ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Alhamdulillah, all praises be to Allah, the single power, the Lord of the universe, master of the day of judgment, God all mighty, for all blessings and mercies so the researcher was able to finish this thesis entitled "Spelling Error Analysis In Students' Recount Text At The Tenth Grade Of SMA N 1 Mojolaban". Peace be upon Prophet Muhammad SAW, the great leader and good inspiration of world revolution.

The researcher is sure that this thesis would not be completed without the helps, supports, and suggestions from several sides. Thus, the researcher would like to express her deepest thanks to all of those who had helped, supported, and suggested her during the process of writing this thesis. This goes to:

1. Prof. Dr. H. Mudofir, S.Ag., M.Pd., the Rector of the State Islamic Institute of Surakarta
2. Prof. Dr. Toto Suharto, S.Ag., M.Ag., the dean of The Faculty of Cultures and Languages
3. Wildan Mahir Muttaqin, M.A. TESL., the head of English Language Education Study Program
4. Nestiani Hutami M.A., as the advisor who gives her guidance, precious advice, and motivation for the researcher.
5. All of lectures English Language Education for valuable knowledge and time.
6. The researcher's beloved parents, Mr. Suratno and Mrs. Lilis Mulyani who have given their endless support, love, and prayer. There are no words can describe how thankful the researcher to have them as parents that will always support during the study and conducting this thesis.
7. The researcher's older brothers (Havid Budi Prasetyo and Akhrom Budi Rusdiyanto), sister (Dyah Ayu), and nephews (Rafa Athala and Zea Mikayla) who have given spirit and motivation during the process of the study.
8. The researcher's best friends since in high school (Alfina Pramesti, Venny Erisca, Miela Octa, and Hanifah Nur Shoimah) who have given support and motivation during the process of the study
9. The researcher's best friends (Ristya Maulina, Aninda Shinta, and Risma Yuliani)
10. All of the researcher's friends in English Language Education, especially F class 2019 that couldn't mention all one by one, thank you for being the best partner in learning and making unforgettable moment.
11. My beloved bias (Jaemin Na) who always brings back my spirit.
12. Everyone who has been helps the researcher to finish this research

The researcher realizes that this thesis is still far from being perfect. The researcher hopes that this thesis is useful for the researcher in particular and the readers in general.

ABSTRACT

Putri, Dyah. 2019. Spelling Error Analysis In Students' Recount Text At The Tenth Grade Of SMA N 1 Mojolaban In The Academic Year 2022/2023. Thesis. English Education Department, Cultures and Language Faculty.

Advisor : Nestiani Hutami, M. A.

Keyword : Spelling error, Error analysis, Recount Text, Cause of Error

The objective of this study is to know and clarify about (1) what are the types of spelling error made by the students at tenth grade of SMA N 1 Mojolaban and (2) what are the factors that influence students to make spelling error in writing recount text at the tenth grade of SMA N 1 Mojolaban.

The research used descriptive qualitative research method. This research was conducted on the tenth grade students of SMA N 1 Mojolaban on May 2023. The researcher collecting the data used documentation, questionnaire, and interview. Then, the researcher analyzed the data by using error analysis procedures which comprise of collecting the data, identifying students' errors, classifying errors, explaining the errors based on the sources of errors and accounting the errors. From that result, the data was analyzed by Bestgen and Granger's theory, and classify the types of spelling errors.

The result of this research show that students of the tenth grade X MIPA 3 of SMA N 1 Mojolaban committed nine categories of spelling errors. The showed 85 errors from 35 students writing recount text. There are 23 total errors in Omission of a letter. Then substitution of one letter with 18 of total error. The third addition of a letter with 15 of total error. The fourth is double letter instead of single letter with 6 of total error, next is interchange of two adjacent letter with 6 of total error and then, two or more error of the same type or different type with 6 of total error. The seventh is single letter instead of double letter with 5 of total error and the last is involving an apostrophe with 3 of total error and erroneous splitting or joining of words with 3 of total error. Then, the factors that influence students to make spelling error are from interlingual and intralingual errors. In interlingual errors, the researcher concluded that the cause of students' spelling errors was the difference between written and spoken English. While in intralingual error, the cause of students' spelling errors was the students lack of materials, and in their school library, there are few books that emphasize spelling errors.

CHAPTER I

INTRODUCTION

A. Background of the Study

The objective of learning English is to enable students to communicate in English both orally and in writing. Especially in high school students acquire all language skills in English; writing, speaking, listening, and reading. Students often face many difficulties in learning English because this is a foreign language for Indonesian students. In writing, students often make spelling error. The beginner level students often make mistakes and errors in producing L2 (second language). The errors in students' writing may occur in paragraphs, punctuations, articles, spellings, and conjunctions (Sari, 2015).

According to Siskawati (2020), writing is one of the four language skills that students must learn in school. Students should express their thoughts to written forms. Writing has never been easy. Writing is the most difficult subject in school because students have to write a text in English. In this research, the researcher focused only on the use of spelling errors in sentences, as misunderstandings due to the presence of spelling errors can create new problems for readers to misunderstand the writer's intentions. The problem is that the information provided in the text cannot be well understood by the reader. Basically, it may not seem important, but the meaning of the words is so important, that if the writer of the text makes a spelling error, the true meaning of the word can be changed. Therefore, it is important to pay attention to the correct use of spelling when writing.

According to (Tavárez et al., 2021), spelling is a complex skill and an important part of writing. Spelling rules help students to spell accurately. Spelling refers to the student's ability to spell words correctly and accurately. Spelling is usually described as the correct arrangement of letters to represent a word. Students who want to write fluently must be able to spell English well. Accurate and precise spelling can improve the overall quality of the text. Studying students' spelling errors provides an opportunity to understand and mitigate students' spelling difficulties.

(Muchlis, 2022) state that one of the reasons spelling is difficult to learn is because of the correspondence between the sound of words and their correct spelling. Students frequently make mistakes when writing English because English is a foreign language they are learning as a second language and there is a difference between writing and speaking the same word in English. The spelling errors analyzed by researcher are because tenth graders in high school are in the process of doing many types of writing, such as descriptive text, procedure text, narrative text, and recount text. In this study, recount text was chosen as the focus because, according to the Indonesian national program, this type of writing was implemented in tenth grade students' high school. According to Aditiawarman et al. (2018, p. 8) "Recount text is one kind of genre that is taught by teacher for the student in senior high school. Recount text can be said as a text which tells some event in the past time".

There are some previous studies that are related to this research. The first is from Renty Hidayah (UIN Raden Intan Lampung, 2021) entitled “An Analysis of Spelling Error Made by Students in Writing Descriptive Text on the seventh grade of MTs.N Tanggamus in Academic Year 2019/2020”. The similarity between this previous study and this research are about the research design, the collecting data and spelling error. This previous study and this research use qualitative method, use documentation as instrument and focus in spelling error. The differences between this previous study and this research are about subject and variable. This previous study examined students at junior high school and focus on writing descriptive text. Meanwhile, this research examined students at senior high school and focus on writing recount text.

The second previous is from Tira Nur Fitria Journal (STIE AAS Surakarta, 2020). The similarity between this previous study and this research is about the research design, collect data, and spelling error. This previous study and this research use qualitative method and focus on spelling error. The differences between this previous study and this research are about subject and variable. This previous study examined students at STIE AAS Surakarta and focus on Writing English Composition. Meanwhile this research examined senior high school and focus on writing recount text.

Based on some of the previous studies above, the researcher wanted to conduct an interview with one of the English teachers who taught the tenth grade. After conducting interviews with one of the English teachers on February 9th, 2023, the researcher could figure out that many students in the tenth grade still made some misspellings in their writing works. For example, when they want to write decide, some students wrote as 'decid', write 'well' as 'wel', 'woker' as 'worker', etc. The teacher said that the spelling errors were caused by a lack of interaction and reading, so they rarely found new vocabulary, and also that students are too lazy to learn vocabulary with correct spelling. From the result of the interview, the researcher found that students had a problem with spelling. Then, this school is one of the best schools in Sukoharjo and has an A accreditation. Another reason the researcher chose this location was because based on the researcher's interview with the English teacher in class X MIPA 3 of SMA N 1 Mojolaban, there were still students who made spelling errors, so the researcher chose SMA N 1 Mojolaban as the setting of this research.

This research only focused on spelling errors. According to Hutagalung (2017), error analysis is an activity that is carried out to acquire information about frequent issues encountered by someone when speaking or writing English sentences. Error analysis may be carried out in order to find out how well someone knows a language, find out how a person learns a language, and obtain information on common difficulties in language learning, as an aid in teaching or in the preparation of teaching materials. This is the reason why the researcher chooses error analysis as the research method to analyze spelling error in students' writing. Error analysis has two benefits: for the students and for the teachers. From a spelling error analysis, students will be aware of the spelling errors they made in their writing and they will be able to evaluate their own spelling, particularly in writing. For the teacher, being able to assess their students' writing and spelling skills and also evaluate their instruction, particularly in English spelling, to determine whether it has been adequate or whether it needs to be improved. In learning English, especially in writing, many students often make mistakes. Often, students are confused when spelling English words, whether spoken or written. Those are the reasons why the researcher was interested in conducting research entitled "Spelling Error Analysis in Students' Writing Recount Text at the Tenth Grade of SMA N 1 Mojolaban in the Academic Year 2022/2023"

B. Identification of the Problems

Based on the background of the study above, can be identified about students writing recount of the tenth grade of SMA N 1 Mojolaban in the academic year 2022/2023, such as:

1. The students lacked of vocabulary.
2. The students lacked of interaction and exposure to reading.
3. The students often misspell words in their writing.

C. Limitation of the Problems

Based on the explanation above, the researcher only focused on the spelling error in students' writing recount text at tenth grade students of SMA N 1 Mojolaban. The researcher chose recount text because recount text is taught in second semester. In this research, the researcher chose X MIPA 3 as subject to conducted the data. The researcher concentrated on determining the kinds of spelling errors made by students and factors that influence students to make spelling errors in writing made by SMA N 1 Mojolaban students. To make it easier and more focus, problem is limited on analyzing student writing spelling error on recount text writing that based on Bestgen and Grenger (2011) spelling error classification. Here is the classification: the omission of a letter, the addition of a letter, the single letter instead of the double letter, the double letter instead of a single letter, substitution of one letter, the interchange of two adjacent letter, the involving an apostrophe, the erroneous splitting or joining of words (word segmentation error), and two or more error of the same type or different type.

D. Formulation of the Problems

Regarding to problem limitation, the following research questions were developed:

1. What kinds of spelling errors do students make in their writing recount texts at the tenth grade SMA N 1 Mojolaban?
2. What are the factors that influence students to make spelling errors in writing recount text at the tenth grade of SMA N 1 Mojolaban?

E. Objectives of the Study

The objective of this research is one of the most important to achieve as mentioned below:

1. To find the kinds of spelling error made in the recount texts written by tenth grade students of SMA N 1 Mojolaban.

2. To describe the factors that influence students to make spelling errors in writing recount text at the tenth grade of SMA N 1 Mojolaban.

F. Benefits of the Study

Many important benefits can be obtained from this research. This is useful for students, English teachers, and researcher herself. The importance of research can be summarized as follows:

1. Theoretical Benefit

The research will give additional information and more reference expertise regarding spelling error analysis. Hopefully, this research will help students comprehend how to accurately spell English words and increase their understanding of the subject.

2. Practical Benefit

a. For the students

The benefit for students is that they can find out the various kinds of spelling errors that are often made by students. The students will be aware of the spelling errors they made in their writing. Therefore, the students will be able to evaluate their own spelling, particularly in writing. Students will also be able to learn more about how to spell English words, both in writing and spelling.

b. For the teacher

The benefits for teachers are being able to assess their students' writing and spelling skills. The teachers can also evaluate their instruction, particularly in English spelling, to determine whether it has been adequate or whether it needs to be improved.

c. For the researcher

This research gives researcher the opportunity to identify problems related to the subject. In addition, this study allows researchers to gain a better understanding of the kinds of spelling errors students make in their writing and improve their abilities.

d. For other researchers

The result of this study is expected as a reference for the other researcher to solve the same problem about spelling error analysis.

G. Definition of Key Terms

To avoid misunderstandings in this study, there are some key terms that should be clarified to the reader. These key terms are:

1. Error Analysis

Error analysis is a method used to compile errors that occur in the learner's language, determine whether these errors are systematic, and explain their causes (Divsar & Heydari, 2017).

2. Spelling error

A spelling error is someone's mistake to write the word correctly. It happens because they lack attention when writing and they are not aware of the mistake they made while writing (Siskawati, 2020).

3. Writing

Writing is the process of using letters, punctuation marks, and other symbols to put ideas and thoughts into a form that can be read and understood (Maizu, 2022).

4. Recount text

Recount text is a kind of genre that retells past events or experiences (Andansari et al., 2019).

CHAPTER II

LITERATURE REVIEW

A. Theoretical Review

1. Review on Error Analysis

According to (Botley, 2015), errors are generally defined as systematic deviations from the rules of the target language. Errors are caused by lack of language skills on the part of the learner. According to (Ellis, 1994), an error occurs when deviation is due to lack of knowledge. This represents a lack of competence.

According to (Mahmoodzadeh, 2012), error analysis could be defined as a procedure used to identify, categorise, and explain the errors committed by foreign language learners. It is considered as the most appropriate tool for analysing learners' errors. According to (Mega, 2017), error analysis is a method of analyzing the error that students make in writing paragraphs and essays. Error analysis is used by applied linguists to study student error. In the other hand, (Irawati, 2015) explain that error analysis is a type of process that involves observing, analyzing, and classifying student errors while learning a foreign language. Error analysis can also be focused on specific languages. Error analysis is a form of linguistic analysis that focuses on student errors.

There are several experts who have investigated the factors that contributed to the error's occurrence. According to Gass and Selinker (2008), there are two reasons for errors to occur in the error analysis framework: interlingual and intralingual. As a result, the main causes of mistakes can be divided into two categories: interlingual and intralingual.

1. Interlingual Error

Interlingual errors involve the cross-linguistic comparison such as Translation from Native language to English. Corder and Hourani (2008) state that interlingual errors are those which are related to the native language (NL). That's to say there are interlingual errors when the learners' NL habits (patterns, systems or rules) interfere or prevent them, to some degree, from acquiring the patterns and rules of the second language (SL).

2. Intralingual Error

Besides due to the influence of L1 (native language), errors can also occur to the influence of the target language (which will be learned). Richard (2010), stated that rather than from language transfer, intralingual error is the results from faulty or partial learning of the target language.

2. Review on Spelling Error

Spelling is a language sub-skill under writing. It is a very important writing skill that all learners and users of the English language must master in order to communicate successfully in the written form of the language.

Spelling is usually described as the correct arrangement of letters that represent words. It relates to the knowledge of a particular language's orthography (the system of symbols and rules used to represent spoken language in writing). Spelling is a complex cognitive activity involving multiple mental processes. Learning correct spelling is usually not easy for many people, but it is very important for anyone learning a language. This is because part of what determines a learner's English proficiency is their ability to write accurate phrases correctly (Dada, 2015).

Spelling errors are the failure in writing correct word by someone. It happen because there is a lack of attention in writing and they are ignore the mistake that they made in writing. Usually this is done by them who want to learn a new language, just like Indonesian people who want to learn English (Siskawati, 2020).

According to (Bestgen & Granger, 2011), there are 9 categories of spelling errors as follows;

Table 2. 1 Categories of Spelling Error

Categories of Spelling Error	Example
Omission of a letter	completly-completely conciuous-conscious distinc-distinct eople-people mecanismos-mechanisms throughout-throughout
Addition of a letter	develope-develop youngs-young

(Dulay et al., 1982) divided errors into four categories as follows;

a. Omission

Omission is an error when the writer omitted or change the words.

Omission can be characterized by the absence of an item that must appear in a well-formed utterance.

b. Addition

Addition is a part of errors that should not be required to be used in making a sentence. Addition is a opposite of omission. Their characterized by the presence of item, which must not appear in a well-formed utterance.

Moreover, addition has three categories, they are regularization, double marking, simple addition.

- Regularization

Regularization is a part of types errors that explained about using linguistic item like verb. For example, ask become asked. Regularization a rule typically applies to a class of linguistic item. It means, the writer should be obeying the rules that have been created by international law about using English language.

- Double marking

Double marking is the part of addition which change or make a abbreviate the utterances.

- Simple addition

If an addition error isn't a double marking or regularization, it is called simple addition. There are not particular feature, which can characterize simple additions other than those not appear in a well-performed utterance.

c. Misinformation

Misinformation is a part of errors that found in writing paragraph of the students that using wrong structure in arrangement sentences. This was also in line with. Misinformation errors are characterized by use of the wrong of the morphemes or structure.

d. Misordering

Misordering is the error where the student put item incorrect placement or the incorrect placement of word order. This category is relatively uncontroversial. The learners can select the right forms to use in the right context, but they arrange them in the wrong order, for instance, adverbials, interrogatives and adjectives, yielding errors.

In this research, the researcher used Bestgen & Granger theory. The researcher used this theory because it is newest than other theories. And also there are many classification in this theory, so the spelling error can be classified more specific.

In this research, the researcher used Bestgen and Granger (2011) theory. The researcher chose Bestgen and Granger (2011) because this theory newer than other theories and has more categories than other theories.

3. Review on Writing

Writing is one of the basic skills that must be mastered by students when learning English. According to (Venda, 2015) writing is one of the important language skills that students learning English as a foreign language must acquire. Writing is a tool for expressing thoughts, feelings, opinions, and ideas about a particular experience. Meaningful writing consists of grammatically correct paragraphs and a paragraph consisting of sentences. The important components of a sentence are subject, predicate/verb, object, complement, and modifier. To have a good writing product, the writer must pay attention to the content, grammar, mechanism, spelling, capitalization, and punctuation. Furthermore, the writer must also ensure that the messages are delivered successfully.

Writing is never a one-step action; it is an ongoing creative act. (Oshima et al., 2007) state that the process of writing has roughly four steps;

- a. Prewriting: Prewriting is a way to get ideas. In this step, students choose a topic and collect ideas to explain the topic.
- b. Organizing: The next step in the writing process is to organize the ideas into a simple outline.
- c. Writing: The next step is to write a rough draft, using students' outline as a guide.
- d. Polishing; Revising and Editing: In this step, students polish what they have written. This step is also called revising and editing. Polishing is most successful if students do it in two steps. First, attack the big issues of content and organization (revising). Then work on the smaller issues of grammar, punctuation, and mechanics (editing).

4. Review on Recount Text

Recount text is one of the text genres that the students learn. According to (Ramli, 2013), recount text is written with the purpose to inform the readers or people about something that happens in the past. It can be experiences and events. The purpose of a recount text is to list and describe past experiences by retelling events in the order in which they happened. Concerning this matter, the writer chooses recount text as a teaching material in teaching English because it mostly tells about past events. Recount text also represents variable, which can be used to attract, motivate, inform and entertain the students. As a result, the students would be interested in studying English by using recount text in order to increase their mastery in using simple past tense.

Every text has a generic structure. According to (Hutagalung, 2017) generic structures of the recount are;

- a. Orientation: introducing the participants, place and time.
- b. Events: Describing series of events that happened in the past.
- c. Reorientation: it is optional, stating personal comment of the researcher to the story

There are language features of recount text as follows;

- a. Usually written in the past tense. Some forms may use simple present tense, e.g. informal anecdote storytelling (just imagine- I'm in the park and I suddenly see a giant bat flying towards me!)
- b. Word that show the order of event (then, next, first, afterwards, just before that, at last, meanwhile)
- c. The subject of a recount tends to focus on individual or group participant (third person: they all shouted, she crept out, it looked like animal of some kind)
- d. Personal recount are common (first person: I was on my way to school.....We got on the bus).
- e. Using action verbs and circumstance such as adverb of place and adverb of time to show the action and detail information of event that occur in the story.

B. Previous Related Studies

The researcher takes three previous studies related her research which the title is spelling error analysis in student' writing recount text. The first research was conducted by Reni Dwi Agustin (Universitas Raden Mas Said Surakarta, 2022) entitled “Spelling Error in Students' Writing of The Second Grade in SMP N 2 Gatak in the Academic Year Of 2021/2022”. The objective of this research is to identify the types of errors made by the students and the types of spelling error that most frequently occurs in students writing of second grade in SMP N 2 Gatak in writing English test. The method used in this research is descriptive qualitative research. This research was conducted to second grade students of SMP N 2 Gatak. In collecting the data, the researcher used students' worksheets of writing English test. The data was analyzed by Bestgen and Granger's category, to classify categories of spelling errors. The results showed 97 errors from 32 students' writing English test. Spelling errors that the most frequently occurred in students' writing was the multiple error with 26 errors or 26,8%.

The second previous related study was conducted by Wahyuningsih (IAIN Salatiga, 2021) entitled “Spelling Error Analysis in the Students' Writing Vocabulary at the Seventh Grade of SMP N 1 Tengaran”. This study aims to identify and analyze the errors found in writing vocabulary. The subjects of this study were seventh grade students of SMP N 1 Tengaran and the basic data were taken from their daily English test results. The aims of this research are to know the forms of spelling errors found in the students' writing vocabulary and to know the factors cause students to have errors in spelling writing vocabulary at the seventh grade students of SMP N 1 Tengeran. This research used a descriptive qualitative to identify and analyze this study so that 4 types of errors were found, namely omission error, substitution error, transposition error, insertion error. After completing the data analysis, the research revealed 39 omission errors, 53 substitution errors were the most common errors, 7 transposition errors, and 11 insertion errors. The main cause of these errors occurs because students tend not to be able to distinguish writing of English vocabulary spelling with Indonesian.

The third is Syahfitri Dwi Kirani (Universitas Islam Negeri Raden Mas Said Surakarta, 2022) entitled “An Analysis of Students’ Error in Writing Argumentative Essay at the Second Semester of English Language Education of UIN Raden Mas Said Surakarta in the Academic Year 2021/2022”. This research aims to knowing what kinds or errors and sources of error are faced by students in the process of writing argumentative essay. The objectives of this research are to find out the kinds of errors in writing an argumentative essay and to investigate the sources of errors in writing an argumentative essay encountered by second semester of English Language Education Department. The type of this research is case study. The subject of this research are students at the second semester of English Language Education Department of UIN Raden Mas Said Surakarta. Data collection was done by documentation and interview. In analyzing the data, the researcher collect the data by organizing and preparing the data, classifying and categorizing the data, and drawing conclusion. The researcher used the triangulation method to ensure the trustworthiness of the data. The result showed there are 90 errors made in compiling the argumentative essay by respondents in this study. Each respondent has varying ability qualities, but the dominant error is Error of Omission with 28 errors with a percentage of 31.1%, while Error of Addition Double Marking and Error of Misordering being the least with a percentage of 4.44%. And based on the document analysis in students' interview, the result show that the source of error that encountered by students mostly is intralingual transfer and communicatives strategies.

The fourth is Indah Paramitha Journal (2021) entitled “An Analysis of Students' Spelling Errors in Writing at Eight Grade of SMP N 2 Kamang Magek”. In this journal, the writer used mix method research by using descriptive design. Quantitative research was used to answer the kind of students' spelling error in writing and most common of error in writing. Qualitative research was used to know the causes of students' spelling error in writing. The informants of this research were the students of VIII-1 class in SMP N 2 Kamang Magek. The data was got through documentation and interview. Documentation was used to get quantitative data and interview was used to get qualitative data. The researcher asked the students' writing to the teacher as a documentation. The interview was done directly and indirectly because of the pandemi. The result of the research showed that there were 184 spelling errors from 22 students. Therefore, the most common spelling error was substitution of letter which students changed letter incorrectly with 35,3% percentage.

Moreover, there were some reasons why the students of SMP N 2 Kamang Magek made spelling error. The first was the difficulties between spoken and written form in English, it made students were not able to remember the spelling. Second was most of students were influenced by students' first language when they wrote spelling. The last was lack of students' desire to write correct spelling.

CHAPTER III

RESEARCH METHODOLOGY

A. Research Design

In this research, the researcher used descriptive qualitative research that focused on the spelling error analysis in students' writing recount text at tenth grade SMA N 1 Mojolaban in academic year 2022/2023. Qualitative research focuses in understanding a research query as a humanistic or idealistic approach. Qualitative method is used to understand people's beliefs, experiences, attitudes, behavior, and interactions. It generates non-numerical data (Babu et al., 2013). (Cropley, 2022) state that qualitative research is concerned with the patterns and forms of variables. This is qualitative research because the data were collected in the form of word rather than number. In addition, this study meant to describe the kinds of spelling error and the factors that influence students to make spelling error in students' writing recount text at tenth grade of SMA N 1 Mojolaban in the academic year of 2022/2023.

B. Research Setting

1. Place of the Research

This research has been conducted at SMA N 1 Mojolaban. SMA N 1 Mojolaban is located at Jalan Batara Surya No.10 Mojolaban, Kebak, Wirun, Sukoharjo, Kabupaten Sukoharjo, Jawa Tengah 57131.

2. Time of the Research

C. Research Subject and Informant

The research subject and informant in this research are the tenth grade students of SMA N 1 Mojolaban in the academic year 2022/2023. There are ten classes at tenth grade of SMA N 1 Mojolaban; they are (X MIPA 1, X MIPA 2, X MIPA 3, X MIPA 4, X MIPA 5, X IPS 1, X IPS 2, X IPS 3, X IPS 4, X BAHASA). The research only took one class of tenth grade students as the subject of the research. The researcher did the study in the science class (X MIPA

3) as the object of this research. That class consists of 36 students, but the documents only 35 because there was a student who was not attend to the class when the researcher conducted the data.

D. Data and Source of the Data

Research data are a set of values on one or more units of observation. The information, often in the form of facts or figures, obtained from experience or surveys, used a basis for making calculations or drawing conclusions is said to be data. Data comes in many forms; it can be a series of numbers, alphanumeric or strings (Baral, 2017). In this research, the researcher used words as the form of the data. The source of the data is collected from the X MIPA 3 of SMA N 1 Mojolaban. The researcher wanted to analyze the errors committed by students and the factors that influence students to made spelling error.

E. Technique of Collecting the Data

According to (Buchanan, 1981), Data collection is the process of collecting and measuring information about variables of interest in a well-established and systematic way that allows to answer research questions, test hypotheses, and evaluate results. In this research, the researcher used documentation, questionnaire, and interview as the technique of collecting the data.

1. Document Analysis

Document analysis is a systematic procedure for reviewing or evaluating documents both printed and electronic (computer-based and Internet-transmitted) material. Documents contain text (words) and images that have been recorded without a researcher's intervention (Bowen, 2009). The researcher collected the data from the result of the students' writing. The students' writing is a write of a recount text. In brief, the students be given a worksheet in which they should write a recount text. The worksheets were used to know kinds of errors made by X MIPA 3 students of SMA N 1 Mojolaban in using the recount text

2. Questionnaire

According to Buchanan (1981) questionnaires are a list of questions either open-ended or close-ended for which the respondents give answers. Questionnaire can be conducted via telephone, mail, live in a public area, or in an institute, through electronic mail or through fax and other methods. The researcher makes a questionnaire to analyze the data to answer the second question about the factors that influence students to make spelling errors. The researcher asked six questions through GForm.

3. Interview

Interview is a face-to-face conversation with the respondent. In interview the main problem arises when the respondent deliberately hides information otherwise it is an in depth source of information (Buchanan, 1981). The researcher did the interview to analyze the data to answer the second question about the factors that influence students to make spelling errors. The researcher did indirect interviews via WhatsApp.

Questions List

1. What do you do if you do not know how to spell a word?
2. What are the causes of your spelling errors?
3. How often do you care about the spelling of words when you write?
4. How do you feel about learning the spelling of words?
5. What is your main problem in learning the spelling of words?
6. There are few books that emphasize about spelling in the school library.

Interview Guideline

1. Apa yang kamu lakukan jika tidak mengetahui ejaan sebuah kata?
2. Apa penyebab dari ejaan kata yang kamu lakukan?
3. Seberapa sering kamu memperhatikan tentang ejaan kata?
4. Bagaimana perasaan kamu tentang belajar ejaan kata?
5. Apa masalah utama kamu dalam mempelajari ejaan kata?
6. Apakah ada buku di perpustakaan sekolah yang menekankan tentang ejaan kata?

F. Research Instrument

According to Adib (2021), a research instrument is a tool used to collect, measure, and analyze data related to research interests. Research methods include interviews, tests, questionnaires, and checklists. The research instrument is usually determined by the researcher and tied to the research methodology. In this research, the main instrument is the researcher herself, and the second instrument is document analysis, questions list, and interview guideline. This instrument can be used to collecting data on the research.

G. Trustworthiness of the Data

Qualitative validity means that the researcher checks for the accuracy of the findings by employing certain procedures. According to Creswell (2014), there are eight primary strategies.

1. Triangulate different data sources of information by examining evidence from the sources and using it to build a coherent justification for themes. If themes are established based on converging several sources of data or perspectives from participants, then this process can be claimed as adding to the validity of the study.
2. Use member checking to determine the accuracy of the qualitative findings through taking the final report or specific descriptions or themes back to participants and determining whether these participants feel that they are accurate.
3. Use a rich, thick description to convey the findings. This description may transport readers to the setting and give the discussion an element of shared experiences.
4. Clarify the bias the researcher brings to the study. This self-reflection creates an open and honest narrative that will resonate well with readers. Reflectivity has already been mentioned as a core characteristic of qualitative research.
5. Present negative or discrepant information that runs counter to the themes. Because real life is composed of different perspectives that do not always coalesce, discussing contrary information adds to the credibility of an account. A researcher can accomplish this by discussing evidence about a theme. Most evidence will build a case for the theme; researchers can also present information that contradicts the general perspective of the theme.

6. Spend prolonged time in the field. In this way, the researcher develops an in-depth understanding of the phenomenon under study and can convey detail about the site and the people that lends credibility to the narrative account.
7. Use peer debriefing to enhance the accuracy of the account. This process involves locating a person (a peer debriefer) who reviews and asks questions about the qualitative study so that the account will resonate with people other than the researcher.
8. Use an external auditor to review the entire project. As distinct from a peer debriefer, this auditor is not familiar with the researcher or the project and can provide an objective assessment of the project throughout the process of research or at the conclusion of the study.

In this research, the researcher used an external auditor as a technique for validating the data. The teacher reviewed and validated the data analyzed by the researcher. The results were then documented and discussed in a research report once the data had been validated by an English teacher.

H. Technique of Analyzing the Data

Corder in Ellis (1994) states that there are five steps to analyzing student error data. It includes data collection, error identification, classification, interpretation, and evaluation. Data analysis is performed to gain a better understanding of the data and to allow the researcher to present the research findings to the readers. After collecting the data, the researcher uses the following steps as part of the data analysis:

1. Collecting the Sample of the students language.

This step involves deciding on the student language sample to be used for analysis.

2. Identifying the errors

In the second step, researcher attempted to find errors in the research sample by underlining the errors.

3. Classifying the errors.

After underlining the errors, the researcher categorized them. The errors were categorized based on Bestgen and Granger's theory.

4. Giving codes for the data.

By providing a code that facilitates analysis of data identification. The researcher gave the code to make the classification of data analysis in every data. The codes used to encode the data were S.1-S.36 as Students 1-36.

CHAPTER IV

RESEARCH FINDINGS AND DISCUSSION

A. Research Findings

In this chapter, the researcher gathered the data from the research. The data collected were committed to replying the formulation of the problem of what are the categories of spelling error and what are the factors that makes students make spelling error in writing recount text at the tenth grade od SMA N 1 Mojolaban. The findings of this research were taken from the analysis of recount text from 35 students of X MIPA 3 in SMA N 1 Mojolaban. To show the result of the research clearly, those findings are categorized based on the formulation of the problems follows:

1. Categories of spelling errors found in students' writing recount text

There are nine categories of spelling errors found in students' writing recount text based on Bestgen and Granger's theory. The researcher found 85 spelling error from 35 students' writing recount text. The researcher using coding S.1-S.36 as student 1-36 to make identification easier. In present the result of the research findings the researcher using the table that showed categories of a spelling error, spelling error analysis based on the students' writing recount text.

a. Omission of a letter

Omission of a letter is a spelling error in which occurred when students deleted or missed a letter of a word. The researcher found 23 spelling errors in this category.

c. Single letter instead of double letter

Single letter instead of double letter is a spelling error in which happened when students miss a letter in a word that contains double letter.

The researcher found 5 spelling errors in this category.

d. Double letter instead of single letter

Double letter instead of single letter is a spelling error in which happened when students included double letter in a word that ought to be single letter. The researcher found 6 spelling error in this category.

e. Substitution of one letter

Substitution of one letter is a spelling error in which happened when students substituting of one letter for another. The researcher found 18 spelling errors in this category.

f. Interchange of two adjacent letter

Interchange of two adjacent letter is a spelling error in which happened when students write a word that any letter in the false position.

The researcher found 6 spelling errors in this category.

g. Error involving an apostrophe

Involving an apostrophe is a spelling error in which happened when students erroneously put an apostrophe on a word and also when students not included or disregard to put an apostrophe. The researcher found 3 spelling errors in this category.

i. Two or more errors of the same type or different types

Two or more error of the same type or different type (multiple error) is a spelling error in which happened when students included two or more errors contained in a word. The researcher found 6 spelling errors in this category.

Based on the explanation above, the researcher found nine types of spelling error made by students of tenth grade students at SMA N 1 Mojolaban. The researcher categorized the nine types of spelling error as seen in the table below:

2. The factors that influence students to make spelling error

The second formulation of the problem is about the factors that influence students to make spelling error. In this study, the researcher used questionnaire to answer the formulation of the problem. Based on the theory from Gass and Selinker (2008), there are two main causes of errors, interlingual and intralingual. Interlingual error is an error which results from language transfer, which is caused by the learner's native language, while intralingual error is one which results from faulty or partial learning of the target language, rather than from language transfer.

a. Interlingual Errors

There are two questions which were related to the interlingual error's theory.

Table 4. 11 Interlingual Error Question 1

Question 1	Variable	Number of students
What do you do if you do not know how to spell a word?	Write it as it feel it is	4
	Ask friends	12
	Ask teacher	4
	Check it up in the dictionary	16
Total		36

From the table above, it can be seen that the most chosen is check it up in the dictionary with 16 number of students. It means that the students will check the dictionary if they do not know how to spell a word. Then, there were 12 students who chose ask friends, it means that they will ask their friend if they do not know how to spell a word. While there were 4 students that chose ask teacher and 4 students who chose write it as it feel it is. Based on the explanation above, it can be concluded that most of the students chose to check the spelling of words in the dictionary. The following are some of the answers from students' interviews:

Q1 : Apa yang kamu lakukan jika tidak mengetahui ejaan sebuah kata?

S3 : Biasanya ya ngecek di kamus

S4 : Cek kamuk kak

S5 : Kalau aku cek di kamus kak

S7 : Cek kamus sih kak biasanya

S8 : Biasanya aku di kamus kak

Table 4. 12 Interlingual Error Question 2

Question 2	Variable	Number of Students
What are the causes of your spelling errors?	The differences between written and spoken English	31
	The origin of English word	0
	Carelessness	0
	All	5
Total		36

From the table above, it showed that the majority choice was the difference between written and spoken English with 31 number of students. Then, there were 5 students who chose all, it means that the causes of students spelling errors were the difference between written and spoken English, the origin of English word, and carelessness. While no one student chose the origin of English word and carelessness. Based on the explanation above, it can be concluded that the cause of the students' spelling errors was the difference between written and spoken English.

From the table of interlingual error above, it can be seen that the cause of students' spelling errors was the difference between written and spoken English. Then, the students will check up the dictionary if they do not know the spelling of words. The following is are some of the answers from students' interviews:

- Q2 : Apa penyebab dari ejaan kata yang lakukan?
- S3 : Ya mungkin karena pengucapan sama tulisannya beda trs nulisnya sesuai sama yang didengar aja makanya salah
- S4 : Karna pengucapan sama tulisan kak
- S5 : Karena pada saat mengucapkan sama tulisannya beda kak
- S7 : Iya kak terkadang kata yang saya Tulis beda pengucapannya
- S8 : Iya kak itu karna pengucapan sama tulisannya beda

b. Intralingual Error

There are four questions which were related to the intralingual errors' theory. Those question will be showed in the table below:

Table 4. 13 Intralingual Question 1

Question 3	Variable	Number of Students
How often do you care about the spelling of words when you write?	Always	17
	Usual	10
	Sometimes	9
	Never	0
Total		36

From the table above, it shows that the majority choice was always with 17 students. It means that the students always care about the spelling of words when they write. There were 10 students who chose usual, it means that there were 10 students who usually care about the spelling of words when they write. Then, there were 9 students who chose sometimes, it means they sometimes care about spelling when they write. While there was no one who chose never, it means there is no one student who does not care about spelling when they write. Based on the explanation above, it can be concluded that all students still care about spelling when they write. The following are some answers from students' interviews:

Q3 : Seberapa sering kamu memperhatikan tentang ejaan kata?

S3 : Iya mbak memperhatikan

S4 : Iya memperhatikan, sering

S5 : Memperhatikan kak

S7 : Iya kak saya sering memperhatikan ejaan ketika menulis kata dalam bahasa Inggris

S8 : Iya kak sering banget aku memperhatikan ejaan ketika menulis

Table 4. 14 Intralingual Error Question 2

Question 4	Variable	Number of Students'
How do you feel about learning the spelling of words?	Very enthusiastic	6
	Like	22
	Dislike	1
	Usual	7
Total		36

From the table above, the students liked to learn about the spelling of words, it showed by majority of students chose like with the number of students who answered were 22 students. Then, there were 7 students who chose usual, it means that they feel usual when learning the spelling of words. There were 6 students who chose very enthusiastic, it means that they feel very enthusiastic about learning the spelling of words. While, there is a student who chose dislike, it means that he did not like to learn the spelling of words. Based on the explanation above, it can be concluded that the students liked to learn about the spelling of words. The following are some the answers from students' interviews:

Q4 : Bagaimana perasaan kamu tentang belajar ejaan kata?

S3 : Ya suka" aja mbak

S4 : Suka kak

S5 : Suka kak

S7 : Kurang suka kak sebenarnya, karna sedikit membosankan

Table 4. 15 Intralingual Error Question 3

Question 5	Variable	Number of Students
What is your main problem in learning the spelling of words?	Sometimes the teacher does not care about spelling words when teaching	9
	Lack of materials	20
	Lack of interest to learn	7
Total		36

From the table above, it showed that the main problem of students' spelling errors was a lack of materials. It can be seen that 20 students chose lack of materials. Then, 9 students chose sometimes the teacher does not care about spelling words when teaching and 7 students chose lack of interest to learn. Based on the explanation above, it can be concluded that the main problem for students to learn spelling of words is a lack of materials. The following are some answers from students' interviews:

- Q5 : Apa masalah utama kamu dalam mempelajari ejaan kata?
- S3 : Kurang materi sih mbak, dari gurunya juga jarang ngasih tau buat merhatiin ejaan katanya
- S4 : Kurang materi, dari gurunya yang kurang menjelaskan tentang ejaan kata
- S5 : Karena kurang materi, karena dibukunya juga tidak ada materi tentang ejaan kata
- S7 : Iya kak saya kurang tertarik mempelajari ejaan
- S8 : Kurang materi kak, dibuku tidak ada materi ejaan kata

Table 4. 16 Intralingual Error Question 4

Question 6	Agree	Disagree
There are few books that emphasize about spelling in the school library.	36	0

From the table above, it can be seen that in the question students commit spelling errors because most of them do not re-correct their works after writing, all of the students chose agree. Furthermore, all students agree that in the school library, there were few books that emphasized spelling. The following are some answers from students' interviews:

Q6 : Apakah ada buku di perpustakaan sekolah yang menekankan tentang ejaan kata?

S3 : Ada mbak tapia gak susah nyarinya soalnya Cuma ada beberapa buku aja

S4 : Kalo di perpus kurang tau kak soalnya juga jarang ke perpus

S5 : Kayaknya ga ada kak

S8 : Tidak ada kak

B. Discussion

Based on the research findings, the researcher found some categories of spelling errors on students' worksheet of writing recount text. From the errors, the researcher counts the spelling error that most frequently occurred. Then, based on the findings, the researcher also found some causes of spelling errors. From the data analysis of the research findings, the researcher found 85 spelling errors identified in 35 students writing of recount text. The error divided into nine categories based on Bestgen and Granger's theory such as omission of a letter, addition of a letter, single letter instead of double letter, double letter instead of single letter, substitution of one letter, interchange two adjacent letters, error involving apostrophe, erroneous splitting or joining of words (words segmentation error), two or more errors of the same categories or different categories (multiple error).

From the research findings above, can be seen that the most frequent errors are omission of a letter with 23 errors. Omission of a letter is a spelling error in which occurred when students deleted or missed a letter of a word. The researcher concludes that students still lacked in spelling skill especially writing texts. The student thought when pronounced an English word it was the same within the written word, and they did not know how differentiate some letters or sounds. The last error which is committed by students is erroneous splitting or joining of word (word segmentation words) with 3 errors. Erroneous splitting or joining of words (word segmentation error) is a spelling error in which happened when students included a word that includes splitting or joining two words with or without space. The students did not pay attention to the words whether they use a space or not. However, it could change the meaning of the words and it can be made the reader confused to understand the real meaning.

Based on the researcher analysis, those nine categories of errors occurred because several words in English have the same sounds. Besides, the students' L1 is also one of the influences on students spelling errors in the writing. In analyzing the other factors that influence students to make spelling error in writing, the researcher used the questionnaire instrument. The following discussion explained the findings of the factors that influence students to make spelling error based on interlingual and intralingual error.

Based on the explanation of interlingual error above, it can be seen that the cause of students' spelling errors was the difference between written and spoken English. Then, the students will check the dictionary if they do not know the spelling of a word. While in intralingual error, most students care about spelling and like to learn the spelling of words. Unfortunately, the students lacked materials, and in their school library, there are few books that emphasize spelling errors.

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

A. Conclusion

After analyzing the obtained data of students' answer sheets focused on the types of spelling errors made by the tenth grade students of X MIPA 3 in SMA N 1 Mojolaban in their recount text, the researcher would like to state some conclusions. The first point is about the types of spelling errors in students' recount texts. The researcher draws conclusions related to the analysis of the types of spelling errors. It can be concluded that students in X MIPA 3 in this study have committed nine categories of spelling errors. Those are categories include omission of a letter, addition of a letter, single letter instead of double letter, double letter instead of single letter, substitution of one letter, interchange of two adjacent, involving an apostrophe, erroneous splitting or joining of words (word segmentation error), and two or more error of the same words (word segmentation error), and two or more error of the same type or different type (multiple error). The errors of spelling were found by collecting the documents of 35 students' recount texts from tenth grade students of X MIPA 3.

The second point is about the factors that influence students to make spelling errors in writing. The researcher makes a questionnaire to know the factors and categories them into two categories: interlingual and intralingual errors. In interlingual errors, the researcher concluded that the cause of students' spelling errors was the difference between written and spoken English. While in intralingual error, the cause of students' spelling errors was the students lack of materials, and in their school library, there are few books that emphasize spelling errors.

B. Suggestion

Based on the conclusion that the researcher stated above, the researcher gives some suggestions as below:

1. For the students

In order to improve students' spelling skills, the researcher advises them to be aware when writing, especially in spelling, especially for students of X MIPA 3 SMA N 1 Mojolaban. In order to minimize spelling errors in their work, students and readers should practice correctly pronouncing English words.

2. For the teachers

To prevent spelling errors in students' writing, teachers should be aware of the difficulty with spelling, particularly when writing English words, and should also provide more practice with spelling in writing courses.

3. For the other researchers

For the other researcher who wants to conduct a similar study about spelling errors in writing. It would be better to observe the other object, other language skills, the other type of text and compare them with another theory of spelling error.

Holiday to Wirata Bahan Lamongan

* Orientation

A few years ago, I had the opportunity to go on a vacation to one of the cities, Lamongan. I went there with my friends and teachers. We gathered at the school at 10 p.m, we had a very long journey for about 7 hours by bus and we arrived there at 5 a.m, then performed the dawn prayer.

* Series Of Events

After finishing the prayer, we were exhausted because of a very long journey, we just rested briefly at the mosque. The next day, we continued our journey to Lamongan to visit one of the popular tourist attractions, Lamongan Marine Tourism. We saw many authentic local shopping mall and cafe's there, and many kind of amusement rides. In the afternoon, we continued to the underground mosque which is not far from WBL. After that we headed to a restaurant for dinner, and continued the journey home.

* Re - Orientation

A trip to Lamongan a few years ago was a nice experience with elementary friends. After we were dizzy with the national exam, finally we could have a vacation to enjoy the beauty of city tourism. We went back home bringing so many amazing memories of Lamongan.

My Special Moment

Orientation

A few years ago, I MPLS at school filled with various interesting activities, such as introducing us to the school environment. For example about the rules, regulations, traditions that exist in the school, facilities, teachers, staff and seniors.

Series of Events

On the first day, MPLS we were asked to make names out of paper so that our seniors or teachers could find out each of our names.

On the second day, new students are given guidance on rules and regulations, ethics, and manners at school. Then it also discusses issues that are currently viral or are happening a lot among teenagers today, from positive to negative things.

On the third day, more outdoor activities. We new students are invited to get to know various place, classes, laboratories, libraries, and so on.

Re-orientation

MPLS in high school is so much fun. I have many friends that I know here. I thought MPLS would be stressful but it wasn't. I know a lot of friends, and know how the facilities at this school are. I will never forget this memory for the rest of my life.

Holiday in Yogyakarta

Last month, I visited my brother's home in Yogyakarta. Previously, I had visited him three times. So, at that time I decided to go alone by train.

Soon after I arrived at my brother's home, he invited me to join the dinner with his family. One of the things that I love about Yogyakarta is its traditional cuisine, especially gudeg. One the next day, I went to several historical places in Yogyakarta including Taman Sari, Keraton Ngayogyakarta Hadiningrat, and Werdebung Museum. I was very happy to have the opportunity to visit these places again. One the third day, which was my last day in Yogyakarta, I went to Malioboro to buy some souvenirs such as batik and some local handicrafts.

It was always enjoyable to spend time in Yogyakarta. I am sure it was not going to be my last visit. Next time, this will be another option for us to enjoy weekends.

Chaotic Situation In the Market

Last week, I went to a traditional market to buy some daily needs. As usual, I go there alone and bring a shopping list. After arriving at the market, I started searching the thing I needed one by one.

While I was bargaining the price of some fruits, I saw a crowded condition where there was a thief beaten by a lot of people. It was so terrible, I didn't want to see the condition to get worse so I called police. A few minutes later, police came and calmed down the situation.

Asking the fruit seller, I knew that the thief tried to steal someone's wallet but someone saw him and shouted loudly. After that, suddenly many people roughed him up hardly. It was a scaring moment I experienced last week and I hoped that it will never happen again in the future.

My Holiday With My Friends at Gunung Kidul Beach

Last month was New Year holiday. I and my friends went to Gunung Kidul beach for a vacation. We took a tourism bus to go there. We left at 07.00 o'clock in the morning. The trip took about four hours and we arrived at around 11.00 pm.

As we arrived there, I walked down to the beach. It was a nice sunny day with a blue sky and a gentle breeze. I was some seagulls flew around hunting for fish. The waves there were suitable for swimming, but I didn't swim because I couldn't swim and only play with the wares on shallow part. We also didn't miss our opportunity here taking some pictures with the background of scene Gunung Kidul beach.

A few years ago, I had the opportunity to go on a vacation to one of my dream zoo, GembiraLoka. I went there with my family. We had a very long journey for around 1 hour.

* Series of Events.

Upon arrival, due to exhaustion, we are take a rest to lunch and sholat dzuhur. Then I went around to see the animals in the zoo. There are many species of animals. There is elephant, giraffe, zebra, horse, crocodile, lion, tiger, penguin, and many other animals.

* Re-Orientation.

A trip to the zoo a few years ago was an experience I will never forget for the rest of my life. We can see many species of animals on there. I think that having quality time with a family is very important ♥♥♥
