Campus Question:

What does Thanksgiving mean to you?

Kirk Hepburn
Thanksgiving is going home and reuniting the family. Securing the ties between the older generation and the younger generation. Going through the ritual of Thanksgiving like the parade, the football game, eating, and religious activities. Thanksgiving is the total epitome of the total fall atmosphere.

Scott Brown
This Thanksgiving won't be too exciting. I just left the doctor and he said no food, no drinks, no smoking. But we do get the immediate family together. Everybody gets together and cooks, but mostly we hunt pheasant and rabbit.

James A. Nelson
The time to stop in our busy day and contemplate our religious faith. To think about the many blessings we have as Americans and the privileges of working in an educational environment with enquiring minds.

Week in Review Across the globe

Ten more American hostages left Iran yesterday. They flew to Germany where they joined the three people set free on Monday. After arriving in Paris they immediately transferred to a U.S. military plane.

The group released this time included four women and six black men. One woman and two men were released on Monday. That leaves 49 Americans hostages still in Iran.

The militants holding the U.S. embassy say there will be no more releases until the Shah is returned to Iran. None of the remaining 49 American hostages will be freed, they said.

James Hughes, one of the men released, told reporters that students occupying the embassy had threatened to shoot some of the hostages if they did not cooperate. Hughes said he was blindfolded and questioned . . . while his captors hinted that some people could be shot for not talking.

The Lundberg letter, an analysis of the oil industry, says Iran's refusal to sell oil to American companies may bring on a gasoline shortage worse than the one that hit us last spring. This prediction is in conflict with other oil experts who say the available supplies can be altered to avoid a shortage.

In the nation

A psychologist at the University of Pennsylvania says the sight of advertisements showing a happy family around a well-stuffed Thanksgiving turkey can drive people into severe depression . . . even suicide.

Dr. Arthur Freeman says the holiday depression affects thousands of people. They become nostalgic and "see everybody happier than they are."

He says last year he treated a 34-year-old woman without family who became very depressed about Christmas after watching "The Waltons" on television.

He says the woman stayed alone and cried for three days. To put the jolly back into the holidays, Freeman tells people to realize that not everyone sits down to big family dinners and joyous celebrations.

He says that they should go away for a couple of days or take a weekend trip to Bermuda. It's a total distraction, which is fine.

In Albuquerque, N.M., a gunman fled the scene of a holdup by stripping to his undershorts and tennis shoes, posing as a jogger . . . but the Sheriff's Lieutenant wasn't fooled.

Police say the suspect entered a fast-food store and started to hold up a woman clerk at gunpoint, but the clerk stalled the robber by asking him if the 200 dollars she had was worth getting in trouble over.

Employees of a bank nearby saw the holdup and pulled a larger camper in front of the man's car at the bank parking lot. Faced with this, the gunman started running, shedding his clothes.

A short time later, the police lieutenant said he had spotted the man jogging in his undershorts and tennis shoes. When the officer asked the man for identification he gave the same name that was found in the vehicle left behind. Officers said the gun used in the holdup attempt was found nearby.

President Carter has shown an extreme reluctance to use food as a weapon for force the release of hostages. However, "The Journal of Commerce" says a large amount of food destined for Iran is piling up in American ports.

The newspaper specializes in shipping news and international trade matters. It says two leading unions, the International Longshoremen's Association and International Longshoremen's Union and the Warehousemen's Union, are boycotting cargoes for Iran and American shippers are reportedly showing a reluctance to make sales or deliveries.

Former Chicago Mayor Michael Bilandic's primary election campaign is now under investigation by the Illinois elections board. The board ordered an investigation of reports that Bilandic mis-stated his advertising expenses.

Around the town

Controversy has once again hit the U of I football team, with the reported recommendation by Athletic Director Neale Stoner to oust football coach Gary Moeller. Moeller, whose teams have gone 6-24-3 in three seasons, said Monday night at the annual Illini Rotary Banquet that he is going to fight for his coaching job, saying, "I was offered a five-year contract and had it been a three-year contract I promise you there would have been no acceptance on my part." Moeller was supported by five Illini football players, including quarterback Rich Weiss, who made a statement Monday night that if Moeller was dismissed, the players wouldn't play next season.

Help for finding money

A new, non-profit service for students has been announced. Designed to find all of the scholarships, loans, grants, and work-study opportunities for students at the high school, undergraduate and graduate levels, the new service guarantees that each applicant will receive at least $100 in aid.

According to Steve Danz, Director of the Scholarship Bank, the average student applicant is receiving 32 "leads" on scholarship information, with a combined value of $17,000, and that figure doesn't even include those aid sources that are renewable for future years of study. Students are given scholarship information on those sources for which they are potentially eligible. The student then decides which sources to actually apply for.

An analysis of the more than 15,000 individual entries in the data bank indicates that about 30 percent are based on need, about 30 percent on merit and the remainder on a combination of other factors. The Scholarship Bank is the only source for all aid sources, including graduate grants.

The key to the data bank is the questionnaire that each student fills out. Requested information concerns age, sex, marital status, year in school, schools attending, major, occupational goals, jobs held, religion, parents unions, employment and military information, and a variety of other factors. Cost of the service is only $25.

Interested students should send a stamped, self-addressed envelope (and save themselves approximately 100 hours of research) to The Scholarship Bank, 10100 Santa Monica Blvd., No. 750, Los Angeles, CA 90067, or call toll-free 800-327-9191, ext. 397.

The rituals involve anger reduction, negotiation for change,

Ms. Smith and Ms. McGrath will introduce the basic ideas and rituals of "Fair Fighting" as well as role-play a few of them.

MEN—WOMEN

This might be a woman's most equal opportunity.

In the Army today, ambitious women routinely get opportunities they don't get elsewhere.

This might mean operating construction equipment, repairing engines, driving trucks, or dozens of other important duties. Of hundreds of occupational specialties available in the Army, only a relatively few in Combat Arms are closed to women.

Women who qualify will have a chance to train for a valuable skill. They'll have a chance to continue their education during off-duty hours, plus a chance to see more of the world.

For women equal to the challenge, the Army has a lot to offer.

History of Thanksgiving comes from many lands

by Marianne Fejes

*In Harvest time, Harvest folks, servants and all,
Should make all together, good cheers in the hall;
And fill the black bowl, so little to the song,
And let them merry all harvest long.*

Tersser

Countries all over the world celebrate Thanksgiving—but not quite the way we do. The gathering of the crops is the theme to the celebration which has been going on for thousands of years. All the people who participated in the gathering are asked to share in the celebration including parties, dancing, feasting, songs, and drinks.

The szuret and the "feast of the wheat" are celebrated in Hungary. Thousands of people gather for what is basically an open circus. Gypsies, clowns, comedians, stunt men, and actors put on a show that lasts for days. A religious ceremony also takes place.

Many countries such as Poland, Norway, and Denmark honor the landlord of the land they harvested. The harvesters get together in song and dance and bring a large wreath of grain and wildflowers to the landlord. The wreaths are presented and then hung on the wall of the manor of where he lives. Then a huge celebration takes place with a supper including brandy, apples, bread, cakes, the Polish honey wine. The wife and daughter of the landlord dance with the harvesters

In Cracow, where Pope John Paul II was born, a common practice is for the woman who binds the last sheaf to be wrapped in the sheaf so that her head is the only thing that is projected. She is then taken to the farmhouse where she is drenched in water by the family. She remains in the sheaf till the harvest dance is over and all through the year she is called "Baba" (old woman).

The people of the Virgin Islands have two Thanksgivings. One is a lot like the one in the U.S., but there is another one called Hurricane Thanksgiving. At this time the Islanders give thanks if there were no hurricanes throughout the year. There is also a "love feast" that follows the Hurricane Thanksgiving that is celebrated by the parishioners of the Moravian Church. Following the services, the people feast on buns filled with raisins and drink a bright red beverage made with raspberries.

Americans generally celebrate Thanksgiving by having a family gathering with a turkey and cranberry sauce feast. The word "turkey" was familiar to the Pilgrims from their days in England where it meant a guinea fowl. This bird was imported into England by way of Turkey and acquired the name of the country. The resemblance between the guinea fowl and our native bird caused the latter to be called "turkey."

This week by Anna Wall Scott

Register to vote, and vote in 1980!

by Anna Wall Scott
Professor of Sociology
Parkland Community College
Champaign, Illinois

Anna Wall Scott is a social activist, and holds the distinction of being the only woman ever elected to the Illinois Democratic State Committee (1974). Mrs. Scott served on the Democratic National Committee, 1974-78, was a delegate to the Democratic Mini-Convention, 1974, and the National Nominating Convention, (Carter delegate), in 1976.

"The Little Black train is coming. Get all your business right. You had better get your house in order, 'cause the train may be here tonight."

"The Little Black Train" may have been a vehicle for transporting run-a-way slaves to the North, and the song a signal to alert them to be ready. Symbolically, that "Little Black Train" is returning in 1980 to rescue the children of Afro-American heritage from four years of suffering and frustration.

To get our house in order and be ready to board, we must register to vote and vote in 1980. By voting we will be meeting our constitutional obligation to save Democracy from the hands of our enemies. Our enemies delight and benefit from our political inaction. It makes it easy for them to play the "divide and conquer" game. Notice what happened recently in North Carolina. If we register to vote, we will not need the Communists nor other enemies to fight our battles. We will be able to fight them ourselves. Blood was shed by whites and blacks, to win us the right to vote. This blood must not flow in vain.

The Democratic and Republican parties are the vehicles by which Democracy is translated into reality. However, they do not carry all of America's children as passengers unless passage is demanded. Often their vehicles break down before they reach their destinations. It is therefore essential for us to keep their engines oiled and in good working condition, and even guide the direction of the locomotive, otherwise the engineers may detour. As citizens we can provide fuel, engine overhauls and keep these trains on the right track. We do this by getting involved in their political parties by registering to vote, voting, and by working for honest candidates.

1980 is the year that we must pull these vehicles off the track for refueling, and a complete overhaul. The engineer who runs the locomotive may need replacing.

During the past four years, Democracy has been imperiled because the engineer, President Carter, apparently fell asleep on the job. Congress who acts as his crew, decided to nap also. As a result, all of them failed to respond to the increasing unemployment, inflation, crime, illiteracy, and the cry for help from emerging nations.

While the poor children in American are starving, (as their mothers lose their pride and self-respect in order to qualify for Welfare), the "Boat People" are welcomed and given jobs, food, and a place to live without having to meet eligibility requirements.

Township welfare agencies (with all of their faults) have, however, been traditionally able to respond immediately to pressing needs of poor people because they are locally funded. Recently, I sent a struggling white mother to the Cunningham Township and unjust the taxes on food and medicine were. An adequate diet and medical care should be a right guaranteed by the Federal and State Governments, rather than based on the ability to pay. The poor people in the U.S. spend three-fourths of their budgets for food, and actually end up paying a disproportionately higher tax ratio of taxes than the rich.

Cook County Hospital in Chicago serves the poor and those who do not have the money to go elsewhere. Although Blacks only constitute 14 percent of the U.S. population, they constitute 33 percent of the poor, and most of those living in Illinois reside in Chicago. Yet our elected represen-

'The Little Black Train is Coming,' and Sen. Ted Kennedy is the engineer.

Supervisor. This woman and her husband are both struggling to finish Parkland, get jobs, and become taxpayers. Money was short, and the gas tank was almost empty. Mother chose to ride her bicycle to school, and was hit by a "hit and run" driver. Not only would the Cunningham Supervisor not give her any money, but would not give her bus tokens.

He also arrogantly explained to this writer then that the eligibility requirements of his office were parallel to those of the State. Before the conversation ended, I promised him that he would be opposed in his next election. However, unless those of us who have a sense of humanity register to vote, and vote, we will never get rid of officials such as the Cunningham Supervisor.

Pardon my digression, as a matter of fact I almost forgot to talk about the rest of the train that we have trusted to guide our destiny.

Behind Congress there are cars representing the various State Governments and their elected officials. Our State Representatives are very close to us, their actions decide whether we pay taxes on food and medicine, get decent unemployment benefits, and sufficient appropriations to the schools. They have a significant effect on the lives of all of us.

Two of the State Representatives from our 52nd District, made a lot of noise about the sales tax on food and medicine. However, they neglected to join the necessary coalitions and make the necessary commitments in order to get the job done.

Actually it was this writer during the last election who brought up the discussion about how unfair

18, 1980. It will be necessary to elect those people who have pledged to support Sen. Kennedy (to the end) at the Democratic National Nominating Convention. Unless these people are elected, some other person may be nominated by the Democratic Party to run for the office of President of the U.S. Whoever is nominated must be elected in November (the second Tuesday), 1980.

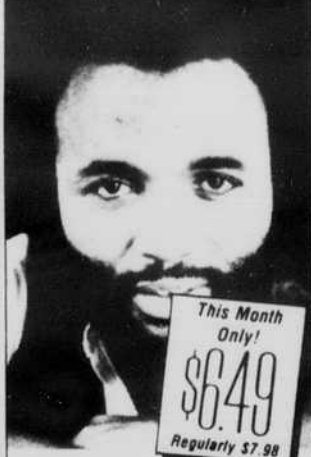

"The Little Black Train" engineered by Sen. Kennedy, promises all of its passengers the right to have proper health care for themselves, their aging relatives, and their children, without having to go on Welfare. Ask any elderly person who has been ill, and you will be told that the present Medicare system is absolutely inadequate. Sen. Kennedy has said that he will not be afraid to institute price controls and deal in a responsible way with inflation and unemployment.

Remember the Black Train that carried the body of Sen. Robert Kennedy who was killed because he spoke out for the common people. He was Teddy Kennedy's brother. Remember when the young, dynamic John Fitzgerald Kennedy was President. He was also Teddy's brother. Before he was killed, he said, "Ask not what your country can do for you, but what you can do for your country."

The Black people and the White poor owe the Kennedy's a debt of such magnitude that we will never be able to pay off. We can, however, make a partial payment by getting on board the "Little Black Train." We owe it to our foreparents to put this country back in order and on the right track.

Faculty Focus will be a weekly article written by Parkland faculty members expressing their opinions on views of pertinence for or about the Parkland student. Viewpoints do not necessarily express the opinions of Prospectus staff members.

PC basketball team has its ups and downs

by Chris Slack

Parkland's basketball team traveled to Hutchinson, Kan., last weekend to participate in the Hutchinson Quarterback Club Classic.

They played their first game Thursday night against the host team, Hutchinson. The game was out of reach by half-time as Hutchinson played a tough zone defense that puzzled Parkland throughout the first half. The usually high-scoring Cobras were held to 16 points in the first half and could never bounce back as they were soundly beaten 66-48. Russell Pratt led in scoring with 12 points while Richard Jones contributed 10 points.

Dodie Dunson fouled out with a little over seven minutes remaining and this sealed the loss for Parkland.

The game's leading scorer was Aaron Harris, as he bucketed 18 points. Hutchinson also featured Darryl Allen, who was an all-stater at Chicago De LaSalle last year.

The Cobras played the second game on Friday night against the Navarro Bulldogs. Dodie Dunson provided the heroics as he made a last second shot from the base-line to win it for Parkland by a score of 59-58. The game was a hard-fought, defensive struggle as Parkland shot only 40 percent. Navarro had four 6'6" starters and clearly outsize the Cobras. But a tough, aggressive defensive effort forced numerous turnovers and kept the Cobras within striking distance. Dunson had 13 points to lead Parkland while Russell Pratt scored 10. Richard Jones scored 9 points and also did a sparkling job playing defense and rebounding against a much taller Bulldog team.

On Saturday night, Parkland looked to come out of the tournament with a winning record. Unfortunately, Parkland could not hold on to a 36-32 half-time lead and wound up losing to the Dixie College Rebels 81-69. The game was close until the seven-minute mark when Dixie began pulling away. The Rebels had a much taller front line and eventually wore down Parkland.

Richard Jones continued his strong play as he scored 13 points to lead Parkland. Bill Keaton and Dodie Dunson each scored 10 points. Foul trouble also plagued the Cobras as Anthony King and Dunson fouled out while two others committed four fouls.

Dave Rose and Craig Hammer were the top two scorers for Dixie as they scored 17 and 16 points respectively.

Parkland now has a 2-2 record and plays in the Blackhawk Invitational during the Thanksgiving break.

The competition was very stiff as Dixie finished third in the nation last year and Hutchinson shows much promise this year. Parkland did come out with one win and should be credited for playing very tough against much taller teams.

McKinley YMCA Gymnastics Club will present an exhibition Saturday, Dec. 1, from 7-9 p.m. in the gymnasium. Four participants are pictured here. They are Betsy Cekander, Sheryl Dearth, Karen Brems, and Carol Robinson. An admission will be charged.

Gymnastics exhibition at PC December 1

The McKinley YMCA will present a gymnastics exhibition at Parkland College on Sat. Dec. 1, 1979 from 7:00 to 9:00 P.M. Included in the exhibition are Beginner classes, Advanced Beginner classes, the Gym Romper Pre-school program and our special new team training class.

All levels of gymnastics will be presented in this exhibition giving the community a preview of the excellent gymnasts training at the McKinley YMCA new Gymnastic center.

The National Team, Jr. Elite Team and the Elite Team will be presenting their gymnastics skills for the community to enjoy.

Betsy Cekander a Sophomore at Centennial in Champaign will demonstrate her Olympic caliber routines on the Balance Beam and Uneven Bars. Betsy is considered one of the best gymnasts in the Midwest and will soon be making her move toward Olympic competition. Not far behind is 12 year old Amy Cekander who finished high in the Y National Floor Exercise competition last year. A senior at Urbana High, Karen Brems will perform her highly original and difficult Uneven Bar routine. Also performing Olympic caliber routines will be Carol Robinson and Sheryl Dearth both from Urbana.

Missy Frase, daughter of Parkland faculty member Bill Frase will show her original floor exercise routine. Missy competes for our Jr. Elite team and is 10 years old.

Tickets are $2.00 for Adults and $1.00 for students. Tickets may be purchased at the door or in advance from any McKinley YMCA team or class member. Proceeds go toward our Olympic Travel fund and also for new equipment.

VB to play now, organize later

An informal volleyball group is being organized at Parkland. The group consists of anyone who wants to play volleyball for the fun of it.

The games are not being organized because of so little time left in the semester, but a league may be formed next semester. At the present, all teams or players are invited to the first game at 8 p.m. Nov. 29 in the gym.

For more information contact Steve Deckard, 359-8081.

Fast Freddy wins modestly

by Fast Freddy

What happens when the predictor, namely myself, has the best score of all the predictions handed in? Shouldn't I win the five bucks? Our editor thought not, so the winner this week, breaking out of an eight-way tie of contestants who missed three, is Ruffia Freeman of 404 E. Daniel, Champaign.

I went 11-2 for the week, and it amazes me that I get better as the weeks go along. Too bad I had such a shabby start.

There won't be any Fast Freddy this week, due to Thanksgiving break, but it will return next week at its regularly-scheduled time.

Last week's scores were Pittsburgh 40, Army 0; Illinois 29, Northwestern 13 (Gary saved his last win for the last game of the year); Oklahoma 24, Missouri 22; Baylor 45, Rice 14; Ohio State 18, Michigan 15; Washington 17, Washington State 7; Harvard 22, Yale 7; Auburn 33, Georgia 13; Iowa 33, Michigan State 23; Wisconsin 42, Minnesota 37; Clemson 16, Notre Dame 10; Brigham Young 27, Utah 0; Purdue 37, Indiana 21, and Arkansas 22, Texas A&M 10.

My total for the year is an improving 91-58, .611. Have a great Thanksgiving, drink a lot, eat a lot, and watch a lot of football. See ya all at the T-Bird this weekend. Be There, Aloha.

A Road Song

These to be thankful for: a friend,
A work to do, a way to wend,
And these in which to take delight:
The wind that turns the poplars white;
The wonder and gleam of common things,
Sunlight upon a seagull's wings,
Odors of earth and dew drenched lawns,
The pageantry of darks and dawns;

Blue vistas of a city street
At Twilight, music, passing feet,
The thrill of Spring, half joy, half pain,
The deep voice of the Autumn rain.

Shall we not be content with these,
Imperishable mysteries?
And jocund hearted take our share
Of joy and pain and find life fair?

Way farers on a road where we
Set forth each day ride valiantly,
Expectant, dauntless, blithe, content,
To make the great experiment.
