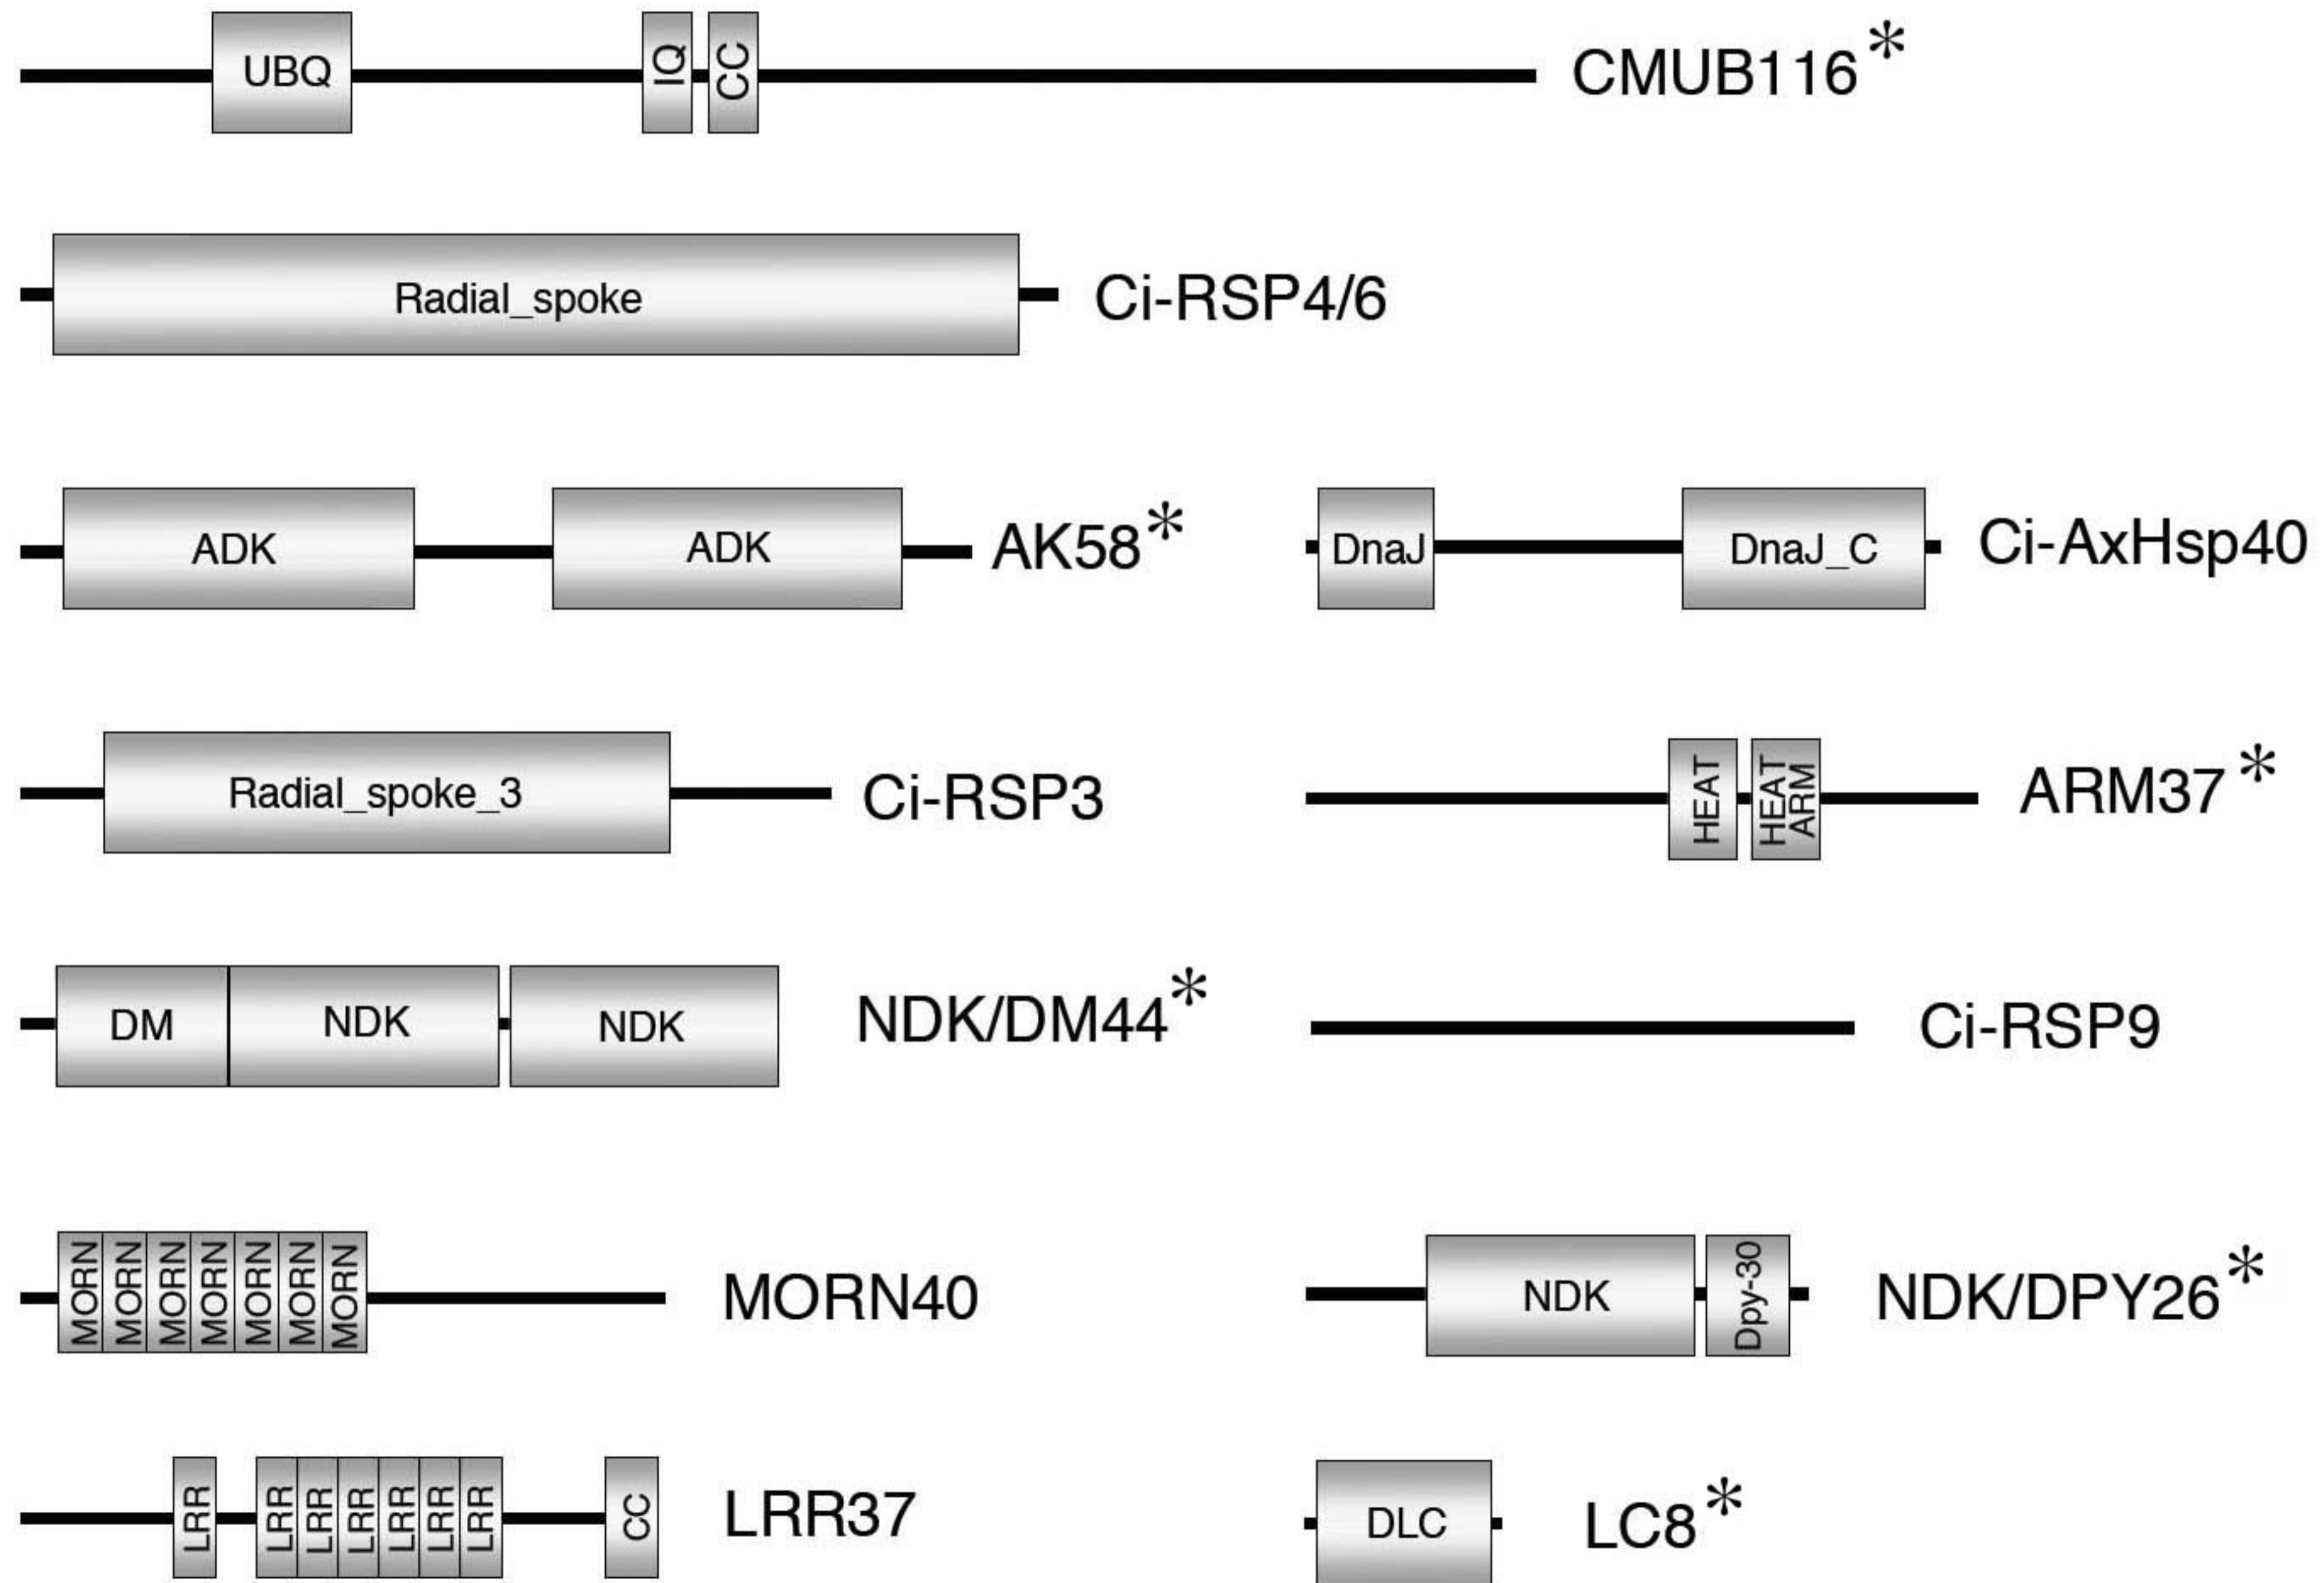

Fig. 3 Satouh and Inaba

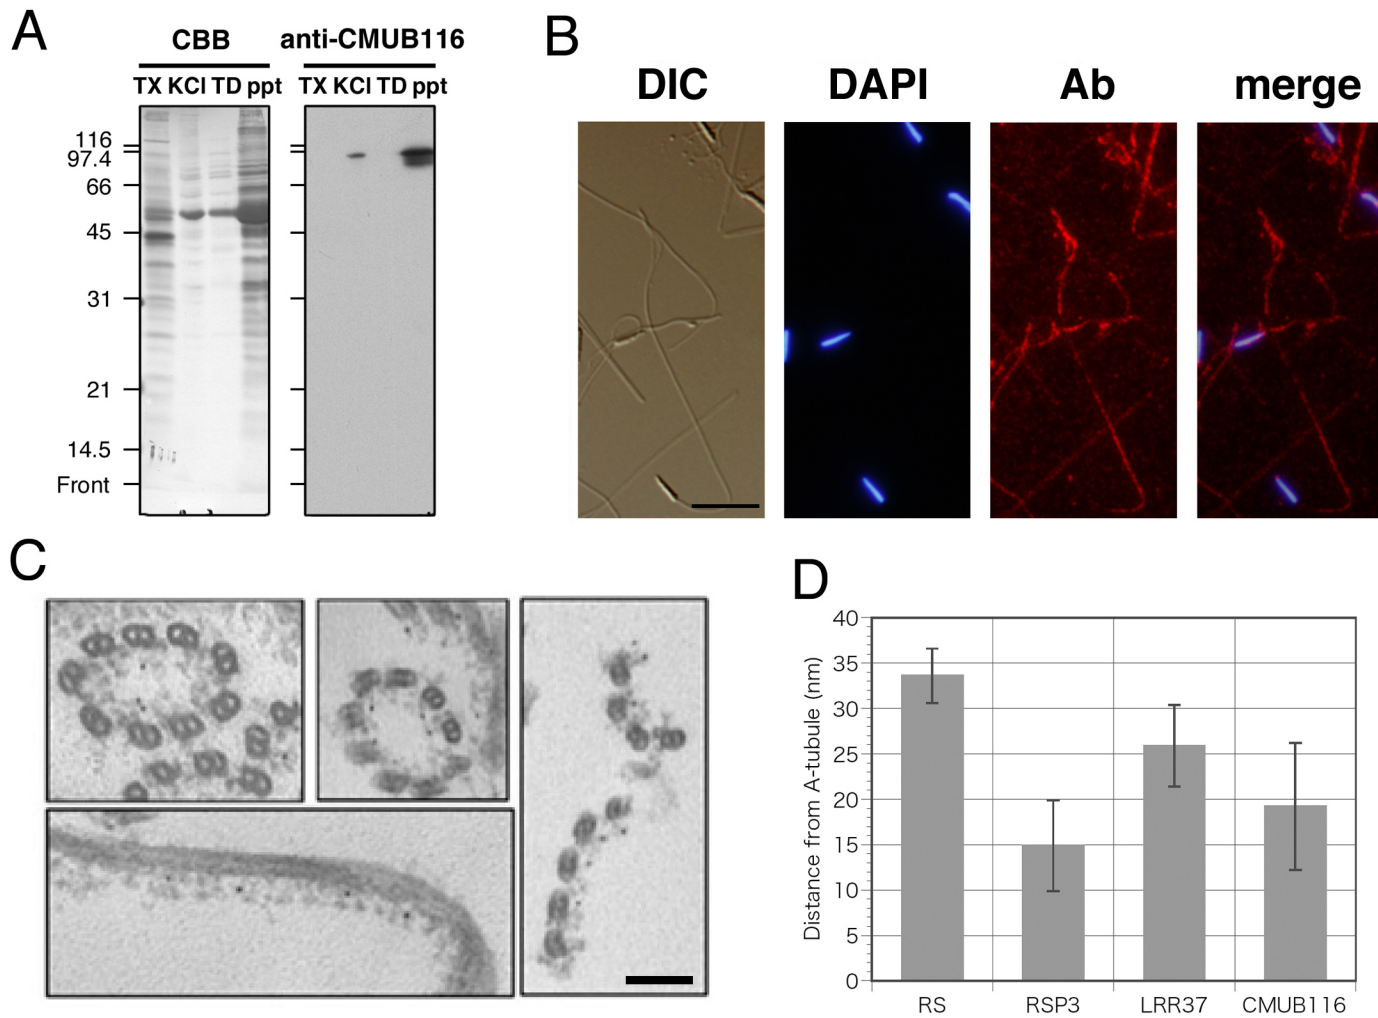

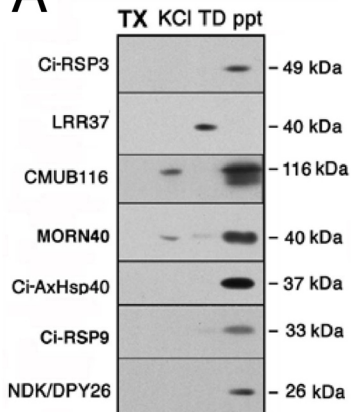

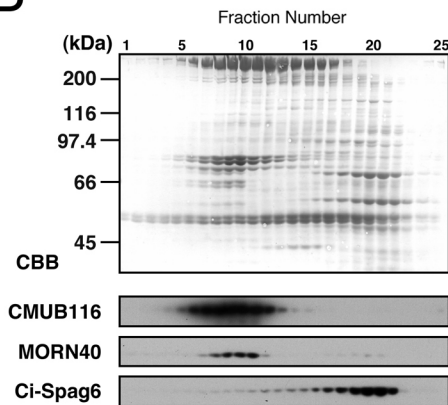

Fig. 4 Satouh and Inaba

A

B

C

D

E

