Commencement speakers announced

Joanna T. Lau, president of LAU technologies in Littleton, MA, will speak at the Graduate School Commencement on Friday, May 16. Henrique de Campos Meirelles, president and chief operating officer of BankBoston, will be the keynote speaker at the Undergraduate Commencement on Saturday, May 17. Their respective stellar accomplishments in high technology and international finance exemplify Bryant's highest business ideals.

Ms. Lau, in addition to being president of LAU Technologies, is one of the founders of the company that has grown to employ more than 200 people and manufacture electronic systems for the US military and for commercial applications.

She was also with GE Aerospace, GE Consumer Electronics, GE Aircraft Engine, and Digital Equipment Corporation. Her professional experiences range from commercial to military system design and manufacturing operations, and her contributions to the Factory of the Future at GE Aircraft Engine earned her its "Young Engineering Award" in 1987.

Ms. Lau received the First Annual Leadership Award to Women in Business in 1993 from The New England Council. She was named the 1995 National Turnaround Entrepreneur of the Year, and the 1995 Small-Business Person of the Year for Massachusetts. She received the 1997 Boston Chamber of Commerce Pinnacle Award for achievement in business.

She earned a B.S. form SUNY at Stony Brook, and M.S. form Old Dominion University, and an M.B.A. from Boston University.

Our undergraduate keynote speaker, Henrique Meirelles, is an international financier from BankBoston, a super-regional bank holding company assets of $62.3 billion and some 23,000 employees.

Meirelles joined BankBoston in 1974 as managing director of Boston Leasing. In 1978, he became vice president of the bank in the Sao Paulo area of Brazil and was appointed head of the Commercial Bank in Brazil two years later. He was promoted to deputy country manager in 1981 and became president and regional manager of BankBoston in Brazil in 1984. When BankBoston acquired BayBank N.A. in July 1996, Meirelles was named president and chief operating officer.

He holds a degree from the University of Sao Paulo and an M.B.A. from the Federal University of Rio de Janeiro. He has also completed the Advanced Management Program at Harvard Business School.

Meirelles is chairman of the board of the Brazilian Association of International Banks and in 1996 was named "Most Influential Banker of the Year" by Latin Trade magazine.

Information on our other three honorary degree recipients follows:

Robert K. Kraft is owner and chief executive officer of the New England Patriots and owner of Foxboro Stadium. Kraft purchased the Patriots in 1994 and has kept the team within the region and provided stable local ownership for the franchise for the first time in nearly a decade. In a success story followed by millions of sports fans, the Patriots won the American Football Conference championship in 1997, participating in the Super Bowl for only the second time in the Franchise's history.

Barbara A. Papitto was a member of the Bryant Board of Trustees from 1987 through 1996 when she was named honorary trustee. She earned both her B.S. and M.B.A. degrees at Bryant, and chaired the Bryant Annual Fund drive from 1985-87. She has provided her leadership perspective on both the Executive Alumni Board and the Graduate School Advisory Council. Ms. Papitto is also very active in the community. She is past president of the Nickerson House Community Center in Providence, where she chaired a successful one-million-dollar capital campaign; is a member of the corporation of St. Mary's Home for Children in North Providence; a guild member of the Hibiscus Children's Center in Jensen Beach FL; and has served as an allocation panel member of the Emergency and Disaster Services Panel of the United Way.

Christian Schwarz-Schilling, a native of Innsbruck, Austria, was educated in Germany where he subsequently managed a manufacturing plant. In 1960 he joined the Christian Democratic Party and has served as a member of Parliament for 37 years, focusing on economic political developments. In 1982 he became minister of Post and Telecommunications, heading the largest single government-owned company—the German Bundespost—which employed more than 550,000 people. It was upon his initiative that the people of the former East Germany were given speedy access to telephones in their homes. More telephones were connected in the short time after reunification than had been during the entire rule of the former East German government.

Poisoning by boy

**The Associated Press (c)**

A 12-year-old West Warwick boy has been charged with lacing a school coffee pot with a cleaner, sickening an administrator who drank from it, police said Tuesday.

Police Chief Joseph Crowley said witnesses saw the Deering Middle School sixth-grader "pouring something into the coffee pot."

"We have obtained physical evidence from the area where the coffee pot was that leads us to believe it was Ajax and possibly some type of cleaning soap, like Dial soap," he said.

The incident occurred Friday in the principal's office, and one school administrator went home after suffering a burning sensation in the mouth. The boy was charged with simple assault and could face a suspension or expulsion from school.

Students launch drive/plea on Internet

(NSNS)

A coalition of student leaders from U.S. PIRG, the U.S. Student Association (USSA), and Rock The Vote, joined prominent Senators in Washington D.C., to launch a campaign on the Internet demanding that Congress "eliminate financial barriers to college education."

In a press conference last week, Senate Minority Leader Tom Daschle (D-SD) and Senators Kennedy (D-MA), Boxer (D-CA), and Reed (D-RI) lauded the efforts of the students and pledged their commitment to higher education.

"We're going to work together to make sure that education is a priority in this budget," said Senator Boxer.

Last month, President Clinton submitted higher education budget proposals to Congress which include increasing Pell Grants and generating tax credits for some families with college students. The budget has yet to be approved by Congress.

"Currently, higher education is considered an expenditure rather than an investment," said Kristen Brengal, a senior at Rutgers University and Chair of the New Jersey PIRG student chapters. "Congress must show a commitment to investing in our future by passing a budget that supports higher education."

Although not in attendance, Senator Olympia Snowe (R-VT) issued a statement in support of the effort: "I cannot think of a greater issue for the future of this country than to provide adequate funding for higher education."

Utilizing links on the World Wide Web, students are encouraged to sign the petition to Congress to increase financial aid, reduce the cost of student loans, and "provide significant relief to low and middle income students."

"This Web petition is a new tool for students who have been organizing to keep the doors of college open to all," said Kazim Ali, President of USSA.

As part of the publicity to reach out to college students, the MTV-spawned organization Rock The Vote will be promoting the website - www.pirg.org/student/aid/petition - on MTV, on radio stations and through several popular musicians.

Such artists as Chuck D. from Public Enemy and singer Shawn Colvin have recorded radio ads.

"Through this Web petition, we can generate a strong message to Congress," said Mark Strama, program director for Rock The Vote. The website can be reached through many links - including the U.S. Congress, the student organizations and MTV - at: www.pirg.org/student/aid/petition.

Faced with thousands of dollars of debt upon her graduation from Rutgers next month, Brengal lamented, "Unfortunately, my story is all too common and many of my peers suffer from even greater horror stories. That is why we are launching this effort."

Shaping behavior*

**taken from a submission by Steve Manning to Brynet*

Once upon a time there lived a man named Clarence who had a pet frog named Felix. Clarence lived a modestly comfortable existence on what he earned at Wal-Mart, but he always dreamed of being wealthy.

"Felix!" he exclaimed one day. "We're going to be rich! I'm going to teach you how to fly!" Felix of course was terrified at the prospect. "I can't fly. I'm a frog, not a canary!"

Clarence, disappointed at Felix's reaction told him: "Your negative attitude could be a problem. I'm sending you to class." So Felix went to a three day seminar and learned about problem solving, time management, and effective communication — but nothing about flying.

On the first day of "flying lessons," Clarence explained to Felix that their apartment had 15 floors, and each day Felix would jump out of a window starting with the first floor, eventually getting to the top floor.

After each jump, Felix would analyze how well he flew, identify the most effective flying techniques, and implement the improved process for the next flight. By the time they reached the top floor, Felix would know how to fly.

Felix pleaded for his life, but his pleas fell on deaf ears. Felix doesn't understand how important this is, thought Clarence, but he was determined not to be defeated by a negative attitude. So he opened the window and threw out Felix, who landed with a thud.

On the second day, Felix again begged not to be thrown out the window. But Clarence opened his pocket guide to 'Managing More Effectively' and showed Felix the part about how one must always expect resistance when implementing new programs. Out went Felix from the second floor, and he hit the ground with an even more painful landing.

On the third day, Felix tried a ploy. He asked for a delay in the project until the weather was more favorable for flying. But Clarence pulled out a timeline, pointed to the third milestone, and asked: "You don't want the schedule to slip, do you?"

Felix knew that if he didn't jump today he would have to jump twice tomorrow, so he jumped from the third floor. On it went to higher and higher floors, and Felix tried his best.

By the seventh day, Felix no longer begged for mercy. "You know you're killing me, don't you?" he said. Clarence replied that Felix's performance so far had been less than exemplary, failing to meet any of the milestones he had set for him.

Felix became resigned to his fate and said: "OK, open the window." With that, he leapt out, taking care to aim for a jagged rock that was sure to put him out of his misery. He hit it perfectly and was instantly dispatched from the mortal world.

Clarence was upset. His project had failed to meet a single goal. Felix not only failed to fly, he didn't even take well to training or setting goals. And he didn't seem to understand when Clarence told him to fall smarter, not harder. Finally, Clarence analyzed the process to determine where it had gone wrong. He concluded that he needed a smarter frog.

Thanks but no thanks!

After hearing some of the members of the Student Programming Board talk about what a great success Soul Asylum was, I felt a need to write this article. Now I have been to a lot of SPB productions in the past, and they are usually quite successful. Unfortunately, this event was not as successful as anticipated. I am not blaming the members of SPB for this mishap, but it seems to me that "Soul Asylum" was not grateful for the amount of money that they were paid for the event. Their performance was quite unprofessional. For anyone out there who is wondering how much we paid for "Soul Asylum" to play for about an hour, the answer is about $21,000. In case you think that there is a miss print I'll repeat it, $21,000. I'm sure that all of the students noticed that the cost of the wristbands went up by 50%.

Now, I am sure that there was a great deal of preparation made toward finding bands and getting contracts. My question is, How did SPB come up with the decision to hire Soul Asylum? I also know that we were turned down by a great number of bands as well. The problem is, we caught a mainstream band on the downside of their musical career. I admit, "Letters to Cleo" is not the greatest band, but they were infinitely better than "Soul Asylum" and cost about half as much. Hiring "Physical Graffiti" was certainly a good call; their performance was also infinitely better than that of Soul Asylum. I also don't know what caused the band to leave not even an hour into the show without even an acknowledgment to the crowd. I have one word for that: "disrespectful"! I have seen quite a few concerts over my 20 years. I have seen bands that are a hundred times bigger than Soul Asylum, such as Phish and Metallica. They always make a special point to acknowledge and thank the crowd at the concert that night. Why? Because it is the crowd that helps to pay the band's enormous salary.

There are many questions that pop into my head when thinking about this weekend's concert. The first is, "What is the difference between Physical Graffiti covering Led Zeppelin songs and Soul Asylum covering Led Zeppelin songs?" The answer to this is simple: about $19,000. When I first heard the amount of money that was being paid to the band, I thought the reason SPB was willing to pay so much is that there is a big "Soul Asylum" following here at Bryant. To find out if this was true, I took an informal survey. I stood at the top of Salmanson for about an hour asking people if they were happy about "Soul Asylum" playing spring weekend. I'm sure that this will come as a surprise to the members of SPB, but it was hard to find ten people who were happy about this band.

Other than that, the rest of Spring Weekend was a roaring success. "Hats off" to the rest of the performers and activities.

Sincerely,
Anonymous

Two wrongs don't make a right

To the editor:

I do not question Jamie Durand's sincerity or well-intended motives. I am sure that she is honest in what she believes in.

However, I felt highly disappointed by her approving comments about Patricia Ireland, the President of NOW. NOW supposedly stands for National Organization of Women.

Mrs. Ireland told Jamie and a group of young feminists that she cracked anti-male jokes at an illiterate cab driver. I don't find that entertaining, even if the driver was sexist. Since when is it okay to trade hatred with hatred? Or racist remarks with racist replies? Who taught Mrs. Ireland such vulgarity? Is this how Mrs. Ireland educates an illiterate cab driver? By teaching him sexist jokes?

Also, Jamie explained how Mrs. Ireland and company stood in front of the White House chanting "Hey hey, ho ho, this sexist shit has got to go!" Lewd words, I'm afraid, do not further the cause of the feminist agenda. Besides, if Mrs. Ireland finds it appropriate to generate sexist trash inside a cab, then she shouldn't expect Bryant students to wipe her rear in front of the White House.

Yours truly,
Nora Durkins

Test Anxiety

Nicole Whitten

Health Services Student Intern

The end of the semester is drawing near and finals are just two weeks away. Many people become frustrated, nervous, and anxious during this time of the year. If you do, you may suffer from test anxiety. Here is a list of common systems:

Mental Distraction

Physical Symptoms such as fidgeting, "butterflies" in your stomach, increased heart rate or quickened breathing, headache, etc.

Mental Blocks
Everyone feels some anxiety when taking a test. Some students, however, have such an intense feeling that it affects performance in substantial means. Test anxiety is caused by a fear of failure, intense pressure, and bad past experiences.

If you suffer from test anxiety, here are some ways to control the feeling. Studying effectively will increase your confidence and thus lessen the feeling of anxiety. Create learning aids, make the most of your notes, and develop a schedule. It is also very important that you treat yourself right when preparing for an exam. Eat and sleep well before your exam. This will ensure that you are in top condition. When taking the exam, budget your time and use the full time allowed. Do not let your emotions interfere with your logic. Think the situation through. Ask yourself why you might be afraid. Use your imagination to create positive outcomes. Do not let negative thoughts consume you. Learn to relax. Proper stress management can help you deal with your anxiety better. Use relaxation techniques that will help you to relax.

If relaxation techniques and effective studying are not enough, there are several resources on campus for you to utilize. Talk to someone in Health Services or in Counseling Services. Call home and talk to your family. Ask a friend if he or she is feeling stressed about the exam. Friends often understand what you are going through. If you need to, talk to your professor. He or she can help study more effectively and, thus, help to reduce your anxiety.

Close your eyes. Take a deep breath and let it out slowly. Now that you are ready, good luck on your finals!

Well, this is it, the last paper of the year. I have broken down the Bryant College Chain of Command so that everybody can see just who has made up the ROTC Program this year. It was a long and vigorous year for the MS III class. They have been training all year to prepare themselves for Camp All-American up at Fort Lewis, Washington. The MS III's began every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday with a little physical training that took place from 0600 - 0730 at Providence College throughout the year. Physical Training consisted of an hour and a half of exercises and a 2-6 mile run to follow. There is nothing like a good run to start the day. The training did not stop there; the MS III's were required to participate in every one of the 6 field training exercises to enhance their tactical proficiency. This gave the MS III's the opportunity to learn land navigation, controlling squad movement, fighting in both defense and offensive positions, and many more tactical training.

The MS IV's do not fall short of training by any means. It was the MS IV's who set up each of the training exercises for the MS III's to partake in. The MS IV's spent countless hours organizing the fundraisers, Military Ball, Physical Training, and all the reconing on our field exercises. All in all, we had a great year, and everybody is showing great team spirit. The Awards Ceremony was held this past Saturday, and cadets were awarded for the hard efforts they put forth throughout the school year. On behalf of the MS III class, I would like to thank all of the MS IV's for making it not just a job but an adventure this year. Good luck at Officer Basic School and in your branch; I know you will make Providence College proud. I would also like to wish the MS III class good luck down at camp. For all you cadets who are leaving late, keep up the PT intensity. Good luck on your finals. I will see you all at Providence College rally point for PT.

So that we may start our MS IV year off right.

Special Olympics A Word of Thanks

Erik Silva

This is it! The games are this weekend and we're all hoping for a sunny day.

The opening ceremonies will begin at 8:45 Saturday morning at the track. We have about 700 athletes competing from Northern Rhode Island from 13 different teams. Those of you who aren't volunteers are welcome to come and watch the games.

Athletic events will take place throughout the day. This year's events include races ranging from 50 to 3000 meters, relays, the softball throw, long jump, high jump, and shot put. Demonstrations will be performed by the Dance Team, Karate Club, the Basketball Teams, and the Soccer Teams. Olympic Town will be featuring Karaoke during the day, make your own ice cream sundae, finger painting, coloring, and hat decorating. Skydivers will be here in the morning during opening ceremonies and a band will be playing during the afternoon.

On behalf of the Special Olympics Management Team, we would like to thank the 500 people who volunteered. Your help on the day of the games is much appreciated. We still do need volunteers, so even if you haven't signed up, you can still show up Saturday to help out. Come show your support. It will be very rewarding for you as well.

The Games Director, Lauren Gular, and the all-student Special Olympics Management Team is congratulated on another job well done. We'd like to thank all the core directors and chair people for all the time and energy they put into each of their committees over the past months.

See you all Saturday. Good luck on finals. Seniors, congratulations, and for all the rest, have a great summer!

The title says it all. For those of you who heard but didn't know the circumstances, as well as those who have no idea what I'm writing about. Allow me to clarify what this article is all about. They say it takes a powerful, life-changing act to get a hesitant senior to submit an article to the Archway. It is not that I did not want to write something before, but time was scarce. I did not live on campus (and I still don't), so everything that could be done at school had to be done first, and everything else had to take a backseat to that. But since it is said that it's better late than never, leave it up to me to submit something for the last Archway I will read (as an undergrad, anyway), on the topic of thanks.

On April 7, 1997 (that fine 70 degree day), I was cutting down John Mowry Rd. to speak to a professor about a possible job placement at the Economic Center of Rhode Island on campus. It was about 4:00 p.m., and the professor no longer was in. I was on my way back to the Unistrukture when from the corner of my eye I saw the men's and women's rugby teams in practice. Since the nice weather was detracting from my desire to go indoors and get busy right away, I decided to check out the practice already in progress.

As the cliché goes "curiosity killed the cat." I drove down the steep hill to the fields. For someone whose been up and down the hilly terrain at Bryant for the past four years and had never encountered any problems, the day of trouble was lurking. It just happened that the knob on my scooter for regulating the battery power versus manual power was caught in middle ground, and as I went down hill it slipped to the manual side and sent me careening down the hill despite my efforts to brake using my feet. That is when I called out for help and professor Larry Lowe's rugby bunch sprung into action to provide me with a rescue.

The last I remember that day was their approach to my scooter (the Harley). Apparently, from what I heard from public safety and my family, the group managed to stop my scooter, but not me so I flew off and stopped myself using my head. You can say—using a feline metaphor—that I must have lost three lives on that hill, which leaves me very lucky to be alive (you see, I've had big falls like this one before, but those are different stories for another time).

The week off from school is somewhat blurry between intensive care, X-rays and MRI scans, which showed a couple of hematomas that had formed on both sides of my head, which, had they not improved, would have needed surgery, enough to make me a December 1997 graduate. To make a long story shorter, those hematomas have shrunk considerably, the lumps and bruises have healed, my headaches have leared up, my optic nerve have remained intact, and my hip replacement has stayed in place; I have a new perspective on life and really realize that any of these things could have led to my demise, which is the ultimate reason why I want to thank my rescuers, public safety, and the concern of professors, Health Services, many of the ARA members, and note takers (and most of all to God for protecting and healing me). You all were the inspiration to get on my feet and finish up for graduation. I thank you all from the heart.

On a light note, I have a suggestion, perhaps SPB and other campus organizations could sponsor a fund-raiser to get an airbag, seat belts, and a rear-ejecting parachute for when I'm flying low and need to stop on a dime!

MICROFIN CORPORATION
555 VALLEY STREET
PROVIDENCE, RI 02908

April 28, 1997

Barbara Currier Gregory
Internship Coordinator

Dear Barbara:

I want to take this opportunity to commend one of your students, Kathy Drozdowski, who recently completed a work internship program with our company. As background, we are a small business employing forty-five people and serving the aircraft/aerospace industry. Doing business in a competitive industry, we tend to run lean and mean, oftentimes with personnel performing more than one function.

Kathy spent some four months with us as a marketing intern. I was extremely impressed with her ability to acclimate to our business. With minimal training and direction, she quickly assessed the overall job description and individual program objectives. Her time management, punctuality, and work ethic were exceptional for a young person in this type of business situation. We had Kathy doing market research and telemarketing to qualify companies and individual prospects. In addition to many other activities, she initiated a complete review and overhaul of our mailing list and regional sales prospect files.

In short, Kathy Drozdowski is a well-balanced and educated young woman who has the ability to quickly identify the objectives of a business situation and respond to them in a timely and professional manner. She was fast to become comfortable with her position and to interface well with all of the people in our organization. Kathy was respected for the way she performed and carried herself in a business atmosphere.

We at Microfin Corporation enjoyed having Ms. Drozdowski with us over the past months. Bryant College and its Business Department are obviously doing something right to produce graduates of the caliber of Kathy Drozdowski. Once again, we have benefited from this internship experience.

Sincerely,

Richard L. Hickey, Chairman

Delta Chi

Spring week was a blast. Spizzle felt right at home all week. If you didn't decorate anything, you didn't have enough. It's been a busy week, so on to the news:

J.D. forgot that Coma canceled the car wash. He tried to drum up some business for it after he decided to take a swim. Gatt visited all of Texas on Wednesday. Iota kicked butt on Tuesday night. "Soul Asylum, the most expensive cover band we've ever gotten"...F-Sharp. Don't piss off Goose, or he'll throw you out the window. . P-Nut made several early exits from the townhouses over the weekend. GDI quote of the week: "I guess that Chinese-looking kid is going to pass out pretty soon."

The floor had a visitor this past Thursday night... good thing Stash was there. Wigger filled his hat. Q went skydiving. Good thing Coma was there to break his fall. Grandpa put Gatt out of commission. Q broke up an intimate moment behind the townhouses. "Killer, where's my sunglasses?" Are they with the pig? Who invited Big Bird up this weekend? Lambda class project: get Dutch some cigarettes. Everyone had better be here for this Friday night.

Quote of the Week: "Was that P-Nut, or was that Wilk?"

Delta Kappa Epsilon

by Vinnie Verducci

Yes it's true, two in a row! It's been an exciting week at Bryant College. Just ask Deibel. Jesse invented an interesting new sport this Thursday. It involves a pool cue, a basketball net and a pigs head. I can't imagine that anyone is suprised. I would like to thank Chris, Tokes, Joel and Suzy for an interesting time in my room on Friday. Chris and Suzy don't forget to brush your teeth. Joel is still mad about the breaking of rules #3 and #4.

One could say Dyer was in rare form this weekend but with Dyer it isn't that rare. Racey and Tokes decided to take a field trip for the weekend. I'd like to take a moment of silence for my PC baseball cap. Joel "Superfly" Johnson was victorious in his bout at the townhouses as he forced his opponent to submit. It was a SPECIAL night for Crash and Spyder on Saturday. By the way what ever happen to that Degutas kid. A quick update on Riggs current condition. It seems that he is shrinking and lost an 1/8 of an inch last week. We'll keep you updated.

About 24 items were reported stolen out of a students refrigerator Friday night. Tubbs don't worry they'll find them. Carmine next time you invite friends from home tell them to use your bathroom. Grabowy was in full Gary Ferrarri form on Saturday night and for this we apologize.

Last but not least it is true Jesse is in the five year program and will be making archways for year to come. Congratulations girls!!!!

Delta Zeta

Sandra DiGianvittorio

Hello! Is everyone OK? After last week, that question is questionable! Before I get into that, everyone should know that we had our 2nd annual Turtle-A-Thon on Thursday. Thanks to all who came and supported us. We hope you had fun. Keep in mind that the sisters are still accepting donations.

Last week we had our girls' night out all-sorority bash. What DID all you guys do without us around for a few hours?! KT helped us make a mess at the townhouses on Wednesday. Thursday was packed with fun; TKE's annual pigroast was fun (and a bit gross), and we went around the world with D Chi that night. Friday started early with DKE and ended late with Beta. Saturday morning, TEP entertained us and visiting alumni: Brady, Ellis, Madison, Tango, Tori, and Ginger. It was great to see you guys. Thanks to everyone who made our spring week a blast!

Members of the PK club, Nicole, Char, Wheels, Demetri, and Lush, are still alive and walking! Thanks to Darbi and Winga for trying to get us in the garden, although we didn't need to go! Meridian, it was so great to see you back to your freshman ways this week(end)! Hope it lasts! If anyone has seen the throne walking around campus, please return it to the palace (J2). Vegas and Bazil, I officially passed down the directions to Larry's. Use them wisely and continue the tradition. I trust you both. -Joker. Pepper and Mattie would like to thank D Chi for entertaining us this week. Next time, forget the TP and keep your brothers under control!! Kenedy would like to ask her two T's to back off in the future! Reece would like to thank Preslee for an awesome weekend. Just remember next time not to go awol! Special thanks goes to Zak; those cows can get quite annoying, "sir"!!!

To all the fabulous non-seniors: Thanks for Wednesday night! It was incredible. We'll miss you guys. Love, the seniors (I can't handle much more of this sadness).

WE would like to say good-bye to our graduating seniors. We will miss you all terribly and wish you great things in the future. Please remember to come back and visit. Our doors are always open for you! We love you!!!! Love, the rest of us!

Well, I guess this is it. Good luck to everyone on finals. Till next time, just remember...CHECK YA LATER!!!

Kappa Delta Phi

Ryan Delaney

Hello everyone; I hope everyone had a safe and exciting Spring Week. I know I did. Let me recap some activities for you.

On Monday night, we had a long overdue party with Phi-Sig. The music was movin' and everyone was groovin'. The next two days were days of rest to prepare for the weekend. On Thursday night, a Brothers' Party took place, and all went well in that department.

Now for the big news—the weekend. Some better communication skills are needed between us and Theta. It seems that no one knew exactly when are party was supposed to be, so we made it an all night event anyway. Next time we need some better planning and the meeting place shouldn't be at Parente's.

Thanx to Tri-Sig for the Saturday morning breakfast treats; I like my mornings to start off in pain, I mean grain. Those two words are interchangeable anyway. Then it was out to the fields to witness one of the best Led Zeppelin cover bands ever.

CAMPUS SCENE

Those guys were great, and they imitated the band members so well. The crew in the beer garden seemed to enjoy themselves this weekend; I'll give you a full report on it next year due to the fact that I am underage as of now.

Various and assorted alumni paid a visit to enjoy the festivities. Milhouse stopped up from North Carolina and showed everyone that he still has it, contrary to the belief that he had lost it recently. Mullins, Lil-Steve, Kazoo, and Josh also came up to see Soul Asylum. Soul Asylum is Josh's favorite band because it's the only one he knows with the word asylum in its name. I'd give a quote of the week, but being that no one could speak over the weekend, we'll have to see how articulate this week will be. By the way, big congratulations to Flow-Bee, our one and only senior who recently got a job offer (who's got the Clubs?). Nice job. No pun intended. That is about all I can say about this week; it was great, and I hope everybody had just as much fun as I did. Good luck on exams and enjoy the nice weather.

Phi Sigma Sigma

Sue Lednar

Hey! Thanks to everyone for a great week. Other thanks go out to Delta Zeta, Tri Sig, and Theta for a fun time on Tuesday. Many seemed skeptical, especially the RA, but we proved them wrong.

Montigo would like to thank Nikki, Treecha, and Amy for accompanying her to the Garth Brooks concert. She wishes them safety upon all next time.

Wednesday was a lot of fun. The competition just filled the room. Congratulations to the Notorious Nine on a job well done. As for the cheaters, watch out because you were caught on tape. Hey Rudie, good thing that curtain was closed, huh?

As for Thursday, a few sisters headed down to visit TKE. We heard the discount was well worth it. For those of us who didn't go, you could have found us at Rente's. Isn't that right, Tigs?

Well, Spring Weekend approached us faster than we could believe. We would like to thank TEP for the wake up call and thanks to L5 for feeding us. After breakfast, many took naps to gear up for the night. Sunny and Hailey were occupied with Mr. Bucket of Bubbles, dancing hippos, and moving doors. Thanks to the top of 4 for watching us. It was a blast, but watch out for those grabbing trees.

Saturday morning, L7 hosted the last countdown with Sig Ep. Later that day, Sunny got to meet Soul Asylum. How does that autograph go?

Well, times almost up, but we won't give up. You will find us bouncing around the Roto this week. Please support our Trampoline-athon. It's for a good cause, not to mention lots of fun.

The floor sisters would also like to report a tragedy. We found that Mr. Bee just couldn't take it anymore. May he buzz no more. Sprite would like to thank Komonos, Leone, and Smitty for those ideas. And finally, the quote of the week: "Oh wow, you're not even on our bus, but we'll pick you up next time." -Hailey. Study hard. Until next time!

Hello everyone!!! The passing Executive Board of SHRM would like to say thank you once again to all the guest speakers who visited with us this last year: Patty Hughes, Rick Smith, Steven Hines, Lynn Homer, Tom Brown, and David Wyduka. We would also like to express our appreciation to all the professors who supported SHRM, especially Drs. DiBattista and Luthar. And to Dr. Pollard, thank you for all you support, encouragement, and enthusiasm. Finally, we would like to thank all the students who attended our meetings. We hope in some way the information presented was beneficial.

On a closing note, to the passing E-board—Jen P., Kristen, Nicole, Allyson, and Jen D.—CONGRATULATIONS!!! And to the new E-Board—David, Anthony, Dennis, Sherri P., Sheri T., Danielle, and Keith—Best of Luck!!!

Good-bye, good luck, and thanks again!!!

Phi Kappa Sigma

Greg Hesslin

O!!! Welcome back from spring weekend, everyone. First off, we would like to congratulate Tiger McDonnell and Chi-Chi Morrison on their Ghetto golf victory. In case anyone hasn't heard the latest golf jokes, just ask anyone who attended the Ghetto block open; they've heard them all three times over. Who needs Soul Asylum when you've got Tulapani with a megaphone? The Acton crew (AKA I hate Martone, and Captain Slice Lancia) didn't do as well as they talked about doing. Surprise. Either way it was nice to see an almost all Black and Old Gold leader board.

Congratulations, Swain. You finally did something worthy of making the Archway. Unfortunately, your tag team partner got ejected from the match by referee Pierce before you were able to sub in. Sugar D came up bearing gifts; that should keep DeBenedetto in his room for the rest of the year. Jeremy's been making friends with Swain. He christened his bed, then the floor, and then the hallway. Talk about the gift that just keeps on giving. Byrne, shackled down by his responsibilities as risk manager, decided to heed to his civic duty and become the Greek liaison to the basketball team, as well as to the former Delta AM's association. Congratulations to Lancia for receiving your bid from KT; keep hanging out, and you'll be making a paddle for Charles before you know it.

Mic is in the lead with a score of two in the demolition contest. DPS trails in second with a score of one. Jen turned Happy Pappy into Happy Slappy. It's OK now, though; she understands that she deserved it. Atherton had a hic conference with Terry to discuss the merits of black sheep versus white sheep. Salami has gone from zero in five years to two in one month. Did you start borrowing LaBonte's CK1? Garret had an incredible spring weekend in Warwick, where Hootie and the Blow fish opened up for Oasis. Fogarty has moved his bed into the Rotunda; its not as comfortable as the one in his room, but at least he doesn't have to put up with stealth's (AKA mother superior) wacky friends.

Fraternity of the week was a tough decision this week. As always, people seemed to be upset with our voting method, so in the interest of fairness, we changed it again. In honor of spring weekend, we decided to involve Soul Asylum. We asked them who the best Fraternity on campus was, and all they could say was Black Gold. Good enough for us.

Fraternity of the week: Us.

Phi Kappa Tau

Mike Lancaster

Hey, what's up? How's everybody feeling this week? Probably still recovering from last week. The recap for the week is a little blurry, but here's what I can remember. Girls soccer, DZ, Girls Rugby and Tri-Sig, thanks for the parties.

Strecci was the subject of harassment. He found a new black hole, received a makeover, and hurt his foot using Morse code on the door. Hudson fell asleep and received a makeover of his own from the beeper. Terps says Rob invest in a padlock. Tommy and Bill did anything to sell those coozies. Terps did a face-plant off the wall, with Christine's help. Jaime learned to play rugby, women's style. Catelli, drink up, Metamucil style. Tommy, go out the door, go out the window, JUST GO!

Saturday, Soul Asylum put on a great concert; they had the crowd dancing and jumping around. NOT! They should be put on a "Runaway Train" off a cliff. This is my last article, so all the brothers say congratulations and good luck to the seniors; don't forget about alumni donations. Have fun cleaning the townhouse. Where did the glass come from?

All the brothers who now hold positions, good job; the speeches you prepared were excellent. Hopefully your leadership will be equal. Here's the lucky list: Card-floor manager, Orlando-historian (learn how to use a camera), Terps-fundraising (let's get out of the red), Catelli-sergeant of arms, Schoenbaum-rush, Tommy-social, and Steve O-chaplain, because he loves to talk. Good luck; let us continue our great prosperity and leadership.

Have a good summer. See everybody next year. Happy 21st, Celina, I hope you're wet. Coozies are still available and probably will be until the end of the century. Peace out.

The Bryant Players

Kelli Young

Hi everybody! I hope we all had a good Spring Weekend! This week is a big week for the Bryant Players. Nominations, elections, charity work, and a BBQ are all in store! This weekend is the Special Olympics, and any and all volunteers are welcome to help us on Saturday in Olympic Town. Please notify an e-board member if you have any questions. Also, our annual car wash will be held this Sunday at the Apple Valley Exxon gas station. So if your car is dirty (and trust me, I've seen some of the cars in the parking lots!), come and let us clean it for you! Good luck to all who have been nominated for committee chairs. I'm sure you'll do us proud!

On a lighter note: Erin, did you have a birthday we should know about? Eddy was a champ until he lost it in overtime and Becca was leyed seven times!!! Yikes! Anyone want a picture of Soul Asylum?

And on that note, I leave you!

Overheard: "Isn't this Fleetwood Mac?"

I would like to start off by thanking SPB for a fun-filled weekend. All of your hard work really paid off. Saturday was very interesting, but I thought Saturday night was even better with the performance by Gallagher 2. For those who did not attend, you missed a great show.

I would also like to congratulate Sean Kenny on his election for the Speaker position. We are definitely going to have a great year next year.

For the past couple of weeks, with the help of the Bryant community, Heather Hartwick has been planning Bryant Spirit Day. Hopefully this was a successful event that everyone participated in.

I would like to end by wishing everyone good luck on finals. Have a great summer, and we will see you in September!!!

Theta Phi Alpha

Stacey Roberts

Hey Theta! Spring is finally here! We have had a very exciting past few weeks. However, I hope that everyone is still concentrating on classes. First, we would like to thank everyone who contributed to our "Kiss Goodbye" fund-raiser. It was a great success!

We'd like to wish a Happy 21st Birthday to Celina and Cody! Happy Birthday to Otovic, who turned 22 on Sunday! Congratulations, you made it through your senior year without going swimming once! Speaking of going swimming, we would like to thank TKE for a great time at their formal! Our thanks also go to Phi Kap and KT for a great time at their formals.

Spring week went really well. Everyone had a great time. KT helped us kick off the week; thanks for a great time. Phi Kap kept things going on Tuesday, and, along with them, we'd like to thank all of the sororities for ending the night with a bang! We had a good time at G-4. Thanks for the ghetto golf; it was very entertaining! Things never dyed down with TKE and TEP on Wednesday. Beta was definitely the place to be on Thursday. And, as usual, we had a very good time with Tri Sig on Friday morning!!! Delta helped to kick off the weekend; thanks guys!

Autumn, Marinna, Speagle and Saybelle enjoyed mother earth. Speagle was especially fascinated by the trees. Oh, what an adventure! Bethany and Jackie would like to thank Espo for the new hiding spot. That stuff really makes us laugh, sorry! Tim, Jeremy and Jim, the word of the night is conglomerate. Christine would like to thank her Psychology class for a good time on Saturday night. Sparrow would like to publicly apologize for the mess she made in Magenta's room. Lynsay, Killian and Sheba would like to thank TKE for letting us use the toy that we found under the sink in your townhouse bathroom on Saturday night; it really helped! Keegs, Tazia and Otovic, Bertie wanted to let you know that the third time's a charm. Hey Sandy, this is a pretzel, and this is a potato chip. Marinna and Speagle would like to thank the boys for their beautiful fire! Sorry that we doubted you, guys! Killian and Sheba want a re-match, Shep! I hope that everyone has a good weekend! Good luck to everyone on your finals! Lata Theta!

Tau Kappa Epsilon

Sean Smith

This one comes to ya from the waiting room at Health Services. A little too much Salmy has got me feeling like I just ate one of Cecil and Cujo's patented salads. Also, sorry about our absence last week.

It was Spring Week.

Before we get to that, let's talk about the formal. Everyone had a great time, but a few cool people had to redecorate the bathroom. Nobody has confessed yet, but I still think Psycho Jenny is a major suspect. Iceman thought it was funny to write on my arm Friday night but wasn't so amused when he woke up on Sunday as the new TKE Avon Lady. I found the law enforcement much friendlier on the Cape than in Waterville Valley. Streaker still cannot understand why he couldn't hold his gun. Streaker and Kara redefined "Dirty Dancing." One good thing that the formal did was to prove correct a theory Blue Hornet, Mentos, and I came up with in the woods one cold night: Our fraternity has a problem with clothing! All of the dates got a taste of New Member Education.

Now onto Spring Week. Thanks Theta and Tep for Wednesday night. Heaven on earth for Longo! Streaker would like to thank everyone who supported him in the case race, even though Cujo boxed out. We knew it was a festive week when we saw 15martino, T-Abbot, and the other whipped daddy hung out. Unfortunately for Castanza, Pam has taken my title of beer dumper for her showing at H2. On a side note, I am taking a pole of which song was played more this weekend: "Hypnotized", "Let Me Clear My Throat", or "Runaway Train." Longo set a record for shortest time spent in the beer garden, and it wasn't even for his inability to hang. It was nice to see some alumni up this weekend: Jeff G., Timmy, Roland, Kahn, Ryan, Todd, Vinny, and Stefano. Vinny drank so much this week that he forgot to go back to Springfield.

Now onto the seventh annual Pig Roast, or, as we like to refer to it, the First Annual Successful Pig Roast. Everyone had a good time, but I think Murray and Woody are still playing pool. Pam, this ID says you're a 54 year old, 6'5", 360 lbs. man from Afghanistan, with a purple Mowhawk, a full beard, and a wooden leg, but it's close enough. Thanks to Watery Groove and DJ Nikko. Cant wait to see everyone next year.

We have some more elections to tell you about. Braccia and I got Co-Rush Daddies. After the amazing job he has done for Phi Sig, we figured we'd give him a shot. Adam got Sergeant at Arms. Swandex got floor manager. Enzo got his 10th consecutive term as A.D. And a big "I'm Sorry Pal" goes out to Rocky for getting elected social. Don't go crying to Rose with your first Sisters Drinking Boones List!

If anyone is looking for excuses (besides court) to miss finals, we have developed a new fund-raiser. "The Sit in a Room with Philly for an Hour Program" is just five dollars an hour. Various diseases you'll contract include: H.I. Knee, Bronchitis, Strep Throat, Love Triangleitis, or some unknown fungus he contracted from Eric Lindros's jock. Warning: You may not recover from these diseases for three semesters and the side effects include—but are not limited to—extensive damage to your suite and room and a complete disrespect for authority.

Now for some miscellaneous things. Spider and Crash learned to "Bow Down" to superior beer die players. Enzo would like to know which kind of pickle Wesli prefers (I don't even know if I want to know what that means). Spring has broken out on the floor. Love is in the air and seems to have reached every room, but it appears to have hit room 211 the hardest, and dare we say, "It's about time!" Alrighty, everyone always bothers me with quotes, so here we go: "I want you to rock my investments world." - 15martino, "Listen, I don't go to your class, don't like your class, and don't like you as a teacher, but can I have an extension?" - Bubble Boy.

Well, that's it for me! Good luck on finals! Ohh, sorry for leaving the Longo joke out this week, but don't worry, Dave, there's one Archway left!

Later,
Smity

Ivy May Kusler

Hello everyone! Well, there's nothing like going from a week of absolutely no work to a week of nothing but! This is a real reality check! I'd like to congratulate Sarah, Sonja, and Jennie, our newest recruits; you guys are awesome! I hope you all had a great week and am sure everyone remembers everything, right Rich? Sorry, I had to take advantage of that one. Mel had a excellent birthday, at least from what we've told her. You may have done a few less than Deacon, but who lasted all night and the next day?

Theta, next year it's on your floor cause it looks like that's the only way we can get you guys to go. I thought you were die hards? Some of you missed squishy and hairy! Nick and Rich, you guys killed me! Phi Kap, I think our happy hour turned into Parente's night. Thanks, Delat, for a fun morning! Cindy and Shila, Saturday was fun; look at the parachutes, it looks so weeee! Saturday night was a good time with KT, with the exception of Jamie drenching everyone. Streci, how's your foot? Terpinator, do one more! Hey, do you like your new nick name from Mel and I? Christie, it's early; we've got to go get it.

That's about it, sorry so short! Good luck on all your exams! Have a terrific summer! Meet me to celebrate on the 13th! Check ya later; I love you all!

WJMF

Chris Grogan

Before I begin my first article for WJMF, I must warn you that Frank will not be able to write anymore articles for the station because he will be graduating soon. He did a great job doing these articles for WJMF but kind of has to graduate. Unfortunately for the rest of you, you will have to put up with my pointless ramblings for the next year.

In WJMF-related news, if for some reason you get this early, we have, at our final meeting of the semester at 4 p.m. today, at the radio station. All DJ's who have not already signed up for a show for next semester, please make this meeting so you can do so. Hopefully, we will be able to determine the winner of the "Our Logo Sucks!" campaign at today's meeting. Thanks to all who participated, because with all the hip-hop CJ's that we now have, "The Brave New World of Rock" makes about as much sense as Snoop Doggy Dogg going country ("Bow-wow-wow-yippee-yeaahhh-haw!!!"). Also at our final meeting, we will be giving our formal good-byes to all of the seniors on the WJMF staff: Bari, Mike, Heather, JD, Bill, Allison, and Frank. Sorry if I forgot anyone.

In concert-related news, how about that cover band—I mean Soul Asylum—who played at our campus this past weekend? Nothing like paying over $22,000 to hear live covers of Fleetwood Mac songs; I mean if we really wanted Fleetwood Mac, we could have paid just about $2,000 to get the real thing. But at least I finally got to see Physical Graffiti, which was a Led Zeppelin tribute band that was certainly worth the money SPB paid them.

This summer there are tons of concerts up and coming. One that I should mention for those of you who are metalheads like myself is the OzzFest, which will be coming to Great Woods on June 14. The headliner is Ozzy Osbourne (hence the tour name "Ozz" Fest), who will be doing a solo set and then another set with his old band, Black Sabbath. If you don't think they're old, the only thing that needs to be said is that their original bass player's nickname is "Geezer." Other bands performing include Pantera, Type O Negative, and Machine Head. Another tour package that will be out at Great Woods on July 8 & 9 is Lollapalooza. Bands playing Lollapalooza are Tool, Snoop Doggy Dogg, The Foo Fighters, and (my heroes) Korn. The last band alone is worth seeing live, but if you don't like any of the aforementioned bands, there will be more announced in the coming weeks, so be on the lookout.

Well, that is all. Only 358 more days until next year's Spring Weekend. Do bomb any exams, now. Zai Jian!

Women's Rugby

Sarah Couture
and Kim Noyes

Hey Ruggers! We hope everyone had a great Spring Week. We certainly did, some more than others. We would like to wish everyone good luck on their finals. The undefeated Women's Rugby team ended their season this past Wednesday against PC. However, we do not know if that title will still stand when this is read.

We would like to thank Beta for a slammin' time on Tuesday night. The bathroom proved to be a little icy. Margaret the "Queen" made a new name for herself that seemed to stick for the entire week. We are all glad that Summer had such a fun birthday.

Does everyone know that she is 21 now? Thanks to KT for making Thursday night a lot of fun. Pam and Sarah really knew how to make an entrance after a fun-filled afternoon. We apologize to KT for beating you at all of the games. It is rough, but the women's rugby team always wins. Maybe you will be able to win some of the races next semester. You guys should get together and practice over the summer. Also, all of us girls enjoyed being entertained by our friend the "dancing boy."

We would like to thank Delta Chi for the early morning experience on Friday. Some might think that it was too early, and we would have to agree, but it was a lot of fun anyway. Our Friday afternoon barbecue with TEP also turned out to be a good time. Thanks to the guys for cooking for us. We didn't expect to see a baked potato in tin foil there too, but thanks anyway, Molly. We didn't know how dangerous the TEP brothers could be with a Frisbee. We know that you were trying to hit us.

A lot of us managed to go a little off the wall this weekend. We knew that you guys were crazy but we didn't know how crazy. Maybe that is why "S-A-T-U-R-D-A-Y Night" never got played. Tito Smith and his gang of hooligans must have scared them.

Congratulations to our rookies: Molly, Marybeth, Katy, Susie, Heather, Marleen, Trisha, Katie, Carolyn, Jessica, and Allison on completing your first season. Nice job, girls. You are the greatest.

Don't be sad but this is our last article of the semester. We would like to acknowledge all those cool people that we said we would mention in our articles but didn't get the chance. We hope that everyone has a great summer. We leave you with a final question to ponder: "Will Foxy MC bust a rhyme? Yo, yo!"

Close Up: Nikki Rogerson

The Bryant Sports section will include several changes next year. One of which, will be a weekly article focusing on a particular athlete. I am hoping that this will bring the sports community closer to Bryant College. Ultimately, I am hoping that this will create a little more school spirit. The first ever Close Up will be Nikki Rogerson of the Women's Cross Country Team.

Nikki Rogerson's accomplishments:

- First Team All-Conference (4th in Conference)
- Freshman Runner of the Year in the NE-10
- Freshman Runner of the Week (St. Anselm Invitational)
- Freshman Runner of the Week (Stonehill Invitational)

Archway: What were your expectations when you first decided to run Cross Country at Bryant?

NR: To have fun, and about have way through the season I decided to go for Freshman of the Year.

Archway: What was the biggest adjustment from High School Cross Country to Bryant Cross Country?

NR: Dealing with different coaching. I went from a team that won everything in the state (Vermont) to coming to a school where we had to work harder because there weren't as many solid runners.

Archway: How were the practices?

NR: Tough, sometimes it was frustrating because I didn't do the summer workouts that I should have done, so I came into the season in not as good of shape as I should have been.

Archway: What was the biggest challenge this year, in Cross Country, and in school?

NR: Trying to management time between work, sleep, cross country, and making sure I was still having fun.

Archway: How did winning the NE-10 Freshman of the Year Award in Cross Country make you feel?

NR: It gave me a sense that everything I worked for was worth it. It's an award that I got and no one can take from me. It's something that I worked hard for. I knew I could do it. I just wanted to be the best.

Archway: At what point in time did you feel that you were able to win the award?

NR: I got Freshmen of the Week in the NE-10's after the St. Anselm Invitational. Then Charlie talked to me about what I needed to do and how I had a good shot at Freshmen of the Year.

Archway: Were there any disappointments this year?

NR: I expected the team to be different.

Archway: How so?

NR: I expected the team to be bigger, and to hang together outside of practice.

Archway: Is there anything you would change about this last season?

NR: I wish we [team] would have gotten to know each other before the end of the season. And I wish we would work together more during the races.

Archway: What did you like most about Cross Country at Bryant?

NR: Spaghetti dinners and Carrie's cheese bread. Also, for NCAAs, we went Pennsylvania...and we had alot of fun down there. Even though we didn't do well, we still had a good time.

Archway: What are your goals for next year?

NR: To train over the summer and to be First-team All-Conference (top seven in the NE-10 Finals). As for the team, I will like us to have more team unity, and also to be the best in the conference.

Bulldog Weekly Roundup

BASEBALL:

After a 6-3 week, the Bulldogs (19-18, 12-9 NE-10) closed in on a spot in next weekend's NORTH-EAST-10 baseball tournament.

Bryant opened the week with a 10-6 loss at Bentley Monday, but bounced back by pounding Assumption, 16-6. The Bulldogs collected a season-high 21 hits and three home runs. Freshmen Mike Anzalone (Walpole, MA/Walpole) and Martin Riggione (Orange, CT/Amity) each belted their first collegiate long balls, while sophomore designated hitter Ron Yuhas (Groton, CT/Fitch) had four hits, including his first home run of the season. Sophomore third baseman Keith Masterson (Medway, MA/Medway) had three hits and four RBI.

Bryant made it two in a row the following day, defeating Quinnipiac, 7-1. Senior lefthander Matt Goodfinger (Randolph, MA/Randolph) went the distance to earn his fourth win, allowing just six hits. Junior Luke Robustelli (Bristol, CT/Bristol) went 2-for-4 with five stolen bases and three runs scored and Brian Hurleigh (E. Williston, NY/Wheatley School) had three hits and four RBI.

Bryant set its sights on a three-game weekend set with St. Michael's after a 14-4 loss to first-place Merrimack Thursday. In game one, senior righthander Chris Baldwin (Wolcott, CT/Wolcott) picked up the 'W' allowing just three hits and striking out seven. Masterson tallied three hits and three RBI and sophomore centerfielder Jason Eldridge (Belchertown, MA/Belchertown) scored four times and had three hits.
