

International Student Day

International students send invitation to PC

By Alina Rubio

The International Students Organization invites you to our first presentation of our culture on Feb. 21, at Parkland College.

Latin American students have been working with a lot of enthusiasm to show how we live.

From Latin countries we have Colombia, Mexico, Peru, Bolivia and Venezuela with a lot of attractive and interesting things. We show our location, maps, population and all the information related to the physical landscape of the country.

To show the culture, Colombia has photographs, posters, monetary systems and clothes.

From Mexico, we have delicious food plus a lot of typical things from the country.

Peru brings us primitive Indian instruments, clothes and pictures from the magnificent Machupichu.

Venezuela takes place in the organization with an art exhibition by a native Venezuelan, Nancy Urosa. There is going to be food, musical instruments, records, posters, slides, clothes and from all of us, a lot of happy faces and wishes for you to enjoy our first encounter.

The president of the International Student Organization and his fellow members cordially invite the students of Parkland College and the staff to the International Students Day exhibition that will take place today in the college center from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The purpose of this day is not only to portray our various rich cultures to the college, but to give Americans at Parkland the chance to get to know us and ask us questions about our countries.

Recent events all the more go to prove that this world is a small place and major happenings outside the United States can affect this country. So till NASA can find us a new place to live, we the people of the world have to make this place a better place to live. We believe that this day will really provide an opportunity for us to know each other.

There will be five major groups participating in the exhibition. They are: African, Asian, German Club, Latin American and Middle Eastern.

The various groups will have textiles, arts, crafts, music, pictures and slides. There will also be food to whet the appetites of the audience.

I hope the day will provide the occasion all of us have been waiting for to find all we want to know about each other.

Thank You
Ahmad Korna

The Arab World has been misunderstood by Americans for a long time because of stereotypes and wrong ideas made by the Zionism and Imperialism.

On Wed., Feb. 21, we Arabs students at Parkland are going to show you, the American students, who we really are. Come and see our old, homemade costumes, taste our food and learn about our culture.

Arabs lead the world for centuries and the fact that we are know fighting to protect our land and freedom does not mean that we are dead. We are still alive and coming very soon after a great victory to give our useful hands to the whole world.

After all, we are all brothers and sisters.

Krannert plays start Feb. 21

Two plays headline the events at Krannert Center for the end of this week.

The plays, Harold Pinter's "The Collection," directed by Richard Lichte, and "Interview," from Jean-Claude van Itallie's "America, Hurrah," directed by Kevin Dooley, will be Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 21-22 at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Feb. 23-24 at 7 and 9:30 p.m. and Sunday, Feb. 25 at 3 p.m. in the Studio Theatre.

The scholarship is in memory of Ray Johnson, an AMBUC member. Parkland College president, William Staerkel, left, accepted the plaque on which names of the scholarship recipients will be displayed. Keith Batt, center, is the first recipient of the scholarship. Next to him is AMBUC president, John Opolka.

Astronomy Club goes on trip

While many students and faculty have spent their spare time this winter dreaming of escape to warmer climes, members of Parkland's Astronomy Club have been dreaming of and preparing for a trip to the still more frigid land of North Dakota. Early next week, weather conditions permitting, they will see their dreams fulfilled—a view of the last solar eclipse in North America for the next 38 years.

A solar eclipse is the blocking out of the sun's light as the moon passes between the earth and the sun. Although on Mon., Feb. 26, the sun will be eighty percent covered for Champaign observers, the view is not nearly as spectacular as that seen in the narrow belt of totality which stretches from Portland, Oregon, across northwest North Dakota, and into Manitoba, Canada.

During the total portion of the eclipse, which lasts only 2 and a half minutes, the sky will darken so much that planets and stars will become visible to the unaided eye and Wildlife will begin to settle down for the "night."

Members of the club, Tim Brown, Forrest Worstell, Rene Woodside, Steve McDonald, Jay

Jorgensen, Debi Fox, George Briggs, Gina Harms and Martha Hedges have been preparing for the eclipse since their first meeting last fall. They plan to photograph the eclipse and to conduct observations of weather phenomena associated with it.

For Parkland students and faculty, a telescope with at solar filter will be set up near the fountain north of the college center to provide a safe view of the partially eclipsed sun. It will be set up from about 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., Mon., Feb. 26. Maximum will occur at 10:49.

The Astronomy Club advises that looking at the eclipse without adequate eye protection can cause severe and permanent damage to the eye.

Life workshop coming

The Parkland College Women's Program has scheduled The Second Annual Lifespan Planning Workshop for Women for the weekend of March 9-10.

The Lifespan Planning Workshop gives women of all ages the opportunity to reflect on and evaluate personal goals, needs and abilities in order to facilitate meaningful decision-making throughout life.

Exercises and activities led by trained facilitators will take place in small groups of 8-10 women. Participants may share ideas and experiences with other women in the process of evaluation and formulation of goals.

Dr. Helen Farmer, counseling psychologist and specialist in women's careers, will make a special presentation during lunch on Saturday.

The workshop will take place in the College Center. Session I will be on Fri., March 9, from 6:30-9:30 p.m. and Session II will be on Sat., March 10, from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. Participants must register for both sessions. A $10 fee per participant covers both sessions and includes coffee, doughnuts and Saturday lunch.

PC campus to be part of museum exhibit

Parkland College has been notified by the Museum of Modern Art that its campus will be included in the Museum's exhibit "Transformations in Modern Architecture" scheduled to open on Feb. 21 in New York City.

The exhibit, a collection of photographs of outstanding 20th Century architecture, will be taken on tour in the United States and Europe following its New York showing.

In addition to Parkland, the exhibit will also include Foothill

College in Los Altos Hills, California. Both of these campuses were designed by Earnest J. Kump Associates of Palo Alto, California. The Parkland campus, in addition to its distinctive exterior design, is housed under one roof and contains numerous other unusual features.

The exhibition has been possible through the support of The Graham Foundation for Advanced Studies in the Fine Arts, the PPG Industries Foundation, and The National Endowment for the Arts.

Energy course offered

Parkland College is offering a one credit hour course on energy conservation for the Illinois home beginning March 27.

Class participants will make a step-by-step analysis of their own home or apartment in an attempt to spot areas deserving of attention if energy costs are to be reduced. This includes small details as well as large items.

The class, GSD 640, meets on Tuesday evenings for eight weeks beginning March 27 from 6:30-8:30 p.m. in M-132 at Parkland. The tuition fee is $17.

Registration on campus for part-time students is on March 14 and 15 from 5-8 p.m.

Blood drive

The next blood drive at Parkland College will be on Feb. 28 at 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. in X-117.

Students and faculty wanting to donate blood can call the college nurse at ext. 369 or come to X-202.

Persons are eligible to give blood every eight weeks.

Parkland's 'brothers' enter contest

By Terri Anderson

Excitement, fun and money—especially the money, were enough incentive to prompt two Parkland students to enter a Blues Brothers look-a-like contest recently.

Brain "Augie" Henry, alias Joliet Jake Blues and Les Hall, alias Elwood Blues were two of the 14 contestants that took part in the contest at Panama Reds. The "brothers" took second place in the contest.

"Les and I went all out on this," Henry said. They heard about the contest on the radio and in one day had their Blues Brothers attire collected.

"We figured if you're going to do it," Henry recalled. "Do it right."

Doing it right involved finding the proper attire that makes the Blues Brothers so distinct and intriguing and making personal sacrifices by having to shave their mustaches off. Henry found his replica of the Blues Brothers, Ray-Bans No. 5022-615 sunglasses at Osco Drugs. "I got my shirt from my granddad and the rest of the stuff (wing-tipped shoes, black narrow tie, Fedora hat and black suit) was found here, there, and round abouts," he said.

Hall improvised of his costume. "I had an Army tie taken in and used that," he revealed. "The funniest part was going to Ben-

Franklin and buying toy handcuffs and sunglasses."

Henry is an adamant fan of the Blues Brothers. "I think the Blues Brothers put together a good band. You cannot dismiss the act as a joke or parody," he said. "I know one thing, a lot of people enjoy it."

Henry recites Joliet Jake Blues's lyrics with perfection but says, "I don't sing the Blues, but I frequently get the Blues."

Hall, on the other hand, was not attuned to the Blues Brothers until the contest. Now he says, "They're both good musicians, they have talent." When Hall saw the Blues Brothers make their debut on Saturday Night Live, he thought it was another skit Joliet Jake (John Belushi) and Elwood (Dan Aykroyd) had rigged up.

Not knowing if the real Blues Brothers were for real, made Hall suspicious of the whole look-a-like contest ordeal right up till the contest started.

"I more or less did it on a dare," he said. "I thought they (Henry and "brothers" manager, John Whalen) were nuts. Then I told Augie I'd do it if he couldn't find anyone else."

Even one day spent gathering his costume and stage props could not fully convince Hall that he was entering a legitimate contest. "I thought it was a gag. I didn't believe there was really a contest until I saw the sign at Reds," he said.

Hall and Henry were the first contestants to arrive at Panama Reds the night of the contest. "When we walked in, we were the only Blues Brothers there and everyone started clapping," Henry said. "It was really great."

The instant recognition and adulation over came Henry and he signed the contest entry forms, "Joliet Jake and Elwood Blues."

The contest judge was not humored and made the "brothers" reveal their true identity.

Judging was done souly on the bases of looks. According to Henry, a few of the contestants broke out in their version of "Soul Man." Some contestants tried a cartwheel a-la Belushi but no one else smoked Chesterfields like Henry's Joliet Jake or carried a briefcase with a stenciled in BLUES on the top like Hall's Elwood Blues.

Still, the "brothers" are satisfied with their second place winnings. "We made a $30 haul between us," Henry figures. "That's not too bad."

Not only were the winnings satisfying but the experience of performing in front of an audience for the first time has made the "brothers" real hams.

"Maybe next time," Hall said. "We'll enter the Gong Show."

The Blues Brothers of Parkland College, Les Hall (Elwood) and Brian "Augie" Henry (Joliet Jake) placed second in a look-alike contest at Panama Reds.

Computer used for first time

By Tori Wagner

Parkland's computer department is on its own now—but it has not been easy.

Parkland began using a computer system located at the Bank of Illinois for registration in the summer semester of 1977.

The new computer system, installed in December in B-116 at Parkland, was used this semester for the first time. Jo Davis, head of administration, says that the system is working out very well and has increased the efficiency of registration. Students who registered early could add and drop classes right away instead of having to wait until the late registration period.

However, the generator, which controls the power of the system, burned out on the afternoon of the third day of registration.

The breakdown caused few delays for students but made extra work for administrators according to Davis.

PCA represents Parkland faculty

Students of Parkland College have Stu-go to represent them to the administration, and the Parkland faculty have the Parkland College Association, (P.C.A.)

It is the faculty's bargaining, policy-making body led by this year's president, Kevin Northup. The P.C.A.'s members are the entire faculty of Parkland.

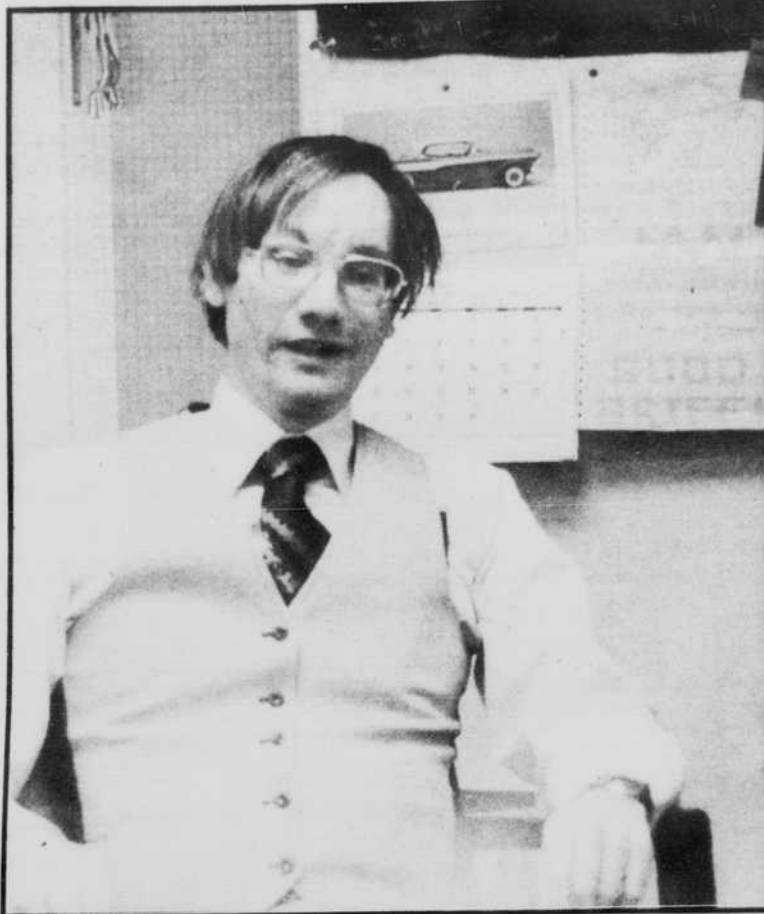

The current officers this year that assist PCA president Northup are vice-president, Bill Frase; secretary, Juanita Gammon; treasurer, Ann Nealy.

The P.C.A. contains many sub-committees that serve the college on a whole. One such committee is a baby-sitting service, which is trying to set up an all-day service so mothers will not have to take their children into the classrooms. Another committee is working with the food services and another is trying to set up a word processing program.

The two main committees of the association are the Salary and Arrangements Committee, headed by Chuck Beetz, and the Professional Affairs Committee, headed by LaVerne McFadden. Although in past years, these committees were separate, this year it was decided to make them into a joint committee with Chuck Beetz heading it.

The functions of the Load-Cost Analysis Committee, the joint committee, is to study the cost factor and the workload of the area. They study Parkland and ten other schools for these factors.

The P.C.A. also has a Senate which represents every organization of the college. It has representatives from the faculty, administration, Stu-go, Non-Acts (secretaries, maintenance, etc.), and the part-time faculty. Although it is composed of 80 percent faculty members, each person has some kind of representation in the Senate.

The Senate meets the third Tuesday of each month. They take members' suggestions and recommendations and refer these to the administration. Northup says it is unusual for the administration to disregard a Senate recommendation.

Two weeks before the Senate meets, the Senate Council, made up of all the officers and chairmen, meet and discuss the next agenda, new ideas, and complaints.

Northup has found that being the president of the P.C.A. and its Senate has been a "very rewarding experience" and has given him insight into the problems that the administration and the college president, William Staerkal have to face day after day.

PC to host B-ball tourney

Parkland College will host the Region IV NJCAA Women's Basketball Tournament on Thurs., Fri. and Sat., March 1-3. The eight competing teams will be determined on Feb. 23-24 in sectional play-offs elsewhere in the state.

The winner of the regional tournament at Parkland will advance to the National Tournament at Johnson Community College in Overland Park, Kansas, March 12-17. Second and third place teams will also be decided at the regional contest.

Games begin at 2 p.m. on Thurs., March 1, and are scheduled at 2-hour intervals Thursday through 8 p.m. The winners of those quarter-finals will compete again on Fri., March 2, in two games scheduled for 6 and 8 p.m. Championship and third place titles will be decided at 8 p.m. and 6 p.m. respectively, on Sat. March 3.

Ms. Lynette Trout, women's basketball coach at Parkland, looks for the competition at the Region IV tournament to be "close and tough. There are some exceptional teams this year," she said.

Wait a Minute . . . Lois Geshwlin goes after a loose ball during Tuesday night's game with Kankakee as Theresa VanHoveln also reacts to the bouncing wonder. Parkland lost 45-37 to the Cavaliers despite the double digit scoring of Natalie Franklin and Julee Arthur.

Divorce rate keeps rising; one million annual divorces

Soap operas and neighborhood rumors to the contrary, everybody in the U.S. is not getting divorced—it only seems that way.

And with good reason, reports the American Council of Life Insurance. More than a million marriages are expected to go on the rocks this year and the divorce rate continues to rise.

U.S. Bureau of Census data show there are more than 8 million divorced (and not remarried) Americans, all part of a divorce rate which has nearly tripled in the past 25 years.

It has reached the point where it is the usual American who remains untouched by divorce, making the U.S. the country with the highest divorce rate in the industrialized world. Australia and Russia follow.

Dr. Jarle Brors, president of the National Institute of Marriage and Family, explained the phenomenon to the Council this way:

"Today, if you are not yourself divorced, you probably have someone in the family—brother, sister, son, daughter, parents who have been divorced—or closefriends who have been through a divorce."

Why the continued break-ups?" "Disappointments are the key factors for most divorces," Dr. Brors said. "All too often people enter marriage without knowing about it—thinking it will solve all their problems. When this does not happen, few couples know how to hold a failing marriage together, and fewer still have the tolerance to keep a problem marriage going."

He said the fact that people are living longer was one reason for divorces. Marriages, in many cases, may be lasting too long.

In 1900, for example, life expectancy averaged about 47 years.

Today, on the average a man can expect to live to age 69, a woman to age 77.

"What's happening today, I believe," Dr. Brors said. "Is that many people are simply getting tired of each other."

One bright spot is that authorities note a trend in America to marry later—rather than as teenagers—and feel this may reduce the number of divorces.

But should you consider divorce, the Council advises that if you own any life insurance, hold onto it.

You do not have to leave the benefits to your divorced spouse unless the court orders you to do so. This means you can usually change it in favor of your children or other family members, the Council points out. And if you remarry you can usually make your new spouse your beneficiary.

DO YOU WANT TO FLY?

Face it . . . you've always wanted to fly! Many of us have had the feeling . . . and for some it has never gone away.

If you have that feeling, then you're in luck. Air Force ROTC Flight Instruction Program (FIP) is available to you. It's designed to teach you the basics of flight through flying lessons in small aircraft at a civilian operated flying school.

The program is an EXTRA for cadets who can qualify to become Air Force pilots through Air Force ROTC. Taken during the senior year in college, FIP is the first step for the cadet who is going on to Air Force jet pilot training after graduation.

This is all reserved for the cadet who wants to get his life off the ground . . . with Air Force silver pilot wings. Check it out today.

Women Cobras out for revenge

By Pete Rosenbery

Despite an overall record of 3-17 for the year, don't be surprised if you see Parkland's women's basketball team advance during the sectionals at Mattoon later this week.

Bouyed by the scoring strength of Natalie Franklin and Julee Arthur, the Cobras may be starting their big push after a hard-fought, 65-60 loss at the hands of a tough Danville squad Monday afternoon.

The Cobras will be out looking for revenge against DJC Friday night when the rematch will take place in the semi-finals of the Sectional Tournament at Mattoon.

Despite the loss, Parkland played some good basketball in spurts, fighting off a 16-11 deficit with 12:35 remaining in the first half to go up by six, 22-16 on Julee Arthur's three point play. Danville fought back to take a 30-26 lead at half, but Parkland caught back to tie the score at 41-41 on another layup by Arthur.

Danville went up 56-50 with 5:27 remaining in the game on the Tammy Bohlen free throw, but again the Cobras fought back to tie the score at 60 with 1:37 remaining when Ann Scouffas made both ends of a one and one.

After a Danville turnover five seconds later, Parkland had a chance to go ahead for the first time since the first half but failed when the Cobras themselves committed a very costly turnover. Donna LaPointe put Danville ahead to stay however six seconds later when she canned a shot from 13 feet, sending Danville into a 62-60 lead. Vickie Beasley stole an errant Julee Arthur pass and then herself committed a turnover as Parkland was again given a chance for points. Parkland again failed to score and Beasley hit the front end of a one and bonus with 13 seconds remaining. Beasley also canned the final two points for

Sectionals are coming

In two days, the Cobra basketball team will play their first game of the Section VII tournament against Lincoln Trail at 7 p.m. in the Cobra gym.

If Parkland should win Friday, and Danville should win their game later that night, the third Parkland-Danville showdown in two weeks will take place. And if Monday's 88-86 double-overtime Danville over Parkland win wasn't exciting enough for you, or if revenge is in your heart, it might be a good idea to check out the tournament action this weekend.

On Monday, the Cobras and Jaguars had the crowd on the edge of their seats as both teams missed their chances to end the game earlier.

"Our effort was good," said coach Tom Cooper, "We had chances to put them away a number of times throughout the game."

One chance came near the end of the first overtime and the Cobras had the ball with the score tied 82-82. Parkland was looking for the open shot and Robert Sangster, who was making 25-30 footers look easy all night, shot the ball out of a crowd from the corner, but was too long and an attempt by Rodney Davis off the rebound also missed.

In regulation play, after a jump ball was controlled by Danville, DJC called a time out with two seconds on the clock. After the timeout, Danville found an open Mike Schunik on the inbounds, but his two-footer bounced off the rim and time ran out with the score 76-66.

In the first overtime, the services of Terry Turner's hot shooting were lost when he fouled out with 2:50 remaining. Turner scored 23 points, most of which came in the second half.

In the last over-time, PC found themselves down by as much as four before making a last effort bid and getting within two when Anthony King tried in the last seconds with a shot from the key and the ball bounced back and Davis grabbed it in the air and shot, but also missed—and the game was over.

Parkland is now 17-7 overall and 4-4 in the conference. Gary Rucks scored 15 and Sangster 22 in the Danville contest. Danville was led by Morris Smith with 24 and Kendal Cobb with 21.

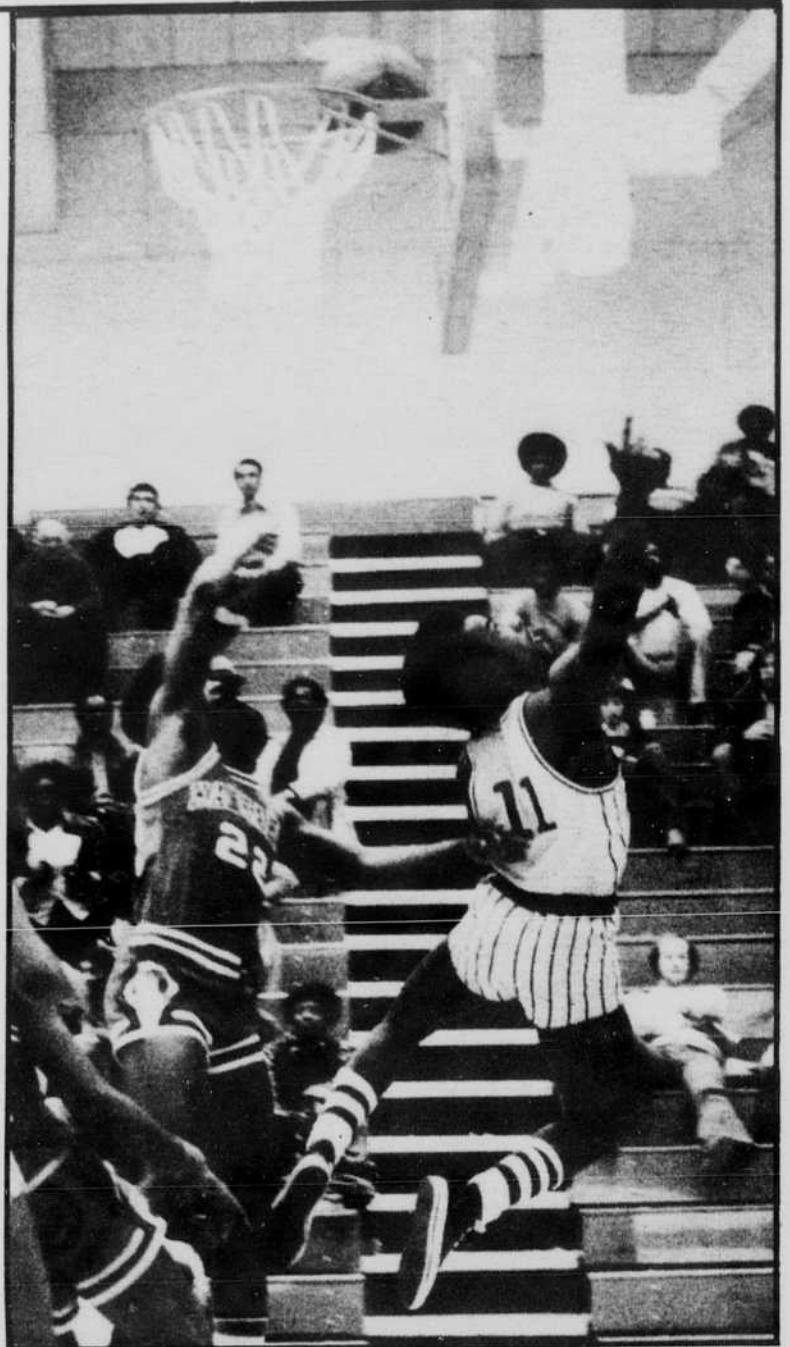

After all that excitement, Coach Cooper is hoping the worst is behind and the tournament this weekend will be a bit more relaxing.

"I thought we played a good game," commented Cobra coach Lynette Trout after the loss. "Bohlen hurt us with her rebounding and scoring. We had a chance to tie but I thought Dana (Bowler) took a good shot since we couldn't get the ball inside. They (Danville) continued Trout, "were looking for us to get the ball inside to Natalie and were clogging up the middle."

Tammy Bohlen was the leading scorer for DJC with 17 points, followed by Donna LaPointe and Kelly Burt who each contributed 12. The Cobras leading scorer was Natalie Franklin, who popped in 24 points while Julee Arthur also hit double figures with 15. Other scoring for Parkland included Ann Scouffas with nine points and Dana Bowyer and Trudy Lorenzen who each scored six points.

The basketball team had a winning streak of six games going into the Danville game Monday

In Lincoln Land, Parkland won 91-70, but the score was tied 57-57 at 12:37. Lincoln Land dressed only seven players because of injuries, and with about three minutes left in the game the third Logger fouled out leaving only four.

Parkland coach Tom Cooper also played with four and when another Logger fouled out at 1:12, Cooper reduced his number to three and the game finished.

Gary Rucks took high scoring honors with 20 points. Anthony King and Terry Turner each added 17. Lincoln Land's Gary Seaton had 18 to lead his team.

The night before, the Cobras played a laugher against Kaskaskia, winning 112-87. Behind a total team attack, led by Terry Turner's hot shooting, Parkland jumped to a 25-10 lead that spread to 44-16 before the starters sat down to rest. Kaskaskia closed the lead down to 65-42 before the half.

In the second half, Parkland had leads of up to 37 points. Five Cobras were in double figures, led by Turner's 22 and Ruck's 18. Turner also grabbed 10 rebounds. Kaskaskia's Denton Brasel had 29 points and 18 rebounds.

Finally, the Cobras defeated Kankakee on Tuesday, 95-75. Rodney Davis was the leader in that game, scoring 23 points and getting seven rebounds. Rucks had 18 points and 7 rebounds, while Turner scored 15 and rebounded 10. Robert Sangster also had 18 points for the Cobra victory.

ville this year and coach Trout relied on an old tale in predicting what might happen when the two teams meet Friday night. "I hope everyone gets inspired for Friday," Trout finalized, and I also hope that the third time is a charm."

Parkland didn't find two games last week quite as charming as the Cobras lost to Kankakee 45-37 Tuesday night and followed with a hard-fought 72-70 overtime setback to the hands of Lincoln Land on Logger's Cathy Rawlings pair of free throws with two seconds remaining.

Parkland received double digit scoring from Julee Arthur and Natalie Franklin in the Kankakee contest, with Arthur scoring 13 followed by Franklin's 12.

In the Logger contest Thursday night, Dana Bowyer hit for 21 points, followed by Franklin with 20 and Arthur with 13.
