inter | action

We dream a dream and wonder if anyone else dreamed the same dream . . .

We think a thought and look around for someone else who has thought the same thought . . .

When we find him, we find a part of ourselves, someone with whom to share ideas, someone to help answer our questions . . . relieve our doubts.

We search for him when studies get us down . . . when fears and worries wear us thin. We search for him when a new revelation comes to us and we share it . . . giving of ourselves . . . becoming more complete.

All we did was speak and a similar heart heard. Friendship becomes more than the bummed cigarette or borrowed car.

All this just because we spoke . . . and shared the most precious of all . . . our minds.

President's Message

Dr. and Mrs. Woodward in their living room.

To the Members of the Class of 1952:

College is sometimes regarded as a preparation for life. True, a college education, wisely ordered and seriously pursued, can be an important part of one's preparation for a career.

On the other hand, I prefer to think of college not simply as preparation for life, but as an important part of life itself. The student who reaps the greatest benefit from four years of college is not the one who enrolls with the sole objective of self-gain. He benefits most from college experience who seeks to give of himself as a responsible member of the university community, as a campus citizen, dedicating a share of his time and his effort to advance the best interests of the university.

The GRISTS as they appear from year to year are the annals which record the activities of our university community. These pages reflect the diversity of interests and of activities which together comprise student life on a typical American land-grant university campus. Peruse this volume and you will understand what I mean when I say that college is not only a preparation for life, but an important segment of life itself.

For sixty years your alma mater has been growing from small and humble beginnings to its present stature and vigor. You have had part in its development and during your undergraduate years you have seen it reach the status of a full-fledged university.

Here is the record of rich and rewarding years on this campus. You will treasure their memory as long as you live. These pages will always stand as reminders of a period in your life which gave you self-confidence, breadth of view, understanding of your fellow men, and faith in the future.

Faithfully yours,

Carl R. Woodward

we did it, we finally finished the book! Don't think we didn't have our apprehensions. How many weeks was it that we slept restlessly, dreaming of bad copy, lost photos, trying to match names to unfamiliar group pictures, and actually seeing visions of selling apples to pay off our creditors?

After pawing through fashionable magazines for interesting layouts and planning scented quilted covers for the girls and tobacco pouch covers for the boys, we were foiled by a good realistic talk with our printer, engraver, cover maker, photographer and business managers, and quietly, ears down, we put our expensive, eccentric ideas in the circular file . . . But, as Coach Kopp said, "Here I am", and here we are.

SENIORS

A black and white photograph of a park. The scene is filled with large, mature trees with dense foliage. A path or road winds through the trees, leading towards the background. The lighting is soft, suggesting a slightly overcast day. The overall mood is serene and quiet.

Class Advisor—Mr. Kenneth Mairs

Class Advisor's Message

On those rare occasions when the class advisor happens to be an engineer, it might be expected that his greeting would be phrased in exponentials or quantum mechanics. And well it might be today in these confused times when the unusual has become almost commonplace and the usual almost unheard of. However, I choose a simpler form and one that has not lost its sincerity for all it has been used.

This is no comment to be confused, afraid or disappointed; look the future in the eye and do something about it. This is a moment when serious thought, firm decision and courageous determination can mean a happier world in which to live. The faculty of your University hopes that in your stay with us during the last four years, we have encouraged you to think, counselled you in making wise decisions and explained the value of determination. These talents are much more important than exponentials and quantum mechanics. If you have gained some appreciation of them our relationship has been a success. Our best wishes go with you.

When you see the flashing batons, gleaming instruments, white leather boots of the attractive majorettes, and the bright blue and white uniforms, the Rhody Band is on Parade. New doors swing open —

New opportunities, new ideas and new experiences to be shared among a new group of girls. From four members, they have grown to "down the line pilgrimage" proportions. With the growing membership has come inspiration for an interesting project and the achievement of high levels of scholastic standing. Although fashion magazines and historic novels crowd the textbooks off their desks, still the high marks keep rolling in. Their fresh young spirit closes them in a common bond and promises a successful future.

This year the fraternity improvement cup tops our mantle. We'll keep trying and keep winning for TEP.

Take your pick ladies, what will it be? — hockey, riflery, tennis, softball, basketball, volleyball, or modern dance. The Women's Athletic Association, led this year by Joan Blease, offers all these sports to our women athletes. Barbara Good had the job

Outstanding Women Athletes

Jim Thorpe! Knute Rockne! Babe Ruth! Movies have been made, histories have been written, and their names are on the lips of every sports enthusiast. But what about the great women athletes that this country has produced? Do they acquire the proper recognition that is due them?

This year we have taken it upon ourselves to do something about this dire situation, so into the women's gym office we went to dig out the hidden potentialities of our female students, and after many difficult weeks of deliberation, we decided upon the names of Avis Buxton, Doris Atkinson, and Pat Heath with Barbara Johnson and Eleanor Phillips as close runners-up.

These girls have made their four years at the University of Rhode Island ones of enthusiastic participation in many fields of activity. They are familiar figures on the baseball diamond, outstanding participants in field hockey, dexterous with a tennis racket, agile on the basketball court, lithe in a pair of leotards, limber with a badminton racket, and able to handle a volleyball with precision. For instance, have you ever seen Avis' elusiveness on the hockey field? It is a dramatic moment as all eyes watch her keep that ball effectively away from her opponents for a 30 yd. span, then, one powerful drive and the ball smashes through the goalie's legs and into that cage! For her continuous work in field hockey, Avis was sent to hockey camp in 1950. Her interest in other sports have been contributing factors in helping her to win a shield, key, and finally her jacket.

On the basketball court, we have another sport enthusiast, Doris Atkinson, who handles the ball with precision control as she swiftly covers the court. But wait — look out for that form — it's tricky. One would think that her unorthodox style would be detrimental to her game, but her form belies its effect and quicker than the eye, she drops them in, clean as a whistle. Doris also has proven herself an all-round athlete and for her achievements she too, has earned her shield, key, and jacket, a difficult goal for any girl to attain. On the archery field, Pat Heath is URI's gift to Sherwood forest, and she too, for being proficient in many other sports, was awarded her jacket in her junior year.

Perhaps the reason that these girls have attained such heights in the field of sports is that besides being dynamic leaders, they follow instructions intelligently and are irreplaceable pals on any team.

Half time

When twenty-two young ladies are thrown together in a small area approximately 100 yards by 25, one can expect either a jabbering gab fest or a jumble of arms and legs. Except for a few whacks at opponent's ankles and desperate body blocks, URI girls manage to keep the game of field hockey a favorite.

Basketball, another favorite, gets under way as soon as it gets too dark to see the hockey ball, and with this sport, the skill of each player is observable at close range. Interest in the games reach fever pitch as the final play offs approach and Lippitt gym is often lined with spectators and rooters, "screaming on" their team. Grunts, groans, and screams are heard, as the floors of Lippitt sway under the weight of sixteen avid volleyball enthusiasts eagerly straining to keep the ball from touching the floor. As the shouts of "let ball", "two hands," "side out", and sometimes "point", are called, one realizes that the inter-house and inter-class competition provides spirited, but good-natured rivalry. As March approaches, badminton racquets and birdies are dusted off, ready for the annual tournament. Long unused arm muscles suddenly go to work and then the aches begin. An active game for speedy players, badminton leads the way for the more robust game of tennis.

High stepping

Game's over —

As much a part of college equipment as the Frosh beanie or chem lab manual is the inevitable tennis racquet, put to good use by tennis enthusiasts as soon as the first warm day rolls around. There's something about springtime and a wooden frame that gets the girls up at 6:00 A.M. for a "fast one". URI may yet produce a Gussie Moran.

Added to the women's physical education program is a new unit . . . Modern Dance, established for those interested in keen body coordination and control, training in rhythms and dance mood. This activity has increasingly become more popular; so much so, that leotards become standard equipment replacing the traditional white shorts.

Talking about shorts . . . don't be seen on the archery field with anything but a fringed suede shirt.

TRACK

Opening the season with an overpowering victory over P. C., the Rams went forward to win the Yankee Conference crown by a wide margin, and placing a very strong second in the N. E. Championship meet at Springfield.

With Harvard, R. I. lost their only dual meet, but a winning toss by Marv Broomfield in the javelin was the deciding factor for the defeat of Springfield. Elements against us, Al Wiley's top performance of 9.6 seconds 100 yard dash was discounted because of heavy tailwinds, but all other events helped compensate for that disappointment. Ups come — downs come, but we still reign over the mighty Springfield Indians.

They're off in the Brown mile —

Seventeen straight years — and the Rams again whipped the Brown Bears in the last meet of the 1951 season on the windswept countryside of Meade Field. Overall strength in field events with the victories of Wiley and Lister accounted for the easy win.

R. I. remained undefeated in Yankee Conference competition with an overwhelming 61 point total with Ted Myers establishing a record in the shot while Wiley suffered his first defeat of the season and Linne continued a winner in the pole vault.

An invaluable contribution to the success of the Cross Country team was the eligibility of Freshmen who showed their stuff this fall as top varsity performers.

In his final performances, Ray Lister captured first in three, and second in the other three of six dual meets, while Rocco Negris, the only other upperclassman in the first five, was a consistent runner-up. Frosh, Anton, Tremblay, Smith and the Conde twins turned in fine performances as the squad defeated Springfield, Fordham, Brown, UConn and Harvard, B. C. and Holy Cross in a quadrangular meet. They also were the top New England team in the IC4A in New York.

Performances of Gerry Ferreira in the high jump and Bob Linne's "the sky's the limit" vaulting highlighted the winter track. Indoor meets returned home for the first time since 1935 as the Rams met Harvard and Fordham on our new board track.

FOOTBALL

Saturday afternoon football, highlight of the fall calendar, at its finest in 1951 as a new era overcame the college community with the arrival of Coaches Hal Kopp and Ed Doherty. After bringing the Rams to victory in three of eight contests and before returning to Uncle Sam, Kopp initiated a selling campaign which brought a record number of frosh potentials into the hands of Ed Doherty in the fall of 1951.

Coach Ed Doherty

Doherty, a former All-American quarterback at Boston College and head coach at Arizona State College at Tempe, went right to work to develop a fast hard-fighting club. The cry of "Beat Brown" immediately became the battle cry as the green freshmen fought hard to gain a spot on the varsity and prove their ability as good football material.

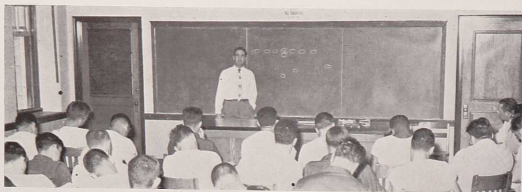

After many long hours of fall practice and two previous losses, the Rams ran aginst an undefeated New Hampshire and proceeded to set them back, 27-0 . . . preview of the season to come.

Drive, drive, drive

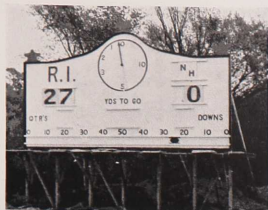

The Yankee Conference declaration of eligibility of Freshmen had its effect on football as over 85 candidates reported to Coach Doherty in the fall, giving URI a giant share of Rhode Island high school ball players. As the men reported they received their room assignments and equipment and went right to work with both mental and physical drills. This was the beginning, as Doherty taught them how to play football and play it hard.

Oh, no!

Facing the Goliath of the Yankee Conference, the Rhode eleven had their second home encounter with New Hampshire's undefeated team in nine starts and a favorite to repeat their role this year. Under the guidance of Sophomore Ed Fratto, the Rams forgot their record with Pat Abbruzzi running wild and Herm Grabert on the receiving end of two fine passes.

Trouble ahead for Pina

It was an even contest by game time at Brown and there was a hint of an upset in the "Press" as the Bears looked shaky in their first two starts. With 84 seconds remaining in an as-predicted upset, the Bears took possession after a Rhody gamble and broke the 13-13 tie. Despite the seven point margin it was a great victory for the Rams as the cry went up "Beat Brown in '52".

Prior to the victory over New Hampshire and near miss at Brown the Rams had lost two games to Northeastern and Maine. Confident of victory over the Massachusetts Redmen, Rhody received their hardest setback at Amherst in a wide-open contest. The Springfield Indians were the Homecoming visitors and got off to a 19-7 lead at half-time in a sea of mud. Sparked by Art Roche, the Rams came back to soak out a victory with freshmen, Dick Gough and Bill Daly, running through the wide-open Springfield line. Mayor Willie Gerstenblatt dressed for the game and was ready for action, but his services were not required.

Basketball

"When they were good they were very, very good . . . when they were bad, they were horrid" — In that short phrase can be summed up the 1951-52 University basketball campaign, full of many close and see-saw contests which saw the Rams in either side of the winning margin. However, Rodman Hall never reached the hanging from rafters stage as in past seasons, although the Hairemen played their best brand of ball against UConn, Providence, Penn State, Boston College and St. Joseph's in the confines of the cracker box. No longer were they invincible at home as proven by Springfield et al.

Billy hit 1000

The starting 5 in action

But the fans had the spirit as the stamping of feet and the cues of "Roll it up" produced totals over the century mark. Bill Baird scored his 1000th point against P. C. as Fred Congleton poured in 36 points in the same contest keeping close behind Bill in their scoring spree. Co-captains Ed Hole and Chuck Steward wound up their collegiate careers playing on a New England all-star team against the famed Harlem Globetrotters.

Opening the season with St. Joseph's, the Rhody quintet dropped the first of thirteen losses in an overtime contest. Rhode Island basketball famed for the fast-break, drew national attention as Marty Glickmen and Bert Lee delivered a play by play broadcast from Kingston over the nation's largest network as Boston College set back URI for its second loss. Internationally, Kingston fans enjoyed the spirited play of a touring Puerto Rican squad which displayed some of the fastest and shortest players in present day basketball.

And the "Mente" speaks

By the end of the fall semester the traditional Holy Cross game ended five points of an upset, the journey to Madison Square Garden was a memory, the accurate shooting of Springfield's Alan Shutts had been felt — Boston College escaped a close call — New Hampshire and Vermont had felt the sting of southern New England and UConn was upset at Rodman.

The Huskies, up from Storrs, were a strong pre-game favorite and quickly rolled ahead of the slowing Rams. Coming back in the second half, a zone defense and a fast breaking attack led by Congleton, Baird and Rossi closed the gap as Dan Dunn knotted the count in the final seconds. Playing to the frenzy of the crowd the miracle lads out-scored and out-fought the Huskies in overtime play. Only through the extreme efforts of Hank Soar, referee did the game end in control.

Roll it up

Dreams To Reality

Successive losses to St. Joseph's and Bucknell followed quickly by victories over P. C. and Mass State opened the second semester. With the Yankee Conference virtually ours, the boys of blue were set-back by New Hampshire and a UConn victory on Yokabaskas night gave the crown to the Huskies. Brown whipped a cockey five in Providence before the Hairemen caught fire again to defeat P. C. and Brown for the state title.

Although winning only three of their eight matches, the netmen were able to gain victories over New Hampshire and Connecticut to become the top team in the Yankee Conference. Inclement weather was a discouraging factor throughout the season. Bob Love and Ed Hole, outstanding men on the team, developed into one of the top New England doubles combinations. Al Pinheiro progressed rapidly throughout the season and combining with Jerry Loeber as the second doubles team, went undefeated.

The Salt Pond boathouse became a spring and fall haven for many R. I. skippers as sailing increased throughout the campus. Navigated by Commodore Had Gately, the sailing teams took active part in the NEICSA, sailing varied regattas in home and distant waters.

Co-Captain Ira Murphy

Despite the efforts of "ole man winter" to keep the Ram-nine penned in, the warm spring breeze brought a twenty-six man squad out of the "Rodman infield" conditioning for the road ahead. Returning for their final season were Co-Capts. Ira Murphy and "Weeping" Ray Mansolillo aided by "Jolting" Joe McElroy and Joe "Hustles" Gulizio.

Opening day placed the Rams in direct opposition to the big bats of Brown. In a thrill-packed contest on the "Polar" field the Rams dropped a twelve inning 5-4 squeaker to the Bears, in ideal football weather. In spite of these adverse conditions the game took the shape of a mid-season pitcher's duel. But as the season grew older the lack of a winning battery combination and the ineffectiveness of "Rookies" took their toll.

This is how it's done . . .

Pitch to me baby

Power plus —

Sharing the mound roles throughout the season were John Varone, Dick Malafonte, Rocco Negriz and Ray Jusczyk, while on the receiving end were Bob DiSpirito and Ken Panciera, but Coach Paladino was unable to formulate a winning combination. As the season came to a close the Paladino men were on the short end of a seven and ten record.

Following the opening engagement the team built up a three game winning streak including an outburst of power over Boston University, a shutout at Maine and a 3-2 retaliation at Brown. Billy Servant and Ira Murphy were the powers at the plate as the diamond men showed perfect form in placing heads-up ball. Time, by hitting, errorless fielding, speed on the base-path, hit and run and squeeze me home, all played an important role in a polished beginning.

Strike

Co-captain "Weepy" Ray

Suffering bad breaks, failing to hit in the clutches plus the loss of the early season polish pushed the Rams to the .300 mark as they lost nine of the remaining thirteen games. Highlights of the season to be remembered are: Jim Murray's triple play against Boston College, a fast moving Rhubarb filled with punch — and pushing at Bates, an unexpected arrival of Springfield at Kingston for a game scheduled on the Indians reservation, winning squeeze play tomahawked Massachusetts' Redmen, the 22 hit bombardment of Northeastern and the constant struggle to adjust to the playing conditions of the new diamond, avoiding steel girders, drainage ditches, and the constant glare from the ever-present baby blue convertible.

Fiji's can hustle

Football under the arc-lamps bore the brunt of fraternal friendship in the fall, as Theta Chi and Phi Gam conquered their respective opponents to meet in the championship contests. In typical gashouse style the Fiji's went down in defeat in the last minutes as Joe Gulizio sparked the victors. Phi Mu grabbed the football meet before the grueling Cross Country race took its toll. Russ Mulvey led the pack in a new record time as his teammates followed for an SAE crown. Returning again to Rodman the friendly feuds continued as kegs were lost and gained. The Fiji's climbed into the winner's circle after a torrid junior N. I. C. T. tourney. The Phi Mu's were the eagle eyes of the campus in free throws while volleyball and wrestling took over the interim.
