Dan Jansen to Speak at Bryant

Submitted by College Relations
Dan Jansen, Olympic gold medal speed skating champion, will be Bryant's second Trustee Speaker on March 30, at 8 p.m. in the Mac.

Jansen, who has been a CBS Sports commentator during this year's Olympics in Japan, won worldwide respect and admiration when he overcame great adversity to finally bring home the gold in 1994.

At age 18, Jansen skated in his first Olympic competition in 1984 at Sarajevo. He finished an incredible .16 of a second away from a bronze medal. Four years later, he was the favored speedskater at the Olympics in Calgary, but needed all the courage he could gather when, on the day he was to race, his sister died from leukemia. His confidence shattered, Jansen went home that year without a medal. He returned to the games in Albertville favored to win gold in 1992, and again the chance to win an Olympic medal eluded him when he came in fourth. But Jansen continued to persevere and came back once again in 1994. This time, in Lillehammer, he raced to a world record and brought home the gold.

Hear his story and learn what it takes to succeed.

Freshmen applications up 20 percent

Statistics show that Bryant is the business school of choice these days among many high school seniors – first-time freshmen applications are up 20 percent over the same time last year. Given the scholastic standing of the applicants, this fall's incoming freshmen class is on track to see an increase as well, according to Margaret Drugovich, dean of admission and financial aid. No small achievement, given that the 1997 freshmen applicants and enrolled students set records over previous years.

"With the downturn in the number of high school graduates over the past 15 years or so combined with a decreased interest in business, the increase we've seen at Bryant over the last couple of years in some ways 'defies gravity'," says Drugovich. "When I look at our overall marketplace and try to analyze why Bryant has seen an increase, I think the answer is fairly simple – we have gotten the message out. We understand what Bryant has to offer. We have dramatically redesigned our recruitment efforts with the help of colleagues throughout the college and have made sure that the opportunities available at Bryant are very, very clear. I think this has made a dramatic difference."

Drugovich notes that students who choose Bryant tend to be dedicated, well prepared, and involved in many extracurricular activities.

"This year alone, we have had 15 applicants who are valedictorians or salutatorians of their class," says Drugovich. "They are a terrifically qualified student body of applicants, and the common theme among them is that they really want the best possible start that they can get and the best investment for their educational dollar."

Data being analyzed at this time indicates that 1997 Bryant graduates will have one of the best job placement records. The percentage of students who either go directly to graduate school or take a job within six months of graduation may be as high as 92 to 94 percent.

"That kind of placement rate is outstanding," says Drugovich. "Through working with businesses over time, we understand the qualities and attributes that employers are looking for in undergraduate students. Our curriculum is tailored to give students the advantage that they need when they enter the market place."

Drugovich reports that seniors working in the Office of Admission and Financial Aid who have been interviewed recently have already been offered jobs. "These are not base-line positions," she says, "they are good positions with good salaries. Some students are getting signing bonuses for committing to employers. There's a tremendous marketplace right now for Bryant students with a good preparation in business."

Dan Jansen, Olympic hero, will tell Bryant what it takes to succeed.

Internship Spotlight: Fidelity Investments

by Todd Bernstein '98
Last fall, Todd served as a marketing intern with Katherine Kulieski at Fidelity Investments, Worcester, MA.
Professor Keith Murray served as his faculty advisor.

The world of opportunity has fallen upon us and Bryant College students have opportunities to make the most of it. While interning at an Investor Center within Fidelity Investments, I discovered basic fundamentals that an intern should adhere to which will ultimately lead to bigger and better things. I put these fundamentals to work and received a great permanent job offer!

Observe and listen - At times, especially in the beginning, I was assigned mundane tasks. I strategically located my work to the front desk to place myself in the middle of the action! I was able to perform my less exciting duties and still listen in on meetings between the financial representatives and the customer.

Prioritization - As I learned more, the workload became overwhelming and I can almost guarantee that there will not be enough time to please everyone. I had to learn which project had the most critical deadline in order to prioritize correctly. Communicating with the managers was vital!!

Faculty advisement - I found my advisor and professors very supportive. When I was given difficult assignments at work, I sought help. Professors were able to review technical applications that allowed me to successfully assignments.

Punctuality - I recommend that you keep a set schedule because as time progresses you will find that you are needed on a regular time period. An organization mainly runs like a clock, which is accompanied by many deadlines, and if you are there when needed then your opportunity for success will most definitely climb.

Personal space - While interning, I was at the front desk with a lot of customers and came upon a complex situation so the manager was called out. He resolved the problem and the day went on. When I saw him at lunch I put my hand on his shoulder and thanked him profusely. Toward the end of the day he called me into his office and told him never to touch him again. I was shocked and basically devastated. After giving the incident some thought, I went to his office and apologized and assured him I meant no disrespect. We were able to establish a close relationship and I learned a valuable lesson. I know the importance of professional behavior and respect colleagues personal space!

Final Thoughts From Mr. Big Mouth

Here are some of my final thoughts before my term as Editor-in-chief is over. Just in case anyone was wondering what the hell is going through his mind.

Editorial

Going Bi-Weekly Should Prove Beneficial
What the hell are we thinking? Going bi-weekly? For those who are unfamiliar with the situation, The Archway will be going to a bi-weekly publication for the rest of this year. This should prove to be beneficial to The Archway and its readers for several reasons. First, it should provide The Archway with enough time to put together a quality paper that consists of more than just the Campus Scene or DPS report. This will prove to be beneficial to the clubs and organizations as well because it allows them time to turn a quality article that would contain more than thanking another organization for a "good time" last Friday. Secondly, The Archway is in a state of transition as a new editor-in-chief and managing editor are being trained in April. By going to a bi-weekly publication, the new editors will be trained properly and therefore run an effective organization next year. Finally, the move from the MAC to the Bryant Center has left the paper without proper computer equipment to run an effective and efficient publication. Going bi-weekly should eliminate many problems that the staff has faced in printing the last issue.

Creating Healthy Debates
Misunderstandings are common when readers read too much into an editorial. An editorial an opinion based on the Editor's perceptions of events on this campus. Now it is perfectly okay for people to disagree with my views. In fact, it creates a possible situation for a healthy debate. Remember that the Forum is designed for students and faculty to express their opinions. Oh, the editorial does not speak for the school, just in case some people haven't figured that out yet.

Supporting the Right Cause
Too eliminate any misunderstandings from the previous editorial, the Editor did supported the contract talks between the College and the Yellowmen. It was unfortunate that a one day strike had to occur, however, the contract turned out to be a win-win situation for both parties, something that was never mentioned by the ISC. It seems that the ISC took the contract has a victory for the Yellowmen and a defeat for the college, when in actually both parties agreed the contract was mutually beneficial. ISC should not be so one-sided, or rather, motivated by self-interest. The editorial questioned the motive of the ISC, and not the Yellowmen, this must be known. Finally, there are always two sides to a strike. The College played hardball, but so did the Yellowmen. It's all part of the negotiation process. Did the Yellowmen success bring ISC to a more prestige at Bryant? If so, then ISC was motivated by their self-interest to propagandize their ideals of socialism.

Diversity at Bryant
Bryant stands out as one of the top business colleges in America. However, did anyone ever ask how the minority students about how they perceive life at Bryant to be. For many Asians on this campus, Bryant does not offer enough in terms of diversity and cultural understanding. It's a sensitive issue and a touchy subject, but it must be discussed. All too often, I hear about how Bryant is not diverse enough because of its conservatism. That may be fine for the majority of the campus, but Bryant should pay attention to those the minority.

Fact or Fiction

This year has been marvelous as many controversial issues were brought to light. First, there was the Letter to the Editor about the lost key and George Coronado. DPS did lose the key or in Coronado's words "misplaced them." To me that's the same as losing them. However, Coronado lost more than just the key. Secondly, the water pipes did break in a Greek Organization's suite during a party. Just ask the College about who was responsible. Maybe it was true after all. Finally, The Archway's move finally did occur. Our office is without the proper equipment promised to us by then Interim Vice-President Marc Furtado. Its too bad people lie and promises are broken.

Your Welcome

Dear Mr. Higginson, and Mr. Piette:

This is in response to your article "Thank you DPS Patrolman" in the last issue of the Archway. First and foremost I would like to thank you both for expressing your feelings and thanks to the DPS Patrolmen. I do however, take exception to your references to supervisors throughout the article. By your statements you portray DPS as the bad guys so to speak. I would request that you name that person specifically rather than generalizing and including us all. I can only speak for myself when I say that I have always been fair and supportive of every member of this community including all SEIU personnel. In conclusion let me commend all SEIU personnel for taking a stand for what you believe, and congratulations on your new contract.

Spring Break: Homeless in Cancun

Once upon a time there was a wicked company called Class Travel who attempted to function as a successful Spring Break

Gayle Zahnke
Columnist

package organization. At a small Rhode Island college, nine seniors decided to go to Cancun for their dream vacation. With bright eyes and hopeful expectations they booked two timeshares at the Villas Marlin in Mexico — one for four people and the other for five people — along with a flight from Boston. The good friends really wanted a living room and kitchen area so that everyone could be together in a spacious, comfortable environment.

The naïve crew encountered the first Class Travel obstacle course two weeks prior to departure. An ugly pasta company, Allegro, cancelled their flight from Boston! Nine little seniors survived this inconvenience by taking a charter bus from Beantown to Newark. They left at 3 p.m. on Friday to catch a 6 p.m. bus.

Their journey was long and humorous as some typical Spring Break events were already underway. Trooping along with some other Bryant students and new friends they traveled on bus to plane back to bus. The Cancun bus brought them safely to the Oasis Resort for an orientation. This is where the fun began at about 8 a.m. Saturday morning.

Immediately after orientation the two parties were called up to speak with a Class Travel representative. They were upgraded to a different hotel — El Pablito. Already upset, the nine journeyed back on the bus to their new hotel who ironically had no reservations for them. Class Travel's monsters were laughing, believing they had won, because the students were homeless in Mexico. Ha, ha! Some of the victims reformed a Class Travel spy into a friend. One was on their side. Their new friend booked them with the Hyatt Regency instead. After an hour and a half visit to El Pablito the nine were in a van on the way to the Hyatt.

After detouring to the wrong Cancun Hyatt, they disembarked with their entire luggage to the Hyatt Regency, which was thankfully a beautiful hotel. It was disappointing because they realized they were not staying in a timeshare or suite. Their spy-friend bargained and bartered with pesos, silver jewelry, T-shirts, and even Class Travel vacations to attain adequate accommodations at the Hyatt. No rooms were available by two in the afternoon. Tired and hungry the nine seniors took a hiatus and ate lunch. Spies could have followed them to the All-Star Café where a Mexican waiter acted as a human dog by barking, crawling on all fours, and "urinated" on one of the aggravated travelers. These seniors were definitely dumped on!

Back at the Hyatt, the nine troopers finally got one room, and later even another. By three in the afternoon after being homeless for approximately twenty-four hours, the nine had a home. Unfortunately, their request and need for a third hotel room never developed. Nine students squeezed into two four-person rooms. Class Travel continued to haunt their vacation, but the nine had much fun despite their evil efforts. With more fiascoes and obstacles the seniors somehow returned safely home to Bryant. It is still undecided who won the battle of the homeless in Cancun, the evil Class Travel or the optimistic nine seniors.

FORUM

"College Radio?" --Yes, College Radio!

Dear Concerned Listener,

Before I begin, I would like to apologize for my apparently harsh attitude toward the editor in my last article. I didn't realize the possibly offensive tone that I used. I am not apologizing for what I said, just for the way that I said it and would like to add that I am gracious for the fact that my article was printed, along with this one.

As for the concerned listener, I make no apologies and am very glad that I was able to make you smile. However, I'm a little disappointed in the fact that you completely overlooked the meaning of my last article. Maybe that is my fault. Maybe I came off a little bit too strong for you. But hey, I claim to be a manager. I never claimed to be a saint.

"This does not appear to be the case with Nick's station." The frustrated sarcasm that I sense in your article indicates that you feel as though I have no right to call the radio station "mine". Well, it is. I say that as a term of endearment. I have put a lot of time, work, sweat, stress, stress, stress, and more stress into that organization in the past year and I have managed to work my way to the top. Too put it simply, I have extensive pride in what I have achieved so far and for the future that I have planned. I don't feel as though it belongs to me as a physical asset. I don't think of the people who work for me as employees, although that is the easiest and most respectful way to refer to them, but as people who share, hopefully, the same pride that I have in our radio station. I know that some of them do, because there are a lot of people who work very hard at their jobs, and for that I am grateful. I haven't expressed this, but as long as they are involved and doing their part on the air, in the office, at the clubs, on the street, at remotes, at parties, or wherever they are making a contribution, I encourage them to refer to it as their radio station. Maybe you laugh, and if you do, I feel sorry for you because if you think that is stupid or that I am full of it then, it is obvious that you have nothing to call your own, and that is a shame.

"I have several friends who are associated with the radio station. They've told me stories of how Nick's personal opinions about music are getting in the way of who gets a show." I don't know where you are getting your information, actually I have a pretty good idea, but no one has been told that they can not have a show because of their genre. I don't know what else to tell you, except that you are right when you say that college radio is a place for people to play whatever they want no matter how obscure. I have had that vision for a very long time. Unfortunately, some sort of regimentation is necessary to achieve that goal and to attract sponsors, which leads me to another point that you made. Maybe we should have those who we feel are obscure scheduled when there are less listeners. I couldn't disagree with you more. My future plan is to have a day, or maybe two depending on how things work out, for the very small genres to all take part in a free form day where there are no restrictions, but for now, they have simply been relocated to a different part of their original day or to Wednesday morning or afternoon, their choice. If anyone is under the impression that they cannot have a show, I don't understand why, although I realize that not disclosing certain information about my plans was a mistake. All of those people who felt they were being treated unfairly came to me. As I remember, there were seven of them, one of who left before we were done speaking, and three supporters, two who also left before we were finished speaking. I spoke to them for over an hour and told them they had nothing to worry about and that they would have a show, but that I was making plans for the future and that they would lose their old slots and be relocated to make room for a much larger genre. Metal, which unfortunately for me, apparently, is the type of show that I do, for now. There was absolutely no termination. I thought everything was understood, however, two of the seven have yet to reschedule. If they are not getting my message now, I don't know how else to spell it out for them. I am not chasing anyone, when there is a meeting they know about it, they know who I am, they know where I live, my e-mail address is accessible and they have my phone number. What is the problem?

"Don't let your personal preferences and opinions effect the running of the school's radio station." If you only knew my personal preferences, you would realize how ridiculous, insulting, ignorant, empty, and undeserving that accusation is. My station plays Urban for three days, Heavy Metal and Alternative for two, Techno for one, and Country for one day. I listed them purposely in that order, because Urban has the most DJs, and Country has the third least. Punk is after Country, and Classic Rock, Eighties, Speed/Death Metal and Talk all come in dead last at one Dj a piece. Any genre with less DJs than Country, has been assimilated temporarily into Alternative, with the exception of Speed/Death Metal, so that I can eventually achieve partial free form programming. Too put it simply, I try to fill the 168 available hours in the week with whatever I have. It just so happens I have enough Urban DJs to fill about 72 hours as opposed to enough Ska and Punk DJs to fill 6 hours. I have enough Metal DJs to fill about 46 hours. That is how it goes. And just for the record, if you looked at my CD collection, you would see Classical, New Age, Jazz, Metal, World Music, and various Tribal Collections. Not a single Country, Urban, Alternative, or Techno album. Now you can laugh.

All I have left to say is that a few people obviously need to start listening to what I am saying instead of hearing what they want to hear and making themselves angry. Am I feeling misunderstood? Yes, a little, but it could be worse. One of many legends that I have heard speaks of a man two thousand years ago, who was misunderstood and they nailed him to a cross. "I guess what I am trying to say to Nick Brown is lighten up." Well, guess again. You can not be uptight and have this job. It is not easy to stand alone in the spotlight while people take pot-shots at you in groups or from the shadows. However I must commend those ten people who were unhappy with the E-board's prior decisions for talking to me, at least most of them. I would like to see that more often, however, some of them need to work on their delivery and their manners. As for you, I am glad that you are concerned, but if you are really concerned, I encourage you to stand with me. Come out of the shadows. Come speak to me face to face and get the facts about what my intentions are before you send articles into newspapers. Or at least think about what you write before you write it, and sign your name- then again, if I wrote an article like that, I wouldn't sign my name either. Maybe you would realize some things. Maybe you will disagree with me entirely and further stimulate my thoughts. That would do me a lot of good, so let this article serve as an invitation. I would like a board of, for lack of a better term, antagonistic advisors. Not people to cause dissension, just people to disagree and stimulate thought and offer other ideas. Dreamers. People with zest for life and wild imaginations. Does that sound like you? Maybe you could stand with me. You, sir or madam, seem intelligent and full of fire, ready to jump at the drop of a dime. We have a lot of spare change here, so if you care enough to speak on paper, let us see if you can put the pen down and get on the air. I stepped from my shadows long ago, so let us see if the fire of your convictions are strong enough to shed light upon who you are and what you stand for.

"After reading last week's article, An Issue of Good Intentions, by the general manager of WJMF Nick Brown, I had to laugh." Good for you, because nothing makes ME laugh more than the vision of an "adult" hiding behind a piece of paper. And the next time, my friend, that you or anyone else decide to insult me, make sure it is something that you can back up with hard facts that I won't be able to disprove, and make it count. Call me an uncontrollably arrogant zealot with a primal god-complex.

Sincerely yours,

Nicholas D. Brown

A Question of Class

Dear Editor:

In the Archway issued before spring break, the editor chose to take on a topic of interest that has appeared lately on campus. The editor took issue with the International Socialist Club, and its involvement with the recent contract dispute between custodial and maintenance workers, and administration. Some issues included our interest as a student club; our connection to the workers; and our attention to the contract dispute.

The custodial and maintenance workers Service Employees International Union (SEIU) Local 134 (just to clear up any misconceptions) recently struck over a contract dispute with the administration. The main issues involved a two-tier wage system, pension benefits, and holidays. When it came down to it, the union stood together in solidarity and fought for the step system, equal pension plan, and double-time-and-a-half on two holidays (out of three holidays at issue) by unanimously voting against the contract (64-0) Friday February 27th, and walking the picket line en masse starting 7am Sunday March 1st, as they promised. Another point to mention, is that at the 6am meeting March 2nd, the membership voted unanimously for the contract, as they received their demands.

The question raised about the interests of the International Socialist Club (ISC) here at Bryant College is a very valid question: in whose interest do we operate and do we propagate? That is very simple: the working class. The vast majority of people in this world have to work to earn a wage in order to survive. The tiny minority of bosses (those who own and control vast amounts of capital), despite what you may think, don't actually work yet are 'rewarded' with profit from the backs of workers. Now when workers try to organize and fight for what is rightfully theirs, capitalists, their ideologues, and their media, call this greed. How ironic, capitalists run the world, accumulate vast amounts of wealth (all the while billions live in poverty), and when workers fight for a small section of that wealth that they create, they're the ones that are greedy.

The attention shown to the contract by students is justified quite easily. The union contract in itself represents what workers are concerned about in their day-to-day lives. We take an interest in seeing workers' conditions improve, not just for political interests—which are linked to the workers'—but for our own interest as working-class students fighting for favorable living and working conditions after we graduate. The interests of students and workers are intertwined.

In terms of the activities and goals of the ISC, I'll make perfectly clear: we're not some clandestine, secretive, conspiratorial organization that tries to elude or con workers and other people into believing what we have to say. The ISC (International Socialist Organization nationally) has the task of building a genuine workers' party with the intent of smashing world capitalism, and building a socialist society, through the self-activity and self-emancipation of the working class. We're quite honest about it, and make no bones about what we stand for. For a more in depth look into our politics, Marxist politics, check out a copy of our newspaper Socialist Worker and read it. Check out our web page at www.internationalsocialist.org for a free look at our ideas. Or for that matter, call someone who is a member and talk with us about our ideas, instead of listening to people who don't even know the local number of the custodial and maintenance workers, don't know the specifics of the contract dispute, and don't know what administration's role in the dispute was, and yet claim to know something about socialist politics. Since the beginning of our activity on this campus, phone numbers have been available for anyone to call. We know who has called us, and who hasn't—for those who slander us, you should find out what we stand for before talking about what you don't know.

Another point of discussion is regarding our connection to the workers here. Let's put it this way, the workers here know who are behind them. We are open, honest, and clear about who we are, namely working-class students who have taken the responsibility to build a workers' party, and don't claim to have an 'objective' position on contract disputes. In class matters, there are two sides: labor and capital. We're on the side of labor.

The editor will make people believe he is the 'voice of reason,' but his loyalties are quite clear. The editor, in an awkward and bumbling manner, defends the system of inequality known as capitalism. As a system, capitalism is based in competition, exploitation, war, poverty, and barbarism; in which the wealthiest seven men could end poverty with their wealth alone; and in which the wealthiest 358 billionaires are worth more than 52% of the world's population; all the while 840 million people starve every day. This is what the editor defends. We fight against it, in the hope of creating a fair and just society, a truly democratic society. A society driven not by competition and profit, but by human need and want.

Quite Sincerely,
Matt Taibi
International Socialist Club

Editor's Note: Granted not everyone agrees (this is perfect for a healthy debate), the editorial is an opinion based on the Editor's perceptions. To discuss in further details about the politics of socialism or capitalism is a different matter. In his "awkward and bumbling way", the Editor simply pointed out that before anyone joins any organization, check it out first. Is it not true that propaganda is a form of self-interest and did the ISC use the Yellowmen one-day strike as leverage? Quite simply, the Editor believes that self-interest play an important part in everyone, even the ISC.

Student Alumni Association Brings Back Alumni

Dear Members of the Bryant Community:

On Friday, March 27th the Student Alumni Association (SAA) will sponsor Alumni Day II. This event will bring back Alums to shadow their SAA student hosts. The alumni will interact with Bryant students from 8 to 1 in and out of the classroom. Inside the classroom the alumni will talk about their experiences after Bryant. A table will also be setup in the Rotunda where the Bryant Community can interact with the Alums outside of the classroom. This is the second Alumni Day that the Student Alumni Association has held this academic year. The Student Alumni Association decided to have another due to overwhelming faculty and student support of the first. Part of goals for the Student Alumni Association is to increase interaction between Alums and current students, and we believe that with your help and support this event will help us achieve this.

Sincerely:

2/27/98 - It was reported to DPS that a smell of marijuana was coming from a student's room in one of the hall's. A check was made and a marijuana pipe and a large amount of alcohol were discovered in the student's room. Charges were filed.

Vandalism

2/27/98 - While on patrol a DPS officer was dispatched to a residence hall bathroom where the toilet stall door was broken and the room trashed. The cost of replacing the door is $143.00.

Towed Vehicle

2/27/98 - A vehicle was illegally parked in a disabled parking spot by hall 15. After the owner paid all fines, the vehicle was released.

Vandalism

2/28/98 - While on patrol, DPS officers noticed the back entrance window of one of the residence halls was shattered. DPS is conducting an investigation.

Vandalism

2/28/98 - A visitor reported to DPS that their vehicle was vandalized extensively while parked in one of the lots. DPS is conducting an investigation.

Alcohol

2/27/98 - As a DPS officer was passing by the front of one of townhouses, he noticed a full keg lying on the ground near the sidewalk. No one was in sight near the keg. The keg was placed inside of the Unistructure compactor.

Alcohol

3/1/98 - DPS officers responded to a disturbance at one of the townhouses. DPS cleared out a large party in this particular unit. An empty keg was found in the common area behind a couch. A resident student claimed responsibility. The keg was destroyed and charges were filed.

Vandalism

3/1/98 - DPS received a report of a fire trouble alarm in a residence hall. After investigating, it was learned someone took or destroyed four smoke detectors in a hallway. At one of the detectors someone was seen throwing a beer can at a detector, smashing it. An off duty Physical Plant employee was called in to replace the detectors. The alarm was reset. DPS is investigating this incident further.

Vandalism

3/3/98 - It was reported to DPS that the rear window of a car was smashed in the townhouse area. A report was filed and an investigation underway.

Vandalism

3/1/98 - A student reported to DPS that all four tires of their car were slashed. The vehicle was parked in the townhouse area. The complainant indicated this vandalism may have been caused by visitors. DPS is investigating this incident.

Vandalism

3/2/98 - While on mobile patrol a DPS officer was dispatched to the C-4 lot. Paint was thrown on five students' vehicles. Smithfield Police and Fire Department personnel were called to the scene. Firemen hosed down the vehicles and removed most of the paint. Afterwards, the vehicles were brought to lower maintenance and completely cleaned. Complainants were advised to report any new information concerning this incident to DPS or Smithfield Police.

Vandalism

3/2/98 - Two students reported their car windshields had been smashed while parked on the strip by hall 14. DPS will investigate both vandalism reports.

Vandalism

3/3/98 - While on mobile patrol DPS was dispatched to a vandalism call in lot C-2. Someone had scratched a student's car from the passenger's door to the back of the rear fender. There are no suspects at this time.

Fire Alarm

3/3/98 - DPS officers responded to an alarm at Townhouse A. An outdoor grill caused the smoke detector to activate. The alarm was reset.

Fire Alarm

3/3/98 - DPS received an alarm from Townhouse H which was caused by an activated smoke detector. It was reset a short time later by a Physical Plant electrician.

Vandalism

3/4/98 - While on mobile patrol, a DPS officer was dispatched to lot C-4 to inspect damage to a student's vehicle. The student pointed out scratches along the passenger's door and the trunk. No suspects at this time.

Alcohol Violation

3/5/98 - While on routine patrol, an officer requested two additional officers to respond to the side of a residence hall building for an investigation. Upon arrival, the officers heard loud noise coming from one of the suites. The students who opened the suite door to DPS officers admitted to owning the keg DPS spotted in the room. Charges were filed.

Alcohol Violation/Vehicle Tow

3/5/98 - DPS officers noticed two kegs visible from the rear hatchback of a vehicle parked in front of one of townhouses. The owner refused requests by DPS to hand over the kegs. The vehicle was towed off campus and charges were filed.

Alcohol

3/5/98 - DPS officers observed two underage students moving alcohol from a vehicle and placing it in a gym bag. The alcohol was confiscated and destroyed in the Unistructure compactor. Charges were filed.

Drugs/Alcohol

3/5/98 - A DPS officer spotted two students with alcohol in a cooler. A check showed both parties were underage. A check of one of the student's vehicles revealed a strong odor of marijuana. A check of the student's room revealed a large amount of marijuana, scales, bong and scanners. Both students were arrested by Smithfield Police.

Fire Alarm

3/5/98 - A DPS officer responded to a fire alarm in Townhouse C. Steam from the shower caused this alarm which was reset by a Physical Plant electrician.

Vandalism

3/6/98 - A report was made to DPS that a student was upset when leaving the Cornerstone Pub. A student pushed the door hard and banged it on the radio alarm panel outside the building. This caused a couple of gouges in the wood. The two panes of glass were broken. DPS is investigating further.

Fire Alarm

3/6/98 - DPS responded to a fire alarm sounding from Townhouse D. It was verified that an egg burning on a stove was the cause. The alarm was reset.

Fire Alarm

3/13/98 - DPS officers were dispatched to a hall for a fire alarm caused by excessive dust created while cleaning in the area. Alarm was reset.

Burglary

3/15/98 - While on mobile patrol, a DPS officer was dispatched to a residence hall for a burglary report. Two students stated that they were the last ones to leave for break. The main suite door, and bedroom doors were checked. The main suite window and bedroom window were also checked and there were no signs of forced entry. Missing was a hand held Sony 900 megahertz phone worth $160.00. An investigation is underway.

CAREER SERVICES

Their job is simply to provide resources for Bryant students to obtain job opportunities, develop career, and attain internships. All too often though, their work goes unnoticed to many students until they are upper-classmen. However, getting to know the people in career services could prove to be one of the best moves any student can make.

Judith Clare

Judith Clare, a Bryant College alumna, has been in the Career Services business for thirteen years. Prior to working for Bryant College for the past twelve years, she worked as a faculty member for SMU, now known as UMASS Dartmouth. She has tremendous inner passion for her job and feels very confident with her outstanding, committed, hard-working, high-energy Career Services staff. Claire feels that today's businesses are looking for candidates who can adapt to change, think critically, and are result-oriented. They must also be focused team players, have computer Internet confidence and possess oral as well as written communication skills. She states that students can obtain the qualities that today's businesses are looking for in a candidate, in the classroom. The highest paying job currently for Bryant students is Finance Systems Technology, which pays around $45,000 per year. Claire finds the job search: the steps along the way, and preparing for interviews, as the most challenging aspects of helping students develop their career plan. Rather than seeing these aspects as difficult, she sees them as a challenge because it all comes down to students having a mindset. She says students should go to Career Services first where they can do a self assessment (values and interests), then explore career options by going to workshops such as "Alumni Circles of Influence", taking the Career Development Course (limited to twenty students), or using SIGI (if a student chooses to search on their own). Claire claims the Career Services philosophy is customer service where the main focus is being there for the students. The marketing technology that Career Services uses to reach freshmen and sophomores lies in their web page. This site covers events, workshops, and has links to other informative sites. When the counter was put on in early December, Career Services found 1026 hits in early February. Compared to other college students, she feels Bryant students are more motivated and career-oriented. She separates those who succeed from those who don't as those whose main concern is life-long learning, those who manage their careers and gain new skills.

Judith Clare-Career Services Director

Barbara Gregory—Internship Coordinator

Internships are ways to get a glimpse into the corporate culture of a particular company. Internships provide the opportunity for knowledge growth in the field. According to Gregory, "An internship gives the student the opportunity to test their knowledge and skills first-hand in an environment that interest the student."

According to Gregory, "students with internships generally have a better understanding of what they will do in their future job." This is why obtaining an internship is important for many students. By having some experience, the student will be one step ahead of his/her competitors. However, Gregory did mention that having an internship does not automatically outweigh any type of job experience in the student's related field. For instance, a job in the computer industry might be as valuable as an internship with a computer company. At Bryant, Gregory directs the Internship Office as well as the Shadowing Program. The Shadowing Program is designed to give interested students a glimpse into the daily lives of a professional in their chosen career. This is accomplished as the student shadows a professional for either a full or half day on the job. According to Gregory, the program is continually growing and many students have had positive experiences from the program. When asked about what skills companies are looking for when they interview for internships, Gregory answered, "Companies are always looking for students who are intelligent, can think, demonstrate leadership abilities, and integrity."

Denise Godin—Corporate Recruiting

Corporate Recruiting has long been a major part of Career Services. In their efforts to find quality jobs for Bryant graduates, Godin runs the Corporate Recruiting Program. Her daily activities are concentrated in helping seniors find jobs, as she is the career adviser of the senior class. Outside of assisting seniors, Godin also markets Bryant to companies hoping to attract them to Bryant College. In recruiting companies to Bryant, Godin is aware of the current job market. She believes that the job market is very strong and should remain strong for several years to come. The strongest industries include the computer, finance, and accounting fields. However, Godin cautions against using salary as the only objective in choosing a job. There are other factors that come into play when selecting a job. These factors include the type of position, the amount of overtime, the environment of the workplace, the people who work for the company, location, size of company and so forth. Therefore, seniors should be aware that selecting a job requires much more thinking and understanding than just looking at salary. According to Godin, "Why work at a company for $45,000 and not be happy with the company?" With her job, Godin also recognizes what companies are looking for in today's new hires. According to Godin, companies look for knowledge, however, companies do place a strong emphasis on the soft skills (communication skills, interpersonal skills). According to Godin, "Grades will open up the doors, but it's how the student interviews and use his/her soft skills that will land him/her the desired job."

Linda Lyons-Career Development

Linda Lyons has been in the Career Development business for five years. She came to Bryant in August 1996 after working with Dean College in Massachusetts, a two-year institution. Linda feels a stronger tie with Bryant students as opposed to other college students. She says that they are more motivated and they have so much more initiative. As a freshman advisor she contends that in order to find out what types of jobs a freshman might be good at, the first step one should take is to make an individual appointment to assess where they are at and she encourages them to evaluate where their strengths are. Other mechanisms include free tests that give a strong interest inventory, such as vocational tests and the Meyers Briggs Type Inventory (MBTI). A student may also use a computerized career guidance system on his or her own called SIGI. Programs offered by the Career Services department include Avenues to Success and the Career Development Course which is a non-credited, eight session long course limited to twenty people. The CDC is generally aimed towards sophomores and juniors. Linda states the most difficult aspect of helping students develop their career plan is getting them to start early themselves, because it is a long process, they have to "carve out the time". She separates those who succeed from those who don't, as those who plan and are willing to try what Career Services recommend, trust their guidance.

Planning a future of technology

Given the rapid and costly changes taking place in electronic technology, and recognizing the importance of technology to the future of the college and its students, President Machtley has formed a Technology Advisory Committee. Composed of senior leaders representing a broad spectrum of college interests, it will determine the direction and pace that advances in technology will take at Bryant. Its members will determine goals and priorities and recommend strategies for implementation throughout the campus. Changes will be made in increments to accommodate available resources and to ensure technical viability for an optimal period of time.

Committee members include two students – Cassandra Grenier '99 and Robert Fressola '00. Administrators and faculty are Thomas Eakin, Margaret Drugovich, Marc Furtado, Marsha Maxwell, Joseph Meichelbeck, Laurie Musgrove, V.K. Unni, Wallace Wood, and David Louton. Two students, have been appointed to serve on the committee.

Investing with Foolish Wisdom The Motley Fools Investment Site <http://www.fool.com>

"Off the Shelf"
by Colleen Anderson
Reference Librarian
March 19, 1998

In 1994 two brothers, Tom and Dave Gardner, began a discussion group on American Online containing investment wisdom and daily market information. Motley Fools, the name they gave their site, has now grown into one of the most popular personal investment sites on the web. Its AOL site consists of 400,000 households per month and the web site between 200,000-250,000 households per month with approximately 4,500 posts a day to both sites. The wisdom offered from its founders and the large amount of help offered to investors by investors over its message boards makes this site distinct from numerous other financial sites which have grown up over the web. Professor Bonnici introduced me to the Motley Fool's philosophy last year, and I've discovered their site to be a fun place to learn about investing by participating in discussions with those involved in what might be characterized as "the country's largest investment club". A visitor to the site can learn at the "fool's school", join a group to follow stocks in a particular industry such as oil and gas and/or follow a particular topic.

The Motley Fool mission is to "...instruct, to amuse, and to make you good money at the same time." The site's name is taken from Shakespeare's "As You Like It" and has been picked because of the significance of the medieval fool or court jester. The fool was the only member of medieval society who could tell the truth to the king or queen without worrying about the removal of his head. He had true freedom of speech. Likewise, Dave and Tom Gardner and their partner, Erik Rydholm, don't have a vested interest in your money; they simply tell the truth about investing as they understand it and experience it. Better yet, they have a great time while they're at it.

Tap into the site to absorb all of its wisdom. You'll find the cornerstone of the Motley Fool philosophy consists of 13 steps for investing which you can find in the "Fools School" on the site or in their book: The Motley Fool Investment Guide. Briefly, they are:

- | | |
|---|---|
| (1) Understand what foolishness is. | (8) Consider small company stocks. |
| (2) Settle your personal finances. | (9) Get and read investment information. |
| (3) Set expectations and track your results. | (10) Understand how to value growth stocks. |
| (4) All about opening an account with a broker. | (11) Give thought to shorting stocks. |
| (5) Consider an index fund for starters. | (12) Make your portfolio fully foolish. |
| (6) Use the Dow dividend approach. | (13) Max out with the fool online |
| (7) Give thought to using stock screens | |

After you've absorbed the 13 steps, move on to reading the "fribble" for the day. What's a "fribble"? its a little note or frivolity sent in by a fellow fool to "inspire, inform and amuse" other fools. Read the fribble for the day and then move on and take a look at the archives of past fribbles. Send in your own fribble or take part in a discussion on the latest fribble topic. It's all meant to add humor and enjoyment to a subject which often is taken all too seriously.

ROTC CORNER

SFC Brad O. Stobb

I truly hope everyone enjoyed their well deserved break, I know I did. The semester is progressing really well for our cadets. Three weeks ago 11 members of the Patriot Battalion participated in Frosted Gold. Frosted Gold is a cold weather survival course taught by the ROTC Cadets of Norwich University in Vermont. During the three-day training event with daytime temperatures that hovered around ten degrees and evening temperatures below zero the cadets learned how to survive in an extreme cold weather environment. Norwich was the perfect place providing the exact environment desired for this type of training. Let me say that it was COLD, bone-chilling COLD!!!! Even in the harsh environment the training was hard, realistic and physically demanding. The cadets learned how to make snow igloos and lean-tos for shelter, to start fires using magnesium from their snow shoes, to set different types of traps and snares used to catch wild game, to identifying different types of edible plant-life that can be found in the winter and to construct improvised weapons made from wood and stone. Following a hard day's training everyone was treated to a large hot cup of survival stew which just seemed to hit the spot. All in all it was a great weekend, the cadets learned a lot and had a great time. The cadets that participated from Bryant were Danielle Porter, Patrick Gray, Dave Delworth and SFC Brad O. Stobb.

LEADERSHIP COMPETENCY OF THE WEEK: Teaching and Counseling.

Teaching and counseling refer to improving performance by overcoming problems, increasing knowledge, or gaining new perspectives and skills. Teaching your subordinates is the only way you can truly prepare them to succeed. You must take a direct hand in your subordinates' professional and personnel development. Counseling is especially important in the Army. Because of the Army's mission, leaders must be concerned with the entire scope of soldiers' well-being. Personal counseling should adopt a problem-solving, rather than an advising, approach. You also need the judgment to refer a situation to your leader, the chaplain, or a service agency if it is beyond your ability to handle. You will of course, follow up on this action. Performance counseling focuses on subordinates' behavior as it relates to duty performance.

CAMPUS SCENE

Accounting Association

By Brad Weissman

The past couple of weeks have been very exciting for the Accounting Association. Our meeting on February 16th was a huge success. The presentation by Dennis Green, CPA from Becker's C.P.A. Review Course was very inspirational and motivational. His recanting of personal experiences in the job market, just after graduation is something that all of our seniors will soon be able to relate to. Many important issues were stressed; prominent among them was the fact that in order to succeed and make a name for yourself in the marketplace, you have to go that extra mile to stand out among your fellow co-workers. Many who stayed for the entire meeting were rewarded with a raffle for a scholarship to a CPA Exam review course.

Our last meeting on March 4th, as seniors shared with their fellow undergraduates, their successful pursuits in the job market proved to be very informative for those who will be in the same situation in a few months. Topics that were discussed included networking and interview preparation. Underclassmen who were in attendance picked up several valuable pointers from those who have proven success in securing placement upon graduation.

This coming Tuesday, March 24th in the MRC Dining Room at 4:00 the Accounting Association will be holding another meeting that is sure to be well attended. Several panelists from both the public and private sector will be on hand to discuss the many different career paths there are open to graduates in both the public and private accounting fields. Scheduled to be on hand are representatives from a Big Six firm, two representatives from the private industry, as well as one gentleman from a firm headquartered in West Hartford, Connecticut and another from a firm located in Warwick, Rhode Island.

Many members have been asking questions about the Banquet to be held in late April. The Banquet is tentatively scheduled for Thursday, April 30th and as more information becomes available we will be sure to pass it on to you.

Welcome back everyone! We hope everyone had an incredible Spring break. Bet you wish it was last week again. Welcome to all of our alumni who will be here this weekend! We can't wait for a great time.

DZ seniors want to thank the Tri-Sig sisters on the cruise for a great time! We all had a blast... Yeah Mon! We want to know when the cruise reunion is? How about a little Asti anyone? Watch out for that crazy dollar dance. Vegas wants to know when the life vest reunion is and how to keep the ocean economically clean! "I lost my shoes in Mexico." -Bazil. Boy, how many times are you going to say that sentence again in your life? Speaking of Mexico, would anyone like to move there with me? -Silva.

Thanks to Lark for the use of your clothes-Nikali and Jericho. Hunter, Koral, Tristan and Jericho would like to thank Lushing for filling the extra random spot in Jericho's car before Spring break. Kenedy and Mattie spent the week being heinous together. Summer can't come fast enough! Thanks to McGee for putting up with my fat face. - you know who! And a special congrats to Bazil and her new job!

Well we will talk to you next week! Check-ya later!

Commuter Connection

By: Christine Collard

Hello everyone. I hope everyone is having a good semester! Before I discuss Commuter events I would like to inform everyone about why the Commuter Connection has been out of the loop lately. The organization went through a change in presidency, but I can assure you that everything is back on track. We have a number of events planned and are excited about the upcoming activities. First of all, Commuter week is scheduled for March 29th through April 3rd. The events that will take place are the following: Sunday, March 29th- shopping trip, Monday, March 30th- sand art in the Bryant Center, Tuesday, March 31st- movie night at Nick's Place; Wednesday, April 1st- caricatures in the Bryant center; Thursday, April 2nd- pitch tournament; Friday April 3rd- bowling night. I will have more information about the times and places in future articles. In the mean time, look for signs around campus concerning information about Commuter week.

Also, the Commuter Connection e-board elections for next year are approaching. If you are interested in nominating someone for an e-board position, email the Commuter Connection secretary at spenta, using the bryant network, with your nomination. All nominations must be in by April 3rd! If you are interested in an e-board position, this is a great way to get involved! (It looks good on your resume too.) If you have any questions, please stop by the Commuter office on the third floor of the Bryant Center! In the mean time be on the look out for signs concerning Commuter week activities!!!!

Beta Theta Pi

We would like to welcome everyone back from spring break, hope you had as good of a time as we did. We would like to thank Tri-Sig for a great Thursday night before we left. Yankee Candles have arrived, and will be distributed throughout this week. If you have any questions contact the brother that you purchased the candle from. We have been participating in charitable events the past few weekends to help proceed the Rhode Island Leukemia Society, including the Frosty 5K Road Race, as well as the Fantasy Auction both held in Newport. Good Luck to everyone in their new positions as we induct new officers this week. All of the brothers would like to wish Shep luck Tuesday, in turning 21.

We went two ways over break. The Cancun crew for the most part stayed out of trouble. Sharkman was right at home playing in the waves. Patches missed Scrat. Jethro had a hard time getting out of taxis. They would like to thank Wheels for keeping them up. But they had fun.

The rest of us went North of the Border. Good thing Wallace was reading his magazine. Wilson and Fletch learned to share. Proctor got a free trip. We learned that to find out about what your girlfriend is doing go to Montreal. Floyd liked the other Days Inn. Stout just wanted some pretzels. At least Floyd was apologizing at Cheers. Veto lost the house at the Casino. Wilson was running the bar.

Quote of the week: "My Mother always told me that there would be days like this, but she never told me what to do". -Stout

International Socialist Club

Chris Grogan

As you may have noticed, the ISC will continue to remain busy after helping the Physical Plant workers. We would like to thank those who made the trek down to Brown last evening to hear Howard Zinn speak on the horrors of the death penalty. Howard Zinn is the author of the famous history book People's History of the United States. For those that went, hopefully his talk reinforced why the death penalty in the United States be abolished for good.

We will hold a meeting next week, date and topic TBA. Once we know the time and the topic we will post flyers, lots of flyers. All are welcome to attend. We are also still interested in holding a public debate for any of the right-wing reactionaries out there who despise our politics. This offer goes to faculty as well as students. If you are interested in participating or would like to find out more about us, feel free to contact myself at x4203 or Matt at x8320.

How is everyone doing? I hoped everyone had an enjoyable break. Our upcoming event is the Hot 106 bash on March 20th, this Friday in the Rotunda. Last year the Hot 106 bash was voted as campus event of the year. So we hope to see you there and make it even better than last year. Our next upcoming event is Caribbean Unity Day on March 25th. If you are interested in helping out or seeing what MSU is about the meetings are held in room 2A in the Bryant Center from 5 to 6 every Monday. In addition, if anyone is interested you can submit poetry, articles, essays, pictures, and editorials to Cultural Flavor, which is a monthly magazine, put out by the Archway. It is an opportunity to express what is on your mind. Hope to see you there!

STUDENT ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

Melissa R. Frank

Hi Everyone! Welcome back from Spring Break. I hope that everyone has come back rejuvenated and full of new and exciting ideas for SAA. The rest of the semester is full of exhilarating activities including Alumni Day II, the April Showers Raffle, and Oozball. SAA will also engage in the creation of Spring Survival Kits and Freshman Balloons, and of course the is the semi-annual philanthropic Food Drive.

Next Friday, March 27th, is Alumni Day II and I'm sure that the turnout will be phenomenal. A.J. and Seth have been working hard by contacting the Alumni and anyone interested in either hosting an Alumni for the day, or by just helping out during the day, please email your Friday schedules to Erica Hart at chart@bryant.edu. (Which reminds me, I would like to welcome Erica, the newest member of the Alumni Office to the Student Alumni Association.)

April Showers Raffle is well underway and raffle tickets will be on sale soon. The date for the raffle has been set for April 17th and the Grand Prize is a set of tickets to "Chicago" at PPAC on Sunday, May 3rd. Other local sponsors have been contacted and will be providing other great prizes.

The Oozball date has been set for Saturday, April 18th, so let's hope for some warm weather! Mark and Kristin have been working hard on getting sponsors and the need someone creative to help design the T-shirt. So, if anyone out there is talented and wants to give it a shot, let them know. Everyone else, get ready to have some fun in the mud!

Student Alumni Association meets weekly on Tuesdays at 5pm in the lobby of Hall 16. Do you have new ideas? Want to get involved? Join us!

Student Programming Board

By Vincent Poppo

Hello fellow SPBer's! Spring Weekend is coming up and volunteers are needed, contact Steven Lazarus, as he is in charge or the volunteer recruitment. This weekend there will be a movie, I Know What You Did Last Summer, on Sunday at 6:30 and 9:15 in Janikies. On Saturday we are showing the movie Anastasia, at 6:30. Admission for both movies is $1. This Saturday we will have the hysterically, funny Randy Lavin in South Dining Hall at 8:00. Sunday, come bowl with the best of Bryant! For the first fifteen there will be transportation provided, call the SPB office of Kyle Kadish for more information. Next weekend, the 29th, SPB will be showing Devil's Advocate; good movies, cheap price. Same bat channel, same bat place! The Student Programming Board meetings are every Mondays at 4:30 in Papitto Dining hall in the Bryant Center. The SPB saga continues...keep on rocking!

Welcome back everyone! I hope you all had a fabulous spring break, I know I did! A special Thanks goes out to Cindy from everyone who went on the cruise, from what we remember it was a blast!

We all found out that Ivy is the queen of private parties, and she wants to know what everyone is doing on Easter Weekend? Cindy was running from the militia, Vegas is obsessed with the donkey. Val, how about that zipper? It's Cocktail Time, the more ya drink the more ya smile, mon! Gina, did you yet? Vegas do you want to go to Charles in Charge? Falling over in Val's room-Mel, Vegas, Nancy and Ivy. Jen and Ivy finger thing, they love it! Cindy and Shila, Sumo wrestling will never be the same! Cent, 5 cent, 10 cent, dollar, dollar, dollar, dollar. Little suntin' suntin', make it a stiffy! Ivy, still born again? Jen, Gina, and Ivy, stylin' in first class. That's what I'm talkin' about! Poofty, bust through the dance floor. Mel, do you take blue cards?

Christine, Steph wants to know if you want to go to McDonalds. Christine and Ericka you should've taken that dollar, you definitely deserved it! Ericka, Christie wants to thank you for protecting her a Sacred Heart. Cecilia was the traveling banjos song of the week. Terps and Wilson, sorry about the late night phone call-Christie and Christine.

Angela, watch out for the Tommyknocker dolls. Shannon's on a bridge. Everybody duck, Sue calm down. Word of the week for K-5 cruise, RANDOM!

Well, all and all it's good to be back to see everyone. Have fun catching up on all the work you missed before break. It's dinner. I can't hang out anymore, and I gotta get off this boat.

The deadline for submissions for the next issue of The Archway is March 31st at 5p.m. in our office in the Bryant Center

SENATE PLATFORMS

PRESIDENT

Bob Fressola

Dear friends,

Patience, empathy, respect. These three powerful words are what one needs to lead his peers successfully, and to help them make decisions that best suit their needs. My name is Bob Fressola and I am running for President of the Bryant College Student Senate. Over the past two years that I have been at Bryant, I have always been actively involved. For the last two years I have represented my class as senator and served on many committees. This year I served as the co-chair for the Parents and Family Weekend Main Attraction. Shortly after being re-elected as a sophomore senator, I was appointed chair of the senate's Information and Technology Committee. After only a few days as chair of this committee, I was approached by some students who were wondering if it was possible to change some of the cable channels. Well, these inquires seriously and dreds of these surveys were decision was made. As I mentioned in The Archway, these what you, the students voted made by President Machtley staff. More decisions at I also was appointed to sit on the Ways and Means Committee for the last two years. This committee appropriately allocates funds to clubs and most recent Senate committee. As it names in- tently evaluating our student colleges of our size.

Well, these inquires seriously and dreds of these surveys were decision was made. As I mentioned in The Archway, these what you, the students voted made by President Machtley staff. More decisions at I also was appointed to sit on the Ways and Means Committee for the last two years. This committee appropriately allocates funds to clubs and most recent Senate committee. As it names in- tently evaluating our student colleges of our size.

Last winter I was selected as an Orientation Leader to help freshmen adjust to college life. This position has given me the skills to look at a situation from the inside looking out as well as outside looking in. Last spring I was selected to be a Resident Assistant, proving that not only did students respect and favor my actions, but so do administrators. Having a strong relationship with both groups will be key in making my goals a reality at Bryant. This past summer I worked as a counselor at the INTRAX English Institute helping students from all over the world adjust to American life. This job, more than anything, gave me patience, something that is needed in the everyday life of a President.

Specific Goals

- Create an auditor's position within the Senate. This student would assist the Treasure with tracking where funds are being spent. This student would also have to work with clubs and organization so they know how to spend their money more efficiently and effectively.
- Work with Vice President Eakin to create paid positions and provide necessary equipment to The Archway so it may be published weekly. Students look forward to this weekly publication so it must continue. We must also take the necessary steps to ensure that our yearbook is of the highest quality.
- Increasing our student activity fee so that our clubs and organizations can provide high caliber entertainment, speakers, and educational programs for their members and for Bryant as a whole.
- Most importantly, keeping the students issues in mind while making all decisions.

If you have any questions or suggestions, please feel free to contact me by phone or email. X4043-rmf2@bryant.edu

VICE PRESIDENT

Tim Bertrand

Hello, for the people that I have not had the pleasure of meeting, my name is Tim Bertrand. For the last year, I have represented the sophomores via the position of a Student Representative.

Well, these inquires seriously and dreds of these surveys were decision was made. As I mentioned in The Archway, these what you, the students voted made by President Machtley staff. More decisions at I also was appointed to sit on the Ways and Means Committee for the last two years. This committee appropriately allocates funds to clubs and most recent Senate committee. As it names in- tently evaluating our student colleges of our size.

Over the last year, I have achieved nearly every goal that I set out to accomplish as a student senator. Here is a quick briefing of the types of things that I accomplished:

- Parents weekend band committee co-chair
- Inter Fraternity Council / Panhellenic Roundtable Senate Representative
- Bryant Center Operations Co-Chair
- Founded the Senate Sports Committee
- Member of the Student Senate Web Page Committee
- Brought important issues to President Machtley and followed up
- Listened to student's suggestions and helped them with their problems

My platform when I ran for Senate last year was to put STUDENT'S IDEAS as my number one priority and to always vote in the best interest of the STUDENTS; this will remain unchanged for the upcoming year, providing the opportunity to serve as the vice president of the senate. As a vice president, I will be willing to put forth 100+ percent of my effort to see that student's are getting what they want. I am not here to promise the students things that they cannot have or will never happen; others may promise these types of fallacies. Just remember, when you vote for vice president: vote for the person who is "all about the students" and what YOU the student are looking for.

Vote Tim Bertrand.

SECRETARY

Molly Devanney

Hello, and for all of you who do not know me my name is Molly Devanney. I am currently a sophomore here at Bryant College and I am seeking the position of Secretary of the Student Senate.

I ask each of your for support in this campaign. I have been a member of the Student Senate for the past two years as a voice for the Class of 2000. In these past two years I have had the opportunity to be involved with many student concerns on campus. This past year I was the Co-Editor of The Chronicle and was Co-Chair of Family Weekend. These activities both gave me the opportunity to my class as student body.

In the upcoming year I would like to see the Secretary currently update the Student Senate Web page weekly with the minutes from the meeting, as well be an active member of the Web page committee. I would also like to be continually involved with the production of The Chronicle. I feel that I have a great sense of direction for what needs to be done for improvement for the publication and hope that I have the opportunity to improve upon it.

I ask for your support to elect Molly Devanney for Secretary of the Student Senate!

Thank you, for taking the time to read this.

SENATE PLATFORMS

Julie Piccirilli

Hello! My name is Julianne Piccirilli and I am a sophomore from Easton, MA. I am running for Vice President of the Student Senate because I feel I have the qualifications to fulfill this position. I have a strong concern for the well-being of the Bryant community and have distinguished this through my involvement on campus. I have served as Freshman Senator, Sophomore Senator, Student Ambassador, and Student Activities Student Assistant. I have served on many college committees such as Undergraduate Student Academic Grievance Committee, Board of Trustees Honorary Degree Committee, and numerous search committees for Student Activities Director, Student Activities Assistant Director, and Undergraduate Programs Academic Advisor. In addition, I was chosen as an Orientation Leader for Summer '98.

My Goals for next year are to make sure a Faculty Advising System is in place for the Class of 2002 and that each freshman is assigned a faculty advisor to aid new students with concerns about their majors, career opportunities, and direction to other resources them on campus more op- for Bryant will evalu-available to campus. If vice presi- design meetings so organizations' participate ate a strong communica- tween groups to achieve portunities students. I ate the Pre- Registration process and look for ways to make it less frustrating and confusing for students. As a member of the "Make a Wish Foundation" committee last spring, I have the knowl- edge of how to run fundraisers effectively for this worthy cause. I feel with my positive experiences at Bryant that I will be able to uphold the position of vice-president to the best of my ability and represent students as I have through my role as a Student Senator.

In my freshman year, I felt that Bryant should have a Faculty Advising system. I brought this concern to the Senate and then to the Administration. A Faculty Advising Task Force was formed in Spring '97 that drew up recommendations for an advising system. I was a student representative on this task force and conducted an Advising survey to the Class of 2000. (85% said Faculty Advising should be implemented) This semester, a proposed plan was sent to Dr. Unni and President Machtley to anticipate a system in place for the Class of '02. I have been in contact with college administrators to push for this to happen and I will continue to do whatever it takes to make sure Faculty Advising is established at Bryant.

This year, I was appointed Co-Chair of Parents' and Family Weekend '97. I started working on this event in April and continued planning throughout the summer and planned the weekend's activities which was a big responsibility and required much preparation, creativity, organization, and leadership skills. I took on this responsibility as my job to the community and I was determined to plan a weekend that was enjoyable for all who participated. Over 1,000 people participated in the weekend that was the largest participation Bryant has had in record years.

I have worked in the Office of Student Activities since I arrive at Bryant last year. I am very familiar with student organizations that will enable me to conduct S.P.A.C. meetings efficiently with organizations' presidents. I worked in the office as the summer Student Assistant this past year. I helped prepare for the Orientation program, Bryant Experience, and prepared for Parents' and Family Weekend. This experience enabled me to develop good communication and organizational skills as well as time management. In my two years here, I have developed pride and affection for Bryant and always try to make it the best it can be through my involvement. I was awarded Student Senator of the Month of March 1997 for my initiative to develop an Advising System at Bryant. In April '97, I was given the honor of the "Penny Stone Emerging Leader" Award at Recognition night. I earned the Student Senator of the Month of October 1997 for planning and organizing Parents' and Family Weekend.

But its not about awards or recognition. I've been awarded these honors because of my dedication and service to Bryant. I represent Bryant students and always go after what students want. It is my job to accomplish what it takes to make sure students' needs and concerns are met. I am a motivated, hardworking person and I have shown I am ready to take on this position. I am asking you to "Let Me Be Your Voice" as Vice President.

TREASURER

Lindsey Haven

Hello, my name is Lindsey A. Haven, and I am running for Senate Treasurer. I am originally from Rutland, Vermont. Currently, I am a freshman financial services major. Here are some of my leadership experiences:

Freshman Class Senator

Committee involvement: Co-Chair of the AD Hoc, a member of Student Health Advisory Board, Artistic Campus, and the Senior Citizens Prom.

The freshman representative of the Ways and Means Committee

Other Senate Involvement

Head of one the Senate's Three Strategic Goals- Student Activities Fee.

As the head of this Senate Strategic Goal, I have organized, re- searched, and presented our groups findings and proposals to the Senate and student body.

RICA Member

One of the founding delegates to the Rhode Island Collegiate Assembly. R.I.C.A. is a consortium of all the colleges in Rhode Island. The main purpose of R.I.C.A is sharing both knowledge and a sense of unity in Rhode Island's higher education.

Issues and Goals

As a candidate for the position of Senate Treasurer, the main reason that I am seeking this position is to communicate the ideas and voices of the students to the members of both the Senate and the Bryant Community.

I strongly feel that I can give both my time and energy to this position. If I were elected to the position of Treasurer, I would like to see the following aspirations become a reality.

One, the creation of a Treasurer's council. Where treasurers of all organizations and clubs can meet and discuss issues and policies that affects them.

Two, a better exchange of information on the clubs and organizations and what they have to offer to the student body.

John Pratt

My name is John Pratt and this was my first year on Senate. As a junior Senator I served as Housing Chair and as a Committee and the Tri-Committee. I have gained committees. I feel that I experience to become the

Along with my knowledge and experience, I also plan to bring four major objectives to the position of Treasurer:

- Stronger enforcement of policies which should lead to more efficient and effective spending of clubs and organizations budgets through monthly audits.
- Meetings with the Ways & Means Committee to review club and organizations spending and procedures and regulations for the budget process
- Monthly meetings with club and organizations Treasurers to review audits and spending of their budget
- Begin budgeting procedures as early as February 1st. Budget packets will be released by mid-February and hearings will remain the week after Spring Break.

With these four objectives I hope that clubs and organizations will use their budgets more timely, effectively, and efficiently. Clubs and organizations that do not follow these procedures will be required to meet with the Ways & Means Committee.

As a senior executive board member, I plan to continue working for my class to ensure an exciting final year here at Bryant. I hope that my knowledge, my experience and my goals for the upcoming year prove that I am best fit to hold the position of Student Senate Treasurer.

April Fools Day and
A Pie in the Face

3rd Annual Pie Auction, Wednesday, April 1st
Sponsored by the Office of Student Activities & the Student President's Advisory Council

The Third Annual Pie Auction has been scheduled for Wednesday, April 1st from 11:00 AM to 2:00 PM in the Rotunda. Proceeds from this year's Pie Auction will be donated to the Make-A-Wish Foundation of Rhode Island. Make-A-Wish of Rhode Island grants wishes to children who are terminally ill and may not make it to the age of 18. It costs about $3,500 to grant one wish. The Pie Auction Committee and Make-A-Wish of Rhode Island need your help in granting a wish. Why should you get involved in the Pie Auction? To help members of the Rhode Island community, work with Bryant students and college personnel and experience the overall warm feeling that comes from helping others.

Our goal for this year is to raise $1,000. You can assist us in reaching our goal by becoming a participant, and have two pies auctioned off to the highest bidders to be thrown at you. All bids for pies will start off at $5.00. Participants will be behind a screen so that only their face is exposed to a cream pie. The auction will only take 30 minutes of your time. Your participation or assistance in identifying participants is greatly appreciated. For more information, please contact Darrell Claiborne at extension 6160, Brian Willinsky at extension 4709, or Steven Lazarus at extension 4072.

The Archway will now be printing bi-weekly. All submissions to are due the Tuesday of the week of publication by 4.p.m. We are now located in the 3rd floor of the Bryant Center. For any questions please call x6028 during business hours. Business hours are Monday and Tuesday from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m.

This is the new production schedule:

- Raise your hand if you have lost all chance of winning the tournament pool.
- All these upsets have are great for the game and all, but not for my chances of winning some cash.
- Of course I mean monopoly money since gambling is wrong and illegal.
- I do not condone it at all.
- Still have to go with the Tar Heels to win it all.
- Now that Kansas has choked (again) and Clemson is out too, the midwest is wide open.
- Make mine Stanford to go to the Final Four.
- If everything goes accordingly, that UConn, North Carolina is going to be really interesting.
- Now that URI has made it to the Sweet Sixteen, you have to think that Jim Harrick has to be a good coach.
- Thumbs up to Valpo for making it into the Sweet Sixteen.
- I picked them in the first round by the way.
- But it was just for fun, no money involved.
- The way Duke has looked (not very strong), you have to think Kentucky will come out of the Southeast.
- Quietly, Arizona is destroying teams.
- With Scottie Pippen back, the Bulls have shown the Pacers who is really the team in the east.
- Just like what the Sonics have been doing to the Lakers.
- By the way, I do not think the Lakers can beat the Jazz either.
- Memo to Penny Hardaway: You need to start packing your bags.
- With the way Nick Anderson has been playing, Penny is now very tradable.
- The playoff race is really crowded now that the Nuggets are making that late playoff run.
- A few more wins and they'll be challenging the Grizzlies.
- Has anyone seen Kobe Bryant lately?
- Or is this the real Kobe that is showing up?
- If you haven't seen him have you seen the New Jersey Nets?
- The team out on the court seems to look like the Nets from the past few years.
- The way the NHL's stars are dropping, the players association really needs to push for some protection for top players.
- If you want salaries to rise, you are going to need the best players in the league.
- So how has that Sergei Fedorov deal gone?
- Well since Fedorov signed, the Red Wings have been struggling, while the Hurricanes have been making a strong playoff push.
- Lucky for the Wings, the Stars and Avalanche have been struggling as well.
- Thumbs up to the Harvard women's basketball team for upsetting No. 1 seed Stanford.
- Of course that probably killed a lot of people pool's too.
- But of course it was friendly with no betting.
- For as good as Mo Vaughn is, he must have even a better lawyer.
- If anyone really cares, I think this is the year that Mark McGwire finally breaks Roger Maris's homerun record.
- From what I have seen, the Rockies just wasted 20 million on Darryl Kile.
- If want good pitching just take a look at the Braves.
- There was some serious trash talking between Martina Hingis and Venus Williams on the women's tennis circuit.
- Whatever happened to tennis being the game of etiquette?
- Almost reminded me of Spike Lee and Reggie Miller going at it.
- But it was even nastier.
- Speaking of tennis, Andre Agassi has been doing a pretty good job on his comeback tour.
- Just so you know what I am thinking...

Who wants to win? Two coaches available

By Duc Tien
Associate Editor

It's amazing. In a league where mediocre athletes and coaches are overpaid (Kevin Garnett and Bernie Bickerstaff) you would think that coaches who lead their teams to success would be treated like gods. Most are, but two coaches have been treated like dogs.

Phil Jackson and George Karl have both lead their teams to success. Both are respected among their peers as two of the best, yet their teams are ushering both out. Although they come from different teams, they have both delivered wins. And isn't winning what should matter in the league.

Jackson is coach of the Chicago Bulls. A team that he has help guided to five NBA championships in the past seven years. Granted having a player like Michael Jordan doesn't hurt, but having a player like Jordan respect you is another story. Jordan doesn't want to play for any other coach and he will retire if the Bulls don't bring Jackson back. If the greatest player in the world likes his coach, why take him away. Because Jackson has always had his problems with top management. There is no question about his coaching ability. When Jordan left on his baseball fantasy, Jackson helped guide the Bulls to a Eastern Conference finals appearance.

Yet Jackson is being pushed out. Forced out because of what. Because he disagrees with the way the powers are running the Bulls. Because he wants to be paid like a top rated coach. The Bulls don't think the man who has helped them to five NBA championships this decade belongs among the best coaches.

For Karl it is a different story. He has never lead the Sonics to the championship, but he also has never has Jordan. But Karl has lead his Sonics to numerous division titles. His players love playing for him. The best point guard in the league doesn't want to play without him. His team has the best record in the league, yet the Sonics want him out.

Karl and management have never seen eye to eye. The lack of communication between the two sides is amazing. Karl has no say on who he would like on his team. All Karl can do is watch as the trading deadline pass without getting a much needed big man. When asked why the team did not get a big man, he said he did not know. Ask the management.

That seems to be the problem for both of these coaches. Management. If management could get a clear look at what these two men have done they might try to retain them. But the management happens to be too stupid. The Bulls want to rebuild a team that continues to win championships. The Sonics want to rebuild a team that is on the threshold of a championship.

So this summer, when the NBA tries to cope with the retirement of Jordan, a league set in mediocre play two of the top coaches in the game will free to roam around. If any team should want to win, Jackson and Karl will be available. Not by choice, but by management errors.

Top Ten reason why I hate the NCAA tournament

10. Lost all my money in the first round upsets.
9. All those close games were giving me a heart attack.
8. Lost all my money in the second upsets.
7. Some of those little schools who worked hard all year finally get some exposure.
6. Those stupid Cinderella teams that made me lost all my money.
5. Duke is still alive.
4. Hard to spell school names like Valpraiso.
3. All those teams in the Sweet Sixteen all not the teams I picked so I am losing all my money.
2. With Kansas out, I lost all my money.
1. I lost all my money.

"Newton Boys" The Wedding Singer Showcases Young Talent

THE NEWTON BOYS is the true story of America's most successful bank robbers. From 1919 to 1924, they robbed over eighty banks from Texas to Canada, capping their career with America's largest train robbery, and three million dollars mail train heist outside of Chicago. From a poor upbringing as cowboys and cotton farmers the brothers brought their frontier-born "code of the west" into the roaring twenties, considering themselves not gunfighters, but "businessmen." True to their aims, they never killed anyone in spite of the mayhem they caused, stealing "more than Jesse James, Butch, Sundance, Bonnie and Clyde and the Dalton brothers put together," says leader Willis Newton. The film stars Matthew McConaughey as Willis Newton, Ethan Hawke as Jess Newton, Vincent D'Onofrio as Dock Newton and Skeet Ulrich as Joe Newton. Also starring are Julianna Margulies and Dwight Yoakam. Richard Linklater directs from a screenplay he wrote with Claude Stanush and Clark Lee Walker, based on Stanush's book, The Newton Boys: Portrait of an Outlaw Gang by Willis and Joe Newton as told to Claude Stanush and David Middleton. Anne Walker McBay is the producer. The movie opens nationally on March 27th. The running time is approximately 123 minutes and is rated PG-13.

Newton gang members, played Skeet Ulrich, Dwight Yoakam, and Matthew McConaughey, finalize their plans for an incredible heist of a mail train in The NEWTON BOYS.

My big event this spring Break was seeing The Wedding Singer. I'm sure everyone who went to Cancun is so jealous of me! I have to admit I was a little bit excited to see it because I really like Adam Sandler and Drew Barrymore. I think what I failed to realize was, I wasn't really that old during 1985. Actually I was only nine and I guess I don't really remember that much. I remember 1989 a bit more vividly. But never the less it was a really funny movie. Adam Sandler plays Robbie, the Wedding Singer. Drew Barrymore plays Julia a waitress at the banquet hall where Robby sings. Robbie falls in love with Julia but can't have her because she is engaged to a rich jerk named Glen, played by Matthew Glave. The story is cute and we of course find ourselves rooting for the developing romance between Julia and Robbie while we hope and pray that Glen gets hit by a truck. What is supposed to be the really funny part of the movie is the 1985 theme. Robby's backup singer is a Boy George wannabe. Julia's best friend crimps her hair and Billy Idol makes an appearance. Some of the stuff I got but I don't think I was able to enjoy the full humor of this movie. The people I went with were in high school in 1985 so they thought it was hysterical. They certainly associated with the sound track more than I did; maybe that's because at nine I wasn't allowed to watch MTV.
