Parkland mourns death of Lou Henson Jr.

by Robb Mathias
Prospectus Staff Writer

Parkland mourns the death of Lou Henson, Jr., the College's head basketball coach who died in a single car accident at approximately 10:10 p.m. Nov. 20.

The 1989 Ford Escort Mr. Henson was driving left the roadway, hit a culvert, became airborne, and rolled over. Mr. Henson was taken to Carle Foundation Hospital where he was pronounced dead around 11 p.m.

Pres. Zelema Harris said at a meeting with the press on Saturday that her first response upon learning of the accident was shock and disbelief.

Members of the College and the Athletic department began immediately to set up a support system for the basketball players.

At the team's first meeting after the accident, James Reed, athletic director, and Assistant Coach Terrance Gray broke the news to the players.

Brad Hastings, counselor, also helped the players deal with the news. Hastings was Mr. Henson's counselor when he was a student at Parkland.

After Reed and Hastings addressed the team, Gray talked privately with the players. Gray said later that he was quite emotional at this meeting.

When he was a student at Parkland, Mr. Henson played on the basketball team in 1979.

He earned a bachelor's degree in education from Eastern Illinois University and a master of science degree in administration from the University of Mississippi.

Mr. Henson is survived by two daughters, Lacey Jane Henson and Lindsey Rae Henson, both of Savoy; three sisters, Lori J. Henson, of Urbana; Lisa R. Rutter, of Broken Arrow, Okla.; Leigh Anne Edison, of Wheaton, and his parents, Mary, and Lou Henson, Sr., head U. of I. basketball coach.

Memorials may be made to the Lou Henson Jr. Fund, Parkland College Foundation.

Give a little, take a little Architect, committee redraw Center plans

by John Hoffmeister
Editor in Chief

The answer is give and take. The question: How can the approved Child Development Center get off the ground?

Negotiations between Martin Koch, architect for the firm of Henneman, Raufelsen and Associates, Inc., and Center committee members have produced little action to bring the building in under cost.

The original plan, overshooting its allocation of $405,000 by $132,000, was scaled down and axed before reaching Board eyes.

According to Lauri Morrison Frichtl, director of the Parkland Child Development Center, the second proposal was slightly over budget, prompting Development Committee members to reject it.

"We can't bring it in with the money we have," Frichtl said.

She said a redesign may involve a reduction of about 500 sq. ft.

Plan modifications would cut capacity of the Center from 56 children, called for in the original proposal, to 36.

But Frichtl said she has been "holding on to as much space as possible" for the children.

"I'm going to encourage them (designers)," Frichtl said, "to think of other alternatives to bring the building in under the budget. We may have to get pretty darn creative."

According to Alice Pfeffer, vice president, Student Administration, the objective of the redesign was to make it as simple as possible.

"We hope to have Board approval for bids in January, and then we can start construction," Pfeffer said.

Under the second redesign, costs were reduced by $142,000. The majority of the reductions were general building modifications. These included a building reduction of 1,200 sq. ft., reducing exterior surface area by 2,379 sq. ft., and simplifying the roof design to a one truss type.

Total general building reductions came to $52,000. Total reductions from the initial bid amounted to $142,000, bringing the new bid to $365,000.

"We tried to downsize it, make it simple," Pfeffer said.

She added if the plans are approved by the Parkland Board of Trustees, the bids can be made and then sent back for Board approval.

Parkland students and others interested in helping the Child Development Center will have an opportunity to "purchase" toys for the Center Dec. 7-11.

During the Toy Fair, anyone can donate money toward specific toys and equipment needed for the Center that will serve children of Parkland students, staff, and members of the community. The Center is scheduled to open by summer, 1993.

Donors may choose toys ranging in value from $5 to $30. Sample toys such as stuffed animals, blocks, and art supplies donated by local and national vendors will be displayed under a holiday tree in the College Center across from the Information and Welcome Center desk.

For more information, call Lauri Morrison-Frichtl, director of the Center, at 217/351-2553.

Board OKs Conduct Code

A new Student Conduct Code describing procedures and penalties for conduct on and off campus was approved by the Board of Trustees on

Phil Carter, Student Government president, said, "I appreciate the fact that the current administration and the Board have spent a lengthy amount of time to insure that the code will serve all Parkland students fairly."

Student Government and the Parkland College Association approved the Code last spring. It is a policy of the Student Affairs Committee and the PCA Senate.

Carol Steinman, Dean of Students, said, "Although most students certainly are not going to break the rules, it's a good thing to know what they are." The Code was drawn up to protect the right of students and the institution, Steinman said, and establishes a system for dealing fairly and promptly with offenders.

"I hope we don't have to enforce the Code," Steinman said, "but if we do, the procedures are clearly defined in detail."

First on the list of proscribed conduct are cheating, plagiarism, or other forms of academic dishonesty.

Also on the list of actionable offenses are:

- * Disruption of teaching or other College activities on or off-campus
- * Physical or verbal abuse, threats, or intimidation
- * Attempted or actual theft of personal or College property
- * Hazing which endangers mental or physical health of a student or destroys property as part of initiation or membership in a group
- * Failure to comply with campus officials or law enforcement officers
- * Unauthorized possession or duplication of Parkland keys
- * Violations on campus or at Parkland sponsored off-campus events of federal, state, or local laws.
- * Use or manufacture or distribution of narcotic or other controlled substances

- * Use, possession, or distribution of alcohol or intoxication at any on or off-campus event or appearance on campus while under the influence
- * Illegal or unauthorized possession of firearms, explosives, or other weapons or dangerous chemicals on campus.
- * Participation in campus demonstrations which disrupt normal operations at Parkland
- * Obstruction of free flow of pedestrian or vehicular traffic
- * Disorderly, lewd, or indecent conduct; breach of the peace; abetting or procuring another to commit breach of the peace on campus or at a Parkland event
- * Theft including unauthorized entry or transfer of a file or software; unauthorized use of another's identification or password; use of computing facilities to send obscene or abusive messages; use of computer to interfere with operation of Parkland computer programs

Board elects Albin, OKs Strategic Plan

John Albin, Newman, was re-elected chairman of the Board of Trustees on Nov. 18.

Bonnie B. Kelley, Champaign was elected vice-chairman, and Ronald Z. Hood, Gibson City, was elected secretary.

The Board approved the Strategic Plan for the College presented by Pres. Zelema Harris which has four primary goals: a higher standard of community, quality, leadership, and financial vitality for the College.

Dale Ewen, vice president, Academic Services, said the Operational Plan, which is now being drawn, will drive the Strategic Plan.

A tax levy of $9,815,520 on a total assessed valuation of $2 billion, 80 million was approved by the Board.

The levy includes $5,408,000 for the Educational Fund; $2,080,000 for Operations and Maintenance, and $1,040,000 for Protection, Health, and Safety.

Kevin Northrup, vice president, Fiscal Services, said the actual amount Parkland will receive probably will be less, but the actual amount will not be known until May. Northrup added that the College has received 97 percent of its total levy for last year. Late payments by the state continue to cost Parkland money, he said.

Voucher checks paid during October totaled $570,543, Northrup reported.

Don Nolen, Philosophy professor, and Sally Wallace, English professor, distributed copies of the North Central Self Study to Board members. Two hundred fourteen full and part-time staff members contributed to the study, which was done in preparation for the North

Library says no to Sex book

by John Hoffmeister
Editor in Chief

Although the Parkland Library received 10 requests for the purchase of the Madonna book, Sex, the requests will not be honored, according to Ray Bial, library Director.

"Just because it got a lot of press doesn't mean the Library needs to purchase it," Bial said.

Bial added the book received no positive critical views, which is the leading criterion used in the Library's selection process.

Included in the decision to exclude the book from the Library collection was its lack of educational value. The book doesn't "directly support education," Bial said.

A limited Library budget was also an influence on the decision.

Bial said it is not difficult for books to become best sellers by drawing attention to them before they hit the market.

The Champaign Public Library delayed its decision to shelve the controversial book until its December board meeting.

The Nov. 19 Board meeting established the Champaign Library's materials selection policy, while the majority of the audience in attendance sought to persuade library officials to deny requests to house the book.

George Sheetz, director, Champaign Public Library, in an interview on WDWS's Penny for Your Thoughts, said it is the library's goal to provide access to different points of view and eliminate biases that were existent several years ago.

We try to select the "most appropriate material for each topic," Sheetz said. Included with the Madonna book is a compact disc single which Sheetz said was not included in the library collection.

Local controversy erupted after several requests were made to library staff to purchase the book.

Mary Lee Sargent receiving the AAWCC award in Anaheim, CA. Student Government President Phil Carter congratulates her.

Women's Program receives award

The 1992 AAWCC (American Association of Women in Community Colleges) Model Program Award was presented to Pres. Zelema Harris at a reception on Dec. 1.

The Office of Women's Programs and Services was selected by the AAWCC as one of two award-winning model programs in the nation. The award originally was presented to Mary Lee Sargent, History instructor, last month during the AAWCC's board of directors' meeting in Anaheim, Calif.

Parkland's program was selected from 30 programs to meet the needs of women in community colleges. Selection of Parkland's program was based on its diverse services, community and college cooperation, and personal and creative contributions.

Presentation of the award to Dr. Harris included comments by Sargent and Pauline Kayes, director of the Office of Women's Programs and Services; a read by Cynthia Biggers, English instructor, and music by Karen Hellyer.

The Office of Women's Programs and Services was reestablished at Parkland in 1991. Director by Kayes, the office provide a variety of women-centered programs and services such as the Women's Resource Center and support and referral on women's concerns, a Brown Bag Form series, scholarships and awards, support groups, and video programs.

Expect exam in each course, Baldwin says

A final examination should be expected in each credit course, Chuck Baldwin, associate vice president of Academic Services, said in announcing the final examination schedule.

Finals for all courses with the last regularly scheduled class meeting during the week of Dec. 9 - 15 are to be given during final exam week, Baldwin said.

Final examinations are not to be given early during regular class periods.

In courses where a final examination is not appropriate as determined by the department, an educational alternative scheduled during the week of final examinations is to be expected, Baldwin said.

New rules for speaking at Board meetings

Although anyone always has been allowed to speak at Parkland Board of Trustees meetings on items on the agenda, procedures for people wishing to address the Board were approved Nov. 18.

Major conditions of the procedure are:

- * Members of the public and employees of Parkland may address the Board at any official meeting on any item of the agenda, but the Board does not obligate itself to consider or act on new items not on the agenda.

- * The Board will allow a "reasonable amount of time" at its meetings for comments or questions.

- * Anyone wishing to speak on items not on the Board meeting agenda must submit a written request to the Assistant to the President/Board of Trustees by 5 p.m. two weeks preceding the next Board meeting. The request must describe the subject matter of the remarks to be made.

- * Letters, handouts, handbills, other communications concerning the remarks must be received by the Assistant to the President/Board of Trustees two weeks prior to the Board meeting and will be reviewed by the Board and president of the College and, if appropriate, may be read at the Board meeting or put in the Board packet.

- * The person addressing the Board must state his/her name, address, whom she/he represents if other than self, and topic.

- * Comments are to be directed to the Board as a whole, not to individual members. The Board may question the speaker.

- * The speaker should not make any derogatory remarks or complaints against any employee of the College. These should be submitted in writing to the president and/or Board. Also, employees or others may not bring before the Board matters that should be handled by other administrative procedures.

- * Unruly, boisterous conduct and defamatory, abusive, or prejudicial remarks "will not be tolerated" during the meeting or when the person is addressing the Board.

- * The person may speak for no more than 3 minutes. No more than 20 minutes will be allowed for the discussion. The Board, at its discretion, could allow additional time.

- * The chairman of the Board or by affirmative vote of the Board may, from time to time, allow impromptu remarks from the audience if these are deemed appropriate.

- * The chair will determine the number of citizens or employees and terminate their appearance at any time.

- * Remarks of the person appearing before the Board will be included in the minutes.

- * The Board may refuse recognition of persons or groups who wish to discuss issues the Board considers repetitious, outside the Board's authority, or harassment.

Ann Carroll

Nursing student receives $1,000 grant

Ann Carroll, a re-entry adult student at Parkland College, has been awarded a $1,000 continuing education grant by the Chapter AR of the P.E.O. sisterhood, an international philanthropic educational organization.

The grant is awarded to returning women students who have a definite career goal that can be accomplished in two years.

Carroll, a second year nursing student at Parkland, plans to graduate in May.

Carroll, former owner of the Little Shoppe on the Prairie, a retail gift shop in Tuscola that she operated for 12 years, also has a bachelor's degree in speech from the University of Illinois.

Currently a student nurse at Covenant Medical Center, Carroll says her work as a hospice volunteer for eight years at Covenant motivated her to enter nursing.

CPR course starting Dec. 7

A two-part course, CPR: Adult, Child, and Infant Victim, will be offered by the Center for Health Information on Dec. 7 and 14 from 6:60 to 9:30 p.m.

Participants will learn prevention of cardiac arrest and choking. They also will practice and may be certified in adult, child, and infant one-rescuer CPR and foreign body airway obstruction (choking) management. The course will be taught by American Heart Association volunteers.

A fee and registration by Dec. 3 are required. For more information or to register, call 217/351-2214 or 217/251-2494.

Camcorder, wheel covers, scanner, golf balls stolen

by Jennifer Polson
Prospectus Staff Writer

A Parkland camcorder valued at more than $300 was among the items that were reported stolen at Parkland in September and October, Doug Davis, director of Health, Safety, and Security said last week.

Davis said there were nine reports of theft, two of attempted burglary to a motor vehicle, and two reports of burglary to a motor vehicle in September and October. Davis said no criminal incidents were reported in August.

Among the items stolen in September were a police scanner, a set of wheel covers, and two wallets, Davis said.

Davis also said that someone entered an unlocked car and took a pager, a pair of shoes, and golf balls.

Davis said in October, other items stolen in addition to the camcorder included a stereo, a wallet, and two sets of hubcaps.

Davis also said that someone tried to enter a car through the sunroof but the alarm went off, and nothing was taken.

An adopted Cherokee, they called him 'Raven'

By Julie McDuffee
Prospectus staff writer

Dressed in black and walking with a limp, he entered the classroom. Sam admitted that an old war wound made his leg hurt all the time, a wound that his first wife, Eliza, found so grotesque that she could not stand to look at it, and left him after only three months of marriage.

Sam has had three wives. After Eliza, he took a Cherokee Indian bride, Tiana. It was while he was living with the Cherokees that Sam was given the name "Raven" by his adoptive father. Sam kept his ties with the tribe, but he left his bride after four years.

When he married Margaret, a woman 20 years his junior, he finally found a woman he could stay with and who would stay with him. They had eight children.

Emily Morgan, a beautiful mulatto slave with a golden complexion that earned her the name "the yellow rose of Texas," became a good friend to Sam. She even helped him with his plot to capture the President of Mexico.

Sam had hated the Mexican President since the day that he won the battle of the Alamo. So one day, while "the yellow rose of Texas" kept Santa Ana "occupied," Sam and 800 troops got into battle position.

The battle lasted for only 18 minutes. At its end, Santa Ana, president of Mexico, clad in silk drawers and red moroccan slippers, was the prisoner of Sam Houston.

Sam was persuaded to set Santa Ana free on the condition that Texas would become an independent republic and would no longer belong to Mexico.

It seemed only just that Sam Houston became the first President of the new country. He was also the last president of Texas.

Joseph Nagle, a sophomore, said he studied "for weeks" to give an accurate portrayal of Samuel Houston. His "interview" during a U.S. history class covered Houston's life and showed what an interesting life he had led.

"Remember the Alamo!" Houston yelled as he exited.

Bruce Walker, History instructor, has been introducing a series of famous historical visitors to his classes.

New Activities Program manager encourages student involvement

by Julie McDuffee
Prospectus Staff Writer

Shelly Stoltenberg has a goal to increase student involvement in clubs and organizations at Parkland. Stoltenberg, who has a four-year degree in psychology, has been named as the new Activities Program manager.

Stoltenberg started work on Oct. 20 and has found Parkland pleasant to work for. She said, "I like that it's kind of a big, open community and a lot of the departments and people work together."

Stoltenberg stressed the importance of being active in clubs and organizations. She said, "I think all student organizations are very beneficial for students. They learn a lot in their classes. They learn the academic, they get trained for their job. But in student activities they gain a lot of experiences that will help them in their jobs besides the academics. They learn how to work in a group and how to work with people. They need to learn how to plan events, and all of that will translate into working better with a group of people at their job. So besides having a lot of fun, and meeting more people on campus, they learn how to work with the administration."

Stoltenberg hopes to increase the number of people working with student activities. She said, "Right now, there is a core group of about five students, and they are all very good. If we can have a five to ten core group of students, that would be great." She also said, "If they are interested in joining a student organization, they can contact me. I have information on all the organizations."

As part of her new job, Stoltenberg also tracks coming events involving student groups. For instance, the Interorganizational Council, a group which has a representative from each student organization, will be having a holiday display contest. The Parkland Music Association will be putting on a holiday show, and Fun Flicks, where students put on performances and are video taped, will be coming up.

Stoltenberg encourages anyone interested to give her a call at extension. 627, or to stop by her office at X116.

Course begins on child abuse and neglect

A special issues course for those who deal with children on a daily basis -- from social service professionals and volunteers to parents and teachers -- will be offered during the Spring semester.

Perspectives on Child Abuse, to be presented from 6:30 to 9:15 p.m. beginning Jan 19, also is designed for students in psychology, education, child development, sociology, criminal justice, and health careers. The course will meet through May, 1993.

Students will study specific cases as well as therapeutic models, discuss issues concerning abused children and their families, and view films and video tapes on abuse prevention and education of parents, teachers, and children.

For more information about the course (PSY 289-050), call Dr. Mary Lou Brotherson, instructor in the Department of Social Sciences and Human Services, at 217/351-2404.

The Code also provides for penalties for interrupting or failing to comply with Discipline Hearing Committee action.

Any member or non-member of the Parkland community may file charges against any student for misconduct. Charges are to be filed in writing with the Dean of Students. If the latter determines, charges may be filed, and the Judicial Advisor may proceed with a disciplinary hearing. Charges are presented in written form to the accused student.

The Discipline Hearing Committee is to be comprised of two students selected from a pool of students chosen and appointed by the Student Senate and two Parkland employees selected by the Parkland College Association Senate. The Judicial Advisor will be the chair and vote only in case of a tie.

Admission to the hearing is at the discretion of the Dean of Students and normally with the consent of the accused student.

The complainant and the accused have the right to be assisted, at their own expense, by an advisor they choose. Each is responsible for presenting his/her own case. Each has the right of calling witnesses, subject to cross examination by the Discipline Hearing Committee.

The Committee then will determine if the student has violated the section of the Conduct Code which she/he has been charged with violating.

The single verbatim record of the proceeding will be the property of the College.

A student will not be found guilty solely for failure to appear.

As a result of the hearing, these sanctions may be imposed: warning, probation, loss of privileges, fines, restitution, discretionary sanctions (work assignments, service to Parkland), suspension, and expulsion. More than one penalty may be imposed for a single violation.

Except for expulsion, disciplinary action will not be part of the student's permanent academic record but will be part of his/her confidential record. Upon graduation, disciplinary action of the confidential record may be removed; expulsion records may be removed upon written request of the student to the Judicial Advisor or Dean of Students.

The above sanctions also may apply to groups or organizations.

An interim suspension preceding the disciplinary hearing may be imposed by the vice president for Institutional Advancement/Student Services or the Dean of Students to ensure security at the College if the student is deemed a threat to security.

The Code allows for an administrative hearing if all parties involved agree and the violation is not of a serious nature. Mediation between students also may be an option instead of a disciplinary hearing.

A decision reached by the Discipline Hearing Committee or a sanction imposed by the Judicial Advisor may be appealed by the accused student(s) or complainant(s) of an Appellate Board within 10 school days of the decision.

The appeal will be limited to reviewing the verbatim record to determine if the hearing were conducted fairly in view of the charges, the decision reached was based on substantial evidence, the sanctions imposed were appropriate, and to consider any new evidence.

If the appeal is upheld by the Appellate Board, the matter will be returned to the Discipline Hearing Committee and Judicial Advisor for re-opening the case.

Review of the evidence in a case cannot result in a more severe penalty by the Appellate Board.

In an appeals case, the Dean of Students or Judicial Advisor may, after reviewing the case by the Judicial Board, send it back to the original Discipline Hearing Committee for reconsideration.

If the student(s) disagrees with the decision of the Appellate Board, the student may file a final appeal to the president of the College within five days of the Board decision. The president has the option of hearing the matter and may remand it consistent with the Appellate Board decision.

The Code is to be reviewed every two years under the direction of the Dean of Students.

Real estate seminar on license law

A continuing education real estate seminar for real estate brokers and salespersons will be offered from 1 to 4 p.m. Dec. 8 in room C 118.

The seminar, License Law and Escrow, will include a review of license law and the most recent revisions as well as examples of manual and electronic reconciliation of the trust account.

Alice Pfeffer, vice president of Institutional Advancement/Student Services, informed the Board that a picture by Don Manning, photographer, was chosen to be the September pictorial for the American Association of Community Colleges 1993 calendar. The AACC has more than 1,200 members.

Bob Hutton, a student in the Nursing Department, asked the Board to include handicapped people in the culturally diverse groups it serves. Programs and protections these groups are given should be extended to the handicapped, he said.

The Board also OK'd $62,140 to be spent for microcomputers to be used by the Social Sciences and Human Services Department. Gateway, of North Sioux City, is the supplier.

A $31,421 bid from TNT Mechanical Contractors, Urbana, was accepted for air conditioning three classrooms in the M wing.

The Board also approved a request for $29,500 from the Helene Fuld Health Trust to benefit the Nursing Department.

A $34,931 grant request from the Dwight D. Eisenhower Mathematics and Science Education for the Natural Sciences Department.

Pauline Kayes, English professor, and Kent Redmon, Speech instructor, reported on the work of the Access, Equity, and Cultural Diversity Committee.

Eric Worner, a part-time faculty member at Parkland and real estate broker with the Worner Agency, Inc., in Rantoul, and George Bryan, partner with Phebus, Tummelson, Bryan, and Knox law firm in Urbana, will present the workshop.

Possible aviation program

by Ronald Oliver
Prospectus Staff Writer

The sky may be the limit for students enrolled in an aviation program now being negotiated.

The program, in conjunction with the University of Illinois, would give students the opportunity to engage in pilot and maintenance training through U.I. resources.

According to Chuck Baldwin, associate vice president, Academic Services, the program would help those interested in obtaining college credit through an A.A.S. degree while training at the U. I.

He said general education courses, math, English, and others could be taken at Parkland in conjunction with the U.I. training.

"We would contract with them (U.I.) to provide training for Parkland students," Baldwin said.

He added that the program may ultimately become regional in scope. With the inclusion of Lincoln Land Community College and others, the role of the U.I. becomes important because it will allow the colleges to avoid the need for F.A.A. approval because of the sanctioned U.I. program.

While negotiations continue on course fees, Baldwin believes interest in the course will be steady. "It's a job of the future."

Startup of the program is anticipated to begin in Fall, '93 or '94.

7 telecourses to be offered on Channel 8

Parkland will offer seven telecourses on Channel 8 from Jan. 19 through May 14.

Students in District 505 who do not have access to Channel 8 can view the telecourses in the Parkland Library.

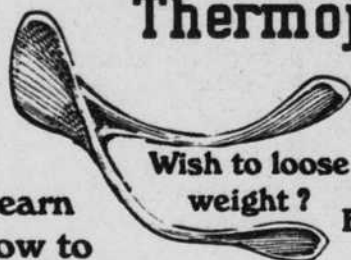

The telecourses are America: The Second Century (HIS 105); The Business File (BUS 101); The Money Puzzle (ECO 101); Humanities through the Arts (HUM 120); Government by Consent (POS 122); Study of Human Behavior (PSY 101), and Sociological Imagination (SOC 101).

Each course will be broadcast three times a week at various times. Those who successfully complete a telecourse earn three to four hours of college credit, depending on the course.

Cobras win 64-60 over Spoon River

By Robb Mathias
Prospectus Staff Writer

Parkland's basketball team started the season averaging 99 points per game. This point per game average was reduced in the Cobras' home opener against the Spoon River Crusaders. The Cobras won by a score of 64 to 60.

One reason for the reduction in the points per game average was poor three-point shooting. The Cobras went 1-9 from the three-point arc in their home opener. Another reason was the sputtering offense, which produced 27 turnovers and 15-24 shooting from the charity stripe.

Defensively, the Cobras turned it up a notch in allowing the Crusaders to score only 60 points in the 40-minute contest. In particular, when the game was on the line in the final 1:34 of the contest, the Cobra defense allowed only one field goal.

The experience of the sophomores on the team was the deciding factor in this game. The sophomore backcourt duo of Antiwan Easley and Chris Warren scored a combined 15 points after the intermission.

Easley and Warren both scored 11; however, Easley scored 5 of his 11 in the last 1:57 of the game. Warren scored his final points on a pair of free throws with 10 seconds left.

4 PC spikers are named to Region team

by Robb Mathias
Prospectus Staff Writer

Four members of the Parkland College volleyball team were named to the All-Region 24 tournament team.

Members included on the first team were sophomore outside hitters, Jen Jones and Gina Busher. The other two Cobras were named to the second team. These include sophomore setter Keely Miller, and sophomore middle hitter Lana Taylor.

The Spikers placed third in the Region 24 tournament in East Peoria on Oct. 13 and 14.

Women cagers stay undefeated at home

by Robb Mathias
Prospectus Staff Writer

The Parkland College Women's basketball team is unbeatable at home so far this season. The women hoopsters won their first two games by out scoring their opponents 186 to 129.

In their debut on Oct. 17, they beat Kennedy King 98-62. In this game, returning sophomores second team All-American Martina Underwood and Kim Roberts scored a combined 59 points.

At the intermission, the Cobras had a 16 point lead. The lead surged after the intermission. Part of the reason was the scoring by Underwood of 22 of the 29 points in the second half. Roberts was the game high scorer, tossing in 30. Sophomore Sarah Kidd also scored in double figures, adding 14 for the Cobras.

In their second game, the Cobras faced the Lakeland College Lakers. The Cobras also won this game by a score of 88 to 67.

Kim Roberts again was a strong offensive weapon for the Cobras, scoring 20 points in the first half. Roberts finished the game with 28 points and a game-high 12 rebounds. The other big gun for the Cobras was Underwood scoring 2 more points than in the season opener, which gave her game-high honors.

Once again, after the intermission, the Cobras surged. Four times after the half the Cobras were leading the Lakers by 30 points.

Support the Cobra cagers!
