

Diamond Line Undergraduate Literary Magazine

Volume 1 | Issue 7

Article 18

May 2023

Night of the Party

Payton Willhite

Follow this and additional works at: <https://scholarworks.uark.edu/diamondlinelitmag>

Recommended Citation

Willhite, Payton (2023) "Night of the Party," Diamond Line Undergraduate Literary Magazine: Vol. 1: Iss. 7, Article 18.

Available at: <https://scholarworks.uark.edu/diamondlinelitmag/vol1/iss7/18>

This Poem is brought to you for free and open access by ScholarWorks@UARK. It has been accepted for inclusion in Diamond Line Undergraduate Literary Magazine by an authorized editor of ScholarWorks@UARK. For more information, please contact scholar@uark.edu.

Night of the Party

Payton Willhite

Poetry

tonight we're practicing ethical non-monogamy so kiss your grocer and hug your doorman with all the passion that cherry wine can provide.

grinning behind smokescreens. I'm lost behind the eyes tonight.

Restless.

desperate for another moment of pure inhibition.

With sweat and

blistering feet

we praise the sinful gods of youthful depravity.

I dance desperate. A tapped keg spewing

frothy exuberance. Drunk off my own spirits.

a little love from what's-his-name will still that stomach-swallowing feeling

my mother told me

would fade with time.

crushed between crewnecks and cocktails,

I'm home. A soft place

To land between joy and obligation.

A necessary evil but not evil

Necessarily.

i'm the loch ness lady. the devil wears jersey.

alien life spotted over the phoenix desert.

a rumored resident of reality.