

Peace Is At Hand

GIF-SUR-YVETTE, FRANCE: White House adviser Henry Kissinger (left) and Hanoi's top negotiator Le Duc Tho arrive at villa January 10, and have smiles for the press for the first time since resuming their secret talks January 8. They met for four hours to discuss terms which led up to the Vietnam cease fire accord, which will be signed tomorrow in Paris.

Vice-President Hagan Injured in Car Accident

Doctor Joseph Hagan Vice President of Public Affairs for Bryant College suffered serious lacerations to the knee and lower facial area around the jaw. It was originally thought that the jaw was broken and that plastic surgery might be needed. A student, Kelly Fradet of Dormitory 4 was also involved in the accident. He was a passenger in Mr. Hagan's car. It was expected that Mr. Hagan might be removed from Intensive Care by Thursday afternoon or evening.

The accident took place around 12:20 Thursday morning. Taking the form of a head-on collision on Douglas Pike in Smithfield. Mr. and Mrs. John A. Verone of 11 Central Avenue, North Providence, passengers in the other car were treated and released from Rogers Williams Hospital. Smithfield rescue workers aided by State police worked for twenty minutes extricating two people from the damage vehicles.

Mr. Hagan was charged with travelling left of center which is a motor vehicle violation. Mr. Hagan was driving northbound on Route 7 and Mr. Verone was driving southbound on Route 7. The accident was handled by Trooper Lemoi of the Lincoln Barracks of Rhode Island State Police. There was an estimated $3700 damage to both cars. Mr. Hagan was driving a Toyota, and Mr. Verone was driving an Audi Sedan.

Everything points to Saturday.

The day the fighting stops in Vietnam and the task for peace begins.

Until the cease-fire is ordered at 7 p.m. EST, the shooting and the killing will apparently continue full speed.

The fighting in South Vietnam is heavy today, with 112 Communist attacks reported in the last 24 hours. Communist mortars hit a South Vietnamese base only 25 miles from Saigon killing two persons, and Communist shore batteries hit a U.S. guided missile frigate off the northern South Vietnamese coast. The Navy said there were no casualties and no major damage. Four South Vietnamese rangers were killed by a land mine 300 miles north of Saigon.

The toll of American dead also went up today, and now stands at 45,937 killed in the 12-year Vietnam venture. The death count was raised by four when U.S. officials re-classified the airmen aboard a plane downed in Laos last week from Missing in Action to dead.

U.S. military officials in Saigon say American soldiers and airmen will continue regular missions until the hour of the cease-fire. And South Vietnamese military leaders warned their forces that intelligence points to a Communist effort to win as much territory as possible before the guns are stilled.

However, after the cease-fire begins, both South Vietnamese and American officials in Vietnam are ready to shift gears swiftly from the military to the political.

Bryant Physician Seriously Injured in New York City

by R.S. Woolf

On December 28, 1972, Dr. Raul Nodarse, Bryant College physician and general practitioner was seriously injured when he was struck by three cars of a New York Subway train. A fast-thinking city transit patrolman was credited with administering first aid which enabled the doctor to be brought to the hospital alive. Dr. Nodarse was treated at Bellevue Hospital.

Doctors at the hospital said that Patrolman Salvatore DiFredi leaped to the tracks and immediately applied tourniquets just above the ankles, as both of the doctor's feet were severed. Bystanders aided the patrolman by throwing him their belts which served as tourniquets.

The accident occurred at the height of the rush hour by an Independent line express train at the 23rd Street Station in Manhattan.

The motorman saw Dr. Nodarse on the tracks and attempted to brake. Despite his efforts, three of the ten-car string struck the doctor.

Transit police stated that there were no witnesses to tell how the doctor got on the express tracks. Police were unable to question Dr. Nodarse, as he was in a state of shock. A spokesman for the transit police speculated that Dr. Nodarse reached the express tracks after slipping onto the local tracks in an effort to avoid a local train.

In addition to his private practice and his services at Bryant, Dr. Nodarse is also on the staffs of the Providence Lying-In, St. Joseph's, Roger Williams, Our Lady of Fatima, and Fogarty Memorial Hospitals. He has also been a member of the House of Delegates of the Rhode Island Medical Society.

Letter of Disposed Chief Discloses Investigation

In separate letters sent to the trustees and administrators of Bryant College, William C. Robbie who was ordered suspended for a two day period, has charged that he has become a "scapegoat or whipping boy" for the "instigators" of an investigation asked for by the trustee's executive council into incidents involving Dr. Harry Evarts, President of Bryant College.

The five-member executive council ordered the investigation last fall, calling for a firm from out-of-state to handle the matter. At this time, there are no reasons for the investigation, as college spokesmen are awaiting the outcome of Board of Trustees meeting to be held on January 31.

Dr. Joseph H. Hagan, Vice President for Public Affairs issued the following statement on behalf of the college:

In response to these questions, there is a variety of matters presently under consideration by the board of trustees which affect Bryant College. A special committee has studied these questions and will report to the full board on January 31. Hopefully, these matters will be resolved at that time."

Although no concrete explanations for Mr. Robbie's suspension are available, it is known that twenty out of twenty-two members of the Bryant College Student Patrol affixed their signatures to a petition recommending the removal of Mr. Robbie from his position as chief of security. In the letter addressed to Dr. Clarence H. Gifford, the members of the partol lodged grievances against Mr. Robbie: W. C. Robbie should be released from his employment as Chief of Security at Bryant College."

"We feel that his actions during his reign have proven him incapable and incompetent of any managerial position within the College realm, especially at the Security level."

In his letter to the Board Members and administrators, Mr. Robbie stipulated that he was "guaranteed" by two members of the board that "any alleged information rendered as it pertained to the president would not affect (Mr. Robbie's) status in any way, shape or manner." However, Mr. Robbie stated, "this is and/or has not been the case."

Civic Center Tickets On Sale Monday For $1.50

Special student tickets for the February 12 basketball doubleheader at the Providence Civic Center will go on sale for all Bryant students on Monday.

Bryant will meet Rhode Island College in the opening game on the program at 6 p.m. followed by the 8 p.m. contest between Providence College and Cleveland State.

All tickets for the games are reserve seats. The usual reserve seat price is $3. However, Bryant students may purchase tickets for themselves and their student guests at the special student price of $1.50. All adult tickets are $3.

The Providence College ticket office has informed us that the doubleheader is a complete sellout and the only tickets available to Bryant students will be those sold here at the college.

As there are only a limited amount of tickets available, they will be sold on a "first come, first serve" basis.

Tickets will be on sale from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Athletic Office in the gym from 12 Noon to 1 p.m. in the Rotunda of the Unistructure.

An Excitement Machine To Be Seen

An Excitement Machine to be Seen

Through a great deal of time, coupled with mental and physical effort, the Bryant College Basketball Team has become one of the best teams to hit the Bryant court. Names like Depelteau, Stewart, Sorafine, McCormack, Gonzalez and so many others have become household words for those who have followed each action-packed game. With an outstanding record of nine wins, three losses, our basketmen have proven themselves; and it is that determination which will bring the Naismith Conference Banner home to roost.

Part of this change to spirited action are the Bryant College Cheerleaders, who, under the direction of Miss Mickey Finn, have become an inviting addition to each Indian game.

Spectators are an important third party to the men on the court. Armed with the knowledge that the stands are packed with excited, cheering fans, the players get "psyched up," and their efforts to win double.

Last semester, however, support for our team was less than adequate. We have a fine team which will continue to win and win big with scoring margins of twenty points or more. But they thrive on your support. Within the upcoming weeks, there will be five home games and a sixth game to be played at the Providence Civic Center.

The ARCHWAY hopes that you will encourage others to come and see precision and grace in fluid motion. We promise you an evening of fast-paced action and excitement you will long remember.

Nixon's Noose on the Media

Nixon's Noose on the Media

It seems as if "Tricky Dick" is up to his old underhanded tricks again by forcing certain segments of the media to reveal their news sources. The question still stands as to whether or not the media is protected by the First Amendment to the Constitution. According to a June, 1972 Supreme Court decision, there is no protection or "Journalistic Privilege" clause to be found in the First Amendment which would disallow a reporter from being called to testify before a grand jury.

Headhunter Nixon is not only after the big time news reporters; but is setting his sights on silencing individual television stations by endorsing bold legislation aimed at making the aforementioned television stations responsible for all network programming aired, advertisements, and entertainment programs. Failure to comply with the strict guidelines could result in forfeiture of the station's license.

Well, the toll is up to four reporters jailed for withholding information; and with this in mind, an important question must be posed. Where will it all end? Where do the powers of the President end, and does he have the power to twist the Constitution to fit his needs?

The ARCHWAY thinks not. We feel that our freedom of speech is a sacred guarantee, granted to us under one of the most cherished and imitated documents in the world. In addition, we feel that there should be "Journalistic Privilege" to protect the media from those who seek to silence another voice of truth. In the early history of our country, the press was instrumental in discovering discrepancies in small-town governments where graft ran rampant.

The shackles that Mr. Nixon is attempting to impose are the result of a personal vendetta originating back in 1962 when Mr. Nixon held his last press conference. John Chancellor of NBC News sums it up best.

"Other administrations," says Chancellor, "have had a love-hate relationship with the press. The Nixon Administration has had a hate-hate relationship."

R.S.W.

Will the Administration Move?

If 1971 and 1972 were any indication of what life is going to be like at Bryant College in 1973, we are really in trouble. To those of you that are new here, let me advise you not to expect too much. Bryant never gets off the ground. The reason being is that the Administration feels that if they don't hear any complaints from the majority of students then everything is just "honky dorry." The less they hear the less they have to do! Now the blame goes further. It is now the students' fault. All that the students do is complain to their suitemates. But that's not the right people to complain to. You're not alone by any means. It's just that you're all afraid. No one wants to take the risk. But if you never risk you never get slammed; but you never win either. So ask yourselves whether or not 1973 will be different. In my opinion it will not be. I hope you all prove me wrong. But up to now you all show me nothing.

Senate Addresses Students

The Student Senate would like to welcome you back to Bryant and extend a hello to all new students. We wish you the best of luck and a happy semester.

The Senators would also like to remind you that if you have any questions or problems to contact one of us. Below is a list of Senators.

We often come under fire for not communicating with the student body. We are determined to overcome this problem by letting you know we are available--all YOU have to do is talk to us. The Senator's main goal is to represent the student body but the job is not properly executed unless YOU respond. Our meetings are every Monday at 3:15 p.m. Ask any Senator for the room number. We look forward to seeing you at the meeting or hearing from you anytime.

Thank You

INSIGHT

Have You Seen Him, Daddy?

by Richard S. Woolf

Feeling the welcoming warmth of the Spring Saturday as I stooped to gather up the morning paper, I decided that it was a perfect day to stroll rather than ride to the Temple with the family. Returning to the kitchen, I told Sarah, my wife, who agreed that it would be a good idea for both Jamie and the baby. Our young son Jamie was at the inquisitive age of six, and seemed to enjoy the Saturday morning services. After previous services, Jamie would bubble over with questions concerning the different rituals of the occasion. Explaining each and every minute detail took patience, but Sarah helped a great deal by inserting anecdotal comments which spurred joyous laughter.

As we walked, I glanced lovingly toward my Sarah, who was tending to our little one. I felt the type of contentment that I guess all men experience. Our struggle to build a home within an amiable community had ended when we left New York for my new position in Connecticut. With the usual trials of a young married couple behind us, Sarah and I were able to find beauty in all which we experienced. We were truly blessed.

Reaching the Temple, Jamie ran up to Rabbi Brown who waited at the large wooden double doors, greeting his worshippers. Upon seeing Jamie, the Rabbi whisked him off his feet and treated him to a strong hug. With the proper greetings done, we proceeded to our place within the Lord's sanctuary.

The services flowed from responsive readings to the comments from the Rabbi. Standing tall before the majestic background of the Ark, the Rabbi posed the question, have you seen God? The Rabbi went on to ask similar questions, calling upon the congregation to find the answers to these questions within their own hearts. It was then that I heard something-- a voice which seemed to originate from the back of my mind. Feeling Jamie's small hand clutching my jacket sleeve, I bent to ask that he wait until the Rabbi concluded his talk; but before I could speak, Jamie asked if I had seen "Him."

"Have I seen Him? I asked inquisitively.

"Yes, Daddy, have you seen God?"

"Yes, son. Daddy will explain later," I answered uneasily, not knowing a good answer to this seemingly difficult question.

Returning to the beauty of the Spring Noon, I asked Sarah to return home with the baby by car with the Jacobsens, who lived near us, in order that I may be alone with Jamie. Watching the car pull out of sight, I turned to my little one, pressed his hand in mine, and walked a piece down the avenue. Stopping for a moment, I lifted my love into my arms, and told him what I felt in my heart.

"Jamie, my little one, I have seen God in everything which has ever touched my life. Look around you, and you will see God's creations--all different, but each one beautiful for the purpose it serves."

"Daddy, can you see God in me, too? Jamie asked.

"Love, of all the different creations that God has given me, I see him the best in you. You are a part of me. For that I love you; and in turn I love God more, if I could."

Well, since that day, many more Spring days have passed--more than I wish to recall. Jamie has grown into a fine young man; and his love Jill blessed him with a baby boy. As Jamie grew, I reminded him of his inquiring mind and retold the story of how he learned about God.

About a week ago, I got a letter from Jamie. My grandson had reached that special age of six, and Jamie had to explain how he had first learned about God.

"Dad, thank you more than I can say for all you have done for me," the letter read. "Despite the passing of time, your explanation has retained its relevance and worked well with Jamie, Jr.

Putting down the letter, I could only say thank God as Sarah blotted the tear from my eye.

Community Film Series To Be Shown

BRYANT COLLEGE, in cooperation with the GREENVILLE LIBRARY, will present the PIONEERS OF MODERN PAINTING FILM SERIES, a new, six-part series written and narrated by Kenneth Clark, beginning February 1, 1973 at 3:15 in the afternoon for students and a second showing in the evening at 8:15 for the Greenville community. It will then be shown each Thursday for the six weeks at the same times in the BRYANT COLLEGE AUDITORIUM. The public is cordially invited to see these campus viewings at the special invitation of Dr. Harry F. Evarts, President of the College and Dr. Joseph Katz, President of the Greenville Library Association.

These PIONEERS OF MODERN PAINTING films are on loan, free of charge, from the National Gallery of Art in Washington, under a program offered through the Gallery's Extension Service.

In making the grant, the National Endowment for the Humanities and the National Gallery requested that college presidents, rather than are, history, or humanities departments, be asked to sponsor the program in order to emphasize its availability to the whole student body. At the same time, participating schools are required to make arrangements for co-sponsoring the series with a local or nearby museum, library, or cultural center for the showings to the general public. This service follows the pattern of the Extension Service's distribution of CIVILISATION, Lord Clark's previous highly-acclaimed film series, which has now been viewed on more than 600 campuses and their communities.

The new series covers the lives and works of six leading artists of the late 19th and early 20th centuries: Edouard Manet, Paul Cezanne, Claude Monet, Georges Seurat, Henri Rousseau, and Edvard Munch. A 45-minute color film has been devoted to each of the six artists whom Lord Clark considers to be "the pioneers of what we still call modern-painting."

Most of the series was filmed in France, with the exception of Edvard Munch which was photographed in Norway, the artist's native country. Lord Clark has not relied solely, however, on the paintings found in the artist's own country. For instance, 13 of the works discussed in the series are hanging in the National Gallery of Art in Washington. Others are in museums and private collections all over the world. PIONEERS OF MODERN PAINTING was produced by Colin Clark, Lord Clark's son. Although Colin Clark has been a television producer since 1956, this is the first father-son venture.

Each of the six programs is devoted to the life and work of an artist who significantly influenced the development of the twentieth century art. The first program for the afternoon and evening of Thursday, February 1, will be devoted to the works of the French artist, Edouard Manet. The programs to follow will include the presentations of Paul Cezanne on Thursday, February 8; Claude Monet on February 15; Georges Seurat on February 22; Henri Rousseau on March 1; and Edvard Munch on the last Thursday, March 18.

The Coffeehouse

This weekend, Bryant College Coffee House features "Stash" made up of Steve Snyder and Paul Wilde. "Stash," if you recall, was the most outstanding group to attend the New England Folk Fest held at Bryant last year. Since then they have played at our coffee house and were also seen at Big Mother's in Providence.

Country Comfort will be going through many changes this year. Starting Monday, January 29, we will be open every night from 8 o'clock on. There will be music, colored television, and many other things for your "Comfort" and enjoyment.

With time we hope to put in cafe-type tables and chairs and possibly a new floor. A week from Monday we hope to start afternoon Chess games for anyone interested. We hope this will also enable people to learn how to play the game. If this proves successful, we hope to hold a chess tournament in a month or so. We are also planning to stock our shelves with items such as albums, candles, and some leather goods real soon. Our aim is to try to make life more enjoyable for everyone here at Bryant.

If there are any students who are interested in joining the Coffee House staff, please call Wayne at 231-2818 or drop in at Dorm 10, Room 213. Please feel free to call us for any questions or suggestions you may have. See you at our home soon!

Reflecting Paper Removed From Swimming Pool Windows

Subsequent to student requests during the Spring semester, 1972, for increased privacy in the swimming pool, a reflecting paper was temporarily installed on the windows to determine the effect on the pool utilization. It was contended that more students would use the swimming pool if it were made more private. The study of the utilization of the pool has been completed, and it has been concluded that usage has actually decreased since the installation of the reflecting paper.

In addition to the decline in usage, the paper has not deterred "gaping," and has forced observers to press against the glass in order to see. The reflecting paper has also obscured the pool from the view of visitors and parents and has been a detriment in terms of general public response to the school.

It has been suggested that if the pool were fully visible, more persons would be consciously aware of its availability; and its usage may increase to the former level. For these reasons, it was decided to remove the reflecting paper.

Flickout

WGBH-TV is contemplating a revival of programming similar to their former "FLICKOUT" series. A few seasons ago, this popular series provided a showcase for new work of filmmakers. The projected series is not limited to student filmmakers. We are interested in any films which have not had television exposure.

The series will be limited to New England filmmakers with 16mm films and a 26-minute limit in length. All films submitted to the station should be in the form which the filmmaker considers the final edited version.

If WGBH finds enough good film to go ahead with the series, it will pay $10 per minute with a $30 minimum for any film broadcast locally on Channels 2 and 44 in Boston and Channel 57 in Springfield.

Submission of eligible films should first be made IN THE FORM OF A LETTER, along with a brief description of the style and content of the film. Filmmakers should specify length of film, color or black and white, married or double system. This information should be addressed to:

MBA Highlights

The beginning of a new semester is always a good time to take inventory of a program, and to make a forecast for the coming year.

The MBA at Bryant began in the Fall of 1969 with 79 students enrolled in a new and untried program of graduate studies. Although the program was indeed new for Bryant, it was based on a thorough research of the need for such a program and of existing MBA programs at other colleges and universities.

Dr. Manion served as Acting Dean of the program in addition to his regular duties, until Dr. Lebovitz took over the program in February of 1970.

The initial program provided for six foundation courses and ten advanced courses for a maximum program of 48 semester hours. The foundation courses comprised accounting, economics, finance, mathematics, marketing, and management. The advanced courses covered finance, production, marketing, quantitative analysis, the business firm, the computer, business environment, human resources, policy making, and decision making.

But soon students were asking for electives, and it also became evident that a foundation computer course was needed. As a result, 6 advanced and 3 foundation hours were added to the program for a maximum of 57 semester hours.

However, most Bryant students met all or most of the foundation requirements. For them the program meant taking 36 hours or close to it. If they went part-time, they finished in a little over two years.

As the program grew in strength and popularity, there was a demand for an accounting concentration, which was launched as of the Fall Semester of 1971. It was decided that Bryant would offer an MBA in accounting, not an M.S. The new concentration would combine accounting and management disciplines.

Because of the quality of the MBA offered and its ready acceptance not only by students but also by the community, Bryant was asked by Raytheon Company to launch an on-site program at its Portsmouth plant in the Spring of 1972. Because of its success, although originally open only to Raytheon personnel, the Raytheon program was opened to the public under the MBA on Aquidneck Island in the Fall of 1972. This was followed by a request by the Naval Officer Training Center at Newport to put on a program limited to its staff, also in the Fall of 1972.

The growth of the graduate programs has been quite rapid. There are over 300 students enrolled in the Spring 1973 Semester in 25 sections on campus and at Raytheon and at Navy.

Furthermore, Bryant has begun to graduate its MBA students: 4 in 1971, 29 in 1972, and possibly 50 in 1973.

Returning to our inventory concept and forecast, the future looks very good for the MBA programs. All indicators points to a successful year with more students enrolled and more graduates.

And after reading about our inventory and forecast, if our Bryant undergraduates should want more information about our MBA programs, they should contact the Graduate Office.

The NEW YORK TIMES Speaks For Itself

The first canvassing program for spring semester at special student rate is 13c per issue, totalling $11.15 for this semester. To further reduce the price of this program, the Times will not be delivered on holidays. Deliveries start Thursday, February 1, Mon.-Sat. ending the last day of classes.

The distribution center for commuters is VITO'S BARBER SALON here on the campus between 8:30 and 6:00. Dormitory students will receive their copy in their mail boxes.

But that's just the beginning. The Times will keep you fully informed on so many things you're interested in. Consumerism, ecology, foreign affairs, economics, science, famous people. And there's a lighter side to The Times, too.

The Times is famous for its complete, colorful sports coverage. And for its sports columnists, Red Smith, Arthur Daley, Dave Anderson. Then there are theater, dance and movie reviews. Fashions, fishing and boating get regular write-ups, too.

Obtain subscriptions for The New York Times from the bulletin boards posted around the campus or by contacting your New York Times representative--John Sossei, 769-2382.

NOTE: All students who signed up for a year's subscription in September will automatically start receiving the paper on Thursday, February 1.

UNDER THE CAPITOL DOME

Washington news and analysis in depth, direct from the nation's capital by George Marder of United Press International.

"...I knew I had been there. And I knew also that I had given it everything that was in me."

That quote is from Lyndon Johnson writing in THE VANTAGE POINT about Lyndon Johnson in the White House.

History unquestionably will agree.

Whatever the judgment of history on the good or the bad of the Johnson years, future generations will not easily forget what he did to and for America.

There have been past presidents who became distant memories as soon as their terms were over.

Not so with the 36th President of the United States.

His monuments are labeled civil rights, great society, the war in Vietnam. Those monuments do not need granite to be everlasting.

The black man's place in America changes more during the Johnson years than at any time since the abolition of slavery.

But when Johnson was in the Senate, there were those who strongly suspected his role in civil rights. In the Senate, he was the Great Compromiser, allowing the civil rights band to batter its head against the walls of the Senate Filibuster and stepping to pick up the pieces.

Johnson never forgot that when it came time to propose a public accommodations law.

Johnson's sponsorship of the great society also had its doubters.

There were those who questioned his real dedication—who suspected that he took fuzzy blueprints; and for political reasons, prematurely pushed a war against poverty when the nation wasn't prepared with adequate resources.

The idea of the great society is being washed out by the Nixon Administration on the ground that it promised what could not be delivered, raised hopes that could not be fulfilled.

Johnson himself, in a way, pleaded guilty, writing in his book that "when we made mistakes, I believe that we erred because we tried to do too much too soon..."

But what Johnson changed is the idea that we will always have our poor with us. He gave to the nation the hope that America can develop the know-how, the technology, the shared wealth which some day will eliminate abject poverty. The programs can be washed out—the hopes, never.

On the war, Johnson was a true believer. He struggled against involvement in Vietnam but he sank into it deeper and deeper because he was told Vietnam was not a civil war or a war against foreign imperialism but a war of communist aggression.

Johnson believed in the domino theory. As he stated in his book, he feared that if Southeast Asia fell, the communists would take over the entire area, "at least down to Singapore."

Dissent over the war forced Johnson out of the presidential race in a futile attempt to unite the nation. Johnson once told Robert Kennedy that if he thought he could put the nation together, he would have run for re-election in 1968.

Those paying tribute to Johnson today will agree that he was there—at the seat of power in the United States.

Sounder

by David T. Pandozzi

With the onslaught of the current 'black' films in the inner-city theatres a motion picture like "Sounder" is a welcome, and radical change from the Super Fly's and Shafts of the 70's.

It seems that 1972 has been designated as the year for 'black films.' Lady Sings the Blues and most recently Sounder are contenders for various Oscar nominations to be sure. Diana Ross's performance in the former is not without competition by a superb, yet subtle, role delivered by Cicely Tyson in 'Sounder.' Sounder is...a good hunting dog, and companion of a young boy, played by Kevin Hooks, in this strongly moving film of a black family living in Louisiana in the 1930's. Not slaves but also not entirely free from the clutches of the white shore sharecroppers, the story captures many truths of how this family survives through various hardships. The main problem is faced by Cicely Tyson and her family of three children when her husband (Paul Winfield) is sent to prison for robbery for a year.

Kevin Hooks, as his determined son, attempts to visit his father in prison but is unable to find him. His attempts is not altogether hopeless for he discovers a new school in his travels which he desperately wants to return to escape the all white school he has been attending. Later he makes a decision which causes some discontent within the family.

A heart-warming story of a family and their relationships with each other and the people around them makes 'Sounder' a worthwhile film for the start of this year.

Now playing at the Four Seasons Cinema. Ladies night on Monday and Tuesday--admission $1.00.

In the world of entertainment with UPI Hollywood correspondent Vernon Scott.

George C. Scott slogged through three-foot mud on the back lot of Warner Bros. Rumbling his way through dialogue for his new picture "Oklahoma Crude," while the cameras whirred away.

All eyes were on the man who is perhaps America's finest actor, including those of his wife Trish Van Devere.

They are newlyweds, although their companionship dates back a year or two when they first met in Spain as co-stars in "The Last Run."

Trish sat girlishly on a prop table, swinging her legs, as she watched her husband work. The admiration in her wide-set eyes was mingled with tenderness.

She says that her husband is "The most courageous actor of all, he'll tackle any role and refuse to play the same kind of character twice."

Mrs. George C. Scott spent two months in Stocktop, California, while her husband was acting in location scenes for Stanley Dramer's new film. But Trish didn't hang around the set or engage in social activities.

The gorgeous actress devoted almost all of her time to visiting the San Joaquin County Child Development Center.

"It was something constructive to do," she explains, "and I really enjoyed it myself." Youngsters are taken there from infancy to their late teens.

"Most of them are from broken homes or where there has been some difficulty with the police or deaths in the family. They are all really uprooted and frightened, not knowing what the future will bring."

Volunteering her own time, the wife of the oscar-winning actor spent uncounted hours talking things over with the children, giving them confidence and hope for the future.

Trish could easily have returned to her home in Malibu and relaxed in the sun, visiting Scott on weekends.

But she is what might be considered an exceptional, non-Hollywood girl, who is concerned and involved with bewildered, helpless little people.

Nine Against One

by Buddy Trinkle

There is absolutely no way I can begin the spring semester without reporting on the recent basketball game featuring Providence College against U.C.L.A. Providence College which was ranked ninth in the nation faced U.C.L.A. the nation's top ranked team in what was publicized to be one of the best college contests of the year. Not until P.C. actually played basketball on the same floor as U.C.L.A. did they realize that they were miles apart concerning differences in ability. U.C.L.A. which had not lost a game in its last fifty-eight starts completely dominated even though at certain times it appeared as though P.C. might make it close.

At the outset of the game U.C.L.A. began to clearly indicate that it did indeed possess one of the best centers college basketball has ever seen. To head a list that includes names such as Bill Russell, Kareem Jabbar, and Nate Thurmond on it, Bill Walton has had to consistently prove that playing against him is like being on a one way trip to hell. Walton who is in some places called "the great white hope" outrebounded, outshot, outhustled, and completely outplayed Marvin Barnes, the center of Providence College. Barnes who has been reprimanded because of his street ball qualities never did stand a chance against Walton. U.C.L.A.'s All American center forced Barnes to shoot from the outside which limited him to only a 33% field goal percentage in the first half.

At the end of the half P.C. was down by only eight points primarily because of the hot hand of Ernie Degregorio who put up shot after shot from the outside. Ernie D. thrilled the crowd more than once with his behind the back passes. Hitting from the outside Degregorio kept the mismatch close for a while but it wasn't easy. From viewing the game on television one startling fact seemed quite evident. The second best team in the nation following U.C.L.A. is not North Carolina or North Carolina State or even Long Beach State for that matter. The second best team is none other than U.C.L.A.'s second string team. Walton has said that the toughest center he has ever played against is his own team's back-up center Sven Nater. Since U.C.L.A. has such amazing depth John Wooden could almost substitute at will and still expect the same results. What was expected to be a close game turned into a rout as U.C.L.A. scored a total of over 100 points for the first time this year.

A final reminder diehard P.C. fans. The NCAA tournament is fast approaching. If P.D. accepts a bid and reaches the finals it will most probably have to face U.C.L.A. again. The worst may be yet to come. Oh yea h, don't forget P.C. plays Jacksonville this Saturday afternoon.

Bryant Seeks Revenge Against Quinnipiac

One of the top NAIA regional games of the season will be on tap here Wednesday when the Bryant Indians play host to defending NAIA regional Champion, Quinnipiac in an 8 p.m. game at the Bryant gym.

The Indians and Braves are two of the top contenders for this year's NAIA regional title and the game should give the Indian fans a preview of what to expect in the regional tournament scheduled for early March.

Both teams are enjoying extremely successful seasons and come into the game with impressive records. The Indians boast a 9-3 mark going into this afternoon's game with Suffolk in Cambridge while Quinnipiac has registered an 11-4 slate going into this weekend's Bryant also will be looking for its first victory in four years against the Braves.

The game will be the second meeting of the season between the two arch rivals. The Braves edged out a two point decision in the opening game of the season for both. The last time the Indians took the measure of coach Burt Kahn's quintet was during the 1968-69 season.

The Indians' chief task will be stopping the Braves' Bobby Vacca. The 6'1" senior sharpshooter has averaged 16.9 points per game during the first half of the season. In addition to Vacca, the Braves will be looking to senior Franklin Johnson and Jim McNamee for their offensive punch.

Bentley Wins Bryant Holiday Tournament

by Jeff Doppelt

If it was up to Ray Depelteau, Bryant would have won their holiday tournament. For that matter, if it was up to Dave Sorafine, Bryant would have won their holiday tournament too; and never the twain shall meet. The two combined for 50 points and 34 rebounds as Bryant defeated Clark 87-76 in the consolation game.

What happened in the opening round is something of an enigma. Coach Tom Folliard started Bob Moll at center and a much taller St. Michael's College used its superior height and outstanding shooting to give Bryant its worst thumping of the season 99-82. About the only bright spot for the Indians was the consistent play of Co-Captain Ray Depelteau who made the all tournament team. Not only did Depelteau score 21 points, but in the process he set a foul-shooting record. He made his first eight attempts from the charity stripe giving him 26 consecutive free throws breaking the old record of 18 set by Tom Burns during the 1970-1971 season.

It must have been an off night for the Indians, who shot only 36% for the game and were outrebounded for the first time all season. As a result, St. Michael's took a 44-31 lead at the half. Bryant battled back in the second half and managed to climb within five points but couldn't get any closer as St. Michael's steadily pulled away.

For the Indians, Frank

McCormack had 16 points and Henry Gonzalez had 13 points including 12 rebounds.

In a game played earlier that night, Bentley defeated Clark 87-79. Bob Hammel's brother Bert was high scorer in the game with 32 points.

Bryant met Clark the following night in the preliminary to the Bentley vs. St. Michael's championship. The first half showed Bryant's true potential as they soared to a 16-point lead in only 12 minutes of play. Leading the way was Depelteau and Sorafine who ended the first half of play with 17 and 13 points respectively.

The second half saw Bryant put to the test. Clark came back and briefly took a one-point lead. Then Co-Captain Bruce Stewart came alive. He scored 15 second-half points as he broke Clark's back. Bruce was constantly in the right place at the right time. He got 7 offensive rebounds, many of which he put in for easy scores. Dave Sorafine was also excellent as he scored 13 points. When it was all over, Sorafine had 26 points, Depelteau 24 points, and Stewart 22 points. Sorafine had 20 rebounds and Depelteau 14. This was the first time three Bryant players scored over 20 points in a game since the 1970-71 season. The win gave Bryant a 6-2 record. The tournament was won by Bentley and from Bryant's standpoint, the results came out just about as expected.

Bentley won the championship by defeating St. Michael's 99-87. It looked like St. Michael's would pull the upset of their season by taking a five-point half-time lead 53-48. They increased that lead to 10 points in the second half before Bentley caught up late in the game and went on to win Bryant's Third Annual Holiday Tournament. Again, Bert Hammel was high scorer in the game with 27 points earning him a spot on the all-tournament team. Brian Hammel was voted the tournament's MVP as he did an excellent job in running the Bentley team.

Bryant's next home game is against Quinnipiac College on Wednesday. Quinnipiac defeated Bryant by two points down in Hamden, Connecticut the first game of the season. In fact, Quinnipiac has beaten Bryant its last 14 games in a row-- including JV and Varsity. So it is important that all you fans come out and help break the Quinnipiac jinx.

Bryant Nips Gordon 66 to 60

By Michael Kata

The Bryant Indians, despite shooting a mere 35% from the floor, raised their conference record to 4-0 with a slim 66-60 victory over Gordon Wednesday night at the losers court.

Both teams opened up the game with a cold hand but the Indians with some strong rebounding jumped out to a 20-11 lead in the first ten minutes of play. A basket by center Dave Sorafine with 7:06 showing on the clock gave Bryant and eleven point lead, the largest in the game. Bryant with a chance to build a comfortable lead went cold as the Indians were only able to score seven points during the final seven and a half minutes in the half. During this span, the Fighting Scots of Gordon also guilty of some poor shooting narrowed the score to 33-25 and that's how it stood at half time.

In the second half, Gordon narrowed the score to 56-53 with 5:09 left in the game but that's as close Gordon was to come. Two quick baskets by senior co-captain Ray Depelteau within a forty second span gave Bryant a 60-53 lead. A basket by Sorafine with 2:20 on the clock gave Bryant a comfortable ten point lead 66-56. Gordon then scored four points in the remaining time to make the final score 66-60. In the game Bryant shot a poor 35% and Gordon only shot 36%. The Indians dominated on both the offense and defensive boards out rebounding Gordon: 60-29. Henry Gonzalez was high man with twenty rebounds for the Indians. The high scorers were Bruce Stewart, Dave Sorafine and Ray Depelteau with 17, 16, and 15 points respectively. The win gives Bryant a 9-3 record overall and a perfect 4-0 record in the Naismith Conference.

In the sub-varsity game, the Bryant sub-varsity, one of the top sub-varsity teams in New England, simply outclassed the Gordon sub-varsity by defeating them 86-47. Bill Goudailler was high scorer for Bryant with 22 points while Paul Melvin added 20, 18 in the first half, to the Indians attack. Bryant's sub-varsity's record now stands at 4-1.
