Architect Chosen For New Campus

Idealized campus layout submitted by the architectural firm of J. Robert Hillier. This is only a tentative layout of the proposed buildings, and not in any way a final design.

The Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees of Bryant College has named the architectural firm of J. Robert Hillier, Architect, as designer of master plan phase I of the Tupper Campus. J. Robert Hillier is a Princeton, New Jersey, based firm that has to its credit the planning of buildings for Drew University, Fairleigh Dickinson University, and Rutgers University, among others.

Mr. Hillier met this week with the members of the long-range campus planning committee to discuss the services performed by his firm. This committee is composed of four members of the Board of Trustees, with Dr. Hoslett, Dr. Mercier, Mr. Delmonico, and Mr. William Smith representing the administration; and Mr. Boulet, Mr. Clark, Mr. Reynolds, and Mr. Manion representing the faculty. The committee is also composed of four ex-officio members; Dr. Jacobs, Mr. Hagan, Mr. Cedergren, and Mrs. Hochberg.

Advising the committee are Administrative and Faculty Department Heads, in consultation with members of their respective departments, and by a Student Committee consisting of John Horton, Donald Dutcher, Meredith Fetter, Douglas Hazlett, and Robert Munro. Mr. Hillier has stated that members of his firm will take up residence in Providence while the master plan is being drawn up. This will insure constant lines of communication between the architect and all members of the Bryant College community. Work on master plan phase I will begin immediately and run until approximately June 1. If work proceeds as anticipated, it is possible that occupancy of the new campus may take place by the fall of 1971 or 1972.

One of Mr. Hillier's basic proposals is to divide the campus into three sectors; live, learn, and play. This can be seen in the idealized layout of the campus appearing on page one. It should be noted that this is merely a tentative layout, and not in any way a set design. President Hoslett has repeatedly stressed that the final decision on the plan will be the result of the collective judgment of the entire Bryant community.

Coordinating the living and recreational aspect of planning is Dean William C. Smith. Under this heading falls the planning of dormitory and gymnasium facilities and other related areas. Dr. Mercier will coordinate all planning in the area of academics. The faculty will meet with Dr. Mercier, yet at the same time will meet independently with their respective department chairmen. Administrative planning and related services will come under the direction of Mr. Frank Delmonico. Mr. Joseph H. Hagan, Director of Planning and Development, will be overall coordinator of the project, reporting to the Chairman of the Board of Trustees and the President.

Youth Fare To Be Abolished - Unless . . .

By Lynne Gittes

Well, here you are, at Hills-grove yielding a large ungainly suitcase. You have $20 and a youth-fare identification card in your pocket. It's Spring recess; the dormitories are closed. You have planned on catching a one o'clock plane that gets you into Washington, D.C., at two. Your parents have made special arrangements to be able to meet you. You make your way to the ticket counter where you are informed in twenty-five words or less that youth fare has been abolished. Where do you turn next?

Unfortunately, this may be the fate for students at Bryant as well as those from colleges and universities all over the United States. Complaints by several bus companies concerning reductions in plane fares for youthful travelers have been forthcoming for some time. The Civil Aeronautics Board at first refused to consider the complaints, but last year National Trailways Bus System, a trade association of bus companies and TCO Industries, Inc., won a Federal court order requiring the CAB to investigate. The bus concerns assert that youth discounts unfairly discriminate against nonyouthful airline travelers.

Airline figures show the majority of youth-fare passengers are in their late teens, and about 75% are college students. The users themselves overwhelmingly endorse the discounts, of course. The airlines say most full-fare customers don't begrudge the youths their discounts although a small minority do gripe, but a large percentage of this minority do not argue with the price system—only with the personal appearance of some of the youthful travelers. Supporters of the youth discounts say the fares aren't discriminatory because everybody is young sometime and therefore eligible. Moreover, the youth fares are profitable and increase total traffic, thereby holding down all ticket prices. More important, some airlines assert that today's youth-fare traveler may be tomorrow's full-fare passenger.

U. S. airlines are split on the issue. Of the 24 carriers offering the youth discounts, 14 support them and 10 either oppose them or take no position.

The most urgent point to be made here is that Mr. Arthur Present's (CAB examiner) decision to abolish youth fare is final and unless the Board decides to review the decision it will become effective in 30 days. (February 21)

To urge the CAB to consider reviewing the youth-fare situation, students can direct comments to:

Is Providence College Afraid Of Bryant?

IS PROVIDENCE COLLEGE AFRAID OF BRYANT?

The time has come to expose one of the most shameful episodes in Rhode Island sports history. Simply put, the truth is this: The "great" Providence College basketball team is scared to death to compete with the state's leading small college team.

BRYANT COLLEGE!

You want proof? Okay—Why haven't they ever challenged Bryant College to a match? I'm sure the team and student body is more than willing to accept such a challenge. But like the "smart" politician who will not accept a challenge to debate a younger, more aggressive opponent for fear of defeat, so Providence College looks the other way and pretends that Bryant does not exist.

Students of Bryant! Loyal Alumni! Begin an aggressive campaign NOW to force this "paper tiger" to put their reputation on the line against Rhode Island's No. 1 team—Bryant College! Picket P.C.! Run motorcades with appropriate signs through the P.C. campus! Write letters to your congressmen! ACT NOW!

Fanatically yours,

Do Independents Misunderstand Greek Pledge Activities?

Dear Mr. Editor:

Each year as the pledge period begins on the Bryant College campus, the cry of the outraged independent appears in this paper. The Greeks are unceasingly amazed that people who know nothing of what a fraternity means or does can so confidently condemn the pledging process and the fraternal system itself.

It is an unfortunate fact that pledging cannot be understood by someone who has never experienced it. Admittedly, to an outsider, pledging may look like a brutal and senseless procedure. However, the fact of the matter is quite different. The purpose of pledging is to bring the pledge class together among themselves and to assimilate them into the fraternity.

We feel that through the pledge period we create a situation where a pledge must help and depend on his pledge brothers. We think that just one instance of a pledge holding out his hand or his heart to another pledge in need of help, is worth more than any platitudes which can be expressed on brotherhood.

We do not feel that ruling a pledge to obtain from the use of foul language or alcohol is something that will permanently damage his character or the name of this school. But the most important factor and the reason for pledging is that after we, the brothers, hold out our hands to help a pledge, and they in turn hold out a hand to help another pledge, there is a bond built up between us. We know each other as only brothers do. We have what we feel is as close to the Greek ideal of brotherhood as possible.

To explain the pledge process is difficult, and to understand it if you have not experienced it is even more difficult. I feel sure that next year another article on the terrors of pledging will appear in the pages of this paper. However, I would give this word of advice to those who condemn us. Do not condemn the Greek system and hope for its extermination, because when brotherhood between individuals is extinguished, man will have lost a battle against himself.

Name withheld

Dear Name Withheld:

Speaking of platitudes and generalization—you might be wise to consider a few facts about the writer of the—editorial entitled, "The Fall of The Greeks."

Do I know nothing of fraternity living—I doubt. Two years ago, at another college, I participated in a program through to the point of activation, at which point I transferred to Bryant. My pledge activities, unlike here at Bryant, lasted the entire semester—not that this fact has a bearing on the discussion at hand. I have been a part of the system, and I know how it functions. I fully understand the unifying purposes behind pledging, and I am sure that there is more than one way to skin a cat. The ultimate goal can and ought to be reached by other means.

I have no intention of bringing on the extinction of the system—I doubt that I can. My remarks may serve only to insight individuals to prove me wrong. The system of pledging as it exists today is faulty and could easily be corrected through re-direction.

And so, to you unknown writer, before making generalizations, be sure to check your facts.

The Case of the Floating Coffin

Claude Pricewell was awakened from his light sleep by the conductor's monotone voice droaning out "Dinkleville . . . Dinkleville, this stop is Dinkleville." Claude arose from his seat and made his way back through the car to the exit and jumped to the station platform.

This was the dream of forty years, to return to Dinkleville, the town of his birth, the one place left in Claude's narrow world where no one hated him.

The train station was older now, and in a terrible state of disrepair. As a matter of fact, it was about to collapse. But still it brought back memories. Claude walked through the station and out to the main street; it was obvious that the station had not seen a traveler in many years.

As Claude walked the old street, he became aware of its absolute desertion. There was no one in sight. There were no barking dogs, or screaming kids, or noisy wagons, or vendors selling their wares; only silence. The street was more grass than pavement, and in many places the years of rain had worn small canyons into the once busy thoroughfare.

Claude turned the corner and passed the village green. But the village green was green no longer. Instead there were brown weeds and stacks of tumbleweed adorning its once neat landscape. This green had seen many happy years. Many parades with their gayly colored marchers and brassy bands had trampled the grass; but no longer.

Claude turned into the street where he once lived. All the houses were still there, just as he had remembered them. But now they were empty, as were all the other houses in town. Many were boarded-up and many were just left open to the elements. It was getting dark now and the empty homes and street took on eerie and shadowy characteristics.

Soon Claude came to his own home. It was empty like the others, and dark. He stood for several moments before attempting to enter. Perhaps he was wondering about the houses' occupants; he had heard nothing from them for at least thirty-five years or more. Finally after prying a board from the front window he managed to gain entry.

He was in the den now. It was different than he remembered. All the furniture was still there, but now it wore sheets and a thick coating of dust. The power was off, and Claude had no matches, so navigating was at best difficult. As he worked his way through the den he noticed a light coming from the living-room. Perhaps it was a reflection from the sun; but that was impossible, for the sun had set ten minutes ago. He entered the livingroom to investigate, and to his shock there was a coffin sitting in the corner of the room with a single candle burning atop it.

As he approached it, the coffin began to arise from the floor and move in a circular motion about him. He was in the middle of the room now; too far from the door to run and too scared to try. The coffin kept getting closer and closer. The circle got smaller and smaller. The situation was getting serious. The coffin was very close now and getting closer. With only a few seconds left before the coffin would be on top of him, Claude did the only remaining thing; he reached into his pocket and pulled out his Smith Brothers Cough Drops, popped one in his mouth, and the coughin' stopped.

McGovern Named Honorary Phi Tau Brother

Congratulations also to Bill McGovern on his becoming an honorary brother of Phi Kappa Tau. We are all very proud to have a man with Bill's attributes in our fraternity.

Congratulations to the basketball team on two victories against Beta and T.E.P. With the talent available Coach Rudy Nicoletti is hoping to have a very victorious season.

As a result of a lot of hard work and planning, Phi Kappa Tau has set up its first Alumni Weekend. Past brothers will be present at our Chapter Installation and will attend an alumni party and banquet in their honor. The brothers are looking forward to the weekend so they can reminisce about the old days when KT first started. The date set for this is the weekend of March 28.

Now that two weeks of pledging have passed, all fraternities will agree that everything is moving smoothly with the new length of the programs instituted. The Phi Tau pledges have been progressing in the strong tradition of KT.

Investment Club Visits Turks Head Club

By Thomas B. Pierce

Five members of the Bryant College Investment Club were guests of Mr. William Sweeney to attend a lecture at the Turks Head Club on Thursday, February 13, at 4 p.m. The Providence Society of Financial Analysts had as their guest speaker Mr. Bradbury K. Thurlow.

Mr. Thurlow has had a long and successful career writing market letters for his clientele and for many years he wrote a column for Forbes Magazine. He is currently Vice President of the brokerage firm of Winslow, Cohe & Stetson in New York City.

Mr. Thurlow has had one of the better "track records" in the art of finding undervalued or out-of-the-way situations. The members who attended found the lecture very informative.

The Investment Club will meet on February 27 to discuss the portfolio of stocks we now have and to discuss the new industry we have chosen. The meeting will be in L-1 at 3:00 p.m.

Sadism Revived

By Paul Sherry

Pledging has begun and the sadists have been revived with nauseating and invigorating spirit. The "lucky" group this year consists of George Apice, Herb Garrett, Ken Indell, Steve Margenson, Steve McLaughlin, Wayne Morra, Bob Moresca, Ernie Santoro and Bill Zilliox. It now appears evident that it should be quite an unforgettable experience and I'm sure they will need all the luck we can wish them, especially going into their final three weeks of "hell". The HOUR is approaching faster than they imagined.

On the sports scene, the infamous x'ers won their 2nd, defeating Phil Epsilon Pi by the amazing score of 68-13.

Due to the snowstorm, companies that were supposed to interview February 10 and 11, have been rescheduled. Please check the Placement Office for the new dates.

Warnings: Students Head For Change

In September the student senate president appointed William Kingsford as chairman of a committee to study the merits of the Warning System here at Bryant College. At the end of last semester a report was delivered to the senate by Senator Kingsford giving the results of his study of similar systems at colleges throughout the northeast. A week ago last Wednesday the executive council of the student senate met and studied Senator Kingsford's report. At this time the executive council formed a proposal which has also been approved by the legislative council of the student senate. The following proposal is being sent to the Administration for approval:

The Warning System is the most controversial topic facing the Student Senate this year. Most students feel that warnings are unnecessary since they do not tell students anything they do not already know. At a dialogue held on November 7, 1968 the Warning System at Bryant College was thoroughly discussed by the faculty, administration, and students. At this time Dean Galski stated that warnings were a time consuming and expensive procedure; however, because of parental interest they must be continued.

The Student Government at Bryant College has found that the majority of students who fail to meet the academic requirements do so in their freshman year. We, therefore, feel that warnings should only be sent to the parents of freshmen and first year transfer students. We feel that by the time a student has reached his sophomore year, he has oriented himself to the full time job of studying for a college degree. At this point the meaning of the warnings become insignificant.

The Warning System is also indirectly responsible for another problem of equal significance. The current rule forces the faculty to administer two tests before the deadline. The warnings often place the student in a situation where he might have two or three tests in one day. This is like using gasoline to put out a fire.

In a survey of twelve New England colleges and universities, it was found that not one of the reporting schools placed

Cut System Explained In Wake of Campus Uproar

This semester at Bryant brought with it the beginning of a new cut policy, a policy few students thought would ever become a reality.

Last week an attack was made on the implementation of this new policy in a front page editorial in the Archway. For the past few weeks students have been confused as to just how this new cut system would work. A history of how this new cut system came about and an explanation of the new policy follows.

Two years ago the Student Senate felt that the taking of attendance, especially in the Junior and Senior years, was questioning the maturity and responsibility of the student. It was at that time that the Senate first made a hasty attempt to abandon the recording of cuts in the Bryant classroom. This proposal was quickly shot down.

This year the Senate once again decided to look into an unlimited cut system for Bryant. Only this time they would use "communication, consensus, and compromise" to see this policy through.

Under the guidance of Lynn Hayden, appointed chairman of this committee by the Senate, a policy was finally formed and accepted by the faculty and administration of the College.

The policy, as stated in a communication from Dr. Schuyler Hoslett, reads as follows:

Semesters 1 and 2

Two weeks of classes per semester, or four cuts from an intersession or summer session class. Overcuts bar student from taking final examination. Where illness or other extenuating conditions justify absences from class, the Dean may grant permission to sit for the examination.

Semesters 3 and 4

Two weeks of classes per semester, or four cuts from an intersession or summer session class. Overcuts subject to same treatment as semesters 1 and 2.

Exception: Students having a cumulative average of 3.00; no limitation except as dictated by the student's good judgment and best interests.

Semesters 5, 6, 7, and 8

No limitation except as dictated by the student's good judgment and best interests.

Exception: Students having a cumulative average below 2.00—subject to the same regulation as semesters 1 and 2.

Absences before and after holidays will be counted as single cuts only.

Why Attendance Is Taken?

Many students question why attendance is still taken when students now have unlimited cuts.

Attendance is taken for several reasons.

1. Students having a cumulative average of 2.00 are limited to cuts equal to two weeks of classes per semester. The Registrar handles the differentiating of those who are allowed and those not allowed cut rather than having the teacher keep a record of certain students and not of others.

2. Administration responsibility to banks, scholarship grantors, state departments of education, as well as the need for information regarding who is and is not attending school, and the necessity of determining the last day of attendance for certain student withdrawals make it necessary that attendance be taken in each class and reported to the Registrar as in the past.

The purpose of this new cut system is not to see who can take the most cuts and still get the highest mark. Therefore, the students shouldn't really care whether attendance is being taken or not. Also, the attendance records go to the Registrar's office and do not remain with the faculty member as they have in the past. Of course the faculty member has every right to keep a list and even if the Administration didn't require that attendance be turned into the office, the faculty member still could take attendance. If he didn't take attendance on paper, certainly he would know if a student was constantly cutting his class without writing the student's name down each time the class met.

It is wrong to think that if you are absent for a good reason, your professor will lower

U.S.S.R. Not For Middle East Peace

By Barry Sapurstein

On Thursday night, General Itzhak Rabin, Israel's Ambassador to the United States, presented an interesting address at Sayles Hall on the Brown University Campus. General Rabin was commander of the Israeli military during the six-day war. He has been at his present post as Ambassador since March of 1968.

General Rabin was born in Jerusalem in 1922. He was taught to be a farmer and at this time enlisted in the underground army during the British Mandate. He started as a guerilla fighter and climbed to rank of Commander of the Israeli military during his twenty-seven year career.

General Rabin presented himself with three questions which in answering he hoped would explain the situation in the Middle East. His first inquiry was to what extent can peace be achieved in the Middle East? Before answering the questions, he clarified some points for the audience. "The Arabs can lose many wars and still survive, but if Israel loses one, she is finished", General Rabin quoted the first Prime Minister of Israel, Mr. Ben Gorian, as saying in explaining that Israel must protect herself at any cost. Peace can only be achieved if the two parties make the peace themselves. A forced peace from the outside will not be a lasting peace—a lasting peace is wanted by the Israelites.

The Israelites want recognition, open boundaries, and a free exchange of thought and ideas with all the countries of the Middle East. General Rabin mentioned that there would not have been a war if the Russian military advisors in Egypt had thought the Arabs would lose the conflict. They were sure the Arab nations would defeat Israel. One of the reasons why peace has not been achieved in the Middle East is that the Soviet Union does not want peace in the Middle East. The Soviet Union wants a political solution short of peace so there will be an ever-constant tension in the Middle East.

The second inquiry, in the absence of realistic prospects for peace—is it possible to prevent war? The Arab nations will not try another war in the near future because they fear another defeat. The Soviet Union would not back another war and the Arab nations will not fight alone. The reason why the Soviet Union will not back the Arab nations is she knows Israel will win the war, and she will not risk another defeat. Israel does not need men or military advisors to help her win a war. The Israeli soldiers do not want another war, they hate war. To avoid future wars, it is their hope to make Israel strong both politically and militarily.

The last inquiry is, to what extent in the absence of peace, living in the shadow of another war during guerilla warfare, will Israel be able to build a good country? Israel wants to build a good country in the Middle East that has both Jewish ideals and Western democratic ideas. The Israelites wonder why the news media just tells about Israel's conflicts with the Arab nations and not about the national programs. She is building schools, factories, irrigating land, and helping herself nationally, but none of this is ever publicized. The Arab nations seized 600,000 refugees and put them in camps. They do not support these people; the United Nations supports them. Eighty percent of this money comes from the United States. The Arab nations also confiscated land and wealth of 400,000 rich refugees. About 100,000 of these people moved into Israel. Israel allows its refugees to live in Israel or return to the Arab nations. Israel wants to help the refugees in the camps, but she cannot take them into Israel since she is such a small nation.

Israel does not need the Arab

By Sheldon D. Schwartz
 Last Monday, Delta Omega Professional Society held its third dinner-speaker meeting of the school year and was happy to welcome as its guest speaker Mr. Allen L. Kaplan, a representative from Zayre Corporation. In 1965 Mr. Kaplan began his employment with the Zayre Corporation as an Internal Auditor. Before the year had ended, he became a Senior Internal Auditor responsible for the opening of new stores, the training of new store personnel, and the maintaining of operational policies within the stores. As of 1966, Mr. Kaplan has been in Personnel Administration where his duties are varied. Mr. Kaplan's talk was directed toward the Discount Store Industry with emphasis placed on the inner-workings of Zayre Corporation itself. He commenced with a short history of Zayre, stating that the first store was established in 1956 at Hyannis, Mass. In 1956 the company grew to six stores, in 1964 to sixty-four stores, and has since developed into a chain of 131 stores doing a volume of $500 Million. He stressed the success which discount stores have encountered within the last decade and cited the population trend as the prime reason. The migration of people into suburbia has made the discount store convenient as a one-stop shopping venture. The success of Zayre's,

Mr. Kaplan explained, was due largely to its proper time of entry into the industry, the type of merchandise which it sells, and its attractive prices. Zayre stores carry hard and soft lines made especially for Zayre's and a mix of popular brands. In addition, no defective merchandise or "seconds" make up any part of Zayre's Soft Goods Inventory. Mr. Kaplan next explored some of the operational aspects of his company. He noted that unlike many conventional retail department stores, Zayre stores do not have Merchandise Managers, Promotion men, Buyers, Assistant Buyers, etc. Rather, its organizational chart consists primarily of a store manager, Assistant Store Manager, and Department Managers. The entire operation of the store, including Merchandising and Promotion is the responsibility of the Store Manager. All buying, however, is done centrally — that is, for all stores at once. This ordering in vast quantities is what enables Zayre's, and other discount chain stores, to offer such low prices for their merchandise. Zayre's orders Merchandise by a computerized register system. When goods are sold, the cashiers ring out a computerized punch tape which records the type, quantity, and style number of the goods leaving the store. The tapes of each store are sent to the main headquarters and fed into computers which tabulate the merchandise sold and determines the total quantity of merchandise to be reordered for the entire chain. This process is also called the Automatic Replenishment System. Mr. Kaplan concluded his speech by giving an outlook for the future of Zayre Corporation. Its rapid expansion has made it impossible for the growing number of stores to operate under one central office. It plans, therefore, to follow an organization very much similar to that of Sears and Roebuck Co. which has regional centers located in different sections of the country. By 1971 it is expected that Zayre's will have established ten such regional centers, each being responsible for the profits of the stores in its area. Our speaker painted a very bright picture for the future of Zayre Corporation. The company has been projected to double in size within the next five years, having a chain of 260 stores and operating in the vicinity of $1 Billion. A question and answer period followed Mr. Kaplan's talk which proved to be very stimulating. An interesting guest speaker, a luscious steak dinner, and the bright atmosphere of the Admiral Inn Restaurant were the ingredients which made this 3rd meeting of Delta Omega another very successful evening.

your grade. However, it is certainly far from proper for you to think that a faculty member is going to do you any favors at the end of the semester when you didn't even have enough interest in the course to show up for classes.

The purpose of the initiation of such a cut system is so that if you do miss a number of classes, you are still allowed to take a final without having to get on your hands and knees with a sob story. Also if one has to miss a day of classes for a legitimate reason (or at least one the student feels is legitimate) he does not have to make explanations to the professor. However, it is still wise if you are out, and don't like to make a habit of it, to let your professor know why you are out. In this way you are showing your interest in the course. Let's not have any sob stories, please!

A Comment From Dr. Hoslett

The following was received in a communication from Dr. Hoslett announcing the administration's approval of the cut system:

"We sincerely hope that each student will react to the less specific cut regulations with a strong sense of responsibility and demonstrate that better, not poorer, scholastic performance is the goal of this change. There are certain undesirable situations which may result from an immature reaction to the more permissive regulations which should be pointed out now.

Excessive cutting before and after holidays might very well reduce some classes to the point where the classes would be canceled, thus reducing the number of contact hours and creating a most unhappy feeling on the part of those who did report for the class. In some schools this has been carried to the point where fines were levied for failure to attend pre-holiday classes. Specific attendance regulations may have to be set up for this and other problem areas unless student reaction is characterized by "student responsibility."

Please keep in mind the fact that the new policy will be reviewed at the end of the trial period to determine whether it has had a beneficial or detrimental effect on the morale and scholarship of the College. Let's make it a successful experiment."

As a student I ask you to take this new cut system seriously so that we can prove to the administration that we are as mature and responsible as we so often claim we are.

Steven Lander,
 Student Senate President

any limitations on the faculty in the giving of tests. We strongly agree with the administering of three tests per semester; however, we believe a professor should be allowed to determine at his own discretion the time at which his students have covered a unit of material sufficiently enough to be tested. With the exception of a mandatory completion date, no arbitrary test deadline should be effected by the administration.

In conclusion we resolve that (1) warnings should only be sent to freshmen and transfer students in their first year; (2) the three test policy be continued; and (3) no stipulation should be placed on the dates that these three tests be administered.

Good News for Pledges: It's 1/3 Over

By Sharon DeMerchant

Well Pledges, one-third of pledging is already completed. Maybe now people will believe us when we tell them that we have adult pledging.

Congratulations to Rosie Rotondo for being elected Pledge President.

ASA had another very successful cake sale. Our pledges really did a great job helping to bake and sell. Betty Crocker would be very proud of you.

We've heard of getting sand kicked in your face, but this is ridiculous! This is the hard way to eat a SAND-(snow)-wich.

SQUEEZE THE LEMON!! This appears to be the cry of one delighted pledgemaster as he "sits" a pledge through his paces.

National College Queen Pageant

One of our students, here on Bryant's campus, could be the next National College Queen. The winner will receive more than $5,000 in prizes, including a trip to Europe and an automobile. One college girl from every state will be chosen and then will be flown to West Palm Beach to compete for high honors.

This Pageant is the annual event which gives recognition to students for their scholastic ability, on leadership qualities—as well as poise and personality.

For full details—and a free entry blank—just write to: National College Queen Contest Committee, P. O. Box 935, Ansonia Station, N. Y., N. Y. 10023.

The future brothers of Zeta Beta Tau Fraternity huddle around their new mascot, Moish. Following the completion of the mascot, the pledges took turns guarding and caring for their new found friend.

After this session with the brothers, one pledge will have little problem fitting into his desk today.

Pledges seem to keep their noses to the grindstone as the program of indoctrination continues without a hitch. This was part of one fraternity's study of local ancient landmarks.

Story Of A Secret Bryant Fan

By the Roving Sports Reporter

In watching the exciting Bryant basketball game the other night against Sacred Heart University. I noticed a young man who looked no more than 10 years old cheering his lungs out for Bryant. The cheerleaders mentioned they had seen him before, but no one was sure who he really was. The roving sports reporter decided to talk to this young man and find out a little more about his interest in Bryant.

His name is Steven Terk, nicknamed Stevie, 10 years old, from West Haven, Connecticut. He has a great interest in sports of all kinds and became interested in the Bryant team when he had heard of Bryant's record through one of the students at Bryant.

He attended the soccer game that Bryant played against New Haven College in New Haven. Disappointed with the way the Bryant team was playing, he sat through the entire game making comments. One comment he made to a Bryant student, while watching the game was, "Gee, when we play down at the school we play better than that." At this soccer game, the first time he saw Bryant in action, he watched intently making comments about certain plays this writer didn't even understand. He said he realized this was Bryant's first year so it's tough, but he looks forward to a successful season next year.

Steven Terk was next seen at the basketball game in New Haven when Bryant played Quinnipiac College. Up to this game he followed the scores by getting the information from Bryant students or sometimes finding the scores in his local newspaper.

Tuesday night, Stevie was seen at his best. Sitting right behind the cheerleaders he watched the game intently. He was thrilled with the action and says he knew Bryant would come through despite some trouble in the first half.

Throughout the game, Stevie screamed, yelled, and cheered in hopes that his team would come through. He joked, he laughed, and there were times when the chips were down and a tear or two would be seen in his eyes.

Steven Terk was one of the angriest people at the referees, aside from the coaches and the team. There were times when he yelled out to the refs such choice words as "Put on your g'asses, you're missing a good game" and "How much are you getting tipped by Sacred Heart." At one point he got so angry he wanted to trip the ref as he went by, but he didn't.

Stevie went small and unnoticed when he wanted to get autographs of the team, especially from his favorite player Ben Billie. But winning the game in overtime created so much excitement that Stevie, with his little pad and pen, was lost in the crowd, which was congratulating the team for a job well done.

The biggest thrill of the evening for Stevie and for some of the players was when he was invited into the locker room to get the autographs of members of the team. I still don't know who was more excited—the team or Stevie.

On his way home from the game Stevie commented, "I don't think I could take another game as close as this one." I'm sure the coaches and team would agree.

Today Steven Terk is proud as he marks down the score of another victory for Bryant on the schedules which he proudly displays on his wall with his newly signed autograph of the teams hanging next to it. He can't wait till someone can take him to another game.

Bryant should be proud of Steven Terk. Wouldn't it be great if more Bryant students had the same spirit for our team.

We have a team to be proud of—even if it takes a ten-year-old boy to make you realize it.

TKE Over Phi Sig 50-29

The TKE basketball squad added another victory, with a convincing 50-29 win over Phi Sig. Good all-round play by both the starters and substitutes provided the TKE men with their second win in as many starts.

Belated congratulations to our engaged and out of circulation fraters: Travis Doering, Bob Smith, Roger Hatch, and Bill Steele.

We also wish our long saved candidate, Peggy Zerelli, the best of luck in the Miss Bryant pageant.

Skill Department Expanding

After experiencing two defeats at the hands of TKE and Phi Tau, TEP's basketball squad is gaining a lot of ground in the skill department. Coach Rick D'Amato has some fine players in Jose Leon, Ron Difabrio, Ira Stone, Bob Gardiner, Gene Biben, Al Cooper, and Marc Petruzzi, and with a little shaping up, the team could very easily end up high in the fraternity standings this season. Of its two first games, TEP did very well against a more experienced Phi Tau team.

Larry Sloven is to be congratulated on his new post as G.L.C. representative for the planning of next year's two fraternity weekends.

Finally, as TEP's pledge program finishes its second week, all fifteen of our pledges seem to be doing well. Just remember, pledges, don't give up!

Both Sides Shoot Well

Delta Sig's basketball team opened with a convincing victory over ZBT last week. The hard-fought game was marked by excellent shooting on both sides. Leading the way for Delta Sig in scoring was Frank Reis who tallied 21 points. Jerry Campanella's playmaking and Al Wolfe's board work were decisive in our victory. Our basketball team really played well, and if this is any indication of how they are going to play in the future, we certainly must be considered contenders for the championship.

Congratulations to alumni Brother Kenny Silvia on his recent marriage. All the Brothers would like to wish Ken and his wife good luck in the future.

Thanks to Brother Matty Ferucci for his great wedding party. Everyone really had a fantastic time. Also, Delta Sig's annual P-Party was a booming success. This affair always gives our pledges a chance to relax during pledging's trying times; it also gives them the opportunity to meet new and interesting people.

Inside Sports

By Buddy Meyer,
Sports Editor

It looks like the Applepickers have some competition in the Barbarians. The Meeker coached team has four six footers in their starting lineup led by six-four Doug Meeker. Also leading the team are Jeff Russell, Bill Hope, and Jim Wemett. Throw in a couple of unselfish guards Stu Kaplan and Bob Cohen and you have a top team. Last week they defeated Scott House with Meeker getting 21, Wemett 15, and Russel 12.

The only other game in the independent league saw the Weightlifters led by Bob Delvechio and Paul Ferro nip the Bob Epstein coached Appleby Hall. Ferro had 15 for the Weightlifters.

In the fraternity league pre-season favorites TKE, AOX, and PKT were all tied for first with unblemished 2-0 records. Also undefeated is DSP with one win. Frank Reis, the leading scorer in the league led DSP. He scored 21 in their only game. Steve Genden led TKE, averaging 16 points a game. PKT was led by Al Palumbo and veteran Stu Springer in its two victories. Palumbo is averaging close to 14 points a game. Stars for others were Manny Coloura and Hondo for AOX, Jose Leon for TEP, John Doherty for ZBT, and Chris Bedgio for Beta. The league is shaping up just as expected but many suspect the underdog teams to give some startling surprises. Get out and watch your favorite team.

In sorority basketball Theta was at the top of the heap with a perfect 3-0 record led by Miss Riker followed closely by Allan Hall with a 2-0 record.

Bridgewater Win Secures Tie For Title

By Steven Diamond

On Saturday, February 15, the Bryant College basketball teams dominated their games against Bridgewater State College. John Westman and Bob Passano, each scoring 22 points and pulling down 14 rebounds, led the frosh to a 84-64 victory. Bryant quickly jumped to a 6-0 lead with Tom Burns connecting from the outside. The hot hands of Tom Asselin and Bob Passano widened Bryant's edge to 10 points at halftime, 39-29.

Taking advantage of a cold Bryant team, Bridgewater chopped away a once 15-point lead to a 48-44 score. Bill Bednarz, replacing Tom Burns in foul trouble, chalked up assists for the injuns. Paul Savader, John Westman, and Bob Passano began hitting consistently and put Bryant out in front to stay 75-58. Bob Denzer, Jim Culliton, Gary Bower, Conrad Thibault, Howard Reade, and Glenn Adelman all saw action in the closing minutes. Coach Bill Stein's freshmen now are 8-7.

Running off 12 consecutive points late in the second half, the Bryant Varsity whipped Bridgewater 84-71 at Barrington College. The win clinched at least a tie for the title in the Southeastern New England Basketball League.

The Indians, playing without two starters, Ben Billie and George Yates — Billie has shin splints and Yates has a stomach infection — raised their conference record to 7-0, and hold a one game edge over Quinnipiac.

The game was nip and tuck with Bridgewater holding a slight edge at halftime, 41-37. With Bryant falling further behind 52-44 in the third period, Coach Folliard sent the Indians into a full court press. Outstanding defense by Donny Gray and Dave Greenblatt brought Bryant back, trailing by one 62-61. With 7:20 remaining, Bryant cut loose with six consecutive baskets. Two each by Chuprevich and Greenblatt, and one each by Gray and Peckham, gave the Indians a 73-62 margin with 3:52 to play and they were home free. The outstanding contributions were Greenblatt's and Chuprevich's 22 points, Chuprevich's 17 rebounds, and Gray's 8 assists, Ed McManus and Bill Zilliox, contributing 7 and 5 markers respectively, did a tremendous job coming off the bench. The Indians now own an impressive 17-3 record.

Indians Top U Maine (Portland)

On Monday, February 17, the Indians traveled to Portland, Maine to face the University of Maine, Portland branch. The Indians won the game by a score of 91-90.

Bryant started a lineup consisting of Joe Goddard, Bob Chuprevich, Don Gray, George Peckham, and Dave Greenblatt. George Yates was not dressed due to a stomach infection and Ben Billie was dressed but not starting due to shin splints.

Bryant's scoring was mainly on layups. Dave Greenblatt and Don Gray were leading the team at the beginning. With 16:32 left, the Indians were leading 11-9. At this point Bryant put a full court press on. At the ten minute mark of the game the score was 29-29. Here the Indians took a 37-29 lead and were never headed the rest of the game.

Bob Chuprevich was scoring many points for the Indians on driving layups. Dave Greenblatt was also hot offensively. Don Gray and George Peckham were doing excellent defensive jobs. The halftime score found Bryant ahead by a score of 58-40. In the first half Bryant shot an amazing 65.8% (27-41). Chuprevich had 19 points for the half and Greenblatt had 13.

The second half of the game was a different story. Hayward of Maine shot most of his amazing 15-21 in this half which permitted Maine to creep up on the Indians. Maine kept creeping up until with 49 seconds left they were only one point behind—89-88. Each team got two points in the final 49 seconds and Bryant won 91-90.

Bob Eric Hayward was the game's high scorer with 34 points while Bob Chuprevich had 33 for Bryant.

For the final 1:41, Bryant put Ben Billie in the game to strengthen the defense.

Bryant had an excellent overall shooting percentage getting 38-66 for 54.5%. Maine, 41-77 for 52%. Rebounds were even for the night with each team getting 35.

Indians in Three Game Sweep

By Lou Jaklitsch

The Bryant College Indians' basketball team swept three games this past week and ran their record to 16-3. The Indians defeated St. Francis 69-56, Nasson 89-70, and Sacred Heart University 96-92 in overtime. The victories over St. Francis and Nasson improved the team's record to 7-1 in the Naismith Conference, one game behind Babson Institute.

In the St. Francis game, the Indians jumped out to an early 10-4 lead, as they solved the 2-1-2 zone defense thrown up by the visitors. St. Francis moved within one point (12-11) and finally went ahead 19-18 on baskets by Kunces and Lyons. From that point until the end of the half both teams traded baskets. The half ended with Bryant leading 27-26.

George Yates led the Indians' attack with 10 points in the first half, and Ben Billie did his usual good job rebounding. George Peckham made a few good plays on defense.

The Indians broke open the game in the second half as they outscored St. Francis 16-3 at the start of the half. The turning point of the game seemed to be when Coach Folliard substituted Don Gray for Ben Billie when Ben got into foul trouble. Don made four steals on defense and drove in for layups each time to put the Indians safely ahead. Don seems to have recovered from his bout with mononucleosis and looks to be at full strength now, a fact which will be very helpful to the team in its drive for a berth in the N.A.I.A. Tournament at the end of the season.

Gray was the high scorer for the game with 14 points, followed by Ben Billie and Dave Greenblatt with 12 each. Greenblatt along with Bob Chuprevich helped control the boards.

Sunday night, the day of the big snowstorm, the Indians behind the hot shooting of Dave Greenblatt who had 24 points, defeated Nasson College 89-70 before a sparse crowd of 250 people at Marvel Gym.

Tuesday night, the Indians traveled down to Bridgeport, Connecticut, to play Sacred Heart University. The final score of the game was Bryant

96. Sacred Heart 92 in overtime. Ben Billie scored 6 points in the overtime period to pull the game out for Bryant. The big story of the game, though, was Bob Chuprevich's 43 points. That was the highest total of points scored by a Bryant player since the all-time career scoring leader for Bryant College Tom Smile graduated 2 years ago.

Bryant overcame the loss of 5 players on fouls to defeat Sacred Heart. Greenblatt, Gray, Peckham, Zilliox, and Chuprevich all fouled out of the game. The Indians were also handicapped by the loss of George Yates, who did not play at all because of a stomach ailment.

The Suicide Squad and Ben Billie helped the Indians to victory in the overtime period. Bryant was behind 90-88 with one minute gone in overtime when Bob Chuprevich fouled out. Ben Billie shaking off the effects of a leg injury then took command and led Bryant to victory, with 2 foul shots and 2 baskets.

Theta Beats A.P.K. In Third Contest

First of all, I would like to say that Theta is very proud of their pledges. Thanks girls for the Valentines. All the sisters appreciated it.

Theta won their third basketball game against APK. It was a terrific game. We thank our brothers and their pledges for their enthusiastic support.
