Four Coeds Seek Sno' Queen Title

By Roslyn Pompilio

Saturday night, December 3, is the time of Sigma Lambda Pi's twenty-second "Sno' Ball Dance and Coronation" which will be held in the Bryant College auditorium.

The four candidates, Phi Sigma Nu's Carol Nixon, Beta Sigma Chi's Lynn Lewis, Beta Iota Beta's Joan Lakso, and Alpha Omicron's Bobbie Giese, made their official debut at Kappa Tau's sixteenth annual "Turkey Trot" November 19. This was the beginning of an event-filled, world-wide week, which will be climaxed by the crowning on December 2.

Their busy and teeming schedule began November 28 at six a.m. when the campaign was officially launched. Tuesday, November 29, was the most memorable day for the candidates, for that was the date designated for the exciting parade. The parade started at the Bryant College Athletic Field and proceeded up Pitman Street to Government, past the new boy's dormitory, then turned right at Young Orchard Avenue and passed around the campus and ended in front of the administration building in the parking lot. At this time each candidate and fraternity held their rallies.

The momentous and most important, as well as the most serious aspect of the candidates' schedules, will be Thursday's judging in the auditorium. Here each prospective queen will be interviewed by a panel of three impartial judges. Each girl will be screened and asked a series of questions. In the interim they will be judged according to physical features, figure, poise, and personality. "Miss Sno' Queen" will be decided by the student body who will cast their ballots on Friday, December 2. Voting time will be at 10 a.m. in the classrooms.

At last the enchanting moment is near — the evening of the "Sno' Ball Dance." The high point of the evening will, of course, be the coronation of "Miss Sno' Queen, 1961." Retain this schedule of activities for "Sno' Queen" in order that you may participate fully and help your favorite candidate ascend the white stairway to the coveted throne of home.

Masquers Working On First Play

Once again the Masquers, the theatrical group of Bryant College, is presenting its annual dramatic presentation. The play is "George Washington Slept Here" by Hart and Kaufman.

"George Washington Slept Here" is a light-hearted comedy concerning the purchase of a rather "run-down" house dating back to the American Revolution to which has been attached the myth that "George Washington had once spent the night there." The house is purchased by Newton Fuller and his wife

David Thompson and Shirley Gossett respectively. The circumstance and consequences that result will keep the audience chuckling throughout the entire performance.

Professor David M. Brooks, Jr., who has served as director of the Masquers for three years, is a graduate of Emerson College, where he majored in speech and drama. Among his many other

Bryant Alumnus Addresses Members of Senior Class

By Dorothy Nieminen

On Tuesday, November 29, 1960, Mr. Gregory Parkos, Vice-President of the Rosbro Plastics Corporation, spoke to the Senior Class at 9:00 a.m. in the Auditorium.

Mr. Parkos was graduated magna cum laude from Bryant College in 1950. He continued his education by doing graduate work at Boston University, where he received the degree of Master of Business Administration in 1951. While he was at Boston University, he held a fellowship as assistant to the chairman of the Business Management Division.

The armed forces assigned Mr. Parkos as Special Agent with the military intelligence, heading the New England anti-subversive squad.

In 1954 he was appointed an officer in the Foreign Service. He was stationed for more than two years in the United States Embassy in Athens, Greece, where he last held the position of Chief of the Escape Division of the International Relief Program in that country.

Mr. Parkos is a lecturer on the speaker's platform, radio, and television for the World Affairs Council of Rhode Island.

From September, 1958, to January, 1959, Mr. Gregory Parkos was the Director of Student Activities and Alumni Affairs here at Bryant College.

In 1958 Mr. Parkos became affiliated with the Rosbro Plastics Corporation, where he now holds the position of Vice-President.

Boland Elected Club President

The newly organized Young Republican Club of Bryant College recently held its elections. The newly elected officers are President, Mat Boland; Vice-President, John Henderson; Treasurer, James Clemmy; Corresponding Secretary, Wayne Pimental; and Recording Secretary, Marcelle Marks.

The publicity committee is composed of Gred Hogen, Barry Knight, and Roslyn Pompilio.

One of the first projects undertaken by the new organization was to pledge 225 hours for the Telephone Volunteers for Nixon-Lodge for which the club was to receive a contribution. This first project was more than successful as the students really got behind the enterprise and succeeded in not only reaching their goal but in topping it as they chalked up 285 volunteer hours.

Also, in conjunction with the Young Republican Club at Brown University, the combined groups attended a rally after which they saw a motion picture concerning Vice-President Nixon's "Good Will Tour of South America."

Several new social and cultural projects are being discussed and planned for the coming months by the executive committee. To head the roster, the club is planning to have several prominent figures in the Republican party come to Bryant and discuss topics of interest to all Americans.

Membership is open to all, and all are cordially invited to attend any of the meetings of the Young Republican Club of Bryant College.

Gardner Hall Names Officers

Gardner Hall residents recently elected their officers and will now have president, Matthew Perry, represent them on the Dorm Council. Matt's executive committee consists of John Curran, vice president; Richard Dorey, secretary; and Anthony Purtanova, treasurer.

A Moment

The dictionary describes Thanksgiving as the act of rendering thanks. This definition and interpretation of Thanksgiving is often lost in the shuffle of turkey and cranberry sauce. To some people Thanksgiving means merely that—the turkey and cranberry sauce. To all of us the thought of a holiday and turkey is an appetizing one, but for a moment we should put turkey in the back of our minds to consider the real meaning of Thanksgiving. I do not mean to delve back into your history book to the well-worn story of the Pilgrims, although this is where our country first had its great beginnings. However, let us consider the progress this nation has made while so many others have fallen. Always forward to a better and improved way of life this country has gone. Of course, we have failed in many things, but then God has made us human—and humans make errors.

So we have become a great nation and will be still greater as man learns of God's truths and to apply them to the government of a great nation.

On this Thanksgiving Day, pause for just a moment to consider this great nation of ours and to thank God that you are a part of it and its greatness.

Business and Economic Conditions

By Russell Bland

Everyone looked with surprise to see the stock market go up the day after the elections. The main reason for this was the narrowness of the Democratic victory. Brokers said that it gave no mandate for Mr. Kennedy to invoke business hurting reforms. Promises of increased defense spending and the general relief after so long a period of political uncertainty also helped the sudden jump.

The opinion abroad was that of inflation. But, if industrial prices start to go up here, it will in itself stimulate conditions because companies will stock up on inventories early to gain lower prices.

According to some we are now in a very mild recession but everybody agrees that there will be an upturn at the end of the first half of '61. They are certain of this because inventories now are so low and replenishment has to come soon.

You can almost decide for yourself whether there is a recession or not. Indicators of business activity such as home building starts, industrial output, inventory replenishment, employment, are going down. Concurrently total spending, personal income, personal savings, retail sales, factory wages, paperboard output, are all going up. This leads many to believe that there is not a dip in the economy but a plateau—a plain to be resting on until we finally finish catching up with ourselves.

The U. S. gold situation is improving. Germany dropped its discount rate and is expected to help us with foreign aid to the tune of $800 million. This will help to ease our balance of payments deficit a bit.

The drop in steel and Canadian wheat shipments will put the St. Lawrence Seaway in the red again this year.

February and July Graduates . . .

Placement Bureau Schedules Date for Future Interviews

By Dorothy Nieminen

Several on-campus interviews are scheduled for December.

On Thursday, December 1, the Bryant campus will see Mr. William Curley of the Arthur Andersen Company interviewing February graduates for accounting positions. Students wishing an interview must register at the Placement Bureau no later than 12:00 noon on Monday, November 28.

Captain Lawrence J. Willis will be in the cafeteria on Monday, December 5, interviewing interested students for the United States Marine Corp.

February graduates will have an opportunity to have an interview with Price-Waterhouse on Tuesday, December 6. Mr. Carl Christiansen will be representing the company and will interview interested students for accounting positions. Students must register no later than 12:00 noon on Thursday, December 1.

Mr. Peter G. Robinson of the Liggett Drug Company will be conducting on-campus interviews on Tuesday, December 13, for February graduates in the field of accounting. Twelve noon on December 8 is the deadline for registration for this interview.

Wednesday, December 28, will see G. Fox & Company of Hartford, Connecticut, holding its annual College Day for 1960. It will take place at the company in Hartford between the hours of 10:00 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Students living in Connecticut and southern Massachusetts who are interested in attending can get further information at the Placement Bureau. This program is mainly for students interested in the field of retailing.

Part-time jobs are continually being listed with the Placement Bureau. Students should feel free to come in at any time and look through the file of part-time positions available.

Senate Meets

Discusses Pertinent Issues

By Paul Gamache

Jim Buckley was elected as representative of the Senior B. A. Class, February graduates. He will represent the February graduates for the rest of the semester.

As of the time of the meeting no word had been received from the National Student Association on the requirements for membership. Word was received, however, on the following day from Tim Zagat, New England Regional Chairman of N. S. A. He will appear Senate meeting to discuss the organization with the Senate.

A report was made on the mock election. It is estimated that 82% of the student body voted in the election, won closely by Kennedy.

The Senior Class elections were next to be discussed. As was made evident by the letters to the Archway, there was much dissatisfaction over the handling of the elections. Censensus of the Senate members seemed to be that the balloting on such short notice was justified by the short time which remained to organize Senior class functions. More time for campaigning will be allowed for future elections, however.

The question arose as to who was at present leading the July graduates; the answer . . . nobody. The July graduates will be without organization and representation on the Senate until March when elections will be held. This is part of the confusion resulting from the changeover from a two to a three-year program with the elimination of February graduates. This problem will be removed by next year when all students will graduate in July.

The proposed amendment to the Constitution favoring nomination of Senate officers by the Senate itself was defeated 8 to 8. A two thirds majority is necessary to pass such an amendment.

Hillel, which had previously been disqualified from Senate membership for absenteeism, was readmitted by a unanimous vote. Reason for readmission was the fact that Hillel is now under new leadership.

The United Fund received a frigid reception from Senate members. There was widespread dis-campaigning on behalf of the Fund. The reasons were: (1) Most students would be approached by the Fund at work or at home. (2) Little benefit would be derived by the student body. (3) Students disliked the pressure being placed on them by the United Fund. A donation box will be placed in the Student Union for those who would care to donate.

Matt Boland unwittingly found himself in the middle of a tempest when he inquired about membership of the Young Republicans Club in the Student Senate. Boland received the impression that it would be difficult for a partisan organization such as the Young Republicans Club to gain membership.

Russ Bland, having done much outside research on his own, read to the Senate a proposed freshman orientation program aimed at improving student morale and more quickly adjusting students to college life. The program would be much more extensive than anything tried at Bryant in recent years. A committee was appointed to investigate the feasibility of such a program at Bryant.

A proposal to hold weekly Senate meetings was not approved.

The hour and a quarter meeting was concluded at 4:15.

The Electoral College, which is the official system for electing the President and Vice-President in the United States, has always been a topic of much debate. Again in this year's election, the issue has come up as to whether the Electoral College should be abolished in favor of allowing the popular vote of the people to elect the President and the Vice-President. Senator Mansfield plans to introduce a bill to abolish the Electoral College. Many articles which have been written in the past few days have referred to the Electoral College as "outdated," "clumsy," "anachronistic," and "unfair."

Under the Electoral College system, voters choose Electors who choose the President. Each state is allotted a specified number of Electors—the number being the same as that state has in both houses of Congress. The number of Electors range from three in Delaware, Nevada, Vermont, and Wyoming to forty-five in New York State. Almost all of the Electors, with the exception of a few Southern states, are pledged to follow the popular vote in their respective states when they vote. A few Southern states are not pledged which means the Electors can vote any way they wish, regardless of the popular vote in their states.

The Electoral College system was first established by the Constitutional Convention in 1787. The members of the Convention felt that many of the voters were not qualified enough to vote for the "best man." It was feared that the people would vote on the basis of popularity rather than qualifications to perform the job. So to prevent the situation of placing such a powerful device directly in the hands of the voters, the Electoral College system was established.

At the present time, some people claim the Electoral College is not democratic and should be abolished. They claim that the voters are now intelligent enough to do an effective job of choosing their own President without the "guiding hand" of the Electoral College. It is claimed to be unfair to allow the larger states (such as New York with forty-five Electoral votes) to have a bigger voice in electing the President than the smaller states and that all of the states should have an equal voice in electing the President. Other people say that the present system has worked well in the past and there is no reason to take a chance with a new system. To abolish the Electoral College would tend to bring a big blow to our Federal structure of government and would be a step toward the centralization of power in the national government.

The question as to whether the Electoral College should be abolished is very important since the future of our country may depend upon it. There are very good reasons on both sides of this question and only time will give us the answer. I think the main point to remember has been adequately expressed by newscaster Chet Huntley "go slowly and carefully."

I have interviewed students on the Bryant Campus to obtain their views concerning the Electoral College.

QUESTION: Do you believe that the Electoral College, which is the present method of electing the President and Vice-President in the United States, is practical?

ANSWERS:

John R. Sullivan, Les, Mass.

Thank God they had an Electoral system this year or J.F.K. might not have been elected. The present electoral system is not practical in modern politics! The electoral system was used in the days when the states were few to give an equal chance to all candidates. In the early times of our history a candidate was nominated from almost every state. Under these circumstances, the candidate living in the state with the largest population needed only to win his own state overwhelmingly and could have been elected. Under the present two-party system, this type of an equalizer is not necessary for there are only two states represented by candidates. I think that election by popular vote would be more democratic and would better express the will of the voters. However, even basing the election on the popular vote would be unfair to a certain extent because a candidate could win the election if he were only to carry five or six of the highly populated states by an overwhelming majority. Some change is definitely needed, but the question is "What do we change to?"

Arthur Neilsen, Manchester, Conn.

The electoral college system is practical because there is an unequal representation from each state and this gives all of the people, as a whole, a fair say in who is going to be President. Without the electoral vote, the presidency would be based on something like a popularity contest. There are too many uneducated people in this country. Because of the large number of these uneducated people, in the United States today, the votes of such people would not be based on abilities of the candidates, but rather on superficial, immaterial qualities. Therefore, the electoral college system still stands up today upon the principle under which it was first established—not to leave the election of the president solely in the hands of the people.

John Henderson, Pittsfield, Mass.

No, this method is outdated. The reason this type of system was used in the past was to prevent the ignorant people of the early United States from electing our President. Today, our country is the best educated in the world and it seems logical that the entire population should have the right to elect our President. Many voters throughout the country actually have no reason or incentive to vote. For instance, a Republican in Alabama or a Democrat in Vermont are in a sense just wasting their vote by going to the polls, realizing in the end the electoral votes of their respective states will go to the candidate they are opposed to. Every voter in the country should have the right to cast their vote towards the candidate of their choice and have it count. One other point is the fact that two or three times in the history of the United States a president has been elected without the majority of the popular vote, by receiving a majority of the electoral votes. This is both unfair and against the beliefs for which this republic was founded. The one bad point in dissolving the electoral college is the fact that the power of directing the vote will now be in the hands of the federal government and not the states. In the

Intramural Basketball Games

By Wayne Miller

TE 34 - KT 29

Bryant College's intramural league basketball season found TE a victor over a spirited KT team. TE found it difficult to score in the first half, scoring only 12 points to TE's 16. Behind the rebounding of Cibrowski and the scoring of Hennessey they stormed back in the second half to tie the game at the end of the regulation period at 28-28. In the overtime field goals by Grady, Kowalczyk, and Carr of TE won the game. TE was paced by Grady with 12 points while KT was led by Hennessey's 9 points.

BIB 33 - CHI GAM 27

BIB's method of starting out fast and building a big lead again proved advantageous as they outscored CHI GAM 10-2 in the first quarter. Perini's eight points in the first half kept BIB in the lead. BIB missed his services in the second half when he was forced out of the game with a fractured nose when there was a scramble for the ball under the basket. CHI GAM came strong in the fourth quarter outscoring BIB 10-5. Good defensive play by T. A. Stott, and Pete Hester kept BIB's winning streak of 11 straight intact.

SIGMA LAMBDA 49 - AO 20

In a basketball game the winner is the team that scores the most points. All SIGMA LAMBDA needed was BILL BURCH'S 26 points to coast to a decisive victory over AO. SIGMA LAMBDA started out by taking a quick 14-6 lead in the first quarter. They added to their lead throughout the game and were never threatened. Bill David, who scored 11 points, played a good offensive game setting up many of Burch's baskets.

BIB 35 - KT 20

BIB's winning streak extended to four games with Perlman and Stott leading the way. BIB took an early lead and led 16-6 at half-time. Perlman and Stott's early baskets at the start of the period proved the downfall for KT as they rallied later in the period. BIB was once more led by Perlman's 13 points while Stott totaled 12 with Coleman and Orenberg chipping in with 3 points apiece. KT was led by Hennessey's 10, and Cibrowski's 8 points respectfully.

AOX 30 - PHI SIG 12

In a low scoring game, but with plenty of action, the height advantage of AOX proved too much for a game PHI SIG team. AOX quickly built up a 13-6 lead in the first quarter and were never headed throughout the game. Although PHI SIG tried to rally in the second half behind Sunasen and Nero, they could not get any offensive attack under way. AOX was paced by Northrup with 11 points while Gustafson nabbed 8. Sunasen and Nero led PHI SIG in scoring.

LOUIE'S 58 - SIGMA LAMBDA 32

Looking like the power of the league, LOUIE's offensive might triggered by little DAVE BARBER overran SIGMA LAMBDA PI. Although only leading by 21-13 at halftime, Barber's 10 points in the third quarter left no doubt to who the winner would be. Possessing an amazingly accurate jump shot Barber totaled 24 points, with Gerhard and Griffin nabbing 13 and 9 points respectively. Bill David led Sigma Lambda with 13 points with Burch chipping in with 7 points and a host of rebounds.

Just 30 years the Federal Government has accumulated a tremendous amount of power by taking away the states' rights. However, I believe a popular vote system should work by giving the federal government limited power over the elections.

Gloria Hobab, Ansonia, Conn.

I believe this method is practical because it enables the smaller states to take a more significant part in the selection of President and Vice-President. Without this system, these officials would be chosen solely by the popular vote of a few of our large states.

Russell Bland

No, for two reasons. First, the present method of electing is no longer needed with today's modern communication methods. Secondly, a candidate can now concentrate on the minority of states with the greatest electoral votes and win. An individual's vote in his state can be lost among a majority of votes voting in the electoral college, but his one vote can decide an election on a national basis.

FROM WHERE I SIT

By Jim Baker

Louie's Little Chefs finally unveiled their team and after their first encounter they have definitely emerged as the strongest team. Tau Epsilon, the defending champs, certainly them. BIB and Chi Gam have been playing good ball. But it's a long season, and who can tell now! At the end of the month the Bryant College basketball team composed of the ten best ball players in the Fraternity League will venture to Davisville for a game with the Davisville Naval Base. It would be real nice if we could get a little support for our boys. We've been playing down there for the past couple of years, and if the students with cars could make them available for that evening I'm sure the support could help us to Victory.

Well, the football season is coming to a close, and Iowa, a team with an explosive offense has emerged as No. 1. This is one of few times a team has lost a game and still managed to be the best in the country. Missouri fell by the wayside 14-7. Syracuse lost twice to underdogs; Minnesota lost once and Navy was upset by Duke. Needless to say upsets made the season.

Arnold Palmer so far this year has won over a thousand holes in play golf for fun. He came up the hard way and even played with six inches of snow on the course. With desire like that you're bound to be a champ.

Baseball has expanded to nine team leagues and how it will improve the caliber of ball is the question to be answered. It seems that outside of the Yankees and a couple of National League teams the caliber isn't too good right now. Under the present draft system it will give some ball players added life but most of them haven't matured yet or are too old. Only the future will tell.

Bryant Keglers Collegiate Start Season at Shipyard

Twelve-Team Circuit To Bowl on Tuesday

On Tuesday afternoon at 3:15, the Shipyard Atlantic Ten Pin Lanes will hoist the black and orange banner of Bryant College, signifying the start of the 1960-61 Atlantic Ten Pin Bowling season for the collegians from the East Side College.

INITIAL MEETING

Bryant Student Athletic Director, P. Pimental, held the initial organizational meeting at the college two weeks ago. A group of approximately twenty students were on hand to hear ATPL's Don Karp explain to them the procedure of starting an Atlantic Ten Pin Bowling League. The interest was such that another meeting was scheduled to be held at the Shipyard Meeting Room the following week.

LARGE TURNOUT

With seventy students attending, the second meeting was held to formulate the plans for the newly-formed league.

The large turnout of students gave a good indication of the interest which had been generated on the campus by those of the students who had already tried their hand at the sport which has become the most popular sport on campuses throughout the country.

After concluding the business of the meeting, the college keglers were given an afternoon of bowling. Many had, or are bowling in leagues at the Shipyard, and it was just a good opportunity to practice. Others were getting the feel of the Shipyard Lanes for the first time.

President Welcomes Pledges at Smoker

By Kathy Tomlinson

Alpha Phi Kappa held its smoker on Tuesday evening, November 15. President Lana Reiss welcomed the prospective pledges, and introduced all the sisters and officers, who then explained their duties to the group. The president then told the girls all about Alpha Phi Kappa—its purposes and the activities of the sisters. After singing A P K songs, the girls joined the brothers of Kappa Tau and their guests for a social gathering with refreshments and dancing.

On the following day A P K held a tea at Harriet Hall. The sisters and prospective pledges spent an enjoyable afternoon getting acquainted with one another.

A P K has taken 3 out of 4 games so far in this bowling season. A P K has been practicing basketball for the past few weeks and the members are looking forward to a successful basketball season.

Sports Personality of the Week

Louie's Little Chefs have again come up with a really great team, and all the credit goes to "Our Chef" Louie Ferretti.

Louie, after going to Warwick High School, entered the Armed Forces and was stationed in Korea during the conflict. After the service "Louie" returned to the states and was employed by several of Rhode Island's leading restaurants. Louie came to Bryant in 1954 and became the "Chef."

Always a big fan, Louie put a team on the court last season that finished with an excellent record. This year his team is even better, and the players have been aided by some cool uniforms.

Tips From Tzitzouris in . . . The Sport of Kings

By Jim Tzitzouris

RECAPS

Bald Eagle won the Washington D. C., International race at Laurel, becoming the first horse to win this race twice. Placing third and fourth were Russia's Zabeg and Zadorny although a foul was later claimed, after the race was declared official, that would have given the two horses a second and third place finish.

Zabeg and Zadorny were later loaded aboard a plane at Friendship International Airport and flown back to Moscow—it's rumored they'll race in Siberia for the salt mine stakes.

Last week Gleam O' Light finally won a race, her first in 18 starts. This two-year-old filly had to close from the number five spot at the top of the home stretch and just did nose out La Madrina, who finished second. The 6 furlong race was run over a fast track with a time of 1 minute 16 and 2/5 seconds—very slow for a fast track. Among the fans who witnessed this race at Narragansett Park were Congressman Fogarty and Senator Pastore.

Fans at Pimlico had something to laugh about last week when Martial Law threw his jockey at the start of the first race and continued running, leading the rest of the pack by three lengths coming into the home stretch.

The third largest daily double in racing history was paid off last week at the Golden Gate Fields in California when Oriolo, a 100 to 1 shot, won the first race and a 20 to 1 shot, Coviron, won the second race—it paid over $8,000 for a $2 ticket. When the owner of Oriolo was asked before the race what the chances of his horse winning the race were, he mentioned something about a miracle. After the double was declared official, he was asked why he hadn't picked the two horses and replied that he could never pick a miracle, never mind parlaying it with a bum!

HANDICAPS

Among the jockeys leaving Narragansett Park for southern tracks are Vincifora and Manganello—they'll be riding at the Fair Grounds track in New Orleans on Thanksgiving Day.

Jockeys Russell Connelly and Victor Castagno have been suspended for 10 days for "careless riding." The track stewards said the horses they rode had bothered another horse in the same race.

Pebble Ace seems to be coming back after running second to President Dares in 6 furlongs; the time was 1 minute 14 and 1/5 seconds—a good time for a horse that was said to have had a lame leg a month ago. Such Luck, a 27-to-1 shot winner last time out, should continue finishing in the top three—he's a closer and runs a long race.

Thin Ice, said to have been patched up more times than an old shoe, still has a lot of speed left—he needs a fast track. Other horses to watch are One Nighter, Rip Road, Triple Gold, Bit O' Joy, and One Way Out.

Post time tomorrow at "Gansett" is 10:30 A.M.

Interracial Justice Discussed at Newman Club

By Mary Anita Viegelmann

The guest speaker at the Newman Club's recent speaker meeting was William H. Plummer, Jr. He spoke on the present situation in Rhode Island and the United States regarding interracial justice and Catholic efforts in this field.

The purpose and aim of the Interracial Council is the constant teaching of human relations to propagate in the community the general doctrines of the equal rights, equal dignity, and equal destiny of men of all races.

The Council is composed of both colored and white members who believe that normal association is necessary to promote mutual respect and understanding.

Mr. Plummer is an English teacher at Hope High School and the former president of the Catholic Interracial Council of the Diocese of Providence.

The members and guests not only found this topic very informative but Mr. Plummer's ideas were motivating.

From November 18 to November 20 the members of the Newman Club went on a week end retreat. Boys and girls each had a closed retreat. This was perfectly timed after the strenuous marking period—a time to relax physically while being spiritually pepped-up!

No Grace Period On GI Loans

Despite what some veterans may believe, there is no grace period for the late payment of installments on GI loans, John L. Reavey, manager of VA's Providence office, said today.

Thus, he added, veterans should make their GI loan payments on or before the date they are due.

Failure to do so may prove costly, he pointed out, since GI leaders may make an extra service charge when payments are received late.

Lenders are permitted to make a charge of an extra 4% of any installment paid more than fifteen days after the due date.

Reavey warned that veterans who gain the reputation of being "chronic delinquents" will find their lenders taking that fact into account if the veterans should ever need an extension of repayment time on their GI loans.

In addition to their loss of credit standing, veterans who become delinquent in their payments may ultimately be faced with the loss of the property acquired with their GI loans, Reavey said.

Dorm Students Enjoy Banquet

By Mary Lou Keith

A superb buffet Thanksgiving dinner was held in the College Dining Hall on Tuesday, November 22, for resident students and a group of College officers and deans.

White linen table cloths, candle light, and an array of palms decorated the Hall.

The dress dinner was sponsored by the Dorm Council. Each dorm entered the Dining Hall at fifteen minute intervals to avoid a long wait in lines.

The buffet was a wonderful send-off for the students anxiously awaiting to celebrate Thanksgiving Day at home.

They are now ready to start working in the various activities that they have planned together with the staff at Butler.

Caribbean Moonlight Presented by Girls At Comery House

By Roslyn Pompilio

An apology is of Comery House who were inadvertently omitted from the article which appeared in the November 10 issue of the Archway concerning open house.

The theme depicted by Comery Hall was "Caribbean Moonlight." As the visitors descended the ornate "gang plank," they entered a misty, dimly lit tropical heaven where they were greeted by lovely island maidens. Exotic, tropical plants adorned several corners of the rooms while pastel water lilies swam in a nearby pool of sapphire blue water.

Each girl, clad in authentic and colorful island costumes, greeted each visitor with a warm island welcome.

Intermingled with this romantic mood was just a sprinkling of a little magic—voodoo magic—as a large replica of a totem pole decorated another corner of the room. Adorning the walls and ceiling were green, misty fish nets to which were attached silver, blue and speckled sea shells, flowers and shrunken voodoo dolls. Soft, green velvety grass mats cushioned the floor while soft tropical music filtered forth from the phonograph.

All in all, the visitor enjoyed his brief vacation to this tropical Caribbean vacationland.

Miss Furtado Feted At Classroom Party

"The students took over!!!" Where? When? Why?

On November 22 at 12:10 the students of Miss Furtado's Office Machines 2 class decided it was time for a change.

With definite boldness Margaret Babcock made her way to the front of the classroom, asked Miss Furtado to "wait a minute" and proceeded to make the announcement that she had something to say.

She introduced Miss Ruth Broderick who presented a silver tray to Miss Furtado in behalf of the entire class. Miss Furtado thought that was the end—but it wasn't. A big cake gaily decorated was then brought forward and the party began.

Among the honored guests present were Miss Galant and her typing class and Mrs. Sprague who joined the class in wishing Miss Furtado the best of luck in her recent marriage.

Barber House Boys Entertain in Dorm

By Don Stappa

On November 1 Barber House held its annual Open House. As each visitor stepped into the dormitory, he was greeted with an autumn setting. The lounge was heavily decorated with leaves, branches, cornstalks, and pumpkins. This all resulted in a very effective autumn scene.

Open House began at 7:30 p.m. By 8:30 p.m. the dorm was in full swing. Music was provided for dancing by the well-known Velvetones. As the evening rolled on, the dancing came to an end since all the room was taken up by the large crowd that attended.

Refreshments were served by the House Director, Mrs. Grace Eastwood. Punch and all sorts of pastry were on the menu for the evening.

The Barber House Open House was thoroughly enjoyed by all that attended. Credit goes to the men of the dormitory and their hard work in making this possible.

Mr. Robert O'Connell New Advisor to Newman Club

By Mary Anita Viegelmann

The Newman Club is thrilled with the announcement that Mr. Robert O'Connell will be its new advisor. Mr. O'Connell, who came to Bryant in 1956, has taught in both the Secretarial and Preparatory Departments. The fact that he teaches Global Geography, Literature, English, and Political Science shows his professional range.

As a Freshman at Boston University, Mr. O'Connell along with several of his "huddies" took a hitch-hike tour around the United States, Canada, and Mexico. This trip enabled him to visit most of the major cities of the United States and to see "How America Lives."

Mr. O'Connell is a busy man! Along with teaching, he is a hus-

Sigma Iota Beta Hosts Girls at Tea

By Lynne McGough

The more than 100 girls that attended Sigma Iota Beta's Tea on Sunday afternoon, November 5, found the sisters very cooperative in becoming acquainted with them and answering their questions about SIB.

The general warm atmosphere, helped by the music of a Hi-Fi, refreshments of coffee and assorted pastries, and the singing of SIB's standard songs, was typical of SIB's closely knit sisterhood. Under the direction of Carolyn Rucinski, Vice President and Pledge Mistress of SIB, the sisters did a fine job in presenting the sorority to prospective pledgees.

Although it was difficult for all the sisters to meet each girl at the Tea, one sister will sponsor several girls. In this way, a girl will not be a complete stranger to the rest of the sorority. The sisters now have a harder job of interviewing each individual girl and deciding on those to receive bids; but, as always, SIB will accept all those girls who it feels will make worthy and creditable sisters of Sigma Iota Beta.
