

Dr. William Fales Joins Bryant As Dean of Men

By Jim Gallagher

William David Fales, a teacher and administrator at the Rhode Island School of Design for nearly fifty years, has resigned to become the Dean of Men at Bryant College. He assumed his new position on October 1.

In announcing the resignation of Dr. Fales from his staff, Dr. Fraser, President of the Rhode Island School of Design, issued this statement: "Few men have served their college with the devotion that William David Fales has given in the Rhode Island School of Design. He is leaving his alma mater with the very best wishes of all who have known him as an inspiring teacher, a remarkable administrator, and a valued friend."

After graduating from the School of Design in 1914, Dr. Fales became an instructor in the textile design division. He rose to Head of the School of Textiles in 1920 and then became in turn Supervisor of the Evening School, Chairman of the Textile Division and now leaves the position of Director of Residence for Men at Rhode Island School of Design to join Bryant College.

His association with professional organizations includes the Presidency of the National Council for Textile Education, the American Society for Testing Materials, the American Arbitration Association of Woolen and Worsted Overseers, the Providence Engineering Society of which he was a Councilor, the American Society for Engineering Education, National Academy of Science, Engineering Committee. He is presently chairman of the Rhode Island Industrial Code Commission for Safety and Health in Industry, a position he was appointed to in 1949.

He is a member of the Friends of the Library of Brown University, the Providence Art Club, the Turks Head Club. He serves as a trustee of the Old Slater Mill Association and also of the East Providence Free Library.

He has collaborated in the preparation of seven text books on "Cotton Manufacturing," published in 1937 by the Textile Foundation, and published laboratory manuals on "Elementary Textile Design" and "Advanced Textile Design." In 1933 he collaborated in a survey of textile education in Eastern United States and Canada and in 1949 took part in survey of textile education in England and Switzerland.

When interviewed, Dr. Fales stated that he was happy to receive his position as Dean of Men and felt that this position held a challenge in a college with such a bright future.

Stardusters Are Bryant's Band

By Dale Caswell

The Bryant Stardusters, under the supervision of Mr. Ralph S. Handy, have acquired local acclaim for top-notch performances.

The dance band started its season playing for the Freshmen Liberation Dance. After a rousing success at the Young Republican Rally, where it joined in concert with groups from Brown and Pembroke, the band played for the Scarecrow Crawl.

The band carries a full five-man section of trumpets, plus five saxes. Three trombones, bass drums, and piano fill the six-man quota so that the concert will be a success. The Men's Glee Club is also working on selections to be presented at this time.

Posters displayed around the campus will announce the time and place for these events.

Edward Blackman Elected to 3-Year Term on CPA Council

Edward Blackman

Edward Blackman, a 1929 graduate of Bryant, has recently been elected to a three-year term on the governing council of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. He is the elected Rhode Island governing Council member of the 37,000-member national professional organization.

Since his graduation from Bryant in 1929, Mr. Blackman has held a number of prominent civic and business positions, which include being president of the Estate Planning

The official judging was held on Thursday, October 20 at 7:30 p.m. The judging and questioning was done by a panel of three men who were Jay Kroll, WJAR-TV; Bill O'Brien, WPRO; and Art Butler, President of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. The questions asked by the judges were unique. They dealt with personality in personal life and one question was on current events and concerned the great debates between Senator John Kennedy and Vice President Richard Nixon. The questions were good although it was quite difficult to give an immediate answer to them. Generally, although the candidates seemed nervous, they tried hard and gave good answers.

As a conclusion to the big week-end, on Sunday Beta Sigma Chi in conjunction with Phi Sigma Nu held a jazz concert in the gym from 2:00-4:00 p.m. Everyone there enjoyed listening to the great jazz music of Bill Weston.

Council of Rhode Island, a member of the Committee on Municipal Revenue in Providence, president of the Rhode Island Society of CPA's, and Chairman of the State Board of Accountancy. He is presently a senior partner in the accounting firm of Blackman & Blackman.

In addition to his professional activities, Mr. Blackman is active as a trustee of Temple Emanu-El and member of the Narragansett Council of the Boy Scouts of America.

Student Senate Will Sponsor Mock Election

By Janice A. Ring

Cast your ballot for the men of your choice! No registration is necessary, and there is no age limit.

On Wednesday, November 2, the Student Senate of Bryant College will hold a mock Presidential election in which every Bryant student will be eligible to vote. Authenticity will be stressed. The Student Senate hopes to acquire a voting machine to use in the election. Prior to the event both the Young Republicans and the Young Democrats of Rhode Island will hold rallies and campaign for their candidates.

The results of this mock election will be compared with the results of similar elections being held in other colleges throughout the United States. All the statistics will be part of a national college poll.

Voting will take place in the gymnasium between 10:00 a.m. and 2:00 p.m. Don't miss your chance to back the Presidential candidate of your choice.

Sec. Students See Shorthand Expert

Bryant played host to Charles H. Zoubek, author of shorthand texts for the Gregg Publishing Division of the McGraw-Hill Publishing Company at a recent lecture. Miss Priscilla M. Moulten introduced Mr. Zoubek, who is the recipient of a shorthand award for reaching speeds beyond 200 words a minute.

Mr. Zoubek gave very helpful hints to his awe-stricken audience as they watched him take court and reporting dictation from Mrs. D. F. O'Connell, shorthand instructor at Bryant. A renewed vigor was put into the hearts of all those working toward their shorthand speed requirements by Mr. Zoubek's inspiring demonstration.

Here is an architect's sketch of the new six-room class building that is going to be built just south of the Administration Building at 148 Hope Street.

On Campus Views

By Frank S. Juracka

In the last issue of the Archway, it was announced that Bryant will abandon its long standing two and two-and-one-half year degree program and offer a three year accelerated program.

The two year accelerated program was adopted as standard in 1916. This program enabled the student to earn a Bachelor's Degree in two years. The essence of this program is that the student would by-pass most liberal arts subjects and place his concentration with business. The new three year program provides for a broad and cultural education by including many subjects concerned with the sciences, arts, and humanities. Therefore, it cannot be disputed that the student taking the three year program will receive a better education than the student on the previous two year program.

There have been many graduates of the previous two year program who have become very successful in the business world. The thought that now comes to mind is whether the new three year program will contribute more to a person's success in the business world than the program previously offered. I have interviewed members of the Bryant College faculty to obtain their opinions concerning this question.

QUESTION:

Although the three year program offers a broad and cultural education, do you believe that the new program is actually necessary for full development in the specific field of business?

ANSWERS:

Professor John McCabe, Professor of Personnel Relations and Industrial Management.

Very definitely. The education of the "whole" man is a necessity today. Many companies are recruiting the liberal arts graduates and training them in the science of business. Bryant's new program offers industry graduates versed in the arts and trained in business.

Professor Dorman Hayes, Professor of Taxes and Accounting.

I believe it is necessary today for a person to have a broad education. In the first place, the two year program was so condensed that the student had difficulty in assimilating all of the subject matter in two years. It is much better to spread the work out over three years. The second point is that when we are at school, we are preparing for our entire life. Therefore, the better foundation we can get when we are young the more full the rest of our life will be.

Professor Ralph Handy, Professor of English.

Business trainees on the college level presumably have their ambitions centered on executive positions. In applying for such positions Bryant graduates are in competition with graduates of four-year colleges and even with products of graduate schools of business. Under our new program Bryant students will have a course that is really comparable to courses offered by four-year colleges. I like the old saying, "God makes a pumpkin in five months, but he takes a hundred years to make an oak tree."

Dean Paul Buchanan, Dean of Admissions.

The new program affords the graduate with a margin for growth in his new position. Heretofore the graduate had to supply the cultural content by personal effort. From now on the student will receive the same content in a disciplined manner. This will increase his growth potential.

Mr. Robert O'Connell Instructor of English and Geography.

I believe that an increased amount of liberal arts subjects would be beneficial to the average business student at this time. Not only would it add to his general background in education, but it will aid him in meeting the increased liberal arts environment in the business area.

Alumni Committee Arranging Scholarships and Homecoming

National Alumni Council of Bryant College is busy preparing for their scholarship drive and, of course, Homecoming Weekend, 1961.

A solicitation for funds is being conducted by the Scholarship Committee. Almost all of the Alumni have received letters asking for their support. These letters are to be sent periodically. At Pittsfield, the chairman, is pleased with the results of the first solicitation and is looking forward to the future drives. The Committee is now selecting recipients for these scholarships. Forms for scholarships can be obtained from the Office of the Director of Student Activities.

The plans for next year's Homecoming are in the first stages of development. The Chairman of Homecoming Weekend has already appointed the subcommittee chairmen and together they are outlining their plans. As in the past, the societies and fraternities will work with the Alumni Council in planning their activities for Homecoming.

Business and Economic Conditions

By Russell W. Bland

The second greatest problem facing the U. S. businessman today is competition in foreign markets. In order to keep our head above water we have had to (1) Step up our exports by 21 per cent—up to $9.2 billion in the first six months of 1960. (2) Invest more in plants abroad—a survey of only 140 corporations shows that they invested almost $600 million this first half year. (3) Most important of all—use the hard sell.

We seem to have awakened out of an international lethargy with a bang. The market potential outside the U. S. is immeasurable and our corporations have a jump on the competition with time tested techniques such as hard sell advertising. "Creating a desire" is virtually unknown in many countries. In fact, many mass marketing methods have not been tried yet. All this leads me to conclude that today's businessman has to be a "global thinker."

Taxes, namely depreciation allowances, will be drastically re-arranged by Congress early next year. Allowances will be streamlined to the forced obsolescence problem.

Helicopter production will take an upward curve in the next few months. This is due mainly to increased exploration programs in the oil industry. Note . . . only 1,700 civilian helicopters in use in the world today, 82 per cent U. S. made.

Automation of dock cargo handling on the West Coast has brought to a close a 20-year controversy with great benefits for both sides. This tremendous stride towards better cooperation between management and labor should be held up as an example for all to follow.

FROM WHERE I SIT

By Jim Baker

As we went to press this week the football championship had yet to be decided, but I must say that the play was just short of spectacular. AOX and Phi Sig certainly were the favorites of the league. Billy Brock was by far the outstanding lineman of the year and Tau Epsilon was certainly glad to have him. Denny Almonte and Tom Grady were great backfield men but the darkhorse of the league was Eddie Allen, Phi Sig's quarterback, who has the ability to get behind you just about all the time.

Basketball will begin in two weeks and this year at Bryant that has audience participation. It seems that these beautiful fall days keep the Bryant fans inside. Football is a wonderful fall sport and it is always a good game no matter who is playing. The same goes for softball.

I ran across an alumnus of Bryant the other day who mentioned the fact that Texas. It seems that when he arrived there the first sergeant told him that Tony Kubek of the New York Yankees slept in the hands he was about to occupy. "Never mind Tony Kubek," quipped the Bryant grad, "you just tell the next group that comes in, Sergeant, that Fumbles Ferret slept in the back. They'll know who it is." Welcome home, Fum.

The Pirates won the pennant. Casey Stengel caught the axe. The Browns and Colts are going strong in each of their divisions. The NBA opened up with the Celtics and Hawks favored again. Khrushchev finally went back in Russia, and Matt Holland missed his eleventh push-up in a row on the outdoor court.

These Sunday afternoon football games are keeping many glued to the TV set. Last Sunday the Redskins came from behind to tie the Giants. Ralph Guglielmi led his team brilliantly and as a whole played better than Johnny Unitas. Then if you switched the dial you could see Lenny Moore galloping for one of his three touchdowns as the Colts jumped all over the Rams in a 31-17 win. Turning the dial again you could see the Cleveland battling it out. Even beats "Gunsmoke" and "Have Gun, Will Travel." What ever happened to Bevo Franks???

Phi Sig Captures Football Championship

by Wayne Miller

Alpha Theta Chi and Phi Sigma Nu met in championship play-off intramural football game at Pitman Field on Tuesday, October 25. Pete Northrop of AOX turns end with Tom Romano and Gus Guilfere running interference. Phi Sig ended the game with a winning score of 14 to 6.

Phi Sigma Nu 14 - AOX 6
Bryant College's new intramural football league champions are the very aggressive Phi Sigma Nu team. In one of the best games of the season, a Benny Nero five-yard touchdown pass and a Ron Allen's scoring jaunt on an interception proved too much for a very good AOX football team. The first half was mainly a defensive battle with a Nero interception with 35 seconds left in the first half thwarting AOX's drive.

Phi Sigma Nu scored with lightning effect two quick touchdowns at the start of the third quarter to turn the tide of the game. A 25-yard pass play from Benny Nero to Tom McDermott in the two-yard line set up a scoring pass in the flat to Gus Suneson who made a great catch.

After AOX received the ball, a Denny Almonte pass near the sidelines was intercepted by Ron Allen who returned the ball 30 yards for the score. Two short swing passes to Jim Kegan and Stu Koborsky scored both extra points.

Midway in the 4th quarter Almonte threw a 30-yard pass to Art Parsons. On the next play behind this great blocking Phi Sigma Nu ran 30 yards for AOX's only score. A pass for the points after touchdown fell incomplete. An inside kick failed and Phi Sigma Nu proceeded to run out the clock to win their first championship.

Intramural Football Games

AOX 13-Tau Epsilon 6

In one of the semi-final games of the intramural league playoffs AOX was the victor in a surprisingly close game. The great play of Gus Suneson and Benny Nero turned the tide for the underdog Phi Sigma Nu team. The teams was some of the best ever witnessed in Bryant's intramural football games. The referees deserve a pat on the back for officiating another good game. The game's first score came on an extended drive when Benny Nero threw a fifteen-yard pass to Gus Suneson.

On the next play Denny Almonte hit Al Johnston in the flat for the td. On a very questionable call by the referee, Almonte ran for the extra point, giving AOX a lead which they never relinquished.

The second half was much of a defensive battle with neither team able to do much with the other's defensive team. AOE missed a golden opportunity to tie the game in the closing moments but their attack stalled, and they were forced to give up the ball. With four seconds remaining, Almonte threw a 65-yard td. to Art Parsons who made a lunging grab of the ball.

Tau Epsilon 18-Chi Gamma Iota 2

Tau Epsilon unleashed their offensive strength and coasted to a decisive victory over Chi Gamma Iota. In the first quarter, a Tom Grady forty-five-yard touchdown-throw to Bob Rudowski, caught the Chi Gamma Iota team off balance from which they never recovered. Later on Tom Grady hit Pete Cocoli in the flat with a perfectly executed pass, and he proceeded to receive three Chi Gamma Iota secondary for the game's second score.

Nick Farrington was stopped on a run for the attempted point after touchdown.

Chi Gamma Iota broke into the scoring column in the fourth quarter when Art Jones tagged Tom Grady behind the goal line. In the latter part of this quarter, Bill Burch, who played a fine defensive game, intercepted a pass and ran to the two-yard line.

Tau Epsilon finished their scoring when Tom Grady threw a two-yard touchdown pass to Pete Cocoli.

Phi Sigma Nu 14-AOX 0

The great play of Gus Suneson and Benny Nero turned the tide for the underdog Phi Sigma Nu team. The referees deserve a pat on the back for officiating another good game. The game's first score came on an extended drive when Benny Nero threw a fifteen-yard pass to Gus Suneson.

On the next play Denny Almonte hit Al Johnston in the flat for the td.

On the next play Nero threw a 35-yard touchdown pass to Ron Allen who made a miraculous catch of the ball.

A jump pass to Gus Guilfere scored the point after touchdown. AOX could not get any drive under way until the winning moments of the game when Gus Suneson made another interception to stop their drive. This game was marked by hard, clean blocking, particularly by Phi Sigma Nu's Stu Koborsky.

AOX 2-Phi Sigma Nu 0

In the semi-final game at Bryant's intramural football league AOX's defensive team came to their rescue to thwart a possible Phi Sigma Nu championship. Neither team was able to put together any offensive drive in the first half, although AOX had started an offensive drive in the second quarter when Benny Nero intercepted a pass to stop their attack.

Most of the thrills centered in the very last play of the game. On this play a Benny Nero pass was intercepted behind the goal by Denny Almonte; but instead of showing the half he attempted to run and was tackled by Gus Guilfere of Phi Sigma Nu. A penalty developed and since a football game cannot end on a penalty Phi Sigma Nu was given one more play, but a Nero pass fell incomplete.

In the overtime Phi Sigma Nu was thrown for six minus yards, and Almonte's four quarter back coughed although gaining no yardage, won the game for AOX.

RECAPS

Battle Saturday's $7,500 Blackstone Valley Handicap at Narragansett Park by virtue of the expert handling and daring of jockey Hauvin Sorenson, seems in my shape for tomorrow's feature race, the $25,000 added Narragansett Special.

After Shut Down, with jockey Grimm in the irons, moved ahead of Battle Neck on the outside near the sixteenth pole, it looked as if Battle Neck was doomed to a second-place finish. Battle Neck refused to give up, however, as jockey Sabarnis drove his mount into the hole between Shut Down and the rail before Shut Down could close it. It was a last desperate charge on the part of Sorenson who was eluding possible life, tank, and horse flesh on that narrow strip of turf between Shut Down and the rail; but Sorenson expertly waltzed Battle Neck through the hole to notch out Shut Down at the wire.

Among other things, it was a bad day for our horse and a close call for two jockeys. Jockey Claude Hopner, riding Cher Fox in the first race of the day, voluntarily left his mount after the start of the race. Jockey and horse parted company when Cher Fox broke a leg and Hopper leaped off to escape injury. Hopper was unharmed; to prove it, he rode the winner of the next race, Arnold II.

HANDICAPS

The only horses named to race in tomorrow's feature race, the $25,000 added Narragansett Special, at the time of this writing are Battle Neck, Firestick, and Sir Tom. Battle Neck proved he can run the rugged 1 mile and 3/16; Firestick is a late closer and can run the long ones; and Sir Tom, as of late, has been unable to hold a lead, doesn't seem to have enough for the long race.

Bella Sun, previously picked for improvement, improved last week to the tune of $4,000, as did Weighty Problem. Our Way Out and Mighty Hercules are top choice next time out. A long shot worth watching is Bit O' Joy. Scratch Fiddle Arc. runners say he has a lameness after his last race it must be true.

Kappa Tau Names Honorary Brother

By Richard Macomber

The brothers of Kappa Tau announce a great addition to their fraternity in the person of Ralph San Souci, honorary brother.

On October 11, the fraternity voted unanimously to accept Ralph, a night chef in the cafeteria, as an honorary brother. Ralph states his feelings about being made a brother as follows, "I sincerely feel it an honor to be made an honorary brother of KT. It is even more of an honor to be selected after such a short time here."

Ralph, who is married and has six children, was born on January 23, 1912. He has worked as a cook for 26 years. A few of the typical places in which Ralph has worked are the Lake Placid Country Club; Kelleher's Country Club; The Carlton Hotel, Narragansett Pier; The Cliff Walk Hotel, Newport. Ralph came to Bryant in September of 1959. Asked how he likes working under Mr. Falcione and Loui, Ralph said, "I've never been so happy working for anyone. It's like one big family here."

Lawn Party Huge Success

By Dave Santo

Recently the brothers of Phi Sigma Nu and the sisters of Sigma Iota Chi held their annual lawn party at the home of Bob Bianchini.

Miss Mary Conly of Providence was the lucky person to drive away the 1960 Fiat which was recently raffled at the school. Our thanks go out to all those who supported us in our annual raffle.

The brothers of Phi Sigma Nu welcome Mr. John Renza as a new advisor.

At the last meeting the brothers chose Carol Nixon as their candidate in the up coming Sno' Queen campaign.

Communion Breakfast Attracts Many

By Mary Anita Viegelmann

The first Communion Breakfast scheduled by the Newman Club this year had a very successful turnout at Johnson's Hummocks Restaurant. After a tasty meal, President Paul Orsina introduced the speaker, Mr. Richard Williams, who talked about "Truth and Tolerance." Besides discussing the religious aspects of truth, he spoke about the importance of being truthful to one's self and being tolerant of others. This speech was then followed by a question-answer period.

A movie meeting was held on October 26 in the gym at 3 p.m. Many of the 190 members enjoyed the meeting as being informative as well as interesting.

Final preparations are now being made for a retreat on the week-end of November 12. It is still not too late to sign up for this rewarding experience.

Two Bryant Students Hail From Bogota, Columbia

By Janet Fontaine

Bogota, Colombia has two representatives on the Bryant campus this semester. Their names—Susana Schalyt and Julie Uprimny. Both are fairly new to America and we thought it would be interesting to note their opinions of this country and, at the same time, find out a little about theirs.

Stockbridge Prep School in Stockbridge, Massachusetts, has been the home of Miss Schalyt for two years. The summers have found her at home, in South America, where her father owns a leather manufacturing factory.

When confronted with the question, "What do you think of the American education system?" she commented that she believes the American standard is far below that of Colombian schools. Their curriculum consists of fourteen subjects a day, including four languages, physics, and trigonometry. She also believes, however, that a student in America has a better chance for a well-rounded education and character due to the many outside activities available to him.

After finishing her one year course at Bryant, she hopes to go on to Georgetown University where she will study to be an interpreter.

Miss Uprimny has been in the States only a few months, but she has already arrived at the conclusion that she enjoys it here and would like to live in America.

She attended a school in Vermont for three months to learn more of the English language and now knows a total of five different tongues, including Latin, German, French, Spanish, and English. Her Colombian instructed her in philosophy and psychology as well as trigonometry and physics. The strange fact is that she finds typing and shorthand rather difficult and comments that she was never given so much homework before.

Scarecrow Crawl A Huge Success

By Amy Tella

Friday, October 14, the sisters of S. I. C. were hostesses for the first sorority-sponsored dance of the season. More than 300 gathered to dance in the gaily decorated gym.

To start off the sports season, S. I. C. came ahead to win three games over Sigma Lambda Theta in the first day of bowling. Because of the results of this first contest, S. I. C. is looking forward to a very successful bowling season.

The sisters are enthusiastic in their approval of Carol Nixon as Phi Sigma Nu's Snow Queen candidate and are planning a vigorous campaign with their brothers.

To get its community service activities underway, the members of S. I. C. are planning a Halloween Party for the children at Patrick O'Rourke's Children's Home. This party will be held on October 6.

SIB-BIB Smoker Draws Big Crowd

By Lynne McCough

The Bryant College Gym was a crowded and active place Tuesday night, October 18, as the brothers and sisters of BIB and SIB held their smoker for the more than 250 freshmen that attended.

SIB's open meeting introduced some 170 girls to the sorority sisters' history, activities, and objectives. The brothers had a comparable attendance at their meeting.

Highlighting the evening's entertainment was the showing of some of SIB-BIB's films of past parties, community service works, and last year's spectacular May Queen Dance. This was followed by a buffet supper, thoroughly enjoyed by everyone. Dancing to the music of a part of the Stardusters, everyone had a fine opportunity to mix and mingle and enjoy the entire evening.

BEX News

By Robert Moody

The brothers of BEX feel that they have set a precedent for future years in conducting another successful Personality Dance.

The judging of the candidates Thursday, the student voting on Friday, the Personality Ball on Saturday, and the jazz concert on Sunday afternoon will surely be a chain of events that all be looking for next year.

The bowling team got in the groove once again this season by beating Kappa Tau Fraternity. Norm Steinhour, Gene Groshowky, and Paul Jette are three of last year's veterans who have returned this semester to support the team in another successful season.

A Halloween Party is scheduled for the children of the St. Aloysius Orphanage. If anyone is interested in assisting the brothers of Beta with this party, he should contact any of the brothers.

The brothers of Beta Sigma Chi would like to thank the brothers of Phi Sigma Chi and their sisters, Sigma Iota Chi, for their cooperation in putting on the Jazz Concert.
