

Community college grads successful at 4-year schools

Students who attend Illinois public community colleges and then transfer to a four-year college or university in Illinois are successful, according to a statewide study of transfer students conducted by the staff of the Illinois Community College Board starting in the fall of 1973 and concluding in the spring of 1976.

Students are successful both in being able to remain in college to achieve a baccalaureate degree and also in achieving a relatively high grade point average (GPA).

The study was based on information obtained for 10,504 students who transferred from Illinois public community colleges to 24 different four-year colleges and universities in the fall of 1973. Of these students 88 percent remained in college after one year. After two full years, 60 percent were still enrolled and 22 percent of the students had obtained a bachelor's degree. The majority (59 percent) of community college students who transferred did so before completing two full years at a community college.

The study indicated that approximately one in five students who transferred was a freshman at the time of transfer. Therefore, all transfer students cannot be expected to obtain a bachelor's degree in two academic years after transfer.

The average grade of transferring students from community colleges was 2.8 GPA (almost a "B" average). After one year, the GPA showed a slight drop to 2.6 and then after two years returned to 2.8. According to the study, the 2.8 GPA after two full years was above the national average for community college transfer students.

Two out of three students attending Illinois public community colleges do not expect to transfer. They are enrolled in vocational / technical programs or general studies programs which are intended to terminate at the community college. However, the students who do transfer do so with little difficulty and with little or no loss of credit. This is primarily the result of statewide articulation agreements worked out in advance between the community colleges and the four-year institutions.

While community colleges have an "open door" policy so that any individual may enroll in the colleges, those students anticipating transferring to a four-year institution to complete the bachelor's degree are expected to meet regular admissions requirements of a four-year institution.

Canteen must go by contract, lower prices

by Dan Slack

Members of the Canteen Corporation were confronted at a meeting last Tuesday by staff and students of Parkland College.

Don Moran, business manager of Parkland, explained that the purpose of the meeting was to provide better food service for the faculty, staff and students of Parkland College.

Canteen representatives were called upon to answer questions about the poor quality, low quantity and improper preparation of hot food served through the mobile unit at lunch-time. Other queries were into serving hours, variance of prices from those agreed to in the signed annual contract, and methods and effectiveness of pest control.

The specific complaints seemed to center on Canteen's inflation of prices, especially in the vending machines. According to the current contract, candy bars are to sell for 20 cents and mints for 15 cents. Current machine prices are 25 cents for candy and 20 cents for mints.

Canteen explained the differences by citing different methods of preparation, different wholesalers of their supplies, and inflation not counted on when the contract was signed. They have agreed, however, to return the prices to contract rates.

The next food service meeting will be October 11 at 11 a.m. in Room L158.

New budget OK'd by Board; salaries and benefits are 70%

The Parkland College Board of Trustees approved its $11.4 million budget for the 1977-78 fiscal year at last Wednesday night's meeting.

The budget includes $6,253,382 in education fund expenditures and $1,921,055 in the building and maintenance fund expenditures, for a total operating fund budget of $8,174,437.

These figures represent increases of $721,900 over last year ($440,000 for education, $281,900 for building).

Salaries and benefits make up 70 per cent of the total operating budget. A $150,000 contingency provision was also approved, $50,000 from the building fund and $100,000 from the education fund.

The new budget calls for a tax levy of $4,320,000, meaning local property owners can again expect to be paying about 29 cents per $100 assessed value, the same as last fiscal year.

Although the working cash fund levy of eight cents has been dropped, the seven cent increase approved by voters in the February 15 referendum makes up almost all the difference.

The 15 cent education fund levy represents about half of the assessment, with another 10 cents going to buildings and maintenance and 4.2 cents for the bond and interest fund.

In other business, President William Staerkel reported that enrollment seems to have leveled off at Parkland this year. A tenth-day total of 6,645 students has registered this year, just a few more than last year's registration.

However, the Full Time Equivalency figure, derived by dividing the total number of hours by 15, was down to 3608 hours from last year's 3634 hours. It is this figure, rather than actual number of students, that determines the funds granted from the state and through student activities.

This year's budget was figured with an FTE of 3400 hours, however, so funding increases by a net gain of 234 students, meaning more money is available for student activities than was originally planned.

Staerkel also announced a new night security policy for Parkland. As soon as barricades are available, they will be used to block the four entrances of Parkland every night from midnight to 6 a.m. He also noted that lights have been installed at the Mattis Avnu / Dodds Park entrance to the campus.

Discussion was heard on a proposed exit from Interstate 74 on Mattis Avenue, which would provide easier access to Parkland for students approaching the campus from a north-south direction.

The Board approved contracts for two new instructors. Ann Lindstrom, Rantoul, is a graduate of the University of Iowa and will be a nursing instructor. She has taught pediatrics at the U. of Iowa College of Nursing and has worked as a staff nurse in both pediatric surgery and child psychiatry at the U. of Iowa Hospital.

Denise Young, who received her M.S.

degree from Illinois State University, is a counseling associate from Alton, Illinois.

The Board accepted the resignation of former Assistant Dean of Continuing Education Phil Walker, effective August 25. Walker left his post at Parkland to resume his studies in law.

In other business, a full-time maintenance person will be hired by the school to monitor the boilers, air-conditioners and other internal environment effectors. The maintenance person will also handle numerous repairs around campus, in hopes of cutting down on the number of outside calls to plumbing and heating establishments.

The Board approved an updated version of the college Policies and Procedures Manual, the comprehensive volume which provides rules for all facets of running the school, and heard a report from instructional coordinator in business Bill Byers about course offerings in the Business Division.

Student Activity Day (Sept. 21st) brought a big burst of recreation, music, and food consumption to Parkland.

At noontime—leaving the usual snack area behind—one could step into the sunshine and encounter a whole new world saturated with high-calorie foods.

My first meeting was with the Italian Beef booth, sponsored by the Ski Club, and specializing in the Alp sandwich for brave and fearless souls.

Next to it was the Recreation Club's booth with both of Baskin Robbins' flavors. On their side, was the Law Enforcement Club's Lemonade Stand (some miscreant said there weren't enough lemons but the charge didn't hold water).

Walking down the Peppermint Lane one encountered all kinds of goodies such as brownies, cup-cakes, and heavenly body buttons (put out by aspiring members of the Astronomy Club).

Also, a large number of the sweet things were being sold by sweet smiling majors in Therapeutic Recreation and Veterinary Technology (that reminds me, I didn't see any dogs on the premises).

Regardless, if you wanted a cold drink, the dental assistants sold Pepsi (the Uncola has not yet responded); and, if you wanted a warm drink, the Baha'i sold coffee and tea.

And if you wanted volleyball and frisbee, you had to lay down your food and step into the center arena where a net and players were bouncing and zinging.

If you wanted music, all you had to do was listen (one teacher closed his window after his books began to bounce).

The musicians were down in the valley, on an entertainment van, with lots of electronic equipment. Their audience was up on the hill, and the soul-stirring rhythms were all-over.

The music helped keep beat with the zinging frisbees and the pleasant high-calorie ingestions.

Women's theatre group to perform

by Evelyn Basile

The act of rape is not merely an act of sexual aggression or a "social" problem, but an established custom in every male dominated society. "Raped: A Woman's Look at Bertolt Brecht's 'The Exception and the Rule'" focuses on the political aspects of rape in the surreal witticism of Brecht's "epic theatre" style.

Arranged in conjunction with Women Against Rape (W.A.R.) and the Parkland Convocations Board, "At the Foot of the Mountain," a seven member feminist theatre troupe from Minneapolis, will present their Brechtian adaptation on Tuesday, October 4, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the College Center.

"Raped" opened to sell-out houses in July 1976 and made such awareness stimulating impressions on audiences that the play re-opened in October 1976 and has subsequently been made a part of the collective's repertoire.

Director Phyllis Jane Wagner began her career after receiving her doctorate in theatre from the University of Denver as a producer and director of several small theater companies in Colorado and Maine. She spent three years as an assistant professor and chairperson of the Directing Program at Southern Illinois University where she directed Lane Bateman's "Lying in State," which toured Washington's Kennedy Center as winner of the 1974 American College Theater Festival. Wagner also directed Megan Terry's "The Tommy Allen Show" and theatre troupe member Martha Boesing's "River Journal," "Pimp," and "Raped."

Boesing, one of the founders of "At the Foot of the Mountain," compiled most of the information for "Raped," adapted from Susan Brownmiller's Against Our Will, Studs Terkel's Working, Ms. Magazine, Eldridge Cleaver's Soul on Ice, and Mirra Komarovsky's Blue Collar Marriage. In addition to performing in the work, she is playwright for the company's work-in-progress, "The Story of A Mother." Her newest scripts include "Love Song for An Amazon," "Mad Emma (Emma Goldman)," and "The Moon Tree."

"Raped" does not deal with a fragile perception of sexual violation.

Dancer to appear

Dancer Margaret Beals will present an informal performance and discussion of her work on Monday, October 3, at 10 a.m. and Thursday, October 6, at noon in the Parkland College Student Center. She will also present a formal concert on Friday, October 7.

The presentations are part of a week of performing and teaching for Ms. Beals in the Champaign-Urbana area. Her residency is sponsored by Affiliate Artist, Inc.; the Central Illinois Cultural Affairs Consortium; Parkland College Student Convocations; and the University of Illinois Music Extension Department.

Her performance involves modern dance to the accompaniment of recited poetry and/or contemporary music. Beals is artistic director and performing member of the Impulses Company, an improvisational dance company which she established. She has appeared with the companies of Jose Limon, Valier Bettis, and Jean Erdman, and was for two years a member of the Lucas Hoving Company. Beals is especially known for her creation of dance speaking roles.

During her week in residence, Beals will be performing for Parkland students, members of the Champaign-Urbana Girls' Club, Samedancers, and National Academy of the Arts students.

Cleveland Amory, author, critic, animal welfare advocate and former review for TV Guide, will speak at the Auditorium on the University of Illinois campus on Monday evening (October 3) at 8 o'clock.

Amory, who has caused a furor in many circles with his recent book Man Kind?, will be speaking on topics relating to animal welfare. Cost of admission is 75 cents (children under 12 for 50 cents).

There will be a reception and autograph party from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. at McKinley Foundation, 809 South 5th St., Champaign, before the talk. The public is invited to attend.

Both the reception and talk are sponsored by local groups Fund for Animals and People for Animals.

Harry's brother a hit

Johnson, Chapin charm large Auditorium crowd

by Dan Slack

Last Tuesday's concert at the U. of I. Auditorium featured guitarist / singer Michael Johnson and singer / guitarist / brother Tom Chapin. The enthusiastic crowd of 900 applauded and cheered every selection.

Michael Johnson, former member of The Mitchell Trio and a legend around Champaign-Urbana since his debut album "There Is a Breeze" five years ago, led off the program. He started with "The Gypsy in the Photograph," a song from his latest album, "For All You Mad Musicians."

He joked with the audience throughout his 45-minute set, and played such songs as "Cain's Blood," "Troubled for You," and "The Good Life." Johnson moved fluidly and fluently through several types of music, showing equal talent in folk, jazz, classical and Latin rhythm songs.

A well-deserved ovation at his set's conclusion brought him back onstage for an encore of George Harrison's "Here Comes the Sun."

Several people were heard to remark at intermission what a tough act Johnson was to follow, but they shouldn't have worried. Tom Chapin received a standing ovation before he even sang one note. As Tom said to the jubilant crowd, "Champaign is a Chapin town," referring to the reception that he and his brother Harry always receive here.

During his long set, Tom played many requests from the audience, and many times he invited the audience to join in singing his songs. Very few in attendance didn't know the words.

His two most requested songs, "Make a Wish" and "Circle," were saved for his encores.

In an interview after the show, Tom discussed his brother Harry.

"Harry and I have no feud," Tom said. "As my brother, I'm happy for his success. It hasn't affected my ability to perform."

He was asked about a family joke that Harry has pulled on him his last two appearances in Champaign. Tom has now twice had to tolerate a whole audience standing and shouting, "One, two, three, Tom, Harry says it sucks," when he's walked out on stage.

"Harry does things like that whenever we play the same town," Tom explained. The first time, when all the people stood up when I walked on stage, it really threw me. And when they all shouted, I didn't know what to think."

Someone asked Tom, since he had recently appeared on the children's television program "Make a Wish," what he would want to be.

"What word? I guess it would be 'bird,' to be free to be able to get up and fly wherever, whenever."

Poet, playwright and philosopher Langston Hughes is the subject of a talk to be given tomorrow at noon in C118 by Dr. Richard Barksdale, biographer of Hughes. The title of the program is "Jazz, Blues and Langston Hughes."

Health topics start Tuesday

Health-related programs on a wide variety of subjects are being planned by the Parkland College Center for Health Information. All residents of Community College District 505 are invited to attend these programs, which will be free of charge. Programs will be presented in Room L143 of Parkland.

Hypertension is the subject of the first program to be presented on Tuesday, October 4, from 7-9 p.m. Dr. Paul F. Barton of Christie Clinic will be the featured speaker. High Blood Pressure, a film by the American Heart Association, will be shown. Time will be provided for questions from those attending.

On October 18 and 26, "Health Concerns of Women" will be presented in cooperation with the Parkland College Women's Program.

"Personal Relationships and Sexuality of the Long-Living" will be the program topic on October 25 and November 1. Speakers will be: Scout Glenn, Department of Leisure Studies at the University of Illinois; Clover Gowing, Department of Health and Safety Education at the U. of I.; and Kathy McGill, Champaign County Mental Health Center. This presentation also will involve the Program for the Long-Living at Parkland.

Other program topics are weight control, arthritis, health concerns of men, cardio-pulmonary resuscitation, and alcoholism.

Any resident of Community College District 505 is invited to attend the programs, which will be free of charge. Those planning to attend are requested to register, if possible, by calling the Center at 351-2334.

Most convenient parking is in parking lot A-1. Enter the east door north of the circle drive area. Evening transportation to Parkland is available on the Mass Transit District buses.

IM football to start Tuesday at Centennial

By Tim Wells

Parkland men and women's intramural football teams head for the gridiron next week.

The season starts Oct. 4 and continues through the month with games played during college hour (11:30 to 12:30 p.m.) and after school (3:30 to 4:30 p.m.) every Tuesday.

The women's league consists of two teams and will compete at Parkland. The men's league has five teams vying for the IM Championship and will play its games at Centennial Park.

Seven-person touch football, which is the game the IM teams will play, differs from regular football in several respects:

1. Play is stopped when the ball carrier is touched anywhere by a defending player.
2. All seven offensive players are eligible pass receivers.
3. If a ball is fumbled it is ruled dead and placed where it landed. Play resumes with that spot as the new line of scrimmage.
4. The game is played for four ten-minute quarters. A game ending in a tie will call for a "sudden-death" playoff. The ball will be placed at the ten-yard line and a team has four plays to score. The opposing team then gets a chance to score from the other ten-yard line.
5. The field is 60 yards long by 40 yards wide and is divided into three 20-yard zones. Each zone represents a new first down. (Thus, plays of "first and 19" or "first and 1" are both possible).

Teams are allowed 15 minutes after scheduled kickoff to field a team of seven players. If the players are not ready at that time, the game will be a forfeit victory for their opponents.

The games will be played on a round-robin basis, and a playoff is scheduled at the season's end.

To play on a team or help with officiating, call Mr. Abbuehl in P123.

Personals

Do you realize it costs me NOTHING... I mean absolutely nothing to put this message in the Personals column of Prospectus?? That's because I'm a Parkland student and I filled out a Classified Advertising Order at the Prospectus office. How about it, gang. Surely you can do better than some of these things I have to make up every week.

Hey M.B.—You rode her in how many states???

Hi-No Thyristor

Hey Big Doctor—How 'bout finding something useful for the Wyatt Earps of the Security Force to do. "OK".

Ike Clanton

If you're between the ages of fourteen and twenty-one, and are finding that trying to make it on the streets is a lot of work, why don't you call us—where helping you is our business—the Survival Skills Program. Give us a call at 359-4006, or come on down to our office at 118 1/2 N. Neil, Champaign.

Personals

Dear Big Jim:
How are you? Keep up the good work. But, hey—you better start recruiting FAST. We are running out of chauvinists. I mean... real hard-core chauvinists... like you. Three cheers for chauvinism.

Sometimes they make you smile or frown.

Sometimes we put them upside down.

Sometimes they run just slightly askew

But Prospectus Personals are just for you.

Cathy and Kathy:
Some people never Yahtzee. "Cuddles"

WHAT???

3 cheers for what ?!?!? Love one another. Treat each other, one and all, as equals. PEACE & LOVE ALWAYS.

Holland wins Freddy

Tim Holland is this week's winner among a record number of entrants in the Fast Freddy Football Forecast contest.

Holland was one of nine contestants who correctly selected 10 of 12 winners, but his tie-breaker score was closest. Holland predicted that Michigan would defeat Navy 12-7. The actual score was 14-7 in favor of the top-ranked Wolverines.

None of the other contestants predicted such a close outcome. Two, Martin Kenny and Torrence Reed, actually selected the Navy to win. Others who picked 10 of 12 games but were off on the tie-breaker score included: Jim Corley, Bill Pulcini, Monte Cleary, Scott Carlson, Danette Howarter, and Doug Bennett. Pulcini gave Michigan the largest margin of victory, picking Bo Schembechler's boys to win 60-6.

In all, 125 people entered this week, setting a record for the five-year old contest.

Most entrants had difficulty with the UCLA-Minnesota game, won by the Gophers 27-14; the Miami of Ohio - Indiana, won by Miami 21-20; and the Texas A&M - Texas Tech battle. Texas A&M emerged in Lubbock, 33-17.

Entrants were divided on the outcome of the Ohio State-Oklahoma game and the Illinois-Stanford battle. Oklahoma's Ewe von Schamann left Woody Hayes throwing equipment and swinging at student managers with his closing-seconds field goal, 29-28, in Columbus, while Illinois spotted Stanford a big lead before beginning to roll in a 37-24 loss.

The Illini should get back on the winning track this week against Syracuse. The Orangemen don't have a Jim Brown . . . or an Ernie Davis . . . or a Jim Nance . . . or a Larry Csonka . . . or a Floyd Little, anymore.

Other scores from last week's games include: Notre Dame 31, Purdue 24; Michigan State 34, Wyoming 16; North Carolina 41, Northwestern 7; Arizona 41, Iowa 7; Wisconsin 22, Oregon 10; Penn State 27, Maryland 9; and Kansas State 21, Wichita State 14.

Tennis meeting is tomorrow

Persons interested in helping organize a competitive tennis program at Parkland are urged to attend a second meeting, at noon tomorrow (Sept. 29), in P104.

The second meeting has been called because of low turnout for the prior meeting.

All who cannot attend should contact Tim Wulf in P124 or call 351-2297.

X-Country team finishes sixth: Sugar Grove

by Greg Adams

Parkland's Cross Country team finished 6th in the 15 school Chief's Invitational at Sugar Grove last Saturday. The Cobra trackmen scored 151 points, finishing well behind victorious Danville Junior College, which took the team title with 72 points.

Greg Adams finished second in individual timing with a 27:22, just behind first-place finisher John Isbell of Spoon River and his 27:10. Al Larson also cracked the top ten with his sixth place finish in 27:41.

Cobra runners Mike Stallmeyer (43rd, 30:57), Thom Uhlir (47th, 31:05) and Don Mercer (59th, 32:44) completed the good performance.

Coach LaBadie said he was impressed with the improvement shown by his runners in just a week's time.

Cobras place 14th in Lincoln Trail Golf Invitational

by Ken Hartman

Parkland placed 14th in the Lincoln Trail Invitational golf tournament held at the Quail Creek Country Club at Robinson, the former site of the Robinson Open on the PGA golf tour.

Elgin won the team title with a 310 total, one shot better than Lake County, while host school Lincoln Trail placed third at 313.

Don Martin of Joliet was medalist for the day, shooting a three-under-par 69. Doug Klumpp of Vincennes was second with a 71, and Rick Lima of Elgin and Scott Shelton of Lincoln Trail tied for third.

Brian McGill paced Parkland with a 78. Dave Sunderland fired an 82, Ken Hartman 87, Chris O'Dea 95, and Jerry Lange 106.

The Cobras finished ninth in the Danville Invitational golf tournament this past weekend.

The tournament was won by Lincoln Trail with a two-day total of 598, 17 shots ahead of runner-up Illinois Central at 615.

Parkland will have a dual meet Friday at Lake Land before going to the Joliet Invitational on Oct. 7-8.
