SUBJECT: Public Information
Tax Executives Institute, Inc.

RELEASE: 14
10/14/47

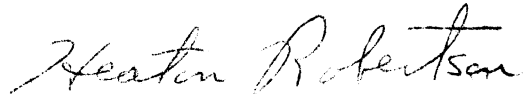

The Tax Executives Institute, Inc., is an organization that has been in existence for approximately three years and is comprised of the heads of the tax departments of over four hundred of this country's largest corporations. On the national level, the organization has cooperated with the American Institute of Accountants on several occasions, the most recent example of which was the Tax Executives Institute's willingness to oppose the Administrative Practitioners Act (H.R. 2657).

Part of the accounting profession's increased public information program is the exchange of speakers with other organizations, and the Tax Executives Institute presents a fine opportunity for accountants to tell the members of that organization something of the relationship between certified public accountants and attorneys. It is known that the tax executives, working with both the lawyers and controllers of their respective corporations, are willing to tell accountants of their own experiences. Attached for your convenience is a list of the chapters of that organization.

It is suggested that state societies and their chapters contact representatives of the Tax Executives Institute and invite them to attend their meetings. Upon request the American Institute will be glad to furnish ample material to serve as a basis for a speech to be given by an accountant at a Tax Executives Institute meeting.

It is our understanding that a similar letter is being sent to all chapters of the Tax Executives Institute, and we would appreciate being advised of any exchange of speakers between your society and this organization.
