Arlo Guthrie is reviewed —

Voting goes on today for the candidate of your choice. However, there are few to choose from. Read their platforms and the editorial on page 3.

Arlo Guthrie put on a stunning performance in the Auditorium last week. Guthrie is revealed up close and personal on the spread, pages 4 and 5.

Cobras to star on TV

by Cindy Smith

Watch the Parkland College Cobras play a basketball game or learn in-depth facts about career programs at Parkland College just by tuning in to cable television.

According to David Johnson, director of the Learning Resource Center at Parkland, eight broadcasting locations on the campus will soon be equipped to receive and transmit the cable signal.

Campus areas to be involved in cable transmissions include the Instructional Resource Center, gymnasium, audio-visual room of the library, WPCD, C118, L111, C148, and the TV lounge.

Plans for the use of Cablevision are "very indefinite at this time," Johnson commented. Telecasts tentatively planned for cablecast are Parkland basketball games, videotape supplements to the G.E.D. program, and in-depth features on career programs at Parkland. Johnson explained that the idea of putting courses on cable has not been explored as yet.

Parkland hopes to join the Cablevision Consortium sometime in October, Johnson said, however, the initial "hook-up" date has already been delayed from August to October. The cities of Urbana and Champaign, and WILL-TV comprise the consortium.

Bloodsucking auditions to be held next week

Auditions for the first staging of a new play written especially for Parkland College are scheduled for Sept. 17 and Sept. 18. Those involved will be part of a world premiere in a new script about Dracula.

Parkland College students and staff are given first priority in the selection of a cast — however, anyone is welcome to audition.

Open auditions will be at Parkland in room C140 from 2-4:30 p.m. on Sept. 17 and 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. on Sept. 18.

Opening at the Parkland Theatre on Halloween, the production will play there through Nov. 3.

For more information, contact James Coates, director of theatre, Parkland College, at 351-2351.

Join the Circle K

Like to help people? If you do then Circle K, a Kiwanis-sponsored organization, is looking for you.

Circle K is a club aimed at working with people in the community. To get a branch started at Parkland, they need members. Once they are recognized here, Circle K can get started on projects directed towards helping people.

One of the biggest things that the International K does is for the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

This year they raised over $66,000.

Circle K also gives out time and efforts to help with the blood drives at Parkland, at nursing homes, and anywhere in the community that people need people to work with them.

Talk to members of Circle K tomorrow at 11 a.m. in X161. Regular meetings will be Mondays at 10 .m. in X218.

Their slogan is "Caring — Life's Magic," and that is what they are all about.

Real estate workshop Sat.

A Real Estate Review Workshop will be Sept. 15 at Parkland College in room C118. The Salesman's Review is from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and the Broker's Review is from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The fee for the Salesman's Review is $15 and for the Broker's Review, $20.

The material to be covered has been updated to reflect the changes in the licensing exam. Students must have fulfilled the educational requirements to qualify for the licensing exam.

The instructors are Carole Stephens and Earl Jeter, both of whom are highly qualified brokers in the field of real estate and have several years of teaching experience at Parkland.

For more information, or to register, call Norma Turok, coordinator of Business at Parkland College, 351-2377, or 351-2270. Registration is possible on the day of the workshop.

International rep. speaks out

by Thomas Goba

"Thou shalt not work but thou shalt pay all the bills—rent, gas, electricity, water. Thou shalt pay for food. Thou shalt pay for all transportation. Thou shalt pay for sudden increases in school fees but thou shalt NOT work."

For students on F-1 visa this is the "Eleventh Commandment from the Immigration and Naturalization Dept.

I have for a long time juggled with the idea in this statement and most times I have failed to understand the implications involved.

As implied in this statement the F-1 visa holder should have all the finances needed for his education before coming to the States, or must have a ready flow of money to undertake his studies.

Most students coming to the States are married to the idea that the US is known for her tolerant judgment and acceptance of foreign students. This has been a truism for a long time. Besides the U.S. is full of opportunities for the hard working students, but the world inflation does not allow one to fold his hands and say "the Lord will provide."

This implied statement, an unwritten paragraph in the Immigration books, makes me wonder why?

One of the arguments for the statement is that some people come to the U.S. and are continuously out of school. This group of people are the more unambitious ones. To my mind if a student does not allow his extra-curricular activities disrupt his academic output, why should a few hours at his chosen field hinder him from gaining some practical experience on the job?

I am a true believer in the rules and regulations of a country. This academic year there was a nine percent increase in school fees and tuition, yet the F-1 visa holder should not work but must meet this sudden increase of nine percent. How he does it is his business.

Perhaps there is an unexplained reason for this statement, but the necessities of life must be obtained. The foreign students' counterpart continues to have fraternal and maternal financial surveillance. For the foreign student who is miles away, this is not possible. The complexities of life in the U.S. make it imperative that a few spendable can't be made available. But "thou shalt not work."

There is nothing free in this world. Gone are the days when the world was filled with financially liberal-minded-people prepared to come to the aid of the needy! The F-1 visa holder has lots of financial adjustments to make, and still have a worth-while life in the U.S.

American Universities and Colleges are known for their tolerant acceptance of foreign students in need of academic qualifications. This acceptance has been taken as a way of life.

Millionaires continue to work to add to their already acquired financial empire to keep body and soul together, but the student who comes to the U.S. finds that the streets of the U.S. are not paved with dollars, yet here "The Dollar Talks."

The achievement of education is a very expensive investment and there is no monthly installment from heaven to anybody thus

Dane Bundy
Public Relations Senator

Rodney Keller
Public Relations Senator

Rae Ann Meyer
Day Senator

Jeff Bergstrom
Day Senator

Support the candidate of your choice

My name is Dane Bundy. I'm running for the office of Public Relations Senator for Student Government. Some of you may not remember me, but I ran about a year ago as Student Services Senator. In that time, a lot of people got to know me. I'll state it now as I did then, I will promise now that I will promise not to make promises I cannot keep. I have been around this school for four years and I know what it's like to be a student and not know what is going on.

I will do my best to fulfill the office of Public Relations. I can only do this with your help. If you feel I am the right candidate for this office, please vote for me on Sept. 12 and 13, number 34 on your ballot.

Vote today

I, Rodney Keller, am the candidate to elect for the office of Public Relations. I have the qualifications to fulfill the job as Public Relations officer.

I have been a journalist for four years and have served as a Future Farmers of America (FFA) reporter and junior reporter for four years. I have served on the Mahomet-Seymour H.S. journalism staff and yearbook staff. I have also printed a mini-paper for the FFA's 50th Anniversary. I sold ads, wrote some stories, and helped put the paper together.

After this paper, I worked with the Mahomet Citizen (weekly paper) off and on for several years. I also am in the process of writing two different books.

My platform is to inform students of what the organizations are doing throughout the school year and help the organizations publish their events and other activities. I will also inform the students of the Senate activities.

For the first thing, you must have your Parkland student I.D. with you before you can vote in the polls Wednesday and Thursday.

Hello, my name is Rae Ann Marie Meyer. I am a faithful student of Parkland College.

I have been a member of the Parkland Chess Club and am also acquainted with PLATO.

I hope you vote for me because I can make this a better college for everybody; meaning that I will see that everything is kept fair and just as long as I have anything to do with it. (This I will because I am a Parkland student!)

Hi, my name is Jeff Bergstrom and I'm running for day senator. I'm a freshman here at Parkland College on the verge of conquering an all new terrain, and fast familiarizing myself with all different areas here on campus. My plan is to look at things from the student's point of view, getting out and finding what you, the student body, has in ideas and priorities, and then taking action on them.

In many ways it's all new to me, but that's the challenge motivating me all the more. I'm filled with all kinds of new ideas, just like you, and together I'm sure we can make some super improvements and changes for the better. With your vote and support we can work together to make this the best of years at Parkland College.

Thanks.

Jeff Bergstrom
Day Senator

Kirk Donovan, running for the office of Day Senator, did not submit a platform to be published in the Prospectus.

Start a write-in campaign

This is ridiculous. Ten openings in the student government and only five people — for four positions — are running. The elections are today and tomorrow. What happened?

One position, the Public Relations Senator, is the only race. The other three people are running for the three openings of Day Senator.

Important positions like Secretary and Treasurer are still open. Unless someone wins these positions as a write-in, the stugo will have to appoint someone. And one year, said Asst. Dean of Activities Richard Karch, the government went the whole semester without appointing anyone.

The write-in vote is the only alternative for the student body to get someone in office they feel is the best qualified. A write-in can win with just one vote — if it is the only vote cast for the position. If the person elected wants the job and he qualifies the regulations of grade point average of 2.0 or better and enrolled for not less than 12 credit hours for the semester, that person can be seated in the office.

The grade point average rule does not apply to those who do not have a grade-point average yet.

Sound simple? It is. If there is someone out there who you think is a perfect candidate for one of the ten positions that will be voted on today — talk to him, and see if he would want to serve you and the other students on the government. Remember, he has to be willing to take the office.

Write-in someone — just write on the ballot his name and the position he is running for; instructions are on the ballot. This is your chance to vote for who you want; otherwise the government will have to choose from people who want the office, whether the majority of the student body wants him or not.

Now, this is just advice for students who want a government for the student and not a government for the government. Ten out of fourteen positions is a large proportion, and if most of these are appointed, it certainly is not a government by the student.

Sure, there are going to be some very qualified people who get appointed, but just as easily there will be some not-so-qualified.

The student government is trying to do things for the student — so if you are a basic student, you probably know what the basic student wants at this college. So you can run. Start a write-in campaign, before it's too late.

P.S. Don't ask why I don't run. Working on this paper takes enough time. But if you have free time, consider it.

The two faces of Arlo

by Karyn Widloski

Arlo Guthrie is a man with two personalities. Off stage, Guthrie puts his head down and crawls within himself as he goes deep into thought. He's the kind of man who goes from day to day taking one step at a time. Strangely enough, something happens to him when he walks on to a stage. A new image comes over him. His chin suddenly up, the smile comes to life and his true talent of entertaining is like a burst of energy.

As he sings, a person can actually feel chills run up and down his spine.

Guthrie doesn't plan to retire. "I would like to play my music and perform for as long as I live," he says.

Asked if he has any hobbies, Guthrie replied "Yes," cracked a smile and said "making babies." Being a father of four, Arlo had some experience.

When asked if he misses his home when he is on the road he said "Sure, but when I'm home, I miss the road." He admits that he likes being home with his children.

Arlo gave a superb sell-out performance Thursday night at the U. of I. Auditorium. Kicking things off was Guthrie's back-up group, "Shenandoa," playing a medley of Beatle songs. Not only was Shenandoa an exciting group to watch, they prepared the audience for Arlo, who received a standing ovation. His performance included his famous hit "City of New Orleans," written by Steve Goodman, and a million seller for Guthrie.

As the show moved on, he did a number of songs written by his father, Woody Guthrie. Woody's best known song, "This Land is Your Land," was performed by Arlo. In the middle of the song, Arlo told the audience his father taught him a verse that was never published:

"As I was walking, down the road, I saw a sign that said no trespassing. But on the other side that sign said nothing, this side was made for you & me..."

Another song which drew attention was Guthrie's famous "Pickle" song — a humorous song about a man falling off a cliff on his motorcycle writing a last song about a pickle.

Guthrie told the audience he didn't understand how he could still be singing such a dumb song for 12 years and how people would pay to hear him sing such a dumb song for 12 years. The song was dumb, but it was entertaining, which probably means he'll be singing that song for another 12 years.

The audience was able to obtain 3 encores from Guthrie. They tried for a fourth, but did not succeed. Once again Arlo was boarding is monstrously huge motor home to give another concert to yet another crowd in another place.

However, there is a bonus to this long road trip — soon he will return home to his family. And yet one more bonus happens at home — soon he will return on the road. Sound exciting?

New art shop in St. Joseph

by Letitia Lyons

Artist-owner, Bill Baker, and his wife, Jackie, opened the Lincoln Street Galleries and Artworks of St. Joseph, Saturday.

The shop, located at 228 Lincoln St., will display and sell art works by area artists.

Hours of operation are Tuesday through Friday, 11 a.m. to 7 p.m., Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., or by appointment.

On exhibit are acrylics by St. Joseph artist Ann James, lithographs by Karen and Lloyd Cagel, jewelry by Joe Spoon, and paintings, ceramics and wood sculpture by Bill Baker.

"We also collect and restore prints," Jackie said.

Bill, a native of Urbana, received his Bachelor degree and did one-year graduate work in ceramics at Eastern Illinois University. He has been a working artist for 13 years.

"I think of myself as a prolific artist and experiment with different mediums. For the last three or four years, I have become very involved with oil painting because of the wide range of color the medium affords," he said.

Awarding-winning pieces of the St. Joseph Fall Festival Art Competition will be displayed in the gallery from Sept. 30 to Oct. 7.

Pick a card.

If you chose the 24 Hour Clubhouse Card, you're betting on a sure thing. When a credit card won't open the right door, you can usually count on cash to do the trick.

And cash is exactly what your 24 Hour Clubhouse Card or your Champaign National Personal Cash Card+ can get for you... at any of five convenient locations all around the town... and a sixth is on the way.

It's the key...

that opens the door and puts your cash "on call" at the following 24 Hour Clubhouse Automatic Teller (ATM) locations:

- Champaign National Bank
Park & Randolph, Champaign
- Champaign National BankPark
Springfield & Randolph, Champaign
- Champaign National BankWest
Springfield & Belmont, Champaign
- City Bank of Champaign
303 West Kirby, Champaign
- Market Place National Bank
2000 North Neil, Champaign

Visit the 24 Hour Clubhouse model in the lobby at Champaign National Bank. See how easy it is to enjoy 'round the clock banking service. You can arrange for your key in the Customer Service Department.

Freddy is upset

You can tell it's football season when the Illini hang on for three quarters and then give the game away in the final stanza. But all in all, those who entered the contest last week did very well.

Bob Durst of R.R. 1 Mahomet, correctly predicted the outcome of all 11 games, so he wins the $5 grand prize.

Mahomet also had the second-best guesser this week in Becky Dawkins, who missed just one game—the Brigham Young-Texas A&M contest.

I also did some surprising predicting after last week's miserable start, going 8-4 for the week, good for a .667 winning mark. But it's still a little shaky for the overall record at 11-10, which computes out to a meager .524 mark. Well, maybe this week.

Most of the fans had trouble on the three "upsets", including Brigham Young's last-second 18-17 win over the Aggies. Other scores from the week included Michigan State 33, Illinois 16; Indiana 30, Iowa 26; Minnesota 24, Ohio University 10; Southern Cal 21, Texas Tech 7; Michigan 49, Northwestern 7; Tulsa 24, Air Force 7; Missouri 45, San Diego State 14; Ohio State 31, Syracuse 8; Purdue 41, Wisconsin 20, and California 17, Arizona State 9.

Only one person picked the Illini to win its opener against Michigan State last week. Part of the reason is that while the Illini are a good first half team, they seem to lose it in the second half. Well, look for more of the same to hold true at Memorial Stadium this weekend when they entertain the Missouri Tigers. You might recall that Missouri also pounded the Illini 45-3 last season, and Mizzou has most of the same personnel back this season. Another reason? Last week, the Tigers gave San Diego State a 13-0 lead at half only to score 45 second-half points in a 45-15 win. 'Nuff said? Missouri handily, 42-7.

Oregon will travel up to East Lansing to play Michigan State after a surprising win over Colorado. The Ducks will be formidable, with junior quarterback Reggie Ogburn calling the signals. Ogburn ran for 108 yards and then passed for 168 more against the Buffaloes. But the Spartans didn't look that bad against the Illini last week, plus they have the home-field advantage. Look for a CLOSE 23-21 Spartan win.

Purdue and ace signal-caller Mark Hermann will take the Boilermaker special out to Los Angeles to face UCLA Saturday night. The Boilermakers must be considered legitimate national title contenders so I'll pick Purdue by five, 22-17.

Oklahoma will open its '79 season against Iowa in what could turn into a blowout. Oklahoma is thinking undefeated season right now and won't let the Hawkeyes ruin that idea. Look for a 35-8 Sooner win.

Ohio State looked impressive in its win over Syracuse last weekend and Earl Bruce might think he has the best job around. Art Schlichter makes the Buckeyes and it should be another win for Ohio State. OSU over the Gophers 28-10.

The game of the day will most likely be in Ann Arbor, where the Michigan Wolverines will host Notre Dame. This is the season opener for Dan Devine and Co., so you might not know what to expect. The Wolverines looked superb against Northwestern, but who doesn't. Bo Schembechler has a new quarterback in B.J. Dickey, but I feel the real difference will be in the 104,000-plus fans that will cheer for the Wolves. Look for Michigan 24-17 over the Irish in a nationally-televised game.

Texas A&M was shocked last week by Brigham Young and face an even tougher opponent this week in Baylor. Baylor has a fine defense, led by All-Southwest Conference linebacker Mike Singletary and should prevail, 18-7.

In other Freddy games this week, Penn State by 13 over Rutgers, 28-15; Wisconsin over Air Force 24-21; Clemson over Maryland 20-10; Pittsburgh by six over Kansas 18-12; Navy over the Citadel 40-17 and Georgia by four, 28-24 over Wake Forest.

What a super way to kick off the Fighting Illini season, have lots of fun, and benefit Illinois Radio Reading Service — a disco pep rally!

On Sept. 14 (the night before the Illinois-Missouri football game), the Poison Apple, on the corner of Main and Neil streets in Champaign, will be the site of the event.

The Booster Bash starts at 7:30 p.m. with bratwurst and beer and, for entertainment, the U. of I. Jazz Band I directed by Ray Sasaki. Head Basketball Coach Lou Henson will host the pep rally starting at 9 p.m. The cheerleaders and Illinettes will add to the spirit of the event, and the basketball team will judge a disco dance contest. For ticket information call I.R.R.S. at 333-6503.

Parkland's cross-country team will open the season Saturday in the All-Comers meet out at Savoy. Race time begins at 10 a.m., with many participants expected. Included will be former Illini Craig Virgin.

With basketball tryouts beginning this week, basketball coach Tom Cooper is in need of a team manager. Prior experience with basketball statistics and audio-visual tape recording equipment is preferred, but not necessary. For more information, contact coach Cooper in B-222, ext. 329.
