Leaving tomorrow

Dr. Magelli retires as head

By RICHARD CIBELLI
Staff Writer

"We seek to live our lives thinking about and contributing to change," Pres. Paul J. Magelli, said in his final address to faculty and staff in the Parkland Theatre Thursday evening.

Magelli retired as president at a Board of Trustees meeting Wednesday night and will have the title of president emeritus.

The Board of Trustees will name an interim president and use professional assistance to conduct a national search for a new president.

Magelli said, "I came to Parkland with a mandate from the Board of Trustees to balance the budget and to achieve fiscal accountability, to increase enrollment and improve retention, to strengthen ties with the community, to increase third-party income, to develop a plan for maintenance of the physical plant, and to develop policies more consistent with current practices in higher education, among other mandates. . . . I will leave Parkland with the assurance that these goals have been attained."

Magelli said he is "confident that Parkland can be a flagship community college which will attract national recognition."

The College will cooperate with four-year institutions to "make available a baccalaureate level degree," Magelli said.

His administration was

New computer fee, loan fund

A computer fee for Parkland students and a student loan program were approved at the Board of Trustees at their Aug. 23 meeting.

After lengthy discussion, a motion for the computer fee was carried. It will be implemented in the second semester of the 1989-1990 academic year.

The fee, to be charged for the use of computers in laboratories and classrooms, will add 50 cents per credit hour (with a $5 maximum per student per semester) for all students.

Approval was given to establish a $50,000 fund for short-term student loans. The student is required to pay 40 percent of the total amount to qualify for the loan. Trustees gave a "go ahead" to hire consulting for the enablement of the Information Associates computer software system for student services.

Policy considerations approved included the submission of the Resource Allocation Management Plan (RAMP) to the Illinois Community College Board, and an amendment to the existing agreement with Kankakee Community College for the interinstitutional enrollment of students in Parkland's Dental Assisting and Tractor Trailer Training programs and Kankakee's Machine Tool program.

In Dr. Magelli's regular report to the Board, he noted that enrollment is up 495 FTE (full-time equivalent students) from the previous fall, from 3,700 to 4,159.

"There is every reason to be very optimistic that enrollment will be the highest in Parkland's history," Dr. Magelli stated.

In business and financial action, the Board carried motions made to approve the personnel (see BOARD, page 4)

New safety program introduced

By DORIS BARR
Staff Writer

The new College safety program with increased personnel and extended hours will go into effect Monday. Combined with the new health program, Dick Norris, director of Student Support Services, says, "It will provide people with a combination of law enforcement and basic health training who will be on hand to respond to an emergency situation any time the college is open."

The new program calls for two officers plus Doug Davis, associate director of Health and Safety, to be on duty during the day and two officers at night. The Board of Trustees approved a contract with RA-CO for coverage during off hours and when the campus is closed.

The officers will wear new hunter green blazers with the college crest on the pocket, grey pants or skirt, striped green and grey tie, and white shirt. They will carry two-way radios to communicate with each other and with the college switchboard.

The officers will have law enforcement as well as EMT-A (first level) emergency health care training, Norris said, and they will be available to respond every hour the college is open from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday.

Students will be hired to perform parking lot duties including giving tickets for illegal parking, helping drivers to start stalled cars, unlocking cars, and answering other requests for assistance.

Second immunizations may be necessary

By MARY ECKER
Staff Writer

Although only five cases of measles were reported in Champaign County from June until mid-August, there were 900 cases in Chicago during that period, according to the Illinois Department of Public Health, and it is reasonable to expect that there will be more cases here as students return to Parkland and the University this week.

Other areas of the country also are reporting an increase in the number of measles cases.

Why all the fuss about a childhood disease that usually doesn't last longer than a couple of weeks? Jan Thom, health educator in the Office of Health and Safety, says measles is not only a highly contagious disease, but can increase the risk of spontaneous abortion and premature labor in pregnant women and cause low birth weight of infants. Complications resulting from a measles infection are responsible for death in approximately one case per 1,000, Thom said.

You are protected from measles if you were diagnosed by a physician as having them, and if you were born before 1957, you probably had the disease, Thom said.

You also won't get the little red spots, according to Thom, if there are measles antibodies present in your blood, or if you had live measles vaccine on or after your first birthday.

Now for the bad news: you are susceptible to measles if you have never had them, you were given live measles vaccine before your first birthday, you were born after 1956 and received a killed measles vaccine between 1963 and 67. If you were vaccinated after 1967 with live measles vaccine, you probably are protected, Thom said.

A second immunization is not being recommended for people who are protected, but if the recommendation changes, Thom said Public Health will publicize the information.

She recommends calling your family physician if you wonder if you have been immunized. To find out if you are eligible for free measles immunization, call the Champaign-Urbana Public Health District at 352-7961. For more information about measles, call the Parkland Office of Health and Safety, 351-2214.

Students to vote on StuGo officials

Parkland students will go to the polls Wednesday, Sept. 13, to elect a Student Government president and three senators.

Job descriptions are available in X153 or by calling the Student Support Office, Ext. 492.

A fact sheet for the election lists the following information:

Requirements: Officers and senators must be enrolled in not less than eight hours with a grade point average of not less than 2.0 (if previously enrolled at Parkland).

Candidates' Meeting: All candidates should be present at an orientation meeting Thursday, Sept. 7 12:15 p.m. in X 159. A photograph will be taken of all candidates for publication in the Prospectus.

Petition deadline: Thursday, Sept. 7 at 12:15 p.m. in X 159 is the deadline for petitions. Candidates who submitted a completed petition by this date and time and have met all requirements for the office will have their names on the official ballot. Others may be write-in candidates.

Guidelines for coverage: Each candidate is permitted free space in the Prospectus to present his/her position. One 1/2 by 11 inch typed, double-spaced page should be submitted by Friday, Sept. 8 at 11 a.m. in the Prospectus office, X155. Articles which are late will not be printed. Articles exceeding the one-page limit will be edited by a newspaper staff member. If no platform is submitted to the paper, the photograph will not be published, but the candidate's name will appear. The Sept. 12 (Tuesday) edition of the paper will carry the election platforms.

Name on ballot: The order of candidates' names on the ballot will be determined by a draw at the candidates' meeting. The name will be printed as written on the "official application." Changes may be requested at the candidates' meeting.

Campaigning: Campaigning begins Thursday, Sept. 7, at 1 p.m.

Candidates may request instructors' permission to speak to classes.

Approval of campaign material: All campaign material must be approved by the Election Board previous to distribution on campus. Material should be left in the Activities Office and will be approved by the Board before 3 p.m. daily.

Campaign material: Poster and campaign materials are prohibited on any surface other than mounted bulletin boards, tack-strips, or wood posts (tacks, nails or tape are not permitted on the wood post).

Posters are prohibited on glass surfaces, doors, vending machines, floors, ceiling, walls, or attached to wood posts by tape.

Any materials not approved by the Election Board will be discarded.

Posters may not be larger than 22 by 28 inches, nor smaller than 8 by 10 inches. Handouts may be smaller.

Poster board may be purchased in the Activities Office at 25 cents per sheet. Dittos may be purchased at 25 cents per ditto master, and 100 copies will cost $1. Dittos will be run off by the Student Government secretary only. Banners are limited to a maximum size of 22 by 28 inches and must be freestanding. A maximum of 15 posters will be allowed for each candidate.

All campaign material will be removed and discarded by the College on Thursday evening, Sept. 14.

Polls: Polls will be located in the College Center. The polls will be operated by two poll workers assigned by the Election Board Chairman. Candidates, write-in candidates, campaign managers and supporters are prohibited from campaigning on the wooden floor surrounding the voting area.

Tallying ballots: Ballots will be tallied upon closing of polls Sept. 15. Because of limited area of tabulation, only members of the Election Board candidates or their representative will be permitted in the tally room. In the event of a tie, a coin toss will determine the winner.

Audit: A requested audit of the election must be submitted within six hours of the following college day, Friday, Sept. 16. Any candidate requesting an audit should submit a request in writing to the Election Board chairman with the stated time. Requests submitted after this period will not be honored.

Housing office offers service

By RICHARD CIBELLI
Staff Writer

Looking for an apartment or a roommate can be very frustrating, but the Office of Housing at Parkland offers help.

Established in May, the Office offers the student a free referral service that includes a list of clean and safe housing within the Champaign-Urbana community, that has been visited by a staff member, is insured, and does not discriminate against tenants.

In addition to offering the students information about available housing, the office also has a roommate referral service.

After completing a roommate questionnaire, the student receives a list of other students who are also looking for roommates. It is then up to the student to contact the person who the student feels best fits his/her version of the ideal roommate. After a contact has been made, the Office of Housing suggests that the students meet and discuss the idea of being roommates. However, Housing personnel say no decision should be made until both students have had some time to think it over.

They also suggest that a student seriously consider whether he/she wants to room with a person before signing a lease, which is binding whether the roommates are compatible or not. The Office of Housing is not responsible for any payment of contract.

The Office has distributed more than 300 dormitory and apartment packages to students since the end of May. In addition, 100 were distributed to high school counselors for circulation to college-bound students.

The Office will begin accepting apartment owner registrations again in March.

Students wishing housing information or packets can pick them up in X155 or call: 351-2593.

The Prospectus is printed weekly during the college year by students of Parkland College, 2400 W. Bradley Ave., Champaign, IL 61821.

Opinions expressed in editorials, letters to the editor and unsolicited stories are not necessarily those of the Prospectus or of Parkland College. Letters to the Editor must be signed (names will be printed) and phone number must accompany letter.

Editorial offices are located in X155 at Parkland College, phone (217) 351-2216. Advertising rates available upon request.

The Prospectus is distributed on the Parkland Campus and throughout Champaign-Urbana.

ALCs begin registration

This semester, Parkland will offer courses at 24 Area Learning Centers, including four recently established centers in communities adjacent to Parkland College District 505 on the northwest.

Residents of Parkland's district can take classes at any ALC location. They do not have to live in the community in which the class is offered. Many of the classes begin in late August or early September. Several begin at midsemester.

Preregistration for the classes is encouraged, but if space is available, students can register at the first class meeting. The Admissions office 1-800-346-8089 (toll free), can supply information about registration and space availability.

Plus trade fair

Parkland plans equine events

By JOAN DOAKS
Staff Writer

Five hundred horses, fifteen hundred riders, grooms, and owners, and hundreds of spectators are expected to attend the free all-day Champaign Equine Event and trade fair on the east side of the Parkland campus and in Pick Dodds park on Sunday Sept. 24.

"It will be the largest single day equine activity in Illinois beside the State fair," Blake Munson, chairman of the Organizing Committee for the event, said. Horses will be brought from Indiana, Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri, and Michigan as well as Illinois, he said.

The event is being sponsored by Parkland and the Champaign Park District.

Horse trials will start with a dressage competition at 7 a.m. The Hunter-Jump show will begin at 8 a.m. and the Society and Western Show at 8:30 a.m.

Demonstrations will include A Musical Dressage at noon; Reining Horse at 1 p.m.; Draft Horses at 1:30 p.m., and Miniature Horses at 3 p.m.

Ribbons and cash awards will be awarded to winners of most events. Gifts and a trophy will be presented to winners of the Championship class.

The Trade Fair, which will be housed in a 30 by 90-foot tent, will offer jewelry, car, clothing, tack, insurance, realty, and crafts. Student organizations also will sell food and offer concessions.

There will be no charge for general admission to the Equine Event and Fair which will continue from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m. on Sunday.

Event activity will begin with a Patrons/Exhibitors Party inside Parkland on Saturday evening at 7 o'clock for which a fee will be charged. It will include a catered buffet, music, and dancing. A fee also will be required for the Patrons Club, which includes a commemorative pin and ribbon, admittance to the Patrons Club tent where food and beverages will be served, reserved bleacher seating, and preferred parking. A Patrons Package includes both events.

Gala Sargent, head of the Parkland Equine Management Program, is staff advisor to the committee planning the event.

Inaugural issue well-received

By DORIS BARR
Staff Writer

Copies of the first edition of "Tamaqua," Parkland literary magazine, are selling well, Chris Lake, sophomore, business manager, says, and the staff is gearing up for the next issue scheduled for Jan. 1.

The 64-page magazine contains three pieces of fiction, an interview, 13 poems, and eight photos of art shown in the Student Fine Arts exhibit. No advertising was solicited for the inaugural issue, but ads will be accepted for the next issue.

Subscription price for the publication is $8 per year or $4.50 each. Copies are available at the Parkland Bookstore and at other locations in the Twin Cities where magazines are sold.

"The issue offers a lot of good writing by a variety of local authors," Shannon Peters, sophomore, managing editor, said. The writers whose works appear in this issue are from Chicago, Florida, Tennessee, and a number of area towns.

"We had a good response from our flyer and were mentioned in several newsletters, so the nine readers on the selection committee had a wide variety to choose from. All the entries were submitted anonymously for judging," Peters said.

Contribution of material was open to the general public, and payment for accepted pieces ranged from $5 to $20. "Quality of the piece was the only criterion for judgment," James McGowan, instructor and advisor-editor, said.

The publication, which is sanctioned by the Parkland Humanities Department, is funded by subscriptions, individual donors, business sponsors, and matching College funds to $2,500. McGowan said plans call for applying for state and federal arts grants next year.

Management class offered

Parkland College and the Apartment Association of Champaign County will cosponsor the National Apartment Association's Certified Apartment Manager Training Program. The class will meet Mondays and Wednesdays, Sept. 6-Oct. 11, 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. in Room M232 at Parkland.

The training program is designed for individuals employed in real estate professions who desire improvement of their knowledge of residential property management. Topics include apartment community analysis, economics of apartment management, marketing, preparing demonstration apartments, maintenance management, legal aspects, fire prevention, and safety and security.

Successful completion of the class leads to professional designation as a certified apartment manager as offered by the National Apartment Management Accreditation Board.

Early registration is encouraged. For registration and fee information, call the Office of Economic Development at Parkland College, 351-2478.

CAMPUS NEWS

marked by controversy which came to a head last October when faculty, staff and administrators, in an unprecedented referendum, voted two to one that they had no confidence in his administration.

The Board then voted 6-0 in favor of Magelli and hired an evaluator from outside the College, but that review was never made public. Last July, the College announced plans for a balanced budget for the 1990 fiscal year that called for cuts from the Theatre, women's studies, and other areas.

Magelli was named as a candidate for two positions at universities in Minnesota.

Magelli said, "These are troubled and wonderful times. I have been challenged, and I remain an optimist."

These representatives commented: George Johnston, Vice President of the Parkland College Association, "The timing of it was somewhat of a surprise, and nobody expected it to happen at the Board meeting. The decision has been made, and now let's get on with it. A lot of what's been happening is we've just been unable to make a decision about anything. The decision has been made now, and there's no use in crying over spilled milk. Let's get on with it, and let's do what has to be done. The future is going to be a tough one, and no one said that it's going to be easy, but we'll get there."

Brad Hastings, President of the Parkland College Association, "I think that he did a good job in closing out and addressing the faculty. I think he gave the credit that we, as a faculty, thought we were due. I think he showed himself to be a class act, a gentleman, and a scholar. I think all of his comments were positive and on an upbeat, and that is significant for our future, and I think that it's nice that he thought about our future. These kinds of things happen, and when change occurs, (it) occurs . . . In a changing world, you expect change, and we have a job to do . . . I think my relationship with Dr. Magelli was really a good relationship and we could agree on things. We could argue with each other, and we would at least reach some sort of resolution, and I'm very positive about that. I hope the new president will come in with the same kind of attitude and respect the ideas of the faculty. If this occurs, we will continue to have an excellent educational institution. I think Parkland is the greatest community college in the country."

Greg Thom, Chairman of the Parkland Academic Employees, "We're going to have new leadership, a new financial picture, a new computer enriched environment. We have a lot of outside money. A lot of positive changes have occurred."

Summary

(from page 1) report, invoices, a working cash investment income transfer, engine analyzer bid, paper supply bid, student newspaper printing bid, a new safety and security services system, electrical improvements, and a drainage improvement application for the Build Illinois Program Grant.

Welcome new students

Welcome! Whether you are coming to Parkland for the first time or a returning student, the College's entire faculty and staff are dedicated to ensuring that you experience will be rewarding and fulfilling. You, the students, are the real reason we are here.

Parkland College was built upon a shared vision. Foresight, and the willingness to build upon hopes, turned that vision into a reality that has served thousands of students for more than two decades.

You are invited to share in the renewed vision of Parkland College. Your ultimate success is the fulfillment of our theme: The Promise of Parkland. As a part of that promise, you can share in the vision by being an informed education consumer. Through involvement, you will stretch who you are and how you think. As you begin this semester, I encourage you to take the time to know your fellow students, the faculty, and the staff. Your education is like anything else in life; you will gain from it in proportion to your investment in it.

How will you take part in the shared vision? Participate in class discussions, but don't stop there. Your voice can be heard beyond the classroom. Your assessment of the faculty will help shape and change the institution into an exemplary one. Your utilization of our newly computer-enriched environment will stretch the possibilities of your education. Your interaction in the international extent of our student body will challenge and broaden the scope of your human understanding.

And let us know how we are doing. Inform us of your needs in services and education. Where there is a lack, fill the gaps in our vision. Be involved in the enrichment of the art gallery, the theater, and the optional lecture. Explore clubs, organizations, recreation, musical groups, and activities. Study to get the job, but also be prepared to earn the promotion. By expanding your learning experience, you can realize the promise of Parkland and fulfill within it a vision for the future.

Nursing program gets $40M from trust fund

The Parkland College Associate Degree Nursing Program has received a grant for $40,000 from the Helene Fuld Health Trust, the nation's largest charitable trust devoted exclusively to the welfare of undergraduate student nurses. The grant funds will be used to purchase educational computer equipment for the program.

The grant was announced recently by Marine Midland Bank of New York City, which serves as trustee for the Helene Fuld Health Trust. Parkland's nursing program received the grant in recognition of its outstanding contributions to the nursing profession in training undergraduate students to render bedside care to patients.

Since the creation of the trust in 1969, Marine Midland Bank as trustee has made grants to nursing schools in excess of $41 million. Nursing schools in 49 of the 50 states as well as in Puerto Rico, the U.S. Virgin Islands, Canada, Israel, Lebanon, and Turkey have received grants.

The trust presently has a value of nearly $75 million.

 Oct. 24, 26, 31; Nov. 2, 7; 1-4 p.m.

Lotus 1-2-3 (Advanced Functions)

A workshop for users of Lotus who want to learn more about @FUNCTIONS and RANGES. Individuals will be shown how to facilitate spreadsheets with the use of string, logical, lookup, and data base functions. Experience with 1-2-3 required.

Fee $90; 9 hours
 WKS 554-094; Monday, Wednesday
 Sept. 27; Oct. 2, 4; 6-9 p.m.
 WKS 554-095; Monday, Wednesday, Friday
 Nov. 13, 15, 17; 1-4 p.m.

Lotus 1-2-3 (Macros)

Individuals will learn how to automate Lotus 1-2-3 worksheets with macros. Experience with Lotus required.

Fee $60; 6 hours
 WKS 555-094; Wednesday, Friday
 Nov. 29; Dec. 1; 1-4 p.m.

Lotus 1-2-3 for Secretaries

Designed for secretaries involved in microcomputer data entry. This workshop will cover the popular software spreadsheet, Lotus 1-2-3. Microcomputer experience not required.

Fee $60; 6 hours
 WKS 556-094; Friday
 Oct. 6, 13; 1-4 p.m.

WordPerfect 5.0

Individuals will learn to use the WordPerfect word processing software program on the microcomputer. Microcomputer experience not required but typing ability necessary.

Fee $60; 6 hours
 WKS 557-094; Monday, Wednesday
 Sept. 18, 20; 1-4 p.m.
 WKS 557-095; Monday, Wednesday
 Oct. 2, 4; 1-4 p.m.
 WKS 557-096; Monday, Wednesday
 Oct. 30; Nov. 1; 1-4 p.m.

WordPerfect 5.0 (Advanced)

Improvements in the new WordPerfect 5.0 over earlier revisions will be highlighted. Individuals will learn many advanced features. Experience with WordPerfect required.

Fee $30; 3 hours
 WKS 558-094; Monday
 Nov. 6; 1-4 p.m.

WordPerfect 5.0 (Macros)

Individuals will learn how to define and execute macros for frequently used WordPerfect operations. Creation of a macro library and how macros compare and contrast to styles will be discussed. Experience with WordPerfect 5.0 required.

Fee $30; 3 hours
 WKS 559-094; Wednesday
 Nov. 8; 1-4 p.m.

d Base IV (Introduction) New!

Introduction to the use of a database. This workshop will cover the popular d Base IV software program. Microcomputer experience not required.

Fee $90; 9 hours
 WKS 560-094; Monday, Wednesday
 Oct. 16, 18, 23; 6-9 p.m.

Intersection to be marked

By RICHARD CIBELLI
Staff Writer

Starting this semester, students exiting Parkland College onto Bradley Avenue, will get some help that may help them avoid tickets for an illegal left-hand turn.

Denny Eliman, director of Parkland's Physical Plant, says the exit out of Parkland onto Bradley will be marked to alert motorists that they can only make a left-hand turn from the left lane.

In the past, motorists leaving Parkland have been making left-hand turns onto Bradley Avenue from the right lane, which constitutes an illegal maneuver, according to the Illinois Vehicle Code.

The code states that a driver making a left-hand turn out of a right turn lane that is not clearly marked, enters into the blind spot of the driver in the left lane, therefore executing an unsafe maneuver. However, if the intersection is clearly marked with left-turn lanes for both left and right-hand lanes, then it is perfectly legal.

The problem of drivers making illegal left-hand turns is not new to the college. In fact, in past years, members of the Parkland staff have even stood out in the middle of the street to direct traffic during peak hours.

The possibility of having two left-hand turns coming out of the campus has also been considered but would require a traffic study to determine if there is sufficient room for two turn lanes.

LaLetta Hackett-Jenkins, program assistant, Student Support Services, helps Donny Wang, a student, to make housing arrangements for the fall semester.

Two workshops set for re-entry students

Parkland College Adult Learning Opportunities Program will offer two workshops for reentry students during September.

"Successful Study Strategies" will be held Wednesday, Sept. 6, from 6 to 7 p.m., and will repeat Thursday, Sept. 7, from noon to 1 p.m.

Maryann Kohut, Parkland Learning Lab director, will present information on how to read textbooks effectively, how to record and learn from lecture notes, and how to retain information.

"Back to School: Adult Reentry Workshop" will be held Thursday, Sept. 14, from 7 to 9 p.m. Dorothy Voyles, Parkland humanities instructor, will present practical and time-saving techniques, including time management skills, balancing school and family responsibilities, and using Parkland's support services.

Fee for each workshop session is $5, and early registration is encouraged.

For more information, contact Adult Learning Opportunities, 351-2390.

Students have opportunity to help other students

By Joan Doaks
Staff Writer

"You can travel abroad without ever leaving home," Carol Steinman says, by joining the International Buddy Program.

More than 100 students from 30 countries including Japan, Cyprus, Gabon, and Turkey are enrolled here this semester.

Students can get a lot of "benes" from joining the program which calls for spending three or four hours per month, Steinman says. She is assistant director of Student Support Services. More information can be obtained from her office in X161 or by calling 351-2584.

Farming tops danger list

Farming can be dangerous business.

For the third straight year, agriculture heads the National Safety Council list of the most deadly U.S. occupations. Mining and construction are ranked second and third.

Agriculture had 1,500 deaths and 140,000 disabling injuries last year, an average of 48 deaths per 100,000 workers, the Council reports. The average is down slightly from 49 deaths in 1987.

Illinois had 84 farm-related injuries and 45 deaths from July 1, 1988 to 89.

Farm accidents peak dramatically in late afternoon, John Shutske, safety specialist with the Country Companies, says. He attributes the rise to fatigue many farmers experience after working eight hours on a day job and then working on the farm all evening.

Fire is also a constant hazard on the farm, Shutske says. Each year, more than 1,600 combine and tractor fires cost U.S. farmers and their insurers from $10 to $15 million, he said.

And, although fall is the time for drives through the countryside to admire the colorful scenery, Shutske says slow-moving combines and other big equipment can cause serious accidents. Most of these accidents are caused by motorists who cannot reduce their speed in time to overtake the machinery safely, according to Shutske.

"The biggest difference between passing a car or truck and passing a SMV (slowly moving vehicle) is the time it takes to pass safely. Motorists do not realize that tractors travel on the average of 15 miles an hour — and drivers fail to adjust for that reduced reaction time," he said.

For example, a motorist driving 55 mph and coming over the top of a hill sees a truck 400 feet ahead that is traveling 45 mph. The motorist has 27 seconds to slow down before reaching the truck. If the vehicle ahead is a tractor travelling 15 mph, there are only 7 seconds before a collision may occur.

Troopers to increase patrolling

PESOTUM, ILL. — Illinois State Police is stepping up enforcement in construction zones throughout Illinois as part of the "Give 'Em A Brake" program. The program is a cooperative effort between the Illinois State Police and the Illinois Department of Transportation in order to reduce injuries and deaths in road work zones.

State troopers will be patrolling extra hours at selected sites particularly watching for speeding and reckless driving. The Illinois State Police advise motorists that strict enforcement will be maintained with citations being issued to violators.

Orange and black "Give 'Em A Brake" warning signs are being placed on highway work sites to warn motorists of the reduced speed zones they will encounter.

Motorists are encouraged to voluntarily comply with the reduced speed areas and to be cautious when driving through the work zones.

Arab Gulf seminar here on Oct. 19

In cooperation with the Central Illinois Exporters' Association, Parkland College will host a day-long seminar on "Doing Business with the Arab Gulf" Thursday, Oct. 19, in the Parkland College Theatre.

The seminar, designed for business and commerce officials from across the state, will be held in coordination with Parkland College, the University of Illinois Department of Continuing Education/International Affairs, and the Mid-America Arab Chamber of Commerce. Other local cosponsors will include area Chambers of Commerce and Economic Development groups.

Participants in the seminar will include a large contingent of businessmen from the Federation of the Arab-Gulf Chamber of Commerce. Countries to be represented by these top-level businessmen include Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Bahrain, Qatar, The United Arab Emirates, Oman, and Iraq. Representatives from 300 companies in Illinois will be invited to attend the seminar.

For additional information, write to Dr. Michael P. Saba, president of CIEA, 1819 S. Neil St., Suite B, Champaign, Ill. 61820 or phone 217-352-1661.

Workshop to offer help in lab

At a workshop to be held in Champaign Aug. 31, science teachers, lab managers and school administrators will learn techniques to reduce amounts of hazardous chemical waste produced in their labs.

With funding from the Hazardous Waste Research and Information Center (HWRIC), Dr. Wayne Wesolowski of Illinois Benedictine College in Lisle is developing a comprehensive management plan for schools and small industrial labs that includes pilot workshops, informational materials, a "waste exchange" for recycling usable materials, and a waste disposal consortium. The workshop will teach attendees how to design and implement a waste management plan in their labs and on their campuses.

"The principle problem in these labs," Wesolowski said, "is lack of information. Lab managers and administrators are unaware of obligations under federal regulations; they often assume that their labs are too small to be regulated. The federal small quantity generator (SQG) regulations have now drawn many of them under the regulatory umbrella.

"These regulations apply to all generators who produce between 220 and 2200 pounds per month of hazardous wastes. For some acutely toxic materials, even the smallest amounts are regulated. Many lab managers lack the technical expertise and regulatory knowledge to address problems associated with these wastes," he said.

To solve this information gap, Wesolowski has designed one-day workshops "providing practical, nuts and bolts information so that attendees leave with the knowledge and skills needed to solve their hazardous waste management problems."

The morning sessions focus on regulatory requirements. "We look at the problem of hazardous materials in general by reviewing state and federal regulations," he said.

The afternoon sessions focus on the mechanics of managing the wastes and also minimizing their generation in the first place. School administrators and instructors are encouraged to perform waste audits.

"Hazardous wastes are found in many places on a campus. For example, waste oil from buses and other vehicles, solvents from paint shops and newspaper operations, are supplies and swimming pool chemicals can all be regulated. It can easily accumulate to 220 pounds a month, and the school becomes an SQG," Wesolowski said.

In addition to waste audits, other techniques are taught, such as management of chemical and laboratory stockrooms. Chemistry teachers learn how and where to order chemicals in smaller quantities.

Laboratory waste minimization techniques are also taught and encouraged. "Micro-scale lab practices using small-scale test tubes, beakers and other equipment in experiments reduce the amount of chemicals required," Wesolowski said. "Other techniques cut down on amounts of chemicals required but use conventional equipment."

The workshop will be held Aug. 31, from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the State Water Survey Research Center, 2204 Griffith Drive, Champaign. For more information about the workshop and to register, call Claudia Washburn at HWRIC: 217/333-8945. Registration is free, but there is a $7 charge for lunch. The registration deadline is August 25.

20th Earth Day in April

On April 22, 1990, millions of people all over the world will celebrate the twenty-year anniversary of the first Earth Day. Earth day was initiated in the United States by volunteers who were concerned about the deteriorating quality of the natural environment. Festivals, news broadcasts, educational programs, and musical concerts were held to raise awareness of environmental problems in the U.S. and throughout the world.

Next April, a volunteer coalition of groups, churches, schools, and businesses in Champaign County will sponsor events that celebrate twenty years of environmental improvements in the county.

Groups like the Champaign County Forest Preserve District, Community Recycling Center, Audubon, and the Sierra Club and numerous other organizations will hold events and activities that educate the public about local environmental progress. The theme of earth Day in Champaign County is "Earth Day Every Day."

The coalition is inviting all interested churches, Boy and Girl Scout troops, 4-H clubs, extension service clubs, and any other group and individual to participate in Earth Day 90. All groups are encouraged to plan an event in their own villages or work with the coalition to educate others throughout the county. Projects can be as simple as putting up a display about the environment in a public library to having a community-wide environmental fair.

For more information about Earth Day 90, please contact Lisa Radke at the Community Recycling Center, Champaign, at 351-4495.

Firemen to set house on fire

The Sixth Annual Fire Investigation Training Conference will be at Howard Johnson's Sept. 6-10, 1989.

The special program is a practical exercise including the investigation of a home which is scheduled to be set ablaze, Sept 4th or 5th depending upon the weather.

Throughout the conference, students, divided into two teams, civil and criminal, will use their experience to investigate the fire scene, interview witnesses and by using all the evidence will be responsible to make the decision—Was it Arson?

Other sessions will include; Fire Investigation Pitfalls, Explosive Devices, Investigative Photography, Accidental Fire Causes, Forensic Lab Update and Circumstantial Evidence.

For more information contact Ken Goodnight at 309-766-5580.

Bees have role in food supply

By DENNIS R. THOMPSON
Sr. Extension Adviser

When we think of bees, the first thing we think of is their sting! The second thing we think of is honey. Most people never think of how bees pollinate our crops, directly affecting American agriculture. But we tend to take for granted that this sometimes pesky insect we call the honey bee plays an invaluable role in our varied and plentiful food supply.

Honey bees are known in scientific terminology as Apis mellifera. In a typical hive, there are three kinds of honey bees. The queen bee lays eggs and rules the hive with chemical messages called pheromones; the worker bee, a sterile female, does all the work the hive requires; and the drone, a male bee with only one function, fertilizes the queen in her first few days of life.

Worker bees gather food, primarily pollen and nectar, from flowers. As they forage from flower to flower, pollen sticks to their hairy bodies. Often, when the bees brush against petals and branches, pollen will fall into unfertilized flowers. Honey bees unintentionally pollinate more than 90 cultivated crops, with a combined annual value of $20 billion. Honey bee pollination affects about every third mouthful of food or drink we consume. These foods include apples, almonds, blueberries, cranberries, cantaloupes, other melons, and cucumbers.

Many plants pollinated by honey bees contribute indirectly to human diets because they are important food sources for livestock and wildlife. These plants include alfalfa, clover, wild fruits, and berries. Also, honey bees are important in pollinating plants needed for dune and marsh stabilization. Many insects besides honey bees can pollinate plants, but no other insect is more easily managed or relocated for specific pollination, nor does any other insect pollinate such a wide range of plants.

Honey bees are famous for their honey. Each year, honey bees in the United States produce about 250 million pounds of honey, a byproduct valued at $200 million. Honey bees also manufacture 4 million pounds of beeswax each year and several lesser known substances like bee pollen, bee venom, and royal jelly, which are important ingredients in a variety of products.

First forum Sept. 8

The Fall 1989 Friday forum luncheon-speaker series will begin at noon, Friday, Sept 8 at the University YMCA. The topic for the semester is, "A Roof Over Our Heads: Housing in the 90s." Robert Katz, Director of the Housing Research and Development Program at the University of Illinois, will open the eleven-part series with a lecture on current housing issues and problems.

With this series, we will explore, form a variety of perspectives, current issues and problems in the area of housing. The Friday Forum Committee, which is composed of fifteen volunteers and several staff, selected the topic of housing in order to provide information and promote dialogue about this important basic human need.

There is renewed interest in housing in many places around the country. Congress will soon be drafting and considering the first housing bill in 8 years, and the problems of homelessness, low-income housing availability, and a moderate-income housing "crunch" are receiving the attention of governments and grass-roots organizations.

Lunch will be available by reservation, but those who prefer may attend the presentation free without purchasing lunch.

For more information, give the University YMCA a call at 337-1500 or stop by and pick up a flier.

Urbana philatelists set show date for Oct. 14

This year the 16th Annual stamp show sponsored by the Campaign Urbana Stamp Club will be at the Urbana Civic Center, on Oct. 14-15.

One of the most popular activities is the hourly auction table where most of the bidding starts at five-cents. Also this year a video will be shown each day at 11am and 1:30. "The Video Guide to Stamp Collecting," is narrated by TV's Gary Burghoff, "Radar" of M*A*S*H*.

Kids receive a free packet of stamps and the Post Office table will have the new dinosaur stamp and during the show you can obtain a special dinosaur cancellation.

Doors open at 10am each day. For more information call 352-7598.

Classes in ballet, tap, jazz, mod set at Urbana

Urbana Park District will hold an open house for prospective and returning dance students tonight (Aug. 28) from 6:30 to 8:00. at the Thornburn Center, 101 N. McCullough, Urbana.

Dance instructors will be available to explain ballet, tap, jazz, and modern dance classes.

Registration for fall classes will be accepted and dance wear will be available for purchase.

Crimestoppers seek info on robbery

This week Crimestoppers is seeking information on an armed robbery that occurred at Colonial Liquors in Rantoul. On Thursday, Aug. 3, at approximately 8:15 p.m., a black male suspect entered the Colonial Liquor Store at 219 S. Maplewood in Rantoul. This same suspect had been in the store approximately ten minutes earlier and purchased a quart of beer and left. After entering the second time, the suspect approached the counter and ordered a pack of cigarettes, and when the cashier opened the register, the suspect placed a gun to her head and announced a holdup. After taking all of the money from the register, the suspect walked out of the store and fled to the east.

The suspect is described as a black male, 25 to 30 years of age, 5 to 6 feet tall, 180 to 220 pounds. The suspect was wearing a faded navy blue sweatshirt with the sleeves cut off, gray pants, possibly cut off at the mid thigh, a bandanna on his forehead, sunglasses, and a black baseball cap with two letters on the front.

Rantoul police investigators are seeking any information you may have on the suspect or a vehicle description.

Crimestoppers will pay you a reward of up to $1,000 if your information leads to the arrest of the persons responsible for this crime. If you have any information at all, call 373-TIPS. Callers do not have to give their names. Cash rewards are also paid for information on other felony crimes or fugitives in the Champaign County area.

Carle Arbours calls for Alzheimer volunteers

By MATT WILSON
Staff Writer

A program for volunteers who wish to work with Alzheimer patients will be offered at the Carle Arbours at two three-hour sessions at 7 p.m. Sept. 7 and at 9 a.m. Sept. 9.

Volunteers help by discussing current events, reading, playing table games, and participating in musical and craft activities.

Both programs will be conducted in the facility at 302 Burwash, Savoy. No fee will be charged for the sessions, but registration is required. For more information or to register, call: 337-3090.

Pesotum troopers issue

1,084 speed tickets!

PESOTUM, Ill. — Illinois State Police of District 10, Pesotum, handled 386 calls for service and assistance during the month of July.

Criminal activities during the month resulted in the apprehension of 22 persons on outstanding warrants and 16 others were arrested on other criminal offenses.

Traffic enforcement activities resulted in 1,084 drivers arrested for speeding and 231 cited for seatbelt violations. Eighteen persons were apprehended for driving under the influence, while 43 others were arrested for other alcohol and drug related offenses. A total of 1,627 traffic citations and 3,539 written warnings were issued to motorists during the month.

Truck enforcement statistics show troopers making 12 arrests for overweight loads and also issued 26 written warnings for overweight violations.

Provisional statewide traffic fatality statistics show 142 persons died on Illinois highways during July, bring the year's total to 883. This is 94 under 1988's total for the same period of time.

District 10 troopers handled 90 traffic accidents within the nine county area in East Central Illinois that makes up the District. Ten fatalities were reported for the month of July. Coles and Shelby County had three, Champaign County had two and one fatality each in Edgar and Macon counties.

Fund calls volunteers

A Woman's Fund, a comprehensive service for persons affected by domestic violence (A Woman's Place) or sexual assault (Rape Crisis Services), is recruiting volunteers to work in all aspects of the agency.

Persons interested in volunteering should call 384-4462 by Sept. 5. Childcare and transportation are available upon request.

Volunteers of Rape Crisis Ser-VICES provide assistance to victims of sexual assault through the 24-hour help line, crisis counseling, advocacy with medical and legal systems, and community education, including the Child Assault Prevention Project. A Woman's Place volunteers provide counseling and advocacy to victims of domestic violence, activities with children in the shelter, transportation, community education and clerical duties.

No special skills or education is required of volunteers, simply a commitment to helping others and an openness to new experiences. Volunteers will be trained in a awareness of issues related to sexual assault and domestic violence, crisis intervention and counseling skills. Call 384-4462 to learn more about this opportunity.

Storyteller, quartet at Krannert

URBANA, Ill. — Two special events highlight the second full week of the 1989-1990 season at Krannert Center for the Performing Arts, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign: a noontime Interval performance by storyteller Beth Horner on Sept. 13, and a concert Sept. 17 by the legendary Modern Jazz Quartet.

Beth Horner, a professional storyteller, presents a program of stories and songs from all over the world, accompanying herself on the autoharp. As an Illinois Artist in Residence, she has performed at teen centers, senior centers, centers for battered women, schools, libraries, and park districts. She has also performed around the region and the country at storytelling conventions and festivals. A native of central Missouri, Horner now lives in Wilmette, Ill.

In the past 37 years, the Modern Jazz Quartet has delighted audiences and earned critical acclaim and respect for its distinctive sound and personal style, a blend of new-world jazz and old-world counterpoint. In 1955 drummer Connie Kay joined original members Milt Jackson (vibraharp), John Lewis (piano), and Percy Heath (bass), and the four now comprise the longest running group in the jazz or classical tradition with the same personnel. Now in their middle sixties, the foursome maintains an active international concert schedule.

The Modern Jazz Quartet concert at Krannert Center will be comprised largely of works from their recent album For Ellington. The program includes familiar Duke Ellington works such as "It Don't Mean A Thing," "Prelude to a Kiss," and "Rockin' in Rhythm"; lesser known works like "Ko-Ko," "Jack the Bear," and "Sepia Panorama"; plus original compositions by MJQ members Milt Jackson and John Lewis.

Also in this second week at Krannert Center, Illinois Opera Theatre offers the final performances of its popular production of The Sound of Music on Sept. 15 and 16.

Friday, Sept. 1, at 5 p.m. is the deadline for purchasing Krannert Center subscription series. Single tickets for any performances before Sept. 24 will go on sale Sept.

5, at 10 a.m. Tickets for other Krannert Center performances will be available Sept. 20 or may be ordered by mail at this time.

Call Krannert Center Ticket Office for information and order forms for series or single tickets.

Wed., Sept. 13, noon — Interval: Lively Arts and Lunch; Beth Horner, storyteller; lobby; free admission

Fri.-Sat., Sept. 15-16, 8 p.m. — Illinois Opera Theatre: The Sound of Music, by Rodgers and Hammerstein; Tom Mitchell, director; Joe Grant, conductor; Festival Theatre; $12 / Stu & SC $10

Bluegrass opens season at Krannert

URBANA, Ill. — Krannert Center for the Performing Arts, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, launches its 1989-1990 season with a noontime bluegrass concert, followed in early September by the reopening of Illinois Opera Theatre's highly popular production of The Sound of Music, and several UI School of Music recitals.

The Rank Strangers, an Australian-based bluegrass band which has won top musical honors in that country, will perform Krannert Center's first Interval concert, a free noontime concert on Tuesday, Aug. 29, in the main lobby. The group's lead singer and songwriter, Gary Forrester (stage name, Eddie Rambeaux) is a Champaign native and an alumnus of the UI College of Law.

The Sound of Music, Rodgers and Hammerstein's well-loved story of the sing von Trapp family and their flight from Nazi Austria, played to full houses at the Krannert Center in July, 1989. It reopens Sept. 8 for two weekends as the first production on Illinois Opera Theatre's 1989-1990 season. Directed by Tom Mitchell and conducted by Joe Grant, the production features UI students Eliza Hines as Maria, David Ouzts as Captain von Trapp, and Jean Hersey as the Mother Abbess.

Several UI School of Music programs complete Krannert Center's first week of programming this season: a jazz duo program by faculty member Joseph Lulloff and guest artist Phil Strange, faculty piano recitals by Ian Hobson and Tony Caramia and a harpsichord recital by William Heiles, a program of contemporary works for double bass by faculty member Michael Cameron, and a program of music from the Dada movement performed in a 1920s cabaret setting.

Friday, Sept. 1, at 5 p.m., is the deadline for purchasing Krannert Center subscription series. Single tickets for any performances before Sept. 24, will go on sale Sept. 5 at 10 a.m. Tickets for other Krannert Center performances will be available Sept. 20 or may be ordered by mail at this time.

Call Krannert Center Ticket Office for information and order forms for series or single tickets at 333-6280.

Todd Graff, Mary Elizabeth Mastrantonio and Ed Harris (left to right) are among a team of civilian divers pressed into reluctant service by the U.S. Navy on a seemingly routine rescue mission which becomes an unexpected journey of wonder and discovery in Twentieth Century Fox's "The Abyss."

'Abyss' story line no deep experience

By Greg Springer
For the Prospectus

Deep below the surface of the ocean, off a bottomless drop from an underwater cliff, deeper than the point where human lungs burst, lives something in the abyss.

As a film, The Abyss is as monochrome blue and thin as the ocean is deep. It skims along on the surface of one too many familiar formulas. Easily, you can pinpoint the direct steals from E.T., Close Encounters, Star Trek, 2001, and director/writer James Cameron's own previous success, Aliens.

But, to be generous, this summer has been like the Movie Formula Family Reunion (with the sole exception of Spike Lee's remarkable Do the Right Thing.) and The Abyss offers some unique vicarious sensory thrills and satisfactions. Add golden-flavored popcorn and The Abyss is a superior escape from humidity, up until the final moments of awkward sentimentality.

An outline of the picture could be scrawled on the back of a high school notebook. That, in fact, is when and how Cameron first conceived of it years ago, if one believes the publicity.

When an American submarine crashes in the deep, the easy-going crew members of an underwater oil drilling operation are enlisted for the dangerous rescue operation. The designing (more ABYSS on 17)

New format gives variety of choice to concert goers

URBANA, Ill. — A new concert format, the usual array of world-class artists, plus a number of special jazz and dance performances headline Krannert Center for the Performing Arts' 1989-90 Marquee Season.

Added to the Foellinger Great Hall Series, the Marquee Chamber Music Series, and the Marquee Choice Series this season is the new Sunday Salon Series, afternoon concerts by young artists with both the artists and the audience sharing the Foellinger Great Hall stage.

Audience members will have a chance to greet the artists, and champagne and hors d'oeuvres complete the package. Said Krannert Center Director Terrence Jones, "These concerts offer the intimacy of the 19th-century salon, when friends would gather for social as well as artistic enjoyment. We see the Salon Series as an excellent way to showcase the young emerging artists to whom Krannert Center has long been committed."

Artists on the Sunday Salon Series include violinist Ann Aliko Meyers; flutist David Fredele; Hexagon, a sextet of winds and piano; and pianist Hung-Kuan Chen. The series is completed by two award winners, Alexsei Sultanov, the 1989 Gold Medalist of the Van Cliburn International Piano Competition and the 1990 Krannert Debut Artist, an especially promising University of Illinois School of Music student presented in his or her professional debut.

These emerging artists may become known as classical music giants, such as those presented on Krannert Center's Foellinger Great Hall Series. The 1989-90 Great Hall series draws major orchestras from three corners of the globe.

The Marquee Chamber Music Series begins and ends with performances by major string quartets, the Takacs and the Julliard. In between are scheduled Quartetto di Roma; the ensemble I Solisti Italiani with recorder virtuoso Michala Petri; and the sixteen-piece Academy of St. Martin-in-the-Fields string orchestra, under director Iona Brown.

For more information about the 1989-90 Krannert Center Marquee Season, a copy of the order form, or ordering information, contact the Krannert Center Ticket Office, 500 S. Goodwin Ave., Urbana, Ill., or call 333-6280.

ARTS AND ENTERTAINMENT

On the edge of a two-and-a-half-mile-deep trench in the ocean floor, Mary Elizabeth Mastrantonio has an encounter with a non-terrestrial intelligence in 20th Century Fox's "The Abyss," an epic underwater adventure of wonder and discovery.

Abyss

 engineer of their diving modules is a cold-as-iceberg Mary Elizabeth Mastrantonio, who shows up by helicopter to help with the operation and who just happens to be the estranged spouse of Ed Harris, the affable foreman of the underwater operation.

Any romantic fireworks between these two went damp on dry land, and the revival of their marriage is the theme that keeps The Abyss from totally drowning in technology.

The plot deepens. High-classified military personnel accompany in the search for the sub, and the physical effects of the deep give one of them severe, crazed pranooids. To make matters worse, he's just smuggled a nuclear warhead from the down sub into the oil crew's living quarters.

And the latest Carribean hurricane has decided to demolish the surface crew above and break havoc below.

And then there's the question of these strange angel-like creatures who float up from the abyss, cause electricity to fade, and send sea-water tentacles in face-to-face exploratory missions to the humans.

With or without a story to stand on, The Abyss has been promoted as a technological ultimate: filming at a cost of more than $43 million; staged in the largest fresh-water, heated filming tanks in existence, the 7.5 million gallon containment tanks of the abandoned Cherokee Nuclear Power Plant in South Carolina; photographed 40-percent underwater; requiring a special 215-foot circular tarp to COVER the tank and blot out the sun; utilizing the first HMI (hydragyrum medium iodide) lights to be used underwater; inaugurating prototype diving helmets; sing the first fully functional submersibles and remote-operated vehicles in underwater filming; being the first movie to record scripted dialogue directly onto tape underwater; training extensively and certifying all actors as Open Water Divers, to film in 10-12 hour shooting days. In some ways, the press kit (complete with t-shirt) is more alluring than the movie, and certainly less claustrophobic.

From James Bond to Jaws, underwater scenes in the movies have always been popular. To be total submerged is, in a sense, like falling under the spell of the movies themselves. The risk in The Abyss is of colorless and sameness. While Harris can't discern the crucial blue from the black wires on the nuclear warhead, we have the same problem throughout the film.

Todd Graff, as the rat-carrying hippy, Leo Murrmaster as a grizzly welder, and Kimberly Scott as the black female submersible pilot make up a few in a crew that only Hollywood could have devised as this tight-knit and happily heterogeneous. There's even a Garfield cat doll suction-cupped to their window, facing into the bottomless ocean depths.

The human moments keep The Abyss afloat, particularly one scene in which Mastrantonio and Harris, trapped in tight and flooding vessel, have only seconds to be rational about which

of them must die to save the other.

Even if the low-tech works better, it is the filmmaking high technology which draws us into the theater in the first place. Some of the ideas are arresting. The military character introduces an oxygenated liquid chemical, which can fill the lungs and be "breathed," for descending to pressures that can crush metal. He tests it on the pet rat, and — like the strange Caterpillar-walker introduced and employed in Aliens — we know that somewhere down the storyline a human will have to inhale the pink glop.

The seawater tentacle, shimmering through the compartments of ship and making contact with the astonished crew, draws gasps of wonder from the audience. Unfortunately, the source of the floating stream, once revealed, is anticlimactic. We've already pondered the possibility of life from beyond, and The Abyss doesn't delve any deeper than the Spielberg video collection for its conclusion.

There is one overwhelming reason to see The Abyss It's one of the few movies this year that you'll probably enjoy more on the big screen than on videotape. As promotional testimony to its size, the film opened in Radio City Music Hall in New York. Not even Gotham City's own Batman was given that distinction.

It wasn't Queen Marie Antoinette, but an earlier princess, who said, "Let them eat cake," says National Geographic.

France has the world's fastest in-service passenger train, traveling at 168 miles an hour between Paris and Lyon.

Pork chefs cook off at State Fair

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Aspiring outdoor chefs gathered at the Lincoln Stage during the Illinois State Fair this month to test their culinary abilities of cooking pork on the grill.

The competition, the Illinois State Fair's Pork Cook-out Contest, was sponsored by the Illinois Pork Producers and the Illinois Pork Association of Women.

Gov. James R. Thompson, Illinois Director of Agriculture Larry Werries, and 1989 Miss Illinois County Fair Queen Jeris Dawn Nutt joined the contestants on stage to salute the pork industry and crown the king chef.

Governor Thompson said that pork is one of the most important agricultural products in the state.

"We yield to no other state," Governor Thompson said to a roaring round of applause when he referred to Illinois' outstanding pork industry.

The Governor proceeded to crown Mike Lange, of Princeton, Ill., with the Master Chef hat for his first-place Harvest Chops.

Lange received $750 for his first place finish over eight other contestants. Lange's 1 1/2-inch marinated pork chops stuffed with apple dressing received a thumbs-up approval from the Governor, who had the privilege of testing Lange's winning creation.

"I can't say enough about it," the Governor said. "It's stuffed with everything you can imagine and now it's stuffing me."

Lange's Harvest Chops, as he calls them, got their name from the time of year he first competed with the recipe and the ingredients he used. In his first competition since last September, Lange found ingredients such as apple cider, red apples, water chestnuts and fresh onions to be plentiful and perfect for his tantalizing creation.

Here is the winning recipe:

HARVEST CHOPS

Marinated Pork Chops

Stuffed with Apple Dressing

An original recipe by

Mike Lange and Tony Sosi

Marinade

- 1/2 cup Apple Cider
- 2/3 cup salad oil
- 1 garlic clove, crushed
- 1 cup soy sauce
- 1/2 cup minced onion

2 tablespoons brown sugar

Mix all ingredients together.

Cut a pocket in each chop between the ribs, on the bone side. Pour marinade over 4, 1-1/2 inch thick pork chops, cover and let marinate in the refrigerator for 12 hours, then turn and marinate for another 12 hours.

Dressing

- 4 tablespoons margarine
- 1/2 cup diced celery
- 2 medium red apples
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 1/4 tsp. ground Thyme
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1/4 tsp. pepper
- 1/2 cup diced onion
- 2 cups white bread cubes
- 1/2 cup diced water chestnuts
- 1/4 tsp. Basil
- 1/2 tsp. Sage

Sautee the margarine, onion and celery in a skillet for five minutes.

Slice the apple into half-inch wedges, then dice. Do not peel.

Mix with the remaining ingredients.

Stuff each chop with dressing. You may have extra dressing, depending on the size of the pork chops.

Cook in a covered smoker or grill, with indirect heat for one hour, then baste with remaining marinade and turn. Baste the other side and cook for an additional one hour and 15 minutes.

Serve each chop garnished with a crab apple.

Choicers begin organizing call, letter write drive

By JENNIFER A. OLACH
Staff Writer

The Central Illinois Pro-Choice Effort held its monthly meeting on Aug. 16 at Wesley Foundation. The focus of the meeting was to inform local pro-choicers of ways individual citizens can help in the fight against anti-choice legislation.

Sara Thompson, president of the Champaign County Chapter of the National Organization for Women, explained the most effective way to help the effort is to write State Representatives and Senators voicing your opinion on anti-choice legislation. This is a simple and very important way to show our elected officials our satisfaction or dissatisfaction with bills and amendments as well as the officials position on such.

Contacting officials is the most effective way of helping the pro-choice cause, but not the only. Several other committees exist and are listed below.

A phone tree needs to be set up especially during legislative sessions. If you are able to accept and make phone calls during business hours and wish to help the pro-choice effort in an area anti-choicers dominate call Suzanne Costanza at 337-0382.

The Champaign County Pro-Choice Effort would like to send approximately 15 volunteers to Springfield during the veto session. The volunteers would serve as Lobby Aids and speak directly to our elected officials. The dates are Oct. 17-19, 31, and Nov. 1-2. Call Esther Patt, 344-8394.

Escorts are needed Saturday mornings to help people in and out of The Doctor's Building. The escorts will be present to keep an eye on the harassment anti-choicers have been known to engage in in the past. Call Tammy Henderson, 359-2053.

N.O.W. will hold a garage sale at 801 S. Urbana, Urbana, 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. on Sat. Sept. 9. Anyone wishing to donate items or time should contact Nancy, 344-0693.

The next Pro-Choice organizational meeting will be held on Tues. Sept. 19, 7:30 p.m. at the Wesley Foundation Great Hall 1203 W. Green Urbana.

Sat. Sept. 23 will mark the Pro-Choice Rally which is to be held in conjunction with the annual Illinois N.O.W. convention in Springfield. For more information call 328-7051.

WHAT DO YOU THINK ABOUT
"CHURCH"?

- a. It's boring, predictable, and routine.
- b. They're always asking for my money.
- c. It's out of touch with my needs.
- d. All of the above.

For many of you, the word "church" conjures impressions that aren't too hot.

Maybe you went to church when you were young, but for any number of reasons you found that it turned sour as you grew up. So you left church behind when you went away to college, moved away from home, or got married.

You might even see value in church for others, but your own past doubts and disappointments stand squarely in the path of your own return.

Maybe you haven't cast your vote against God...you're just saying "no" to church as you have known it. Church doesn't speak your language, play your kind of music, wear your kind of clothes, or understand your world.

The people of Vineyard Christian Fellowship would like to invite you to give church one more shot. We are a group of people from all walks of life—professionals, tradesmen, homemakers, students, singles, and families—who are committed to living out a New Testament faith in Jesus Christ in the context of our contemporary society. For us, church is a festive occasion. A worship band plays contemporary music you'll want to stand up for. The Bible is treated as a practical guide to daily living. The sermons are relevant and understandable. And asking for your money is pretty low on our priority list.

We would like you to rethink all that Christianity and church life ought to be. Then join us next Sunday morning at 9:30 a.m.

How to Score Your Image Index: Give yourself 6 points for every #1 answer, 3 points for every #2 answer and 0 points for every #3 answer. If your total score is:

- 54-72 Congratulations, you're on your way.
- 36-53 You're on the right track, but have some work to do.
- 18-35 Careful, you may be sabotaging your chances of getting ahead. There's still hope, though.
- 0-17 You've got a real problem. Without immediate action, your chances of making a good first impression are virtually nil.

Parkland College Prospectus — Page 22 Monday, Aug. 28, 1989

Fall sports underway

The 1989 versions of the Parkland Cobras men's golf, women's volleyball, and men's and women's cross-country teams will kick off their respective seasons during the next two weeks.

The golf team, led by Coach Greg Thom, begins the 1989 season on Tuesday, Sept. 5, at Danville Area Community College. The team returns three golfers for last year's team, Mike Birdsell (Effingham), Roger Odle (Seymour), and Brian Youngblood (Champaign). In addition to these three, several promising freshmen are expected to make strong contributions.

First-year Coach Brenda Winkeler's volleyball team has already begun practice in anticipation of their season opener at the Illinois Central College tournament on Sept. 8 and 9 in Peoria.

Finally, Coach Ron Buss's 1989 X-Country team will open their season on Saturday, Sept. 9 at Southern Illinois-Edwardsville.

The men's team will be extremely young as well with just three sophomores expected to run. Tobi Peters of Chillicothe, Ill., Robert Koger of Princeton and Mark Cordell of Sullivan, will be expected to take the early leadership roles.

On the women's side, Buss returns three strong sophomore runners in Mary Fromm of Eldorado, JoAnn Herring of Flora, and Christine Williams of Kankakee.

Pick right, win prize

Parkland Prospectus readers are challenged to beat our sports writers (and pocket $5) at guessing winners in weekend football contests.

Today's "guesses" are written by Rod Lovett, Parkland's new Sports Information Director.

It's easy to win — complete the PC Challenge coupon on this page, clip it out, and bring it to the Prospectus office (X155) by noon on Friday, Sept. 1.

Our first week's winner will be announced in the Sept. 6 edition of the paper.

Stanford at Arizona

Two upper-level PAC-10 Rams square off in the opener from Tucson. To the winner a temporary hold on the top spot — to the loser, the realization of a long season ahead. Former Northwestern Coach Dennis Green will make his coaching debut for the Cardinal. Unfortunately for him, it will end as most of his Northwestern games did . . . Final: Arizona 31, Stanford 20

Rice at Southern Methodist

After having their football program eliminated for the past two seasons as a result of the NCAA's death penalty, Forrest Gregg's Mustangs open with the only team on their schedule they might have a chance against. But SMU has an entire roster of players who have combined to make just three tackles in college. Enough said . . . Rice 31, SMU 10

Texas at Colorado No. 17

The Fighting Illini's second week opponent, the Buffaloes of Colorado, open with a formidable opponent of their own. Texas should be much improved after an awful 4-7 season last year. Despite a summer full of controversy and the loss of quarterback Sal Aunese, stricken with cancer, Colorado should slip by this one . . . Colo 23, Texas 20

Colorado State at Tennessee

Another head coach makes his debut in this one as former Buckeye Coach Earle Bruce makes his return to Division I football after a year at Northern Iowa. Tennessee lost its first six, then won its last five and more inconsistently will probably get Johnny Majors fired. They won't lose six in a row to start this season . . . Tenn 28, Colo St. 17

Duke at South Carolina No. 11

The Gamecocks have a new coach — "Sparky" Woods, but one of the nation's best quarterbacks in Todd Ellis who has thrown for almost 9,000 yards in three seasons. Duke was a tie-game away from going to a bowl game for the first time in 26 years. Coach Steve Spurrier returns 16 starters and in the upset of the week . . . Duke 27, So. Carolina 24

Houston (No. 14) at UNLV

Every game is a bowl game for the Cougars, who are on NCAA probation for the next three years. Before getting caught, Houston stockpiled a load of Texas talent and it's no gamble that UNLV will be their first victim . . . Houston 41, UNLV 10

LSU (No. 9) at Texas A&M

This might be the best game of the week, especially after the old-fashioned butt kicking LSU handled the Aggies last year in Baton Rouge 27-0. All-American Q.B. Tom Hodson returns for the Bengal Tigers and if he can avoid the interception, he could have an excellent season. Unfortunately, he won't do that the first week and in upset No. 2. Texas A&M 17, LSU 14

Maryland at North Carolina State

Unlike in basketball, the ACC gets no respect, and when these two play other, don't expect too much. This game is in North Carolina and Maryland won last year. So . . . North Carolina State 33, Maryland 26

BYU at New Mexico

I know—no one cares—but there were only so many games to choose from. BYU 40, New Mexico 10

Illinois (No. 20) at USC (No. 1)

In one of only two games matching ranked teams, the Illini travel to LA to play the Trojans on Labor Day.

Illinois, after a bad start, turned in a respectable season and is expected to fight it out with Iowa, Michigan State, Indiana, and Ohio State for the spots behind Michigan in the Big 10 race.

This game was supposed to take place in Moscow as the Glasnost Bowl but was moved to the Colosseum due to financial problems. Come New Year's, the Trojans will be celebrating a national championship and won't be side-tracked by the eager Illini. Hopefully, USC will remember what Glasnost means. . . . USC 30, Illinois 14

Now it's your turn. Please use the coupon on this page to make your predictions. Please read the rules very carefully for directions. PC Challenge does not want to have to disqualify anyone for infraction of the rules.

Standout recruits sign to play Cobra baseball

Coach Tom Dedin has announced the addition of several outstanding recruits who signed with the Cobras this summer.

Included in the list are Charles Fredricks of Sterling Heights, Mich. Fredricks, a starter for Michigan State University last year, is expected to head a staff which also includes Terry Westerfield of Belleville, and left-handers Troy Smith of Class AA state runnerup Schaumburg High School and Marty Lacy of Chicago St. Rita High School.

The pitching staff also returns two starters from last year's staff, Steve Newby, last season's winningest pitcher, and lefty Mike Stokowski.

The Cobras also signed two all-State catchers in Greg Kohl of Aurora West and Bob Mutnansky of Marist High School, All-State outfielder Jim Langen of Lowell, Ind., as well as All-Stater and Chicago Cubs draftee Matt Hess of Dixon, Ill. Several other top prospects will join Cobra's batting champion Kenny Whited on what should be a much-improved team after last year's disappointing season.

The fall season will be highlighted by "Scout Day" on Saturday, Sept. 2, when major league scouts from several professional teams will be here to watch the team.

In addition, they will play a 30-game fall schedule, opening at Carl Sandburg on Saturday, the 9th, followed by the home opener at noon on Sept. 10 against The College of St. Francis.

Anyone interested in trying out for the team should see Coach Dedin or Coach Lovett in Room P124 when they arrive at school. Tryouts will be held on Sept. 3 and 4, starting at noon.

Lovett is named new director of Sports Info

ROD LOVETT

Parkland Asst. Baseball Coach Rod Lovett recently has been appointed Sports Information Director for the athletic department.

He replaces Jeff Starwalt, who left to pursue a career in broadcasting.

Lovett, a Champaign-Urbana native, is a 1981 graduate of Urbana High School. He also attended the University of Illinois and received a B.S. degree in Business Administration in 1985 and an M.S. degree in Sports Management in 1987.

Prior to coming to Parkland, Lovett served as an administrative assistant and recruiting coordinator for the UI track and field program.

While Lovett was at the UI, the track team won six Big 10 titles, and finished second in the NCAA meet. Several of Lovett's recruits reached All-American status.

Coach Lovett, who is single and resides in Champaign, began his duties on Aug. 15.
