CHRISTINE TODD WHITMAN
GOVERNOR

November 26, 1996

Dear Friends:

I am delighted to offer warm greetings to everyone gathered at the Seton University School of Law for the presentation of the Sandra Day O'Connor Medal Honor.

Clearly our society will continue to benefit from the increasingly prominent role that women play in the legal profession. Tonight's event is an appropriate occasion on which to reflect upon the many contributions that women have made to our legal system. I commend the Seton Hall Legislative Bureau, Law Review, and Women's Law Forum for their efforts to recognize women who have distinguished themselves in the field of law, and I offer congratulations to tonight's distinguished honoree, Justice Sandra Day O'Connor

All my best for an enjoyable evening.

Sincerely yours,

Christine Todd Whitman /s/
Governor
