Peer review report

Peer review report 2 on “How to approach supervisors for research opportunities”

I'm sorry but I do not believe that the message of sending multiple emails to supervisors at the same time may be right. Supervisors have other issues to manage and spending time with a student who then will refuse him/her and accept another supervisor may further cause waste of time. This paper seems more likely a Student-to-student message and I'm not sure that the readership of a medical journal may be interested in this as indeed undergraduate journal. Most of the issues (eg. CV, sending email...) are basic knowledge for any student.
