English school rep visits Parkland to study system

By Pat Timmers

Parkland College and many other colleges in Illinois and Kansas were under the scrutiny of the Cambridgeshire County Council of England last week. The Council's Education Department is studying how the U.S. educates their population.

Alastair Mathews, General Inspector (Post-16 Education), visited Parkland last week before heading off to the Community College Board in Springfield. He was one of 28 representatives from the Cambridgeshire County Council inspecting our school system.

"It's an exchange study visit," Mathews said, "so at one stage people from Illinois will be going back—I think in October—back to England." The exchange was organized by the Further Education Staff College, "which is a college for, particularly, management development in the further education system."

"I'm a bit different in that I'm not in a college," Mathews said, "I actually work for the authority—the Council." Mathews works as an "adviser" to the Council.

So far, in evaluating Parkland College, Mathews said, "The first thing, that I liked very much, is the physical conditions. The building is spacious; it is very well endowed with, for example, student areas. And I extend this to the resources that are here like the computers."

"Another thing that's very striking to me is the number of facilities you have where students can learn independently, things like the writing clinic. The other thing of immediate interest is the emphasis on student services, student guidance, which is stronger than, generally speaking, in the further education colleges."

The English educational system has little in the way of student services. Students enroll in a program and receive little in the way of guidance. Mathews said, "I regard that as bad practise, and therefore would actually want to encourage our colleges to develop student services."

Vice Police: cracking down

Newswriting II Students

Ten percent of the RO's — repeat offenders — commit 60 to 80 percent of crimes in Champaign, and police are developing a program to "stay on them," according to Sgt. Mike Cook, supervisor of the Champaign Police Dept. Vice Intelligence unit.

RO's are seldom caught and seldom convicted, Cook said, because they get smarter with each crime. "This new program is actually a way to outsmart them . . . a legal harassment,"

Cook recently told members of the Newswriting II class.

"Certain crimes rise and fall as the seasons change," Cook said, and warmer weather brings about an increase in the number of burglaries. He added, "As we get deeper into the summer, there will also be an increase in personal attacks because tempers flare, and people tend to lose their cool much quicker."

The Saturday Night Special is going out of style, Cook said. Criminals are buying bigger guns that often are more powerful than those carried by police.

"The Saturday Night Special had its advantages. You had a good chance of surviving," Cook said.

The sale and possession of handguns continues to be a concern to the community and law enforcement. Sgt. Cook said, "Shooting guns is an art. It's a part of our heritage. And now they are taking away our rights because of criminals

Religion offered in Fall

By Jennifer A. Olach
Staff Reporter

Parkland College has announced the addition of three new religion classes to complement the two present classes. In addition to Religion 101, Introduction to Religion and Religion 102, The World's Great Religions (formerly Philosophy 120) three new classes are now available.

Religion 104, The Bible: The Hebrew Scriptures, explores the origin, development, historical influence and interpretation of the Bible, examines the Hebrew scriptures as a centerpiece of Western cultural and religious tradition and as an archaeological and spiritual resource of Judaism and Christianity. Religion 104 will be offered in the fall.

Religion 105, The Bible: The New Testament, offers an introduction to the origin, development, historical influences and interpretation of the New Testament as the basis of Christianity and its various forms. This course will be offered in the spring.

Religion 109, Introduction to Christianity, examines Christianity and its various forms, with emphasis on Catholicism and Protestantism. Religion 109 is offered in the fall.

Don Nolen, philosophy instructor, explains the reason for developing the new courses, "We originally had Religion 101, for several years now. It became increasingly clear that there was a broad interest on the part of the students and the community for access to more disciplines and subject matter which come under the general heading of religion. So we decided to expand our offering."

Religion 101 will be offered in both the spring and fall, and Religion 102 will be offered in the spring only.

All Religion courses are three credit hour, transferrable and fulfil Humanities requirements.

'Lost, Found' auction scheduled for May 16

By Emma M.S. Perez

In order to dispose of the lost and found items that have accumulated over the past year, the college has set an auction date of May 16. The auction will be held in the lounge behind the library stairs and is open to everyone.

Student Services has recently taken over the responsibility of the lost and found program from Parkland's security department. Student services had this responsibility up until last year when, for some reason, it was decided that Doug Davis, head of security, would be given this added detail. Davis was elated at the prospect of giving the control of the lost and found items back to Student Services, adding that he was running out of room to store the items.

The auction will start at noon, and will feature such items as; textbooks, umbrellas, winter apparel (gloves, hats, etc.), jewelry, calculators, and much more.

Where will the money from the sale of these various items at the auction go? Larry Swinyer, Treasurer for student services said, "I would like to see the money from the sale of the lost and found items go back to the students." He proposed a way of doing this, "Maybe we can work it out through Hardees where we could give students a ticket for a free drink or something."

Gary Voyles approaches the finish line in the Autocross Sunday, sponsored by the Champaign County Sports Car Club. The club sponsors two races at Parkland each year to raise money for the CCSCC Parkland Scholarship.

Taxes: 'now, for '89 ...'

By Julie Deem

Even though you've just begun to recover from the trauma of filing your 1988 tax return, it's not too early to start thinking about your 1989 return.

If you are about to graduate, you've taken a job in a new city, and you are going to move, you'd be well advised to keep accurate records of your moving expenses.

In order to get a moving expense deduction, there has to be a distance of at least 35 miles from your old residence to your new residence.

Deductible moving expenses include the cost of travel to the new location, including meals and lodging; the transporting of household goods and effects; pre-move house-hunting trips; temporary living expenses of up to 30 days, and disposition of an old residence and acquisition of a new one (attorney's fees, real estate commissions, title fees, points, etc.) The deductions for the expense of house-hunting trips, temporary living quarters, and qualified residence sale, purchase or lease costs are limited to an overall amount of $3,000.

When an automobile is used in making the move, you may deduct either the actual out-of-pocket expenses incurred or a standard mile allowance of nine cents per mile.

In order to deduct these moving expenses, the law now requires that you fill out form 1040 Schedule A itemize deduction.

For more information on moving expense deductions, see the Internal Revenue Service Publication 521, Moving Expenses. This publication is available at your local IRS office or public library. In addition, you can call Tele-Tax Recorded Tax Information. The phone number is 1-800-554-4477. The moving expense topic number is 304.

Burnham checks health

On April 26, 1989, Burnham Hospital will be one of more than 460 hospitals across the country participating in CountDown USA: The National Blood Pressure and Cholesterol Check.

One of the largest health screenings in the United States, CountDown USA is sponsored by Voluntary Hospitals of America (VHA) Inc., a national network of locally owned, not-for-profit hospitals. Burnham is a VHA member.

Last year more than 400,000 Americans took advantage of the country's only nationwide screening for high blood pressure and high blood cholesterol. Locally, over 600 individuals participated in last year's event.

This year Burnham will conduct local blood pressure and cholesterol screenings April 26 from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. at Lincoln Square Mall, Urbana. The screening will cost $5 and will include optional diet and education consultation and physician referral.

According to a new Gallup survey commissioned by VHA, Americans are starting to pay attention to their cholesterol levels. In only one year, the percentage of adult Americans who know their cholesterol level has almost doubled, rising to 32 percent from 17 percent.

Further evidence of the nation's new cholesterol awareness: 44 percent of Americans say they have changed their diet in the last two years to lower their cholesterol level, according to the Gallup survey.

Although the push for cholesterol awareness only began about four years ago, the battle against high blood pressure dates back to 1972. This year's survey results confirm that the ongoing effort is making its mark: two-thirds (64%) of adult Americans know their blood pressure.

A special protocol was designed for CountDown USA in association with the National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute's cholesterol and blood pressure education programs. CountDown USA is a community service to focus attention on the causes and prevention of heart disease and stroke; to identify individuals at risk; to use health information to stimulate changes in individual health behavior; and to generate data concerning blood pressure and cholesterol that may be useful as a barometer of the nation's health.

Students show art

By Richard Cibelli

If you're interested in Visual Arts, then you don't want to miss the Annual Visual Arts Student Exhibit at the Parkland Art Gallery April 17-27.

The Annual Visual Arts Exhibit is about 11 years old says Juanita Gammon of the Fine and Applied Arts Department and she says this year there is more than 25 exhibits that will be entered.

Any work that is done within the classroom or free-lance by students who are currently enrolled in the visual arts program at Parkland is eligible to enter in the exhibit according to Gammon.

Joining Gammon this year in the selection process for the exhibit is, Graphic Arts Instructor Julie Jacobs, and Photography instructor Donna Drysdale.

Jacobs says "She's thrilled" about the amount of entries into this year's exhibit. She added that this year we have the biggest amount of entries than ever before. In addition Jacobs says, that this year's exhibit will feature a large assortment of work thereby giving those who attend, a "Real good overview", of what the Visual Arts program at Parkland is all about.

"A working art exhibit" is what Gammon calls the Visual Arts Exhibit, and she says that within the exhibit this year, there will be works of illustrations, keylines, graphic, designs, pastups, computer design and typesetting.

Furthermore says Gammon in addition to the work that is done for the exhibition, Visual Arts students also work on projects that are outside of the college. Gammon says that this helps the students to gain some hands-on experience so they will be better prepared for employment when they leave Parkland.

"It's important to keep current with industry" says Gammon, and she added that the products that we produce show that.

When Visual Arts students leave Parkland, says Gammon many of them are placed in employment within the local television markets, as well as the health industries and the convention and visitors bureau.

If you come to see the Exhibit says Gammon you will not see any two pieces that are the same. She says the reason for this is because "every student's concept is different, furthermore the result is very unique."

Gammon attributes the large amount of entries in this year's exhibit to "The great interest that the students have in what they're doing and the commitment to their profession, they are real professionals," she says.

The English Educational system is in a lot of ways different from the Educational system here. "In England we have what are known as further education colleges," he said, "which are similar to community colleges, although not exactly the same."

"Every area in England has its own local authority that monitors the education." Cambridgeshire County Council covers an area approximately 55 by 60 miles, which is roughly the same as Parkland's district 505.

The educational levels in England are roughly the same until students pass the "primary," which equals elementary school. Secondary schools—"which is complicated because we call them community colleges because they actually have a degree of adult work in them"—handle students aged 11 through 16 and are compulsory.

Some schools offer additional programs for students over 16; this level is called the "sixth form" (age 11, first form, 12 second, etc.) and is "academics" based.

with weapons. Every time a crook goes out and does something, they take away from the innocent."

This area probably will never be completely free of underage drinking, Cook said. He believes the only way to stop underage drinking is to enforce stiffer rules for liquor licenses. Bars are always a problem, he said, adding that athletes sometimes get into fights because they want to be noticed.

Some gangs in Champaign-Urbana are composed of drug dealers, Cook said, and as long as these gangs kill each other and not innocent people, it's all right with him.

Pets need love

By Pat Timmers
Last fall I visited the Champaign County Humane Society with my first semester Newswriting class. We talked to Karel Kaufman, director, about the problems concerning the in-humane treatment of animals, specifically cats and dogs.

Kaufman told the class that the Champaign-Urbana metropolitan area has about 5,000 stray dogs and cats. Five Thousand. Even if the figure is exaggerated, the problem is still awesome.

The Humane Society of Urbana handles about 5,000 animals per year. Not all of these are strays, some are brought in. Yet most are not picked up.

OF THE 5,000 animals the Society handles, about 17 percent find suitable homes. What happens to other 83 percent? Do you really want to know.

In the name of humanity, the animals are destroyed—a lethal injection of poison, about five seconds later, and the animal is dead. No lasting pain does the animal feel, yet the life is ended.

Euthanasia for unwanted pets used to bother me—somewhere there must be a home. Yet this is not the case. There are more 'pets' available than people want. The excess are killed, or simply abandoned into the streets.

Kaufman said that some of the strays that come in are in such bad shape that they cannot even be considered for adoption. The animals are grossly undernourished, covered with dirt, and some have bleeding sores from "fights" with other animals.

IN JANUARY, I noticed a small black dog had begun to hang around my home. I didn't mind so much. My dog needed a playmate anyway.

What bothered me was that the dog was always around. Several times I would come home in the wee hours of the morning and find the dog sleeping out in the yard by the edge of the road. I also noticed the dog had a fishing lure caught in its fur.

When the temperature dipped to below zero and the dog was still hanging around, I knew what I had was a stray.

On a cold day, I called the County Animal Control Officer and had the dog picked up.

IF THE DOG had been wearing a dog tag, the owner could have been found, and the animal would not have suffered for three weeks in sub-zero weather.

Letters to Ed. about gays condemned

To the Editor:

I am not a student at Parkland, but I feel compelled to respond to Richard L. Stover's letter objecting to the new Parkland Lesbian/Gay Student Organization. In his letter, he likened the new group to the "Ku Klux Klan or other white supremacist groups. I would like to clarify something to Mr. Stover.

Having been an "out" Lesbian in this community for four years, I have seen much ignorance and hatred. I have seen Lesbians and Gay Men verbally and physically assaulted. I have heard "Christian" men speak of peace and love in one breath and in the next impose a death sentence on a minority population they know little or nothing about. Through all of this, I have not once seen a Lesbian or Gay Man initiate a violent interaction with any straight person.

The terror and hatred comes from you, Mr. Stover, and those like you. Read your history and redefine reality. Enlightenment does not mean living by your "morality." It means dignity and respect for all life. Including mine.

International Students Day

By Richard Cibelli

Wednesday, April 12, was a day of music, food and entertainment as International students celebrated International Students Day on the Campus of Parkland College.

Linda Vanroosendaal, who is an advisor for the organization, said International students from over 30 countries including Latin America, Africa, Southeast Asia, Europe and the Middle East participated in International Students day.

Vanroosendaal, along with Majid M. Ghadiri, are both advisors for the International students Organization at Parkland College.

Panida Bachman was the master of ceremonies for International students day, which included a fashion show and an International food sale.

The idea for the fashion show, says Vanroosendaal, was due to the success of other shows in previous semesters. Furthermore she added that she had received many inquiries from students about the possibility of having a fashion show on International Students Day.

"International Students" also set up informational displays and talked with those in attendance about their cultures.

"Panida tends to take charge," says Vanroosendaal. She added, "You can generally rely on Panida to do what she says she will do. She's a take charge person."

"I had a good time, the turn out was great," said Bachman, and she added that Parkland College is very fortunate to "have many students who have different talents," and enjoy sharing them with others.

Domenick S. Consalvo, a student at Parkland College, displays his book, The Eagle That Did Not Fly, Memories of A Prisoner of War Survivor, recently published in Paxton. Consalvo says his book contains the memories he has of his tour in the military during World War II and also some of the things that happened in his childhood. "I was a POW for one year," Consalvo says. According to the author, sales of the book are going very well. Copies may be purchased in the Parkland Bookstore, as well as from numerous bookstores in the Champaign-Urbana area.

POW writes book of WWII memoirs

By Richard Cibelli

"I'm relieved," says Domenick S. Consalvo; now that his book, The Eagle That Did Not Fly, Memories of A Prisoner of War Survivor, is finally finished.

Consalvo, who lives in Paxton, is currently attending Parkland College and says his book contains the memories he has of his tour in the military during World War II, and also some of the things that happened in his childhood—he remembered seeing the Hindenburg disaster while living in Brooklyn.

Furthermore says Consalvo, "I would like to write more stories sometime in the future."

"Individual stories need to be told, and that's why I wrote the book," says Consalvo. He added that soldiers like himself are seldom ever placed into history books and therefore he feels that it is important to tell people about his encounters.

"I was a POW for one year," says Consalvo, who was 18-years-old in 1943 and living in Brooklyn, New York, when he joined the Army. During his tour in the Army Consalvo says he traveled to many places like Italy, Germany, North Africa, Austria, Poland and France.

During his military carrier Consalvo was a member of the Fifth Army, 91st Infantry Division of the 361st Regiment of Company C. Now he is a current member of many groups including the VFW, American Legion, and Dav.

In addition he received many medals during his military career including Two Purple Harts, Two Bronze Stars, the Victory medal, POW Medal and Medals for good conduct.

Sales of his book are doing pretty well, says Consalvo, and he added the book is now available in the Parkland Bookstore and also at the Book Mart in the Market view Shopping Center in Champaign.

"I feel good that people are responding to the story and the publicity that I am getting is something new to me," Consalvo says, and he added that "when I'm gone, I want to be remembered as a nice guy."

Proper diet is important, but don't overlook water

While Americans spend a great deal of time and money searching for proper foods approved by experts, many of us overlook the most common feature of our diet — water.

Many consumers agree that household and office water supplies are more appealing if they are filtered, distilled or softened by the latest water quality techniques.

In an effort to guide consumers, the producers of water quality equipment have a product validation program providing a Gold Seal by the Water Quality Association, the oldest and most extensive program in the water quality improvement industry.

The Association says a product with its "Gold Seal" is a "Mark of Excellence" indicating that the product has been tested by sample against the appropriate standards and found to meet rigid standards. Each validated product is listed in the current edition of the Association's Directory of Validated Products. The newly released directory names more than 840 products, a sharp increase from the 700 products named six months ago and the 500 products listed a year ago.

The directory is divided into five sections for the five prod- (more WATER on 7)

What do you mean, 'Act of God?'

Read your insurance policy

By Esther Petersen
News USA

Suppose you have a fire in your home or a tree falls on your house, would you know the proper procedure for settling a claim under your homeowner's policy?

To make sure you are properly reimbursed for your loss, be familiar with your homeowner's policy.

Notify your insurance company or agent immediately after a loss. Usually, notification is required in writing as soon as possible after a loss has occurred. The company will confirm that the policy is in effect and that your home is covered for the loss you are claiming.

Next, the insurance company should send an adjuster to your home to inspect the damage and estimate the cost of repairs or replacement. If an adjuster has not contacted you within 10 days, notify your insurance company or agent.

When you are called, get the adjuster's name, address, phone number, and the adjusting firm's name. The adjuster will usually help fill out claim forms and proof of loss forms. It will help if you have previously taken a household inventory including photos and have kept receipts of major purchases. It is also important to have jewelry and antiques appraised by a professional.

After a loss, you are responsible for protecting your property against further damage; for example, boarding up broken windows. Check to see if your policy will pay for this expense.

Do not have permanent repairs made until you have reached an agreement with the insurance company. The company can refuse to pay for repairs made before the adjuster has inspected the damage and approval has been given.

If your policy requires a proof of loss form, it is important that you not sign it until you are satisfied with its contents and certain that the amount of the loss is correct. If you have any questions, contact your insurance company or agent.

After you have reached a settlement with the insurance company, make sure that any repairs that are necessary are done by a reputable workman and that you are satisfied with the work.

The best advice, though, is to protect your property with smoke detectors, security locks, and anti-theft devices.

If you have an insurance question, send it to Esther Petersen, 400 N. Washington St., Alexandria, VA 22314. Mrs. Petersen, a former White House Special Assistant on Consumer Affairs, serves as a consumer advisor to the National Association of Professional Insurance Agents.

Donating blood is safe and necessary

One hour, one pint gives life

By Emma M.S. Perez

When an article is read about someone saving another person's life many of us often wish we could do the same. Some people want to give of themselves to help others, yet figure if they are not rich then there is nothing they can do. This is wrong whether rich or poor there is one gift we can all give to others. Blood is the "gift of life"; the one gift that cost us only a few moments of our time, yet is the most precious of all gifts.

Blood is a vital substance which sustains life for each and every one of us. Everyday there are patients in our community who require blood to recover from serious accidents or illnesses. There is no substitute for this unique and vital substance, volunteer blood donors are the only source.

Since 1981 Parkland college has been helping the Champaign County Blood Bank by encouraging its students to donate. On an average the students at Parkland give 45-53 pints of blood each drive. By being one of these donors you can help assure blood will be available when it is needed. Sharon Cemashko, donor relations coordinator, said, "We are very pleased with the support we have received from Parkland. She also added that although all blood types are needed, there is a special need for O+ blood at this time.

The donated blood helps people who are in very bad shape, such as surgery patients, accident victims, cancer patients under going chemotherapy, persons with blood disorders like hemophilia, and neonatal babies.

There is no way to know when or how much blood a patient will need, but it takes 90-100 pints of blood per day to meet the needs of patients in the hospitals served in this area. Furthermore, because blood can be stored for a limited time only it is crucial that the supply of blood be maintained at all times.

The primary threat to the national blood supply is a shortage of healthy blood donors caused by baseless fears. The hysteria surrounding AIDS has led to many unfounded fears about donating blood. You CANNOT get AIDS from donating. A sophisticated test now screens out blood donated by people exposed to AIDS, and a sterile throw-away needle is used on each individual donor.

Blood donation is a safe and simple process requiring no more than an hour of your time, and consists of four steps. The four steps are registration, medical screening, donation, and relaxation. The actual donation averages 5-10 minutes and only one pint of blood is taken. "It is one of the most unselfish things you can do," declared Cemashko.

Less than five percent of the United States' population provides blood for the entire nation. If you want to be a part of that 5 percent Parkland's next blood drive is scheduled for Wednesday, April 19, in the College Center.

TAI insures your travels

News USA

When you're traveling, you can't anticipate every potential emergency. You shouldn't have to worry about what you would do if you fell seriously ill while vacationing or on a business trip in this country or abroad. Or where you would turn if your wallet and passport were stolen. Or who you would contact if you found yourself under arrest far from home.

Fortunately, there is one organization that goes well beyond typical travel insurance coverage to assist travelers in every conceivable kind of emergency situation at home and abroad. It's called Travel Assistance International (TAI), and it's a branch of Europ Assistance. It is "the world's oldest and largest traveler emergency network, with more than 50 million members worldwide in America and foreign countries," according to Pierre Volpert, its president. TAI offers assistance 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, to individuals, families, and corporations.

Members are covered for on-the-spot medical payments; unlimited medical and personal evacuation; safe return home of a hospitalized member's children or even a visit from one of their family members or friends; referrals to doctors, lawyers, and translators; emergency message relays; and more. The Water Quality Association, of Lisle, Ill., is a trade association representing more than 2400 manufacturers and dealers nationwide of point-of-use water quality improvement products and services. Point-of-use technologies offer consumers the chance to tailor the water in their homes and businesses to their personal needs and tastes.

NY stories? go late

By J. D. Meyer
for PROSPECTUS

What's unique about "New York Stories," of course, is that it is not one continuous saga; it is, rather, three quite separate features. The only thread holding these considerably disparate tales together, and it's a shred of a thread at that, is the fact that all are set in New York City. One really has to s-t-r-e-t-c-h one's imagination to conceive of how anyone ever thought these three belonged together in any way.

What's shameful about "New York Stories," then, is that what was truly an innovative idea was wasted.

The three, it should be noted, are not merely isolated vignettes. Each segment has a different director. But—this was not just some film students' experiment—this was the highly-touted collaboration of three of the greatest American directors of our time: Martin Scorsese, Francis Coppola, and Woody Allen. Audiences have come to expect much better work from this company. Unfortunately, as we see from "New York Stories," they do not together good company make Fortunately, the progression of quality is from worst to best. Scorsese's offering, Life Lessons, opens the show. The considerable talents of both leads, Nick Nolte and Roseanna Arquette, are squandered in this simplistic chronicle of an artist and his girlfriend. Arquette, in particular, is obviously trying to do her best, but she just doesn't have much to work with. One feels that Scorsese could and should have provided more leadership here, to at least have guided a poorly-written piece to a more meaningful place, to have given true direction to a cynical, scattered collection of trivial thoughts.

Life Without Zoe, brought to us by Coppola, is at least a step up from Scorsese's contribution. Certainly the cinematography is captivating. But, here again, actors with great potential and proven staying power (Talia Shire and Giancarlo Giannini) are given relative drivel to work with. Something more could have been done with this "I Spy"-type romantic/near-farcical/fantasy. In other words, children being prominently placed in the cast does not necessarily have to cause the story to become childish.

Only Allen, with Oedipus Wrecks, proves he can deal with a short story almost as well as the full-length kind. He seems to have taken his effort more seriously, to have given more respect to this different medium than did either Coppola or Scorsese. And only Allen seems to have been able to breathe freshness and originality into his portion of the total film.

Oedipus Wrecks stars Allen, Mia Farrow, and Julie Kavner. Allen and Farrow reach their standard level of performance, but Kavner really surpasses our expectations here. Kavner shows a maturity and a range she has not typically been allowed to display, and she plays off of Allen extremely well.

Allen's obsession with Freudian situation comedy and farce is present-as-always, but once again he finds yet another angle from which to present it to us.

If you want to see what that means, go see the movie.

If you don't want to get bored, get there late. Very late.

Small town girl loves music

Heather Bishop is a firm believer in the philosophy that "music lives in us all." A small-town girl from the Canadian prairies, she grew up thinking that she couldn't sing. She loved to make music though, and took piano lessons throughout her childhood. Then a teenager of the sixties, she switched to guitar.

At university, Bishop rounded out her wide interest in the arts by getting a Bachelor of Fine Arts with a major in visual arts.

Bishop caught the performing bug in the early seventies when she joined a dance band, but she still had not found her voice. Then the lead singer left and Bishop was talked into taking her place. "That experience taught me that if you can speak, you can sing." In her work with children, Bishop encourages them to use the instrument they have easily available to them: their voice.

Growing up learning classical music on the piano, and listening to country and western and popular music on her transistor radio, Bishop feels fortunate to have been introduced in her teens to other musical genres - blues, rhythm and blues, and jazz. "With the songs I perform, I expose children to a variety of musical styles, to stimulate their auditory sense and introduce them to sounds they might not have heard before. I want them to enjoy music."

The students who heard Bishop's music, through a regional Artist in the Schools Program, kept insisting that she make a recording. In 1982, she decided the time was right and released BELLYBUTTON. The response was tremendous. Since then, Bishop has recorded a second album, PURPLE PEOPLE EATER, and has gone on to perform to young audiences across Canada, at children's festivals, folk music festivals, in concert, and at special events. Now, she is touring in the United States as well.

Parkland presents 'Dearest D' and 'Kaboom'

"Dearest D" and "Kaboom," two new plays as diverse in subject matter as their titles suggest, will premiere at Parkland College beginning April 27 for the 6th Annual Original Playwright's Production.

Performance dates and times are April 27-29, May 4-6 at 8 p.m., with matinees on April 30 and May 7, at 2 p.m. The performances will be at The Stage in C-140.

Admission is $5 standard and $4 for students and senior citizens. For reservations and ticket information, call 351-2528.

A one-act play by Norbert Hruby of Grand Rapids, Michigan, "Dearest D" begins with the apparent suicide of a male freshman student at a small, church-related midwestern college. While attempting to explain the student's death, some administrators wrongfully incriminate a faculty member, who then reveals facts that give the college leaders a new problem to consider.

"Dearest D" marks a return to theatre for playwright Hruby. The president emeritus of Aquinas College in Grand Rapids, Hruby has enjoyed a long career in higher education. He also has directed classic plays at the University of Chicago Court Theatre and has produced award-winning radio and television public service programs on several commercial stations in Chicago.

Cast members for "Dearest D" include Sherry Day, Parkland staff member who serves as house manager for the Parkland College Theatre; Casie Herb, Parkland student from Champaign; Curt Waltermire, Parkland student from St. Joseph who is also a theatre scholarship recipient; and Robert Picklesimer, a veteran of numerous local theatre productions from Sidney. Other cast members are Parkland students Caroline Badger, Chad Martin, and John Keith, all current Champaign-Urbana residents.

"Kaboom," a two-act play by Jim Danek of St. Louis, Missouri, takes place in December 1941 as an unusual group of Chicagoans escape to a remote area of northern Wisconsin for a winter retreat. News of the bombing of Pearl Harbor brings fears of war and visions of imminent attack. The vacationers, who become convinced that the next Japanese attack will hit Chicago and split the country, frantically dig a bomb shelter, assign guards to watch Lake Michigan, and then eventually come to terms with their fears.

Danek's play is his second to premiere at Parkland. His French farce, "Kitchy Kitchy Koo," was the 1987 OPP selection. A member of the performing Arts Department at Washington University, Danek also produces the long-running Royal Dumpe Dinner Theatre Show in St. Louis and is involved with Swank Audio Visuals. He received both his bachelor's and master's degrees in theatre from the University of Illinois. A member of National Collegiate Players, Danek has previously served as artistic director for the Jackson Civic Theatre, Michigan.

Cast members for "Kaboom" include Forrest Staire, Parkland theatre scholarship recipient from Urbana; and Rodney Woodworth, a Tolono native and veteran of numerous local theatre productions. Others in the play are Parkland theatre scholarship recipients Patti Good and Daniel Power; Parkland student Stephanie Murrell; Parkland graduate Mindy Manolakes; and Champaign-Urbana residents Joe Bermes, Karen Buhnerkempe, and Michael Cornell.

Grill signs letter to play ball

By Richard Cibelli

"I feel great; this will be a great opportunity for me," says Parkland's Danielle Grill who signed a national letter of intent to attend Southeast Missouri State University last Wednesday.

Grill was a starting guard for the Lady Cobras for the past two years, who averaged just over 13 (pts) in her career. In addition Grill also contributed a consistent 46.5 field goal percentage and 75.9 in freethrows.

Grill says she just went out and did what she had to do and that helped her shooting percentage go up this year. Last year, says Grill, she didn't think about being a leader because she didn't feel comfortable being in that position. But this year was different says the 5-foot-7 inch guard. "I felt more comfortable and I did a lot better. I worked hard for the team and for Coach Martin."

In one of the Cobras' games this year that Grill played in she scored 37 points and she says, "It really helped to see her family at the game."

Grill adds that she hasn't made any concrete plans on what she will major in at Southeast Missouri State, but she did mention that social work might be a good direction to explore in the future.

Coach Martin says that Southeast Missouri State University is probably one of the biggest schools that has ever given a scholarship to a player from the women's team at Parkland.

The Lady Cobras Softball Team got off to a fast start last week against the Illinois Softball Squad. Leading by as much as 4-1 through 5 full innings, the Lady Cobras could not hang on. The Illinois Squad began the sixth inning with a rally of 6 base hits to score 5 runs and never gave up that lead as they downed the Lady Cobras 6-4.

In the Cobras' losing cause, Stacey Proehl pounded out three singles to go 3 for 4 at the plate. Along with her, teammate Lori Bakhaus had the only extra base hit with a triple in the third inning as she went 2 for 3 at the plate.

The second game of the doubleheader saw a lot less hitting at the plate and pressure on the defenses throughout the game. The Illini scored the first run in the third inning on two hits and one error.

The Lady Cobras came back the next inning with a triple by Stacey Proehl and then a sacrifice fly by Marci Maier. That was answered in the fifth when the Illini scored once again. Parkland led off the sixth inning with a single by Danielle Grill and a stolen base, which left Grill on second base. Grill then scored on an RBI single by Jennifer Smith.

Trying to catch up with the Illini the entire day finally caught up with the Lady Cobras. The Illini came on with another run in the top of the seventh inning to cap the game with a final score of 2-3.

The Lady Cobras dropped to 2-10-1 while the Illini Squad raised its record to 7-2.

SUMMER EMPLOYMENT

In the next few years, the number of jobs requiring a college education will greatly exceed the number of college graduates available to fill them. Employers are racing against time and each other to begin attracting future college graduates to their organizations.

Don't waste your summer working low-paying menial labor type jobs. MIDWEST SUMMER CO-OP represents thousands of Illinois corporations and organizations that want to hire college students to work full-time during the summer in career related positions. Work in your field of interest and gain valuable experience while earning a respectable income this summer. To be eligible you must have completed a minimum of one year (24 credit hours) in college and have attained at least a "C" (2.0 on a 4.0 scale) grade point average.

To get your summer position, simply match your career interests to the needs of an employer listed in our SUMMER CO-OP DIRECTORY. The directory lists thousands of summer positions available in Illinois. While a slight majority of the positions are in the Chicago and surrounding suburban areas, there are still many located throughout the rest of the state. Job descriptions are organized into 53 general categories - Accounting, Advertising, Engineering (civil, electrical, mechanical), Education, Fashion Merchandising, Finance, Graphic Arts, Law, Marketing, Nursing, etc. Whatever your interest, there are a number of positions to choose from. Work with and learn from some of the top professionals in Illinois. The directory comes complete with application materials and a toll-free number to call for assistance in arranging interviews.

OUR GUARANTEE

For every summer position we fill with an eligible college student, MIDWEST SUMMER CO-OP receives a fee from the employer for our services. Services to the employer include: listing in our directory, pre-screening applicants and arranging interviews. Our services are at no cost to the college student. However, we cannot afford to waste our time and resources on those who are not serious about finding quality summer employment. The costs of producing and sending the directory's alone (they are the size of a telephone book) are very high. This is why we must request $5 to help cover the costs of each directory and set of application materials we send out. If you are unable to find a summer position suitable to your needs and interests, you can return them for a full refund. If you do accept a position, under a listing agreement with MIDWEST SUMMER CO-OP, the employer will refund the $5 on your first paycheck.

This is an excellent opportunity to "taste" your career interests in the real world before completing a degree. Take advantage of the shrinking pool of educated workers. Earn while you learn this summer. Flexible jobs to fit your vacation schedule. All jobs provide great pay and benefits. (Companies are allowed sizeable tax credits for hiring college students over the summer.) So, what will it be? Fast food five or Fortune 500? The choice is yours.

Don't procrastinate, this can be a very important and valuable summer for you. Send your name, current school address, home address, and $5 (refundable) to:

MIDWEST SUMMER CO-OP
Summer Applications Dept.
Oak Brook Center, Box 954
Oak Brook, IL 60522-954

Make check or money order payable to MIDWEST SUMMER CO-OP.

Directory and application materials will be sent out to you by express mail the same day we receive your request. Please, no phone calls until after you have looked through the directory and know which positions you are interested in.

MIDWEST SUMMER CO-OP is a supporter of the Illinois Hire the Future Summer Job Program.
