Living With AIDS

Julia Arouchon
Archway Staff Writer

"In the next ten years each of you will lose someone you love to AIDS. Unfortunately, I already know who that person will be," said Jennifer Nicols.

AIDS Awareness week brought the brother and sister teams of Henry and Jennifer Nicols to campus to give their lecture "Living with AIDS". The Nicols have traveled and lectured in 40 of the 50 states and have met former President Bush and President and Mrs. Clinton to discuss issues facing individuals with AIDS.

Henry, who is 21 years old, was unable to attend the lecture held Monday in Janikies because he became hospitalized on Thanksgiving Day due to complications from his illness. Henry did send a short but upbeat videotape message to the audience of approximately 125 members of the Bryant community.

Jennifer described Henry as just like the average college student. In a slide presentation, images of Henry engaging in normal and activities such as scuba diving, snorkeling, doing Karate and climbing mountains would not give any indication that he has AIDS.

"You can't spot Henry out of a crowd of people as someone with AIDS. He would fit in with anyone on this campus," said Nicols.

Henry has been infected with the HIV virus since he was 10 years old, but has had full blown AIDS for four years. Henry was born with Hemophilia, a rare blood disease which does not allow the body to produce the right protein to clot blood properly. As a result, Henry had to receive infusions of blood each time he was bruised.

Over the years Henry has been receiving infusions made of a solution which includes blood from over 40,000 people. Therefore, he has been exposed to over seven million people's blood.

Nicols stressed the importance of donating blood if an individual is not in a high risk category. "Less than 1% of those who are eligible to donate blood actually donate blood," explained Nicols. While in the hospital this past weekend, Henry used a combination of blood made up of 100,000 people.

When Henry was diagnosed with AIDS in 1985, the Nicols family decided not to tell anyone because they were scared of what may happen if people in the small town of Cooperstown, NY found out Henry had AIDS. The Nicols decided to keep Henry's AIDS a secret from their friends and even relatives. Even Henry's doctors did not know he had AIDS and Henry's family would drive five hours to New York City to receive treatment.

"During this time of silence, we pretended that we didn't hear AIDS jokes, we changed the subject when AIDS came up in conversations and my parents made arrangements for my sister and I to attend school in New Jersey if people found out Henry had AIDS," said Nicols.

When Henry found out he had AIDS, he was told that most people who get diagnosed with AIDS only live for one year. Already Henry has been diagnosed as a long term survivor because the average person who is diagnosed with full blown AIDS lives for only two years.

"There are days when Henry feels so strong that he races down back roads on his motorcycle without a care in the world," described his sister.

According to Nicols, many young people often feel they are going to live forever and they have a dangerous sense of immortality — even Henry. Nicols suggested ways to help people with AIDS and they include donating blood on a regular basis, fighting homophobia, and getting tested if you are in a high risk category.

"If you have done anything that has put you at risk of contacting HIV, it is imperative that you get tested," said Nicols.

Nicols stressed there is no such thing as a guilty or innocent victim of AIDS because it could affect anyone.

"There is a big misconception that you can only get the virus if you are a homosexual or a IV drug user. Right now most individuals infected with HIV are women age 16-25," said Nicols.

Unfortunately, some of the people do not know they are infected with HIV for 10-12 years and during this time they can be infecting their partners unknowing.

In Rhode Island, AIDS testing is both free and anonymous. Further information can be obtained from the door of Health Services in Hall 16.

The Nicols lecture was sponsored by GAMMA/GPC, Student Programming Board, Health Services and Student Activities.

Proposal Heads To Student Wide Vote

Julia Arouchon
Archway Staff Writer

The Student Senate voted yesterday to unanimously support a student wide vote on the new scheduling proposal.

Proposal "50-75-150" appeared on the front page of The Archway last week. The proposal is to change the present scheduling of day time undergraduate classes to primarily a mixture of 75 minutes classes to be held on Monday and Thursday and Tuesday and Friday, with 150 minute classes to be held on Wednesdays.

The proposal also provides time periods for those faculty members who wish for their classes to meet three times a week.

The Committee on College Organization (COCO) met the Monday before Thanksgiving break and approved the proposal by a margin of 3 to 1 with one absent ballot. However, the Student Senate voted against the proposal by a margin of fifteen to eight and made a motion for the proposal to be put to the students.

According to Vice President for Academic Affairs, Michael Patterson, the proposal was opposed by a small margin of the eighty faculty members present at this week's faculty meeting.

"The proposal is currently on hold until I have heard from the students," said Patterson.

If approved, the proposal is expected to be in effect no sooner than September 1996.

Speak up or Quit Complaining

As members of the Bryant Community have raised more and more controversial issues in The Archway, many people have criticized us for fueling negativism. We do not fuel negativism, we promote free expression.

Our submission policy, our personal integrity and our editorial decisions have been questioned. The Archway values its autonomy; we have always tried to base decisions on sound journalistic practice. We do not underestimate the power of the printed word, nor do we attempt to abuse it.

We do not write the letters we publish; we just print them. Opinions expressed in the form of a letter to the editor, a cartoon, or a column, do not necessarily represent the opinions of The Archway staff.

It is not our mission to have opinions, whether positive or negative, go unheard. Rather, our mission is to keep the community informed in an honest and straightforward way.

In recent weeks we have been receiving an average of ten letters per issue. This number may seem large compared to the past, but with thousands of members in the community, ten letters a week is small.

The Community Forum on Tuesday, December 6, will be an important opportunity for a large number of students, faculty, and administrators to speak their minds face to face. It is the opportunity the community has sought.

It may seem harder to discuss issues without a shield of anonymity, but if you can back up what you say, then there is no reason to be afraid.

Let's see how many people can fit in the Rotunda.

Alumni Data Misleading

To the Editor:

We are writing in response to the editorial, "Where Do We Go From Here?" which appeared on page 2 of The Archway on November 10. We wish to clarify the facts surrounding Bryant College's "Alumni Satisfaction" rating, as recently reported in the September 26 issue of U.S. News & World Report. The magazine ranked Bryant sixteenth in "Alumni Satisfaction," which has created concern. This low rating is a result of how the magazine chose to define and measure "Alumni Satisfaction," a new category in the survey this year, as well as how Bryant data was reported.

When the magazine survey arrived mid-February 1994, Bryant alumni data was not available in a format which could be easily reported. In our best judgment, several months of work would have been required to develop the computer programs necessary to provide data requested by the magazine. Therefore, the decision was made to focus on more important data management priorities, e.g., insuring that course grading and registration systems would be operational in time to meet students' needs.

It is unfortunate and misleading that U.S. News & World Report chose to report our data as "0", instead of as "missing" or "not available," as was the case. As a result, the College received an inaccurate, low rating in the "Alumni Satisfaction" category. The Offices of Information Technology and OPIR are already taking steps to develop programs so that we can respond to the survey next year with more complete data.

In a recent Bryant survey of the Class of 1989, nearly 90 percent of the respondents expressed satisfaction with their Bryant experience. The Annual Fund last year exceeded its goal by 17 percent, and average individual gifts increased substantially. Recent alumni chapter events in Boston and Hartford boasted record attendance. The Alumni Career Network, our expanding Alumni Association regional chapters, and assistance to Admission officers in recruiting students throughout the U.S., are just a few examples of vibrant and growing levels of alumni support.

Bryant alumni are proud of their degrees, attaining important and interesting positions after graduation, and are reaping the rewards of a Bryant education. Bryant undergraduates, who will soon become alumni, can look forward to similar benefits.

Sincerely,

Paula Iacono '69

A Fair Word Spoken

To the Editor:

After reading the article on Thursday, November 17, I was a bit disturbed. I, too, am a student in Professor Glass' class. A student, obviously not doing well, in Professor Glass' MIS class chose to attack his character in a very improper way. If a student has a problem with one of their professors I think that it is between that student and the professor. I do not think the issue involved the entire school. Was it that this student was really angry and upset because the professor arrives a bit late to class or was it because they did rather poorly on the exam?

Professor Glass is a good teacher and many students would strongly agree. He is a very fair grader and students get the grade that they earn. Effort and grades are related to each other. Next time putting in the time to get the grade desired instead of humiliating Professor Glass will work out better. He was willing to be of great assistance when our group had questions about our presentation. He spent the time to help us and patiently explained what he was looking for. He is always willing to help out those students with questions.

I recommend this class to other students. Professor Glass is a very fair and just professor and I hope this letter will set the record straight.

Answer To Last Week's MSU Question

Q: Who was the first black female lawyer in the United States?

A: Charlotte E. Ray (1850-1911)

Charlotte E. Ray was the first black woman lawyer in the United States and the third woman admitted to law practice in this country. Miss Ray, born in New York City in 1850, the daughter of a noted abolitionist, minister and editor, Charles Bennett Ray, graduated from the Howard University Law School in Washington, D.C. As a result of her completing her studies at Howard, she was immediately (and automatically) admitted to the practice of law in the lower courts of the district. On April 23, 1872 she officially became the first black woman admitted to the practice of law before the district Supreme Court.

Not surprisingly, Ms. Ray found it difficult to establish a law practice in her home city of New York, so she turned to the field of education and became a teacher in the Brooklyn schools.

Her sister, Florence T. Ray (1849-1916) was an accomplished poet.

Compiled by Keith Williams
Department of Public Safety

Vandalism

November 14, 1994- At 8:00 p.m. a student heard a loud noise in their residence hall which resembled glass breaking. When they opened the curtain they found the window had been smashed by a rock. They saw someone moving quickly away from the window. A group of people on the floor above were questioned about the incident. While nothing could be found in any individual's rooms, a slingshot was found in the bushes outside one of the nearby residence halls. After DPS spoke to the victim, it was concluded that this was another random act of vandalism. The student was informed that if they felt threatened in any way, they shouldn't hesitate to call DPS.

Vandalism

November 17, 1994- An officer was dispatched to the Townhouse Utility Room because of a window that had been shattered. The damages were said to be done by a rock being thrown. The damage to this sliding glass window will not allow entry into the building. The estimated cost of replacing the window is $170.00. There are no suspects at this time but DPS is pursuing an investigation.

Fire Alarm-False

November 18, 1994- An officer was dispatched to Hall 11 for a fire alarm. While looking for the cause of the alarm, they found an activated smoke detector in the second floor hallway. The alarm was reset.

Motor Vehicle Accident

November 19, 1994- A student was in a minor accident that occurred outside the Bryant Center. The student was backing out of a parking space and was unable to see a parked car, and subsequently hit it. The vehicle that the student was driving had no damage, but the vehicle that they hit had damage to the hood and front bumper.

Fire Occurrence

November 20, 1994- A fire occurred at the edge of the pond. Because it was extremely dark, there was no way to check the cause of the fire. People were just starting to come out of their dorms heading to the unistructure for dinner, but no one could give any information. There was no damage to the College or any property in the area.

Harassing Phone Calls

November 20, 1994- Certain students over the past four to five weeks have been receiving harassing phone calls in which the person calling always hangs up shortly after. Most of these phone calls occurred late at night. A booklet on harassing phone calls was given to the suspects. They were given an option of putting a phone tap on the line.

A Better Way to Solve Problems

To the Editor:

Last week's Archway carried a letter of complaint concerning a faculty member. The letter raised two issues that I believe are of particular importance. First, excellent teaching is our top priority at Bryant and anything that suggests that a faculty member is not performing at his or her best gets our immediate attention.

I was also concerned, however, about the way the complaint was presented. We have a well publicized procedure for identifying and resolving complaints. As a first step, the student should talk to the faculty member. If the student finds this awkward, he or she can go directly to the second step which is to talk with the Department Chair. The Chair really needs to know about these complaints as it is the Chair who is usually in the best position to find a solution. If, after talking to the Chair, the student still believes the problem is unresolved, he or she should bring the matter to Roger Anderson, Dean of Academic Programs. It is the very rare instance where the complaint is not resolved earlier in the process. I may intervene as a final step.

Although this sequence is more time consuming than a letter to the newspaper, it does provide a fairer and ultimately more effective way to resolve problems.

I don't fault the writer for complaining. It is very important that students let us know when there is a problem in the academic program. But we do ask that you start with the faculty member or Department Chair. In the long run, this will enable us to do a better job of addressing your concerns and giving you what you come to Bryant for - a solid education delivered through effective teaching.

Together As One

To the Bryant Community:

Is it that time of year already? The Eighteenth Annual Festival of Lights, entitled Together As One, will be held on Wednesday, December 7, 1994 at 8:30 p.m.

Our holiday celebration will commence with the Annual Holiday Dinner where members of the faculty will serve dinner in Salmanson Dining Hall. The ceremony will begin in the Rotunda with a greeting from President Trueheart and the campus chaplains will lead the community in readings and prayers following the greeting.

The entertainment portion of the evening will be provided by Dave Binder, who will play selected Christmas carols. After the program in the Rotunda, there will be a processional from the Unistructure to the patio outside the Bryant Center. Once everyone has convened on the patio, President and Mrs. William Trueheart will light the tree. A reception in the Bryant Center will follow the traditional lighting of the Christmas tree. Hot chocolate, hot apple cider, and holiday cookies will be served. Our very own Bryant Singers will perform.

On behalf of the Student Alumni Association and the Office of Student Activities, I would like to invite all of you to come and enjoy this spectacular evening which we have planned. You won't want to miss it!

Speak Out

To Fellow Students:

During the semester there have been many discontented students for several various reasons. There have been many articles in The Archway citing some students' unrest. The Student Senate recognized many of these concerns and has addressed many of them. However we realize that there are still several unanswered questions that students may have. To accommodate for this and for the questions that we can not answer, we will be sponsoring SPEAK OUT.

This will be an open forum for students to bring concerns, ask administrators questions and get answers. In attendance will be President William Trueheart; Joe Meichelbeck, Vice President for Business Affairs; Mike Patterson, Vice President of Academic Affairs; FJ Talley, Vice President of Student Life; Jim Dorian, Director of Financial Aid; George Coronado, Chief of Public Safety; and many others. This will be held on Tuesday, December 6 at 4:00 in the Rotunda. All are welcome and encouraged to attend. Bring questions or just listen. If you have any questions about the event please call Rob Fontanella at 232-6043. Hope to see you there.

Rob Fontanella
Student Senate President

They're Still Out There

To the Editor:

Lately many students have been voicing their negative opinions of the school. I would just like to point out two people who have been making my Bryant experience an enjoyable one.

The first person I would like to acknowledge is Mr. Robert Coker. Mr. Coker is the present men's and women's tennis coach and a former science teacher at Bryant. As a coach, Mr. Coker is consistently organized, helpful, supportive, and devoted. He has always found time to quickly string a racquet or listen to a problem. As a teacher, Mr. Coker was just as devoted and knowledgeable. Unfortunately, due to "re-engineering," Mr. Coker was rudely and abruptly terminated from the science department. This type of treatment was definitely not appropriate for such a kind man. I suppose that the school may have gained accreditation, but it lost a devoted faculty member in Mr. Coker. I somehow feel a little short-changed.

The second person I would like to acknowledge is Mrs. Virginia Bowry, Assistant to the Public Safety Director. In working with Ginny for two years, I have found her to be one of the most caring and devoted people I have ever met. She always finds time to help anyone who needs it and sometimes doesn't receive the credit she deserves. People may come into her office yelling and screaming, but she is always kind and courteous. Many times Ginny, herself, has even offered to help pay for IDs for students whose wallets have been stolen. Above all, Ginny does everything with a smile and that is what makes the difference. I hope that everyone else at this school is as fortunate as I am to have been acquainted with such great people as Mr. Coker and Mrs. Bowry. These are the type of caring people Bryant needs more of.

We Still Recycle

To the Editor:

This letter is written in response to one that appeared in The Archway on November 18, 1994, indicating that Bryant College no longer recycles.

Bryant remains committed to an aggressive recycling program. Summary reports of the last two years testify to the effectiveness of our collection program.

O.S.C.A.R Tonnage Reports

	1993	1994
Office Paper	53.58	45.58
Cardboard	66.89	64.85
Aluminum	17.5	18.0
Newspaper	1.64	1.4
Glass	35.55	51.85

From September 8, 1994, through October 26, 1994, we have recycled 7.75 tons of glass/aluminum and 17.01 tons of cardboard and office paper.

We intend to continue recycling for the foreseeable future, subject to sensible modifications. For instance, this year, BFI, our trash hauler, suggested that the amount of newsprint we were accumulating was insufficient to make continued collections advisable. Consequently, we began to mix newsprint (only) with the disposables. However, we understand and support those who want newspapers included in the recycling program. BFI has agreed to provide special containers which will be located outside the rear of the Bryant Center near the loading dock and near the Townhouse dumpster for the collection of newspaper.

At this time I would like to thank the Bryant Community for its effort in making the recycling program a success.

Volleyball Team Thanks Fans

To the Bryant Community,

We would like to thank all of the fans who took the time out to come to New Haven for the NCAA regional tournament to support us. It meant a lot to us. We would especially like to thank Mary Gates and Jen Oakes for the many phone calls they made in order to put our fan bus together.

Coni, we love you! And next year, we will hope to see our fans in California for the NCAA Division II Final Eight tournament.

Reality Check

It's funny how everyone says that people our age think they are "immortal." I guess they're absolutely right. How many of us truly contemplate death? Most of us cannot comprehend the notion of our own mortality. Still, occasionally we are forced to look it in the face, and try to understand.

When the AIDS quilt arrives, we will have a chance to do just that. As you gaze upon this cloth epitaph, notice the names and their ages. You will read the names of many people our age who have lost their lives to AIDS. Rest assured, they too believed in their own immortality. Sadly, this belief was proven wrong, and another young life was taken.

Last summer, I volunteered at Massachusetts General Hospital. In doing so, I came into close contact with people stricken by the AIDS virus. Some were still relatively healthy, but others were in the advanced stages of full-blown AIDS, and it is an awful thing to see.

It is easy to fall into the train of thought many people assume concerning victims of AIDS. Not everyone is able to be "uplifting" while they fight the disease. Not everyone experiences some sort of "re-focusing" of their lives when they are diagnosed. It is difficult to focus on your life when your body is shutting down. Finding the strength to fight the disease at all should be "uplifting" enough to all of us.

AIDS is ugly. After a while, there is no way to hide it. You lose a tremendous amount of weight, your hair falls out, and lesions spread all over your body. You cannot hold down anything you eat and you suffer severe fatigue. In short, your body becomes an emaciated shadow of its former self.

Hold on, that's only half the story. We still have to discuss the treatments. AIDS patients must take an unbelievable amount of prescription drugs, and go through treatments such as chemotherapy and countless infusions. While they are intended to help, most of these drugs and treatments make the patient feel even worse, and weaken them further.

Victims of AIDS are also forced to bear the knowledge that they are fighting a losing battle. They take all of these drugs to prolong their lives as much as possible, but at what cost? What is the quality of their lives on these drugs? They help to a point, but once you go beyond that point, how do the drugs help? AIDS patients are forced to decide how far they want to continue their treatments, and they know the dire consequences of stopping.

Once the point of no return has been passed, their remaining time may be likened to a candle. Slowly, the candle melts down to its base, until finally, quietly, it snuffs out. For a moment there is a wisp of smoke, and then nothing. Another life has been robbed. Somewhere, someone sobs as their loved one's flame is extinguished. The absence of their light will be a crushing burden for the victim's family.

AIDS is exploding among our age group. Statistically, people aged 16-25 are the fastest growing group being stricken with the virus. If you don't know someone who has it yet, give it time. You will. That is the thing about AIDS. It is everywhere. Not only did I see people our age in the hospital with AIDS, but I saw little children, and older people.

The children are the most heart-wrenching to understand because as you see them suffering and know their is very little relief you can offer them, you realize that they are the most innocent of victims. They didn't inject themselves with drugs, or have unprotected sex. In most cases, they were simply born to an infected mother who has since died, or they received it through tainted blood transfusions. Still, they are forced to suffer the consequences of the disease.

Nobody deserves AIDS. It is one of the slowest, most horrible ways to die. Regardless of whether the person received AIDS through a transfusion, unprotected sex, or drug use, they must live with a death sentence. There are no reprieves, not even for the three year old child sitting in the chair, holding her doll and awaiting treatment that will prove to be a painful exercise in futility.

As you look upon the quilt, try to understand what it really means. These are people who had vital lives, who loved and were loved by others. This is their testament. This is their contribution. This is their warning. By reading each name, you look that victim in the face, and understand that AIDS does not care if we are young and feel "immortal." Use a condom, and if you must take drugs, use a clean needle. Don't add your name to the quilt—it is already too large.

What Is INTRAX?

Michelle Mosely
Student Services Coordinator
INTRAX English Institute

Over the past years Bryant College has been looking for ways to increase its student diversity and international student population. This summer, International Training and Exchange (INTRAX) English Institute joined with Bryant College to prepare international students for admission to Bryant College as well as other universities and colleges across the United States. As an outside company working within the Bryant College campus, this joint venture has helped forge new links of international growth. INTRAX provides both academic and non-academic learning opportunities for its students.

What is INTRAX? International Training and Exchange Inc. is an international student program with many different aspects. The average program lasts from four to eight weeks, with the opportunity to continue as needed. Upon completion, students may return to their home country having been exposed to the American culture and way of life, or may begin or continue study at a U.S. college or university.

INTRAX has many different types of programs for its students - everything from living with a host family for a short time during the summer, attending a private high school for a year, introducing international sport teams to comparable US teams, summer language camps for younger students, one on one English programs, hospitality management programs, GRE, GMAT and TOEFL preparation courses, to providing English as a Second Language (ESL) courses to university students and business people (just to name a few!).

What is INTRAX doing on the Bryant College Campus? INTRAX, in cooperation with Bryant College, is working to provide ESL to students and business persons from all over the world. The courses range from four to eight weeks or longer depending upon the student's needs. Each student receives instruction from teachers with master's degrees in Teaching English as a Second Language.

Introducing international students to the Bryant campus will help to increase the cultural diversity and international population on campus. Many of the students who participate in the program will go on to become full time Bryant College students.

Who are INTRAX students? INTRAX students come from all over the world, even the United States. The majority of the students enrolled are university age students who would like to attend an American university, but do not yet have the English skills necessary for success. INTRAX helps prepare these students not only linguistically but also culturally for what they may encounter should they choose to study here. INTRAX also works with international business executives, high school age students and even English teachers from other countries.

As students at Bryant College, they are afforded the same rights and privileges as all Bryant College students. They may participate in clubs, activities or use any of the college facilities. They receive Bryant College ID cards and are considered special Bryant students.

Where do INTRAX students live? The majority of the INTRAX students live on campus in Residence Hall 7, above the classrooms and offices of the INTRAX English Institute. Some students may opt to live off campus, but most choose to live on campus because of the many activities and quality of the campus environment. Living on campus helps to introduce the students to the American college lifestyle.

What do INTRAX students do? INTRAX students are enrolled in a full time intensive English as a Second Language course. They have class from 9:00 in the morning until 3:00 in the afternoon, with a one hour lunch break at noon. When they are not in class you will see them participating in Bryant student activities, such as the Karate Club, attending sports events or catching the Sunday movie on campus. A variety of co-curricular activities are also planned specifically for them, such as day trips to Boston or Newport to enhance their experience while visiting the United States.

How does this affect me? Making a friend from another country can have surprising results. You may hear different viewpoints that you had never before considered. You may learn about philosophy or religion in an interesting and pertinent manner. When you go out into the global workforce you can carry these experiences with you. They are like the toy in the bottom of the cereal box—small prizes that can make the difference.

Christmas Joy: An Infant's Gift

Thanksgiving Day is over! We've eaten our fill of turkey, watched a score of football games, and had enough pumpkin pie to last us until next November. Now that we're back from holiday break, we find ourselves in the final stretch, the end of the semester. We all know what that means: study, stress, term papers, black coffee in copious doses, final exams, and possibly a few sleepless nights to boot, the proverbial all-nighter.

And then it's home for the holidays. There we are, fighting our way to the check-out counter with treasures in hand, in mortal combat with our shopping colleagues. In the midst of all this craziness, how easily we could overlook the central reason of it all - God's limitless love for us made present in the tiny and helpless Child of Bethlehem. Such a helpless Child, born into poverty, in a cold and dark stable one winter night so many years ago! Yet, it is this Child who brings us a joy without limit, a hope that conquers all fear, and a wisdom that flows from knowing God.

Christmas is a time to celebrate God's care for us all, the birth of our redemption, the dawn of a new age. With hearts filled with joy, we sing God's praise, light trees, hang wreaths, offer gifts, send cards, and worship at the manger. Christmas is the Lord's testimony of love, enfolded in the life of a Child. It is an Infant's gift. Receive it with a spirit of gratitude, for such a gift is without condition - it is for you, it is meant for us all.

May this Christmas Season be filled with the warmth of the Christ Child and the New Year be a time of peace and love. A very Merry Christmas and a Blessed New Year to you and your loved ones.

Country Background Information

Conducting business abroad begins with the development of a country background report to determine the cultural, political, and economic forces which may influence a venture. The following print/electronic sources provide information for analyzing the business potential in a particular country or countries.

Investing, Licensing and Trading Conditions Abroad

This 5-volume loose-leaf service produced by the Economist Intelligence Unit provides information to facilitate business transactions across national boundaries. Volumes are organized by continent and then alphabetically by country. Information within each report is written within the following standardized outline:

The Operating Environment, Corporate Taxes, Organizing an Investment, Personal Taxes, Incentives, Capital Sources, Licensing, Human Resources, Competition & Public Policies, Foreign Trade, Exchanging & Remitting Funds

Europa World Yearbook (REF JN1.E85) Annual.

Contains descriptions of prominent international organizations as well as detailed information on the political, economic and commercial climates in various countries of the world. Organizational coverage includes specialized agencies of the United Nations, the European Union, the International Chamber of Commerce, and the World Federation of Trade Unions. The country overviews provide an introductory sur-

An invaluable source of current information on 100 countries. Each report is updated twice over the course of the year and includes the following categories of information: demographics, local customs, public holidays, geography and climate, international affiliations, power structure, politics, banking and finance, companies and stock exchange, industry, energy, raw materials, agriculture, transport, communications and the media, armed forces, social security and welfare, and useful business addresses. The LEXIS segment searching feature allows researchers to create their own standardized reports.

These include, among others, The American Association of Exporters and Importers, The American Society of International Executives, The International Trade Council, The National Foreign Trade Council, and The United States Council for International Business. The best source for current and historical data on domestic and international finance. Beta Gamma Sigma Coming to Bryant

Accounting Department

Having recently achieved accreditation by the American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB), a significant benefit that accrues to Bryant students is the College's ability to charter a chapter of Beta Gamma Sigma, the most prestigious national honor society in business. For those not familiar with this honor society, membership in Beta Gamma Sigma is the highest national scholastic honor that a student in a school of business can achieve.

The honor is comparable to the Phi Beta Kappa recognition afforded to students in the arts and sciences. On the Bryant campus there are presently 23 faculty and academic administrators who are members of Beta Gamma Sigma.

Since September there has been an on-going effort to establish a chapter of Beta Gamma Sigma on the Bryant campus. One reason is to afford to deserving students the prestige that membership in such an honor society conveys to the business and academic community.

A second and equally important reason for establishing a chapter on campus is because Delta Mu Delta cannot (according to its own by-laws) continue to exist once AACSB accreditation is achieved.

Therefore, for all practical purposes, the Delta Mu Delta honor society no longer exists at Bryant. For those students who have already been inducted into Delta Mu Delta, there is no effect upon your membership. In fact, your membership in Delta Mu Delta does not preclude an invitation for induction into Beta Gamma Sigma should you also satisfy its more stringent academic qualifications.

In brief, lifetime membership into Beta Gamma Sigma is available (with additional criteria for part-time and transfer students) to students who are enrolled in the Bachelor of Science in Business Administration degree program, who have earned a cumulative GPA of 3.5 or above in at least 75 semester hours of work and who rank in the upper 7% (for Juniors) or the upper 10% (for Seniors).

Lifetime Membership is also available for Masters degree students (who are not yet members) in the year of expected graduation who have earned a cumulative GPA of 3.75 or above and who rank in the upper 20% of Masters degree graduates.

In late January, a listing of all eligible students to be invited into membership will be posted (1) in the glass display area located outside of the Undergraduate Programs office, (2) outside of the Graduate School/Academic Deans' office area, and (3) on the wall next to Jan Smith's faculty office (see below). Invitations to membership and remaining pertinent information as to fees, induction date, etc. will be sent to eligible students shortly thereafter.

Additional information can be obtained from Dr. Jan Smith (Faculty Suite B, Office 331) who is the faculty representative overseeing the setup and installation of the Bryant College chapter of Beta Gamma Sigma.

How old is the universe?

Dr. DNA asks "why don't more Bryant students submit questions to the Enigma column when they know there's a good chance to win $25?" No one on the Science faculty is smart enough to solve that enigma.

used the Hubble orbiting telescope to calculate the universe's dimensions and rate of expansion with unprecedented accuracy, have changed the estimate to between 8 and 12 billion years.

Is the Big Bang theory due for a revision in light of these new findings? Is the method of determining the age of stars somehow flawed? Are the 22 astronomers simply wrong? (ed. note...good science always uncovers more questions than it answers).

In the Middle Ages, Archbishop Ussher consulted his Bible and pronounced to the world that Earth was created at 9:35 a.m., 4004 BC. Since then, the estimates have come to be based on experimental evidence, but is our answer any better than Ussher's?

Ah! but this is indeed the beauty and fascination of science! New experiments, new theories, new controversies - this is how science learns about Earth and her environs. The views held today may be supplanted tomorrow or may survive the test of time and future experimentation, eventually being promoted to "truth."

Since the time of Galileo, Science works by supplanting old theories with new theories that are based on the older data but also consistent with new experimental findings. Estimates concerning the age of the universe have grown older as scientists have developed the ability to observe stars further and further away. The further away a star is, the longer it takes the photons of light to reach Earth and therefore the older the universe must be. Until a few months ago, the accepted age of the universe was around 15 billion years.

Science proceeds today under the same rules, so it is not surprising that an international team of 22 astronomers, who have recently

Thoughts and Reflections

by J. Whitney Madson

I hope everyone had a nice Thanksgiving break. It's nice to get home and eat some of someone's cooking from home. It usually makes me feel really good to be home and eat some of my mom's home cooking. There's nothing like it in the world!

Most of us here at Bryant really have a lot to be thankful for. The fact that we are able to be in a college where food, shelter, and good friends fill our lives really proves how much we have. We need to at least think of the people that are less fortunate than us; they don't have all the things that we have. Just keep it in mind and be thankful to be in the situation that your in; It could always be worse!

This week has been designated National Aids Awareness Week. I am very thankful that we at Bryant have the education and prevention information that we have. All across the world, everyday more and more people are contracting the HIV virus. The United States is a first world nation and we have the money to invest in education. We can set-up education seminars, hand out condoms, pamphlets, oral barriers, etc. There are rules of safe sex that I think everyone should be taught at some point before the completion of adolescence, maybe earlier. Thorough education is the key to prevention and life! AIDS is so scary... when someone contracts the HIV virus and cultivates full blown AIDS (which is a decent percentage), they are going to die. It is very matter of fact, there are not really any two ways about it... yet.

Research is coming along quite well, even quickly. Millions are dying everyday because they can't afford the preventive education that our country helps provide. Never say never; soon we may just have a vaccination. Won't that be the day?! I have my own theories on the development of the virus, but that's another article....

Two sections of the AIDS quilt will be on campus the day this edition of the Archway is printed. I hope everyone at least looks at it and sees what it means to some people. These two sections are just a small part of a living memorial to the lives claimed by the virus.

I have heard some terribly horrific statistics about some second and third world countries. I heard, for example, that one third of the population of Africa is infected with HIV. Not all have full blown AIDS. Just think... please.

On a different note; my thoughts on the Wild Kingdom... you ain't seen nothin' yet. Just wait!

Now please, somebody send me a letter if this made you think a little more than you have before. My Box number is 2156; I'm waiting?!

The Archway

by Julia Arouchon

Congratulations to The Archway Gold team of David, Eric, Ian and Julia which made it to the finals in College Bowl.

We lost to the Blockheads, a tough and quick to the buzzer team. Good luck to them as they continue to compete at the University of Connecticut.

Christmas came early for us. This week we got our modem and a printer which can print an 11X17 page. No more cutting and pasting! Both of these new additions should make production run more smoothly and help us to get more information to our readers.

BACCHUS

by Yoke Chung and
Scott Lynch

Hello everyone! Hope you all had a good Thanksgiving break. I sure did because it was the first time since September that I finally got away from this place.

Anyway, at our last meeting we had an interesting ice breaker. If you want a peanut butter and jelly sandwich, don't have Nicole or Alissa make it.

For any members who want to attend the Regional Conference at Clark in February, please contact Sean or Chris.

Also, congratulations to those members who received Pats on the Back.

Well, that is it for now. We will be back next week with information from our November 29 meeting for those members who were not able to attend. See you then.

Beta Theta Pi

by David Tenofsky

Congratulations to our 12 new brothers Ragoo, Deacon, Cobb, Alff, Gunnar, Floyd, Oscar, Monte, Flip, Lark, Darwin, and Crane. Good job guys. Except for Initiation and the formal, you're almost done.

We are happy to say that the Putt-a-thon raised $400. Thank you to everyone who stopped to play.

This Week: The Beta Invitational Tournament has started; Monte still has some built up aggressions; Crane went crazy; the team of Hutch, Imus, and Rosko, beat a less talented team of Janna, Deb, and Jill by taking 1st, 2nd, and 3rd respectively; Dobber repulsed everyone; Burgis did it again; Floyd is nowhere to be found; everyone wants the babies to die; Munk's days are numbered; the pizza store idea was finally shot down; Splint got kidnapped; Imus has completely changed; Mack is case number 2; and we're all happy to be back.

Quote of the Week: "Everybody raise your drinks to Crane!"

Bowling Club

by Jon Hester

Well, we're back from St. Louis. It was an enjoyable trip as always. The team finished 7th, one step up from it's 8th place effort last year. Snakeman and Dave led the way as both made the All-Star Team. Congratulations, guys! The first poll of the season comes out in a few weeks, and the Bulldogs have a chance at being top ten. Without a doubt we will be ranked in the top 15.

Did we get a van yet? No, I guess we better call up Raymond again. Dave, did you win your race? I had you in the Super Trifecta. Beck enjoyed those chicken McNuggets. In its continuing pursuit to be perfect, the lowercase r shaped bed became a simple period shape. I find this to be a big improvement. Guys, the pool water is warmer than the hot tub.

One more question, why did we buy those Metro Link tickets? Our wait person of the week is Euclid. He won because of his name and the fact that he gave Dave a free meal. Besides, the only other place we ate was McDonald's and all you can eat Chinese. Eu wins by default. Everybody check Jughead and Revs for vampire marks on their neck. My statement of the week is "I'm still louder than Reyes!"

All right Bryant students, I know everyone wants to come and watch a team that may soon be ranked top ten in the nation. You get your one and only chance on Sunday. We'll be competing from 9 a.m. until about 3 p.m. Stop by and watch a couple of games. I'll even give you the directions. Take 295 south to 6 east. Off of 6 east take 10 south toward Cranston. Take the exit for Elmwood Avenue. Off the exit take a right. Go through one set of lights. Cranston Bowl is about 1/4 of a mile up on the left. We need all the fan support we can get so come on down. Thanks.

Bryant Karate

by Mark Towle

Pil Son! Welcome back to everyone. I hope everyone stuffed themselves with enough non ARA food to last them a while. A welcome to the new white belt class. Way to go!

You will soon learn that Bryant Karate white belts take a licking but keep on kicking. A congratulation is in order for Mr. Stupidfoot Bilotti. Stup had his boxing debut two Thursdays ago at Barwinkles.

On a more serious note Chris is going for his Black Belt on December 8. He is ready but please give him all the support you can. This is a highly coveted rank and requires a lot of hard work both mentally and physically.

Bryant Karate is holding a fund raiser on December 7. We will be holding a 50/50 raffle. We will be looking for club volunteers to man the table in the Bryant Center from at least 12 p.m. to 2 p.m.

Well, Manson has been up to his old tricks again, but this time he is doing these tricks in his native state of Maine. Manson will not be taking his finals with everyone else this semester since he will be in Maine District Court appealing his charges. His charges include indecent exposure in a public place and public intoxication. Good luck Manson! To find out about any possible social gatherings show up to class or talk to Lynn she always knows what is going on especially on the weekends. Well until then, BKKA!

Commuter Connection

by Brendon A. Boragine

Hey Commuters! First off I'd like to apologize about the length of time between articles. I'd also like to thank all of you who came to our last general meeting. We hope to have another meeting in about a week or so, so keep an eye out for signs.

We are also currently working on the parking situation and on clarifying the entrance and guest policy for commuters.

The Informants should hopefully be available soon in the Commuter Office, third floor Bryant Center. As always, the key is available at the info desk, so feel free to stop by anytime.

Any questions, comments or complaints on Commuter matters, call us at x6176.

by Frank L. Milazzo

Just coming back from break leads me to ask myself one question; "How long to winter recess?" Anyway, on to more important things.

Congratulations to our five new brothers; Pistol, Wedge, Hollywood, Siskel, and Hanz (F.U.D.), as well as every else that is now part of the Greek community. Hey J.D., there's always Iota. By the way, now that you are free on Sundays maybe you can start work on the next set of projects. Alumni weekend came and went with a good turnout. The basketball game went well with Walker getting M.V.P. for pulling a "Lefty" and hitting those shots. Good job to Hoyt too who actually stood up the whole game. Congratulations also to the new E-Board; Duke, F-Sharp, Wedge, Smokin', Siskel, and Baloo. Magoo is gone but not forgotten. He'll be there if anyone shouldn't make grades.

All the brothers are looking forward to the formal this weekend. F-Sharp and Baloo are looking for an improvement on the last one and Paco is looking for free furniture to Hello everyone. Welcome back from another glorious Thanksgiving Break where Aunt Bessie squeezes your cheeks and tells you how big you are. The sisters were excited to return as we now have five new sisters to play with! Congrats Bazil, Meridian, Caruso, Jaycee and Wesli. And a big cheer goes out to the other new brothers and sisters on campus who missed cut-off for the last edition.

We had a visit from some alumni the other weekend. We would like to thank Fendi, Vidal, Esprit, Spectra, and Remi for joining in on the festivities. But other than that, not too much excitement in the world of Dee Zee these last few weeks. Once again, Jetson left us for the sandy beaches of Florida. We missed her, but she brought no gifts for us. On a trip to a land foreign to her, Violet was disappointed when she did not spot the Statue of Liberty on her first visit to Long Island. Which, for those of you who didn't know, is a long island. Don't worry, Savannah's family understands that you're from the "other" coast.

Excuse me, I've just had a brain-storm. Tango celebrated a monumental occasion on Nov. 10. I managed to edit that out of my brain. Happy 21st tango->sorry it's late. So as not to anger Harley who's big day fell on Nov. 29...Happy 19th Harley.

Hi everyone! We hope everyone had a great Thanksgiving, but it now it's back to the books.

Thanks to everyone who braved the rain to come to our Comfort Night on Monday, November 21. Everyone had a good time.

Since our guest speaker cancelled for our last meeting, he will be speaking tonight in Pappito at 5:45 p.m. Pizza and refreshments will be served.

If anyone has any suggestions for next semester, please send a note to Box 5 or call Jen at x8159.

Phi Kappa Sigma

by Marcos P. Planell

I hope everyone had a good Thanksgiving break. We would like to thank all of the people who signed away a meal or donated money to our Macauley House fund raiser. Overall, we accomplished our goal of raising money and awareness for the homeless. Culver and Jeremy decided they would roll the dice and try to ask sororities for donations. I think they made out alright.

Everyone had a good time at Wednesday night's brothers meeting. Axl wished he hadn't had such a long lunch break before it. He just couldn't get over the fact that Bliss was his little brother either. Madson wants everyone to know that Alex gained about one half of a pound over break. We were all thrilled Jay. Madson saw Natural Born Killers over break again, let the campus beware, we know we are. Nobody in the fraternity can now say that Dan and Dave do not have the Christmas spirit. (This does not include the spirit of giving however). Until next week, Whatever!

Phi Kappa Tau

We're back. It was a long week off, and it was definitely well deserved. I hope everyone had a good Thanksgiving. Happy Hanukah.

This past week had its ups and downs. Streci, learn to drive, please. When you go out with Bellevie you better be ready. Justin, we should hitchhike more often. Matt, when is the bread going to be ready?

Congratulations to our 9 new brothers: Eric, Steve, Mike, Kieth, Darren, Dave, Sean, Jamie, and Matt. Congratulations also goes out to every Greek organization that is finished pledging. You'll have a lot of fun.

In KT-LZ sports, we had no games, but our hockey team went home and got in shape for this, our championship, season.

I'd like to start out by saying congratulations to our 12 awesome new sisters. You guys are definitely the best! Also, congrats to all the other new Sisters and brothers, especially Jamie, Dave, and pledge brothers of Phi Kappa Tau! "Hey Targett and Wallace - we may have topped your potatoes!" "Jamie and Dave, may the force be with you this Sunday!"

The Sisters that came home early said that they had a great time on Saturday! Thanks for cleaning our tub before we got home. Sunday night we got together with Phi Tau and had a good time. "Speed" is a well recommended movie if you haven't seen it yet. "Hey, Jamie, you dirty rat!" Two days until our annual Christmas gathering which promises to be a good time! Maybe a certain group of individuals should cancel theirs and give us half the money for ours! Just kidding!

The countdown does begin Linda, but I will not face the reality that you and Dex are leaving us! I hate to get mushy, but it's not fair that we're losing 2 "cool kids" before their time! You guys should be with us, but we understand your reasoning. We love you guys!

Okay, on a lighter note, anyone needing to take study breaks in the next 3 weeks, come to J7 where you can always find someone willing to take a break! Good luck on your upcoming finals! Also, Kristen thank God you're done! Quote of the Week: "Hey, where's Ruth?" Till next week: Peace and love.

Hey everyone, welcome back. First off, we must mention our outstanding football championship season. We beat the Pigs in a hard fought game for the title. Kells "Is he man or is he machine?" put on his usual bruising show while Pyle kept everyone pumped - "All Day!" It was an awesome season, ending as champions.

Congratulations to our new brothers- Bill, Mike, Jeff, Happy, Dave, Alex, and Wheelz. Great job guys - hope the pond was refreshing. We would also like to thank the new TriSig and DZ sisters as well as all the other new Greeks.

A happy 19th goes to wiggle, too bad we didn't have enough guys around to try to pick him up or roll him into the pond. Thanks goes to our Phi Sig partners. We were lucky enough to witness the first ever shut-out. On Monday, the girls tried again, but the outcome wasn't much better. At least they hit one, though.

Well that's all for now. Hope everyone enjoyed their Turkey Day. Winter break isn't too far away. But for now, weasel and portar have to go finish our study break. Have a good one.

a 1989 film starring Matt Dillon

To close out this semester's series, we bring to you a much-acclaimed movie directed by a graduate of the Rhode Island School of Design, Gus Van Sant, Jr. (The same director two years later filmed My Own Private Idaho, with Keanu Reeves and the late River Phoenix.) Matt Dillon gives a terrific performance in a story based on the real-life exploits of a drug-addicted criminal, and Kelly Lynch is also excellent as his girlfriend. Their characters and two pals rob drugstores—and a hospital—to support their habits. The film follows their whacked-out misadventures without moralizing, although no one viewing this story will want to emulate them. Noted author (and addict) William S. Burroughs makes an appearance, too. Join us to see and talk about a fine example of youthful American movie-making.

Last season was a great year for the men's basketball team. In the final game of the regular season, an exciting run was capped off when Jerome Grier nailed a three pointer from deep in the corner to defeat conference leader AIC in an exciting overtime game.

The magic then continued into the NE-10 Tournament, and they fell one point shy of winning the whole tournament and going on to the Big Dance.

Sounds like a great year, doesn't it? Then when you consider, the only players we lost were David Burrows and Colin Lawson, it would lead you to believe conference rivals would be heading into the season a bit concerned about Bryant.

Granted, Lawson and Burrows were a major part of the team. Lawson was a true leader and a good ball handler. He took control of the offense when needed.

Burrows, on the other hand, was the team's top scorer, and all-around best player. These men are hard to replace, but losing them was not the end of the world. We still have four starters returning to this year's squad.

How does the rest of the conference feel about this? Frankly, not much. In the pre-season coaches poll, Bryant was picked to finish seventh.

The NE-10 has got to be the only conference where this can happen. A team who was on the brink of success is not expected to play a major role in the conference this year. The Bulldogs have a great team this year, and will be contenders once we head into March.

Herm and Rome are a solid back court and will lead the team in the right direction. Combined with a front court of Mulherin, Berntsen, and O'Brien, the Bulldogs will surprise you if you think they will just lay down and die.

Coming off the bench, we also have some great players who are out to prove last season was no fluke. Watson, Collins, Hobson, and Mulherin are all ready to take their level of play up to the next level of play - the NCAA Tournament.

This team not only has the heart and desire to win, they also have the talent.

Maybe the other teams in the conference feel, without Burrows, Bryant basketball is dead. But nothing can be further from the truth.

Burrows is still part of the team. He is always there to support the team. I am sure he would agree we have a competent core returning.

These players have nothing to lose, and everything to gain. There is never any pressure on the underdog, and obviously Bryant is the underdog according to the other teams in the conference.

However, when March comes and the NE-10 is heading into their post-season tournament, don't be surprised if they are actually coming down to Smithfield to play.

Bottom line, Bryant has a strong squad and will be contenders once again. The Bulldogs are a team to be dealt with, and can not be overlooked.

Volleyball Ends Sweet Season

The volleyball team traveled to West Haven, Connecticut to compete in the NCAA Post-Season Tournament, and ended their season in the regional finals.

In the finals, #20 New Haven (UNH) proved to be too strong for the Bulldogs and won easily 15-2, 15-0, 15-2.

Prior to the UNH match, Bryant played conference rival Springfield in a grueling five game match. Springfield had defeated the Bulldogs in the previous three meetings, including in the NE-10 finals. This made the match even more exciting. Bryant wanted to prove they could, not only compete with them, but beat them as well. The Bulldogs rose to the occasion, and defeated them.

"We were mentally unable to beat Springfield, but we proved that we could win," Olga Perez-Bonnely said.

In game one, Bryant came out of the gates slow, and were defeated 15-8.

However, once the fan bus arrived, the Bulldogs regrouped and grabbed an early lead in game two. Seniors Maria Bras and Kim Potrzebowski stepped up their play to lead the team to a 15-10 victory.

The next game of the match was the same. Bryant was able to grab an early lead and hold on. Middle blockers Alicia Kadlick and Keisha Gaillard came through big for the Bulldogs, by stopping Springfield's top hitter Kerri Camuso. Camuso, who was the top hitter in the NE-10, had difficulty getting over their blocks, and when she did, there was someone there to dig the ball.

Bryant was able to feed off the inspired play and won the game 15-12. The Bulldogs looked to be in control of their own destiny and were ready for the upset.

However, with their backs against the wall, Springfield bounced back and won the game 15-12.

This set up a do or die situation for both teams, a win and you would advance. A loss, and the season was over.

To complicate things further, game five used rally scoring, every mistake was a point for the other team.

Springfield used the momentum from game four, and jumped out to an early 4-0 lead.

Bulldogs hitters, Meribah Dean and Maria Bras then came to the rescue and rallied Bryant to an eventual 8-6 lead. From this point, the Bulldogs never looked back and won the game, and the match, 15-12.

"We all worked our hardest during the last week of the season,"

Perez-Bonnely said. "We peaked at the right time, and came together as a team."

With the win Bryant not only advanced to the regional finals, but they had defeated every team in the NE-10 at least once. They finished their season with a sweet 16 birth, and posted an overall record of 31-12.

The Bulldogs continued to make headlines earlier this week, when Bras and Dean were both selected AVCA All-Region Team. A selection to this team moves them one step closer to the All-America, which will be announced later this month.

The team will only be losing two players to graduation this May, Bras and Potrzebowski, however both players had major roles for the Bulldogs.

"It hurts, a lot [losing Maria and Kim] because they were a big part of the team," Perez-Bonnely added. "We will all miss them."

Men's Basketball Split First Two

Angelo L. Corradino
Archway Sports Writer

The men's basketball team split their first two games of the season, losing to UMass Lowell 84-70 on Sunday, after defeating Keene State 80-69 before the break.

In the Lowell game, Bryant starting off strong and grabbed an early first half lead when Kevin O'Brien nailed an eight foot jumper. Bryant continued to control play, and lead by as much as 18.

Lowell then rallied at the end of the half to cut Bryant's lead to 10, 42-32. This continued into the second half, and Lowell grabbed their first lead of the game, since 2-0 in the first half, when Mark Davis hit a layup.

The Bulldogs were able to go ahead once again, but it was only for a short time. In the end, Lowell proved to be too strong for the Bulldogs.

Jeichael Henderson lead the way for the River Hawks with 30 points, 11 rebounds, and was 12 for 12 from the field. Jim Borodawaka added 12 points, and Spencer Staggs and Zack Zegarowski each add 11.

For the Bulldogs, Noel Watson was the leading scorer with 19, including four three-pointers. He was followed by Herman Thomas with 12.

In the home opener, Bryant came out of the gates slow, and it looked as if Keene State was going to be able to stay with them. However, Bryant then regrouped and grabbed a 43-35 lead going into the locker room.

In the second half, Bryant continued to roll, and was able to hold off a late rally by Keene by nailing a few key three-pointers.

Despite having four fouls, Kevin O'Brien lead all scorers with 22 points, including going five for eight from downtown. He was followed by Jerome Grier, who was also five for eight from the three-point stripe, and had 20 points. Watson added 13 points, and Thomas had 12.

The Bulldog offense is lead by Watson who is averaging 16 ppg, O'Brien with 15.5 ppg, Jerome Grier with 14 ppg, and Thomas has 12 ppg.

On the defensive end, Marc Mulherin and Chris Berntsen average 3.5 boards a game, and Steve Wiacek and Grier grab 3 a game.

The next game for the Bulldogs is tonight when they travel to Manchester to take on New Hampshire College. They will then return home to face Saint Anselm at 1:30 p.m. on Saturday, and hit the road once again to play Saint Michael's on Wednesday.

The women's basketball team is off to a strong start as they have defeated all three teams they faced so far.

On Tuesday, conference rival Saint Anselm was in town setting the stage for an exciting game. In the beginning, the teams battled back and fourth, the lead changed hand eight times in the first 5:00.

Late in the half, Saint Anselm scored eight unanswered points for a 38-30 lead. The run was snapped when Beth Connealy hit an 18 foot jumper, which sent Bryant on a run of their own. Bryant would regain the lead, once again, when Liz Davies tipped a lay-up in as the buzzer sounded. Bryant was ahead 42-40.

In the second half, Saint Anselm lead most of the way, but the Bulldogs were not about to give up. Bryant grabbed their first lead of the half when Liz Davies hit a lay in with 6:30 remaining in the game. The Bulldogs never relinquished the lead, and came away with a victory 82-77.

The leading scorer in the game was Liz Davies with 25 points and 14 rebounds, but she did have some help. Katie Haik came through big for the Bulldogs, with a career high 23 points, including three from beyond the three-point stripe. She also grabbed eight rebounds, and was key down the stretch. Connealy had 17 points and eight assists.

Prior to the Saint Anselm game, Bryant played #20 UMass Lowell, and came away with a impressive victory.

Bryant jumped out to an early lead, and kept it for most of the half. At one point, they lead by as many as eight. Liz Davies had 19 of her game high 29 points in the first half alone. Lowell's first lead of the game, came with just 2:18 left in the half, when Laurie Mann nailed a three for the 37-36 lead. At the half, Lowell lead 40-36.

The River Hawks continued to roll in the second half, and lead by as many as seven. Bryant then began to chip away at the lead, and regained the lead with 10:38 left, when Rebecca Hardt had a put back.

The Bulldogs then went on a 13-6 run to grab a 69-59 lead, Bryant never looked back from this point, and won the game 79-64. During the game, Davies achieved another milestone when she scored here 1,000 point. She only needed 26 point to eclipse the mark, and hit a lay in with 6:08 remaining. The game was stopped, and Davies was awarded with the game ball. Currently, Davies has 1,028 points for her career.

In addition to Davies 29 points, Connealy had 23 and Heather Lopes had 12. Lopes also had seven assists, and Connealy had eight rebounds.

Bryant opened the season at home when former Rhode Island star, Michele Merten and Babson came into town. However Merten's home coming was spoiled when the Bulldogs came away with a 91-48 win. Bryant opened the scoring right off the opening tip, and never looked back, at one point, they lead by 25. At the half, Bryant was up 42-19.

In the second half, Bryant continued to widen the gap, and in the end came away with the victory.

The Bulldogs were lead by Steph Meyer who was the top scorer in the game with 27, with three three-pointers. Lopes added 21 points of her own, and freshman Hardt started her career off on the right foot with 12 points.

The next game is tonight, when New Hampshire College comes into town, tip-off is 7:30. They will then be home once again on Sunday for a game against Keene State at 2:00. Their final game of the semester will be at Saint Michael's on Wednesday.
