I hope I don't disturb with you with all of my ranting and raving. Believe it or not - I've been able to convince people to add more money - which I am doing as well - No one has redeemed - as far as I've seen. Please please please tell me if you think I'm not saying anything clearly - or if you think there are things to say that I'm not saying. I apologize for the fact that you have to hear all of this - if it takes away from your concentration.

But what would be VERY helpful is if you could continually feed me the "market intelligence" you see and hear. Ardavan just blasts out mostly bullshit so it is really not that helpful to me. If you could stream me emails with thoughts and observations and factoids I would be most grateful.
