“Operation: Person to Person” Thunders Merry Christmas 50,000 Times—At Least

Operation: “Person to Person” Personnel

Clothes Collections Commence Monday

By NORB MOSER

Hearts are trump in the biggest deal to come to La Salle in a long, long time—“Operation: Person to Person.” Winter is coming. Here in America we will break out the warm clothing, turn up the thermostats to seventy-three and think nothing of it. But on the other side of the world is a bleak, war-torn Korean peninsula where winter comes early and stays late, where there are no thermostats to turn up—because there is no heat, where there are no warm clothes to break out—because they simply don't exist. This is where “Operation: Person to Person” will come in.

Begins in Korea

It all started on September 27 when a letter from Korea arrived at the Alumni Office. A La Salle graduate, former editor of the Collegian, now Lt. Robert Schaefer of the Seventh Infantry Division Artillery planted a spore of charity that is mushrooming into a drive for the destitute of Korea, who must either receive substantial clothing—or die in the ruthless, sub-zero cold.

Letter Starts Action

Schaefer's epistle gathered no dust. It was turned over to Ted Bronson, sports editor of Schaefer's former Collegian Staff and now faculty moderator of the Collegian. A series of letters involving Bronson, Schaefer, and Brother Daniel Bernian (from whom official and enthusiastic support was received) ensued and

Schaefer's Plea

In Bob Schaefer's original letter he wrote “to again test the La Salle spirit in helping the needy.”

Schaefer said, “Winter is just about upon us here in Korea, and if you could see the condition of these Korean kids I'm sure you would be moved. Most of the kids run around with nothing on, and those who manage to scrape up some clothes aren't in what one would call the “best dressed” league.

“I've never spent a winter in Korea,” he continued, “but I understand it gets rather chilly over here. Last year many children died from exposure, and the same

Juniors Plan Meet for Early '57 Explorer

Robert Ganter '57, President of the Junior Class, has announced that the initial meeting of the 1957 Explorer Staff will take place November 3 during the 5th period in Room C-203. At this meeting Joseph O'Grady, Editor-in-Chief of the 1956 Explorer, will speak on the many jobs in putting together a yearbook.

A letter to the Junior Class from the class officers reads as follows: “Next year will be our last year here at La Salle College. It will be our senior year. Closely correlated with the senior year is the class yearbook. Let us not make the same mistake as has been made in many of the preceding years. Last year the Juniors, now the Senior Class, started working on their yearbook. Much was accomplished during that year, and all this would have had to be done during their present senior year. It is our duty to ourselves to show the same initiative. A meeting will be held in the very near future to discuss our plans and to elect the appropriate officers for our yearbook staff. Why not be part of helping to make a memory of the ‘good old days’ here at La Salle?”

Pino, Committee Expect Harvest Dance Great Success; Big Crowd, Fuhrman, Interim Entertainment on Tap

The Twenty-third Annual Harvest Dance will take place this Friday evening, October 28. The Gala Affair will commence at 9 o'clock and will run until 1 A. M. in the Main Ballroom of the Broadwood Hotel, Broad and Wood Streets.

Marines Offer Commissions

Captain E. H. Utley, the Marine Corps Procurement Officer, will be at La Salle College on Friday, November 4, 1955, to discuss opportunities for Seniors to earn a commission as a second lieutenant in the U. S. Marine Corps. Utley will be on campus from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m.

The Marine Corps offers an officer training program to Seniors here at La Salle who are not in the advanced ROTC. Seniors may be eligible for the Officer Candidate Course program if they meet the physical and mental requirements.

Seniors who enter the O.C.S. program are ordered to active duty after graduation and become second lieutenants upon successful completion of ten weeks of officer training at Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Va. Following this, the commissioned officer attends a six-month-long advanced basic school for further training.

The ticket committee announced that tickets have been moving exceptionally well during the past week. However, for those who have been unable to purchase their ducats special arrangements have been made.

Tickets will be available at the door on Friday evening. No previous reservations are required. In addition they will continue to be sold at the 19th Street entrance to College Hall.

Student Loan

Student Loan Fund has made its funds available to those who are short of money. The Fund has its office in C-309 with Student Council. Veterans who have not received their government checks might take advantage of the opportunity rather than miss the first social of the year.

Glee Club Sings

Clarence Fuhrman's Orchestra will provide the dance music. Fuhrman, the music director of station KYW, is well known for his summer concerts in Ocean City, N. J. Special entertainment at intermission will feature the La

OFFICE OPENS CAREER CORNER

No doubt by now, the great majority of us here at La Salle have seen Mr. Thomas J. Hickey, manager of the Placement Service and Alumni Director of the College, rushing around the campus and have thought to ourselves, "gosh, how can one man seem so busy just taking care of obtaining part-time jobs for needy students," which proves how little we really know of what Mr. Hickey's job (I should say jobs as he has four main ones in addition to his smaller ones) is.

The job-placement section of his work is not just limited to part-time positions, which incidentally he helped 425 students obtain last year, but also arranging for representatives of Industry and Government to speak to the seniors of both the day and evening colleges of job opportunities in these fields. In addition to this he aids alumni, evening college men, and seniors (after graduation) in acquiring full-time employment.

A newsletter, containing the names and qualifications of applicants for full-time positions, is periodically published and mailed by the Placement Office to all Personnel Directors in the Philadelphia area.

This year, the office, in cooperation with the Library and the Counseling Center, is setting up a "Career Corner" in the Library, which will be a central point to obtain occupational information on career opportunities in various fields.

This is only a part of what the Placement and Alumni Office does.

On the alumni side of the picture, the office organizes Class Reunions, Communion Breakfasts, the Annual Banquet, and in general manages all the social functions which concern the alumni as a whole. Moreover, it publishes an alumni newsletter and magazine and organizes "La Salle College Alumni Clubs" in those sections of the country in which a number of La Salle men may live.

In his "spare time," Mr. Hickey directs the "Alumni Annual Giving Campaign" which extends from February to December of each year. The money collected goes directly to the college to defray operating costs and to set up scholarships for deserving students. This fund was inaugurated in 1954 and so far this year more money has been received than in the whole of last year.

This whole division, which is under the supervision of Brother Daniel Bernian, F.S.C., Vice-President for Student Affairs, is a member of the American Alumni Council and the College Placement Association.

Mr. Hickey is ably assisted in the execution of his duties by his secretary, Miss Catherine B. Sullivan.

Mutiny Rehearsals Beginning; Committees Being Arranged

Lights are burning late in the auditorium once more. The court martial from the "Caine Mutiny" is being rehearsed. The Masque has begun rehearsals.

While operations are still in the formative stage and the final castings have not yet been made, the list of those who will appear in the drama has been announced. Those students in the all male cast include: Joseph Brown, Charles Bradley, John Cannon, Richard Cavanaugh, Henry DeLuca, Clement Feeny, Louis Lembo, William McCaffrey, Martin McCann, John McCrane, Vincent McCrane, Joseph Murphy, John Rothwell, Edward Sager, Edwin Stein, John Strazzullo, Michael Tanney and Joseph Valley.

Tryouts Well Attended

The response to the announcement for tryouts was very gratifying according to Mr. Daniel Rodden, director. He expressed his deep appreciation to all who were present.

In addition, he pointed out that the final casting will be announced in the immediate future.

Many of those not chosen for acting parts have offered to serve on the various committees. Final committees are being organized and there are still openings for membership in publicity, tickets and program groups.

"The Character Of Politicians"

By ROBERT LYDON '58

On Tuesday, November 8, another election day rolls around. As is customary, the air is once again filled with the familiar accusations of both political parties, denouncing each other as liars, demagogues, and graft-takers. The picture placed before the public is one of confusion and bewilderment.

After listening to these sometimes repulsive descriptions of political candidates, many of whom are honest and deserving of the public's trust, the voter is left with a biased opinion of politics in general. Frequently personal opinion or private thought is accepted as fact. Before condemning our politicians, the public should view with an open mind the merits of these men throughout the history of our country.

Politicians, taken as a group, have been known to possess many dubious traits as well as some admirable ones. When a person enters politics, he is embarking on a career that is full of temptations. New power is entrusted to that person. The character of a politician is determined by the manner in which he uses this power.

Without a doubt, many politicians have misused the privileges given to them by the voters. But on the other hand, this country must possess a large number of honest politicians. If we did not, it is hard to conceive how we could for so long remain a symbol of freedom for the rest of the world. Our country has been made great, in a large part, by the honest politicians elected by our people.

Winner Take All

By WILLIAM GOETZ '56

'Tis rumored around campus that, because of popular demand in Section D of the Philosopher's Metaphysics class, Jim Dougherty, famed horseman and bon-vivante, has been retained as promoter for the race of the year.

Through long and tedious negotiations, Dougherty has mediated an agreement for a match between the Philosopher triple crown winner, the finest Centaur in the East; Logical Being, and Frank McTague's popular Pacific Coast Champion, a truly up-and-coming two-year-old. Possible Being is a Centaur of thoroughbred ancestry. The race is open to 2-year-old Centaurs only in a $100,000 winner take all.

The Philosopher entry, Logical Being, is quartered in the bandroom behind the ROTC office, and McTague's Centaur, Possible Being, is housed in the shed which previously sheltered a 105 howitzer.

The race has been scheduled for today, post-time at 2:30 p.m., in McCarthy Stadium, and will be the feature event of the afternoon. Such dignitaries of the facing world as Mac McGuire, Joe McNamara, Rod Smyrk, Paul O'Malley, and Fran "Handicapper" Ganley, and Walt Krause will watch the race from the reviewing stand.

The race is for a mile and a sixteenth over the smooth, fast cinders of McCarthy Stadium, with Logical Being the odds-on favorite to win by a tail.

A MATTER OF PRIDE

By NORB MOSER '58

It was a pretty autumn day, and I had just got my first gold star on the first grade honor roll. I skipped lightly through the school yard, and took my usual short-cut through the cemetery. At the top of the hill, where you could see the whole cemetery at once, the workmen were busy raking up the brown leaves and piling them onto their truck. Down in the dell, a lot of shiny black cars were parked around the old white building, and dark smoke was billowing like mad from the tall chimney. I guess they were burning the leaves there so the ashes wouldn't blow all over the place. It was a neat place.

When I reached the gate at the other end of the cemetery, I saw an old man sitting on the park bench down there along the fence. He had an old overcoat bundled up all around him, and his feet were sticking over the arm-rest. He called to me.

"Hey . . . you, Sonny. C'mere a minute."

I was pretty sure he meant me, because there wasn't anybody else around. I walked over to him. He took his feet off the armrest and sat up straight. It was old Binnsey. He was there almost every day.

"Say, fella, would you like to do me a favor . . . like a nice little boy, huh?"

"Yes sir," I choked, "what kind of favor, sir?"

"Well," he said, coughing a little, "seein' as I'm runnin' a little low on eats, I was wonderin' if maybe you couldn't dig me up a little grub or somethin', and bring it to me on your way to school tomorrow. Just a little somethin'. Ole General Binns ain't fussy! And then . . . if I can ever do anything for you, just ask. Anything at all! How does that sound for a bargain lad?"

I admitted that it sounded pretty good, and that I was surprised to hear that he was a general and all. We talked a while. I said I'd see what I could do, and he thanked me and gave me a little salute. It was then that I knew that he must have been a general, and I felt a lot better about the whole thing.

Before I went home, I stopped at Hirsh's drugstore to buy a Tootsie Roll. I told Mr. Hirsh all about old Binnsey—how his check hadn't come through from the French Foreign Legion yet, and how he was running low on medicine, and all.

When I said "medicine," a funny sort of smile came over his face. "Medicine, eh? Well, now! I'll tell you what. On your way to school tomorrow, you stop in here, and I'll give you a bottle of medicine for him. I know just what the old man needs."

The next morning I got up a little earlier than usual. I ate my breakfast in a hurry. My mother tied my shoe-laces and hooked my tie on in the back. Before I left for school, I took a handful of cookies, a couple pieces of cake, and an apple and put them in my pocket. I sneaked out the back door, and headed for the drugstore.

Mr. Hirsh gave me a big brown bottle for Binnsey. He told me not to drink any myself, because it was pretty strong stuff. On the way to the cemetery I decided to try some anyway. Just a little. It was funny tasting stuff, sort of salty and bitter, like the stuff my mother used to give me when I was all sick and stopped up and all. I put the cap back on and hid the bottle in my jacket.

When I found old Binnsey, I gave him the cookies and cake, and the apple. I didn't tell him where I got the stuff in the bottle, because I wanted him to think I got it all by myself. When I handed him the bottle, he fumbled with the cap like he was real nervous. When he finally got it off, he started to drink so hard I thought he would suck the bottom right out of the bottle. And then, all of a sudden, he stopped drinking, and made all kinds of funny faces.

"Hey! . . . HEY! . . . What is dis stuff, anyhow?"

"I . . . I . . . It's medicine, I guess, sir." He didn't look as happy as I thought he would.

"Ya mean ya don't know what it is?"

"Yes . . . er, no . . . I mean I gotta hurry now, or I'll be late for school."

I saluted a little, and hurried away, looking backwards every other step, so I could keep an eye on him. He just sat there with a smeary look on his face and held his stomach.

I thought about him all day long. When school left out, I hurried back to see how he liked the cookies and all. But he wasn't there. Two days later, I finally spotted him again. He was half-way down the hill, looking out at me from behind a big tombstone. He had an awful look on his face. I guess he was still sick.

After that I never again saw old Binnsey sitting on the bench by the gate. Somehow, whenever I went past, he always managed to be down where those tombstones are, and from the looks of him, he always stayed pretty sick.

Then again, maybe his check came through. Or maybe he just didn't have the heart to come up and ask me for something to eat twice in a row. I guess you can't blame him in a way. Some people are pretty proud like that. I talked it over with Mr. Hirsh. He agreed with me.

Why do more college men and women smoke

than any other filter cigarette?

Because only Viceroy gives you 20,000 filter traps in every filter tip, made from a pure natural substance — cellulose — found in delicious fruits and other edibles!

1. Yes, only Viceroy has this filter composed of 20,000 tiny filter traps. You cannot obtain the same filtering action in any other cigarette.
2. The Viceroy filter wasn't just whipped up and rushed to market to meet the new and skyrocketing demand for filtered cigarettes. Viceroy pioneered. Started research more than 20 years ago to create the pure and perfect filter.
3. Smokers en masse report that filtered Viceroy's have a finer flavor even than cigarettes without filters. Rich, satisfying, yet pleasantly mild.
4. Viceroy draws so easily that you wouldn't know, without looking, that it even had a filter tip . . . and Viceroy's cost only a penny or two more than cigarettes without filters!

That's why more college men and women smoke VICEROYS than any other filter cigarette . . . that's why VICEROY is the largest-selling filter cigarette in the world!

NFCCS Communion Breakfast And Seminar at LaSalle College

Students from eight local colleges will meet at La Salle Sunday when the Philadelphia region of the National Federation of Catholic College Students holds a Communion Breakfast and seminar in observance of National Catholic Youth Week which begins

On Thursday, Oct. 20, Mayor Joseph S. Clark proclaimed the week of Oct. 30-Nov. 6 as Catholic Youth Week in Phila. and urged our citizens to acknowledge the outstanding contribution made by the Catholic youth organizations of this city. His Honor hands the proclamation to Monsignor Thomas Riley, Archdiocesan Director of the C. Y. O. Looking on from left to right: La Salle's Jim McDonald, John Cahill of Penn's Neumann Club, Dorothy Kelm, Nancy Rigney, and Rev. Charles A. Woods of the C. Y. O., and Martin G. Durkin, St. Joseph's, Regional President of N. F. C. C. S.

then, the Feast of Christ the King.

Two hundred students are expected to attend Mass in the La Salle College auditorium at 10 A.M., preceding the breakfast in the college cafeteria. Francis J. Hartman, a member of the Immaculata College faculty and former chairman of the National Forensics Commission of NFCCS, will be guest speaker.

Miss Valerie Price, executive secretary of the NFCCS, with headquarters in Washington, D. C., will be the key speaker at the seminar following the breakfast, in the Library Lounge. A series of panel discussions, with members of the Student Government Commission, Interracial Justice Commission, Family Life Committee, Forensics Commission and Missions Commission participating, will follow.

James P. McDonald '57 and Thomas J. Cunningham '56, co-chairman, announced that high school seniors in Philadelphia interested in attending college have been invited to the affair. The local colleges participating include Rosemont, Chestnut Hill, Immaculata, Manor, Gwynedd-Mercy, St. Joseph's, Villanova and La Salle.

First proclaimed in 1951, National Catholic Youth Week aims to focus attention on the vast youth program functioning under Catholic auspices, and to reveal the depth of spirituality of modern Catholic youth. It traditionally begins each year on the feast of Christ the King.

underprivileged and starving people rejoice in these words until they find, to their horror, that they are enslaved to the cause that takes care of only one thing equally, the state. It is my personal opinion regarding this subject, once again referring to the Holy Scriptures, that if people tend to possess this vice, let them recall to mind the beautiful gospel story of the Publican and the Pharisee. The Pharisee went on and on concerning how much he gave to the church, and how he had fasted, etc., but the humble publican stood afar and uttered those famous words: "O, God, be merciful to me, a sinner." It is only human that we do not wish our pride to be hurt by appearing to be something less than what we would like to be, but as we have seen by this definition these thoughts can be carried too far.

An Open Letter To the Senior Class

Dear Seniors:

Last January, 248 members of your class gave their wholehearted approval for a plan to finance your yearbook. This plan was not accepted by the administration because some very sound objections arose. We, the yearbook staff, were not discouraged by this setback, in fact, it was this particular setback which gave new determination to everyone concerned with the production of the yearbook. I am, however, sorry to report that this was not the reaction found among the class in general.

During the summer months John Grablewski carried on a program which netted some sixty subscriptions. But from the time school started until now, he has received only an additional twenty subscriptions. This is indeed a rather poor showing.

Let's get this straight once and for all. We cannot and will not sign a contract until all the money is in our hands. This is not our rule; it is the policy of the school, and further it is not an unjust rule, since it places the financial responsibility squarely on the shoulders of the class, where it should rightly reside. This means that in order to have the book for Senior Week, we must be able to sign a contract in the vicinity of the first of November. This is no joke; nor is it a threat; it is simply a statement of fact. If you want your book on time, get the money into our hands. Remember that this is not my book or the staff's. The cover will read the "56" Explorer, signifying the class of "56." The deadline is November 1.

Hypocrisy

By WILLIAM S. WAPLES

Hypocrisy is a vice or a fault by which we assume an outward appearance of virtue and goodness while we hide our real character from our associates. It is a sin of deceit; its seriousness depends upon our intentions for putting on an air of self-righteousness. The word hypocrisy comes from the Greek, and it means the acting of a part on the stage; feigning, or pretense. We find this term in the past in the New Testament of the Holy Bible, where it is used by our Lord to describe the Pharisees. One passage that would illustrate this would be Chapter 23 from the gospel of St. Matthew, when our Lord addressed the Pharisees thus: "Woe to you, Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites; because you tithe mint, and anise, and cummin, and have left the weightier things of the law; judgment, and mercy, and faith. These things you ought to have done, and not to leave those undone. Blind guides, who strain out a gnat, and swallow a camel."

Today, as I'm sure it was in yesterday, hypocrisy is of two kinds: religious and non-religious. Religious hypocrisy is that particular kind whereby you may be the world's greatest sinner on the inside, but to your neighbor you are the height of virtue because you act as one who would be in the state of goodness and virtue; you pretend, to their admiration. Non-religious hypocrisy deals with the common trend of pretending to be what one is not. It does not deal with virtue but rather with social and financial matters. People give the impression of wealth to try to marry their children into a family of both social and financial prosperity; others pretend to be persons who know it all just to get attention.

Perhaps the worst form of non-religious hypocrisy is the evil of atheistic Communism. It promises the world to the poor countries it invades, and they pledge that all will be taken care of equally. An

Explorers, Unlike Giants, Are Not Dead

An "expert," says Webster is "one who possesses special knowledge or skill in some particular field."

We were gratified upon purchasing a copy of Dell's BASKETBALL ANNUAL FOR 1956 and glancing at the cover to learn that there were so many of these singularly proficient creatures in existence, let alone lending their valuable time and vast store of specialized information to this publication. Dell has garnered not one, not a few, or several, but one thousand soothsayers to predict the results of next year's election, who the top pro and college basketball players and teams in the country will be come the ides of March, and when the world will come to an end.

But we would like to point out beforehand, so as not to disillusion the poor reader and whistell ball fan who may use this inspired word as a basis for wagering on games, that the magazine, while claiming to command the services of 1000 experts, does not qualify this title by referring to them as basketball experts. More than likely these individuals are expert in their field but, and the contents of the publication seems to bear this out, most likely their field is not basketball.

First of all, speaking of San Francisco, they refer to the Dons as "tops in their league, on the Coast, in the nation." Last year's NCAA champs are one of the teams that will participate in the Holiday Festival at New York come December 26. But whom do they pick to win the tournament? Holy Cross.

Fordham had an 18-9 record last campaign, achieved through the efforts of the only productive player on the squad, All-American Ed Conlin. Conlin has graduated and the best man returning from the Ram squad is Bill Lyons who averaged eight points per game. The Rams, by the way, are called by the experts "the number one team in the East" and are ranked eighth in the nation.

Duquesne, which lost All-American Dick Ricketts, has not one man on this year's squad taller than Si Green who is 6-3. Besides this lack of height the Dukes suffer also from a lack of reserve strength, or the "non existence" of reserves as the experts put it. But despite this, Duddy Moore's crew is rated tenth nationally.

Dayton, which saw the departure of Johnny Horan and Jack Sallee, must center its attack this year around Bill Uhl who "isn't the fastest big man afoot," and who, to coin a phrase, is so clumsy he almost never looks deceptive.

Dayton lost Horan, Fordham lost Conlin, and Duquesne lost Ricketts, yet these teams are ranked seventh, eighth, and tenth respectively, while La Salle, in the words of the exalted experts, "is in for trouble, having lost not only Tom Gola but Coach Ken Loeffler as well." How many points did Loeffler score last year anyway?

Granted, the Explorers lost a great star in Gola, but in this regard they are like many other teams. But, unlike these other teams, the Explorers seem to be the only five relegated by the prophets to comparative obscurity. West Virginia, Syracuse, Richmond, and Fordham have been picked to defeat La Salle this coming campaign which makes us feel sure that by next February 12 the experts will have made at least four mistakes. Even the "Literary Digest" made a bad prediction back in '36.

X-Country, Rifle Among Fall Sports

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of two articles by Ken Hager on the Sport's set-up at La Salle. Baseball and basketball were not included in these articles because of the great publicity they receive in the regular news columns.

There are other sports at La Salle College which a student can participate in other than soccer during the fall season, such as cross-country and the varsity and R.O.T.C. rifle teams.

Even though the Blue and Gold thinclads under the guiding hand of Frank Wetzler, one of the East's top cross-country mentors, had a victoryless 1954 campaign, during which they tasted defeat eight times only to deadlock Temple, 28-28, they possessed one of the outstanding individual harriers in the area in Joe Merkins. The team as a whole did not fare badly in the Middle Atlantic Cross-Country Championship, held last year at Allentown, as they placed ninth in a field of fourteen.

The sole consolation to the Wetzlermen this year is the possession of Army returnee Earle Eldridge, who was one of the top harriers in the area during his freshman and sophomore years on the varsity before serving Uncle Sam. Should Eldridge round into shape, such as he was in 1951 and 1952, the Explorers may be in for a few dual meet triumphs.

New Rifle Coach

The varsity and R.O.T.C. rifle units will have a new coach, 1st Lt. Herbert A. Fleck, who will be taking over the duties left to him by Major Beverly Finkle. Lt. Fleck will be ably assisted by M/Sgt. B. W. Simmons.

The Explorer riflemen will be faced with another stiff schedule, competing against such top-notch teams in the Philadelphia and surrounding areas as Penn, Villanova, Drexel, Lehigh, P.M.C., and LaFayette.

Returning with a year or more experience in competition will be Joe Silberholz, Ed Reading, Clem

Soccer Team Gets Jolted; Play Textile Institute Sat.

Muhlenberg's Mules remained as stubborn as ever as they handed La Salle's soccer eleven their second defeat in three contests, 3-2, in Allentown last Wednesday.

Saint Joseph's Down Harriers

St. Joseph's College undefeated harriers defeated La Salle, 19-44, in a dual meet last Tuesday at the 20th St. and Olney Ave. course. This victory enabled the Hawks to run their undefeated record to four straight victories. For the Explorers the loss was their third in as many outings.

In winning their fourth straight, St. Joseph's placed eight runners in the first ten finishers. The Hawks' Bob Hagarty finished first over the 4 1/4-mile course in 22.42. Earl Eldridge, who is quickly rounding into shape, finished second to Hagarty in 22.59, for the finest showing he has made so far this season. The only other La Salle man to finish in the first ten was Jerry Butler, who placed tenth in 24.48. Other La Salle finishers were George Harkins, 11th; John Ambrogi, 13th; Frank McVeigh, 14th, and Bill Evangelis, 15th.

Notice

Coach Jim Pollard announced today that Freshman and Varsity basketball practice will begin November 2. All interested candidates are to report ready for play at 4:30 p.m.

Combining alert play with an adequate defense when it counted, the Mules twice overcame La Salle tying goals to win.

Time and time again the Explorers had the opportunity to take an early lead as much of the first half was played in the Mules' territory. However, with goals in sight the LSC men couldn't land the scoring punch. Even with these offensive failures the Explorers managed to make a fight of it as their defense made it possible for them to stay close all the way.

Lanky Ted March, center forward, was the big gun as he netted all three Muhlenberg tallies. Two minutes into the third quarter March booted his first goal from the four, to break a scoreless deadlock. Ed Suez then tied for the Smithmen with a corner boot from the seven after receiving a pass from Adrian Harwinz.

At the start of the final period the Mules regained the lead as March once again broke thru the secondary to score two. Twelve minutes later the Explorers tied the count at 2 all as Jim Ghardellis received a 40 yard pass from Bob Graham at the one and booted for the score. However, March was still around and finding a partially blocked ball just short of the goal pushed it into the net to give the Mules the lead for keeps.

Ursinius was La Salle's fourth opponent having met the Explorers yesterday at home. This coming Saturday Phila. Textile Institute's booters travel to the Olney Heights campus in quest of another victory.

Stars on Parade

By WILLIAM BICKLEY '56

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This series of articles is devoted towards bringing recognition to those SENIOR athletes who, through their courage, determination, and outstanding competitive spirit have proven themselves worthy of acclaim.)

The first recipient of this award is Tom McGowan. His fellow athletes at La Salle have selected Tom this year's President of the Varsity Club.

Tom attended elementary school at the Immaculate Conception of Germantown where he received the first of his long string of letters. His basketball team won the City Parochial School title and also won the La Salle High Tournament.

"Moose" graduated from La Salle High in 1950 leaving behind him an impressive record. He received a total of no less than seven different varsity letters. Under Coach Jack Meyers he was an outstanding end on the varsity football team from '47 to '49. Under Coach "Obie" O'Brien he was forward on the basketball team in '49 and '50. His team in 1950 led by everybody's favorite, Tom Gola, climaxed an undefeated season by winning the Philadelphia City High School Championship. "Moose" was an active member of the track squad in '49 and '50 where he threw the shot put. Tom's activities at La Salle High were not simply confined to athletics. Your reporter has discovered that Tom was the object of a rather large fan club at Little Flower Catholic High School for Girls.

After graduation Tom served under Jim Gallagher as assistant football coach at La Salle for two years.

After spending a year each at Villanova and Temple, Tom finally found himself back at 20th and Olney.

At "the College" Tom is an Education-Business Administration major and a member of the Marketing Club. Last year Tom was a member of the Varsity Club and this year is its President.

Around La Salle Tom is always smiling and has a warm "hello" for everyone he meets. He is perhaps one of the most popular students on campus. On the academic side of his career Tom carries a better than average 2.95 scholastic index.

Tom was a member of Coach Frank Wetzler's 1954 MAC Track Championship Team. He holds the McCarthy Stadium shot put record and is a mean man with the discus.

Off campus Tom is a regular members of the North Penn AAU Basketball Team in an Independent League which has listed among its members many former outstanding hoopsters from La Salle.

He also lists hunting and fishing among his many activities. Tom is a little undecided about his future but he thinks he will probably apply for a position in the Philadelphia School System.

Intramural League Schedule Released

The Intramural League is finally on its way. Because the High School had need of the field last week, the first game of the season was played on Monday, Oct. 24.

Mr. Kirk has informed us that for the first few weeks of play the games will not be played every day. A compromise has been made with the High School so that we will not interfere with their schedule of events.

The schedule:

Wednesday, Oct. 26, 3:30—Hornets vs. Diamond Jim's.

Friday, Oct. 28, 2:30—S.B.K. vs. Hornets.

Friday, Oct. 28, 3:30—Fabricians vs. Diamond Jim's.

Thursday, Nov. 3, 3:30—Panzer Division vs. Eagles.

Intramural Code

1. Competition is limited to students only.
2. A competitor must be in good standing.
3. A man can only play a sport with one team.
4. Varsity and Freshmen squad men are not eligible for competition in the Intramural sport which coincides with their Varsity activities, but they may participate in all other Intramural sports.
5. A man must be on the official team roster before he can play in any sport.

6. Each team must hand in a list of entries for any sport prior to the announced closing date for entries. If need be, players may be dropped and other players may be added, but not later than the completion of the second scheduled game and with the approval of the Director of Intramural Sports.
7. Intramural schedules and regulations will be posted on the bulletin board of College Hall.
8. The Director of Athletics and the Intramural Staff determine all matters of policy.
9. Team managers are responsible for the establishment of the eligibility of the players on their squads.
10. Officials will have sole and complete authority on the field of play. All formal protest must be made in writing and presented in the Athletic Office within twenty-four hours of the contest in question. An exception will be made if the next day is a holiday. In such cases, the protest must be handed in on the next school day.
11. There can be no protest on the decision of judgment made by an official.
12. Postponements of Intramural contests will be decided upon by the Intramural Staff and they will make arrangements for a time at which the contest will be played.
13. All protests will be acted upon by the Intramural Staff—the decision is final.
14. Failure of a team to appear for two contests eliminates them from the league.
15. Violation of any of the above rules will cause the offending team a forfeit.

Recently, sportsmen the world over turned their eyes toward St. Peter's Square. The subject of their gaze was Pope Pius XII.

On October 9 the Holy Father watched a basketball game in public for the first time during his reign. Before the game, however, Pope Pius spoke about the role of Christian principles in sports to some 80,000 members of the Italian Sports Federation.

The Holy Father talked about the increased interest in sports since the "beginning of the present century" and the crowds "which gathered in the stadia . . . as to become one of the typical phenomena of modern society."

He urged that Christian principles be interjected into sporting activities so that sport would not "degenerate into a form of closed materialism, an end in itself."

Pope Pius also told the members of the Sports Center: "If you are truly persuaded that sport tempers and strengthens the body, educates the spirit and trains it for higher victories, you cannot allow numerous groups of young people to be deprived of these benefits because of poverty."

He stated that leaders should be "well prepared, not only from the spiritual viewpoint, but also technically." However, Pope Pius stressed the fact that "spirit must predominate over technique. Make use of technique, but let the spirit prevail."

Prudence was urged by the Holy Father in the selection of fit candidates for the various sports.

Pope Pius warned against the use of "strong stimulants, which besides damaging, perhaps irreparably, the organism, are judged by experts as a means of cheating."

He stated that ". . . young men should be convinced that the care of the body is not an end in itself, but should be directed to the intellectual and moral perfection of the soul; that the exercise of sport should not interfere with the duties of one's state—of student, worker or professional man—but rather be helpful towards their observance, at least indirectly . . ."

Aeronautical Book About Civil War Given to Library

An interesting book about aeronautical operations during the Civil War was presented recently to the La Salle College Library, as a personal gift from Col. Frederick S.

Haydon, Chief of the ROTC Division of the Office of Army Reserve and ROTC Affairs.

Col. Haydon made a recent liaison visit to the La Salle ROTC detachment to observe training operations and facilities and talk with institutional officials.

In a letter to Lt. Col. Stephen A. Ucherek, he lauded the quality of the La Salle ROTC unit and was particularly impressed by the enthusiasm, courtesy and discipline displayed by the cadets.

The book entitled "Aeronautics in the Union and Confederate Armies" was forwarded to La Salle from the John Hopkins Press. The volume is now available at the library with other military material.

Mellon Resigns, Clarke Takes Over

At the last meeting of the Sigma Beta Kappa Fraternity, Robert Clarke '56, Vice-President of the Fraternity, assumed the duties of President. This change was brought about by the formal resignation of Charles Mellon '56 as head of the Fraternity.

Mellon, an outstanding pre-med student, said in a speech to the members of the Fraternity that due to his many responsibilities he felt that he did not have the time to give the Fraternity all that the office of President requires. Although resigning as President, Mellon said he would continue as an active member of the Fraternity.

Bob Clarke, the new President of the Fraternity, said that he would devote all his time to furthering the Catholic action program of this organization. An excellent English student and a member of the Fraternity for three years, Bob has been very active in all of the organization's activities.

Outstanding among the Fraternity's activities is their Catholic action program in which the members participate at St. John's Orphanage. Here they organize and take part in many intramural sports. Highlighting the year 'round work at the Orphanage is the annual Christmas party given by the Fraternity for all of the orphans at St. John's.

The continuance of this good work at St. John's is made possible by the excellent support of the student body in attending Sigma Beta Kappa's annual Thanksgiving Dance. The entire proceeds of this dance go to the orphanage. Clarke said he wishes to call the student body's attention to this fact, and asks that they support

Bro. Augustine Tells Purpose of NFCCS

Brother Augustine, moderator of the NFCCS (National Federation of Catholic College Students), has issued a statement in order to clarify the basic purpose of the organization. The accent is on the word "federation." Its goal is to affiliate every Catholic college organization, but not with the view toward any type of control, much less to dictate any program of policy, but rather to serve any and all organizations in whatever capacity may be feasible.

Regionally NFCCS gives promise of an enthusiastic revitalization. This is due largely to the inspiration afforded the several moderators at a dinner discussion meeting called by Monsignor Joseph Schieder, who is the director of the Youth Department NCWC (National Catholic Welfare Conference).

Another factor in the current revival is the type of leadership being provided at the several colleges. The Regional President is Martin Durkin of St. Joseph's College, and the Vice-President is Rita Cassella of Immaculata. On the La Salle campus the leaders are Peter A. Pino '56, Senior Delegate; Thomas Cunningham '57, Junior Delegate; and James McDonald '58, Sophomore Delegate.

The Forensic Commission has been reactivated and is developing a stimulating program for the year. An Inter-Racial Justice Commission is being reorganized.

ROTC

Lt. Col. Gerald J. Tison, Headquarters Second Army, will make an ROTC staff visit here on Friday 28 Oct. 1955, for the purpose of observing facilities, operations and training of ROTC. He will also confer with college officials during his visit on the campus.

this coming event in the enthusiastic manner they have shown in past years.

A special election was held by the Fraternity to fill the vacant office of Vice-President. Francis Healey '56 was elected to this post.

"If the Collegian would push a clothing drive, especially for warm winter clothes, I'm sure La Salle will be able to relieve some of the misery," Schaefer said.

STAG NIGHT, NOV. 4th, AT LIEDERTAFEL HALL

The arrangements for the Annual Stag Night have been completed with the Liedertafel Hall being sited for the much looked-for annual affair. This social event, which will be held on Friday November 4th, will feature such attractions as refreshments, sandwiches, card and dart games, and an atmosphere that will be enjoyable to all those attending.

Tom Thorpe '57, chairman for the affair, is expecting a good turnout and has announced that tickets are available to all students and their friends. Using past stag affairs as a criterion, this event will be heartily welcomed by the Evening Division student body and their many friends.

The Liedertafel Saengerbund Hall, located at 3647 N. Sixth St., is easily reached by public transportation through such routes as 56, 53, 50, and 47. Facilities for cars are also available along Sixth St., Erie Ave., and Venango St.

The tickets for the affair, priced at $1.50, are available at both ends of College Hall, and the committee has requested that they be purchased in advance, although some will be available at the door of the hall.

Free sandwiches have been added to the list of attractions for this year's affair, and will be provided in ample quantity for those attending.

Many of the men of the Evening Division look forward to an opportunity to acquaint their friends with La Salle, and the Stag Night is an excellent way of doing so. It offers them a chance to mingle socially with their fellow students and the instructors, to talk over old times and new ones, and to become more acquainted with the social aspect of the Evening Division.

Last year's affair was highlighted with films of the La Salle Championship Basketball team, and topped-off with the presentation of a package of "Cheer" to the lucky ticket holder. Similarities can be expected at this year's affair.

Remember, men, this is YOUR night, so be sure to make the most of it. Ask any of the men who have attended past affairs and they will tell you of the good time had by all; they are our best medium of publicity and they always go home looking forward to the next stag affair. Remember, the time is Friday night November 4th, the place—Liedertafel Saengerbund Hall, 6th St. below Erie Ave., the price is $1.50, food and refreshments included in the price of the ticket. Bring your friends.

OBJECTIVES OF THE EVE DIV. AND THE STUDENT BODY

By BROTHER G. PAUL, F.S.C.

The two preceding articles of this series stated the Purposes and Objectives of the Evening Division and the relationship between the Objectives and the Program which is now in effect. The present article will discuss the Objectives in relation to the character of the Student Body which is now in attendance.

The Objectives of the College and the Program of Studies which provides the means of achieving these Objectives must be evaluated in terms of their effectiveness in attracting applicants and in serving the needs of the Students who are admitted to the Institution. This relationship between the Objectives of the Evening Division and the constituency which it serves can be demonstrated.

Because La Salle College is located in a large metropolitan community in which extensive industrial and commercial activities are carried on, its Evening Division is in a position to serve the members of the community who are employed in these activities and those who are motivated to seek a higher education.

As evidence that the Evening Division can and is serving its constituency, the following information is presented.

1. In a period of ten years, the student body has grown from its initial enrollment of 44 to the current enrollment of 1450. The students who have entered the College have been the principal source of recruitment of new students through their recommendations to relatives, friends, and fellow employees.

2. The present student body consists of employees from more than 350 business and industrial concerns. Although statistics can not be compiled accurately, there is definite evidence, gained from interviews with applicants, that employers favor attendance in the Evening Division.

3. In 1954, sixty-three per cent of the students indicated that their employers gave positive encouragement for the furtherance of their education. In twenty-nine per cent of these cases encouragement took the form of financial assistance by means of tuition refunds.

The Program of the Evening Division is directed primarily towards mature students. The relationship between this objective and the present student body is evidenced by the following data, and by means of a student questionnaire which was circulated during the Fall Term 1954.

1. Only ten per cent of the student body entered the Evening Division directly from high school.

2. The distribution of the age of the students, determined at the time of entrance into the Evening Division, ranged from 17 to 50 years, the average age at entrance was 25.5 years.

3. The distribution of the number of years which elapsed between the completion of high school and the beginning of college ranged from 2 months to 23 years. The average elapsed time was 6.7 years.

The reasons given by the students for not entering college at the time of completing high school are listed below in the order of decreasing frequency. Some students gave more than one reason.

1. They desired to enter college, but their parents were not economically able to send them.

2. They did not appreciate the value of a college education.

3. They were drafted or decided to enter military service.

4. They could not reach a decision concerning the type of college program of studies they wanted to follow.

5. They desired to attend college, but personal or family problems other than financial interfered.

To test further the relationship the objectives and the student body, the reasons for applying for admission to the Evening Division were determined from the results of the above questionnaire. These reasons are arranged in the order of decreasing frequency based upon the four most important reasons given by each student.

1. To improve the opportunities for securing positions of responsibility.

2. To obtain a broader education, including subjects of a cultural nature as well as specialized subjects.

3. To be better educated regardless of economic advantages.

4. To secure a college degree which is a necessary condition for advancement in employment.

The final article of this series will provide evidence of the growth of the students in the direction of the Objectives during their Program of Studies.

Men of Science Meet To Form E. D. Assoc.; Membership Swells

By JERRY END

On Tuesday, October 18, a meeting was held in room C-214 for those members of the student body interested in the formation of an on campus science club. Walt Lance '57, Student Congress Treasurer, served as moderator; and Jim Smith '57, activities organizer for the Student Congress, told the group the purposes and objectives of student organizations.

Purposes Outlined

Since this the first attempt at forming a science club, the members felt that it would be necessary to outline basic principles and objectives. A committee was formed for this reason, and to insure equal representation between both the chemistry majors and the electronics majors who make up this club. The purposes of this club is the furtherance of the Evening Division as a technical school, the fostering of interest in the scientific field, and the keeping abreast with industrial developments and the developments of other schools.

Along with the objectives committee, a constitution committee was formed. This committee will form a constitution, select a club moderator, and outline activities. The members of this committee are: Tom Doherty '60, Tom Durkin '56, Jerry End '61, Morris Gottesman '60, Ed Kerns '59, Bill Laybourn '59, Bill Schobert '57, and Jack Stevenson '60.

Brother G. Paul, Dean of the Evening Division, stopped in to offer his best wishes to the group. Brother Paul commended the men for the interest that they were taking in their studies. He also suggested the possibility of affiliation with a national group, after they receive official stature.

The meeting was very well attended by the members of the science classes, and those students interested in science. Everyone was very optimistic about the future of the club, and looked forward to the next meeting, which will be announced.

Have You Met:

WALTER C. LANCE

By MANUS CONWAY

This week we take great pleasure in introducing to the members of the Evening Division, another of the goodly number of students from North Catholic High School who endow La Salle College with their scholarship and indefatigable industry, Walter C. Lance '57.

Walt began his scholastic career at St. Veronica's Parochial School and, although he is now a member of St. Stephen's Parish, is still active in the C.Y.O. at St. Veronica's. After finishing grade school, Walt spent the required number of years being molded in that foundry of men, North Catholic. Upon his graduation in 1952 he decided to continue his education and thus matriculated at La Salle Evening Division the following September.

Although Walt is majoring in Industrial Management, he is employed in the Cost Accounting Department of The American Pulley Co. and has taken extra accounting courses in order to bolster his opportunities for advancement there.

Since coming to La Salle our neatly attired Mr. Lance has been most active in student affairs. He was elected representative to those Student Congress in both terms of last year and at present is treasurer of the Student Congress. As chairman of the Malvern Retreat of 1955 he was responsible for its unprecedented success; he also served on the committee of The Spring Dance of 1955. Walt is currently devoting his leisure time to promoting the formation of a science society on the Evening Division Campus. He and his associates in this venture have already secured the required approval and scheduled an organizational meeting. Therefore, by the time this article goes to press the new science society should be a reality.

Walt hopes to graduate in the Spring of 1957 and states that although there are several possible positions that look attractive to him, he will let time and opportunity decide his immediate future. We know that with his ability and zeal, he will make the most of the intervening months and help to create his own opportunities. Prosit!

SAM Meets

On Thursday night, October 20, the Society for the Advancement of Management held their second organizational meeting of the year. The meeting was very well attended, a membership of over twenty-five turning out to hear the President of the Day School S.A.M. on the organization and function of the Society.

Elections were held, and Al Banning, previously a student in the Day School, now attending the Evening Division, was elected to the office of Vice-President. This was the only office that was vacant. All other officers were elected at the beginning of the year.

Plans were formulated for an active program of speaker meetings and plant tours. The attending students displayed their enthusiasm, by making application for student membership in the senior chapter.

Powerhouse Swimming Team

This year I am of the opinion that the script will have a different ending with the Explorer's regaining their previously lost Philadelphia swimming diadem. The Joe Kirk coached squad from a powerful aggregation of swimmers from last year's varsity and frosh teams. All I can say is, "Watch out Temple, Villanova, Loyola, Penn. . . ." when Buz Kohler, Mitch Sukalski, Jim Sheehan, Ernie Gash, Paul Misura, et. al. splash open the 1955 season with ten consecutive dual meet victories on the line.

During that season of the year when a young man's fancy turns. . . thoughts are also given to crew, a major sport at La Salle with a big-time coach at the reigns, in the person of Tom (Bear) Curran. Since "Big Tom" took the coaching duties, he has developed some of the finest crews in the country, with his hard work culminating in four national championships.

Salle College Glee Club and the "Four Stags," an alumni singing group from La Salle. Those who have never heard the Glee Club before will have a special treat in store for them.

According to Peter A. Pino, General Chairman of the dance, the advance sale indicates that this year's affair should prove to be the most successful in its twenty-three year history.

All money received from the dance are donated in behalf of the entire student body to the Brother's Noviate in Ammendale, Maryland. The funds are used by them for the education of further Christian Brothers. This has been an annual custom of the Student Council and this year's officers hope to send the largest check ever given as the result of the yearly affair. So even though the aide deadline has passed, don't hesitate to make donations if you can't go.

and Delaware Counties, and in Chester, Wilmington, and Camden. All that one (who cannot bring the clothing directly to the College) need do is contact the nearest of these headquarters and their donations will be collected.

Committee Organized

On campus a Clothing Drive Committee has been organized, which pledges to wheedle every possible piece of unused clothing from its present owner and start it on its way across the "big pond." Chairman John Lombard, President of the Student Council leads an aggressive group of students including Robert Freisen, President of the Residence Hall's Council; Peter A. Pino, President of the NFCCS; Frank Montague, President of the Executive Board of the Student Council; Jesse Atkins, President of the Caisson Club; and Alexander Butrym, Editor-in-Chief of the Collegian. Meanwhile, Ed Larkin, President of the Evening Division Congress, will swing into action at night.

Students Finance Venture

All the financing of the transportation must be done by the present student body of the College in conjunction with the administration's generous offer to match every penny of the students. Shipments must not be allowed to bog down because of lack of funds. In this matter we may take a cue from the inspiring offers of local business establishments which have picked up the ball as though their salvation depended on it.

Business Firms Respond

In the matter of packaging, the Connolly Container Corporation has offered as many 30" x 15" x 12" cartons as can be filled. These cartons will be printed with the slogan, "Person to Person," and Bob Schaefer's address in Korea. Seemingly unable to do enough, they are also supplying stacks of bubble gum in each container.

In order to assure the clothing's arrival in first-class condition, the Vogel-Ritt Company has come to the fore with an offer to supply all the moth and cellulose crystals necessary.

Prompt Shipping Assured

Jack Ferguson of the Lavino Shipping Company will handle all the export declarations gratis, while the Pennsylvania Railroad has graciously waived its "top portage" charge, a fee collected on all goods arriving at their railroad piers other than by rail.

All the clothing will be shipped from Philadelphia via NYK Lines, a line which operates here through the Lavino Shipping Company. The first shipment will leave on November 7 on board the Arima, whose return voyage will take from 36 to 38 days. It is hoped to have at least 400 cubic feet of clothing—about 188 cartons—in Korea by Christmas.

"La Salle, Korea"

An orphanage in Korea, which has been selected by our military alumni and designated as "La Salle, Korea," will get the first crack at this clothing, with the rest to be delivered directly to the other destitute of the area. Schaefer's local commanding officer, Brig. Gen. P. H. Draper, Jr., is already behind the drive, as is Maj. Gen. Caraway, the Seventh Division Commander.

Drive Dates Set

Campus dates will be October 31 through November 4, while a mobile pick-up will be in operation on Saturday and Sunday, November 5 and 6, respectively.

So from here on in, it's "hands across the sea." "Operation: Person to Person" rolls along in high gear. Let's all get behind it and give with our hearts—not for that selfish, "warm glow of satisfaction," but for the love of God and our little homeless brothers across the sea . . . "I was homeless, and you gave Me shelter; I was naked, and you clothed Me . . ."

WHAT'S THIS?

For solution, see paragraph below.

A FLIGHT OF IMAGINATION prompted the Doodle above—it's titled: Flying saucer with Lucky-smoking crew. But it's a down-to-earth fact that Luckies taste better than any other cigarettes—and for down-to-earth reasons. First of all, Lucky Strike means fine tobacco. Then, that light, mild tobacco is toasted to taste even better . . . cleaner, fresher, smoother. So, "Glurg shrldu!" (In saucer language, that means, "For taste that's out of this world, light up a Lucky!")
