Parkland community anxious for Cultural Center opening

By DENNIS WISMER
Prospectus Staff Reporter

Construction crews are doing brick work, putting in plumbing, and roofing the auditorium of the new Parkland Cultural Center, President William Staerkel told the Prospectus last week.

He added that soon crews will be putting in tile, floors, and pouring cement—all activities a culmination of years of planning, saving, and dreaming. According to Staerkel the hopes of the students, administration, faculty, and the community will be reality when the Cultural Center opens.

In 21 years Dr. Staerkel has seen Parkland grow out of the storefronts of downtown Champaign in a vibrant multiplex of modern architecture surrounded by an oasis of plant life, recreational fields, and open space.

Dr. Staerkel points out this happened by design, not chance. In 1968 a master plan was created, and in 1986 it is nearly completed. In January Parkland Community College will unveil a 322-seat auditorium and a 152-seat planetarium. This development can primarily be attributed to Dr. Staerkel's determination to make Parkland reach its highest level of development for the benefit of its students and the communities it serves.

One of the reasons the project is being completed now is over several years the Parkland building fund accumulated $4.5 which matched the cost of the construction ($4 million construction costs, $.5 million equipment costs).

Another reason for the timing of the expansion is somewhat bittersweet. Sweet because the construction is nearly complete, and bitter because Dr. Staerkel is retiring the year following the completion of the Center. Dr. Staerkel felt that a new president would be overwhelmed trying to get acquainted with the school and its operation. This could have stalled the construction for a couple of years.

The real reasons mentioned above are part of the reason the auditorium and planetarium are being built, but the most important reason is the student and citizens of the communities Parkland is here for. The auditorium will be used for drama, music, lectures, and seminars. There will be plenty of opportunity for the community to use the facilities, but the college will get priority, Dr. Staerkel stressed.

Another benefit the community is realizing from the construction is most of the contractors on the project are local companies. Some of these are: general contractor, River City Construction, Peoria; plumbing, R. H. Bishop, Champaign; heating and temperature control, Paul McWilliams and Sons, Champaign; electric, Remco, Champaign; ventilation, Nogle and Black, Champaign; iron, Kurland Steel, Champaign; local architect, Unteed, Skaggs, and Nelson, Ltd.

Is this the final phase of the master plan? According to Dr. Staerkel, "It may or may not be (the final stage). The future of Parkland is tied to Champaign-Urbana, and if Champaign-Urbana becomes a center for high-tech industries Parkland will have to grow with it," Dr. Staerkel continued.

As a matter of fact a Social Science building and a swimming pool were included in the original master plan in 1968, so if the need arises, Parkland will be right on target with its original plan.

From the office of the President . . .

Welcome to Parkland College

Welcome to Parkland as we begin one of the most exciting and eventful years of our existence!

During 1986-1987 two important events will mark the College's 20th year of existence. Our beautiful new Cultural Center, which will include a performing arts theatre and a planetarium, will be completed, and a new president will be elected to lead Parkland into its third decade of development and service.

My retirement at the conclusion of this year means that this will be my final welcoming message to students as we begin a new year. It has been a high privilege serving as President of the best community college in the country.

Among the many factors making Parkland so outstanding are the finest faculty and staff, and the best students to be found on any college campus. My wish for each of you is that this will be your most successful year ever, and that all your important objectives in education will be achieved.

4-way stop signs greet Parkland commuters

By DENNIS WISMER

It's 7:58 a.m. as you head for Parkland on Bradley, and at 8:00 sharp a review of your final begins. What do you do? Chances are you wait in a 20-car backup at the new 4-way stop sign and miss the first 5 minutes of the review. Why? In the name of safety and budget cuts, of course.

This is the first year Parkland's entrance on Bradley met the minimum requirements for accidents and traffic flow to qualify for traffic signals.

Why a 4-way stop rather than electric traffic signals? According to Champaign's city engineer, Rick Marley, the City of Champaign is losing approximately $1 million a year due to the Grant-Reddman budget cuts. Therefore, the city must use discretion when appropriating funds for traffic signals—especially when traffic lights can cost as much as $90,000-$100,000 apiece.

The city must prioritize the money to be spent and safety must come before convenience, according to Marley. Although the 4-way stop may be inconvenient, it is safe. Some of the intersections higher on the priority list according to the city engineer are Bradley and Neil, 4th and Green, and many intersections on the U of I campus.

Plans will soon be presented for renovation of the Bradley and Neil intersection, and the State of Illinois is looking into the possibility of installing left-turn lane arrows at Springfield and Prospect avenues.

One solution to the eminent "rush hour" back-ups on Bradley is the use of the other entrances to the College. Commuters are urged to use the Duncan Road entrance, as well as the entrance on Mattis, just south of Route 150.

So be aware, leave, and keep your brakes and wit in good working order. Happy braking.

Fopay named Star editor

Dave Fopay sits at his new office desk. "I'll be doing a little bit of everything here," he says.

Fopay has just been hired by the Tolono County Star to edit the Star. Throughout the past school year, he edited the Parkland College Prospectus, and after he graduated he was offered his current job.

"Greg File, the paper's general manager, just called me and asked me if I was interested," Fopay says. "I had just read about the sale."

The sale he mentioned is the Star's sale to the Champaign News-Gazette, which was conducted this month. File's parents sold the paper to the Gazette because, in their words, they could no longer keep the Star growing at a steady pace. To keep it growing, they needed help. Fopay is part of that help. He'll write, edit, take photos and lay out the Star, among other things.

How did Parkland College and the Prospectus help him get started on his career? "A lot,"

Gazette buys Tolono weekly

In the first purchase of its kind in Central Illinois, the News-Gazette acquired the Tolono County Star on July 5 from its owners, Mary and John File.

The Star joins WDWS Radio as an independently operated News-Gazette subsidiary. After the sale, Greg File, the owners' son, was named General Manager.

Both Greg and Mary File said that the Star was growing too fast to remain a family business. "We hope to grow immensely now," Greg File said.

In her last column for the Star, Mary File wrote that "... it gradually reached the stage where I could not keep up with everything."

Dave Fopay, a former Prospectus editor, has been hired to edit the Star. Fopay lives in Urbana.

Traffic deaths down in Dist. 10

Illinois State Police Superintendent Laimutis A. Nargelenas released provisional figures which indicated that 794 persons died from injuries sustained from traffic accidents on Illinois highways through the month of July, 1986.

There were 840 fatalities for the same period last year, showing a decrease of 46 through the month of July. The total number of traffic fatalities statewide for the month of July was 118.

The Commander of District Ten State Police, Captain Gordon J. Cleland, reported eleven fatalities for the month of July in the District. Champaign County had four; Vermillion County had three; Macon County had two; Douglas and Moultrie Counties each had one.

Troopers in District Ten investigated 108 accidents, made 1,663 traffic arrests, 126 criminal arrests, 24 overweight arrests and issued 3,307 written warnings while patrolling 178,282 miles.

he says. "An awful lot. Prospectus taught me how to design and lay out a paper better than any class could. I learned most all the functions of a newspaper there. Any of Parkland's career programs are great because you learn so much so soon. Journalists are required to take advertising and broadcast writing courses, for example. I can't see needing that experience now, but you never know."

He pauses. "I don't think you need a bachelor's degree to succeed," he says. (He has an associates degree from Parkland). "With experience, jobs will come in time. I absolutely recommend WPCD or Prospectus. When I was a freshman, all the friends I knew were from classes. When I was a sophomore, I got to know lots of people by working for the Prospectus. Journalism will take you places."

While Fopay was with Prospectus, he worked to expand the news section. "There was limited material," he explains. "We'd print news releases with the slightest link to Parkland. But I think we did a great job; I'm very proud of it."

Student apathy turned out to be Fopay's biggest worry, however. "I have never understood it," he says. "Look at our basketball team—they won the Division II national championships last year, but we had only 100 or 200 people come to each game. Sometimes the gym would be halfway full, maybe. I know Parkland's a commuter college, but how can one have that kind of support for a national champion?"

Parkland jumper, vaulter place at 1986 Prairie State Games

By DENNIS WISMER

Parkland College was well represented in the track and field events of the Prairie State Games which were held here in Champaign last earlier this month. N.J.C.A.A. All-Americans Mathew Patrick and Mark Hamilton placed in the open division, and Ron Buss' new recruits, Kevin Ankrom and Mark Bybe placed in the scholastic division.

performer at Parkland the past two years as his All-American status attests, continued his winning ways by finishing first in the open division long-jump with a jump of 24-10 outdistancing his closest competitor by over 6 inches. Patrick also claimed 3rd place in the triple-jump with a distance of 50-4½.

Another All-American and Parkland great, Mark "Hollywood" Hamilton of K104 latenight radio fame captured 3rd in the open division of the pole vault, clearing 16-0 which was six inches shy of U. of I. vaulter and winner Dean Sharkey.

As the Cobras say good-bye to these exceptionally fine student athletes, we must also welcome the new Cobras to the family. Kevin Ankrom of Jacksonville grabbed 2nd place honors in the scholastic level of the high-jump. Ankrom jumped 6-6, only 2 inches from the winner, Reynolds, representing course, but I wasn't planning on being an editor. I can see myself as a writer. I want to be outside getting the information."

Fopay just repeated what most of the best newspapermen say.

It's easy to be confused. After all, there are a lot of beige PCs on the market. The KAYPRO PC, however, has some very distinctive features. For starters, a monochrome monitor and two disk drives are standard. In addition, the KAYPRO PC boasts the best of both worlds - perfect high-resolution text and built-in color graphics capability. And, unlike the competition, the KAYPRO PC has a keyboard just like the expensive IBM PC AT - security lock and all.

Radio Controlled Cars entertain young, old

During the week, the elevated platform may be a puzzle to Round Barn Centre patrons, but on Sunday afternoons, Slot & Wing's Mark Thompson and crew set up the track for an afternoon of racing fun with radio-controlled cars.

The platform is headquarters for the "drivers" with their radio transmitter packs in hand.

Prospectus reporters came up with about a 50-50 crowd breakdown of "kids" and "would-be kids."

Chad Thomas

Monday, September 15, is the last day to withdraw from a full-term class and receive a 75 percent refund.

Dave Hilsenhoff "fine-tunes" his car before the next race.

Weren't toys supposed to be just for kids?

Mark, Dan, John and Chris set their cars at the line.

At the flag, Gary Reynok's, Michael Terry, Rob Buchanan, Bruce Berbaum, Tim Dixon and Shawn Cullops are ready to hit the throttle.

PC opens computer center

Parkland College has established a Microcomputer Training Center to assist business and industry in training their employees in the use and application of microcomputers.

The Center is equipped with sixteen IBM-PC XT's, letter quality printers, and four television monitors to aid instruction. Computer basics, software packages, and computer programming are among the topics which will be offered. The hands-on computer training will be conducted by qualified trainers who have experience in computer training for business and industry.

Specific courses to be offered include Microcomputers for Beginners, Introduction to Lotus 1-2-3, Volkswriter, WordStar, and Multimate. Advanced level courses also are offered, and many courses have day or evening meeting times. Courses and workshops will be scheduled at various times during the fall semester.

In addition, computer training can be customized and scheduled to meet individual company and organizational needs at a reasonable cost. State of Illinois financial assistance is available for firms that qualify for this type of training. Enrollment is limited to sixteen persons to ensure each individual access to a microcomputer. For further information about customized computer training, contact the Small Business Development Center or the Office of Economic Development, 351-2200, ext. 556 or 235.

BUSEY

The Experienced Bank for Student Loans

When it comes to loaning money for higher education, Busey's the bank with experience. Over the years, we've helped students obtain more than $8 million in Illinois Guaranteed Student Loans. If you're in college now or thinking about enrolling this fall, Busey can help you finance your education.

Facts You Should Know about an Illinois Guaranteed Student Loan

- An Illinois Guaranteed Student Loan is available to residents of the State of Illinois. Out-of-state residents may qualify if they presently attend a college or university in Illinois.

- Illinois Guaranteed Student Loan applications may be obtained at our Main Bank, Race and Main in Urbana, or at the Campus Bank, 6th and Green in Champaign. You or any member of your family can pick up your application.

- An Illinois Guaranteed Student Loan may be obtained at Busey no matter where you are going to school . . . whether in Illinois or out of state.

- An Illinois Guaranteed Student Loan may be obtained at Busey Bank even if you are not presently a Busey customer.

- An Illinois Guaranteed Student Loan is not restricted to use at a four-year college or university. It may be used at a community or junior college such as Parkland College or Danville Community College.

- Illinois Guaranteed Student Loan qualification standards, as well as the amount you may borrow, are determined by the college you plan to attend and Busey Bank.

- An Illinois Guaranteed Student Loan for undergraduate study allows you to borrow up to $2,500 per year to a total of $10,000. Loans for graduate school may not exceed a total of $25,000.

- An Illinois Guaranteed Student Loan interest rate for first-time borrowers is currently 8% at Busey. That rate is guaranteed and no interest is paid for the full length of time you are in school.

- An Illinois Guaranteed Student Loan repayment schedule does not begin until six months after the date of your last attendance in school.

For additional information, stop by Busey First National Bank today. Whether you need money to start college or continue your studies, you should talk to Busey. We're the bank with student loan experience.

WHEN YOUR BUSINESS CHOOSES LONG DISTANCE BY THE PENNY, YOUR BUSINESS MAY END UP GETTING SHORT-CHANGED.

There are a lot of long distance companies out there who love to wave their savings charts.

And if you ask them, they'll gladly show the pennies you'll save when you call St. Louis or Indianapolis or Chicago or New York.

But unless you pick cities like you pick tomatoes, savings charts aren't very helpful. There are many considerations in choosing a long distance company. And a decision that's based solely on a couple of calls to a couple of cities is penny-wise and pound-foolish.

At Tele-Sav, we don't sell by the call, we sell by the solution. There are many ways to save the maximum on long-distance and we can show you how to take advantage of the lowest total savings, wherever you call.

It's your choice. You can choose another company's savings chart and run the risk of getting short-changed. Or you can take charge of your long distance and call Tele-Sav. 1-800-323-SAVE.

TAKE CHARGE OF YOUR LONG DISTANCE.

"Andy Bear" is not your average stuffed bear. He's a specially designed toy for teaching speech to young, hearing-impaired children. Andy Bear can do tricks that an average toy bear can't do: his eyes light up whenever someone vocal-izes. And it's the bright eyes that will give a deaf child an immediate, positive response for any initial attempts at talking.

The voice-activated toy was recently donated to the hearing Education Program by the Telephone Pioneers of America, Illini Council, according to Patricia Schaeffer-Dresler, coordinator of the program. "Andy Bear will be used in our educational home services program provided for families with young, hearing-impaired children," explained Schaeffer-Dresler. "Young children like stuffed animals, and many deaf children are really motivated to try talking when Andy Bear's eyes light up for them."

Cox, a retired telephone company employee, adapted the battery-operated toy to include a microphone, circuitry, the light-up eyes, and a volume switch.

The Hearing Education Program is a not-for-profit community service of The Charles W. Christie Foundation and Parkland College. In addition to the educational services for parents with young, hearing-impaired children, the Program also provides for infant hearing screening in local hospitals as well as toddler hearing screening at the Champaign-Urbana Public Health District and surrounding communities. For more information, contact Schaeffer-Dresler at Parkland college, 351-2214.

Tae Kwon Do

Can Stir Your Soul.

Many sports and exercise activities are one dimensional. Aerobics is a nice way to stretch and tone your muscle. Jogging offers cardiovascular benefits. Swimming offers more. But Tae Kwon Do (Korean style martial arts) offers you a way to bring your entire life into harmony through the physical, mental, and philosophical exercise of your mind and body.

Tae Kwon Do challenges you physically, exercising virtually every muscle in your body. Your training helps you develop a healthier cardiovascular system, greater strength, better coordination, increased flexibility and, of course, the ability to defend yourself in dangerous situations.

Tae Kwon Do training also helps you develop a keener ability to confidently make decisions, a higher degree of self respect, and an ability to deal with stress effectively.

Philosophically, Tae Kwon Do training helps you develop a greater aesthetic eye and a heightened sensitivity. You will learn the application and follow through of right principles and acquire a systematic approach toward self-improvement.

Physical activity is a biological necessity. But Tae Kwon Do offers more than mere physical activity. It stretches your physical, mental and philosophical abilities. It stirs your soul. Martial arts skills do take time to acquire. Tae Kwon Do is no quick panacea for all the problems and stresses of childhood or adulthood. But it is definitely worth exploring, don't you agree?

To find out more about the specific rewards of Tae Kwon Do training, call 352-3939 or visit me at 202 W. Hill in Champaign to discuss how we can work together to help you achieve them.

By CHAD THOMAS

WELCOME TO PARKLAND! Whether you are back as a second-year student or just beginning your college experience, Parkland is one of the best community colleges in the nation with an outstanding faculty and beautiful facilities.

This year many of us will see a dream come true with the opening second semester of the new Cultural Center. Can you believe the progress the construction crews have made over the summer? With very little rain the past three months, the workmen have been able to work almost every day. But that will be another story for another time.

TODAY'S PAPER claims a first in the 20 plus history of Parkland College. The opening day paper, which we call the "New Student Edition," was distributed throughout the Twin Cities over the weekend, offering the community a look at Parkland, its school, and its people. Then, rather than a Wednesday distribution on campus, you are reading the paper on Monday.

There are a lot of ads in today's paper, as well, offering you students many specials and services. One of our ads, the Tel Sav ad, is here because of a change made in telephone service in Champaign-Urbana over the summer. On July 25, C-U's telephone company, Illinois Bell, effected "Equal Access" long distance service. I could go into a long, technical description of what that means, but suffice it to say that now when one dials "1" the computers downtown connect you to whatever long distance service you have chosen—or whatever service a computer randomly chose for you if you did not respond to the numerous "sales pitches" from MCI, Sprint, Tel Sav, AT&T, Teleconnect, etc.

If you have ordered telephone service for your room or apartment this fall, you, too, have a choice to make concerning your long distance service. Thus, the ad from one of the LD companies appears elsewhere in today's paper.

WELL, A LOT has happened down Texas way over the summer, too.

Can you recall saying at one time or another "This (whatever the situation might be) is a nightmare." Sure you have. We all have. But usually our bad luck or disappointment is real and is there to stay. We really wish it were a bad dream, but it is there and probably there is nothing we can do about it.

Not so down in Parker, Texas. Apparently the producers of the ever-popular nighttime soap, "Dallas," have seen the writing on the wall and have realized that something must be done to bring the ratings back to the top.

Last season, in a final scene, we saw Patrick Duffy (Bobby Ewing) peek around the shower stall door and smiled with him as he told Pam good morning. For those of you who don't watch the show I need to explain that Bobby died in the last episode or so of the previous season. You and I saw him die. We didn't see him in the casket, but we did see the family at the graveside service. We saw his name on the tombstone. We saw the little white picket fence around the grave. We saw the fresh flowers that members of the family brought, and we saw more than one person visit the grave and shed real tears. Bobby was gone.

Until last week only the show's writers knew how J.R.'s younger brother would be written back into the script. But now I can tell on (on the authority of one of my sources—one of the grocery store check-out counter scandal sheets). According to this tabloid paper, all of last season's shows were a dream. Everything we saw was a part of Pam (Victoria Principal) Ewing's dream. In that last episode I mentioned a few lines back, Pam had awakened early in the morning of her wedding day. Lazily climbing out of bed and yawning and walking into the bathroom, Pam was surprised to hear the shower running. She entered the steam-filled room and gasped when Bobby opened the shower door and said, "Good mornin'."

But that's now all, folks. This scandal sheet revelation goes on. Several years ago when Jim Davis died in real life, his character of Jock Ewing had to be written out. This was accomplished by his apparent drowning after a helicopter crash in South America, I believe it was. I wasn't smart enough last spring to figure out that his character was back—not Davis—just the character of "Jock." But they didn't call him Jock. He is the older fellow who was taken on as a "hired hand." Miss Elly, now remarried, questioned him from the beginning. "Don't I know you?" she asked repeatedly. The hired hand always denied the possibility and remarked how lucky Jock had been to have such a lovely wife.

Are you still with me? Supposedly, according to the scandal sheet, Jock did not really die in the crash. True many of his belongings were found at the bottom of the lake with the downed helicopter. But Jock's body was never recovered. Now it seems that he was badly burned in the crash, was taken to a hospital with no identity and so badly disfigured that no one recognized him or identified him by the wirephotos sent abroad by the Ewings back in Dallas.

The character we were introduced to last year did not have the full head of white hair that Jock had. We saw dark brown hair.

No problem. In one of the early episodes this fall, we will see the brown washed off when the hired hand gets his head wet. And lo and behold we will see Jock's white hair again. We are told that the voice will be the same, but the plastic surgeons were not successful in their attempts to restore Jock's face as we remember it.

Now that's what I read. Do we believe it? Who knows. I'm sure J.R. will tell us all about it next month. That is if he can get away from his men's briefs commercials long enough to film "Dallas." Keep tuned. I'll tell you what happens.

THOSE OF YOU WHO are into home computers probably know what a bulletin board is. For those of you who don't a bulletin board is a service you can dial into with your telephone modem on the computer (if you have one).

Many times one will find hints on how to use the computer, read announcements concerning computer club meetings, and occasionally find a public domain ("free") program that can be run on your computer. A couple of weeks ago I dialed into a local board called "Fido." I found a program that listed some words of wisdom in the form of quotes. You will probably see a few of them this year in the Prospectus, but I want to tell you about two of them right here.

The first one has a lot of truth in it: "If you want to be a success in life, talk to three older people." No explanation needed.

The next one has a little humor to it. It says, "God gave us our relatives, but He gave us the privilege of choosing our friends."

Seems like quotes like that often come along just at the right time. Only a few days before I had stumbled across these sayings, we had had a little disappointment concerning the actions of a distant relative.

Well, I mentioned this quote to my one and only aunt. She isn't angry, but I don't think she took it the right way at first. I am now busy scanning the pages of those quotes trying to find another one to get me out of the mess.

Later.

The conference theme was "Technology in Home Economics for the 21st Century." Sutton also was one of a select group to participate in a Commercial Food Service Workshop co-sponsored by Joliet Junior College and Northern Illinois Gas. At the workshop, the participants were able to update knowledge of techniques and food service equipment as well as improve the teaching of organization, management, and human relationships in the commercial food field. Northern Illinois Gas provided $250 to assist in funding the workshop. Originally from Villa Grove, Sutton now lives in Mahomet.

ARIES—March 21-April 19—Don't be afraid to ask for directions. Everyone gets lost their first time at Parkland. Besides it's a great way to meet people. You'll be an old pro at finding your way in no time.

TAURUS—April 20-May 20—Try not to spend your whole semester hanging out at Hardee's. Besides there are people waiting to place their order and you are in the way. It's not cool to eat a Big Mac in front of Hardee's.

GEMINI—May 21-June 21—Take only your textbooks and notepaper to class. Juggling textbooks, papers, and ALL those magazines has been embarrassing more than once when you've dropped everything down the stairs.

CANCER—June 22-July 22—Try studying this semester. It may improve your grades. It sure beats answering those essay questions with a lot of double-talk about Psychology when taking a Biology test.

LEO—July 23-August 23—Take time to meet the people in your classes. Take part in class discussions. You may find out college life isn't as scary or lonely as you thought it was.

VIRGO—August 24-September 22—Find out what the college has to offer. You may find there is more to do at Parkland than just going to class and studying. Become active in student activities.

LIBRA—September 23-October 23—Being the class clown in high school was ok—then, but now you may find a different response to your antics. In time others will forgive and forget. Keep a low profile for a while.

SCORPIO—October 24-November 21—As usual trying to beat the system has gotten you into trouble. Security has warned you not to park your car in unmarked areas. Now you've got a pile of tickets and security is watching your every move.

SAGITTARIUS—November 22-December 21—That syllabus may look foreboding now, but in sixteen weeks you'll be amazed how quickly you've gotten through it all. Whether you feel elated or panicky depends on what you do with your time this semester.

CAPRICORN—December 22-January 19—Try attending class once in a while. If you can't get up before 10 a.m. why did you sign up for 8 a.m. classes? Don't rely on others for your missed assignments. Time to grow up and take responsibility for yourself.

AGQUARIUS—January 20-February 18—Waiting until Sunday night to do your homework and cram for tests is not healthy. You'll be a nervous wreck by mid-term. Set aside time each day for studying. You'll feel much better at finals time.

PISCES—February 19-March 20—You've always been a social butterfly. Daddy is paying for your college expenses. By mid-term you'll have dropped half of your classes. How social are you going to feel when you repeat BIO 121 for the fourth time???

A 'new beat' for Parkland

Sulley concert is Aug. 26

Parkland students may hear a new beat this fall—rhythms of West Africa coming down the hall. Their infectious call can make one pause for a moment, suspend the preoccupation of classes and schedules, and listen to the message of the drums. Behind this new beat is Oscar Sulley, a composer/performing musician from Ghana who has had universal experience in the music world. "I want to bring the whole world together," he explains. "I use (the term), but maybe somebody else might have used it. I don't know. I write all kinds of shapes of music: classical, jazz, rock, concerto, even Japanese."

Sulley's warmth is an immediate encouragement for anyone who meets him. His eyes, his enthusiastic conversation, generate a "you can do it" feeling. The strange, the unusual, the unexplored in music becomes a real possibility. Sulley hopes to offer a new thrust to the Parkland student and the community. On top of a thick mixtures of rock and jazz instrumentation, he adds the sound of traditional music of West Africa.

Sulley will offer a percussion class, an African highlife band, a jazz ensemble—"Maybe we can have African dance and even opera," he adds.

Information can be obtained at Sulley's opening concert tomorrow (Tuesday, Aug. 26) at noon in the College Center.

Call for further information at 351-2217.

Jay Leno hosts 'Sat. Night Videos'

Popular comedian and NBC personality Jay Leno will take a light-hearted look at television when he co-hosts NBC-TV's "Friday Night Videos" with NBC Entertainment President Brandon Tartikoff following the September 5 edition of "The Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson."

When Leno signed an exclusive long-term contract with NBC Productions last June, Tartikoff said: "We share the opinion of the critics and fans that Leno is the foremost touring stand-up comedian in the country today."

On the Sept. 5 program, with Tartikoff as a willing foil, Leno applies his unique humor to the business of creating network programs.

Leno jokes with Tartikoff about his TV hits and misses, including NBC's mega-success "Miami Vice" and such past efforts as "Misfits of Science." Alluding to the inspiration behind the concepts of series, Leno quips: "Miami Vice" is really 'Charlie's Angels' without the estrogen in it." Tartikoff deadpans: "Starsky and Hutch" with a better car."

During another exchange, Leno questions Tartikoff's decision to move "Miami Vice" into the 9 p.m. time period on Fridays next season, head-to-head with "Dallas." Tartikoff advises: "Miami Vice" is a hot how. It's going to have great writing next year. I would say watch 'Miami Vice' and ask somebody about 'Dallas.' If you watch 'Dallas' and ask somebody the next day what happened on

'Miami Vice' they're probably not going to be able to explain it very well."

Music elements for this edition of "Friday Night Videos" will be announced soon.

Leno's contract with NBC Productions includes hosting late-night variety specials in the upcoming season, starring in his own series in 1987-88 plus making multiple guest appearances on current NBC shows. He has been a frequent guest on NBC's "Late Night with David Letterman" and has guest-hosted NBC's "Saturday Night Live." On "Friday Night Videos," he previously served as a co-host with Arnold Schwarzenegger in April and Pat Sajak in June.

Swank completes best recruiting

Parkland College Womens' Basketball coach Stan Swank can't help but smile—he's just completed what he calls his best recruiting year ever.

Swank has signed 11 freshmen to join the Cobras this fall. Among the best of his freshman class are:

Simone Black—The 5'7" guard from Chicago Bloom averaged 18.5 points and 9.2 rebounds a game as a senior. Black was selected to play in the Illinois Basketball Coaches' Association Class AA North All-Star team.

Tracy Escher—A 5'10" forward for Chicago St. Gregory, Escher averaged roughly 20 points and 13 rebounds last year. Escher was a Chicago Sun-Times All-State pick. "A lot of people have wondered why she didn't go to Illinois or Northwestern," Swank said.

Julie Kief—The 5'10" IBCA All-State forward from Ford Central especially impresses Swank. "Every time I see her in an All-Star game she's an MVP," he said. Kief averaged 15.8 points and 8.4 rebounds last year at Ford Central.

Gloria Robinson—Robinson, a 5'11" center, was named one of the top 20 players in the Chicago area by the Sun-Times after her senior season at Lockport Township.

Lisa Springborn—The 6'3" Leland center is the tallest Cobra recruit. Springborn averaged 18.8 points and 10.8 rebounds per game during her senior year. Springborn was named Leland's MVP in both girls' basketball and track.

These five recruits join an already impressive class: Sandy Braun and Beth Niebrugge, both from Class A state champion Teutopolis; Elunda Taylor, a 5'5" point guard from Blue Island Eisenhower; Loxiette Leake, a guard-forward from Centralia; Unity's Kelly Throneburg and Jackie Wheeler, a 1982 graduate from Oakwood.

All in all, Parkland recruited players from four of the 16 schools in the Class A State finals. Three players remain undecided about attending Parkland—Lisa Hayn, Tammi Jackson and Ann McDermott.

Add Banessa Williams, a transfer student from Southern Illinois University and A&M in Baton Rouge, La., and what kind of team will Swank have? "We're going to be young, experienced . . . and have credentials," he said. "Playing each other in practice should make us better."

Still, Swank remains just a little cautious. "This doesn't mean that they'll be the best," he said. "They'll have that potential. Whether we see their potential on the court is another question."

Wells will coach volleyball

Wells replaces Jeanne Sullivan, who left Parkland to pursue full-time work in Colorado. After her graduation from Eastern Illinois University in 1981, Wells taught physical education and coached at Fisher High School. After leaving Fisher, Wells worked at a Champaign fitness center and served as assistant strength coach for all women's sports except volleyball and basketball at the University of Illinois. In her spare time Wells is pursuing a masters' degree in Sports Administration and working as a graduate assistant at Illinois. She has also volunteered at the Prairie State Games. Wells lives in Champaign.

Centennial's Bowman is always 'in the mix'

By TOM WOODS
Prospectus Staff Reporter

P. J. Bowman is a dynamite attraction because everywhere he goes he turns it out, and he's always in the mix.

Bowman, who played basketball his junior year at Champaign Centennial High School and averaged 15.7 points a game before moving back to his native Ann Arbor, Mich., has selected Parkland College as his next step in a quest for further educational and athletic accomplishments.

Those who followed Centennial's 1984-85 basketball team (the year after Roger McClendon and Co.) know the facts:

• Bowman, after suffering a football injury in October of 1984, sat out Centennial's first three games of the Decatur Thanksgiving Tournament, but returned Dec. 1 against Mount Vernon to score 15 points in only two quarters.

• He became a regular after that game, and led Centennial to an upset victory over Champaign Central's highly regarded Maroons. Bowman scored 19 points and picked Lyndell Clemons', Central's all-state prospect, pocket several times for easy lay-ups.

"That game was exciting," said Bowman from his Ann Arbor home. "We let them do all the talking before the game, and then we did all the talking afterwards."

Bowman's decision to attend Parkland after averaging 22.0 points a game at his Ann Arbor high school was prompted by his father's move back to the U of I from the University of Michigan.

"He'll be working in the psychology department again," explained Bowman. "My mother just landed a job at Parkland as a counselor, so we plan to live in Fox Ridge Apartments for the year which is directly across the street from Parkland."

Bowman was accepted at Michigan State and Morehouse College in Atlanta before applying at Parkland.

"After my football injury last fall, I didn't think much about college ball when I applied to those schools; I didn't play a basketball game until January 23."

The 5-foot-11, 170-pound quarterback suffered a split tendon in his right knee in his first football game after sweeping end for a seven-yard gain on an option.

"It slowed me down a lot," said Bowman. "When hoop started, I shot around a lot and worked on my wrist action and release."

When he returned, it was like deja vu from the year before. He played in 10 games and averaged 22.0 points, shot 58 percent from the field, and 78 percent from the foul line.

"The competition here is different than back in Illinois," admitted Bowman. "You don't run into the Normal's or Urbana's too much, but it seems like there are better athletes here."

"We play more like Decatur or Chicago teams—more free-lance, but we are disciplined."

Bowman's competition at Parkland for the point-guard position will be returning starter Terrence Gray, and red-shirt sophomore Max Christie, who started the 1984 fall semester before being declared academically ineligible for the spring.

"I am looking forward to the challenge," said Bowman. "I realize they went 31-7 and won the championship last year which is great—I just want to contribute as much as I can and get an education at a fine school like Parkland."

• Comparing Bowman to past Centennial superstars is a task in itself. Bowman tied Myron Cockrell's single-game scoring record with 38 points against Rantoul in February, 1985. Former Centennial All-American Roger McClendon scored 35 points against Springfield Lanphier on March 2, 1984, but was taken out of the game late in the third quarter when the Chargers' Assembly Hall-bound team was ahead 60-26. Cockrell and McClendon played the wing position, while Bowman played point guard when he scored 38, a feat no other Champaign-Urbana floor general has accomplished this decade. In fact, the previous high for a Charger guard was 26 points by Charles Williams, a teammate of Cockrell's, in February of 1980.

• Myron Cockrell's recap of 38 points—The 6-foot-2 Cockrell bullied his way to nearly 40 point in January of 1980 when his 20-25-foot bombs almost single-handedly lifted the Chargers over Springfield Southeast in the Capitol City. He went 17-for-27 for the game, including 7-9 in the fourth quarter when he scored 18 of Centennial's 26 points. The Chargers lost 69-65, but Springfield followers left wondering what would have transpired had Cockrell not been forced to leave the game in the second quarter due to foul trouble.

Former Centennial and Parkland point guard, Mike Chastain, remembered the events vividly. "He was incredible," said Chastain, from his Kansas City, Mo. home. "He had three men on him in the fourth quarter and they still couldn't stop him. A Southeast cheering section began applauding him near the end of the game."

Cockrell averaged 24.0 points a game (671 total) and grabbed 249 rebounds (8.9 avg.) for 17-11 Centennial team that lost to state-bound Lincoln 59-54 in the Sectionals, a game that Cockrell finished his career with 32 points

• Roger McClendon's recap of 35 points—It was March 2, 1984—Roger McClendon Day was declared in Champaign as his famed No. 12 was retired in pre-game ceremonies.

This game meant more to McClendon than most, perhaps because it was Springfield Lanphier and Ed Horton—the defending state champs.

This 6-foot-4 slender, sharp-shooter aroused a packed Centennial gym with a game opening two-handed slam-dunk after he won the tip from Horton. He went on to bag 14-of-17 shots from the field and meshed four-for-four at the foul line. This single game provided "Big Mac" the thrust he needed to earn Chicago Sun-Times and News-Gazette Player-of-the-Year.

McClendon went on to lead his troops to the Assembly Hall, Centennial's first trip.

• P. J. Bowman's 38 points came at Rantoul in February of 1985. Playing the point guard position for Centennial requires leadership qualities and patience and doesn't usually mean carrying a heavy scoring burden. But, Bowman found that his one-on-one talents could be flashed in this particular game. His offensive prowess carried the Chargers to victory and gave him needed recognition among the state's premier guards.

He went 13-for-17 from the field and 11-13 at the foul line.

"Rantoul's Willie Carter was guarding me and Coach Carrodine told me to take him downtown—so I did," explained Bowman. "I didn't realize I had that many points—I was just glad to beat them up there."
