

Post-Course Assessment Form

Instructions:

At this point it becomes clear to most people that we should be doing something to make a difference, but deciding what to do can be overwhelming. There are so many possibilities it can be hard to decide where to begin or the task can seem so huge that one it doesn't seem worth attempting in the first place. This inventory is an attempt to help you begin to think through some of the possible opportunities surrounding you in your everyday life. This is a partial list! You may think of any number of other great ideas and are encouraged to pursue those as well. Take a few moments to respond to each statements and select one the response that best describes you.
