

Changes to start the 80s

by Sherry Ehmen

The addition of athletic fields and a student lounge, changes in food service, and a variety of other alterations are in store for Parkland in the spring of 1980, along with preparations for the new decade.

Plans for several athletic fields at Parkland have been underway for some time, and it looks as though the fields will be completed this spring, according to William Staerkel, Parkland College president. Among them is one of the finest all-weather 400 meter running tracks in the state, which will be used for the first time this spring by Parkland students and high school students in the neighboring area.

Jogging enthusiasts are not the only ones who will be satisfied, for this spring brings the completion of six tennis courts, a baseball diamond, an archery range, a driving range, and even bleachers. Previously, Parkland students involved in many outdoor athletics have had to use university or city park facilities. Staerkel says the addition of these fields at Parkland will alleviate transportation problems for these students, and at the same time will provide high school students and many others with easy access to such sports.

Soon to be under way is the remodeling of the lower west entrance to the gym. This will take care of flooding problems during heavy rains, and at the same time, an elevator and a student lounge will be added to this area. Handicapped students will no longer have to go outside and around on the sidewalks to reach the gym from the locker rooms, and students will have a place near the gym to sit and wait for classes. Staerkel says these changes should be completed in April.

Definite decisions about Parkland's food service will be made early this year, and Staerkel says the big question is whether to move the existing snack bar to a new and better location, or to expand it where it is and make changes to provide better service. Other food services besides Canteen Corporation will be equally considered to begin a new contract with Parkland.

Looking ahead into the 80's, Staerkel feels that the main concern will be declining enrollment in all higher education, for the first time in many years. The number of graduating high school seniors is gradually decreasing, and many colleges are facing financial difficulties as a result. Staerkel feels, however, that Parkland will not suffer the burden of most colleges, primarily because of its location. He says that enrollments at the University of Illinois will not decrease because it is the "premiere educational institute of the state." Since Parkland receives much of the overflow from the university, enrollment figures will decrease some, but probably not enough to make a substantial difference. So far, enrollment at Parkland is running substantially ahead of last year's figures at this time.

Again looking ahead, the Parkland College Foundation will become a force working in behalf of the college, says Staerkel. There are plans for the early 1980's of building a theater and a planetarium for the college.

Staerkel sees more improvement in the 80's, an addition of another six tennis courts, and possibly night lighting for the athletic fields. A relief for most students, Staerkel sees no tuition increase in the immediate future.

The Mattis-Bradley intersection is slated for reconstruction this summer, according to an announcement released last week by state and local officials. According to present plans left-hand turn lanes will be added to facilitate rush-hour traffic flow. Hopefully the construction will be completed before the fall semester. The announcement also hinted that arrival of new signal equipment might be delayed.

Board of Trustees meeting listed

The Parkland College Board of Trustees, at their regular monthly meeting, awarded a bid for remodeling the physical education facility's west lower entrance. C. A. Petry and Sons were given the general contract for $86,000, Sprinkle Plumbing and Heating, Inc. received the mechanical contract for $17,925, and Downtown Electric was low bidder for electrical work at $12,514. Work to enclose the area, which will upon completion provide for a lounge area for the facility as well as an elevator for use by handicapped students, will begin immediately and could be concluded by late spring.

President's Report

As the college entered its second day of registration, enrollment was running about 500 students ahead of last year at this time and the overall indication is that the college can expect spring semester enrollment statistics to be comparable to this fall's.

Dr. Staerkel informed the Board that previous Board action had included a provision that when the Internal Revenue Service upped its 17c per mile allowance for use of a personal vehicle for business, the college would increase its allowance accordingly. So as of January 21, the college will pay 18.5 cents per mile.

Parkland will be the site on Jan. 26 and 27 for the Cardio Pulmonary Resuscitation (C.P.R.) telethon sponsored by the Lions Clubs. WCIA-Channel 3 has shot video footage of college programs which will be part of the telethon, which begins at 7 p.m. on Jan. 26 and concludes at 3 p.m. on the 27th.

The regional trustees meeting is to be at Parkland on Monday, Jan. 28. The program will include a panel discussion of the role of the student trustees.

Nominating Petitions to be Filed in March

Persons interested in running for the Parkland College Board of Trustees election on April 12 can pick up petitions from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Parkland in R233 beginning Feb. 27. Petitions are due March 21.

Personnel Report Approved

The Board approved the personnel report which included the resignation of H. Dean Adams, an automotive instructor.

The Board adjourned to view the registration process in the College Center.

College hosts Telethon

The Lions Club of Illinois and WCIA, Channel 3 are sponsoring the fourth annual Lions Club CPR telethon. The event will start at 7 p.m., Jan. 26, in Parkland College. The telethon will last 20 hours.

Morey Amsterdam (Buddy on the Dick VanDyke Show) will host the telethon. Local talent includes Pork and the Havana Ducks, The Cate Sisters, and blues singer Jeanne Trevor.

Darrel Blue, producer of the telethon stated that there was no real goal set, but that they hope to raise more money than last year. The 1979 telethon raised $70,000.

Assistant Dean of Public Relations at Parkland Ed Kelly stated that reasons for having the telethon at Parkland were that there is more space at the College than at WCIA-TV. Also for talent and the cities involved with the show, Parkland is more accessible.

Those who would like to see the telethon in person are welcome. The show will take place in the lobby across from X117.

Bad weather stations to tune to

In the event of bad weather, effort will be made to keep the College open. Borderline decisions are resolved in favor of holding classes.

Records were made to be broken

Alpine skiing in Illinois can be dangerous

by Broc Bell

I was ready for the challenge of Alpine skiing when I heard the radio announcer say we had received four new inches of snow last night. The snowfall for the last two weeks now totaled over eighteen inches. I could see myself schussing down Route 130 on my way to work in Champaign. But it was early morning now, and breakfast came first.

For breakfast I ate what almost all Alpine skiers eat. I had two cherry-flavored coffee rolls and two cups of coffee with a generous amount of sugar. The sugar was for the extra energy I really needed near the end of the race when I put forth that final burst of speed.

I had to take great pains in preparation for today's run. I checked my equipment. I had my boots snugged on good and tight. My skis were in excellent condition. They were four Michelin radial skis, the best skis ever made. The poles were ready. I had checked the left brake pole and the right accelerator pole last night before I went to bed. I felt I had a good chance at the world's record today, but I had to watch out for that treacherous Route 130.

It was one of the toughest courses I had run all year. It had several potholes and icy slick spots which made it a real challenge for the Alpine skiing connoisseur. It also had several large trees along its border that would cause immediate cardiac arrest to an unaware, inexperienced Alpine skier should he venture off course.

The time came to start the race. I kissed my wife goodbye and told her I would be home as soon as I could after I won the race. I had my strategy all mapped out. I accelerated immediately from the starting line in front of my house. My Volkswagen Bug was handling beautifully and the Michelin radial skis were gliding along smoothly as I approached the first turn.

The turn was a sharp hairpin turn not more than 90 feet from my house. I came up on it much too fast. I hit my left brake pole to slow down and turned the skis sharply, sliding around the corner in a smooth, flowing motion. Once around the turn, I accelerated again to gather up speed for the next part of the course.

Now came an open downhill portion. My speed kept increasing till I finally reached sixty miles an hour. The gates passed by me leaving a picture of blurriness as if taken by a camera out of focus. When I flicked a backwards glance, I saw a beautiful trail behind me like the tail of a wintry comet. Everything was going fine. I could tell I would have a good time today if I could maintain my speed. I had only one more section to go through before the race would be over. But that one section was the roughest of all.

It was the slalom section from rough Route 130 to terrible Route 45. I approached it very recklessly. I knew I had to keep my speed up if I were going to win. I knew I had to keep my speed up if I were going to win. I whizzed by one sign post that read six more miles to Champaign. I was relieved to know I was getting that close.

My relief was short-lived, for I saw over to the right a fellow skier stuck in a snowy embankment. I had to be alert for any unusual bumps in the road that might send me off like him into a snow bank. Onward I went pushing myself to the limit. Three more miles to Champaign a sign read as I sped past it. Again I saw a stranded skier, off to my left this time, in a culvert. He looked like an Eskimo trying to get into his igloo. The snow had buried half of his car but his back skis were still visible. I stifled a grin. I was almost to the end of the race.

But the inevitable happened as I looked down the course one mile to the finish line. I hit some snow covered object along the trail. My right front ski went flat. I came to a halt after braking hard about fifty yards from the finish line. No world's record today. No Wheaties commercial. Just one disappointed Alpine skier.

SIU-C to have Guest Day

Southern Illinois University at Carbondale will have their annual transfer guest day from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. on Feb. 9.

The purpose of the guest day is to provide an opportunity to visit the campus and obtain specific information about the University for college students who are anticipating transferring.

Registration opens at 9 a.m. in the International Lounge of the Student Center. An opening session in the auditorium followed by two other sessions consisting of discussions on housing, health service, financial assistance, career planning and academic programs will precede lunch.

A session on transfer information and the closing session of one-the-spot admission will follow lunch.

For additional information, write Debbie Perry, Program Director, School/College Relations Division, Office of Admissions and Records, SIU, Carbondale, IL 62901, or call 618-453-4381 (or 800-642-3531 toll free within Illinois).

Five weeks of travel and study in Spain available in the summer

Each year for five weeks of the summer, a program is offered to students in the U.S. and Canada to travel and study in Spain.

Last summer, 100 students from 25 states, Canada and Puerto Rico departed from Kennedy Airport in New York and flew to Madrid. The students met five days a week at the Ciudad Universitaria de Madrid and courses ranged from Elementary Spanish to Literature and Culture. Students toured La Mancha for two days, visiting places related to Cervantes and Don Quixote. Sixty students made a four day tour to Santiago de Compostel and Leon.

As part of the program, a trip was taken to Southern Spain, visiting famous cities as Cordoba, Sevilla, Granada, Malaga, and two days were spent in Torremolinos Beach.

Plans are already in progress for the 16th Summer School Program in Spain 1980. Students may earn 9 quarter college credits.

All college credits should write to Dr. Doreste, Augustana College, Rock Island, Ill. 61201 as soon as possible. Space is very limited.

U. of I. visitation set for Feb. 8

Visitation day will be Feb. 8 for community college students and others planning to transfer to the U. of I.

The program for the day is sponsored by nine colleges and schools of the university: agriculture, applied life studies, aviation, communications, education, engineering, fine and applied arts, liberal arts and sciences, and social work.

Plans for the 11th annual Transfer Student Visitation Day were announced by Professor J. Kent Mitchell, assistant dean of engineering and chairman of the planning committee.

Information has been sent to 43 community colleges and 32 affiliated colleges. Potential transfer students, faculty and counselors are invited.

Registration begins at 9 a.m. in the Union. Chancellor John E. Cribbet will welcome the visitors in a general session at 10 a.m. General information will be presented and questions answered and the Transfer Student Association will discuss campus life at the University.

At 1:15 p.m., meetings will be held by individual colleges and schools to discuss transfer procedures, and from 2:30 to 4 p.m. students may visit colleges and departments to talk with faculty and former transfer students.

Campus Question

Do you think the Americans should boycott the Moscow Olympics?

One of the main issues brought to light by the Soviet Union's invasion of Afghanistan is whether the United States should attend the summer Olympic Games in Moscow. President Carter and many members of Congress believe that if the U.S. attended the Olympics this summer, the U.S. would be condoning the Russians' activity in Afghanistan. However, there are many other people, especially American athletes, who believe that politics and athletics should be kept separate. They also state that it wouldn't be fair to the athletes to deprive them from competing.

Although the Carter administration's initial threat was to boycott the Olympic Games, the idea of moving the location to another country has received more support with other western countries. Canada's Prime Minister Joe Clark was one of the first to make this suggestion and Great Britain's Prime Minister Thatcher has also supported the move. However, there are still a number of countries which will not boycott, even if the United States does, primarily because they are worried about the future of the Olympic Games.

The consensus of the Parkland students we asked was that the U.S. should not boycott the Moscow Olympics Games. The reasons given were that politics and athletics should be kept separate; that it isn't fair to the athletes, who have spent much time training for the games, and that even though we may disapprove of the Russians' actions, we should not let that interfere with an event that is supposed to represent the coming together of people in peaceful competition. The students who supported the boycott felt that the U.S. should not let Russians benefit from the Olympics Games, or that it could lead to further political problems. There were a couple of students who felt that the games should be moved to another country. One student came up with an outstanding comment: "I don't think we should boycott the Moscow Olympics. I think we should send over a flock of chickens to Moscow and move the Olympics to Mars where politics will not be an issue." What more needs to be said?

Becky Dawkins — No, they shouldn't. Politics and athletics should be kept separate. I don't think it would do much good unless other countries go along. It would also deprive a lot of people from viewing American athletes competing.

Robert Wells — Yes, for the simple fact that we need some retaliatory action against the Russians. We shouldn't allow them to push us around. We would just be playing into the Russians' hands if we were to attend.

Laura Hastings — I don't think it will do any good. All the other countries would still be there. Unless other countries boycott it, it won't do any good.

Chuck Buckler — No, Definitely not. Because the kids worked hard to get there. The Olympics shouldn't be used as a political playground.

October. The report, chaired by Shawnee Community College President Loren Klaus, was highly complimentary of Parkland's programs, staff and facilities. The Illinois Community College Trustees Association has developed an informational packet for legislators which explains the needs of community colleges in regard to legislation which will come before the legislature this year and throughout the 80's. In particular, it explains the new method of financing for community colleges.

Word Watch Topic of Program Report

Sally Wallace, English instructor, reported on her sabbatical leave during which she wrote and produced fifteen, 5-minute public affairs programs for radio on English usage. Six radio stations have or are currently using the programs entitled "Word Watch." Wallace is also the author of "Practically Painless English."

Meeting Time Adjusted

The Board moved to establish 7 p.m. as the time for Board meetings until April at which time they will return to an 8 p.m. beginning.

Personnel Report

The Board accepted the resignation of Dave Peterson, electronics instructor, and Forrest Danner, automotive mechanics instructor. The Board approved a new salary schedule for non-academic employees effective in January. A high turnover rate among beginning employees precipitated a study, which showed Parkland salaries to be low in comparison to other pay scales within the community. The new schedule is expected to improve the situation.

Viva Margarita, Viva Sangria!

Tuesday night is "South of the Border Night" at the Manhattan restaurant. It's a night full of Mexican Entrées, Drink Specials, Sombroeroed Waiters and Waitresses, Mexican background music, and complimentary Tortilla Chips and Spicy Tomato Dip.

Every Tuesday night when you order one of our Mexican Entrées, Mexican Burgers, or Mexican Snacks, you'll have your choice of Manhattan's Margarita or our freshly blended Sangria wine for an incredibly low Ten Pesos (50¢).

Of course our "South of the Border" entrées and dips are available every night, but on Tuesdays we make an extra effort to stretch your hard earned Pesos.

At 10, our kitchen closes, but the fun goes on. You can order Manhattan's Margaritas and Sangria for just Twenty Pesos (one buck).

On any day, but especially Tuesdays, journey "South of the Border" to the Manhattan restaurant. (Passports not necessary).

A New Decade. A New Building.

A New Bank for You.

It's a new decade and Champaign County Bank and Trust Company is greeting it in style, with a new bank building for you. In the near future our service people will be setting up shop in a brand new building that's as modern and efficient as science can make it.

This move will mean new convenience for you, because we'll be able to expand our operations and provide you with more and better services than ever before. For instance, there's our new 8 lane drive-in facility that lets you bank quickly from the comfort of your car, without spending a lot of time waiting in line. Our new building also features loads of free parking so there's no need to worry about finding a parking space.

Of course, we've retained the innovations that earned us the name the Innovators.

- Cash Kard 24-hour automatic teller.
- Plus Check, a prearranged loan program that lets you write a check for more than you have in your account.
- A complete Farm Department.
- A professionally staffed Trust Department.
- Bank-by-Mail.
- And many more.

And we've still got the friendly service people who know how to make banking fast and convenient for you.

Welcome in the new decade with a trip to your new bank. Champaign County Bank and Trust Company. Now under construction at Main and Broadway in Urbana.

Play in the band

The Parkland College Community Bands are encouraging high school and university students and community persons to participate in the concert or jazz bands during spring semester.

The Concert Band, NCR 582, will continue to meet every Thursday in room C148 at 7 p.m. Parkland can furnish any percussion instrument needed and a few brass and woodwind instruments are also available. No fee is charged to play in the band, and there are no auditions or age requirements. Interested persons may complete registration at the first rehearsal attended.

The Jazz Band rehearses every Tuesday evening in room C148 at 7 p.m. Persons interested in this group should register for MUS 146-80, a one credit hour course. The band particularly needs trombonists, but there are openings for all instruments. Both groups play for various community groups and functions. For further information, contact Erwin Hoffman, band director, at 351-2207 or 351-8350.

Medicare 7, 8 or 9 to perform

Medicare 7, 8 or 9—the University of Illinois' popular Dixieland jazz band—will swing into its second decade with two different concerts Jan. 26 and 27 (Saturday-Sunday) in the Krannert Center for the Performing Arts.

Saturday's concert will begin at 8 p.m.; Sunday's at 2 p.m.

Batik exhibit on display

A five piece batik exhibit by Canadian artist Jenny Ono will be on display at Parkland from Jan. 15 to Feb. 8. The exhibit is located in the central stairwell near the information desk.

Batik is an ancient method of adding design to fabric by means of wax applications. The artist draws a design on cloth and then traces liquid wax along the outline. When the wax is dry, the fabric is dipped in dye. The waxed portions "resist" the dye and sand out against the colored background when the wax is removed.

The exhibit is sponsored by the C-U chapter of Cultural Awareness Council Worldwide (CAC). CAC is a not-for-profit, incorporated, organization dedicated to increasing awareness and enjoyment of cultures and concepts. For further information about CAC, call 367-4791 or 367-0684.

Three courses on gardening, pests, and diseases offered

Want to learn about vegetable gardening for fun and profit, fertilizing your garden, or insects and plant diseases? Parkland College has three workshops to help you discover aspects of any or all of these topics.

"Vegetable Gardening for Fun and Profit" will explore mulching, garden planning, soil preparation, starting transplants, planting for farmer's markets and culture methods for common vegetables.

"Vertilizing Your Garden—Composting and Soil Testing" will include development of a fertilizing plan, construction of a compost pile and compost bin, and choices and uses of mulch.

"Insects and Plant Diseases in Backyard Gardens" researches common garden pests and plant diseases, how to avoid insect problems, the use of biological controls, and integrated pest management.

Two separate sections of each workshop will be offered—Thursday from 6:30-9:30 p.m. or Saturday from 9 a.m.-noon. There will be a $6 fee for each workshop.

"Vegetable Gardening" will be offered Thursday, March 6 and Saturday, March 8; "Fertilizing Your Garden," Thursday, April 3 and Saturday, April 5; and "Insects and Plant Diseases," Thursday, May 1 and Saturday, May 3.

Registration forms may be obtained by contacting the Life Science Division of Parkland College at 31-2277.

Slew of music courses available

Music lovers have a bonanza of courses available second semester at Parkland College. Among the offerings are class recorder, blue grass and old time music, and beginning piano.

Class Recorder is for anyone wishing to participate in music-making for their own pleasure individually or with others. The recorder, popular in Renaissance and Baroque periods of music, is enjoying quite a resurgence of popularity. One can begin to play the inexpensive instrument at any age and no prior music training is necessary. NCR 581 Class Recorder I will meet on Thursday evenings from 8:10-9:50 p.m. in C145. There is a $34 fee.

If one plays a stringed instrument (violin, guitar, banjo, mandolin, bass, etc.) they can improve their skill, learn traditional music and have fun playing with others in a Bluegrass and Old Time Music Workshop, NCR 509. The workshop will meet Feb. 6-May 14 on Wednesday evenings from 8:10 p.m. in C148. There is a $34 fee.

Anyone who wishes they had taken piano as a child has a second chance. Basic Piano, GSB 565, is a new course designed for those who want to begin the study of piano. After learning keyboard and notation basics, playing by ear, music reading, playing simple repertoire pieces and simple chording will be stressed. Two sections of the class are available, on Monday and Wednesday from 1-1:50 p.m. on on Thursday from 6:15-7:55 p.m. There is a $34 fee.

Students may register at the first class meeting. Late registration for all Parkland classes is scheduled for January 21-24 from 6-9 p.m. and January 21-25 from 8:30-11:30 a.m. and 1-4 p.m.

Spring semester classes begin Monday, Jan. 21.

Birthday celebration in Feb. for Susan P. Anthony features dramatic readings, and play

Susan B. Anthony, militant crusader for woman's rights, was born on Feb. 15, 1800 years ago. Designated by both the state and federal governments as a commemorative holiday, her birthday has become a traditional day of celebration within the woman's movement, a time to bring attention to the historic and continuing struggle for women's freedom and equality.

The Parkland Women's Program will celebrate Susan B. Anthony's birthday on Thursday, Feb. 14, with two special events.

A birthday party featuring a 160-candle birthday cake and dramatic readings by Parkland faculty members, Grace Millas and Mary Lee Sargent, will be held at noon in room X117 of the college.

Thursday evening at 7:30 p.m., the Victory's In Sight Players will perform a one-act play, "The Trial of Susan B. Anthony," in room C140. Written by local playwrights Cathy McGuire and Lillian Sweet, the play is based on the transcript of Anthony's trial for voting illegally in the 1872 presidential election. Action centers around the events leading to her arrest and subsequent trial. Birthday cake will be served after the performance.

The "Trial of Susan B. Anthony" was first performed in 1976 at the Champaign County Court House and again in 1979 at the McKinley Foundation. In addition to their appearance at Parkland, the Victory's In Sight Players will perform at the Governor's Mansion in Springfield, as well as in Chicago and cities throughout the state.

The public is cordially invited to attend these free events in honor of a great American "shero," Susan B. Anthony.

Prospectus makes format changes

Since the beginning of the Prospectus, when it was known as the Parkland Press, to the present day, editions, changes have been inevitable. Every year, new faces and ideas take over the organization.

The name Prospectus has been since 1969. Except for a time a few years ago when the editors wanted to change it to "The Park Bench", the name Prospectus has lived and grown along with the paper it titles.

This year, like any year, has brought about changes. The magazine type cover with the full page photo on front, which was incorporated last year, was used in the beginning of this school year and gradually changed to the standard newspaper cover that decorates the front page this year.

A radical change this semester over last semester is the columns format. The old five column page is now six column. This will allow for more editorial space, thus making the Prospectus a more readable, and hopefully interesting paper.

Another change is the style of the headline type. The new type is called Futura Bold Condensed, and it will allow for more characters in a smaller space than the old Souvenir. It also looks better.

But as experienced in the past, very little feedback is received, and usually only for when something is wrong. In an effort to make this a paper for Parkland people, the staff practically had to get the feel of the general student body by osmosis.

Is it a good paper or bad? What can be done to improve it? What does the Parkland student want to read every week? These questions are usually answered by a few students who have some complaint, but what is the overall reaction? Write, or stop by the office, to Prospectus, X-155. Anyone can help make this a better paper.

Here's just what the doctor ordered—

Prospectus offers on-campus opportunities for students to gain useful experience before that first job after graduation!

Every week YOU can contribute to our fine newspaper and at the same time be adding to your portfolio—perhaps the most important tool in your interviews.

Whatever your interests . . . writing, designing, illustrating, editing, layout, we have a job for you.

Interested? Let's get together at our next staff meeting—Thursdays at noon in X-155.

We're having growing pains . . . and YOU may be just what the doctor ordered!

Letters to the Editor

Handicapped are human

Two years ago the night before my first day of Parkland College I was worrying about what people might say or do to me. Like, would they make fun of the way I looked or dressed? Would they stop and try to be friends with me? How would they react if I were to speak in responding to a question asked by a teacher?

As I arrived that first day I didn't know where my class was. I received some help from Louise Parker at the information center. Louise directed me to C136 for English. As I was walking to my class, people stared at me as if I were something they had never seen before. I wondered what people were thinking and whispering among themselves, like, "Oh, look, there's a girl walking on crutches."

I was late for class, and the door was closed. I was afraid to open the door for fear that they might stare at me. I opened it up, and most of the students looked at me. I froze stiff. I was afraid of what they were thinking. They stopped looking as I settled in my chair.

I get nervous when a total stranger watches me. I want everyone at Parkland to know that I may look different, but I am still a human being.

Dear Editor:

While on your campus the other day, I learned that Parkland's students haven't caught on to the many benefits of using SUPRHOLDRS, which are available at your campus bookstore. Being a writer of sorts and using my typewriter a lot, I find SUPRHOLDR gets my copy up where I can read it comfortably without strain on neck, back and shoulders. It's really great for typing term papers or any kind of compositions.

As a bookholder SUPRHOLDR will support even large texts or reference books for study, and it will fit right into your briefcase for travel to the library.

While finishing off a B.A. in English at a small Michigan university after retirement at 65 as grounds superintendent, I designed SUPRHOLDR to save my own neck. Try it! You'll like it!

Very truly yours,
Ben Nutt

Article comments

Dear Editor:

I wish to comment on the December 5th issue of Prospectus, in particular, the article on Canteen's coming changes. The quote reads, "One can have a sandwich with 4 ounces of meat and buy another with one ounce of meat for his dieting girlfriend." Do only Girls diet? Come on Prospectus, I was shocked! I hope that many students comment and do not accept this ridiculous statement.

Sincerely,
C. L. Richards

Thanks from PATH

The Administration has announced, for your convenience, during the winter months, the B-4 parking lot, (nearest to the C-section entrance), and the Circle Drive will have top priority for snow and ice removal.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the Administration for their assistance. Thanks again!

WITH THIS CARD IN YOUR WALLET YOU'VE GOT THE BANK IN YOUR POCKET.

With all the other worries you have these days, we don't think your banking should be one of them. And at Champaign National, we'll do everything we can to see that it isn't.

One of the big ways we can do that is by offering you the 24-Hour Clubhouse Card or Personal Card. There's no cost, and with the 24-Hour Clubhouse you can do anything that you can with a teller...and do it faster and more privately.

So, if you need cash any time of the day or night, come to the Clubhouse! We've got a whole network of them all over town to serve you...at our Main Bank (Park & Randolph), at BankPark (Springfield & Randolph), and at BankWest (Springfield & Belmont) for cash withdrawals, deposits, loan payments or fund transfers, and for cash withdrawals only at City Bank of Champaign (on Kirby Ave. across from Uncle John's) and Market Place National Bank (on the Market Place Convenience Center Road). That's 5 locations for 24-hour service. No other C-U bank gives you that kind of convenience and continuous availability.

Another way we can simplify your banking is by offering you CheckMaster, our no-hassle checking account. With CheckMaster you don't have to worry about keeping a minimum balance. You simply pay .15 per check written, and we take care of the rest! No catches, no hidden charges. Plus we'll send you a quarterly statement with every transaction itemized.

Obviously, we don't have the space here to detail the ways that Champaign National Bank can serve you. But stop by and we'll tell you about them. The 24-Hour Clubhouse and CheckMaster...2 of the many ways in which Champaign National Bank will bend over backwards for you!

Opening available in teacher aide program

The Parkland College teacher aide program still has openings for spring semester, coordinator Mary Lou Brotherson has reported.

The one-year program certifies students to assist teachers in local and area schools. Classes are offered both day and evening, and students may enroll full or part-time.

The programs offers courses in child development, the teaching of reading and mathematics, early childhood education, and creative activities.

Other courses include working with exceptional children — those with mental, learning, and physical handicaps — and preparation and use of instructional materials. The instructional materials course could also be used by mothers, Sunday school teachers, or others who want to learn how to make bulletin boards, techniques of dry mounting and laminating, and use of audio-visual materials.

The program also offers supervised on-the-job training in local and area schools and leads to State of Illinois approval.

Job hopping causes paycheck losses

Job hopping can be hazardous to your paycheck, according to a survey of engineering graduates from the University of Illinois.

David R. Opperman, U. of I. director of engineering placement, compiled information from 308 engineering graduates of 1969 and from 347 graduates of 1974.

Paychecks of those who made one move averaged just slightly higher than those who did not, but more moves resulted in less pay, the data show.

Of those out of college 10 years, the 40 percent who had not changed jobs averaged $2,483 a month; 27 percent who made one change, $2,491; 19 percent with two changes, $2,376, and 14 percent who made three or more changes, $2,353.

Of those out of college five years, the 60 percent who had not changed jobs averaged $1,895 a month; 28 percent who made one change, $1,897; 10 percent with two changes, $1,816, and 2 percent who made three or more changes, $1,579.

Opperman found the average salary for 10-year U. of I. engineering alumni was $2,447, up 183 percent from the $866 average starting salary in 1969. The average salary for five-year alumni was $1,881, up 92 percent from the $981 average starting salary in 1974.

More than 60 percent of the reporting engineers who received bachelor's degrees from Illinois in 1969-195 of the 308—since have received advanced degrees or are working on them, and more than 50 percent of those who received degrees in 1974-177 of the 347—have received or are working on advanced degrees.

Thirty-nine percent of the 10-year alumni are employed in Illinois, as are 50 percent of the five-year alumni, Opperman said.

Best films of the 70s rated

by Mary Ellen Page, Jr.

The decade of the 70's brought about many new techniques, stories and faces in filmmaking. It was a time when the art of photography in films came of age, that is not to say that other decades were without it, but this decade had more than ever.

When making a list of this kind, a criteria must be set. In this particular list, the criteria will consist of how good the cinematography, directing, screenplay and acting were. The quality of the screenplay and acting are first and foremost. Without these the film cannot be labeled the "best."

Note: These are not listed from best to worst of the best but rather by the date they came out.

CATCH-22: Dir. Mike Nichols. (1970). The many strengths in this film were the screenplay and the cast. Taken from Joseph Hellers black comedy, Buck Henry wrote a superb screenplay supported by fine performances by Alan Arkin, Jon Voight, Bob Newhart, Tony Perkins, and Art Garfunkel.

PATTON: Dir. Franklin Schafner. (1970) George C. Scott was outstanding as the famous WW II general. Backed up by a great screenplay and music score, Patton is one of the best war movies ever made.

DELIVERANCE: Dir. John Boorman. (1972) This movie has to be one of the most exciting adventure films ever made. Never before has such a terrifying film been more beautifully photographed. With the help of a strong cast including Jon Voight, Ned Beatty, Burt Reynolds and Ronny Cox, this film also outclassed the book.

GODFATHER I and II: Dir. Francis Ford Coppola. (1972, 1974) Beautiful music, filming and acting by a fine cast including Al Pacino, James Caan, Robert Duvall, John Cazale, and Marlon Brando proved that the movie, or in this case movies, can surpass the quality of the book.

THE STING: Dir. George Roy Hill. (1973) A delightful comedy that showed when Paul Newman and Robert Redford are together they are unbeatable.

TAXI DRIVER: Dir. Martin Scorsese. (1976) With the help of an outstanding cast including Robert DeNiro and Jodi Foster, Taxi Driver is one of the most interesting psychological dramas ever made.

CHINATOWN: Dir. Roman Polanski. (1974) Jack Nicholson, Faye Dunaway, and John Huston were the real strengths in this fascinating mystery film. This movie established Polanski as a major movie maker, for a while.

THE DEER HUNTER: Dir. Michael Cimino (1978) Some of the best war scenes ever filmed appeared in this movie. Robert DeNiro gave a fine performance along with Meryl Streep, John Savage and Christopher Walken, and John Cazale.

KRAMER vs. KRAMER: Dir. Robert Benton (1979) Not only did this movie have a fine script and cast including Dustin Hoffman and Meryl Streep, it also gave viewers an honest look into the world of divorce and custody suits.

There is no possible way to name all of the good movies that were made these last ten years. But the following movies are worthy of note. Sometimes a Great Notion, starring Paul Newman, was a little known movie that deserved more credit than it was given. Other sleepers including Breaking Away, A Little Romance, The Onion Field and Bang the Drum Slowly also deserve recognition as top in the decade. Silent Running, a sci-fi story starring Bruce Dern, didn't get the box office support it needed—but it should have. Days of Heaven, 1900, Day of the Dolphin, and Jaws all deserve to be put in the category of the best along with French Connection II and Network.

Cinematography alone makes Apocalypse Now worthy of note. It may not be one of the decade's best, but it was one of the most beautiful.

Coins may value more than the silver it has

Collectors should double check the value of their coins before selling them, an international numismatic authority said.

Oscar H. Dodson, a retired professor at the U. of I. and a former president of the American Numismatic Association, said that with the price of gold and silver soaring, prices being offered for coins appear to be high in relation to their face value, but their value as a coin rather than as metal may be still higher.

He advised that before selling a coin or a collection, the owner check R. S. Yeoman's "Guidebook of U.S. Coins," available in libraries or from coin and book dealers. It explains coin grades and mint marks which, along with dates, are keys to value.

Coin collectors refer to this as "the red book." It is revised annually, and the 1980 edition contains prices based on coin auctions during the past year.

"Red book" prices are retail listings, and dealers can be expected to offer from 50 to 80 percent of the listings, depending on demand and their own stock, Dodson said.

U. of I. physicist predicts weather

Keep smiling — next year will be worse

This winter is not going to be so bad, but button up for another wicked one in 1980-81, warns a physicist at the University of Illinois.

Professor Paul Handler bases his predictions on climate sequences throughout the world, and he has a good track record for past performance.

Using statistical correlations, he has found that Midwest winters relate to the sun's heating of thousands of square miles of the Pacific Ocean off the west coast of the United States.

When the ocean there is warmed, it appears to deflect the upper atmosphere jet stream enough to bring abnormally cold weather from Canada into the interior of the United States.

Handler observed this effect during the past three winters, and especially during the first cold winter of 1976-77.

He says sunny skies again are warming the waters of the Pacific, and predicts the result will be another severe winter in the Midwest in 1980-81.

Handler correctly predicted that the winters of 1976-77, 1977-78, and 1978-79 would be colder than usual in the Midwest. He also correctly predicted that this past December would be warmer in Illinois than it was a year ago.

Next summer's weather, he says, will be about average in the Midwest. Crop yields will not be as outstanding as last summer, but will still be very good.

He has made predictions six months to a year in advance, matching up five or six points around the world that seem to predict each other's climate.

Krannert events are listed

The following is a list of Krannert events through January 26:

Wednesday (Jan. 23), 8 p.m., Great Hall. Faculty recital. Pianist Joel Shapiro playing an all-Liszt program, including the B minor Sonata and "Hexameron." Students 25 cents, public $1.25.

Saturday (Jan. 26), 8 p.m., Great Hall. Faculty recital. Violinist Theodore Arm and pianist Anne Epperson playing music by Beethoven, Prokofiev, Wieniawski and Debussy. Students 25 cents, public $1.25.

Saturday (Jan. 26), 8 p.m., and Sunday (Jan. 27), 2 p.m., Festival Theatre. Two different Dixieland concerts. Medicare 7, 8 or 9 Jazz Band, with guest artist Ron Riddle, ragtime and silent-movie pianist, performing music of the early 1900s. Students $2, public $3.

For more information call 333-6280.

Volunteers wanted to help U. of I. visually impaired students to study

Volunteers to help visually impaired students at the University of Illinois during the spring semester are needed by the Division of Rehabilitation-Education Services.

Portia R. Thomas, graduate assistant in services for the blind and deaf, said volunteers are needed to read, to record, and to transcribe into braille.

Volunteers to read or record should be available at least two hours a week, she said. Persons with general reading interests are needed, as well as persons acquainted with special fields such as law, mathematics, chemistry, computer science and business.

Reading to students may be done in the university's Rehabilitation-Education Center on Oak Street at Stadium Drive, Champaign; in the University Library, or elsewhere, with place and time arranged at the convenience of the volunteer and the student.

Recording is done at the center, with times arranged for the convenience of the reader, or may be done at home.

The center is offering two free non-credit courses:

—Braille transcribing, 7:30 to 9 p.m. Tuesdays, from Jan. 15 through April 29.

—Beginning sign language, 7:30 to 9 p.m. Mondays, from Jan. 21 through May 5.

Further information is available in Room 124 at the center: 333-4604.

Burnham accepted as pre-admission site

Burnham Hospital has been notified by Blue Cross-Blue Shield of its acceptance as a pre-admission testing site. This designation is designed to be a cost savings tool for the patient needing elective surgery.

Surgery that can be planned in advance allows a patient to plan the necessary pre-operative tests prior to being admitted to the hospital. By performing these necessary tests as an out-patient, the patient saves the costs of room charges and related hospital stay charges. Blue Cross-Blue Shield estimates that this program saves Illinois patients over $4,000,000 annually.

For patients to be eligible they must hold Blue Cross-Blue Shield insurance and plan to be admitted to a pre-admission testing program. Any Blue Cross-Blue Shield subscriber under the age of 65 and not eligible for Medicare benefits is eligible. The doctor decides when the tests will be performed usually three or four days preceding surgery. The tests are scheduled as regular out-patient procedures.

Burnham Hospital has recently extended its out-patient hours so that many of these tests can now be ordered by a physician and performed up until 9 p.m. Hours are 7:15 a.m. until 9 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Far From The Madding Crowd

Tucked away in campus-town, there lies a restaurant where time slips back, and the rush subsides. A place where fine meals are served in an informal yet classy atmosphere. The place... the Manhattan, the food... sublime. The Manhattan is a different sort of restaurant/bar.

For the family, there's a wide variety of South of the Border specialties, thick, juicy hamburgers, exquisite Deli sandwich creations, or unlimited Salad Bar treats. For the couple, out for an intimate tête-à-tête, there are snacks to munch quietly, and ice-cream drink-creations to sip lingeringly.

So escape the press of the crowd, and the boredom of humdrum restaurants. Escape to the Manhattan, for an out-of-the-ordinary dining experience.

Statewide campaign recruits applicants for law enforcement positions

A statewide campaign to recruit applicants for positions as sworn officers has been launched by the Illinois Department of Law Enforcement and state Law Enforcement Merit Board.

This Recruitment period is designed to fill 160 positions with the best qualified candidates in the state.

Primarily, the openings are for Division of State Police troopers.

Applicants must be between 21 and 36 years of age with a high school diploma or its equivalent; or 20 years of age is accepted if person has successfully completed 2 years (60 semester hours, 90 quarter hours) of law enforcement studies at an accredited college or university; 20/20 vision (correctible) with no color-blindness and 100 percent depth perception; good health and physical fitness; U.S. citizenship; no felony violations; possession of a valid drivers license, and willingness to accept assignment anywhere in the state.

The selection process involves an applicant orientation, physical ability test, written examination, oral interview, background investigation and medical examination.

Those successfully completing the process will be considered for an 18-week training period at the Department of Law Enforcement Training Academy in Springfield, Illinois.

The first class of 40 cadets is scheduled for November of 1980, with three classes slated in 1981. During training, cadets earn $1,225 per month. Upon graduation, the monthly salary is increased to $1,267.

To maintain compliance with the Department's affirmative action guidelines, 50 percent of those hired will be white males, 43 per cent will be minority males, and 7 percent will be women, both white and minority.

Applications and additional information about qualifications and the selection process can be obtained from:

—DLE Merit Board, 3087 Dirksen Parkway, Springfield, IL 62703

—The nearest State Police Headquarters

—DLE Recruitment Office, 160 North LaSalle Street, Room 327, Chicago, IL 60601

—DLE Bureau of Personnel, 200 Armory Building, Springfield, IL 62706

Telephone inquiries can be directed to the Merit Board (217/782-6260), Department of Law Enforcement Bureau of Personnel (217/782-2854) or State Police Headquarters at Pesotum (217/867-2211).

Returned applications must be postmarked no later than April 20, 1980.

Marriott's seeks talent

Marriott's Great America, whose live stage shows entertained 2.5 million guests in 1979, is once again looking for talented singers and dancers.

The line-up of shows for the 1980 season includes "Music! America!", a panoramic look at America's musical styles; "The Bugs Bunny Story," a hilarious character revue; and, a new Country Music Revue.

General dance auditions for "The Bugs Bunny Story" will be held at 9:00 a.m. on Saturday, Feb. 9, at the Waukegan Sheraton Inn, 200 N. Green Bay Road; and at 9:00 a.m. on Saturday, Feb. 16, at the O'Hare Marriott Hotel, Highway 194 at Cumberland Avenue, Chicago. Auditionees should come in appropriate dance attire and be prepared to participate in general combination exercises. Prepared routines are not necessary.

Vocal auditions for The Great America Singers and performers for the new Country Music Revue will be held at 12:00 noon on Sunday, Feb. 10, at the Waukegan Sheraton Inn; 9:00 a.m. on Saturday, Feb. 16, at the O'Hare Marriott Hotel; and, at 10:00 a.m. on Sunday, Feb. 17, at the O'Hare Marriott Hotel. Vocal auditions should come prepared with a short, one-minute selection of their choice, and should also come prepared to participate in sight reading and dance exercises.

All auditionees are requested to bring a brief, concise resume, along with a recent photo, to their audition.

Positions are also available for theater and sound technicians, instrumental musicians and variety performers. Persons interested should send their resumes to the Show Operations Department at Marriott's Great America, P.O. Box 1776, Gurnee, Illinois 60031.

Setbacks don't hamper Cobra play, yet

by Chris Slack

Injuries and ineligibilities struck Parkland's basketball team the past month as sophomore stalwart Dodie Dunson, freshman starter Bill Keaton, and freshmen Tom Smith and David Pennington have been declared ineligible. Six and-a-half foot newcomer Bill Elliott is now sidelined with an ankle injury and a couple of other players have nagging injuries.

Still, with all of these setbacks, the Cobras opened the 1980 season with a 3-1 record. On January 4, Parkland totally crushed a sad looking Springfield team, 123-52. The game was out of reach early as Parkland clearly outthrustled Springfield en route to a 60-26 halftime advantage. From that point on the Cobras coasted as they used every available player.

Anthony King led all scorers with 19 points while Bill Elliott, Russell Pratt, and Randy Schuler followed with 18 points each. Andre Harris had 15 points while Scott Hunter added 12 and Tom Kaminke 10 points.

Parkland then travelled to Belleville and won a hard-fought game, 77-64.

It was close for about the first 30 minutes but the Cobras pressing defense and effective offense enabled them to pull away in the final minutes.

One of the newcomers, Kerry Kelley, paced the balance scoring attack with 20 points. King and Pratt contributed 13 apiece. King, along with Hunter and Harris did a sparkling job handling the ball late in the game when Belleville was trying to steal the ball and come back. Hunter also pulled down 12 rebounds while Schuler and Kelley added nine and eight respectively.

Lake Land then came up to Parkland gym for one of the most fierce rivalries in the state. The Cobras held a 48-43 lead early in the second half but constant foul trouble plagued Parkland and eventually led to their downfall as they lost 79-74.

Hunter, Kelly, Schuler, and Grant Nohren all fouled out and the fouls caught up with Parkland.

King once again played a steady floor game as he scored 16 points. Harris added 16 points as he played strong inside against a much taller Laker team. Schuler continued his improvement as he scored 14 points before fouling out.

Women B-ballers keep on winning; snare PC Invitational crown

The Cobras played Spoon River on Dec. 21 and won 79-62. Ten players got into the scoring column. Abby Ingram headed scoring with points while Lori Anda scored 11. Kari Colravy and Trudy Lorenzen added 9 and 8 respectively.

Parkland then travelled down to Belleville and lost 64-61. Once again Ingram led scoring with 31 points to lead Parkland and Lorenzen added 10 points.

Millikin, a much larger college, then came to town and the Cobras upset them in a barn-burner, 66-64. Ingram continued her phenomenal scoring as she posted 29 points. Lori Anda pitched in with nine points.

The Cobras faced Florissant Valley in the round of the Parkland Invitational Tournament and demolished them 93-44. Abby Ingram scored a season-high 39 points while Anda contributed 14.

Kennedy-King was the semi-finalist to play Parkland and the Cobras defeated Kennedy 69-64.

Although not shooting as good as in other games, Ingram still scored 22 points by converting 12 of 17 free throws. Lori Anda had her best scoring game of the year as she scored 16 points. Julee Arthur also scored 10 points in one of her finer outings of the year.

This win took Parkland into the championship along with a rematch with Belleville. The Cobras got revenge by whipping Belleville 71-54 to win their own tournament. Abby Ingram scored 21 points and also pulled down a whopping 25 rebounds. Jeanette Barrett had a season-high 16 points while Arthur and Anda each scored 12 points.

Parkland played at home against the Lakers of Lake Land and lost to a talented group by the score of 75-55. Kari Colravy and Kas Short shared team scoring honors with 10 points apiece. Abby Ingram, who was in foul trouble much of the game scored just nine points. Ingram is third in the state in scoring with a 25.4 points per game average and Anda is second on the team in scoring with a 9.0 average.

Women pull out close one to win over Lincoln Land

After opening the game with a big lead, Parkland's women's basketball team faltered, and eventually had to go into overtime to win 74-69.

Four players scored in double figures as Kari Colravy, apparently healthy after an ankle injury, headed the group with 17 points. Abby Ingram scored 16 points while Trudy Lorenzen added 15 and Lori Anda 13 points.

The women now support an impressive 10-4 mark before playing at home Tuesday against Lincoln Trail, whom they beat earlier in double overtime 84-83. Then they play at home against Danville on Friday.

Olympic dream becoming a continuous nightmare

President Carter's announcement Sunday that he would ask the United States Olympic Committee to move the Olympic Games from Moscow is the right way to handle a tough situation.

Carter justified his statement, calling for the removal of troops in Afghanistan within a month, or, Carter said, "I would not support the sending of an American team to the Olympics."

But the question pops up — Does the Soviet Union really expect to be holding the Games? Even before Carter spoke Sunday, the Russians had begun airlifting troops into Afghanistan, even after the talk of boycotting the Games had begun.

One of the better ideas out of the crisis is for the calling, by Carter, that the Olympics be moved from different sites every four years to a more permanent, logical site for both the Summer and Winter Games. This would cut down expenses, with only one permanent Olympic structure, eliminating the need to build new athletic sites every four years.

But, the situation is far from over, as the IOC IS THE RULING BODY, and President Carter's statement Sunday is just a mere recommendation.

The need for some action, no matter what, is necessary, or what has been a bad dream is likely to become a reality.

The Olympic dream is turning into nothing more than a hoax.

For the 22 past Olympics, athletes from around the world have participated for the mere pleasure of competition and the chance, however remote, of telling the world that for a single instant, they were the best.

But the era of those kinds of Olympics are gone. They have been replaced by political underminings that do nothing more than cheat the athlete.

In its heyday, the Olympics brought the world a little closer together. For the most part, countries enjoyed the annual four-year competition where the pride of that particular country was on the line. But since Hitler's Olympic fiasco in 1932, the games have become more and more political.

Politics have always been a part of the Olympics since 1932, and no doubt will continue to be. In 1968 in Mexico it was the clenched fist salute of two American athletes, a gesture that eventually cost them their medals that were the talk of the Olympic community. In 1972, when Munich was going to try to make up for Hitler's earlier mistake, political misdealings cost 11 Israeli athletes their lives.

Sitting home and watching the drama on television, I actually become numb, and thought for an instant that the world itself had somehow forgotten the reason for which the games were played. It wasn't for the betterment of the countries, at least altogether, it was for the betterment of mankind. I just felt a pit form in my stomach when ABC Sportscaster Jim McKay came on TV to give us the final verdict of the horrible tragedy.

"We've just received word from the airport," McKay reported, "Two of the Israeli athletes died yesterday in their compound. Nine more died tonight at the airport. They're all gone."

Olympic President Avery Brundage decreed that night, "The Games will go on." Oh, he did allow a day off in memory of the athletes, but even then, the memorial service resembled a pep rally rather than a wake.

1976 brought the hope that maybe this time the Olympics could revert back to the way it used to be. But no. Black African nations said they would boycott the Games if Great Britain could enter and Taiwan said they would also not participate. And so the beat goes on.

In this Olympic year, we have hostages in Iran and Russians invading Afghanistan.

For the last three weeks, talk of the U.S. boycotting the Olympic games have been met with overall approval. While I too feel the U.S. should boycott the Games, the reason for the Olympics is again failing. Political dealings should have nothing to do with the Olympic Games, yet it seems to happen every time.

But the U.S. has to stand up for something. The recent years have seen this country either become spineless and scared, or just plain ignorant to the dealings of the world. President Carter has the right idea and needs the support of everyone, even if the Olympic Dream goes up in a cloud of smoke.

Three Cobras place first

Three Parkland trackmen grabbed firsts, and two other Cobra events took second places in the Eastern Illinois University Junior College Invitational last weekend.

All American David Patrick won the 880 in a 1:57.6 clocking. Brother and teammate Mark took fourth in 1:58.4. Junior Cox ran a 7.8 in the 60 yard high hurdles for the victory. Teammate Casey Laughlin ran a 7.8 to place fourth.

Benny Clark earned the third Cobra first place with a 22-4 1/2 leap in the long jump pit. Charles Broadway placed third with a 21-4 3/4 jump. Broadway also grabbed a second in the triple jump, leaping 42-11 1/4, finishing behind Dan Stefanovich of EIU.

The mile relay team also placed second behind EIU, 3:29.13 to 3:25.28. The Cobra runners and their splits were Clark, 55.5; Cox 52.9; Mark Patrick, 50.6, and David Patrick, 50.1.

The mile relay ran without Bill Toland, who had placed third in the 440 in 52.09. Toland placed fourth in the 60 yard dash with a 6.5 time. Clark also ran the 60, placing fifth in 6.5.

In the weight events, Paul Blissard threw the shot put 46-4 good for third place.

Steve Elam paced the distance for Parkland, placing fifth in both the mile and two mile. Elam's times were 4:29.3 and 9:44.2 respectively.

Eastern dominated their own invitational again, but PC coach Lee LaBadie felt his athletes looked very strong against the other junior colleges in the state. LaBadie says the College of DuPage and Parkland will probably be fighting it out again in the Region meet in March when PC will be going for its third straight title.

The Cobras will be participating this Saturday in the Illini Invitational in the U. of I. Armory.

Bowl games ruin Freddy's average

by Fast Freddy

The bowl games were bery, bery bad to me.

Hitting only five of fourteen right, I blew my percentage and ended up with a .589 (96-67) record for the season. If only Illinois could finish with a .589 winning mark maybe there wouldn't be an influx of coaches every few years.

Of the fourteen contestants who entered, though, the majority of entrants missed seven or eight. Stan Roux had the lowest score, missing only five.

I'm glad to see the Crimson Tide win the national title again this year, at least in both of the polls. But the game of the day was played out in Pasadena where Charles White showed everyone why he was a good choice for the Heisman Trophy. But don't look for White to be first in the pro draft. Chances are it will be quarterback Marc Wilson of Brigham Young.

It's been fun over the past semester missing all those predictions, and now I can lay back until the summer of 1980, when I'll be accompanying NBC to the 1980 Summer Olympics. But I won't say where the Olympics will be because with the Russian situation, who knows, they might hold it in Broadlands.

B-ball even after win

Last Saturday, Parkland journeyed to Springfield to take on Lincoln Land. The Cobras won 86-73 as they managed to shut down Lincoln Land's driving offense.

Parkland led 44-30 at halftime and opened up a 66-48 lead before Lincoln Land rallied. Aggressive half court defense stopped Lincoln Land's guards enabling Parkland to open up the lead. But at this point, LL's Dyke Buerkette began penetrating the defense and helped bring Lincoln Land to within seven points before the Cobras iced it with superb ball handling by Anthony King, Russel Pratt, and Scott Hunter.

King led all scorers with a season high 23 points while Andre Harris added 15 and Pratt 14 points. Kerry Kelly and Grant Nohren contributed 12 and 10 points.

Parkland is now 9-9 before hosting Lincoln Trail last night. On Friday, Danville will come to Parkland Gym to take on the Cobras.

Women's softball to have meeting

There will be a meeting at 11:15 on Tuesday, January 29, in Room P-104 for all women interested in playing on the Parkland intercollegiate (fast pitch) softball team. Any interested women who are unable to attend the meeting should contact the coach, Mike Marlow, or leave their name and phone number with the Athletic Director's secretary in Room P-108. Marlow can be reached in B-137 from 8-9 a.m. or phone 351-2202
