

About the F. Ludwig Diehn School of Music

The mission of the F. Ludwig Diehn School of Music is to prepare a richly diverse and talented student body to enter the professional world as outstanding leaders in music education, performance, composition, sound recording, and research. We promote excellence through our recognized, highly dedicated and supportive teaching and performing faculty, along with exceptional lectures, performances, and master classes by internationally known guest artists and scholars. As an urban center for musical resources, ODU serves to bridge the student body to the greater community through public performances, workshops, practicum and continued collaboration with schools and local organizations. Students will continue to be inspired to participate as leaders actively engaged within the arts community and beyond, while learning to express, cultivate and share their musicianship.

The F. Ludwig Diehn School of Music embraces the General Education Curriculum offered at ODU, knowing it broadens and enhances our students' training for future musical pursuits.
